"For all who knew Paris and loved her—and those who did not love her did not know her—this is an intolerably heart-breaking book. I cannot claim to know Paris as Elliot Paul knows it. In the years 1920 to 1937 my visits there, once or twice a year, were not to the Left but the Right Bank, and the places I knew, the friends I had on the Left were in the Ile St. Louis, not in the Ile de la Cité. A street opposite that Ile, on the Left Bank, La Rue de la Huchette, is immortalized in this book, this book of joy, pity, anger, indignation and understanding." R. E. Roberts

+ Sat R of Lit 25:8 My 2 '42 1000w

"In the first half of the book there is almost nothing to criticize. Mr. Paul knows his France inside out. . . . But when the author went to fight in the Spanish civil war, and in Part II he becomes a political partisan. It was a mistake to introduce into this fine literary study a controversial political attitude, laying him open at last to criticism." Bernard Foley

+ Spec 169:363 O 16 '42 550w

"Mr. Paul has accomplished a most persuasive bit of propaganda, if we may be forgiven for using a word with ugly connotations in connection with this tenderly-written reminiscence. Harsh things have been said carelessly about a country which Americans have had reason to love well. It is good to be reminded of Paris, of the left bank, of all that is symbolic of a loved and lost country which must rise again."

+ Springfield Republican p7e Ap 19 '42 600w

Reviewed by Leon Whipple

Survey G 31:296 Je '42 350w

Time 39:90 Ap 27 '42 1550w

Times [London] Lit Sup p518 O 24 '42 550w

PAUL, ELLIOT HAROLD (BRETT RUTLEDGE, pseud). With a Hays nonny nonny [il. by Luis Quintanilla]. 188p $2 Random house

791.4 Moving pictures 43-740

The retelling of six Old Testament stories to conform to the Hays code of decency for motion pictures.

Reviewed by William Soskin

Books p24 Ja 24 '43 1000w

"Some offense may be taken, though evidently none is intended, at the rather riotously funny manhandling of Old Testament stories as it is conceived that they might be treated by a Hollywood producer. . . . If Hollywood can stand Paul's text and Quintanilla's even more mordant pictures, people who revere the Bible ought to be able to stand it."

Christian Century 59:1595 D 23 '42 160w

"A great come down for the man who wrote 'Life and Death of a Spanish Town' and the artist who did 'All the Brave.'"

— New Repub 108:62 Ja 11 '43 180w

"There is no awe in Elliot Paul, nor in Luis Quintanilla, whose entertaining and not a little bitter drawings make up a potent supplement to the text. Nothing is sacred, and this is just as well because in their irreverence the collaborators have succeeded in producing a nervy and amusing book. They have also shrewdly insured their volume's place in history by reproducing that incredible document, the Hays Code, for the first time in full. . . . Concealed behind the jocular façade there is a fund of simple common sense and trenchant criticism of the films."

+ Theatre Arts 27:64 Ja '43 350w

PAUL, RANDOLPH EVERNGHIM. Federal estate and gift taxation. 2v $20 Little

336.27 Inheritance tax. Gift tax. Trusts and trustees. Taxation—U.S. 42-3335

"In these volumes Mr. Paul performs for the highly personal subjects of federal estate and gift taxation the task of surveying existing law—a task so creditably accomplished for the income tax by the well known and frequently cited Law of Federal Income Taxation, published in 1934, of which he was co-author. Reflecting a process of natural evolution, he also goes further and, expanding the policy pursued in his subsequently published Studies and law review articles on difficult isolated phases of tax law, seeks to be of constructive aid in the future development of the wide fields of estate and gift taxation through critical analysis and recommendations for legislative improvement. The work is a distinct contribution, and its importance is enhanced by the reputation and influence in tax matters which the author, who has recently been appointed Tax Adviser to the Secretary of the Treasury, enjoys both in and out of Washington." Harvard Law R

PAUL, R. E.—Continued

Reviewed by Norris Darrell
 + Harvard Law R 55:1058 Ap '42 1950w

"A very workable book, excellently indexed, and with a wealth of references to the material to be found in legal periodicals." E. S. Reid

+ Yale Law J 51:712 F '42 1450w

PAULI, HERTHA ERNESTINE. Alfred Nobel: dynamite king—architect of peace. 325p $3 Fischer, L.B.

B or 92 Nobel, Alfred Bernhard (W) 42-51209

Biography of the nineteenth century chemist who was the inventor of dynamite and who in his will established the Nobel prizes for outstanding achievements in the arts and sciences and in the promotion of peace. The author is particularly interested in the role played in his life by Bertha von Suttner, a Viennese who was for a short time his secretary and probably the source of his interest in pacifism.

Booklist 39:200 Ja 15 '43

Reviewed by Euan Evans
 Books p38 D 6 '42 1050w

"This excellent new life of Nobel does not pretend to give the reader a complete appreciation of his scientific work, nor does it attempt to unravel the complicated skeins of the monopolistic organizations he founded. It offers, instead, an impressionistic sketch of a fascinating personality, of a man who, away from the explosives to which his life was dedicated, was a shy, neurotic, unhappy, cynical intellectual." Keith Hutchison

+ Nation 156:26 Ja 2 '43 800w

"The writing suffers, perhaps, from too conscious an attempt at vividness; for a biographer the author seems too fond of the fictional ideal. Without intending it, this portrait of Nobel offers one of the best arguments for the socialization of the armament industry."

New Repub 108:190 F 8 '43 90w

"His peace prize was intended to reward the prevention of war, not its alleviation. His other prizes were conceived as aid and encouragement for struggling talents ('I would like to help dreamers,' he wrote, 'for they find it hard to get on in life'), not as the crown of recognized achievement. But if contradiction followed him all the way, this excellent study of his life is recommended all the more strongly as singularly pertinent reading."

+ N Y Times p16 D 13 '42 1050w

"The literature on Nobel is surprisingly poor. Thus, the present book is all the more welcome. True, its author, too, produces hardly any conclusive clue to the riddle of Nobel's character. But she gives as factual and as complete a report as possible on his life and the life of the Nobel Foundation—and the result is a most readable and interesting book which fills a definite gap." Robert Pick

+ Sat R of Lit 25:8 N 28 '42 900w

"This full-length biography about Alfred Nobel is a penetrating study. Miss Pauli writes well and without bias. With remarkable powers of penetration, she isolates the significant element in a letter, conversation or anecdote that brings into sharper relief the intellectual directives and human weaknesses that made the man, Alfred Nobel."

+ Spring'd Republican p7e D 20 '42 700w

PAULMIER, HILAH CODDINGTON, and SCHAUFFLER, ROBERT HAVEN, eds. Democracy days. 375p $2.50 Dodd

808.8 Holidays. Democracy (W) 42-36161

"An anthology of the best prose and verse on democracy, tolerance and liberty. Plays, poems, essay material, speeches, and sayings for Jefferson Day, I'm an American Day, Good Will Day, Brotherhood Week, and Bill of Rights Week." (Subtitle) Bibliography.

Booklist 38:306 Ap 15 '42

"Useful, timely anthology."

+ Books p12 Ap 12 '42 80w

"An excellent addition to the incredibly large anthology family." E. L. Tinker

+ N Y Times p21 Jl 26 '42 600w

Wis Lib Bul 38:83 My '42

PAXSON, FREDERIC LOGAN. Great demobilization, and other essays; with bibliographies of the writings of the author and of his graduate students. 206p $3 Univ. of Wis. press

973 U.S.—History

41-52827

Collection of essays on various aspects of American history. "Though tending toward the objective school, [Professor Paxson] acknowledges, nevertheless, Clio's genuine concern with historical causation. The papers selected by the editors were written during a span of twenty years, and although titles such as 'The Rise of Sport' and 'The Great Demobilization' might suggest disparity of interest, seven of the eight disquisitions blend almost perfectly into the author's confession of faith in the frontier hypothesis of Frederick Jackson Turner (See 'A Generation of the Frontier Hypothesis')." Am Hist R

"From the first to the last, each item chosen for this little volume bears the stamp of mature, critical judgment, a creative imagination, and a buoyant style. A touch of stark realism, bordering upon pessimism, has, however, crept into his later dissertations." H. J. Deutsch

+ Am Hist R 47:946 Jl '42 210w

Reviewed by R. G. Woolbert

Foreign Affairs 20:575 Ap '42 10w

PAYROW, HARRY GORDON. Sanitary engineering; water supply, sewerage, water and sewage treatment. 433p il $4 Int. textbook

628 Sanitary engineering. Water supply engineering 41-50984

"Designed as an introductory text to water supply and sewage disposal practice, this new book should appeal to operators and to others who lack special training in sanitary engineering. It is comprehensive in scope, including an outline of hydraulic fundamentals, discussions on streamflow, water consumption, and sewage flow, and concise descriptions of processes and equipment used in water and sewage treatment. Each chapter is followed with a list of problems and references to supplementary literature on subject matter previously discussed." Eng N

Reviewed by F. J. Maier

Am J Pub Health 32:96 Ja '42 190w

Eng N 127:87 S 25 '41 80w

N Y New Tech Bks 27:27 Ap '42

PEACH, WILLIAM NELSON. Security affiliates of national banks. 201p pa $1.50 Johns Hopkins press

332.11 National banks—U.S. Banking law. Securities 41-13892

"The author seeks to discover the factors contributing to the entrance of national banks into the investment securities business; to review the growth and operations of security affiliates; to set out the abuses and defects of the affiliate system; and to analyze the regulation and abolition of security affiliates. Attention is given also to the legal aspects of security affiliates. It is explained that the study deals primarily with affiliates of national banks 'principally because of the innumerable changes and the lack of uniformity in the laws relating to state banks.'" J Pol Econ

"Since security affiliates have been abolished presumably permanently, the study is valuable principally to students of financial history. For a work so scholarly and so well documented it makes unusually interesting reading, for it throws considerable light on business and banking standards of an era now dead but never to be forgotten." R. G. Rodkey

+ Am Econ R 32:167 Mr '42 300w

Reviewed by C. B. Upham
J Pol Econ 50:308 Ap '42 600w

PEARSE, REGINALD WILLIAM BLAKE, and GAYDON, ALFRED GORDON. Identification of molecular spectra. 221p il $8 Wiley [42s Chapman]

544.6 Spectrum analysis. Molecules [A 42-134]

"To identify a given system of bands in molecular spectroscopy, 'it has hitherto remained necessary to search through original papers or to calculate the positions of bands from the tables of derived constants. . . . This task is usually tedious and sometimes impossible to one without considerable experience'. Drs. Pearse and Gaydon have compiled tables of data which will facilitate the identification of bands occurring in the region 10000 Å. to 2000 Å. The data, in tabular form, include the recorded systems of diatomic molecules and a certain amount of data on polyatomic molecules; in many instances the authors have extended recorded data by actual measurements." (Nature) Author and subject indexes.

"The authors have accomplished the tire-some work of collection, selection, compilation and arrangement of the vast amount of data with clarity and skill, and the publishers and printers have done their jobs with equal acceptance. Such a book is needed by workers in this field, and the volume under review can be thoroughly recommended." W. R. Angus

+ Nature 148:240 Ag 30 '41 550w

N Y New Tech Bks 27:45 Jl '42

"It is certain that the book will soon belong to the necessary equipment of any laboratory where spectroscopic research is undertaken." H. Spomer

+ R of Scientific Instruments 13:163 Ap '42 750w

PEARSON, HESKETH. G.B.S.; a full length portrait. 390p il $3.75 Harper

B or 92 Shaw, George Bernard (W) 42-22647

A portrait-biography of the famous Irish dramatist and critic, by the author of biographies of Darwin, Hazlitt, Tom Paine, etc. Index.

"When the reader is about two-thirds through Mr. Pearson's book he feels that this is as satisfactory a biography of Shaw, on the purely personal side, as could be written. But when the book is finished, that feeling has evaporated. This is partly Mr. Pearson's fault and partly the fault of the circumstances. To read the biography of a man before the man has died is like leaving the theater before the curtain comes down on the last act. . . . Mr. Pearson suffers under this handicap—for which we cannot fairly blame him. But we can blame him for the fact that we miss, when we have come to the end of the book, both a complete account of Shaw's later political opinions and a final estimate of Shaw's character." Theodore Spencer

+ Atlantic 170:133 D '42 850w

Booklist 39:70 N 1 '42

Reviewed by W. P. Eaton
Books p4 Ja 3 '43 1650w

"Hesketh Pearson's 'Bernard Shaw' is a very full book. . . . It is packed with entertainment, and liveliness, and vigor. And yet one's admiration of it stays distinctly on this side of idolatry. For one thing it is extremely clever and dazzling in its literary tricks. But it is a cleverness one has long been accustomed to, and none of the tricks is new. . . . The general effect of his book would have been better had Mr. Pearson adopted a more sober style of his own." Harold Hobson

+ Christian Science Monitor p11 D 19 '42 850w

"This is the most satisfactory and revealing biography of one of the puzzling and fascinating characters of the present—or should we say the last?—generation. It is truly a 'full length portrait' instead of a mere recital of events. It combines the advantages of an autobiography with those of a frank critical study." W. L. Caswell

+ Churchman 157:16 Ja 1 '43 420w

"Valuable book. Highly recommended." H. P. Bolman

+ Library J 67:844 O 1 '42 80w

"Much has been written on Shaw by Shaw and a host of others, but there was room for this full and well-knit biography that carries him past his 80th year. Mr. Pearson has drawn upon many published sources and on some unpublished correspondence; and his subject has helped him on all points where help was asked. The portrait that results is the more convincing since the author is robustly critical of Shavian inconsistency and sheer perversity when these must be faced." A. S. Wallace

+ Manchester Guardian p3 O 30 '42 480w

"According to the jacket, it is 'the most Boswellian biography since Boswell's 'Johnson,'" and the minimal meaning of that grandiose claim is evidently that the intention of the author was, first of all, to reveal a personality. To the best of my knowledge none of the many previous books about Shaw has succeeded in doing anything like that, and the present one does not do it either." J. W. Krutch

Nation 155:385 O 17 '42 1700w

Reviewed by M. D. Zabel
New Repub 107:766 D 7 '42 1000w

"Mr. Pearson's biography is immensely amusing and will, if you are given that way, make you rock with laughter. And it is something more than that. It contains 'revelations,' it tells you everything—and perhaps even more than—you need or have a right to know about Shaw's life and character. . . . Mr. Pearson has given us all or nearly all that a biographer can be expected to provide about a man who is, after all, pre-eminently a writer." Leonard Woolf

+ New Statesman & Nation 24:375 D 5 '42 1150w

"Mr. Pearson's portrait of Shaw will easily take its place in any series that may be called good and great biography. Whatever Shaw's reputation as dramatist or Socialist may turn out to be, his impact as a personality on his age has been a resounding historic fact; and this Mr. Pearson records accurately and beautifully." P. M. Jack

+ N Y Times p1 O 11 '42 1550w

New Yorker 18:75 O 10 '42 70w

"Needless to say, this astonishing Mr. Shaw has been greater than anything even he has written. This is why his life is more remarkable than the most remarkable of his works, and why Mr. Pearson's biography, which brilliantly records that life, is a book of both uncommon importance and uncommon delight." J. M. Brown

+ Sat R of Lit 25:6 O 24 '42 3600w

"I will not say that Mr. Pearson has relieved the student of the necessity to read any other biographers of Mr. Shaw, but he has rendered about six of them superfluous. The single point on which illumination is still possible is the point on which Mr. Pearson, because he is English, cannot throw any light: the effect on Mr. Shaw's mind of having been born and bred in Dublin, a city which he abhors so much that he cannot be persuaded to enter Ireland by its gates." St. John Irvine

+ Spec 169:412 O 30 '42 950w

Reviewed by H. E. Woodbridge
Spring'd Republican p7e N 22 '42 1000w

Reviewed by Frederick Morton
Theatre Arts 26:794 D '42 1200w

PEARSON, HESKETH—Continued

Time 40:98 O 5 '42 1900w

Times [London] Lit Sup p534 O 31 '42 3000w

Reviewed by H. T. E. Perry
Yale R n s 32:394 winter '43 1700wPEASE, HOWARD. Night boat, and other Tod Moran mysteries. 267p $2 Doubleday

(W) 42-25520

Collection of sea-mystery stories, all featuring Tod Moran. The last story is of a black-out in San Francisco. Some of the stories have appeared in magazines. For older boys.

Reviewed by M. C. Scoggin
Atlantic 170:149 D '42 60w
Booklist 39:187 Ja 1 '43Reviewed by F. B. Sloan
Christian Science Monitor p12 D 24 '42 70w

Horn Bk 19:39 Ja '43 60w

Reviewed by M. C. Scoggin
Library J 67:896 O 15 '42 10wReviewed by E. A. Groves
Library J 67:1107 D 15 '42 80wPEASE, JOSEPHINE VAN DOLZEN. The happy book; the fun of doing things right; with a message from Angelo Patri; pictures by Esther Friend. 128p $2 Rand McNally

42-14974

Story-picture book explaining correct etiquette and procedure in everyday affairs for children three to seven. Index.

"Because there is so much, a wise mother will read the suggestions for her by the author on the last page. The paragraph on not bringing out a particular verse just when needed by the child's behavior is so sensible it saves the book from giving an older person a sense of slight suffocation from so much happiness. . . . If the items are taken one by one, each is good—though I could have done without the first stanza of an otherwise happy verse for table use: I wish, I wish, I wish, I wish I had some carrots on my dish. That second line will strike some children as an anticlimax, if not a non sequitur." M. L. Becker

Books p6 Jl 5 '42 400w

"Kindergarten teachers and parents will find book very useful, as material is presented in most acceptable manner. Not a Must book, but you may find that it will fill particular demand." D. M. MacDonald

+ Library J 67:477 My 15 '42 60w

PEASE, ROBERT NORTON. Equilibrium and kinetics of gas reactions; an introduction to the quantum-statistical treatment of chemical processes. 236p $3.75 Princeton univ. press [17s Oxford]

541.39 Gases. Chemical reactions 42-5731

"Dr. Pease has prepared this text, which developed from a course of lectures, for 'the reader who has been separated from academic work and who now wishes to catch up on recent developments in this important field of the interpretation of chemical processes.' As the title indicates, the book is divided into two main sections, namely; Chemical Equilibrium in Gaseous Systems, and Kinetics of Gas Reactions." Chem & Met Eng

"This is really an excellent book. Teachers, graduate students and men in the industrial field will equally enjoy studying this carefully prepared work." F. C. Nachod

+ Chem & Met Eng 49:210 My '42 400w

N Y New Tech Bks 27:42 Jl '42

PEATTIE, DONALD CULROSS. Forward the nation. 281p maps $2.50 Putnam

Sacagawea—Fiction (W) 42-14054

The story of the Lewis and Clarke expedition up the Missouri, thru the wilderness to the Pacific and back, and of the Indian girl, Sacagawea, who guided the expedition so efficiently. Altho told in fiction form, this is based upon the facts.

Appeared on Best Seller list in: Books (8)
B & T (1) PW (1) RB (1)

"Mr. Peattie has not told the story simply, faithfully, or with informed historical understanding. He has told only a part of it, rather less than a third. He has told that part lyrically and imaginatively but with a displacement of emphases that ends by misrepresenting it. . . . His prose is ardent, his narrative has brilliance and nervous life, and anyone who reads it will appreciate its patriotic fervor. But it is an arty book and it is not Lewis and Clark, it is not the story of our greatest exploration; it is not, even, Mr. Peattie's heroine, Sacagawea." Bernard DeVoto

— + Atlantic J '42 650w

Booklist 38:442 Jl 15 '42

Bookmark 3:17 My '42

"What Mr. Peattie has given us is not a narrative of this great adventure, but a lyric of its romantic and historical import. . . . 'Forward the Nation' rejects the restraints of formal history. It likewise makes little effort to tell the story as a Defoe or a Parkman or an Irving might have done. It is a vivid, inspirational, and all too brief, little volume in tribute to a brave little company of woodsmen-soldiers and their stout-hearted captains and their Indian-girl guide, to a far-visioned President who for twenty years had sought to encourage some one among his countrymen to press through to the Pacific. There is still need, however, for a readable tale of that great adventure." J. D. McGoldrick

+ Books p3 My 24 '42 1850w

"As Mr. Peattie writes about them, Lewis and Clark become heroic figures, and so does Sacagawea. A mountain has been named for her, where Alpine wind-flowers bloom. It is recorded that she loved mountain flowers, and like all people of her race she was nature-wise. So she and the man who has told her story in singing prose meet on common ground." W. K. R.

+ Christian Science Monitor p20 Jl 1 '42 430w

"Those who enjoy this author's style will like his account of Lewis and Clark Expedition. . . . Others, who prefer history undiluted, will be annoyed by fictional form. . . . May be useful in small and medium-sized libraries, especially for high school pupils." G. E. Brown

+ — Library J 67:475 My 15 '42 70w

Nation 155:98 Ag 1 '42 150w

"It is a great story of American courage and persistence—and of American luck. Told by Mr. Peattie, it is full of the naturalist's feeling and observation: garnet in the blueberry bushes north of Monticello; the 'Nebraska sky arching like a bent bow from horizon to horizon'; 'wide plains knifed by the Dakota winds'; sage-brush spreading westward 'like a tranquil ocean'. . . . Maybe Mr. Peattie has sentimentalized this material. At any rate, he has put sentiment into it. Those who do not like this quality under any name may avoid this book; it isn't for them." R. L. Duffus

N Y Times p1 My 24 '42 1100w

"Mr. Peattie's moving, nature-wise prose helps to keep things vivid, though it is perhaps over-romantic in general. Some of the dialogue, too, sounds like the lines of a historical pageant."

+ — New Yorker 18:67 My 30 '42 70w
Wis Lib Bul 38:97 Je '42PEATTIE, RODERICK, ed. The friendly mountains. 341p il $3.50 Vanguard

917.4 Mountains (W) 42-50933

"First book in 'American Mountain' series takes up the Adirondacks, the Green and the White Mountains, and the Taconics, and is combined work of authorities in various fields. They write with enthusiasm worthy of their fascinating subjects, which include nature, geology, history, climbing, skiing, climate and weather, and other topics." Library J

"As a whole, the book does what no other book has done in the way of compressing four ranges and an extra mountain to boot into one volume—has really attempted to do what one book can hardly do. Like all edited works in which as many as nine writers participate there is, as would be expected, less homogeneous and cohesive reading than would be likely if the work were single-minded, as the making of the mountains was. But it would be too much to ask, perhaps, of any single writer." C. E. Crane

+ — Books p2 D 20 '42 1100w

"Highly recommended." L. M. Kinloch

+ Library J 67:951 N 1 '42 60w

Reviewed by G. H. Copeland

N Y Times p5 Ja 3 '43 1100w

Scientific Bk Club R 13:3 N '42 270w

PEATTIE, RODERICK. How to read military maps. 74p col maps $1.50 Stewart

623.71 Maps, Military (W) 42-36432

Non-technical description of contour maps and how to interpret them, especially for military purposes. "The reader can acquire the fundamentals in an evening though expertness, naturally, is only to be gained by field experience—and that not too easily on a dark, stormy night with only matches for light. Professor Peattie has taught map interpretation in and out of the Army since 1912." (Books)

Booklist 39:195 Ja 15 '43

"His short essay is valuable to both soldier and civilian." P. J. Searles

+ Books p21 Ja 17 '43 100w

"For Joe in the army this amusing little volume will not be very much use unless he is in a formation where they have to read maps only on the rarest occasions and then only in an emergency. . . . If, however, Joe is still in high school and only expects to want to read military maps some day, it will probably do him quite a lot of good as a piece of preliminary instruction. And for hikers or other persistent civilians it is a useful introduction to the subject, couched in terms that make it easy reading." Fletcher Pratt

+ — Sat R of Lit 26:16 Ja 2 '43 140w

PECK, ANNE MERRIMAN. The pageant of South American history. 405p il maps $3 Longmans

980 South America—History (W) 41-52025

For descriptive note see Annual for 1941.

Am Hist R 47:697 Ap '42 20w

"Mrs. Peck's 'Pageant' is a pleasant and absorbing recital of the journey which the South Americans have taken from the days of Incas and Aymaras down to the present day. It will be read with equal joy by bright high school lads and tired adults."

+ Books p17 F 1 '42 280w

"An attractive introduction to an important subject." J. F. Thorning

+ Cath World 154:632 F '42 550w

Reviewed by R. G. Woolbert

Foreign Affairs 20:786 Jl '42 10w

"The main criticism of this book is that it is not precise or detailed enough for a text, and too dull, in its generality, for straight reading. . . . The book is comprehensive and impartial; it is moreover the first response to a real need. From this point of view it can be recommended, as an earnest endeavor to provide a simplified study of South American history." Elizabeth Wilder

+ — Social Studies 33:94 F '42 240w

Wis Lib Bul 38:14 Ja '42

PECK, LEIGH. Don Coyote; il. by Virginia Lee Burton. 78p $2 Houghton

Coyotes—Legends and stories. Indians of North America—Legends (W) 42-8283

Folk tales and fables about the coyote, many of them from Mexican or Indian sources. The coyote is the southwestern counterpart of Brer Rabbit, and in these tales is accounted a wise and sometimes humorous animal. Illustrated in color. For grades four to six.

Booklist 38:312 Ap 15 '42

"The pages are large enough to give both pictures and occasional verses all the room they need for fitting display, and the type is large enough not to tire the eyes of a new reader." M. L. Becker

+ Books p8 Ap 19 '42 350w

"Leigh Peck, who told about Pecos Bill, tells these animal folk tales with appreciative humor and Virginia Lee Burton enters fully into the spirit with her engaging pictures." A. M. Jordan

+ Horn Bk M 18:172 My '42 100w

"Entertaining stories, often amusing, and can well be used as story telling material. Young children will enjoy hearing these stories of the coyote, and those from eight to ten years old will enjoy reading them for themselves. Expressively illustrated by Virginia Lee Burton. Recommended." J. E. Stromdahl

+ Library J 67:321 Ap 1 '42 70w

Reviewed by R. A. Hill

Library J 67:883 O 15 '42 20w

"The tales have a dramatic quality that suggests the spoken word; they read aloud effectively and storytellers will find them useful. Virginia Lee Burton has supplied notable illustration in color. She has caught the puckish quality of Coyote's mischief and the absurdity of the predicaments in which the other creatures find themselves, and she has contrived to put so much action into her drawings that wolf and bear, blackbird and turkey and Coyote himself fairly seem to move on the page." A. T. Eaton

+ N Y Times p8 Ap 19 '42 280w

New Yorker 18:74 My 23 '42 50w

Wis Lib Bul 38:141 O '42

PEDLER, MARGARET (BASS) (MRS W. G. Q. PEDLER). Then came the test. 277p $2 Doubleday [8s 6d Hodder]

42-7502

A young English brother and sister left with a large country estate and very little money, at the death of their father, proceeded to live in their old lavish and hospitable way until faced with a large overdraft. With the sale of their home and the outbreak of the war a new way of life was forced upon them and "then came the test."

Reviewed by Lisle Bell

Books p17 F 22 '42 100w

Times [London] Lit Sup p225 My 2 '42 90w

PEELE, ROBERT, and CHURCH, JOHN A., eds. Mining engineers' handbook, written by a staff of forty-six specialists. 3d ed 2v il $15 Wiley

622 Mining engineering

41-11922

"Extensive rewriting and radical revision of a costly but invaluable engineering reference work." (Booklist) "The first edition of this book was published early in 1918 [Book Review Digest, 1918]. In preparing the second edition, issued in 1927, many changes in subject matter were found necessary, as set forth in the preface to that edition, and references to them need not be repeated here. Most of these alterations were called for by the progressive modifications of mining methods and appliances, and the development of new methods. Much new matter was added, some of the older text omitted, and some sections of the book were almost entirely rewritten." (N Y New Tech Bks)

Booklist 38:57 O 15 '41

N Y New Tech Bks 26:42 Jl '41

PEET, CREIGHTON. All about broadcasting; phot. by the author. 67p $1.75 Knopf

621.384 Radio broadcasting (W) 42-19328

A boy interested in radio is shown as he visits the studios of the four major networks, and learns from engineers about the radio waves and transmitters, and what the routine is like in big broadcasting stations. For readers of ten and older.

PEET, CREIGHTON—Continued

Booklist 39:17 S '42

"Excellent photographs show the latest developments in the radio world." A. M. Jordan
+ Horn Bk 18:343 S '42 40w

"On a par with author's other informative books. Should be interesting not only to scientifically minded children, but to those who only listen. Photographs are excellent as usual." J. E. Wooster
+ Library J 67:797 S 15 '42 50w

"Boys and girls, and indeed readers of any age who are curious to know what is behind this modern every-day magic of music and voices on the air, will find their questions answered with admirable simplicity and clarity in 'All About Broadcasting.'" A. T. Eaton
+ N Y Times p11 S 27 '42 240w

PEFFER, HELEN HAYES. Madam chairman, members and guests; ill. by Helen E. Hokinson. 121p $1.75 Macmillan

396.062 Women's clubs 42-36168

Chapters on the art, and the difficulties of being president of a woman's club, by one who has had experience in one such New York club. Contents: You may find yourself the president; Things you had better know; The care and feeding of speakers—celebrities must eat; The business meeting—democracy rampant; The annual election—here the girls may toss their manes; The paid secretary—twentieth century Christian martyr; Clubwomen are people—many are decent to each other; In the end you get a watch. The illustrations are in keeping with the character of the book.

Booklist 38:324 My 1 '42

Books p24 S 13 '42 150w

"Something tells us that the ladies who need this most, as a guide to understanding the functions and functionings of woman's clubs and as a body of counsel concerning their own participation therein, are not the ones who will enjoy it most. But its humor, which is keen and sometimes devastating, is also kindly. No one—certainly no male who has often addressed woman's clubs—will deny that the author knows her clubs and clubwomen. Helen Hokinson's illustrations add to the hilarity."

+ Christian Century 59:499 Ap 15 '42 100w

"Incidents are cited directly from the author's experience. And the generalizations are no less general for being particular. The bitter-sweet of recognition will sharpen the flavor of Miss Peffer's wit for any reader who has ever known anything about any woman's club, anywhere. . . . Meanwhile, Helen Hokinson's women clubbers are seen in half a dozen groupings, and are, as always, dauntless and unique."

+ N Y Times p2 Ap 12 '42 500w

Spring'd Republican p7e Ap 19 '42 170w

Wis Lib Bul 38:83 My '42

PEFFER, NATHANIEL. Basis for peace in the Far East. 277p $2.50 Harper

940.531445 Reconstruction (1939)—East (Far East). Eastern question (Far East). U.S.—Foreign relations—East (Far East) (W) 42-25169

"The system of special privilege for Western nations in the Far East is ended, says the author. If we are determined to make a workable peace, we must, he thinks, (1) crush Japan but give her the opportunity to prosper in non-aggressive ways, (2) liberate and help to industrialize China, and (3) introduce self-government in southeastern Asia. Takes the long view of Far Eastern politics." (New Yorker) Index.

Booklist 39:136 D 15 '42

"The one aim and postulate of Mr. Peffer's entire book is the basis of an enduring peace in the Far East, which means peace for future generations of Americans as well as for peoples of the East. It is a plea that no American can ignore, and we should be grateful that the complicated and almost hopeless subject has been presented with such clarity, simplicity and force of vision." Lin Yutang

+ Books p1 N 29 '42 1500w

Reviewed by Malcolm Cowley

New Repub 107:830 D 21 '42 600w

"The book is a piece of keen, logical abstract thinking, with a minimum of references to personalities and current events." W. H. Chamberlin

+ N Y Times p3 D 27 '42 1050w

"An admirable study, well informed and clearly written."

+ New Yorker 18:100 N 28 '42 90w

"Mr. Peffer has written an unusually thought-provoking book at the very time when it is greatly needed." F. M. Mohler

+ Spring'd Republican p7e N 29 '42 650w

PEGG, CARL HAMILTON, and others. American society and the changing world. 601p maps $3.50 Crofts

973.91 U.S.—Politics and government. U.S.—Social conditions. U.S.—Economic conditions. World politics. Social conditions. Economic conditions 42-7984

"This book 'attempts to view American society and its problems as a part of a dynamic interdependent world now in the throes of swift transition.' It is an outgrowth of an introductory course in the social sciences at the University of North Carolina. . . . The changing world is described by tracing briefly the course of international events from Versailles to Pearl Harbor, and by treating at some length the recent history and problems of Russia, Italy, Germany, France, Great Britain, Scandinavia, the Far East, and Latin America. . . . The nineteen chapters on 'The United States and Its Problems' survey critically and analytically the vast panorama that is America. Considerable attention is given to government, agriculture, business, the consumer, labor, the family, and ethnic and population problems." (Social Studies) Index.

"The authors have not been able to rise above the inherent handicap of sketchy treatment of too wide a variety of subjects scattered throughout the fields of political science, history, economics, and sociology; and they are insufficiently identified, both on the title page and in their respective chapters. . . . The splendid chapter on propaganda might have been included among the 'vital forces' in politics. Good chapters deal with the structure of American government, our foreign policy, government and business, agriculture, and conservation. Possibly the strongest section of the book is the last, devoted to sociological problems. Too large and difficult a task was undertaken; but only thereby do we progress." W. L. Godshall

+ — Am Pol Sci R 36:580 Je '42 380w

School & Society 55:196 F 14 '42 80w

Reviewed by Robert Bierstedt

Social Educ 6:375 D '42 350w

"Despite the title of the book, the authors have not fully realized their purpose of treating American society in terms of or as a part of 'a dynamic interdependent world.' One does not get a very strong impression of the reciprocal economic, cultural, and ideological impact of America and the rest of world society. Although the purpose is to describe rather than prescribe, a review of recent trends in social and international planning would have appealed to the current 'run of attention' in college social science courses. The book is well written. The tone is liberal." F. B. Parker

+ — Social Forces 21:251 D '42 280w

"The chapters of this collaborative work are uniformly well-written, with little repetition, and the viewpoint is consistently liberal. Teachers of introductory courses in the social sciences would do well to ponder on this approach; perhaps they will find that an integrated study of the problems of American society as they are conditioned by 'the facts and forces of world life' will give greater value and meaning to the work they are now trying to do." N. D. Palmer

+ Social Studies 33:238 My '42 430w

Reviewed by Read Bain

Survey 78:253 S '42 300w

PEGLER, WESTBROOK. George Spelvin. American and fireside chats. 195p $2.50 Scribner

818

42-21320

Forty-four essays on American conditions of the present day, selected from the author's newspaper articles.

Reviewed by G. W. Johnson

Books p6 S 27 '42 1950w

"All things considered, the Pegler fan world probably won't be disappointed at all by this book, but those not of the Pegler fan world, who read it, will probably tell themselves and each other that it is too bad the quality of the author's 'fireside chats' doesn't ever seem to reach toward the level of those fireside chats of another American whom he is so very busy lampooning." R. G. Doyle

N Y Times p3 S 13 '42 550w

"It is difficult to write about Westbrook Pegler without being as unfair, as intolerant, and as rambunctious as he is. One is tempted to try to imitate his epithets, which would not be easy, and to emulate his intellectual morals, which would be nothing short of scandalous. Perhaps I should yield to the temptation of paying him as nearly as I could in his own bright but dubious currency. I am restrained only by the fact that I have a qualified admiration for his style, vigorous often to the point of unconscious burlesque." Irwin Edman

+ Sat R of Lit 25:9 S 26 '42 1050w

PEMBERTON, JOHN CLIFFORD, 1893- Pemberton, defender of Vicksburg; with a foreword by Douglas Southall Freeman. 350p il maps $3.50 Univ. of N.C. press

B or 92 Pemberton, John Clifford, 1814-1881. Vicksburg—Siege, 1863 42-4215

General John C. Pemberton was a Northerner who was sympathetic with Southern claims of states rights, enjoyed the favor of Jefferson Davis, and was in command at Vicksburg when that city was besieged by Grant and finally fell July 4, 1863. This full-length biography, written by his grandson, reviews in considerable detail the story of the siege from the defenders' point of view. Index.

"We should expect the grandson of General Pemberton to be sympathetic towards his hero, and he does, indeed, act as counsel for the defense. Yet there is little special pleading, and the argument is straightforward and fair." H. S. Commager

+ Books p2 Mr 8 '42 1650w

Christian Science Monitor p10 My 2 '42 230w

"The book is no mere pious family tribute. It is a solid and well documented biography and a valuable contribution to the history of a war, interest in which is only temporarily obscured even by the world conflagration." H. I. Brock

+ N Y Times p8 Mr 22 '42 1050w

PENNSYLVANIA, UNIVERSITY. Bicentennial conference. Studies in civilization, by Alan J. B. Wace [and others]. 200p $2 Univ. of Pa. press [9s Oxford]

901 Civilization 41-10569

This volume contains addresses delivered at the Bicentennial Celebration of the University of Pennsylvania in 1940. Contents: The Mycenaean civilization, by A. J. B. Wace; Exact science in antiquity, by O. E. Neugebauer; The artistic and intellectual contribution of Greece, by W. S. Ferguson; The heritage of the Roman laws, by A. E. R. Boak; The medieval pattern of life, by E. K. Rand;

The institutional pattern of the middle ages: inheritance and legacy, by A. C. Howland; Literature and learning, by C. G. Osgood; The search for the heroic poem, by W. J. Entwistle; Unifying factors in the development of modern ideas, by J. H. Randall, jr; Some sceptical observations (while they are still possible) on the relationship of economic and political developments in modern Europe to contemporary political totalitarianism and economic determinism, by C. J. H. Hayes; England's contribution to constitutional government, by C. H. McIlwain; World currents in American civilization, by A. M. Schlesinger; A century of American poetry, by Charles Cestre; Tradition and rebellion: European patterns in the literature of America, by S. T. Williams.

"There is a surprising continuity of treatment and interest in this well-organized symposium." Glenn Negley

+ Ethics 52:385 Ap '42 600w

J Philos 38:586 O 9 '41 120w

PENNSYLVANIA, UNIVERSITY. Bicentennial conference. Studies in economics and industrial relations, by Wesley C. Mitchell [and others]. 183p $2 Univ. of Pa. press [9s Oxford]

330 Economics

41-23644

Thirteen papers presented at the Bicentennial Conference of the University of Pennsylvania. Contents: Economic resources in economic theory, by W. C. Mitchell; Our future economic defense, by Herbert Hoover; Investment in relation to business activity and employment, by J. M. Clark; Capital formation, 1879-1938, by Simon Kuznets; Investment incentives, by A. H. Hansen; American research in price history, by A. H. Cole; Prices, wages, and the industrial revolution, by E. J. Hamilton; The professional accountant's responsibilities to the public, by J. K. Mathieson; Management's responsibilities to the public for accounting reports, by P. L. West; The government's responsibility for the regulation of accounting reports, by W. L. Wertz; The development of national labor policy, by S. H. Slichter; Is unemployment inevitable? by J. D. Brown; Is unemployment inevitable? by W. A. Berridge.

Reviewed by W. B. Locking

Ann Am Acad 220:269 Mr '42 550w

Reviewed by R. G. Woolbert

Foreign Affairs 20:775 Jl '42 20w

Reviewed by J. J. Spengler

Social Forces 20:530 My '42 320w

PENNSYLVANIA, UNIVERSITY. Bicentennial conference. Studies in political science and sociology, by Hu Shih [and others]. 194p $2 Univ. of Pa. press [9s Oxford]

301 Political science. Sociology 41-25746

Collection of papers presented on the occasion of the university's bicentennial celebration. Contents: Instrumentalism as a political concept, by Hu Shih; The evolution of American educational ideals, by Newton Edwards; Falling short of the democratic ideals in education, by Mark A. May; Program for the attainment of American educational ideals, by W. G. Carr; Pennsylvania and Switzerland: the American origins of the Swiss constitution, by W. E. Rappard; Minorities in American history, by A. C. Cole; The present position of minorities in the United States, by Louis Wirth; Can minorities be tolerated in a democracy? by Carl Kelsey; Consequences of mass immigration, by Alvin S. Johnson; Repatriation of Greeks, Turks, and Bulgars after the Graeco-Turkish war, 1919-23, by P. E. Mosely; Refugees in the Americas, by William Haber.

"Each of these short essays represents a distinct contribution to its particular subject." C. C. Rodee

+ Am Pol Sci R 36:389 Ap '42 300w

Reviewed by R. G. Woolbert

Foreign Affairs 20:772 Jl '42 20w

PENNSYLVANIA. UNIVERSITY. Bicentennial conference. Studies in the history of science, by E. A. Speiser [and others]. 123p $1.50 Univ. of Pa. press [7s Oxford]

509 Science—History 41-12823

"This little volume represents a group of papers by very eminent scientists presented at the Bicentennial Conference of the University of Pennsylvania." (Am Hist R) Contents: Ancient Mesopotamia and the beginnings of science, by E. A. Speiser; Some fundamental concepts in ancient astronomy, by O. E. Neugebauer; Medicine and surgery in ancient Egypt, by Hermann Ranke; Medieval medicine, by H. E. Sigerist; The rise of modern scientific medicine, by R. H. Shryock; Two centuries of surgery, by E. A. Graham; Logico-historical study of mechanism, vitalism, naturalism, by E. A. Singer; The mathematical way of thinking, by Hermann Weyl.

Reviewed by Hugh Cabot
Am Hist R 47:919 J1 '42 250w

"In general, the papers are interesting and important summaries of developments in various fields of the history of science. To this reader, inexpert in these fields, the articles were especially illuminating." Glenn Negley
+ Ethics 52:386 Ap '42 160w

J Philos 38:586 O 9 '41 120w

PENROSE, BOIES. Urbane travelers, 1591-1635. 251p $3 Univ. of Pa. press

923.942 Travelers. Europe—Description and travel 42-19537

Sketches the lives of seven British travelers of three centuries ago and gives some account of their wanderings. Contents: Fynes Morvson; John Cartwright; Thomas Coryate; William Lithgow; George Sandys; Sir Thomas Herbert; Sir Henry Blount. Bibliography. Index.

"'Urbane Travelers' is a welcome addition to our studies in the history of travel and travel literature, and it may also be recommended to all students of late Tudor and early Stuart times." S. C. Chew
+ Books p27 N 1 '42 600w

"We must confess that 'Urbane Travelers' is disappointing. The charm of travel books lies in the detail of the picture and the personality of the traveler. A digest of them is stale ale. Frankly, the methodical enumeration of the different European capitals and towns visited by Morvson and Coryate makes boring pages. Mr. Penrose is more interested in accuracy than dramatic narrative but, since students would consult the originals rather than these essays, he seems to have mistaken their purpose. At all events he whets one's curiosity." E. V. R. Wyatt

+ Commonweal 36:426 Ag 21 '42 1250w
N Y Times p8 Ag 23 '42 600w

PENROSE, STEPHEN BEASLEY LINNARD. That they may have life; the story of the American university of Beirut, 1866-1941; [pub. for] the trustees of the Am. univ. of Beirut. 347p il $3.75 Princeton univ. press 378.569 American university of Beirut 41-24310

"This life history of an American university with nearly five thousand graduates distributed through the Near East is more than a chronicle of missionary work or college administration under difficult conditions; it is a suggestion, often not so fully discussed as one would wish, of American influence in the Arabic awakening. Perhaps the greatest achievement is an institution that can survive fifty nationalities and thirty religious sects." Social Studies

Reviewed by A. O. Sarkissian
Am Hist R 47:920 J1 '42 140w

Reviewed by A. L. Murray
Churchman 155:17 D 1 '41 250w
School & Society 55:372 Mr 28 '42 140w
Social Studies 33:92 F '42 100w

PENTECOST, HUGH. I'll sing at your funeral. 250p $2 Dodd (W) 42-7963

Detective story.

"Mr. Pentecost strikes us as about the best of the hard-boiled school. He has stuff of his own, including what amounts to a personal style, excepting when he riddles the pattern with that swearing stencil." Will Cuppy
+ Books p12 Mr 29 '42 300w

Reviewed by Isaac Anderson
N Y Times p14 Mr 22 '42 240w

"Fine puzzle and good, tough dialogue."
+ New Yorker 18:80 Mr 14 '42 90w

"Sure-fire."

+ Sat R of Lit 25:21 Mr 28 '42 40w

PEPIN, HARRIET (MRS W. K. BERGER). Modern pattern design. 253p il $5 Funk

646.4 Dressmaking. Costume design 42-20238

Discusses patternmaking and the use of the block system by professional clothes designers. Considers only women's and children's clothing. Illustrated with diagrams. Index.

"Material is presented from the professional point of view and would be useful only to the very skilled home sewer."

Booklist 39:64 N 1 '42

"The directions for designing and cutting patterns are clear and easy to follow and, while this volume, according to its author, is not intended to take the place of classroom training or workroom experience, it would go a long way toward doing so in the hands of a woman with perseverance and talent."
+ Books p26 N 29 '42 100w

"Teacher—students—anyone who sews and wants to know how to make patterns from a foundation, or who may only want to make occasional changes in commercial patterns, can get reliable help from this book. It fills a need long felt by both professionals and amateurs." C. L. Scott
+ J Home Econ 34:744 D '42 100w

"Should be most welcome."
+ Special Libraries 33:263 S '42

PEPPER, STEPHEN COBURN. World hypotheses; a study in evidence. 348p $2.50 Univ. of Calif. [15s Cambridge] 42-37135

110 Metaphysics
"The aim of this book is to offer a complete survey of the field of metaphysics. It is an analytical study, and consequently stresses issues rather than men. It seeks to exhibit the source of these issues, and to show that some are unnecessary, and that the rest gather into clusters and are interconnected in systems corresponding closely to the traditional schools of philosophy. This method of handling these materials the author calls the 'root-metaphor method.' . . . The author is Professor of Philosophy and Aesthetics and chairman of the Department of Art in the University of California." Publisher's note

"The inability of philosophers to agree is surely not the least of philosophical problems. Professor Pepper has here given us a valuable discussion of this problem. . . . The reviewer finds this book to be admirably well written, useful, ingenious, irritating, and (with reservations) penetrating. There are many good things in it." Charles Hartshorne
+ Ethics 53:73 O 42 2300w

"This is a very interesting and unusual, if somewhat curious, book. It is unusual for a philosopher to attempt as is done here, to study world hypotheses 'as objects existing in the world, to examine them empirically as a zoologist studies species of animals, a psychologist varieties of perception, a mathematician geometrical systems' (p. 2); for to do this requires a self-abnegation with regard to taking sides difficult to achieve. Nevertheless Professor Pepper does appear to have succeeded." D. H. Parker
+ J Philos 39:527 S 10 '42 1150w

PERDUE, VIRGINIA. Case of the foster father.
270p $2 Doubleday

42-19353

Detective story.

"Eleanora Burke, two-hundred pound lady sleuth, starts war when a monozygotic twin—as opposed to a dizygotic twin—turns up missing, then murder strikes the madhouse. Eleanora is the main show. She's husky, amusing and smart." Will Cuppy
+ Books p17 Ag 23 '42 150w

"Mrs. Burke, who appeared first in 'The Case of the Grieving Monkey,' improves upon better acquaintance." Isaac Anderson
N Y Times p8 S 6 '42 200w

PERKINS, HOWARD CECIL, ed. Northern editorials on secession. (Am. hist. assn. Albert J. Beveridge memorial fund. Publication) 2v $10 Appleton-Century

973.68 Secession. Public opinion—U.S. U.S.—History—Civil war—Causes 42-2297

"This compilation of northern editorials is presented as a selection of representative newspaper opinions on different aspects of the secession crisis of 1860-1861. It is designed to suggest the diversity of thought and feeling from which there later emerged an aggressive northern policy and a fair degree of northern unity. The main text in these volumes is preceded by an introduction and followed by a newspaper index and a general index. The introduction discusses the politics of the secession crisis, describes the northern press of the period, and explains the selection and classification of editorials." (Pref) Index at end of each volume.

"One thing, which Professor Perkins hardly had in mind, these volumes should do: they should kill forever the legend that the period was the 'golden age' of American journalism. There are some good editorials scattered through these thick volumes, but most of them are petty in their partisanship, shallow in their emotional appeal and frequently downright silly in their logic."

Christian Century 59:288 Mr 4 '42 260w

"Dr. Perkins deserves high praise for completing a tremendous task in such competent fashion." Carl Wittke

+ New Eng Q 15:538 S '42 1250w

PERKINS, WILMA LORD. Fannie Farmer junior cook book; il. by Martha Powell Setchell. 208p $1.75 Little

641.5 Cookery—Juvenile literature (W) 42-25406

A cookbook based on the famous Boston Cooking School Cook Book. It is designed especially "for those young cooks who need help in selecting the recipe to try as well as even more detailed instruction about methods." (Pref) Index.

Booklist 39:144 D 15 '42

Horn BK 19:43 Ja '43 80w

"Recommended for home and library." Emily Hutson

+ Library J 68:38 Ja 1 '43 80w

"As solid and reliable as the senior 'Fanny Farmer' and a great deal prettier." K. S. W.
+ New Yorker 18:116 D 12 '42 70w

PERLS, KLAUS G. Vlaminc [ed. by André Gloeckner]. (Modern masters) 78p il pl $3.50 Harper; Hyperion

759.4 Vlaminc, Maurice de 41-52021

Photographic reproductions in color and in black and white of the work of this French artist, and a discussion of his part in the Fauve movement. The first chapter is a long essay on esthetics. Bibliography. Indexes.

"With respect to illustration, the black and white plates are uniformly excellent. The color work may be said, in general to represent a considerable improvement over preceding volumes of the Hyperion series. Many of the color plates, however, prove sadly 'off'—this one realizes at once, just glancing at them, or by direct evidence when it is feasible to compare a plate with the painting it purports to reproduce. Still, it is apparent that progress is being made. Upon the whole, the best color work, by far, is found in the Vlaminc monograph." E. A. Jewell

+ — N Y Times p21 My 10 '42 240w

Wis Lib Bul 38:183 D '42

PERRY, GEORGE SESSIONS. Texas, a world in itself; il. by Arthur Fuller. (Whittlesey house publication) 293p $2.75 McGraw

917.64 Texas (W) 42-23507

Some autobiography, some history, a good deal of traditional lore, enter into this picture of Texas as it is today, a vast land of varied industries and resources. Index.

Appeared on Best Seller list in: Books (1) N Y Times (13)

Booklist 39:100 N 15 '42

"Mr. Perry, the talented young man whose novel, 'Hold Autumn In Your Hand,' won the 1941 National Book sellers Award, is a sound, knowing and refreshingly unpretentious writer. In his home country the people who discuss such matters are sure that he will 'go far,' as the saying has it—and, indeed, he has already gone pretty far. The present book is an uneven sort of memorandum, or report, on what is going on around him today, and why things are the way they are. He doesn't have all the answers. He is dealing with a subject that is not only enormous in its ramifications but which is full of contradictions. He admits that there is too much material, and that he had to throw tons of good stuff away. But the net result is an ingratiating job." Stanley Walker

+ Books p4 O 11 '42 1400w

Reviewed by Clifton Macon

Churchman 156:17 N 1 '42 150w

"Though loosely knit and somewhat journalistic in style, book successfully conveys flavor and characteristics that make Texas 'a world in itself,' from the smallest coyote and rattlesnake to 'Jim' Ferguson and the Alamo. Timely and readable, though of doubtful permanence. Libraries will find it useful because of present interest in Texas and its airfields, which are briefly sketched in book." M. J. Messler

+ — Library J 67:737 S 1 '42 110w

Reviewed by R. L. Duffus

N Y Times p9 O 25 '42 1050w

Reviewed by E. L. Sabin

Sat R of Lit 25:46 D 5 '42 800w

PERRY, RALPH BARTON. Our side is right. 153p $1.75 Harvard univ. press

940.53 World war, 1939- A42-4831

"Professor Perry (philosophy, Harvard) is no closet philosopher. He was a major in the First World War and wrote a book on The Present Conflict of Ideals in 1918. The conflict now is even sharper. Perry has no patience with the easygoing liberalism which views all varieties of political and social ideals—for example, ours and the nazis—as merely differences of opinion which reasonable men ought to regard tolerantly. There are not only differences of opinion, but there are such things as truth and falsity, right and wrong." Christian Century

Reviewed by H. M. Kallen

Ann Am Acad 225:237 Ja '43 700w

Booklist 39:182 Ja 1 '43

"The crisp proposition stated in the title strikes the keynote of the book. The author not only states it; he proves it. His writing is a tonic for liberaloid intellectuals."

+ Christian Century 59:1223 O 7 '42 100w

"This book presents a clear, logical analysis of present world conditions in a manner to inspire much questioning as to our national conscience." A. F. G.

+ Christian Science Monitor p10 N 14 '42 1100w

PERRY, R. B.—Continued

Reviewed by A. M. Colt
Library J 67:794 S 15 '42 110w

Reviewed by T. I. Cook
Sat R of Lit 25:16 D 12 '42 380w
Social Studies 33:380 D '42 10w

"Riding two horses at the same time is something which is usually done better in the circus than in the pages of a book. Yet this is what Ralph Barton Perry, one of the most experienced and sensitive thinkers of our times, attempts in his little volume. . . . And the result is a thought provoking but disappointing piece of work dedicated to a popular end—the providing of a philosophic rationale for our side in the present world conflict." C. D. Kean

— + Springfield Republican p8 O 8 '42 700w

PERRY, SHERMAN. Let's write good letters. 176p $1 Am. rolling mill co, Middletown, Ohio 651.74 Commercial correspondence 42-12251

Some essential rules for the writing of good business letters, letters which are "a bit different from the commonplace." Index.

Booklist 39:97 N 15 '42
School & Society 55:680 Je 13 '42 20w

PERRY, THOMAS DOANE. Modern plywood. 366p il $4.50 Pitman

674 Plywood 42-4620

Study of the history, manufacture, and uses of plywood, and the new developments in resin adhesives which have improved modern plywood. Questions at ends of chapters. Glossary. Bibliography. Index.

Booklist 38:304 Ap 15 '42

"The book is written in the style of a textbook; students may be its largest users. . . . The book is well supplied with charts, tables, and illustrations, and as a further indication of the versatility of the subject, the book is bound with plywood covers. . . . For the reader in search of a background on plywood, this volume offers a great deal." Henry Grinsfelder

+ Chem & Eng N 20:483 Ap 10 '42 270w
Chem & Met Eng 49:212 My '42 230w
N Y New Tech Bks 27:14 Ja '42
Pratt p22 D '42

PETERS, CHARLES CLINTON. Curriculum of democratic education. 367p $2.75 McGraw 375 Education—Curricula 42-51106

"A pioneering text in which the author sets forth a theory of education and of the place of the school in a democratic society and then builds up an account of the nature and organization of a curriculum in accord with the theory. The procedure brings together the motif of the democratic, child-centered school and the motif of education directed systematically toward social needs. The implementation of this theory is illustrated by more than 100 brief descriptions of actual classroom activities." (School & Society) Indexes.

School & Society 56:504 N 21 '42 100w
Social Studies 34:47 Ja '43 40w

PETERS, HARRY TWYFORD. Currier and Ives; printmakers to the American people. special ed 41p 192pl $5 Doubleday

769 Currier & Ives. Lithographs 42-24944
Study of the firm of Currier & Ives, American lithographers and printers, established in New York in the 1830's. Includes short biographical sketches of the artists they employed and the prints they made, with nearly two hundred plates of Currier & Ives prints, some of them in color.

"This handsome book is Americana at its best. The search for information has been painstaking and Mr. Peters presents it all in a lively, readable style. The generous number of the plates make this an ideal gift book for those who would decorate their walls in the veritable and quaint American style—and to those whose passion is collecting Currier & Ives prints it is their inspired and unquestionable guide and bible." Richardson Wright

+ Books p4 D 20 '42 750w

Reviewed by Clement Greenberg
Nation 155:589 N 28 '42 850w

Reviewed by E. L. Tinker
N Y Times p26 N 22 '42 340w

"Full of interesting detail, it makes engrossing reading."

+ New Yorker 18:80 N 14 '42 70w

PETERSEN, HERMAN. Murder R.F.D. 316p $2 Duell

42-10426

Detective story.

Booklist 38:347 My 15 '42

"The whole thing is as good as a vacation in rures. It poses a handful of interesting problems as well." Will Cuppy

+ Books p12 Mr 29 '42 150w

"The reader who likes to be an armchair sleuth may, and with good reason, complain that no hint of the real motive for the murder is given until after the murderer has confessed. Aside from this, the story has substantial merit and is skillfully constructed and well told."

+ — N Y Times p22 Mr 29 '42 240w

"Simple, straightforward tale, told with great humor."

+ New Yorker 18:80 Mr 28 '42 50w

"Worthwhile."

+ Sat R of Lit 25:21 Mr 28 '42 40w

PETERSHAM, MAUD, and PETERSHAM, MISKA, II. See Bible. New Testament. Gospels. Jesus' story

PETERSON, ELMER THEODORE. Forward to the land. 283p il $2.75 Univ. of Okla. press 338.1 Agriculture—U.S. U.S.—Social conditions 42-11330

"Aside from a number of digressive editorials, 'Forward to the Land' is an able exposition of the theory that the salvation of our economy, and in particular the solution to the 'farm problem,' is to be found in a return to the family-size diversified farm. Mr. Peterson would have farmers raise a number of cash crops; he would also have them buy many articles which might conceivably be produced or manufactured on the farm. But he believes that it is largely through diversification of production, with the emphasis on home consumption, that farmers are most likely to increase their real income. Farm income, he argues, is too commonly thought of as being income received rather than wealth retained." New Repub

Booklist 38:343 My 15 '42

Christian Science Monitor p11 O 3 '42 700w

"Mr. Peterson makes a convincing case for Forward (not back) to the Land." Edward Skillin, Jr.

+ Commonweal 35:556 Mr 27 '42 750w

"With the general trend of this argument and with Mr. Peterson's criticism of some aspects of the AAA program, few will quarrel. While it is sound advice to the farmer, Mr. Peterson's argument falls short of justifying his view that such a program would constitute a panacea for a large assortment of economic ills." Carey McWilliams

+ — New Repub 106:644 My 11 '42 1350w

Reviewed by Francis Brown
N Y Times p24 Ap 26 '42 900w

PETIT MARFAN, MAGDALENA. La Quintrala; tr. by Lulú Vargas Vila. 190p $2 Macmillan

42-24288

Tale of seventeenth century Chile, in which a beautiful and wealthy woman, known as La Quintrala, is the central character. Her career of evil and bloodshed, witchcraft and murder is based upon legend. Her fourteen crimes begin with the poisoning of her own father when she is sixteen, and continue thruout her long life. The powers of evil and good, are represented on the one hand by her witchlike black nurse, on the other by her saintly confessor.

"This lurid story is told with much color and movement and is well written, but the claim on the jacket that it is brought into the focus of modern psychological theory cannot, I think, be sustained. Any application of that sort has to be supplied by the reader himself." Elizabeth Drew

+ Atlantic 170:168 D '42 240w

Booklist 39:138 D 15 '42

"The work may be read on two distinct levels, as a psychological spine chiller and as a human and poetic evocation of real literary distinction. . . . The novel was deservedly a prize winner in Santiago and a best seller in Chile and Argentina, where it has since been made into a highly successful play. In its genre it is a little masterpiece, and close enough to the tastes of our own reading public to give promise that it will make a name for itself and its author here. The passion and beauty of language carry through into a flawless translation by Lulú Vargas Vila, which will make the reader forget that it was not written in our tongue." E. D. Wolfe

+ Books p10 O 25 '42 850w

Cath World 156:634 F '43 100w

"Excellent character study in which church wages losing fight with devil for possession of Catalina's soul. Author is Chilean writer who recently toured this country. Should prove popular because of present interest in South American literature." M. J. Messler

+ Library J 67:795 S 15 '42 80w

"Certainly not a work of literary merit, and not even a good thriller."

+ Nation 155:692 D 19 '42 120w

"It is outstandingly imaginative; and the imagination is of a high order, scientific on the psychological side and creative on the literary. Character is probed to its ultimate subconscious depths and revealed in human, three-dimensional waywardness." J. S. Southron

+ N Y Times p22 N 1 '42 750w

"A very unusual story of literary value." E. Y. M.

+ Springfield Republican p7e Ja 10 '43 500w

PETROVA, OLGA (MRS LEWIS WILLOUGHBY). Butter with my bread. 371p $3 Bobbs

B or 92 Actors and actresses—Correspondence, reminiscences, etc. (W) 42-21321

Olga Petrova was born in a north country English village in the nineties of the last century. Her father's reiterated remark "as long as you are eating my bread in my house you will do as I say" so irritated her that she resolved to earn her own bread, and butter too. While in her teens she ran away from home to work as a governess, and when that did not provide enough butter, she changed her name and went on the stage. Her rise to fame was slow, but sure, and her account of her struggles and final success are filled with humor.

Booklist 39:32 O 1 '42

"This book of memoirs reads like a fascinating fictionalized success story. . . . It is not only an excellent job of work but is, in its corners, uproariously funny." Janet Flanner

+ Books p14 S 27 '42 1050w

"'Butter With My Bread' is packed with fine things that make it a rich experience to any one who is interested in the theatre and its people." Rose Feld

+ N Y Times p31 O 4 '42 1300w

Pratt p5 D '42

PETRY, RAY C. Francis of Assisi, apostle of poverty. 199p $3 Duke univ. [18s Cambridge]

B or 92 Francis of Assisi, Saint 41-25932

A study of St Francis' life and teaching, particularly in relation to his adoption of voluntary poverty. The author in his Preface says: "I have tried to set forth from the sources the all-encompassing demands which the ideal of poverty made upon one who felt himself called to be Christ's special apostle of renunciation. Not what his ideal became in later hands but what it meant in his own apostleship is the main theme of this book." Bibliography. Index.

Reviewed by V. D. Scudder

Am Hist R 47:833 J1 '42 650w

"The seven hundredth anniversary of Francis' death, celebrated in 1926, released a fresh flood of literature. The atmosphere of such an occasion is not conducive to dispassionate analysis and evaluation. Nothing published then or since has thrown more light upon this perennially interesting character than Dr. Petry's sympathetic and critical study." W. E. Garrison

+ Christian Century 59:782 Je 17 '42 1050w

Commonweal 36:188 Je 12 '42 170w

"A most thorough and illuminating study of St. Francis." R. E. Keighton

+ Crozer Q 19:169 Ap '42 800w

Reviewed by E. P. Booth
J Religion 22:455 O '42 140w

PETTIBONE, ANITA. Light down, stranger. 310p $2.50 Farrar

42-18159

Story of Washington Territory in pioneer days just after the Civil war. Young Will Rensch left his home in the Willamette valley to join his mother's cousin, Judge Ballance and become a Merchant Prince. The judge was boss of the town of Clagget, and his wife and daughter were its social arbiters, but they didn't get their way when it came to deciding Will Rensch's fate. Will, with the help of Miss Lovina Scott, and his horse Isaac, were an unbeatable combination.

Booklist 39:12 S '42

"Anita Pettibone depicts this bustling frontier community as it must have appeared to the shy, honest, slow-thinking youngster from a lonely ranch, and it is lively reading. The style has flavor and a sort of homespun drawl which proves to be the right touch." Lisle Bell

+ Books p8 J1 26 '42 350w

"'Light Down, Stranger' is an honest and unretouched picture of a boy and a horse and a country all growing up together." Margaret Wallace

+ N Y Times p6 J1 26 '42 800w

PHELAN, GERALD BERNARD. Saint Thomas and analogy; under the auspices of the Aristotelian soc. of Marquette university. 58p $1.50 Marquette univ. press

189.4 Thomas Aquinas, Saint. Analogy (religion) 41-21654

The Aquinas lecture for 1941 under the auspices of the Aristotelian Society of Marquette University. The author is president of the Pontifical Institute of Medieval Studies, University of Toronto. "Father Phelan introduces the subject of this lecture by asserting, after Cajetan, that 'without an understanding of the doctrine of analogy it is impossible to acquire a knowledge of metaphysics' (p. 1). While this brief paper does not claim to give a full exposition of the doctrine, it does undertake to make explicit the special meaning of the word 'analogy' as employed in metaphysics." (J Philos)

Christian Century 58:1443 N 19 '41 30w

J Philos 39:107 F 12 '42 850w

"This little book sets forth with admirable clarity the idea of analogy and its various forms and shows how these are applicable in philosophy." E. E. Aubrey

+ J Religion 22:337 J1 '42 60w

PHELPS, EDITH MAY, ed. Book and library plays for elementary and high school use, v 2. 265p $2.25 Wilson, H.W.

812.08 Children's plays. College and school drama (W) (38-28914)

"Seventeen short plays suitable for book week and other occasions. Non-royalty, with a few exceptions where admission is charged." Wis Lib Bul

Booklist 38:128 D 15 '41

Wis Lib Bul 38:12 Ja '42

PHELPS, EDITH MAY, ed. University debaters' annual. (V27) 517p $2.25 Wilson, H.W.

374 Debates and debating (16-1455)

"Constructive and rebuttal speeches delivered in debates of American colleges and universities during the college year 1940-1941." (Sub-title) Debate subjects covered: Industry can solve the employment problem; Conscript of Capital for defense; Preservation of democracy through decreased government control; Interstate trade barriers; Japanese aggression in the far east; Union of the U. S. and British Commonwealth; Regulation of the press; Compulsory military training; Strikes in defense industries; Western hemisphere defense.

Booklist 38:230 Mr 1 '42

Wis Lib Bul 38:42 Mr '42

PHILADELPHIA SESQUICENTENNIAL CELEBRATION. Committee of 1926. Notable women of Pennsylvania; ed. by Gertrude Bosler Biddle and Sarah Dickinson Lowrie. 307p $3 Univ. of Pa. press

920.7 Woman—Biography. Pennsylvania—Biography 42-18199

Short sketches of about two hundred women who have taken part in the development of the state of Pennsylvania. The arrangement is chronological and begins with Maria Printz, the governor's lady, who came to Fort Christina in 1643. Does not include women now living. Index.

Reviewed by A. P. James

Am Hist R 48:364 Ja '43 140w

"The volume grew from the Book of Honor, a reminder of the Sesquicentennial. Its biographers are women familiar with the fields in which their subjects worked who could bring to their task understanding as well as knowledge."

+ Books p18 My 31 '42 350w

N Y Times p14 Je 14 '42 440w

Social Studies 33:288 O '42 30w

PHILIPS, JUDSON PENTECOST. Fourteenth trump. 251p $2 Dodd

42-22859

Detective story.

Reviewed by Will Cuppy

Books p22 O 18 '42 110w

"The Fourteenth Trump' turns into a war story. It's a pretty good one, too; smooth adventurous and cleverly surprising." Kay Irvin

+ N Y Times p10 O 18 '42 120w

"Knowledgeable, swiftly moving, and suavely hardboiled item with two good sleuths and something wicked happening almost every minute. Enjoyable."

+ Sat R of Lit 25:41 O 24 '42 40w

Time 40:104 N 2 '42 60w

PHILIPS, SHINE. Big Spring; the casual biography of a prairie town; drawings by Jerry Bywaters. 231p $2.50 Prentice-Hall

917.64 Big Spring, Texas 42-18812

Reminiscences of a western druggist, about his Texas town, and the people who built it and lived there in former days. Among the subjects of his recollections are: frontier doctors; the law; parsons; saloons; drummers; cowboys; squatters; tenderfeet; and the ladies.

"Maybe, if we want to be blunt about it, Mr. Philips isn't much of an author, and maybe he hasn't got much of a book. Even the publishers are careful to say on the dustjacket that it is by no means 'a literary masterpiece.' They are as right as they can be. But it is pretty good stuff, at that. The man knows his town, he remembers just about everything that ever happened there, and he tells it in a style that will remind some people of the prose of Will Rogers, though it isn't a steal from Rogers, for, strange as it may seem to some critics, most of the people out there really talk that way—loose, semi-illiterate, but with interesting sound effects." Stanley Walker

+ Books p18 S 20 '42 850w

"The least pretentious and most effective biography of a small town this reviewer has ever read. . . . There is little one can review about a book like this; it is robust, realistic, pleasantly sentimental, and there is a legitimate grin on almost every page." Phil Stong

+ Sat R of Lit 25:12 S 12 '42 500w

Wis Lib Bul 38:161 N '42

PHILLIP, QUENTIN MORROW. We who died last night. 299p $2 The Grail, St Meinrad, Ind.

42-103

"A story intended for popular consumption of a man's rise from the flophouses of Chicago to business success." Commonweal

"An unhappy first attempt despite the good intention of facing life squarely."

— Commonweal 35:372 Ja 30 '42 40w

"The author portrays the down-and-out victims of depression and misfortune in the panhandle district of Chicago, and although the ending is not a happy one, the reader will find increased interest with each succeeding chapter. 'We Who Died Last Night' is a fore-runner of two novels by the same author almost ready for publication. One deals with the problem of labor and strikes; the other with the more delicate problem of family limitation."

Springf'd Republican p7e F 8 '42 90w

PHILLIPS, ARTHUR. Victory in the dust. 348p $2.50 Lippincott

42-11245

Novel of the racetrack; its hangers on and frequenters, and the gangsters who are trying to make a paying business out of it. It is the story of Dixie, a young Southern jockey, of Irish Gallagher who befriended him, and of the young society matron who was infatuated with Dixie and almost ruined his career and that of his sweetheart.

"Here is a racetrack story designed to take your mind off your troubles and the war, whether or not you follow the horses. . . . 'Victory in the Dust' is a first novel by a young author who once played the role of trainer-owner to a horse owned by his brother. It won the prize (the story, not the horse) of $1,000 offered by the publishers to new writers of the class Hudson Strode has been conducting at the University of Alabama. It has its meanings, outside the racetrack. They have the right slant. But the story's the thing." F. T. Marsh

+ Books p8 Ap 12 '42 650w

New Repub 106:614 My 4 '42 90w

"The book contains considerable action, a really brilliant take-off of self-consciously witty talkers, and one or two scenes that stick in the mind. The faults spring from the fact that Mr. Phillips apparently was unable to make up his mind whether to write realism or melodrama, or whether to write plain or to write fancy. Most of the time he writes pretty fancy, but not very well, and it is a real tribute to his talent to say that his native gifts are strong enough to make interesting this novel handicapped by an affected style and a divided purpose." Robert Van Gelder

+ — N Y Times p20 Ap 26 '42 360w

"Some very knowing talk among trainers, jockeys, and whatnot, as well as a rather lurid lady and a little exercise boy, as likable as he is dumb, who gets the breaks. A pleasure to read."

+ New Yorker 18:66 Ap 4 '42 70w

"Mr. Phillips has taken materials that might easily have descended into the pattern of conventional melodrama and with a good deal of insight and realism fitted out a swift and credible novel. The consistency of Dixie's clipped dialogue—clipped because he is certain that he doesn't know enough to have a right to say much—is a neat tour de force in itself."

Phil Stong

+ Sat R of Lit 25:18 Ap 11 '42 400w

PHILLIPS, ETHEL CALVERT. Brian's victory; il. by Decie Merwin. 87p $2 Houghton 42-22861

A charming story of a brave, small English boy who came to the United States, via clipper, to stay during the war. He remembers his mother's parting injunction, "Uphold England," and when the time comes for a great sacrifice, he is equal to it. For children eight to twelve.

Booklist 39:124 D 1 '42

"Appealing story told with humor and understanding." E. D. Briggs

+ Library J 67:956 N 1 '42 70w

"With no air of haste to produce a timely book, Miss Phillips, who understands children well, as her many books for boys and girls have abundantly proved, has given us a thoughtful picture of a child in wartime." A. T. Eaton

+ N Y Times p11 S 27 '42 280w

PHILLIPS, HARRY IRVING. Private Purkey in love and war; with drawings by Alan Dunn; and a foreword by John Kieran. 150p $1.50 Harper

817 World war, 1939—Humor, caricatures, etc. 42-17260

Private Purkey has been in the army a year now, and he has learned a lot about camp life, altho he is never quite sure whether he is in Norway, Ireland, Australia, or Camp Dix. His naive, misspelled letters to his mother or his various girls describe his experiences from kitchen police to hospitalization.

Booklist 39:66 N 1 '42

Books p8 Je 28 '42 200w

"Purkey—prototype of the serio-comic, lovable and thoroughly honest-to-goodness American soldier—is a character of parts, and it is not unlikely that he will be remembered long after the present war is over. . . Alan Dunn's illustrations are truly interpretative of the character that Phillips has created, and they add much to an already diverting book. John Kieran of The New York Times contributes a humorous and understanding introduction." E. F. Allen

+ N Y Times p19 Ag 16 '42 550w

PHILLIPS, JAMES ATLEE. Case of the shivering chorus girls. 252p $2 Coward-McCann 42-16614

Detective story.

Reviewed by Will Cuppy

Books p26 My 10 '42 230w

"The case with which this story deals concerns two murders in a night club in full view of the audience. Wardlaw cracks the case, but how he does it remains pretty much of a mystery, perhaps because the author's manner of narration is unnecessarily cryptic." Isaac Anderson

N Y Times p17 My 10 '42 160w

"Glittery and cleverly plotted yarn of life and death in nocturnal Manhattan. Detective interesting and stooges good fun. Fast and feverish."

+ Sat R of Lit 25:17 My 23 '42 40w

PHILLPOTTS, EDEN. Deed without a name. 233p $2 Macmillan [7s 6d Hutchinson] 42-18847

"A tale of fraud and murder that has horror and suspense. Told in a leisurely manner which makes it more frightening." New Yorker

"A necessity for the serious fan and a credit to the mystery business." Will Cuppy

+ Books p13 Ag 9 '42 190w

Boston Globe p19 Ag 12 '42 20w

"Phillipotts' imagination does not grow dim nor is his natural strength abated by the passing years. He can still produce a thriller with all the old punch and uncontaminated by any modern notions of the higher uses of fiction beyond sheer entertainment."

+ Christian Century 59:982 Ag 12 '42 40w

"The jacket blurb refers to this story as a thriller, and so it might have been considered two or three generations ago. Today we demand less deliberation and more and swifter action. At best this book is a nostalgic reminder of the novels of an age of abundant leisure." Isaac Anderson

N Y Times p17 Ag 16 '42 160w

New Yorker 18:56 Ag 8 '42 40w

"Wordy but worth-while."

+ — Sat R of Lit 25:16 Ag 22 '42 50w

PIERCE, ANNE LEWIS, ed. Home canning for victory. 106p il $1.25 Barrows

641.4 Canning and preserving (W) 42-21653

Directions for canning, drying, preserving, and dehydrating vegetables, fruits, and meats. Sugar economy is taken into account. Index.

Booklist 39:65 N 1 '42

Cleveland Open Shelf p22 N '42

Reviewed by D. E. Shank

J Home Econ 35:114 F '43 230w

PIERCE, DAVID E. Chemical engineering for production supervision. 232p il $2.50 McGraw 660 Chemical engineering 42-5513

In his preface the author says that the book is "for the nontechnical men of the chemical industry, for foremen and supervisors in direct charge of operating chemical engineering equipment. . . It is presented with the hope that it will meet the need of nontechnical operating men for a simple explanation of the equipment for which they are responsible." Index.

Booklist 38:304 Ap 15 '42

"This book will surely fill a long-felt need for production men in chemical industries because it presents basic principles in a simple, straightforward manner, for the practical men who lack a technical education, for supervisors and foremen, and for engineers who have lost their intimate contact with technology and the complicated problems of modern chemical industrial equipment. . . The particular merit of the book lies in its basic soundness, simplicity, and practical approach." H. M. Merker

+ Chem & Eng N 20:484 Ap 10 '42 700w

"The author has accomplished his purpose by careful choice of subject matter and the inclusion of many illustrative problems carried out in sufficient detail so that supplying missing steps is unnecessary. . . The book is highly recommended to the non-technical men of our chemical industry who are interested in the 'whys' and the 'wherefores' of their operations." W. T. Dixon

+ Chem & Met Eng 49:159 Mr '42 370w

N Y New Tech Bks 27:38 Jl '42

Pratt p12 O '42

PIERSON, DONALD. Negroes in Brazil; a study of race contact at Bahia. 392p il $4.50 Univ. of Chicago press

325.26 Negroes in Brazil, Bahia, Brazil

42-18926

Scholarly study of the Negro problem in Brazil, where the class rather than the race

PIERSON, DONALD—Continued

determines status. Beginning with chapters on the background of the present situation, the author takes up in turn miscegenation, race and social status, the African heritage, and the Bahian racial situation. The author is professor of sociology, at the Escola livre de sociologia e politica, at São Paulo. Selected bibliography. Indexes.

"Every intelligent North American who is seriously interested in cultural relations with Brazil should read this book, which not only describes and analyzes the role of the Negro in the ethnic composition and social history of Brazil but embodies in its exposition the spirit and values of Brazilian culture." E. F. Frazier

+ Am J Soc 48:434 N '42 1000w

"Bright hued, richly documented study." Arna Bontemps

+ Books p19 Ag 23 '42 1200w

"[An] academic treatment of the subject which is appallingly complete and has all the earmarks of being reliable. Anyone who wants to find out the truth and be in a position to rectify the rumor can do so, although there is little likelihood that this new volume will ever catch the public's eye or attract wide popular interest. . . I can scarcely recommend it to the general reader, for the learned Doctor has admirably bathed his findings in academic dullness. He belongs to that school which believes in dotting every i and crossing every t. . . But his findings more than redeem his method. Here, I am satisfied, is as fair a statement of the truth about the position of the Negro in Brazil as is likely ever to be made—unless some day a poet should tackle the theme." H. L. Binsse

+ Commonweal 36:617 O 16 '42 1200w

PIERSON, MRS ELEANOR (MEHNERT). Defense rests. 229p $2 Howell, Soskin

42-12600

Mystery story.

"Mrs Pierson's Washington atmosphere is frightening, and her plot is the kind that favors strong suspense. Solved by confession after a certain person has outsmarted Capt. Jensen. And what's to prevent a happy ending? Light and speedy in the right places." Will Cuppy

Books p18 Mr 22 '42 150w

Reviewed by Isaac Anderson

N Y Times p14 Mr 22 '42 160w

"Readable and quite emotional account of black-mail and murder. Characters and background reasonably well portrayed and action sufficient."

Sat R of Lit 25:19 Mr 14 '42 40w

PILGRIM, DAVID, pseud. of JOHN LESLIE PALMER and HILARY AIDAN ST GEORGE SAUNDERS. No common glory. 442p $2.50 Harper [9s Macmillan]

La Cloche, James de—Fiction (W) 42-9124

Historical novel of the time of Charles II. The plot is concerned with the early career of James de la Cloche, a mysterious young man, born in the island of Jersey, who played a considerable part in seventeenth century politics. James, reputed to be the son of Charles II and Marguerite de Carteret, was presented to both the French and English courts, met Voltaire, developed a distinct liking for the theater, and had fought a duel before he was twenty.

Booklist 38:442 JI 15 '42

"Mr. Pilgrim has a vivid panoramic sense of history. Life at Versailles and at Whitehall flows through the pages, crammed with color, intrigue, clashing personalities." Page Cooper

+ Books p12 Ap 5 '42 550w

Reviewed by Charles Marriott

Manchester Guardian p3 O 31 '41 60w

"It is a picture and character study as much as a story, full of life and color, easy to read, hard to put down." Charlotte Dean

+ N Y Times p7 Ap 5 '42 480w

New Yorker 18:67 Ap 4 '42 60w

"It is a completely captivating book, rapid and smooth and disarmingly unpedantic; but, if promise means anything, it will be the next volume, when James de la Cloche really gets underway, that will make Dumas look to his laurels." C. D. Abbott

+ Sat R of Lit 25:18 Ap 11 '42 400w

"The book is crammed with detail which will delight all those who prefer history in the form of fiction, for young James goes about with an observant eye, if an extraordinary lack of discretion. Vivid descriptions of court life and pageantry are given, accounts of naval battles and customs, the difficulties of travel, gossip of the green room, all help to swell the book into the chronicle of an age. But unfortunately James never succeeds in arousing our interest in himself as a human being." John Hampson

+ Spec 167:453 N 7 '41 300w

Times [London] Lit Sup p508 O 11 '41 90w

"The story has excellent pace and an abundance of colour. The joins are almost invisible in this collaboration, which indeed is as smooth as could be desired."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p529 O 25 '41 480w

Wis Lib Bul 38:88 My '42

PINKERTON, KATHRENE SUTHERLAND (GEDNEY) (MRS R. E. PINKERTON). Fox island; il. by I. B. Hazelton. 195p $2 Harcourt

42-21973

The story of a fur farm in the Canadian north. The Jackmans and their two children, Ann aged fifteen, and Philip, aged twelve, had no neighbors, except an Indian family ten miles away, and very little capital to spend on buying domesticated animals. Their attempts to capture and train wild animals and Ann's discovery of a pair of rare silver foxes started them on their way. For grades six to eight.

Booklist 39:53 O 15 '42

"With a master hand, Mrs. Pinkerton relates wilderness adventure, and I. B. Hazelton illustrates it." M. B. Snow

+ Library J 67:913 O 15 '42 100w

New Yorker 18:112 D 12 '42 70w

PINSON, KOPPEL SHUB, ed. See Conference on Jewish relations. Essays on antisemitism

PIOZZI, MRS HESTER LYNCH (SALUS-BURY) THRALE. Thraliana [her] diary, 1776-1809; ed. by Katharine C. Balderston. 2v 644:587p $20 (63s) Oxford

B or 92

[A42-5313]

"The original manuscript of 'Thraliana' is one of the treasures of the Henry E. Huntington Library. It is in six stout quarto volumes. These, as yet blank but with their famous title already stamped upon their calf bindings, were given to Mrs. Thrale by her husband in 1776, and for the following thirty-three years they were a repository of all sorts of anecdote and reminiscences, impressions and personalia. Her great and good friend Dr. Johnson had urged her to preserve in some such informal compilation the records of conversations and other experiences, but even without Johnson's incentive it is likely that she would have undertaken to do so, for she was an enthusiastic devotee to these volumes of 'ana' of which French literature affords so many examples. Mrs. Thrale's chronicle has been known to many students of Johnson, but it is now published in full for the first time." Books

"It must be admitted that a great deal of this voluminous compilation is a chronicle of very small beer. Mrs. Thrale, for all her intimate associations with famous people, was generally 'a traveller in little things.' Much of her gossip has lost its pungency and many of the supposedly amusing anecdotes make one wonder at the changes that have come over our sense of humor. But the total effect is pleasing, illuminating, as it does, not only the character of the writer but the qualities of her age." S. C. Chew

+ — Books p14 S 13 '42 1100w

"Ultimately its value will be in its help to serious students of social and cultural history, biography, and literature. Even for them, however, its best use will be comprehensive rather than particular. From its mass of casual inconsequences there emerges a clearer picture of the eighteenth-century mind, its preferences and predilections, its assumptions and its conclusions, than may elsewhere be found; and the range of Mrs. Thrale's circle made its eighteenth-century mind more representative than such abstractions usually are. Immediately, however, these volumes will be a joy to the casual reader. They abound in witticism and anecdote." H. B. C.

+ Manchester Guardian p3 J1 1 '42 350w

"Her book will undoubtedly add to the (one hopes) already considerable number of Mrs. Thrale's admirers. Moreover, it has that sharp, pleasing, individual tang so characteristic of the literature of the English eighteenth century, and so unmistakable and delightful wherever we find it."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p270 My 30 '42 2650w

PLANCK, CHARLES E. Women with wings. 333p il $2.75 Harper

629.13 Women as aviators (W) 42-36162

Short history of the part women have played in aviation, from the late 1700's to the present. "Seven months after the first man flew, the first woman flew. Five months before the Wright brothers first flew, a woman soloed a powered aircraft." It finishes with an account of the 3,300 licensed women pilots in this country at the present time. Chronology of feminine international aircraft records, and one of women's aviation. Index.

Booklist 38:302 Ap 15 '42

Reviewed by Wolfgang Langewiesche

Books p18 Je 7 '42 400w

Cleveland Open Shelf p10 My '42

"Written with enthusiasm and with great detail, the book will interest many readers, especially young women and those interested in the future of aviation. For public libraries." G. O. Kelley

+ Library J 67:182 F 15 '42 70w

N Y New Tech Bks 27:20 Ap '42

"In his foreword Mr. Planck says that 'this book had to be written now.' Haste may explain—though it cannot wholly excuse—some noticeable carelessness. It is as a compendium, including records and chronology in several appendices, that the volume is interesting."

+ — N Y Times p26 Mr 29 '42 480w

Wis Lib Bul 38:64 Ap '42

PLATO. Republic; a new version founded on Basic English, by I. A. Richards. 218p $2.50 Norton

888.4 Political science, Basic English—Texts 42-11542

"Mr. Richards wants to make Plato's debate on government accessible to the widest possible circle of readers—readers who he thinks are always alienated by the leisurely pace and full flourishes of the original and its translations. He has therefore cut, condensed, and retranslated with an eye to simplicity." (Nation) Index.

Booklist 38:342 My 15 '42

Reviewed by Jacques Barzun

Nation 154:491 Ap 25 '42 550w

"It is hardly a criticism to say that this version lacks the rhythm of Jowett's translation, and anyone who knows the enormous labor entailed for an English-speaking person in putting English into Basic English can feel nothing but respect for Mr. Richards' accomplishment. The best Basic English will be written not by the experts, but by those who have no other English and whose task will be not the elimination of superfluous riches, but the utmost use of the only material they have." Ivy Low

New Repub 106:673 My 18 '42 900w

Reviewed by E. L. Tinker

N Y Times p31 S 27 '42 700w

"Unfortunately Dr. Richards is not a very sensitive writer; and too often his style is gritty and awkward. . . Still, here may be found a readable version, slightly abridged, of one of the great books most important for our time. Much of the best things, and some of the mistakes in our world today can be found in 'The Republic.' It has not the beauty of 'The Apology' or 'The Phaedrus,' or the profundity of the 'Timaeus'; but it has had a greater influence on our world than any book of that Hellenic culture to which the world and especially these United States owe so much. The more it is read, in any version, the better." R. E. Roberts

+ — Sat R of Lit 25:14 J1 25 '42 500w

Reviewed by H. E. Woodbridge

Yale R n s 32:182 autumn '42 350w

PLATT, RUTHERFORD. This green world; with il. from phot. by the author. 222p $3.75 Dodd

580 Botany

(W) 42-50194

"Deals by text and pictures with the miracle of the tree, with the beauty of little-known tree buds, and with the flowers of the field—their colors, their ways of living, their families and propagation." (Publisher's note) The author is a business man whose eyes were first opened to the beauties and subtleties of nature when he went for a walk on a winter afternoon, with Dr Graves of the Brooklyn Botanical garden. Illustrated with 135 photographs, 27 of them in color, and 127 line drawings. Brief bibliography. Index.

"Such a vivid presentation of nature's technocracy and functionalism, especially when so excellently illustrated as is this book with many of Mr. Platt's photographs in black and white and in color—and scores in drawing—gives this book a wide appeal and should assure it lasting popularity." Richardson Wright

+ Books p16 N 29 '42 650w

"This book will serve as a guide to thrilling adventures in the world of growing plants, especially to those who have had no opportunity for botanical training. The author . . . has accumulated a wealth of information and his book is crammed full with hundreds of interesting facts about plant life which are scientifically sound. He is blessed with the ability of expressing himself simply and accurately, and this, together with his intense interest in plants and his delightful style, has been used to excellent advantage in producing a book which is entertaining and educational as well." Donald Wyman

+ N Y Times p5 D 6 '42 1000w

"Mr. Platt [writes] a clear and steady prose in which he embeds a whole encyclopedia of facts so skilfully—and with so nice a blending of the simplest primer-truths and the latest and most remarkable discoveries of botanical research—that readers in whatever stage of tree-lore are able to follow him with ease and pleasure. . . A special word should be said of two of the book's features. One is the pair of appendices, respectively 'How to Be a Tree Detective in Winter' and 'Pictorial Key to Native Evergreens.' Both are admirably clear and very helpful." Alan Devoe

+ Sat R of Lit 25:52 D 5 '42 500w

Scientific Bk Club R 13:2 N '42 450w

PLEASANTS, HENRY. Mars' butterfly. 476p $3.50 Christopher

André, John—Fiction

41-6231

"A tale of the career of Major John André, spy-extraordinary of the British army in the American revolution." Subtitle

"The framework for Mr. Pleasants' book is the familiar story of André's career, but it is not history. The author repeats the old and familiar myths and inaccuracies embroidered to heighten the drama in the novel. Despite its inaccuracies, which are no worse than in other novels based on the same situation, the book is well done in its details." H. H. Peckham

PLEASANTS, HENRY—Continued

— + Am Hist R 41:424 Ja '42 250w
Social Studies 32:333 N '41 30w

POLAND. MINISTERSTWO INFORMACJI.
Black book of Poland [Eng title: German new order in Poland]. 615p il $3 Putnam [10s 6d Hutchinson]

940.54056 World war, 1939—Poland. Poland—History—German occupation 1939—
(W) 42-20476

"Compiled under the auspices of the Polish Ministry of Information. This book shows us the core of what we are fighting. A plain record of how the Nazis were let loose on Poland in a systematic attempt to destroy the spirit, the culture, the religions, and the bodies of a whole people. Covers only the period from September, 1939, to July, 1941. Names, dates, maps, photographs, statistics, and depositions." (New Yorker) Index.

Booklist 39:67 N 1 '42

"While it must inevitably prove difficult reading, the book is a vital document. Had Poland been the only country to be submitted to the New Order, had the pattern never repeated itself elsewhere, this record would still be enough to indict the German regime as the blackest on the dark face of history. For the dead Poles, the dead Jews, and for the millions alive today whose heads are bloody but unbowed, since they are fighting still, here is a testimony of what they endure. Nothing can ever atone for the evil done them except the restoration of their right to live." Virgilia Sapieha

+ Books p9 Ag 30 '42 600w

Christian Science Monitor p10 O 3 '42 380w

"If truth may ever be called 'propaganda' by level-headed men, so proud of their 'objectivity,' 'The Black Book of Poland' is pure propaganda. The story told is based exclusively on excerpts from the German press, German documents, on trustworthy and carefully checked evidence, and is illustrated with nearly 200 photographs. The editors state: 'No attempt had been made to enlarge upon the facts.' Indeed there is no need to enlarge upon them." Marta Wankowicz

+ Commonweal 36:571 O 2 '42 650w

Current Hist 3:454 Ja '43 330w

Reviewed by Hiram Motherwell
Nation 155:456 O 31 '42 800w

"This collection of documents, statements, letters, photographs and personal histories furnished a precise working blueprint of the Nazi New Order as applied to a conquered country. It is long, sometimes repetitious. It is neither easy reading nor pleasant reading. But it shows exactly what we are up against and exactly how the theories of National Socialism and the Herrenvolk work out in practice. This is the thing we are fighting. This is how it works." S. V. Benét

+ New Repub 107:354 S 21 '42 1000w

"With the exception of a nine-volume Belgian compendium on German atrocities in Belgium during August and September, 1914, there has never appeared such a thoroughly documented indictment as this terrible volume. But the Polish publication is much more timely than the Belgian work, which appeared years after the war and signing of the peace treaty. Facts made public in the Polish Black Book are just as important for the present political warfare as they will be indispensable for future peace discussions and post-war reconstruction. Every incident which could be documented is here included. Though the editors of the book were well aware that the real facts are even more frightful, they have been unusually reserved and kept within the limits of scientific exactness." Milos Safranek

N Y Times p1 S 6 '42 1200w

New Yorker 18:59 Ag 29 '42 90w

"Warning to the reader: Don't read this if you think that atrocity stories in this war are merely propagandist inventions to trick you into a sense of outrage—because this is about a book that is full of atrocity stories, not weak, half-hearted atrocity stories, but the real thing—stories that will sicken you, not so much because of their horror and their gore, but because it reveals the fiendish ability of the imagination to devise unique methods of wringing the last drop of pain out of the human species." Stephen Naft

+ Sat R of Lit 25:3 O 5 '42 1300w

Times [London] Lit Sup p26 Ja 17 '42 1150w

"The editors 'guarantee the authenticity of the episodes and events mentioned and described, and all the material is based upon reports and depositions which have been submitted to scrupulous verification.' A number of characteristic German posters and newspaper columns have been reproduced from photographs. In present conditions, the reviewer is naturally unable to verify all of the material included in the book, but he is convinced that, even allowing for a certain percentage of unintentional errors, the bulk of the editors' documentation must be considered valid." George Vernadsky

+ Yale R n s 32:409 winter '43 1000w

POLIAKOV, ALEXANDER. Russians don't surrender; tr. from the Russian by Norbert Guterman; and with an introd. by Pierre Van Paassen. 191p il $2.50 Dutton

940.542 World war, 1939—Personal narratives, Russian (W) 42-15674

Personal narrative of a Russian war correspondent whose unit, encircled behind the enemies' lines in the early days of the war, finally fought its way back to the Red Army.

Booklist 38:439 Jl 15 '42

"This book at first glance a mere recital of small incidents, gradually seizes the attention of the reader and builds up into an epic tale." Wilfrid Fleisher

+ Books p3 Jl 5 '42 650w

Cleveland Open Shelf p13 Jl '42

"Alexander Poliakov's war-diary is not only a spirited account of military exploits and feats of high courage. It also brings us closer to the Russian people, to its unconquerable soul, to the 'complete abnegation' of its men and women, which is the key to Russian resistance." Helen Iswolsky

+ Commonweal 36:378 Ag 7 '42 800w

Reviewed by Carol Thompson

Current Hist 3:254 N '42 140w

"No more thrilling story has come out of war, and nowhere is there a more graphic illustration of guerrilla tactics that have played such an important part in upsetting the Nazis. More vivid and absorbing than other 'war books,' this compact little volume—with fifty-eight fine photographs—is highly recommended." R. S. Alvarez

+ Library J 67:532 Je 1 '42 100w

"Poliakov does not mention the history or tradition of Russia's fighting forces. It is not necessary. He recounts only what he saw, and what he and his comrades did. It is an incredible story told in such a matter-of-fact manner that I frequently found myself under the impression I was reading a fairy tale." John Scott

+ Nation 155:15 Jl 4 '42 420w

Reviewed by Ralph Bates

New Repub 107:59 Jl 13 '42 120w

"The style is simple and straightforward, not particularly distinguished; the substance is vivid. It seems rather foolish of the author after describing so many hard fights to refer to the Germans as 'infamous cowards.' This is part of the stereotyped abuse of war between totalitarians. But thoughtful Germans and thoughtful Russians, one feels sure, would not use this term to characterize their opponents." W. H. Chamberlin

+ — N Y Times p14 Jl 5 '42 220w

Reviewed by Michael Karpovich

Yale R n s 32:415 winter '43 110w

POLING, DANIEL ALFRED, comp. Treasury of best-loved hymns; with their stories; and with designs by James H. Daugherty. (Pickwick press bk) 96p $2.50 Greenberg

783.9 Hymns 42-50890

Collection of thirty-three hymns, with music. Each hymn has a page of explanation and anecdote about its writing. Illustrated.

"It is the illustrations which make the book distinctive. They have power. Also, more than a touch of William Blake."

+ Christian Century 59:1496 D 2 '42 40w

"Two-column page of information and anecdote about each hymn is in language of the pulpit, and it is doubtful that it will reach children. The Daugherty illustrations in black and white and color have dignity, magnificence, and less restlessness than usual. Recommended for large collections or adult use. Smaller libraries will find satisfactory for most purposes the New Illustrated Book of Favorite Hymns (Garden City, $1), which contains fourteen of the same hymns in its total of twenty-nine." J. L. Sauer

+ Library J 68:84 Ja 15 '43 110w

"The stories, for the most part, are accurate and scholarly, as well as entertaining; and this is refreshing in an area where there are current so many apocryphal stories, so much unscholarly writing, such frequent misstatements. . . There are some stories in which Dr. Poling might well have been more circumstantial in his details. . . The illustrations with which the volume abounds give it a special distinction. These dramatic designs, highly imaginative and quite modern, aim to catch and reproduce in form and color the spirit of the great hymns." C. F. Price

+ Springf'd Republican p6 Ja 18 '43 850w

POLLOCK, CHANNING. Guide posts in chaos. 271p $2 Crowell

814 Conduct of life 42-15069

A volume of short essays on human nature and the conduct of life. Many of them first appeared as editorials in This Week. They are grouped under the following heads: Of human behavior; Home and family; On being contented; The world about us; My country, 'tis of thee.

"Their unflinching kindness will make a bad-tempered person crosser than ever, but any one with a good disposition can find something in these pages that will comfort, amuse and do him good."

Books p12 My 17 '42 200w

"The whole book is, as one would expect, wholesome, vigorous, and not sentimentally roseate."

+ N Y Times p18 My 31 '42 480w

"Whether we agree in all things with Mr. Pollock or not, we must admit that he thinks vigorously and quite fearlessly of the hundred and one things in the daily stream of our national current that affect the lives of all of us. And the fact that nearly all of these brief papers have appeared in popular magazines bears out the surmise that the mass of readers want them." H. J. Forman

+ Sat R of Lit 25:17 Ag 15 '42 400w

Wis Lib Bul 38:132 O '42

POLLOCK, KATHERINE G. Sandalio goes to town; with il. by Raffaello Busoni. 144p $1.75 Scribner

(W) 42-4728

Adventures of a ten-year-old Chilean boy, who went to Valparaiso to sell milk when the village market failed. He and his sister garlanded the family cow and the boy's own bull calf, which he had reluctantly agreed to sell. The children met both success and disaster in the city, but it all turned out very well for the family.

Booklist 38:280 Ap 1 '42

"These adventures give a ten-year-old a strong sense of having shared them in Chile itself." M. L. Becker

+ Books p8 Ap 5 '42 300w

"Katherine Pollock's jolly and engaging story about a boy who lived in Chile, and Raffaello Busoni's good pictures make Sandalio very real. . . Getting acquainted with Sandalio makes his people and their customs better known to his young American neighbors."

F. B. Sloan

+ Christian Science Monitor p11 Ap 27 '42 100w

"Recommended for readers from eight to twelve." S. J. Johnson

+ Library J 67:269 Mr 15 '42 80w

Reviewed by R. A. Hill

Library J 67:885 O 15 '42 40w

"The boy or girl who reads 'Sandalio Goes to Town' will learn many things about Chile, but the author is to be congratulated on the way these facts are never presented badly but are woven unobtrusively and naturally into the story. Raffaello Busoni's drawings have liveliness and charm and add to the drama of the tale." A. T. Eaton

+ N Y Times p10 Jl 5 '42 400w

"Sandalio himself is thoroughly likable and his wonderful scheme to sell milk right in the cow leads to entertaining adventures in the strange city of Valparaiso."

+ New Yorker 18:74 My 23 '42 80w

Wis Lib Bul 38:142 O '42

POLLOCK, THOMAS CLARK. The nature of literature; its relation to science, language and human experience. 218p $3 Princeton univ. press

801 Literature—Philosophy 42-17261

"A stimulating study of literature as a social phenomenon. Attacks the 'bricklayer' theory of scholarship, which exalts the virtues of collecting factual bricks but neglects the fundamental structural plans. Uses also the newer sciences of semantics and syntactics." Social Studies

Reviewed by G. A. Lundberg

Am Soc R 7:868 D '42 1300w

"Mr. Pollock's book is a distinguished contribution to the series of discussions of the nature and uses of language initiated by Ogden and Richards in 'The Meaning of Meaning' and continued by the semanticists. It is in fact one of the most penetrating and intelligent contributions to this discussion since the appearance of the pioneer work of Ogden and Richards."

+ Books p22 N 29 '42 500w

Reviewed by James Orrick

Nation 155:422 O 24 '42 360w

"The author drives for a theory of literature as distinguished from literary criticism. Mr. Pollock is trying to put the horse before the cart and, in this respect, he offers a scholarly, logical approach."

+ New Repub 107:94 Jl 20 '42 60w

+ Social Studies 33:287 O '42 40w

POLYAK, STEPHEN. The retina. 607p 100pl $10 Univ. of Chicago press [60s Cambridge]

611.843 Retina 41-24048

"The anatomy and the histology of the retina in man, ape, and monkey, including the consideration of visual functions, the history of physiological optics, and the histological laboratory technique." (Subtitle) The author is an associate professor of anatomy at the University of Chicago. Bibliography. Index.

"This is a highly commendable book that will be of value to anyone interested in the problems of vision. It undoubtedly will become a standard source and reference work on the anatomy and histology of the human retina. The text is a scholarly approach to the subject, in that the growth of knowledge concerning the complex structure of the retina is traced and brought up to date, including the results of original research by the author. . . Especially to recommend the book are the 129 pages of an excellent bibliography, a summary of the dimensions of the retinal structures, and finally, the 100 figures and illustrations, which are placed together at the back of the book." K. N. Ogle

POLYAK, STEPHEN—Continued
+ R of Scientific Instruments 13:462 O '42 1400w

"This latest addition to the series of University of Chicago Monographs in Medicine is a technical study that will prove of considerable interest to many a 'general reader' as well as to the specialist in ophthalmology. Based largely on Dr. Polyak's own research during the last nine years, the sumptuously illustrated treatise deals primarily with the minute structure of the human and simian retina and the modes of integration of the various nerve cells into a composite texture. . . It is very probable that he has opened a new road 'along which a better understanding of the nervous system in general, and of the visual system in particular, may be achieved.'" + Scientific Bk Club R 12:4 N '41 180w

POOLE, GRACE (MORRISON) (MRS H. GILBERT REYNOLDS). Be proud of women; a biographical sketch of [the author] and nineteen of her lectures, by Bessie Wixon, 160p $1.50 Dorrance

396 Women 42-2478

"A brief biographical sketch of Grace Morrison Poole (now Mrs H. G. Reynolds), former president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, and the text of nineteen of her addresses, probably condensed for they also are very brief." Christian Century

Christian Century 59:84 Ja 21 '42 40w
Springf'd Republican p7e Ja 18 '42 90w

POPE, FRANCIS, and OTIS, ARTHUR SINTON. Elements of aeronautics, 660p il maps $3.75; school ed $3.40 World bk. [10s 6d Har-rap]

629.13 Aeronautics [42-543]

"A textbook of high school grade which states that it prepares students for the Civil aeronautics authority examination. First published in 1941 by World book company, reissued by Putnam with no statement of change." (Booklist) Bibliography. Index.

Booklist 39:142 D 15 '42
Library J 67:1067 D 1 '42 10w

POPE, LISTON. Millhands and preachers; a study of Gastonia. 369p $4 Yale univ. press
261 Church and labor. Gaston county, North Carolina A42-2378

A study of the relations between the churches, the mill owners and the mill workers during the time of the labor troubles in Gaston County, South Carolina, in 1929. The author is assistant professor of social ethics at the Yale University Divinity School. Bibliography. Index.

"Obviously, such a study is not statistical, but there is evidence of scholarly examination of available data and there is a considerable body of factual data presented to support the descriptive material. The pages are filled with evidences of painstaking field work—interviews with mill managers, church leaders, workers, strike leaders and others. There are many direct quotations from these sources which add color and interest, but do not impede the analysis of the basic issues. From the standpoints of content, method and presentation, this is one of the best books of its type which has come to this reviewer's attention." Lois MacDonald

+ Am Econ R 32:640 S '42 1300w

Reviewed by S. H. Hobbs, Jr.
Am Soc R 7:733 O '42 700w

Reviewed by M. L. Ely
+ Ann Am Acad 223:251 S '42 600w

"This is a thorough and well documented piece of social research which serious students of the function and freedom of the church and of the relation of labor to industry can not afford to miss."

+ Christian Century 59:634 My 13 '42 110w

"The significance of this study cannot be over-estimated. It is the story of every parish in our country. It is the record of most clergymen. It is a laboratory analysis of what is taking place today on a national scale under the name of war, and a warning of what will occur in the post-war reconstruction when federal control will be felt in every town and hamlet. It is the portrayal of the terrible consequences of mistaking the voice of the status quo for the voice of God." C. L. Willard, Jr.

+ Churchman 156:16 Ag 1 '42 1000w

Reviewed by A. W. Taylor
J Religion 23:69 Ja '43 1300w

"Should be of interest to anyone concerned with role of church in the face of economic and sociological change. Written for student, not for general reader." R. D. Minnich

+ Library J 67:367 Ap 15 '42 70w

Reviewed by S. C. Mitchell
Social Forces 21:253 D '42 650w

POPKIN, MRS ZELDA. No crime for a lady; a Mary Carner mystery. 303p $2 Lippincott
42-19352

Detective story.

Reviewed by Will Cuppy
Books p20 S 13 '42 200w

"Good."

+ Boston Globe p19 S 9 '42 40w

N Y Times p10 S 13 '42 100w

"Very satisfactory."

+ New Yorker 18:72 S 19 '42 90w

"Good job."

+ Sat R of Lit 25:30 S 19 '42 40w

PORTER, CATHERINE LUCY. Crisis in the Philippines; issued under the auspices of the Am. council of the Inst. of Pacific relations, incorporated, 162p maps $1.50 Knopf

991.4 Philippine Islands. World war, 1939—
Philippine Islands (W) 42-4996

Revised and amplified from a pamphlet published by the Institute of Pacific relations in 1941. Traces Philippine history; discusses the people—their language, racial make-up, education, and loyalties; politics and government; resources; trade; preparations for war; and probable future. Maps. Bibliography. Index.

Booklist 38:272 Ap 1 '42

"This is a handy reference book which covers a wide variety of subjects concisely. It is not easy or light reading but it contains a fund of information which helps to provide a true perspective of the Philippines in the picture of the Far East and in relation to the American war effort." Wilfrid Fleisher

+ Books p4 Mr 15 '42 380w

"'Crisis in the Philippines' is a timely little volume which abstracts much of the information recently presented by other studies of the same subject. It is well done and, within its scope, extremely rich in factual analysis." J. H. Powers

+ Boston Globe p19 Mr 11 '42 70w

Cleveland Open Shelf p5 Mr '42

Reviewed by R. G. Woolbert
Foreign Affairs 20:785 Jl '42 10w

"The fifty pages on the preparations for war and the three weeks following Pearl Harbor are good, but most of the story is now well known. . . The war coverage of the Porter book gives it the advantage over the others and should make it more useful now." R. S. Alvarez

+ Library J 67:182 F 15 '42 70w

"It is a little book, prepared in haste but evidently out of thorough previous study of the subject. In its background material it obviously could not compete with Dr. Joseph Ralston Hayden's recent 'The Philippines: A Study of National Development,' for Dr. Hayden threw into the nearly one thousand pages of his text the results of many years of observation and experience. But Miss Porter has two advantages: first, she is able to carry the narrative further than Dr. Hayden could at his time of going to press; second, her handbook can be read in two hours or so by those whose time is limited. The book is not designed for entertainment but for conveying information. This it does admirably." R. L. Duffus

+ N Y Times p3 Mr 22 '42 1300w

Reviewed by E. O. Hauser

Survey G 31:256 My '42 70w

PORTER, JANE. Buffy Buffalo; pictures by Janet Smalley. 64p $2 Morrow

42-17150

Picture story book for grades two to four. It describes the adventures of a buffalo calf which got separated from the herd and spent a summer in an Indian camp. When fall came the little buffalo ran off and discovered his own herd again.

Booklist 39:17 S '42

"Satisfactory in text, illustrations, and format for children from six to nine, but price seems high for so slight a book." E. G. Mullan
Library J 67:687 Ag '42 70w

"This is a friendly little tale, with excitement and suspense on the little child's level, and an ending eminently satisfactory to the 4 to 6 year old. The book is pleasingly designed." A. T. Eaton

+ N Y Times p11 S 27 '42 120w

PORTER, ROY P. Uncensored France; an eyewitness account of France under the occupation. 305p $2.75 Dial press

940.5344 France—History—German occupation, 1940— (W) 42-15675

The author was an Associated Press correspondent in Paris at the time of the fall of France and he remained there until September 1941, when he visited Vichy briefly before coming home to the United States. His book contains chapters on Parisian life under the New Order, on sabotage, assassinations and reprisals, on French politics, and on Petain and on Laval. Petain he says may be a patriot, may be a traitor, but he seems to incline toward the first view which he says is also the view of most Frenchmen.

"There is a good deal of between-the-lines reading in this book, and it is sad reading. If you want to know what manner of brute the triumphant Epoque can be, however suave his manner and however logical his actions, you have only to read the testimony of this able and fair-minded American witness." R. E. Danielson

+ Atlantic JI '42 250w

Booklist 38:424 JI 1 '42

"Mr. Porter's book makes no attempt to get below the surface of things, but he is a good reporter with a keen eye for the picturesque. He has painted a vivid picture of life in a country which once was almost as well known to Americans as their own, but which now seems as remote as Timbuctoo." John Elliott

+ Books p3 Je 14 '42 1150w

"As a document on the behavior of the Germans the volume is invaluable. As a study of French character under the stress of enormous difficulties, it possesses the advantage of an almost clinical capacity for observation." J. H. Powers

+ Boston Globe p19 My 13 '42 230w

"Mr. Porter, Associated Press correspondent, in occupied France, from 1937 till a few months ago, writes with a refreshing but telling directness about the things he himself has seen. His stories are brisk and clipped in style, and they ring true." J. J. Knights

+ Canadian Forum 22:157 Ag '42 210w

Cleveland Open Shelf p9 My '42

New Repub 107:150 Ag 3 '42 80w

"Its comprehensive survey and easy anecdotal style make this an excellent report; and there is illumination in the nostalgia of its epilogue."

+ N Y Times p24 Je 7 '42 700w

Reviewed by Leo Gershoy

Yale R n s 31:835 summer '42 280w

PORTERFIELD, AUSTIN L. Creative factors in scientific research. 282p $3.50 Duke univ. [21s Cambridge]

501.8 Science—Methodology. Scientists. Social psychology 41-24676

"A social psychology of scientific knowledge studying the interplay of psychological and cultural factors in science with emphasis upon imagination." (Subtitle) Indexes.

"It can be safely predicted that Dr. Porterfield's book will be the subject of widespread discussion among sociologists. And it is also certain to be highly praised by a large part of the profession—probably the largest part—while it is severely criticized by another part which has been moving in the direction of the methods and point of view of the natural sciences. However, all readers will agree that the study is thorough and makes a distinct contribution." Mapheus Smith

Am Soc R 7:437 Je '42 700w

Reviewed by G. A. Lundberg

Ann Am Acad 220:275 Mr '42 700w

Reviewed by L. L. Bernard

Social Forces 21:245 D '42 700w

PORTWAY, DONALD. Military science to-day; foreword by J. H. Beith (Ian Hay). (Pageant of progress ser) 157p il $1.75 (4s 6d) Oxford

355 Military art and science 41-8406

"The various branches of military activity, involving scientific principles, and their development as described by Colonel Portway include the following: Mechanization, military tactics, artillery, signaling, field engineering and mining, fortification and coast defense, chemical and air war. Much of the book, we are told, was written before the outbreak of the present struggle, and one can see from its contents that it was finished before the campaign of 1940 in Western Europe began." N Y Times

Reviewed by R. G. Woolbert

Foreign Affairs 20:374 Ja '42

"The fact that obviously not all the lessons of this war which have now been brought home to us found their way into a volume completed in the first year of the war can [not] detract from its great value as a source of information of a sort that is little, if at all, current outside professional circles. Yet, what we are being told of the amazing invention which revolutionized anti-aircraft gunnery, of means of protection against war gases and air bombs, of how sound is located, how aircraft and submarines are spotted, what effects high explosives have on buildings and what measures should be taken to protect them—all these and many other details unquestionably are not merely of interest to professionals. To add to that, all the subjects are treated in a way which makes the book very clear and readable." A. M. Nikolaieff

+ N Y Times p4 Ja 4 '42 600w

"To the soldier who wants to know something about the work and nature of arms other than his own this book should prove of the highest value, and considering how well produced and illustrated it is its price is very moderate."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p419 Ag 31 '40 550w

POTEAT, EDWIN MCNEILL. These shared His power; studies in the days following the resurrection of Jesus. 180p $1.75 Harper

232.97 Jesus Christ—Friends and associates 42-2524

The third in a series of volumes which deal with Jesus' friends, associates, disciples and contemporaries. The figures chosen this time come from the period following the resurrection and include Simon Peter, Mary Magdala, Thomas, and Saul of Tarsus.

POTEAT, E. M.—Continued

"The book is one of unequal merit. While it contains many passages and statements which are definitely helpful and suggestive, at the same time some readers will feel that legend and imagination are too fully drawn upon, even to the extent of doing violence in certain instances to the Gospel record." T. L. L.

+ Christian Science Monitor p10 Ap 18 '42 600w

"This book is a worthy completion of the trilogy in which the author has presented the religious experiences of those who shared Jesus' Passion, his Cross, and his Power." W. L. Caswell

+ Churchman 156:16 F 15 '42 180w

Reviewed by A. N. Wilder
Crozer Q 19:146 Ap '42 800w

POTTER, DAVID MORRIS. Lincoln and his party in the secession crisis. 408p $3.75 Yale univ. press

973.71 U.S.—Politics and government—Civil war. Lincoln, Abraham. Secession. Republican party A42-4321

Study of the political background of the Civil war, stressing the critical months between the date of Lincoln's election and the attack on Fort Sumter. Bibliographical note. Index.

Reviewed by T. H. Williams
Am Pol Sci R 36:1187 D '42 300w

"Professor Potter's book will offend Northern patriots because of its blunt and honest handling of Abraham Lincoln; it will in like manner, offend unreconstructed Southerners because of its treatment of the secession group. Scholars will welcome it as another sound contribution to a better understanding of the Civil War crisis." Avery Craven

+ Books p4 S 27 '42 850w

"Dr. Potter concludes that the tragedy of civil war finally came because of a lack of understanding and generosity in the north, and a failure of ordinary prudence and sense of responsibility among the politicians of the lower south. His study merits respectful consideration. In any library on the Civil War it should stand beside Dr. T. Harry Williams' Lincoln and the Radicals, published last year." Paul Hutchinson

Christian Century 59:1153 S 23 '42 650w
Christian Science Monitor p18 O 16 '42 230w

"Whether or not the Civil War might have been avoided is a question which Dr. Potter refrains from answering. It is a question constantly posed by his material, and the author's declaration of opinion might have strengthened his book and resolved some of his estimates. But the material is excellently presented, and Dr. Potter's position as the sworn enemy of hindsight lends a freshness and illumination to the treatment." Margaret Leech

Nation 155:454 O 31 '42 420w

Reviewed by T. R. Hay
N Y Times p5 S 27 '42 400w

POTTER, JEAN CLARK. Alaska under arms. 200p $2 Macmillan

917.98 Alaska. World war, 1939—Alaska. U.S.—Defenses (W) 42-36298

"Jean Potter has been on the research staff of 'Fortune' magazine since 1936. . . This book represents a lot of research into the background of Alaska, supplemented and brought up to date by intensive travel and interviews in that fabulous land." Books

Booklist 39:30 O 1 '42

Reviewed by Joseph Driscoll
Books p5 S 20 '42 1200w

"The book is so full of information vitally interesting in the present year, and perhaps destined to be still more so in 1943, that—given more maps—it would take rank as required reading."

+ Cath World 156:370 D '42 290w
Cleveland Open Shelf p22 N '42

Reviewed by Katharine Shorey
Library J 67:681 Ag '42 100w

Reviewed by Frederick Graham
N Y Times p7 O 4 '42 1000w

"Breezy, not too sub-surface spot reporting."

New Yorker 18:71 S 19 '42 40w

Pratt p17 D '42

Spring'd Republican p8 N 11 '42 550w
Time 40:100 O 12 '42 550w

Wis Lib Bul 38:161 N '42

POTTLE, FREDERICK ALBERT. Idiom of poetry. 139p $2 Cornell univ. press

808.1 Poetry 41-26967

"A series of six lectures delivered last year at Cornell by a professor of English from Yale. They are a more or less technical discussion of the theory of poetry and the theory of criticism." Cath World

Reviewed by Katherine Brégy
Cath World 155:120 Ap '42 360w

"I think it is one of the wisest books on literary criticism ever written, and that no one should discuss poetic values again without reading it." Max Eastman

+ N Y Times p4 Mr 29 '42 800w

"Professor Pottle's reduction of the poetic act to sensibility leads him, also, in more than one place to separate unduly the expressive power of the poet from the exercise of the intellectual and moral faculties and even to suggest that the latter are inimical to the former and not merely subordinate to or inherent in it. But as a corrective to doctrinaire criticism based on rigid academic standards his argument is refreshingly vital and more often valid than not."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p406 Ag 15 '42 650w

Reviewed by W. M. Sale, Jr.
Yale R n s 31:859 summer '42 1000w

POUND, ROSCOE. Appellate procedure in civil cases. 431p $5 Little

347.9 Appellate procedure. Civil procedure 42-1081

"After briefly sketching the scope and purpose of review in civil proceedings, the book presents an historical survey of judicial review commencing with Roman Law and proceeding through Canon Law and Germanic Law to the Eighteenth Century period in England. This is followed by extensive chapters on 'Appellate Procedure in England in the Eighteenth Century', 'Review and Appellate Procedure in the Colonies', 'Appellate Procedure in the United States to the End of the Nineteenth Century' and 'Improvements in the Present Century'. In a final chapter, the author sets forth his conclusions and suggestions for a more effective system of review." Columbia Law R

"Even a busy attorney should spend the time necessary for a careful reading of this book. Only too frequently is the bar, and also the bench, inclined to sit back blindly content with the system under which courts have been operating, or too lethargic to make a move to change it. To such members of the bench and bar Professor Pound's book will be an instructive and thought-provoking stimulus, for one cannot ignore the suggestions which this able teacher and scholar has to make with respect to our appellate procedure. To those who are alive to the problem, the book affords an excellent starting point for a real movement for appellate revision." G. M. Moscovitz

+ Columbia Law R 42:504 Mr '42 1100w

"It is, indeed, a joy, in the vast tide of law books spawned on the long-suffering American lawyers, to find such a volume as the one under review. In it the author displays a rich and ripe scholarship, a positive genius for philosophical grasp, a keen ability of envisaging what was, in its essential relation to what is and what is to be, and last (but very far from least) a power of acute analysis based on sweeping but incisive generalizations. If there be an American lawyer who can say with even a gleam of honesty: 'I read this book and learned little or nothing I did not already know,' that lawyer is forsooth an object of envy. Frankly, this reviewer confidently believes 'There ain't no such animal.'" A. M. Dobie

+ Harvard Law R 55:1235 My '42 1050w

POUND, ROSCOE. Social control through law. 138p $2 Yale univ. press

340.1 Law—Philosophy A42-3286

Four lectures by the former dean of Harvard law school. In them the author discusses what the law has been, what it is, and what it may become. Contents: Civilization and social control; What is law? The task of law; The problem of values. Index.

"The particular charm of this and the other works of Pound's is the inexhaustible knowledge and experience which give color to every page. Every statement is exemplified by instances of actual legal practice and all theoretical assertions are given their proper place in the body of thoughts on legal philosophy." Robert Neuner

+ Am Soc R 7:874 D '42 700w

"Both jurists and sociologists will find the little volume very stimulating; it certainly will help to establish greater understanding between them." N. S. Timasheff

+ Ann Am Acad 223:256 S '42 450w

Christian Century 59:362 Jl 8 '42 80w

Harvard Law R 56:680 Ja '43 410w

"Those familiar with the writings of Dean Pound will find here the characteristic themes expressed with the usual felicity that one has come to expect from Dean Pound's pen. Two factors give this book its special flavor. The materials of contemporary continental writers, especially of those who have come to our shores in recent years, enter as an object of attention and as a partial influence upon Dean Pound's thoughts and expressions. They have helped him to clarify some of his own distinctions. . . The second factor which characterizes this book is the special concern Dean Pound here shows for distinguishing his own position from that of the realists in law. Unfortunately, many of his criticisms are either irrelevant or not fair." E. N. Garland

+ J Philos 39:559 S 24 '42 450w

Reviewed by Chester Rohrlach
N Y Times p20 Ag 30 '42 700w

Reviewed by Harvey Pinney
Social Forces 21:254 D '42 280w

Reviewed by K. N. Llewellyn
Survey G 31:437 O '42 140w

POUND, ROSCOE; MCILWAIN, CHARLES HOWARD, and NICHOLS, ROY FRANKLIN. Federalism as a democratic process; essays. 90p $1.25 Rutgers univ. press

342.73 Federal government. U.S.—Constitutional history 42-9147

"The several essays contained in Federalism as a Democratic Process were delivered at the recent anniversary celebration of Rutgers University. In the first of them Dean Pound argues that a federal policy is necessarily based on the rule of law. . . Professor McIlwain discusses the American dominion status argument of 1774, and raises the question whether there is not some possible connection between the British 'federal' problem of the eighteenth century and the later development of American federalism. Professor Roy F. Nichols' paper is entitled 'Federalism versus Democracy. The Significance of the Civil War in the History of United States Federalism,' but it deals with the States' rights problem before the Civil War. . . There are two brief commentaries. Professor Coker expresses his doubts whether there is any connection between the dominion status theory and problem and the character of federal government as it was subsequently developed. Professor Corwin is principally concerned with the defects of Jeffersonian localism, with the desirability of a nationalistic interpretation of the federal structure." New Eng Q

"Federalism as a Democratic Process lacks the unity of single authorship. . . Yet it is stimulating, as the names of the collaborators would suggest; and not less so because the three essays are supplemented by commentaries on the part of Professors Corwin of Princeton and Coker of Yale." E. M. Sait

+ Am Hist R 48:155 O '42 70w

Reviewed by W. S. Carpenter

Am Pol Sci R 36:778 Ag '42 300w

New Eng Q 15:571 S '42 280w

POWELL, DAWN. A time to be born. 334p $2.75 Scribner

(W) 42-21078

A satirical novel of Manhattan life in the last years before the coming of war. The story follows the career of Amanda Keeler, sensationally successful novelist, and her attempts to get what she wanted—which was, quite simply, Everything.

"It isn't the plot, joyous as it is, which is the essence of this bitingly clever story. It is the stinging characterization of a fraud, the portrait of a woman who ruthlessly picks the brains of others and presents the results as the product of her own genius." Rose Feld

+ Books p5 S 6 '42 1050w

Boston Globe p19 S 23 '42 150w

"It all adds up to a first-rate satiric talent, and one wonders what went wrong for 'A Time to Be Born' to fall apart as it does in the middle. Perhaps it is because there is no proper satiric tradition nowadays for Miss Powell to work in; so that she loses heart and dubs in, as a backdrop to her satire, the kind of love story—nice little small-town girl wins away the great big tough newspaperman from the glamorous big-time beauty—that she would be the first to ridicule. At any rate, the wee note of cynicism she introduces into her love idyl doesn't save it." Diana Trilling

+ Nation 155:243 S 19 '42 360w

"Dawn Powell's new book maintains and probably tops her record for writing very enjoyable books about very disagreeable people. Her wit is sharp, shrewd and biting, and it finds a pretty mark in the stuffed shirts, male and female, of 'A Time to Be Born.'" Beatrice Sherman

+ N Y Times p6 S 6 '42 900w

"The book is enormously funny and the humor, which could easily have been an end in itself, manages to do some very neat blasting, not only of the stuffed shirts and careerists who are the main characters but of pretentiousness in general. The material is of the kind that lends itself to slick, urbane writing, which the author avoids with a sort of mocking wisdom."

+ New Yorker 18:59 S 5 '42 90w

Pratt p12 D '42

Time 40:115 S 7 '42 450w

POWERS, MARGARET. Book of little crafts. 115p il $2.50 Manual arts 680 Handicraft. Education of children

42-6709

"Illustrated instructions for simple crafts for small children, using materials that are inexpensive and usually easily obtainable." Booklist

Booklist 38:324 My 1 '42

"All parents may not be so enthusiastic about A Book of Little Crafts when its quieter suggestions, like printing with potatoes or icing cookies, lead up to experiments with sounds and percussion instruments. As a spray gun and a dye kettle also have dangerous implications, we think the book would be best for a household with a barn."

POWERS, MARGARET—Continued

Cath World 156:375 D '42 50w

Reviewed by Marian Herr

Library J 67:1107 D 15 '42 90w

School & Society 56:420 O 31 '42 20w

"A truly delightful book about little crafts, forty avenues to fun which children may follow. Almost every craft considered in this book can be used in different versions, which encourages the child to develop other crafts himself."

+ School Arts 42:12a F '43 80w

Springf'd Republican p7e D 27 '42 60w

POZNER, VLADIMIR, Edge of the sword; tr. from the French by Haakon M. Chevalier. 342p $2.50 Viking

(W) 42-15425

"In describing the Nazi invasion of France, Mr. Pozner concerns himself, not with the fate of the privileged folk who lost their privileges, but with the soldiers who lost their regiments and the families who lost their homes. This is the motivating theme of his book. Shuttling from the Belgian front to the exodus from Paris and finally to the region of the Loire where the last stand was to have been taken, the author follows various men from one scattered regiment." Books

Booklist 38:442 J1 15 '42

"The Edge of the Sword' is deeply graven in the steel of bitterness. But the bitterness is by no means of the destructive kind, for Mr. Pozner still keeps a faith. He believes in the men who rode the tank, in the men who drove the trucks, in the stubborn, fleeing families. He believes in the plain folk of France and in their final victory." Virgilia Sapieha

+ Books p3 My 17 '42 700w

Cleveland Open Shelf p12 My '42

"From the dust jacket [it] can be learned that Pozner has contributed to Harper's, Town and Country, The Nation, the New Republic, the American Mercury, the Forum, as well as to most of the leading periodicals of Europe. What the nature of these contributions was I do not know, but having read 'The Edge of the Sword' I do know that I want to miss nothing Pozner writes from now on. The quality of truth is alone a rare enough thing, but when this truth is set down by a gifted and subtle stylist we are getting very close to the best that literature can give. I have read the book with satisfaction and with love—with satisfaction because the various themes of the plot make good and moving reading, and with love for the author's clarity of vision, and for the people of whom he writes." Kay Boyle

+ Nation 154:604 My 23 '42 900w

"The French retreat is an incomparable subject, but one that seems to loom above the art of the novel. Mr. Pozner, however, succeeds in rising to the height of his subject, and that with all simplicity, by having lived intensely what others had merely suffered. Or perhaps the truth is that he finds the right words and the right details to express what everyone must have been feeling." Heinrich Mann

+ New Repub 106:804 Je 8 '42 800w

"Though meant as a novel and written in the third person, 'The Edge of the Sword' reads quite like a diary. With striking simplicity Pozner relates what he has seen and felt. His story possesses the authentic ring of Habes's book and the moving directness of Hans Sahl's poems about the French débâcle. . . . The chapter about Jacqueline is perhaps the most powerful in the story and I can think of no recent war book that quite approaches the depth of feeling of this particular scene." Marianne Hauser

+ N Y Times p6 My 17 '42 700w

Reviewed by Clifton Fadiman

New Yorker 18:64 My 30 '42 320w

"With a hard, agate-like brilliance of style, a bald notation of fact, and an oblique approach all strangely reminiscent of Hemingway, Vladimir Pozner evokes the six weeks of confusion in France just before the collapse of June, 1940. There is nothing new about the subject matter of 'The Edge of the Sword,' there is no clarification of the reasons for France's downfall, but this book is decidedly different from its host of predecessors in two important respects. In mood, this volume is neither lyric nor epic, but dramatic, sometimes with an over-tone of Olympian humor; and its emphasis is not political, but narrative. As narrative, it is a virtuosic performance." Lon Tinkle

+ Sat R of Lit 25:6 My 30 '42 700w

PRATT, FLETCHER. What the citizen should know about modern war; il. by André Jandot. 184p $2.50 Norton

355.03 Military art and science—Dictionaries. Naval art and science—Dictionaries (W) 42-12124

An alphabetical arrangement of methods, words and terms in modern warfare with definitions or descriptions of one sentence to a page in length.

Booklist 38:342 My 15 '42

Bookmark 3:5 My '42

"To the layman who is insufficiently read to escape confusion—and who of us can claim omniscience in military affairs—Mr. Pratt's presentation will be helpful and illuminating. From 'Able Seaman' to 'Y-gun' there is a range of data covering every term in current use." P. J. Searles

+ Books p11 My 17 '42 350w

"It is well done, valuable to any one reading the contemporary press, and though it does not pretend to the historical background or sweeping scope of Mr. Newman's volume, its arrangement and illustrations are a help to the citizen of our troubled times." H. W. Baldwin

+ N Y Times p13 My 17 '42 100w

New Yorker 18:71 My 2 '42 50w

Reviewed by J. I. Greene

Sat R of Lit 25:11 J1 4 '42 160w

PRATT, FLETCHER, and DE CAMP, LYON SPRAGUE. Land of unreason. 260,18p il $2.50 Holt

42-15547

A fantastic tale with an underlying theme of satiric allegory. Fred Barber of the American diplomatic service in England, is recuperating from a head wound received in an air raid when he, in fun, substitutes whiskey for the milk put out for the Little Folk in Midsummer's Night. In consequence he is transferred to Fairyland and this book relates the tale of his adventures in following out the orders of King Oberon.

"As the author remarks: 'As he lay down it occurred to him that there was something particularly undreamlike in falling asleep in a dream; and that going calmly to sleep was hardly in tune with any form of insanity.' This gave him a fine sense of satisfaction. . . . That is the very spirit of this strange book, 'Land of Unreason.'" Donald Corley

+ Books p8 J1 5 '42 300w

Nation 155:67 J1 13 '42 120w

"The book may be read and enjoyed as a fantastic fairy tale, something after the fashion of a combination of 'Alice in Wonderland' and 'A Yankee at the Court of King Arthur.' It is fun that way, with the suspense of a mystery story in its uncertainty as to whether Barber will succeed in his mission, with sly humorous touches and with occasional exciting episodes. . . . There is obvious symbolism or allegory in the book, too, for those who want to find it—and it's fairly obvious. . . . The allegory doesn't get in the way of the story, however, and the 'Land of Unreason' remains a robust fantasy, whether or not you want to tack down into place each shred of its second meaning." Beatrice Sherman

+ N Y Times p20 Je 28 '42 550w

"An amusing tale, with some pertinent allegory, but now and then rather overdone."

+ New Yorker 18:62 Je 27 '42 80w

"There are humor and suspense in these pages and an easy erudition. There is also an underlying but unmistakable commentary on the world of today and its incessant 'shapings.' Both Mr. Pratt and Mr. de Camp have a robust and ready wit, a well developed sense of the climatic, and an exhaustive knowledge of the Land of All Make-believe. This streamlined, adult, 1942 glimpse of Oz is perfect hot-weather reading." Leo Lerman

+ Sat R of Lit 25:17 Ag 8 '42 400w

PRATT, JOHN BARNES. Personal recollections, sixty years of book publishing. 67p il 50c Barnes, A.S.

B or 92 Publishers and publishing 42-13614

"Brief reminiscences of a long and honorable career. Mr. Pratt is a nephew of A. S. Barnes, the founder of the great firm to which he has given a lifetime of service." Christian Century

Christian Century 55:601 My 6 '42 30w

School & Society 55:484 Ap 25 '42 10w

PRATT, THEODORE (TIMOTHY BRACE, pseud). Mr Limpet; drawings by Garrett Price. 144p $1.75 Knopf

(W) 42-104

Satirical novel about a mild little New York bookkeeper, who looked much like a fish, except that he wore spectacles. On a day of spiritual zero Mr Limpet fell into the water and quickly turned into a fish, but managed to retain his glasses. In his fish existence Mr Limpet became an asset to the government, thru his priceless ability to detect submarines, and presently was rewarded with the rank of lieutenant.

Booklist 38:210 F 15 '42

Bookmark 3:17 Mr '42

"A merry and uninhibited fantasy which you may read merely for amusement or into which you may read—with additional zest—certain implications." George Conrad

+ Books p8 Ja 18 '42 300w

"Absorbing, well-written social satire... Recommended for library purchase." F. A. Boyle

+ Library J 66:1094 D 15 '41 60w

"Mr. Pratt's fish story is spontaneous and lively, in quite as happy vein as his New Yorker pieces. The Garrett Price illustrations are a thoroughly humorous accompaniment. The meatiest, though perhaps not the funniest, is the heading for Chapter I, showing the steps in the evolution of fish into Mr. Limpet, and the return journey in one big splash." B. S.

+ N Y Times p19 Ja 18 '42 400w

New Yorker 17:67 Ja 24 '42 40w

"The hilarity engendered by Mr Pratt's crisp prose is considerably heightened by Garrett Price's inimitable cartoons. High spot is the talk between Mr Limpet and Adolf Hitler wherein the fuhrer offers him the Caspian, Mediterranean and Atlantic to come over to the Nazi side."

+ Spring'd Republican p7e Ja 18 '42 250w

PRATT, WALLACE EVERETT. Oil in the earth. 105p $1 Univ. of Kan.

553.28 Petroleum—Geology. Petroleum industry and trade 42-13392

"Four lectures delivered to geology students at the University of Kansas, centering around the thesis that petroleum is almost everywhere and that the Axis nations lack the peculiar American psychology it takes to find it, and consequently have to go to war to get it." New Repub

Booklist 39:5 S '42

"Whatever may be said of his generalization, the book is full of pungent facts and is an unusual study in the history of American individualism."

New Repub 107:585 N 2 '42 60w

PRENTICE, EZRA PARMALEE. American dairy cattle; their past and future; with chapters on dairy cattle in America. by Ernest L. Anthony [and others]. 453p il $3 Harper

636.2 Cattle

42-13689

"A history of dairy cattle, beginning with their origins in Europe and bringing the development down to the present day. Interesting illustrations in color from old prints." (Wis Lib Bul) Index.

Reviewed by P. M. Wagner

Books p21 S 13 '42 1500w

Wis Lib Bul 38:117 Jl '42

PRESCOTT, ARTHUR TAYLOR, comp. Drafting the federal Constitution. 838p $5.50 La. state univ. press

342.73 U.S. Constitution. U.S.—Constitutional history 41-18407

This book contains "a rearrangement of Madison's notes, giving consecutive developments of provisions in the Constitution of the United States, supplemented by documents pertaining to the Philadelphia convention and to ratification processes, and including insertions by the compiler." (Subtitle)

"Professor Prescott's work will be extremely useful for reference purposes. In particular, undergraduate students will find his brief explanations helpful guides toward a preliminary examination of American constitutional government." A. L. Powell

+ Am Pol Sci R 36:150 F '42 380w

"Much industry, patience, and skill have gone into this compilation, and it should greatly facilitate the study of the formation of the Constitution. Mr. Prescott has placed students deeply in his debt." J. B. Sanders

+ Ann Am Acad 219:186 Ja '42 550w

"The selections have been carefully made. So far as the reviewer has checked the passages from the several texts, they have been copied with scrupulous regard for accurate transcription, except that the text has been modernized—a perfectly permissible practice. The explanatory notes and summaries are intelligent and to the point. It must be evident from the summary given, however, that this is not a contribution to creative scholarship. The work contains nothing new beyond the editor's summaries, which are conservative and on the whole wise. It is a teacher's plan, based on selection and emphasis. It contains suggestions worthy of consideration by every other teacher, but as a whole will be serviceable only to the extent that the user's interpretation coincides with that of the editor. The work is reliable, but the method followed involves rearrangement and omissions. Accordingly, when the student or reader differs with the editor, he will have to turn to the sources from which this work has been compiled." Max Farrand

+ — Harvard Law R 55:705 F '42 700w

"Strongly recommended."

+ New Repub 105:446 O 6 '41 60w

PRESTON, RALPH CLAUDIUS. Children's reactions to a contemporary war situation. 96p $1.60 Teachers college

136.7 Child study. War

42-9207

"This study proposes to analyze the reactions of children to a foreign war situation. Many of the findings are treated statistically, to make possible comparisons between groups differing in age, sex, and other characteristics. Two devices were used to obtain the children's reactions—a formal group test and a personal interview." (Intro) Bibliography.

School & Society 55:400 Ap 4 '42 70w

Social Studies 33:240 My '42 30w

PRICE, MRS LITA, and BONNET, HARRIET. How to manage without a maid; il. by Elizabeth Dodds. 220p $1.75 Bobbs

640 Home economics (W) 42-8020

Practical advice on housekeeping in the maidless establishment. The advice is on timing work, using mechanical aids, cooking, organizing meals, cleaning, laundry, guests, help from the family, etc. Index.

Booklist 38:304 Ap 15 '42

"The experienced authors of a practical work, 'Maidcraft,' do not attempt the impossible in this more timely guide: they show only how to 'manage' without any maid at all. But they do it sensibly, and in such detail that the impending disappearance of domestic help need not unduly frighten any one."

+ Books p14 Ap 5 '42 100w

PRICE, LOUISE. Creative group work on the campus; a developmental study of certain aspects of student life. 437p $3.25 Teachers college

371.8 Group work. Stephens college, Columbia, Missouri. Stanford university

42-1258

Study of some aspects of social conditions and life among students in two American colleges: Stephens college and Stanford university. "Part I presents examples of developments in creative group work in the larger culture and certain theoretical considerations in philosophy and social psychology which underlie the operation of group work in student life. . . Part II is concerned with the presentation of empirical data gathered by the investigator in two detailed developmental studies made at Stephens College and Stanford University. . . Part III of the study is concerned with a re-examination of the examples and the theory set forth in Part I in the light of the processes and procedures described in Part II. The study will have especial value for personnel officers interested in experimenting with the various factors in student culture as these relate to individual development." (Chapter I, p4) Bibliography. Index.

"The author is to be criticized for what she omits rather than for anything she commits. Progressive education and social work combine to make her see the college merely as a place of mutual adjustment among students and faculty. There is no emphasis on the principal task, that of fitting students to participate in a complex society by transmitting to them a rich social heritage. If half the attention given to problems of dating, grooming, and extra-curricular activities were turned to helping students understand the importance of what they are learning, more confidence could be felt in the movement for group work on the campus." R. C. Angell

Am J Soc 48:154 Jl '42 230w

J Home Econ 34:119 F '42 70w

School & Society 54:452 N 15 '41 30w

Social Studies 33:47 Ja '42 30w

"This is a really valuable piece of literature for social workers, especially group workers, and for all in position to influence student life on the campus. It points the way to desirable personnel standards for persons engaged in campus work, and suggests possibilities to schools of social work for field instruction placements and for the recruiting of students." W. I. Newstetter

+ Survey 78:254 S '42 800w

PRICE, WILLARD DE MILLE. Japan rides the tiger. 228p il $2.50 Day

915.2 Japan. Japan—Foreign relations

(W) 42-12824

"Incorporates sections of the author's earlier Children of the Rising Sun (Book Review Digest, 1938), revised and brought up to date, with ten entirely new chapters added." It gives an intimate account of Japanese psychology at home and in her worldwide expansion career. Index.

"The style is lively, journalistic, first person, easy and entertaining for those who like ideas and information served up to them that way. Personal experience, analysis of events, descriptions of Japanese life and customs, trade and colonization, are all interwoven with the skill of a good journalist. Mr. Price deserves high praise for his success in getting across to the reader certain important concepts. . . The author might have said something of the internal battle of the Army for control of Japan, a necessary preliminary to world conquest. In other words, the book would have carried more weight if it had drawn more upon the basic analyses of Japan which scholarship has contributed. Mr. Price does little to bridge the important gap between scholarship and journalism." G. E. Taylor

+ Atlantic 170:131 S '42 700w

Booklist 39:51 O 15 '42

Christian Science Monitor p11 N 7 '42 550w

"Mr. Price's new book eliminates the numerous inaccuracies and outdated views of his old one, while retaining much interesting and important information about the Japanese people, whom Mr. Price understood better than he did the international situation." Joseph Newman

+ Nation 155:117 Ag 8 '42 150w

"These first-hand observations, conveyed in a vivid, popular style, make up an interesting book, which is especially valuable at the present time because it ought to lay the ghosts of a good many ignorant misapprehensions about Japan and the Japanese which prevailed before Pearl Harbor." W. H. Chamberlin

+ N Y Times p5 Jl 26 '42 1250w

New Yorker 18:56 Jl 11 '42 90w

Wis Lib Bul 38:161 N '42

PRIEST, LORING BENSON. Uncle Sam's stepchildren; the reformation of United States Indian policy, 1865-1887. 310p il $3.75 Rutgers univ. press

970.5 Indians of North America—Government relations 42-8373

"A study of the relations of the United States Government to its Indian wards during the years following the Civil War when the need for some sort of just and humane solution came to be realized. The author discusses the problem in all its ramifications and difficulties and gives the reasons for the failures of various policies. Reads like a doctor's thesis, and, though sympathetic to the Indian, a dispassionate treatment is well maintained." Library J

Reviewed by E. G. Eastman

Am Hist R 48:142 O '42 550w

"This scholarly work is an important contribution to our literature on Indian policy." W. H. Smith

+ Am Pol Sci R 36:582 Je '42 230w

Reviewed by Angie Debo

Ann Am Acad 222:223 Jl '42 360w

"If Dr. Priest had consulted J. P. Kinney's able exposition of Indian land policy, A Continent Lost—A Civilization Won, published by the Johns Hopkins Press about five years ago, he would have had a better background for his treatment of the growth of the allotment policy. . . Nonetheless the book is a valuable contribution to the story of Indian policy in the days when men believed the Indians to be capable of development. The present policy, as Dr. Priest points out in his concluding chapter, 'clearly abandons all effort to establish individual independence.'" F. W. Seymour

+ Christian Century 55:597 My 6 '42 550w

Reviewed by G. W. Hill

Library J 67:85 Ja 15 '42 80w

Reviewed by Richard Storr

New Eng Q 15:391 Je '42 210w

"The result of a decade of conscientious research and careful analysis, this timely volume stresses the sometimes forgotten fact that the essential revolution in government Indian policy occurred more than half a century ago, and not in 1933. Since his study is limited in scope to hardly more than a score of decisive years, the author only refers in passing to the present attempt to stimulate native customs by re-establishing separate Indian communities, tersely observing that 'such a move is undoubtedly retrogressive, if cultural assimilation is an ideal.' E. G. Eastman

+ N Y Times p15 Jl 12 '42 1000w

"The only valid regret about this study, is that it ends with 1887, when the Dawes Act was passed. Surely all readers will join in the hope that Dr. Priest is planning one or more additional volumes to cover at least the period from 1887 to 1933 when a complete re-organization of Indian policy was instituted. This book should be read by every legislator who should keep in mind that all in the lobby should not be invited into the conference table when the Peace Conference considers the welfare of other native peoples of the world." D. S. Davidson

+ Social Studies 33:232 My '42 300w

PRIESTLEY, JOHN BOYNTON. Black-out in Gretley. 220p $2.50 Harper [8s 6d Heinemann] (W) 43-454

A tale of counter-espionage in wartime England.

"It is a most exhilarating pleasure to encounter Mr. Priestley again kicking his heels in the realm of fiction, as much a master of narrative as ever. I have only one complaint to make of the story. That is, that to anyone who knows Mr. Priestley's political convictions, the detection of the two chief Fifth Columnists presents no difficulty." Harold Hobson

+ Christian Science Monitor p11 N 14 '42 500w

"From a purely technical point of view the book cannot rank with the very best detective fiction, but Mr. Priestley's craftsmanship, feeling for character, and general knowledgeableness make any book of his worth reading." J. D. Beresford

+ Manchester Guardian p3 Ag 14 '42 180w

"Many thrillers fail through their contempt for detail. The improbable is easily accepted if a strictly probable background is provided—and Gretley is painfully probable." Philip Toynbee

+ New Statesman & Nation 24:129 Ag 22 '42 220w

"If Mr. Priestley's portrayal is to be read as anything more than a piece of fiction, England is apparently full of strange doings, particularly among the conservative gentry." New Yorker 18:64 F 6 '43 70w

"Humphrey Neyland, who tells his own intricate story, has a golden heart with an acid tongue, and it is possible that some readers will tire of his frequent wise diatribes and his liking to expound the obvious—'over pipe or two.' But the job he has to do in Gretley is quite exciting and tough—and though it did seem to one inexperienced reader that he was most extraordinarily lucky over it, and also somewhat depressingly infallible, yet he meets so many amusing and real people—Mr. Priestley, being always at his best with minor characters and crowd-work—that we are carried along and made to feel comfortable, natural and, I suppose, sufficiently convinced." Kate O'Brien

+ Spec 169:180 Ag 21 '42 300w

"This is a minor epic of counter-espionage at the beginning of 1942, light, ingenious entertainment, a thriller stuffed with every legitimate device of its kind, including a barrel of red herrings, and spiced with the sort of anti-Blimp social criticism that Mr. Priestley has of late made very much his own."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p401 Ag 15 '42 550w

PRINCE, FRANK TEMPLETON. Poems. 31p $1; pa 50c New directions [5s Faber] 821 [38-34508]

"In England, F. T. Prince has received the critical accolade of T. S. Eliot; his book, 'Poems,' as published by New Directions, has been cut to some extent and one new poem has been added—"The Babiaantje." New Yorker

"Mr. Prince is well aware of the technical instruments of poetry, and he is not lacking in imagination. But there is little discipline or direction in his writing." Ruth Lechlitrer

+ Books p13 Jl 19 '42 180w

"Nothing astonishing, but highly readable." Oscar Williams

+ New Repub 107:28 Jl 6 '42 90w

"Prince writes the purest kind of small, meditative song, and has a liking, too, for the longer poem, in which rhetoric can take long breaths and emit well-rounded periods. His longer poems are charmingly baroque and full of minor surprises, but it is with the lyric that we would have Mr. Prince stay." Louise Bogan

+ New Yorker 17:68 F 14 '42 340w

Reviewed by Edouard Roditi
Poetry 60:225 Jl '42 600w

PROCHNOW, HERBERT VICTOR. Public speaker's treasure chest; a compendium of source material to make your speech sparkle. 413p $3.50 Harper

808.8 Anecdotes. Quotations. Public speaking 42-13697

An anthology for public speakers. Jokes, anecdotes, epigrams, amusing quotations, and interesting facts are included in the material. Index.

Booklist 38:422 Jl 1 '42

Management R 31:439 D '42 60w

"Sure to prove its usefulness."

+ Wis Lib Bul 38:95 Je '42

PROCTOR, MRS. ELLEN (EGGLESTON). Turning leaves. 384p $2.50 Dodd (W) 42-24674

A family life story concerned with the fourth generation of Livingstons to live in the old brown house in Riverside, Minnesota. Tho each of the seven children is a true Livingston and an individualist in his own right, the story centers in the affairs of the two oldest girls, Julia and Gabrielle, bound by deep affection, separated by natural antagonisms.

Booklist 39:185 Ja 1 '43

"This story of the Livingstons is mature, well rounded and told with a sensitivity and an innate graciousness that could never have been learned in Julia's charm school." Ann Leathers

+ Books p14 N 8 '42 750w

"The story's style is pedestrian. A good deal of the Livingstons' historic past is related through the awkward expedient of the children reminding each other what father has told them about the Jameses and their wives. The doings of the younger generation make a readable volume, but not one of the tribe seems real and live enough to set the reader agog about the outcome of his career or his love affairs. 'Turning Leaves' is merely good-grade popular magazine fiction." Beatrice Sherman

N Y Times p7 N 8 '42 650w

"A rather awkwardly written story, whose chief interest is the tie—half affection, half antagonism—by which two sisters are bound inescapably to each other."

New Yorker 18:82 N 7 '42 60w

"The Livingstons are a pleasant family to know and the story of the girls' development holds the interest to the end."

+ Spring'd Republican p7e D 27 '42 280w

PROGRESSIVE EDUCATION ASSOCIATION. COMMITTEE ON WORKSHOPS. When people meet. See Locke, A. Le R., ed.

PROUDFIT, MRS ISABEL (BOYD). Pantry family; pictures by Caroline Whitehead. 50c McKay 42-9473

The Pantry family consisted of Philip, the Frying Pan; Sally Saucepan; Tom, the Tea-

PROUDFIT, I. B.—Continued
kettle; Dave Double Boiler; and Peter Perculator. Their adventures are described for seven and eight year olds.

Reviewed by M. L. Becker
Books p5 Je 21 '42 70w

Reviewed by Gertrude Andrus
Library J 67:534 Je 1 '42 20w

PROUDFIT, MRS ISABEL (BOYD). . . . The Sewing box family; pictures by Caroline Whitehead. 50c McKay

42-9474

Adventures of the members of the Sewing Box Family—Mr Scissors, the Needle, Thread, Button Brothers, and others. For the very young.

Reviewed by M. L. Becker
Books p5 Je 21 '42 70w

"One reading will satisfy children as book has no permanent value." Gertrude Andrus
Library J 67:534 Je 1 '42 20w

Wis Lib Bul 38:98 Je '42

PROUTY, CHARLES TYLER. George Gascoigne, Elizabethan courtier, soldier, and poet. 351p $3.75 Columbia univ. press [18s 6d Oxford]

B or 92 Gascoigne, George 42-688

Biography of the Elizabethan poet and soldier, who was born about 1535 and died in 1577. His work is remarkable for the number of "firsts" in English. It has been claimed that he wrote the first English prose comedy, the Supposes; the first prose regular verse satire, The Steele Glas; the first prose tale (a version from Bandello); and the first critical essay, Notes of Instruction. Bibliography. Index.

"This present work, from either the historical or the literary standpoint, deserves careful consideration." J. M. Berdan

+ Am Hist R 48:92 O '42 500w

"All we know and probably all we need to know about this half-forgotten poet is set out in orderly fashion in this learned and exhaustive monograph."

+ Books p10 Mr 29 '42 230w

Times [London] Lit Sup p462 S 19 '42 2450w

PRYOR, ELINOR. And never yield. 520p $2.75 Macmillan

(W) 42-13267

"Life among the Latter-Day Saints in Missouri and Illinois during the eighteen-thirties and forties. The heroine is married to an earnest young Mormon who worships Joseph Smith. Together they live through massacre and the hardships of the frontier, which are made sharper by their neighbors' scorn and hatred of the Mormons." New Yorker

Booklist 38:442 Jl 15 '42

"The principal characters of the story are fictitious though the major events and the actual persons, who play minor roles, are drawn from historical records. The intrinsic drama of that record and the care and correctness of Miss Pryor's telling result in a historical novel of unusual interest. . . As a novel per se, that is, as the story of Nathan Welles and his two wives and their friends and neighbors, it is less successful." Mary Ross

+ — Books p8 My 3 '42 700w

Christian Century 59:1458 N 25 '42 190w

"Miss Pryor makes Linsey and her love for Nathan very real, portraying the young woman with a warmth and naturalness that dissolve the barriers of time. The only flaw in the development of her tale is the awkward introduction of Major Karl Van Buskirk. His reappearance in the life of Linsey at a time when she is caught in a moment of deep anguish, offering her love and escape from the Mormon community, is too fortuitous. He belongs in the book, but with subtler treatment. But this is a minor weakness in a first novel which ably weaves an interesting love story against an exciting historical background." Rose Feld

+ N Y Times p7 My 3 '42 700w

New Yorker 18:71 My 2 '42 80w

"The manner, tone, style, reactions of her characters, are ultimately and completely feminine. This is a woman's book, a woman's view of the Mormon epic, not a man's. History and romance and domesticity blend as they blend in the novels of Bess Streeter Aldrich. 'And Never Yield,' especially where Miss Pryor becomes tender, or where she attempts to be tough, might make a good many men snort. . . But Miss Pryor's sense for material is not wrong. There is a story, and a good one, in early Mormon history. It is so good a story that many will read this novel with pleasure, in spite of its rather soft texture and its occasional weaknesses in technique." Wallace Stegner

+ — Sat R of Lit 25:12 Je 20 '42 600w

Wis Lib Bul 38:120 Jl '42

PUFFER, CLAUDE E. Air transportation. 675p $3.75 Blakiston

387.7 Aeronautics, Commercial. Aeronautics —Laws and regulations 41-18986

"It is the purpose of this book to investigate the economic and legal characteristics of the air transportation industry in an effort to decide whether or not the industry should be regulated; to analyze present and past federal legislation to determine whether it has been sound or unsound; to evaluate the efficiency with which federal laws have been administered; and to suggest improvements in law or administration." Pref.

"The mature student who has a specialized interest in almost any phase of the economics of air transportation will find the book very useful. Everything relating to current regulatory practice seems to be there, conscientiously compiled, well arranged, and carefully indexed." P. T. David

+ Am Econ R 32:400 Je '42 550w

"This volume should prove a valuable reference work to the air transport industry and a useful text to the teaching profession in the fields of aeronautical law and commerce. Its chief worth is that it represents a painstaking job of exploring the whole subject matter of air transport. Its table of contents is unusual in its completeness. . . The limitations of the work consist in its attempt to cover the entire field of air transport. In this respect it is like any one-volume encyclopedia in that you find something valuable, and not too incomplete, about anything and everything, but the reader must go elsewhere to get a complete picture of any one activity and of the philosophy connected with it." H. C. Knotts

+ — Ann Am Acad 220:262 Mr '42 550w

N Y New Tech Bks 27:3 Ja '42

PULESTON, WILLIAM DILWORTH. Annapolis: gangway to the quarterdeck. 259p il $3 Appleton-Century

359 U.S. Naval academy, Annapolis

(W) 42-12181

"The purpose of this book is to trace the development of and describe the Naval Academy of to-day, and to reveal how the Naval Academy—founded, dominated, and strictly controlled by the Old Navy—became the cradle of the Modern Navy." (Foreword) Index.

Reviewed by J. J. Searles

Books p19 Je 14 '42 380w

"Captain Puleston is naturally inclined to see the good but not the bad. But his book has lasting value." H. W. Baldwin

+ — N Y Times p13 My 17 '42 180w

"This book belongs in all our libraries, and on the shelves of all those interested in the Navy. It will gladden the heart of any young man who dreams of 'entering' or who is now a midshipman—and of any older still capable of reacting to words like 'plebe,' 'scuttlebutt' and 'savoir.'" Paul Schubert

+ Sat R of Lit 25:16 My 23 '42 600w

PURTELL, JOSEPH. To a blindfold lady. 287p $2 Reynal

42-18158

Mystery story.

"This tribute to Old Lady Justice, as the author calls her, is herewith recommended to persons looking for an outspoken, exciting and amusing mystery. Ourselves, we were converted early in the game by Mr. Purtell's meritorious writing and generally pleasing method in all branches of his art, even to his spells of ribaldry." Will Cuppy

+ Books p12 J1 26 '42 200w

Reviewed by Isaac Anderson

N Y Times p15 J1 26 '42 200w

"Political and amorous intrigues in typical American city swiftly and knowledgeably described, with copious rough stuff and eyebrow lifting solution. Rough-and-tumble."

Sat R of Lit 25:16 J1 25 '42 40w

PUTNAM, GEORGE PALMER. Wide margins; a publisher's autobiography. 351p $3 Harcourt B or 92 Publishers and publishing

(W) 42-13612

Autobiography of a member of a famous American publishing house, George Palmer Putnam is a grandson of the founder of the firm, and both his father and uncle were active in it, so that he grew up in the atmosphere of books and publishing. The greater part of his book, however, deals not so much with publishing as with his adventures in travel, aviation, etc., and his friendships with famous men and women, not all of them writers. One chapter is devoted to his second wife, Amelia Earhart.

"It is hardly likely that any one, upon hearing that Mr. Putnam has at last put his life between covers, would expect something deeply moving, with brooding and important philosophical overtones. His is not that sort of mind, and his story is not that sort of story. The saga of G. P. P. is largely anecdotal; some of these anecdotes are pretty old, but they are still good." Stanley Walker

Books p14 Ap 5 '42 1100w

"A sprightly and zestful autobiography."

+ Christian Century 59:1358 N 4 '42 100w

"The bald silences of this book scream out more boisterously than do the stated incidents. 'Wide Margins' seems to record a life that has been full but not rich, exciting but without aim; it seizes upon the incidents of one man's life, but misses the man." T. O'C. Sloane III.

Commonweal 36:89 My 15 '42 500w

Reviewed by E. F. Allen

N Y Times p2 My 24 '42 700w

Pratt p5 D '42

Wis Lib Bul 38:85 My '42

PUTNAM, JEAN-MARIE (CONSIGNY) (MRS GEORGE PALMER PUTNAM), and COSPER, LLOYD CLAGGETT. Gardens for victory. 221p il $2.50 Harcourt

635 Vegetable gardening (W) 42-36072

Practical book for the amateur gardener giving straightforward advice and planting plans for growing vegetables for food and decoration. Partial contents: "V" stands for vitamins; How to plan; Planting and maintenance; Vegetables without soil; Kinder gardens and junior gardenets; Keeping, storing and cooking. Indexes.

Booklist 38:228 Mr 1 '42

"'Gardens for Victory' . . . would rate higher with this reviewer if it 'jelled' better, with respect to its writing as well as its subject matter and general approach. One cannot be quite sure whether it is technical, popular or opportunistic; anyway, it mingles soilless gardening, salads, sunflowers and Swiss chard with many other ingredients in a slightly confusing sort of pot-pourri. The whole national victory garden campaign is in itself sorely in need of clarification and popular understanding; perhaps the same might be said of this book which all but bears its name." R. S. Lemmon

Books p15 Ap 19 '42 100w

Boston Globe p17 Ap 22 '42 100w

Christian Century 59:251 F 25 '42 60w

"Gardens for Victory is a timely answer to all gardening questions and will prove invaluable to both the novice and the experienced gardener. Material is organized in such a way that the answers to questions can be quickly and easily found. . . . With this book as a guide you should have Gardens for Victory indeed!" E. K. Shieler

+ Churchman 156:17 Mr 15 '42 190w

Cleveland Open Shelf p6 Mr '42

"An admirable handbook conceived for a very practical and immediate use. If you get a copy now, you will be in a fair way to having a vegetable garden this summer which will repay your efforts in health and fun and a feeling that you are contributing to American victory."

+ Commonweal 35:469 F 27 '42 100w

J Home Econ 34:253 Ap '42 80w

"The book is intelligently written and well-organized."

+ New Repub 106:550 Ap 20 '42 80w

Wis Lib Bul 38:64 Ap '42

PYE, MRS ANNE ETHELDRA (BRISCOE), and SHEA, MRS NANCY B. Navy wife. 335p $2.50 Harper

359.12 U.S.—Navy. Etiquet 42-36199

"The career of a supposititious 'Nancy Lee' begins with a letter from a midshipman whom she had met while he was on leave, visiting her little inland town. It is a real one, taken from the 1941 'Lucky Rag' and it invites her to visit the United States Naval Academy. She accepts, and thus becomes his 'drag' for the week end. What it costs her, where she will live there and what she will wear, and what special customs and conditions she will find, take the book straight into practical use. The etiquette of navy betrothals, and outlines for a formal or an informal wedding, led into the business of a naval household, the etiquette of entertainments given and received, 'following the ship,' and at the close a glossary of naval terms." (Books) Index.

Booklist 38:342 My 15 '42

"After many years with no manual at all for the guidance of army brides in the etiquette of post life, they were fortunate that the first one last year, Nancy Shea's 'The Army Wife,' should have been hard to beat in giving just the information needed. The popularity of that manual will no doubt be duplicated by this one for the Navy."

+ Books p22 Ap 12 '42 200w

Cleveland Open Shelf p10 My '42

Wis Lib Bul 38:115 J1 '42

PYLE, CLIFFORD. Etching principles and methods. 180p il $3 Harper

767 Etching 41-21675

"This manual deals with methods and processes relative to the production of etchings. The aim of the author has been to prepare a handbook that will serve as a practical guide to the various needs of the beginner as well as of the instructor. . . . The book has been divided into two parts. The first part has been devoted entirely to the bitten-line etching, and to grounds, varnishes, inks, and other materials used in the acid bath process. . . . In the second part of the book, other methods and processes have been taken up separately, and the procedure for each operation has been carefully outlined." Pref.

Booklist 38:92 N 15 '41

Wis Lib Bul 38:44 Mr '42

PYNE, MRS MABLE (MANDEVILLE). The little geography of the United States; il. by the author. 36p $2 Houghton
917.3 U.S.—Description and travel—Juvenile literature (W) 41-25922

Companion volume to the author's The Little History of the United States (Book Review Digest, 1940). It is composed of simple text, picture maps, and small pictures scattered thru the text. For ages six to ten.

Booklist 38:179 Ja 15 '42

"Geography, when I first studied it, was nothing like this. What allure it had as a subject was then largely put in by a young student's natural interest. This time it blossoms on every large, colorful page, from the first end papers—a picture map showing products, capitals and chief rivers—to the second, a relief map making the national silhouette as natural as a picture of papa. An older reader will also be pleased by all that goes between. Here is what a child wants to know, plus a great deal that he takes along with it, because all the information is so closely integrated." M. L. Becker
+ Books p7 D 21 '41 290w

"The pages are somewhat overcrowded with printing, but here is, nevertheless, a vivid visual guide for young families. Librarians, who have to think of wearing qualities, will regret the lack of margins, as the book will lose parts of text and pictures when rebinding becomes necessary." A. M. Jordan
+ — Horn Bk M 18:40 Ja '42 170w

"A general survey of the commercial and physical geography of our country which will attract many grown-ups as well as children and fasten in their minds a good deal of useful knowledge. Especially noteworthy are the pictures and explanation of the Panama Canal. . . Recommended." Sonja Wennerblad
+ Library J 67:86 Ja 15 '42 90w

Q

QUAIFE, MILO MILTON. Flag of the United States. 210p il $2 Grosset
929.9 Flags—U.S. 42-24629

This history of our flag begins with chapters on the history of flags in general and on the evolution of England's flags in particular. Then follow chapters on the early flags used in America, on the origins of the stars and stripes, and on the various myths and legends that have grown up around the flag. Index.

Booklist 39:120 D 1 '42

Reviewed by Allan Nevins

+ Books p28 N 22 '42 500w

"Inadequate index, but book will be most useful. Recommended for children twelve and up. Good for adult department." Gertrude Andrus

+ — Library J 68:39 Ja 1 '43 110w

QUEEN, ELLERY, pseud. of FREDERIC DANNAY and MANFRED LEE. Calamity town. 318p $2 Little [8s Gollancz]

(W) 42-9585

Detective story.

Booklist 38:331 My 1 '42

Bookmark 3:18 My '42

"Whether or not you happen to be a rabid Queen fan, and you probably are, the first Queen mystery novel in three years is quite some event in the world of puzzlement. . . Here are all the Ellerys again in fine fig." Will Cuppy

+ Books p18 Ap 26 '42 370w

"This book should make every detective story reader an Ellery Queen fan. He has never written a better book and very few people have written as good a detective novel." Elizabeth Hull

+ Boston Globe p15 My 20 '42 150w

Reviewed by E. P. Punshon

Manchester Guardian p3 My 27 '42 20w

"With advancing years Ellery has become verbose, sentimental and self-satisfied. These characteristics predominate in Calamity Town almost to the exclusion of detection. . . Not a difficult case, and not a feather in Ellery's cap, but for old times' sake many may like to read the book. For the younger generation, let them read The Dutch Shoe or The Roman Hat if they want to see what Ellery could do in his prime." Ralph Partridge

New Statesman & Nation 23:262 Ap 18 '42 120w

"This is by far the best mystery novel yet produced by the two men who use the name of their detective hero as a pseudonym. Instead of coming to be considered 'a minor classic in the field of the American mystery novel,' as the publishers timidly suggest, it may well come to be hailed as a major classic." Isaac Anderson

+ N Y Times p17 Ap 26 '42 290w

"Gossipy, engrossing story, professionally written."

+ New Yorker 18:72 My 2 '42 60w

"Ace-high"

+ Sat R of Lit 25:20 My 2 '42 40w

"Pretty good in a slow way." John Fairfield
Spec 168:404 Ap 24 '42 190w

"The best Queen story in several years."

+ Time 39:32 My 4 '42 30w

"As a moving picture of life in Wrightsville 'Calamity Town' is engaging. There is no satire to spoil our liking for the Wrights, descendants of the pioneer, and their friends. When calamity overtakes them their solid worth prevents the tale from becoming drab or depressing. The crime that brings down upon them the contempt of those they had formerly overawed belongs to the scene. Here are the materials for a straightforward novel of atmosphere and character; whether it has been made or marred by the addition of a murder mystery could be argued. But the presence of a handsome, shrewd, captivating, famous Ellery Queen of fiction is an unmitigated nuisance. If the Mr. Ellery Queen of fact intended this to be laughed at he should have pointed the jest."

+ — Times [London] Lit Sup p177 Ap 4 '42 150w

QUEEN, ELLERY, pseud. of FREDERIC DANNAY and MANFRED LEE, ed. Detective short story; a bibliography. 146p $4 Little

016.823 Detective stories—Bibliography. Short stories—Bibliography 42-23794

"A bibliography of the detective short story. . . The stories are arranged alphabetically by authors, and there is also an index of the detectives and criminals who appear in them. After each title listed is a brief description telling when, where and by whom the story was first published, together with other information." N Y Times

"A 'must' for mystery Phi Beta Kappas and average citizens on the prowl for this sort of thing and the break of a lifetime for rival anthologists." Will Cuppy

+ Books p32 N 22 '42 100w

Reviewed by Isaac Anderson

+ N Y Times p22 N 15 '42 140w

QUEEN, ELLERY, pseud. of FREDERIC DANNAY and MANFRED LEE. Golden eagle mystery; drawings by E. A. Watson. 272p $2 Stokes

42-25521

Mystery story for young readers.

Booklist 39:187 Ja 1 '43

Reviewed by F. E. Sloan

Christian Science Monitor p12 D 24 '42 90w

"Lacks convincing characterization and background, but the circumstances are sufficiently puzzling and involved, and the detective and his friend cool and calculating enough, to please young readers." Miriam Snow

+ — Library J 68:39 Ja 1 '43 70w

"There is not so much dramatic action as in 'The Black Dog Mystery,' but the story runs along smoothly and Djuna does as masterly a piece of deduction as any small boy can imagine himself doing." E. L. Buell

+ N Y Times p10 D 13 '42 140w

QUEEN, ELLERY, pseud. of FREDERIC DANNAY and MANFRED LEE, ed. Sporting blood; introd. by Grantland Rice. 360p $2.50 Little

(W) 42-25351

An anthology of detective stories dealing with sports. Contents: Silver blaze, by A. C. Doyle; The sweet shot, by E. C. Bentley; The fad of the fisherman, by G. K. Chesterton; Man bites dog, by Ellery Queen; The loss of Sammy Crockett, by Arthur Morrison; The double problem, by F. A. M. Webster; Trojan Horse, by Ellery Queen; His brother's keeper, by Dashiell Hammett; Tomorrow's murder, by Stuart Palmer; The boat race murder, by David Winner; Morning swim, by Theodore Bentley; A schoolmaster abroad, by E. W. Hornung; The seven good hunters, by Rufus King; The mugs' game, by Leslie Charteris; Ping-pong, by G. A. England; A chess problem, by Agatha Christie; The purple emperor, by R. W. Chambers; The one-penny black, by Ellery Queen; The vanished crown, by Ernest Bramah; The dragon's head, by D. L. Sayers.

Booklist 39:225 F 1 '43

"'Sporting Blood' has a pleasantly unhackneyed look—fact is, some of the stories have never appeared before in book form—and it should keep the victims of mysteritis blissful for several evenings, what with the elegant puzzles, the special backgrounds and the fodder for controversy inherent in any such tome." Will Cuppy

+ Books p32 N 22 '42 380w

"The book has an introduction by that eminent sports authority, Grantland Rice, who knows a good story when he sees one and who finds plenty of them here." Isaac Anderson

+ N Y Times p22 N 15 '42 280w

"Excellent and not in any way run-of-the-mill."

+ New Yorker 18:100 N 21 '42 20w

"Excellent omnibus."

+ Sat R of Lit 25:20 N 28 '42 40w

Time 40:116 D 7 '42 50w

QUIGG, JANE. Polly Peters; pictures by Pelagie Doane. 77p $1.25 Oxford

42-19647

Story of a little girl's summer at the seashore with her grandmother. For second and third grade.

Booklist 39:75 N 1 '42

Reviewed by M. L. Becker

Books p28 N 15 '42 200w

"An appealing story for younger children. At times the children are too polite and too well-mannered to be natural." Elizabeth Babcock

+ — Library J 67:797 S 15 '42 50w

QUIGLEY, HAROLD SCOTT. Far Eastern war, 1937-1941. 369p maps $2.50; pa $1 World peace

950 East (Far East)—History. Japan—Foreign relations. China—Politics and government. Eastern question (Far East)

42-14269

"[This study] begins with Lukouchiao and ends with Pearl Harbor. It essays to examine the circumstances bearing upon the outbreak of the conflict . . . to provide a concise account of hostilities, to describe political and economic repercussions in China, Japan and Western states, and to analyze the policies and trace the diplomatic, economic and strategic maneuvers of the major powers in relation to the war and to Japan's program for a 'New Order' in Eastern Asia and Oceania." (Pref) Bibliography. Index.

Reviewed by G. N. Steiger

Am Pol Sci R 36:975 O '42 600w

"The book is marked by little grace of literary style. It is a sober summary, usually carefully objective, with little in it of the provocative. It abounds in sound judgments. . . The book contains, too, excellent thumbnail characterizations of numbers of the main actors, such as that of Chiang Kai-shek and that of Matsuoka." K. S. Latourette

+ Ann Am Acad 224:206 N '42 550w

Bookmark 3:11 My '42

"Nowhere is the author more knowledgeable than in dealing with economic conditions in China and Japan, the former agricultural and poverty stricken, the latter industrial and with a population equally poor. . . Least satisfactory is Mr. Quigley's account of the actual, military war. It is sketchy and fragmentary and does not give a clear, over-all picture of battles and campaigns. On the other hand, appendices containing texts of momentous declarations and statements by President Roosevelt, Chiang Kai-shek, Premier Konohe and others are of great interest to the student and add to the value of an unusually important book." P. J. Searles

+ — Books p13 Ag 9 '42 750w

"This is a very comprehensive analysis. . . This is not the kind of book that we get from the returned foreign correspondents, and will not have the popular appeal that their highly colored collections of personal experiences have. But it is a very well-balanced and objective treatment of the subject, and its history is not likely to be superseded for a long time until government archives of this period are at last opened. It has fifty pages of appendices giving the statements of the different governments concerned and a useful bibliography of books and articles." F. H. U.

+ Canadian Forum 22:188 S '42 150w

"Relevant official documents are included. The Far Eastern conflict is shown in its proper light as a part of the general disintegration of world cooperation and interdependence. The scholarly tone of the book is a wholesome contrast to much of the current writing on the subject, which is overweighted with special pleading."

+ Christian Century 59:1006 Ag 19 '42 170w

"For the immediate background of the war that Japan launched for the overlordship of the Far East this new book by Professor Quigley of the University of Minnesota is by all odds the soundest and most useful so far published. It is admirable in its arrangement, its selection of essential facts, and the sober yet clear style that carries the story along to its climax."

+ Current Hist 2:375 Jl '42 1550w

"An outstanding merit of Professor Quigley's work is that it puts together in orderly and compact form a mass of information which is scattered among newspaper dispatches, books and magazine articles over a period of several years. . . The work lacks the vividness of a narrative of things personally seen and experienced and its very comprehensiveness sometimes leads to a certain scantiness in the treatment of individual subjects. . . But it is an excellent reference work, accurate and well informed." W. H. Chamberlin

+ N Y Times p15 Je 14 '42 1100w

Reviewed by H. M. Vinacke

Pacific Affairs 15:372 S '42 450w

Reviewed by E. R. Lucke

Social Educ 7:36 Ja '43 400w

QUINLAN, MAURICE JAMES. Victorian prelude; a history of English manners, 1700-1830. 301p $3 Columbia univ. press

914.2 England—Social life and customs

42-8011

A study of the transitional period between the cynical, bawdy, outspoken eighteenth century and the respectable, conservative, philanthropic era of Victoria's reign. Victorianism in manners and social customs, the author finds, had had its birth before Victoria's accession to the throne, and was partly a reaction to the free manners of an earlier day, partly the result of certain books and reform movements. Bibliography. Index.

QUINLAN, M. J.—Continued

Reviewed by Caroline Robbins
Am Hist R 48:99 O '42 500w

Reviewed by W. E. Garrison
Christian Century 59:885 J1 15 '42 300w

"The book penetrates deeply, yet reaches far. Perhaps some elements in the picture have received less than their due weight—for example, the influence of Hogarth. And naturally one can find occasional statements or points of view with which to disagree. But what of it? This book is the work of a real scholar who writes of deep and strong currents in a nation's life, and yet manages constantly to entertain us as we go along with him." H. C. F. Bell

+ Commonweal 36:233 Je 26 '42 500w

"A superb and engaging study. . . By all means read this book. It is a challenging study in social and religious developments. The author, writing more in terms of trends and subjects than in strict periods and lives, has illuminated an age of influence less interesting than the age it produced only to those who either know nothing about it or who prefer to attend a drama rather than write or produce one. The volume is indispensable to the student of religion. It is more than likely that we, too, are in a pre-something-or-other age!" R. E. Keighton

+ Crozer Q 19:160 Ap '42 800w

"Mr. Quinlan's book is one of those invaluable academic studies that are based on unpretentious scholarship and fashioned with a restraint that never imposes on the author the clamps of dullness." Nigel Dennis

+ New Repub 106:580 Ap 27 '42 1150w

"Mr. Quinlan has written a delightful book. He has set out, with delicacy and skill, the changes in manners and taste in England in the century before the accession of Queen Victoria. There is, perhaps, relatively little in his volume which will be new to the serious student of his period; the real value of his work, apart from its charm, lies in the ability with which he has projected a mass of disparate evidence on to a single plane of discussion. But that value must not be underestimated." H. J. Laski

+ New Statesman & Nation 23:410 Je 20 '42 700w

Pratt p14 O '42

"Unlike the bright young men of only a few years ago, [Mr. Quinlan] does not make fun of his pre-Victorians, does not even load the evidence against them by picking out the most savorily absurd things about their behavior. In no sense an attempt to find out why manners change, nor even how far changes in certain kinds of actual conduct follow from changes in what men say and write, Mr. Quinlan's book sticks admirably to its more modest purpose of bringing from often obscure sources examples of what writers and preachers said about manners. If we ever get back to the pleasant sport of gunning for the Victorians, this will save many tough hours in a library for the literary sportsman." Crane Brinton

+ Sat R of Lit 25:18 Ja 31 '42 360w

Reviewed by Lettice Fowler
Spec 169:88 J1 24 '42 1000w

QUINN, JOHN ROBERT. Beyond this wall; poems. 90p $1.50 Kaleidograph

811 42-1855

A first volume of poems by a young American poet. Many of the poems were first published in American periodicals: America, Christian Century, Commonweal, Poetry, etc.

"Somewhat uneven in quality, it is respectable throughout and excellent on its higher levels."

+ Christian Century 58:1411 N 12 '41 30w

"Robert Quinn's Beyond This Wall has a certain freshness of feeling which enhances his rather interminable perceptions of Nature." Marion Castleman

+ Poetry 60:346 S '42 70w

QUINN, VERNON. Vegetables in the garden and their legends; il. by Louise Mansfield. 261p $2.50 Lippincott

635 Vegetables. Plant lore (W) 42-3827

This book contains not only legends and stories of early uses of vegetables but also descriptions and recipes culled from the literature of all times and countries. Contents: The roots we eat; Fruits of the plant; Melons and maize; Delectable stalks; Leaves to cook; Salads for delight; Recipes to try. Index.

"If the cutworms and blisters of your actual vegetable gardening ever threaten to get you down, just try reading these whimsical pages as an antidote." R. S. Lemmon

+ Books p15 Ap 19 '42 100w

Boston Globe p17 Ap 22 '42 100w

Cleveland Open Shelf p11 My '42

R

RABORG, PAUL C. Mechanized might; the story of mechanized warfare. (Whittlesey house publication) 284p il $2.50 McGraw

358 U.S.—Army. Mechanization, Military (W) 42-9019

"In this informative book Major Raborg, a participant in the last war and the military analyst of International News Service in New York during the Nazi invasion of Western Europe, first tells us the story of mechanized warfare and then gives information that is now a matter of the greatest possible concern to every citizen of this country—namely, how the new United States armies have grown, are still growing, and are now well on the way to becoming the most efficient and powerful of modern, mechanized and motorized armed forces." (N Y Times) Index.

Booklist 38:363 Je 1 '42

"War censorship forbids disclosing much information, yet Major Raborg manages to display a clear picture of basic units. Simplicity, readability and coherence earmark 'Mechanized Might' as a very worth-while war book." P. J. Searles

+ Books p12 My 31 '42 450w

Reviewed by Carlyle Holt

Boston Globe p19 Je 3 '42 230w

Reviewed by R. G. Woolbert

Foreign Affairs 20:773 J1 '42 10w

Reviewed by M. C. Scoggin

Library J 67:894 O 15 '42 20w

"This is one of the better contemporary works on methods of fighting a war. . . The book is by no means a collection of technical data. Being constantly interspersed with stories of actual battles or other military movements it makes exciting reading. And the average non-military reader can count on emerging with the feeling that newspaper stories on events of the war suddenly make more and better sense to him than they did before 'Mechanized Might' furnished him with a key to understanding." Willy Ley

+ New Repub 106:644 My 11 '42 390w

"In spite of the predominantly professional interest of its subject-matter, the book makes easy reading, inasmuch as the purely informative data on organization, equipment and the like from time to time give place to vivid little stories such as that of a fight of a cavalry patrol while on Mexican border duty." A. M. Nikolaieff

+ N Y Times p5 Ap 26 '42 650w

Pratt p17 D '42

RADDALL, THOMAS H. His Majesty's Yankees. 409p $2.75 Doubleday

(W) 42-25187

A historical novel of Nova Scotia during the American Revolution. Told in the first person, the tale combines the story of David Strang's attempts to aid the rebel cause and the story of his love for Fear Bingay.

"A lively tale well told, it is as exciting to Yankee readers as to any. But what makes the generous measure of fiction and history run over is the added element of pure lyricism, omnipresent in the form of the Nova Scotian landscape, its woods and weathers and tides and seasons, its smells and bird song. Mr. Raddall's pages give us the next best thing to a four-season residence somewhere between Halifax and Fundy, and some of them are so beautifully written that they will make many a reader homesick for a seaboard upon which he has never set foot." Wilson Follett

+ Atlantic 171:144 Ja '43 240w

Booklist 39:225 F 1 '43

"As a novel, 'His Majesty's Yankees' suffers from one defect inherent in its material. Everything builds up to the attempt upon Fort Cumberland—but the attempt is a failure. After which Mr. Raddall must carry his story on. He does so with skill and interest but the spine of his story has been broken. Yet, when Mr. Raddall pays tribute to those who fought at Cumberland, he pays it well." S. V. Benét

+ Books p6 N 29 '42 650w

"Watch Raddall take his place with the best. They will be mentioning him in the same breath with Kenneth Roberts and Walter D. Edmonds." Dorothy Hillyer

+ Boston Globe p21 N 11 '42 550w

"Excellent and exciting reading. Good to read along with Oliver Wiswell and quite comparable to Roberts in literary style. Recommended." Katharine Shorey

+ Library J 67:909 O 15 '42 70w

"His Majesty's Yankees' is a first novel of quite unusual distinction of style. Some minor structural faults are undeniable in it, and it contains one glaring piece of theatrical contrivance in the manner of Luke Strang's death which strains the reader's credulity to the snapping point. Nevertheless, it adds up to a fine piece of story-telling. Not since the unheralded appearance of Kenneth Roberts with 'Arundel' has any newcomer to the field of historical fiction shown such exciting potentialities." Margaret Wallace

+ N Y Times p12 N 15 '42 900w

Springf'd Republican p7e N 22 '42 360w

RADIN, PAUL. Indians of South America. (Am. museum of natural hist. Science ser) 324p il $4 Doubleday

980.1 Indians of South America

(W) 42-9291

"A noted anthropologist describes and interprets salient traits of the life and culture of the various tribes of South American Indians, from the Arawak group encountered by Columbus to the great sophisticated civilizations of Ecuador, Bolivia, and Peru. Many tribal customs and beliefs, myths, ceremonials, and religious and social rites are described in detail, with extensive quotations from contemporary accounts of travelers, missionaries, and archeologists from the fifteenth century to the present." (Library J) Bibliography. Index.

Reviewed by Fred Eggan

Am Hist R 48:385 Ja '43 450w

Booklist 38:328 My 1 '42

"This is a most timely moment for the appearance of a volume on the Indians of South America. No such book is in existence either in popular or in technical literature, and, now that the necessity for a greater understanding of our neighbors to the south has been pressed home upon us, it is inevitable that we must seek information about their great Indian populations." Ruth Benedict

+ Books p16 Ap 26 '42 900w

"Outstanding addition to the recent literature of South America; should prove popular in most libraries." M. J. Messler

+ Library J 67:223 Mr 1 '42 90w

"The failure to include any discussion of Indian-white acculturation is most unfortunate, for it throws the whole picture out of focus so that the book, though vivid and true in detail, is vague and inaccurate as a whole."

+ Nation 155:521 N 14 '42 300w

Reviewed by B. D. Wolfe

New Repub 107:388 S 28 '42 800w

"Assuming a certain persistence of interest on the part of the lay readers of this book, they will find in it a great deal to reward them for their trouble. . . The very fact that this deeply thought-on book is so rich in debatable opinions constitutes one of its chief allures. It is a work which any one interested in South American Indians and in all phases of their history and culture will find to be a fruitful source both of information and of suggestion for further study." P. A. Means

+ N Y Times p16 My 17 '42 1000w

Pratt p13 D '42

"There are some unnecessary faults of style, unclear or awkward sentences, repetitions, some self-contradictions, a few mere carelessnesses such as the statement that the Siouan tribes originally ranged for Louisiana 'to the South Atlantic.' These spoil what would otherwise be better than average writing of its type. The primary good qualities of the book's conception are obscured by secondary faults. Adding up the list, the Science Series is so far a disappointment to those who hope that it will produce a distinguished adequate library of popular reference." Oliver La Farge

+ Sat R of Lit 25:18 S 5 '42 550w

Reviewed by G. B. Johnson

Social Forces 21:107 O '42 360w

Reviewed by E. C. Lindeman

Survey G 31:429 O '42 130w

Wis Lib Bul 38:86 My '42

Reviewed by W. L. Schurz

Yale R n s 31:828 summer '42 450w

RAGON, HURLEY LEE. Fragrance, philosophies, and conversations of a year. 327p pl $2.50 Dorrance

574 Natural history 42-22520

"Mrs. Ragon records her thoughts and emotions through twelve months, chiefly as they have reflected the changing pageant of the seasons in garden and field." Christian Century

Christian Century 59:1223 O 7 '42 30w

"To some readers this may serve as a welcome antidote for war weariness." E. C. T.

Churchman 156:17 D 1 '42 90w

RAINE, WILLIAM MACLEOD. Damyank. 249p $2 Houghton

Western story.

Booklist 39:12 S '42

"Active and readable Western by the author of 'Border Breed' 'The Yukon Trail' and other popular yarns." Will Cuppy

+ Books p25 S 27 '42 110w

Wis Lib Bul 38:138 O '42

RAINE, WILLIAM MACLEOD. Justice deferred. 257p $2 Houghton [8s 6d Hodder]

42-573

Western story.

Booklist 38:210 F 15 '42

Reviewed by Will Cuppy

Books p15 F 1 '42 90w

"Expertly written." G. W. Harris

+ N Y Times p25 F 15 '42 210w

Wis Lib Bul 38:32 F '42

RAINIER, PETER WILLIAM. Green fire. 296p maps $2.75 Random house
918.6 Colombia—Description and travel.
Emeralds (W) 42-36362

The author is a South African mining engineer who spent many years in Colombian mountains in charge of emerald mining operations. His book is a record of his experiences and adventures, with anecdotes of famous gems, native workers, American, European, and Colombian business men.

Booklist 39:100 N 15 '42

Reviewed by M. C. Hubbard
Books p2 N 8 '42 1100w

"His incredible adventures seem true enough, but his sense of the dramatic and his eagerness to tell a good story may have tempted [him] to paint certain episodes in too vivid colors. Style is simple, frank, convincing. Fine picture of Colombian hinterland—superb scenery, healthy and deadly climates, native Indians." L. R. Etzkorn

+ Library J 67:908 O 15 '42 110w

"As a reminder that our Latin-American brothers are not all of one pattern, and that their lands are as diverse as any the world can provide, this book has a certain importance. But it will be read chiefly for its adventure and its pioneering spirit." E. F. Allen

+ N Y Times p5 N 22 '42 700w

New Yorker 18:82 O 31 '42 50w

RAKOSI, CARL, pseud. See Rawley, C.

RAMAN, T. A. What does Gandhi want? 117p
$1.25 Oxford

940.5354 World war, 1939—India, India—
Politics and government, Gandhi, Mohandas
Karamchand 42-36386

A leading Indian Nationalist, now writing and lecturing in this country, has made a selection of excerpts from Gandhi's statements on the war, and set them forth with editorial comment. In an epilog the author gives his own interpretation of Gandhi's role. Index.

Booklist 39:118 D 1 '42

"Mr. Raman's selection of quotations from Gandhi's own writings fully justifies the contention that Gandhi is an obstacle to Indian unity and to India's full participation in the war against the Axis. . . But although 'What Does Gandhi Want?' supplies more than sufficient text to prove that Gandhi is a thorn in the side of the British in their efforts to solve the Indian crisis, it does not include existing evidence that Gandhi's power and influence in the Congress party has been on the wane, and that at the moment when full support to his opponents could have weakened him decisively the British, consciously or unconsciously, strengthened his hand." K. L. Mitchell

Books p8 N 8 '42 1650w

Christian Science Monitor p26 D 10
'42 450w

Reviewed by Theodore Maynard

Commonweal 37:185 D 4 '42 600w

"This [is a] small but vitally important book. It is by an Indian Nationalist who, in the capacity of spokesman, has known and revered Gandhi as an intimate friend. Mr. Raman is a journalist, moreover, of unimpeachable reputation who writes excellently, saying just what he is entitled to say. He is inside the seething upheaval that sweeps over Asia, and knowing all that there is to be known of Gandhi, he understands all and, even as a critic, withholds blame. To those who, at long last, wish to substitute facts for emotions, assumptions, illusions, Mr. Raman's method of presenting his theme will be entirely satisfying." P. W. Wilson

+ N Y Times p20 N 22 '42 750w

Reviewed by Louis Fischer

Sat R of Lit 25:25 D 5 '42 950w

Reviewed by Frederick Rein

Springf'd Republican p7e Ja 3 '43 500w

RAMSEY, ROBERT. Fire in summer. 266p $2.50
Viking

42-3954

"A novel with a Southern locale, about an angry man, never reconciled to any aspect of his life. He quarrels with his wife and children, he hates his employer, the relief organization which tries to help him, and, most of all, Negroes with an unrelenting fury." New Yorker

"The boy through whom the story is told is a healthy lad and his reactions and observations, his little hopes and innocent pleasures—along with those of his younger brother and his fretful, well-intentioned mother—form a pathetic frame for the unnatural activities of the father. 'Fire in Summer' is another startling glimpse of Southern 'poor white' mentality and a first novel that reveals a genuine gift for pace, suspense and psychological drama." Milton Rugoff

Books p8 F 15 '42 650w

"A very interesting and exciting novel which is embarrassed by a peculiarly tactless and offensive blurb. . . The basic defect of [the] novel derives from the fact that [the author] has not set himself the proper problem. He did not try, apparently, to define the center of his book. There is no clearly realized issue at the heart of Spence Lovell's character, and therefore none at the heart of the book. There is only the catchword of a journalistic sociology. Perhaps Mr. Ramsey needs to look harder at his region; for if he looks hard enough at his region he may see that the Spence Lovells are rather complicated people, after all." R. P. Warren

+ — Nation 154:261 F 28 '42 900w

"Another first novel and as such it is a better-than-average job. The praise it has received during the past few days is deserved, but only up to a point. As the story of a frustrated poor white's pathological hatred for Negroes it is effective enough, yet it is one of those smooth, almost glib products that should, with compression, have been a longish short story. It is also a fact that in spite of puffiness it moves along with compelling ease, and that is nothing to pass by, now or any time. The story is told by a ten-year-old youngster, and while it's a pretty sordid one, it would be a mistake to link Ramsey with Faulkner or Caldwell. Ramsey simply doesn't pack enough meat on his bones to join that company yet." Max Gissen

New Repub 106:341 Mr 9 '42 210w

"In making a child, who is unaware of the implications of many of the incidents, the narrator of his tale of terror, Ramsey heightens the effect of brooding atmosphere and drama. There are places where the device shows weakness, where the observations made by the 10-year-old boy, Blue Lovell, are too mature and keen, but this is a minor fault in a book that shows a rare and sensitive talent for characterization and drama. . . The story as seen through the eyes of a boy who doesn't understand all he sees and hears moves swiftly to its tragic end. Equally noteworthy with his penetrating portrayal of a man driven by hate is Ramsey's portrait of a child, helplessly caught in a web of horror, but who nevertheless turns to childish pastimes whenever he can." Rose Feld

N Y Times p7 F 22 '42 750w

"The mood is well handled and the characters are interesting, but there is too little variety for a full-length book."

+ — New Yorker 18:69 F 21 '42 70w

"In its remarkable technical excellence, its singleness of impression, and its compelling narrative push, Mr. Ramsey's first novel easily outdistances the work of many already established writers and creates a precedent for himself he may find it hard to match next time. His achievement seems all the more notable in view of the familiarity of his material. . . Mr. Ramsey displays a rare gift for choosing a theme and developing it with economy, precision, and intensity; for dialogue with the authentic flavor of its section and its social levels; for comic anti-climax; and for understanding of human conduct, both normal and pathological. He appears to have made a long, sure stride into recognition without ever having had to crawl." Bess Jones

+ Sat R of Lit 25:7 F 28 '42 600w

RAMSPERGER, ALBERT GUSTAV. Philosophies of science. 304p $2.25 Crofts
501 Science—Philosophy. Knowledge, Theory of 42-8190

"The author, associated with the University of Wisconsin, discusses the different interpretations of science. Contains a bibliography arranged according to chapter topics." N Y New Tech Bks

"The present volume is comprehensive in range, but its discussions are brief and sometimes highly compressed, with the result that the many methodological problems involved in each topic can not always emerge. In compensation the treatment is clear and often provocative. The conciseness and brevity will no doubt prove popular with instructors who aim to use a text together with readings in the classics of the field." J. B.

+ — J Philos 39:499 Ag 27 '42 180w
N Y New Tech Bks 27:29 Ap '42

RANDAU, CARL, and ZUGSMITH, LEANE (MRS CARL RANDAU). Setting sun of Japan. 342p maps $3 Random house

915.2 Japan. East (Far East)—Description and travel. Eastern question (Far East). World war, 1939—East (Far East)

(W) 42-36100

"Sharp-eyed impressions of people and events in the Pacific area during the months before Pearl Harbor—Japan, chiefly, but also Shanghai, Manila, Singapore, the Netherlands East Indies, Australia, Hawaii, and so forth. We'll win, the authors, think, because the Japanese can't match us in production." (New Yorker) Index.

Booklist 38:250 Mr 15 '42

Reviewed by Wilfrid Fleisher
Books p4 Mr 15 '42 1300w

"As a broad last minute survey, 'The Setting Sun of Japan' makes fascinating reading." J. H. Powers

+ Boston Globe p19 Mr 11 '42 330w

"While everything older than this morning's broadcast has something of the flavor of ancient history, this highly intelligent and vivacious description gives a valuable picture of the Asiatic scene at practically the last moment before the storm broke."

+ Christian Century 59:321 Mr 11 '42 200w

Cleveland Open Shelf p5 Mr '42

Reviewed by R. G. Woolbert
Foreign Affairs 20:785 Jl '42 30w

"Many readers—the more, the better—will undoubtedly find this book both satisfying and stimulating." A. M. Colt

+ Library J 67:182 F 15 '42 60w

"The book has a refreshing down-to-earth tang lacking in most of today's books on the Far East. The authors do not profess any great knowledge about politics or military strategy; they are content to talk with the people they meet, business men, doctors, waitresses, and factory workers. Their conclusions may be somewhat superficial but are always interesting." M. S. Stewart

+ Nation 154:374 Mr 28 '42 360w

"The authors' impressions are colorful and pertinent but never very deep, and it is not at all clear why and when they expect a sunset in the East."

New Repub 106:374 Mr 16 '42 70w

"Mr. Randau and Miss Zugsmith are trained reporters and lively commentators. They succeed very well in communicating the atmosphere, the sights and sounds and smells of Tokyo and Shanghai, Manila and Singapore, Batavia and Sydney, along with the impressions which they derived from formal interviews and informal conversations." W. H. Chamberlin

+ N Y Times p27 Mr 8 '42 1350w

"Timely and well written."

+ New Yorker 18:60 F 28 '42 70w

Reviewed by Randall Gould

Pacific Affairs 15:234 Je '42 550w

"'The Setting Sun of Japan' admittedly is a good reportorial if poor analytical job, covering the Far Eastern situation as the quick-traveling Randaus found it. If they failed to anticipate eventualities that is not to their discredit, because most of their colleagues were equally shortsighted. Nevertheless, much of it is dated and certainly none of it is dangerous to the reputation of the disparaged 'experts,' 'commentators' and editorial geniuses operating 7,000 miles from the scene." Linton Wells

+ Sat R of Lit 25:11 Mr 14 '42 650w

Reviewed by E. O. Hauser

Survey G 31:256 My '42 120w

RANEY, RICHARD BEVERLY, and SHANDS, ALFRED RIVES. Primer on the prevention of deformity in childhood; il. by Jack Wilson. 188p $1 Nat. soc. for crippled children in the U.S.A. inc, Masonic bldg, Elyria, Ohio

617.3 Orthopedia, Deformities, Children—Diseases 42-85

"In the first chapter of this volume, the common affections of childhood which may cause deformity are defined and their causes are enumerated. The prevention of the affection, insofar as our present knowledge of its cause permits, is described. In subsequent chapters, the most important deformities of childhood are described in regional order, their common causes are listed, and their prevention is discussed." (Pref) Glossary and index.

"The style of the book is simple, readable, and leads to easy understanding. . . . The authors are to be congratulated on giving us a book which contains an amazing amount of information and yet is presented in such a fashion that those without any considerable knowledge of the subject may understand and appreciate it. This book is a valuable addition to any library." W. T. Green

+ Am J Pub Health 32:881 Ag '42 180w

"Nurses, medical social workers, teachers of crippled children, and persons interested in orthopedics will welcome this book. The only fault that I can find with it is that it makes one want to know more about the subject. I hope that its authors will some time in the future bring out a 'first reader' which will take us farther along in methods of prevention." A. F. Gerald

+ Survey 78:255 S '42 130w

RANLETT, CHARLES EVERETT. Master mariner of Maine; being the reminiscences of Charles Everett Ranlett, 1816-1917, as told to his son Frederick Jordan Ranlett, with additional chapters by his daughter Susan Alice Ranlett; an introd. and notes by his grandson, L. Felix Ranlett and notes by Lincoln Colcord. (Penobscot marine museum. Publication) ltd ed 145p pl $5 Southworth-Anthoensen

B or 92 Seafaring life 42-23693

"Beginning as a boy of 14, Charles Ranlett sailed before the mast in various coasters. Responsibilities and the lengths of voyages increased until, at the age of 21, he was given command of his first vessel. . . . The climax is reached when Capt. Ranlett becomes the builder, sole owner and master of the Sunbeam, a bark of 707 tons. His voyages take him into all quarters of the world—not the least interesting the voyage of the Nautilus to Labrador and Greenland carrying Prof. Paul A. Chadbourne and a party of Amherst and Williams College students on a scientific collecting expedition." Boston Globe

"The one regrettable part of the narrative is Capt. Ranlett's capacity for understatement. This is no doubt partly because it was dictated from memory in the author's 80th year and partly because understatement is one of the marks of a seafaring man. . . In this book another brilliant chapter is added to the history of American shipping and enterprise in its best days." E. S. Dodge

RANLETT, C. E.—Continued

+ Boston Globe p21 N 18 '42 250w

"The story is told in the first person, though it is not strict autobiography. The staunch Republican of the old school, independent enough to support woman suffrage, must have used colorful language in describing his experiences. The reader does not feel that he hears the story direct from Captain Ranlett, but he should certainly be grateful for the persistence of the Captain's son, daughter and grandson through whom the record has been preserved." W. G. Saltonstall

+ New Eng Q 15:744 D '42 650w

RANSHOFEN-WERTHEIMER, EGON FERDINAND. Victory is not enough; the strategy for a lasting peace. 322p $3 Norton

940.53144 Reconstruction (1939-). World war, 1939—Peace. World politics. International cooperation (W) 42-50474

"Realistic appraisal of reasons for failure of peace that followed World War I and analysis of factors that will make a success or failure of the forthcoming peace. Author, who has European viewpoint, and personal knowledge of workings of League of Nations, urges a European Confederation, puzzles over Germany's future, explains why democracies are apt to fail in peacetime, and regards peace as the world's most ambitious endeavor." (Library J) Index.

Reviewed by Paul Hagen

Books p9 Ja 3 '43 1600w

Commonweal 37:381 Ja 29 '43 80w

"Provokes thought and expresses viewpoints that must be considered. Recommended." H. A. Wooster

+ Library J 67:951 N 1 '42 80w

"In the thick jungles of the literature of post-war reconstruction Egon Ranshofen-Wertheimer's 'Victory Is Not Enough' constitutes a bright spot. This outstanding book, however, deserves both praise and serious scolding." M. W. Fodor

+ Nation 156:170 Ja 30 '43 800w

"Some good insight, but lots of muzzy thinking, too."

+ New Yorker 18:59 D 26 '42 60w

RANSOME, ARTHUR. Misse Lee (based on information supplied by the Swallows and Amazons) [il. by the author]. 335p $2.50 Macmillan [7s 6d Cape, J]

(W) 42-8280

"The six children, Mr. Ransome's Swallows and Amazons, and Captain Flint are voyaging around the world in their schooner the Wild Cat when they are wrecked and cast ashore on the China coast. They fall into the hands of 'Miss Lee,' a Cambridge-educated Chinese pirate's daughter, who still loves Latin and longs for Cambridge. . . The young Swallows and Amazons, with their taste for life and their lack of fear, can deal with anything that comes their way and dare and endure through mystification, captivity, a Dragon feast, and dangerous seafaring, till one morning dawn breaks to show a little Chinese junk anchored in a Cornish harbour." Manchester Guardian

"It is good entertainment, written—as always with Arthur Ransome—with adult fiction technique used to develop a story from a young person's point of view. He knows both China and seamanship so well that he can make you believe anything about either. His drawings give the story added realism: they look like sketches made on the spot by a determined amateur who had to keep a record and couldn't use a camera." M. L. Becker

+ Books p8 Ap 5 '42 430w

Reviewed by F. B. Sloan

Christian Science Monitor p11 Je 11 '42 130w

"Through all these new and unforeseen events, the children are as real and consistent in character as ever. They are high hearted and resourceful, they are courageous under truly alarming conditions. We read of them again with undiminished pleasure and rejoice in their final safety." A. M. Jordan

+ Horn Bk M 18:179 My '42 130w

"Well written and with a faster moving plot than some previous books by this popular author. Will be enjoyed by readers of ten to fourteen." A. M. Wetherell

+ Library J 67:416 My 1 '42 80w

"This story, like all Mr. Ransome's, is in a class quite by itself; it is also, one feels, much better, because more free in imagination, than the last year's 'Coot Club,' which was more technical and more confined in interest. 'Misse Lee' is a story one would be glad to keep on any bookshelf." M. C.

+ Manchester Guardian p3 D 9 '41 230w

"It is all extraordinary and all entirely convincing. Mr. Ransome never violates the consistency of his characters. . . The drawings by the author have a lively, on-the-spot quality. It is almost impossible not to believe that it all really happened, with the author on hand to see just how it took place. One of the year's best books for boys and girls from 10 to 14." A. T. Eaton

+ N Y Times p10 Ap 5 '42 750w

"Their far from peaceful adventures, which involve a remarkable Chinese lady pirate who likes to teach Latin, are less probable but even more engrossing than those of the earlier Ransome books. Tops of its kind."

+ New Yorker 18:75 My 23 '42 80w

Wis Lib Bul 38:100 Je '42

RAPHAEL (RAFFAELLO SANZIO D'URBINO). [Paintings and drawings; introd. by W. E. Suida.] (Phaidon press art book) 33p pl $4.50 Oxford [12s 6d Allen, G]

759.5 Paintings, Italian A42-3366

A collection of 120 plates, 17 in full color, reproducing paintings and details. The introduction gives a brief biographical sketch of Raphael.

Commonweal 36:235 Je 26 '42 80w

"One of the handsomest of the long series of Phaidon Press books."

+ New Yorker 18:72 Je 13 '42 30w

Times [London] Lit Sup p496 O 10 '42 390w

RAPHAELSON, SAMSON. Jason. 172p $2 Random house

812 (W) 42-11762

Dramatization of a few days in the life of a hidebound New York critic, during which time he has his eyes opened to a number of the facts of life by a young playwright.

Booklist 38:422 Jl 1 '42

"While it is hard to accept the play's assumption that Jason had never discovered his wife was not really a Southern aristocrat, on which the serious scenes are based, the comedy is spontaneous and delightful, the satire pointed, and the writing witty and polished. The character of Mike Ambler is annoying, charming, egotistical and humanitarian—a lively and striking creation. This play should have a long life in the better little theaters." W. P. Eaton

+ Books p19 O 11 '42 180w

"Contains some of Raphaelson's best writing. Recommended."

+ Library J 67:533 Je 1 '42 20w

RASWAN, CARL REINHARD. Drinkers of the wind. 292p il $2.50 Creative age [18s Hutchinson]

916.2 Egypt—Description and travel. Arabia—Description and travel. Arabian horse. Bedouins 42-22936

In his youth the author became devoted to horses. Fired by the beautiful figures of horses carved on the frieze of the Parthenon, he set out to find the perfect horse. After a long search he decided that his own Arabian horse which he had ridden a year, came near to being his ideal.

Booklist 39:200 Ja 15 '43

"Although 'Drinkers of the Wind' is sometimes an inconsistent book, it is never dull, it is warm and kindly, and it is occasionally beautiful. Because of its subject matter, the book will appeal particularly to horse lovers, but adults and older children who are fascinated by faraway people, their hardships, their pleasures and their formalities will also find good reading in this story of a pilgrimage." Barbara Klaw

+ Books p10 Ja 24 '43 480w

"Unusual photographs of desert horses. Highly recommended for adults and adolescents who love horses and adventure." H. P. Bolman

+ Library J 67:908 O 15 '42 110w

"This is an unusual book written with an enchanting kind of artlessness. . . In its unbiased and natural approach, the report on his first expedition—in a world not yet shaken by war—and on the surprisingly noble customs of his friends and untiring hosts brings to mind de Poncin's book on Eskimo life, 'Kabloonah.' Today more than ever we are in need of understanding explorers of this kind, amateur anthropologists with 'gentle spirits' and 'tender hearts.'" Robert Pick

+ Sat R of Lit 25:17 N 21 '42 400w

RATCLIFF, JOHN DRURY. Science year book of 1942. 279p $2.50 Doubleday

505.8 Science—Yearbooks (W) (42-8189)

Planned as the first of an annual series. "Divided into four parts—'Physics and Chemistry,' 'Medical Research,' 'Applied Science and Invention,' and 'Agriculture,' such well-known writers as Frank Taylor, Harland Manchester, Roscoe Fleming, Albert Wiggam, Waldemar Kaempffert and Gilbert Geldes have contributed their efforts for the layman's enlightenment. A wide variety of subjects are discussed: the new klystron tube, the electric eye and electron microscope; the new serum for lepers, the wonder vitamin B complex, the work of the Dartmouth College Eye Institute, brain surgery, the mystery of aging; Dr. Moss' new turbine supercharger for airplanes, fluorescent lighting, the future of the radio. All birds help the farmer in one way or another; the South is alive to new methods to produce better crops and cattle; earthworms restore lost fertility to barren land; American seedmen are experimenting to make us independent of European markets; etc." Scientific Bk Club R

Booklist 38:304 Ap 15 '42

Bookmark 4:6 N '42

Reviewed by H. M. Parshley
Books p22 Je 14 '42 300w

"There are several articles, each of which makes it alone worth reading the whole volume. A few, however, are rather weak." Otto Zausmer

Boston Globe p19 My 27 '42 550w

New Repub 106:550 Ap 20 '42 50w

"Here we have the perfect combination. Read the book for the exciting lift of knowing not only that men and high-grade magazines are aware of the public's interest in science, but for the joy and confidence of knowing how research is aiding toward better health and efficiency."

+ Scientific Bk Club R 13:2 Ap '42 300w

RATH, REUBEN JOHN. Fall of the Napoleonic kingdom of Italy (1814). 247p maps $3 Columbia univ. press

945.08 Italy—History 41-18845

"After an initial chapter sketching the formation and organization of the Kingdom of Italy by Napoleon, Dr. Rath traces the forces that led to its overthrow; the military and diplomatic activities of the Allied powers, the growth of a sentiment for Italian independence among a small but influential fraction of the population. The activities of Italian writers, Allied propagandists, and secret societies in fomenting this spirit are carefully analyzed." (Am Hist R) Bibliography, Index.

"This is an excellent monograph based on a thorough exploitation of Austrian and Italian archival materials and on comprehensive study of the published sources and literature in German, Italian, French, and English. In the assembling and weighing of evidence the book displays a fine critical sense throughout. Nowhere does the author go beyond his evidence. . . The critical notes and references, the carefully compiled index and bibliography, together with the fine scholarship, make this monograph a finished piece of workmanship." H. M. Smyth

+ Am Hist R 48:101 O '42 420w

Social Studies 33:47 Ja '42 30w

RATH, MRS VIRGINIA. Epitaph for Lydia. 267p $2 Doubleday

42-36101

Detective story.

Booklist 38:252 Mr 15 '42

"One of Virginia Rath's liveliest stories." Will Cuppy

+ Books p13 F 15 '42 80w

"Too many complications and too many digressions mar what might have been an unusually good story." Isaac Anderson

+ N Y Times p24 F 15 '42 180w

New Yorker 17:64 F 7 '42 60w

"Engaging."

+ Sat R of Lit 25:21 F 21 '42 40w

RATH, MRS VIRGINIA. Posted for murder. 299p $2 Doubleday

42-21958

Detective story.

Reviewed by Will Cuppy

Books p25 S 27 '42 150w

"Should you ask whether this is a good story, the answer can best be given in the words of Ian's and Michael's Scottish grandfather, 'I wouldn't say no.'" Isaac Anderson

+ N Y Times p10 S 27 '42 250w

"Right up to the author's best."

+ New Yorker 18:68 O 3 '42 70w

RATNER, SIDNEY. American taxation; its history as a social force in democracy. 561p $4.50 Norton

336.2 Taxation—U.S. U.S.—Economic policy 42-6329

"The main emphasis of this work centers on the conflict between group pressures and the interests of the majority in the long struggle for a federal tax system of a progressive nature. . . Essentially, it is a penetrating commentary on the development of the federal tax system, dovetailed with concomitant movements influencing the weaving of the social, economic, and political fabric of the country—manifest destiny, populism, the Square Deal, the New Era, and the New Deal. The evolution of the federal tax system dominates the unfolding picture, and attention is always focused on the cleavage between those advocating excises and customs duties, and those, finally prevailing, to whom the income and inheritance taxes were the sine qua non of economic justice." (Am Pol Sci R) Index.

"Mr. Ratner's study is at the same time scholarly and interesting. The author has a happy faculty of selection of dramatic incidents and striking quotations without neglect of what is truly significant. . . Mr. Ratner's book is obviously, as his publishers say it is, the result of years of scholarly research. It contains a wealth of historical information. Its numerous footnote references and its extensive bibliography should be greatly helpful to anyone who may wish to pursue the investigation on any particular point or points still further, and it is easy to read." H. G. Brown

RATNER, SIDNEY—Continued

+ Am Econ R 32:602 S '42 1150w

Reviewed by E. L. Bogart

Am Hist R 48:144 O '42 550w

"While the whole work is well organized and amply documented, there are several points on which more emphasis might have been laid. For example, the gradual change of viewpoint as to governmental expenditures and the place of government in the national economy might have been synthesized into a short chapter. Again, a bird's-eye view of the national tax structure should not overlook the tax systems of the state and local governments." C. F. Conlon

+ — Am Pol Sci R 36:554 Je '42 850w

Reviewed by J. W. Martin

Ann Am Acad 225:253 Ja '43 600w

"It is the definitive work in its field. It has taken many years to write. It is the product of careful research. It is the work of an honest and first class mind. Its importance is to be judged by the fact Mr. Ratner sees in our methods of taxation not only sources of revenue, but 'instruments of economic justice and social welfare'. . . A cogent mind is here, alert and vigorous, subjecting decisions to brilliant and incisive analysis that is often new and always provocative. For those whom history has not taught that political power attends economic power, here is the book." Francis Downing

+ Commonweal 36:307 Jl 17 '42 550w

"Professor Ratner's treatment indicates acumen, diligence, and perseverance. A great mass of original and secondary material has been examined and researched, and a vast amount of effort and thought has gone into his monograph. It will prove very informative and stimulating, particularly to sympathetic readers. No one can really understand our federal tax system unless he knows much of its genesis and development; a detailed photographic picture of it at a particular instant of time, however accurate, is entirely inadequate for the student, citizen, lawyer or statesman who would know its inner essence. Not all, however, will have the same reaction to this work. Apparently the author has been much influenced by numerous liberal and so-called radical writers of recent times—particularly by Allan Nevins, Thorstein Veblen, Charles A. Beard, John Dewey, Edwin S. Corwin, Ferdinand Lundberg, John Maynard Keynes, and Franklin D. Roosevelt. Protectionists and conservatives may think that he has not been entirely impartial or unbiased, and he himself would probably admit that he is an enthusiastic New Dealer." R. G. Blakey

+ — Harvard Law R 55:1407 Je '42 1450w

"As a text or reference book, the volume should prove widely useful. Perhaps it is unfair to criticize such an extensive and scholarly work from the point of view of the general reader. Yet it is decidedly unsatisfying in a number of important ways." C. E. Noyes

+ — Nation 154:521 My 2 '42 950w

RAUSCHNING, ANNA (SCHWARTE) (MRS HERMANN RAUSCHNING). No retreat. 309p $2.75 Bobbs

943.085 Germany—Nazi movement. Refugees (W) 42-12400

The wife of Dr Hermann Rauschning, author of The Conservative Revolution (Book Review Digest, 1941) describes the hegira of her family from Germany to Poland, from Poland to France, and thence to America, and her own battle to preserve the integrity of her family.

Booklist 38:345 My 15 '42

"'No Retreat' is a book without pyrotechnics, without special pleading, a book written in bitterness, yet with a kind of exaltation, since somehow the Rauschning family has not only survived but kept its values unimpaired. At the end, in a final triumph of motherhood over instinctive national feeling, the author writes: 'I choose to remain in America,' and then she adds: 'I do not want my children to go back to Germany under any conditions.' Thus this German woman gives her answer to those who may still have some doubts as to what we are fighting to save." Virgilia Sapieha

+ Books p2 My 31 '42 1050w

Cleveland Open Shelf p9 My '42

"Mrs Rauschning's work is more moving than her husband's writings, because it is more intimate and human, and also seems more authentic. This is one of the most convincing of recent publications about the intolerable tyranny of Hitler's 'New Order.'" R. H. M.

+ Manchester Guardian p10 My 29 '42 650w

Reviewed by Betsy Hutchison

Nation 155:136 Ag 15 '42 390w

New Repub 106:614 My 4 '42 60w

"Powerful and humanly enlightening book. The memories of the farm life are idyllic, so genuinely lovely as to be genuinely heart-breaking. . . Frau Rauschning had done her own part in opening her husband's eyes to Nazi realities. She is felt individually in her book as a strong, devoted, interesting personality. Her story is told, too, with artistic balance as well as sincerity."

+ N Y Times p2 My 10 '42 600w

"Here is an unpretentious and deeply human book to be highly recommended to American women and mothers—and especially to those who still are doubtful as to what this war is really about. Measured by the yardstick of the physical sufferings of the average European refugee, the lot of Mrs. Rauschning and her family may still be considered a soft one. But this is exactly why her story is so valuable; for, paradoxical and pathetic as it may sound, nothing is, in the long run, less impressive in a narrative than the accumulation of the completely horrible." Robert Pick

+ Sat R of Lit 25:18 My 9 '42 550w

RAUSCHNING, HERMANN. Men of chaos [Eng title: Makers of destruction; meetings and talks in revolutionary Germany; tr, by E. W. Dickes]. 341p $3 Putnam [15s Eyre]

943.085 Germany—Nazi movement. Germany —Biography (W) 42-20391

Accounts of the Nazi leaders surrounding Hitler, written by the former president of the Danzig senate. It consists largely of remembered conversations with these men, and an analysis of their characters and rise to power. The ruthless planning and scientific precision of the Nazi ideology is demonstrated during the years from 1933 to the outbreak of the war. Index.

"One may doubt whether these 'conversations' with Nazi adventurers, mountebanks, engineers, diplomats, revolutionaries, soldiers, business men, sadists and declassés ever actually occurred in these words. But certainly Rauschning has remembered the spirit and substantial views of all that motley band of malefactors who have led the Germans with no excessive difficulty down the slope of destruction." E. A. Mowrer

Books p7 S 13 '42 1550w

"Recommended as important because of convincing delineation of Germany's present leaders who would continue destruction, with or without Hitler." D. F. Lucas

+ Library J 67:681 Ag '42 120w

New Repub 107:357 S 21 '42 60w

"Some of Rauschning's revelations are deliberate and some are unwitting. He understands the Nazis as few men do, and writes with great acumen about them. His understanding of his own class, on the other hand—the 'Junkers,' to use a convenient label—is considerably less penetrating." W. R. Deuel

N Y Times p4 S 13 '42 1050w

Reviewed by Clifton Fadiman

New Yorker 18:57 Ag 29 '42 230w

"These are no coffee-house chats; they are the stuff of which Nazism is made. They furnish the key to many world important events of the past decade—quite possibly of the next one. . . In 'Men of Chaos' . . . we get a self-portrait of Rauschning that shows him to be no revolutionary, but apparently a Junker at heart. This is a highly revealing book. But Rauschnig has his blind spots. He fails to see the Junker in perspective." H. C. Wolfe

+ — Sat R of Lit 25:8 O 5 '42 550w

"Herr Rauschnig's latest instalment of his reflections and remembrings is as interesting and illuminating as any he has given to us. If it is said that some of his testimony of the working of the Nazi mind and machinery is second-hand, it is none the less pertinent to the picture he is seeking to compose—and the completed picture is startling."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p99 F 28 '42 1450w

RAUSHENBUSH, ESTHER. Literature for individual education. (Sarah Lawrence college. Publications) 262p $2.75 Columbia univ. press [14s Oxford]

807 Literature—Study and teaching 42-14043

A report on the teaching of an exploratory course in English literature to the freshmen at the Sarah Lawrence college. Contents: Our principal assumptions; The exploratory courses; An approach to books; Ways of exploration; Some class discussions; The freshmen at work; College work and emotional problems; Two continued stories. Appendix: The books the freshmen read. Index.

"Mrs. Raushenbush has set a noble pace for the reports that are to tell of exploratory courses in other fields; teachers of those subjects are primed to expect something that will enlighten their outlook and their practice. And 'Literature for Individual Education' has evangelical force at a time when we are enjoined to examine afresh the grounds for what we teach. In the stress of war some voices demand that we concentrate on the immediately useful, the physical need. Mrs. Raushenbush and her colleagues renew our faith in the value of the humanities, for they have shown concretely what power lies in books to engage young people in a sane examination of the issues of life." H. A. Dominovich

+ School & Society 57:49 Ja 9 '43 1300w

Reviewed by Henry Bowman
Survey 78:348 D '42 130w

RAUSHENBUSH, WINIFRED. How to dress in wartime; il. by Eleanor Johnson. 198p $2 Coward-McCann

646 Clothing and dress (W) 42-25637

"This book tries to show how the more and more limited resources of our wartime dress economy can be made to yield their maximum in terms of sensible, economical and attractive clothes." Pref.

Booklist 39:179 Ja 1 '43

"This admirable little book . . . is one of the few works on fashion that seems likely to be permanently up to date."

+ Books p31 N 29 '42 250w

Cleveland Open Shelf p22 N '42

RAVEN, CHARLES EARLE. Lessons of the Prince of peace; Bishop of London's Lenten book for 1942. 96p $1 (2s 6d) Longmans

230 Christianity. War and religion 42-50444

"In the 'terror and splendor of these apocalyptic days,' Dr. Raven writes of the call and the constraint of Christ, of his demands upon men, his uniting influence among men and the fulfillment of human hopes and divine purposes in him, with the conviction that if Christianity does not have a persuasive and healing message amid the stresses of war it will be useless to expect much from it when peace has been restored." Christian Century

Christian Century 59:698 My 27 '42 80w

"Although very involved the famous English divine gives many nubs of helpful truths and spiritual experiences." A. L. B-C.

Churchman 156:31 S 1 '42 70w

"There is nothing pietistic or other-worldly about it. It is in close contact with reality. But it is at once simple and profound and draws valuable lessons about Sensitiveness (awareness of God), Service, Loyalty, Fellowship, Failure, and Success from study of Christ's teaching."

+ Manchester Guardian p3 F 24 '42 150w

"It is a vigorous, encouraging book, and well designed for times as difficult as those in which we live."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p143 Mr 21 '42 140w

RAWLEY, CALLMAN (CARL RAKOSI, pseud). Selected poems. $1; pa 50c New directions

811 42-18829

"Carl Rakosi makes no pretense of social significance. His poems belong to a movement never properly defined, called Objectivism. It stems from Imagism and is brief, hard, clear and simple." N Y Times

"Though he has published less than most of his contemporaries, and though what he has written will appeal only to a limited, discriminating audience, Carl Rakosi turns out the carefully disciplined and distinguished work of a mature poet."

+ Books p30 My 10 '42 230w

Reviewed by Oscar Williams
New Repub 107:28 Jl 6 '42 50w

"The poetry is meticulous and somewhat elegant and is distinguished by a sense of strangeness, especially in the under-sea images of 'Lobster' . . . which I think the best poem. It is factual, and it has a slight edge of that curious lore that makes Marianne Moore interesting reading. . . . It is a small poetry but, carefully considered, one sees that it has come from a mind that could be expansive but cares only for the ultimate aristocracy of the word." P. M. Jack

+ N Y Times p5 My 17 '42 240w

RAWLINGS, FRANK. Lipping man. 256p $2 Gateway

42-23664

Detective story.

Reviewed by Will Cuppy
Books p31 N 8 '42 150w

"Chance is neither the first magician-detective nor the best, but he is pretty good at that." Isaac Anderson

N Y Times p16 N 8 '42 160w

RAWLINGS, MARJORIE (KINNAN) (MRS NORTON SANFORD BASKIN). Cross Creek. 368p il $2.50 Scribner

B or 92 Authors—Correspondence, reminiscences, etc. (W) 42-36118

The author of The Yearling (Book Review Digest, 1938) lived for thirteen years in a remote section of the Florida hammock at Cross Creek. There were only seven families, five of them white, the other two black, and life was simple in the extreme. Mrs Rawlings describes her life there with such sensitivity and vividness that each character stands out recognizably, each event becomes the nucleus of a story.

Appeared on Best Seller list in: ALA (1) Books (34) B & T (1) N Y Times (7) PW (12) RB (6) W (1)

"It is hard to see how anybody can read Cross Creek without pleasure amounting to glee." R. M. Gay

+ Atlantic Ap '42 650w

Booklist 38:274 Ap 1 '42

Bookmark 3:13 My '42

"Marjorie Kinnan Rawling's new work, 'Cross Creek' is a generous book. . . . Unstintingly she fills the pages of this personal narra-

RAWLINGS, M. K.—Continued

itive with character, with incident, with description of daily life and of the seasons. It is as though she took the reader into complete confidence and told him how it is and why it is she writes as she does. Apart from the excellence of her writing, there is something deeply honest and engaging about this volume, something innately modest which seeks to share the personal and professional fulfillment that has come to her with the place and the people which nourish it. In presenting them to others, she is, in a way, making grateful acknowledgment to them for gifts received." Rose Feld

+ Books p1 Mr 15 '42 1250w

Reviewed by N. E. Monroe

Cath World 155:502 J1 '42 450w

"There is humor here, and pathos as well; there is also a measure of the saltiness, the forthrightness, which plays as large a part in Mrs. Rawlings's style as her sensitive awareness of beauty and recesses of wonder and awe. The latter aspect of her work has never been more effectively shown than in the chapters of the present book which make Florida itself the protagonist, in luminous descriptions of the lush vegetation, the exotic birds, the animals and reptiles; the sounds and scents of the sub-tropics; the changes which take place even there, as the four seasons turn." M. W. S.

+ Christian Science Monitor p18 Mr 30 '42 450w

Cleveland Open Shelf p11 My '42

"Chesterton wrote one of the better autobiographies in the English language—almost entirely about other people. This partial autobiography by a Pulitzer prize winner is about people of the Creek and their country. Yet in its total innocence of egotism it is a remarkably revealing cross-section of the life of the author. It is well to pause with her and, by viewing her world through her eyes, come to know a brave and beautiful personality." Sister Mariella, O.S.B.

+ Commonweal 35:651 Ap 17 '42 420w

"Excellent reading, enthusiastically recommended for purchase." F. A. Boyle

+ Library J 67:224 Mr 1 '42 60w

"The flavor of America is in Marjorie Rawlings' warm and leisurely account of her neighbors and her everyday affairs in a little Florida Hamlet." M. C. Scoggin

+ Library J 67:895 O 15 '42 20w

"The Florida she pictures is not the Florida of the resort folders; it is hard and crude, but being at least quiet and warless it has a good deal to recommend it just now, and 'Cross Creek' places it before you with haunting charm." L. B. Salomon

+ Nation 154:346 Mr 21 '42 240w

Reviewed by Max Glissen

New Repub 106:469 Ap 6 '42 550w

"The new book by the author of 'The Yearling' is not a novel. But it could have been written only from a born novelist's sensitiveness and skill. . . . Observation and acquaintance have become insight; experience is not mere event but response. The novelist's awareness has touched people and place and incident, and the result is beauty and laughter and poignancy and truth. . . . Mrs. Rawlings's style, like her mood, is always suited to her material; and she catches the community of land and people, so, in the strength and mirth and loveliness of her book. That wholeness of communication, of embodiment is what gives 'Cross Creek' its unique character and value." Katherine Woods

+ N Y Times p1 Mr 15 '42 1000w

"There's a three-page story about a man named Marsh Turner that is as beautifully turned as any brief tragic tale I can remember off-hand, and there is a long anecdote called 'A Pig Is Paid For' that confronts us sharply with the unassailable fact that Mrs. Rawlings is one of the funniest writers now operating in these states. All of her sketches and ruminations and local bits and pieces are firmly mortised with the cement of her own temperament, clear-eyed, humorous, and reverent." Clifton Fadiman

+ New Yorker 18:68 Mr 21 '42 600w

Pratt p13 O '42

"Marjorie Rawlings raises oranges and good stories at Cross Creek. And, being a good novelist, she sees even more than meets the eye. Her 'Cross Creek' more or less comprises the original research for a dozen novels, at least two hundred and sixty-five assorted short stories, and five and one-half serial stories suitable for publication in the very best women's magazines. Not that Mrs. Rawlings suitably disposes of any of the Cross Creek tales in a wholly pleasing and commercial manner as far as the women's magazines are concerned. Her eyes are too sharp for that; her romantic micrometer too accurately manipulated." Carroll Munro

+ Sat R of Lit 25:6 Ap 4 '42 650w

Reviewed by Kate O'Brien

Spec 169:560 D 11 '42 100w

Time 39:76 Mr 23 '42 1500w

Wis Lib Bul 38:86 My '42

RAWLINGS, MARJORIE (KINNAN) (MRS NORTON SANFORD BASKIN). Cross Creek cookery; with drawings by Robert Camp. 230p $2.50 Scribner

641.5 Cookery

(W) 42-25465

Recipes for foods which the author has served at Cross Creek. Some of them are native to Florida; others are family recipes. The recipes are grouped under the following headings: soups; hot breads; luncheon dishes; vegetables; potatoes, rice, and grits; Florida sea foods; game and meats; salads; desserts; and preserves, jellies, and marmalades. Index.

Booklist 39:179 Ja 1 '43

"Mrs. Rawlings is full of culinary prejudices, which, being in many cases identical with my own, seem to me wholly admirable. . . . Even my shocked disagreement with the Cross Creek formula for adding flour to corn pone, or for frying young doves and quail in deep fat, or for frying venison, cannot shake my warm enthusiasm for the instinctive wisdom of what Mrs. Rawlings has to say about all food. In the bleak days in which we live there is a warmth in hearing about the cookery at Cross Creek, which may help us over several cold years to come." Sheila Hibben

+ Books p8 N 29 '42 1100w

RAWSON, CLAYTON (STUART TOWNE, pseud). No coffin for the corpse. 280p $2 Little

(W) 42-17219

Detective story.

Reviewed by Will Cuppy

Books p16 J1 12 '42 350w

Reviewed by Kay Irvin

N Y Times p18 J1 12 '42 200w

"Complex plot, neatly worked out at the end."

+ New Yorker 18:56 J1 11 '42 60w

"Liberal education in spiritism racket as well as closely knit and exciting yarn with wind-up that's nearly unguessable. Top billing."

+ Sat R of Lit 25:21 J1 18 '42 40w

"Superabundant—and engrossing—data about spirits, fakirs, and magic slightly retard the movement of an otherwise excellent story."

+ Time 40:80 Ag 3 '42 80w

RAWSON, MRS MARION (NICHOLL). New Hampshire borns a town; il. by the author. 319p $3.50 Dutton

974.2 Alstead, New Hampshire

42-9283

Topically arranged, anecdotal history of a New Hampshire town from its founding in the 1750's to the eve of the Civil war. Illustrated with many line drawings by the author showing old houses, bits of landscape, burying-grounds, bridges, etc. Index.

"A very entertaining book." Stewart Holbrook

+ Books p2 Ap 5 '42 1250w

Reviewed by W. E. Cram

Commonweal 36:161 Je 5 '42 410w

"The book contains invaluable items for the economic and social historian, and although the interpretation and synthesis may not satisfy him, its pages spread a rich feast for those antiquarians and collectors who delight in anything which was familiar once and is not now. And therefore, the strictures of the scholar are, after all, beside the point since Mrs. Rawson obviously was not writing for him." K. B. Murdock

+ New Eng Q 15:567 S '42 750w

"It is Mrs. Rawson's pleasant task to read the old record books, dip into tradition, talk with old people and with those who in their youth talked with still older people, look at the beautiful landscape and the sometimes equally beautiful houses, and watch the pioneer life grow and ripen and become fruitful. Those of us who spent our young days in small rural towns in New England will find the stories familiar. What happened here happened elsewhere, under different names. . . The drawings are plain and good and full of the spirit of the old town. One would like a good birdseye view of the 'Midel Town,' but the author's and artist's knack seems to be rather for the vignette." R. L. Duffus

+ N Y Times p8 Mr 29 '42 1650w

RAY, MRS MARIE BEYNON (LYONS). Doctors of the mind; the story of psychiatry; il. by Ruth Ray. 335p $3 Little

616.8 Psychology, Pathological 42-20429

Account of the development of psychiatry from the days of Mesmer to the present, written in popular form for the layman. Includes sketches of the progress made in recent years in the treatment of diseases and defects of the brain and nervous system. Index.

Booklist 39:44 O 15 '42

"The story that Mrs. Ray has to tell is a fascinating one and it has seldom been better told. The former editor of 'Vogue' writes of a grim business with freshness and sparkle, with zest for the great deeds she records and with humor for the battles of men of science. In her hands the quest for knowledge concerning the working of the human mind becomes exciting as a mystery story. As a layman she has done a remarkable job in digesting a mass of detail and rendering this familiar. As a reporter she presents scenes from modern hospitals for mental disease that make the spine tingle. The psychiatrists could ask for no more able publicist." Lorine Pruett

+ Books p16 S 13 '42 750w

"A fascinating subject, of course, and the author manages to make it appear fairly simple. Even so, you may suspect that it didn't need to be quite so highly colored and that Mrs. Ray might have been less cheery about such matters as the shock treatment for schizophrenia."

New Yorker 18:59 Ag 29 '42 60w

"In writing this book, Mrs. Ray has had the full cooperation of the many leading physicians whom she has interviewed and whose methods of treatment she was privileged to observe. What she has written has been checked by the doctors concerned, and the manuscript as a whole was read by Dr. C. Charles Burlingame, Dr. Manfred Sakel, and Dr. Ira S. Wile. Thus, the book is unusually authentic for a volume prepared by a reporter and amateur scientist, rather than by a professional worker dealing with his own specialty. Rarely, indeed, are readers so fortunate as to find such a combination of vivid, supple literary style and meticulous attention to accuracy of statement when dealing with modern miracles of science."

+ Scientific Bk Club R 13:4 S '42 240w

Wis Lib Bul 38:158 N '42

RAYMOND, ERNEST. Last to rest. 344p $2.50 Kinsey [9s 6d Cassell]

42-2426

Portrait of a middle-aged Englishman and his family, from 1938 to the bombing of London. Mr Shepherd, an accountant, and his wife, a writer in a small way, went to the Prague Writers' conference in 1938, taking with them their lively young son, Peter. Enid aged sixteen, had to stay home to pass her school examinations. In Prague, father and son fell in love with the Czechs and their ideas of democracy, so when the war came to Britain Mr Shepherd insisted on doing his bit. He left the comparative safety of the country to live in London. Peter was an anti-aircraft gunner; Enid, an ambulance driver; their father became an air-raid warden. The story closes with Enid's death during a raid.

"Pausing breathless on the last page of a novel that gathers speed as history did, one realizes that by sharing not only what took place but what Mr. Shepherd thought and felt about it one has passed through the conversion in our time of nineteenth century liberalism to a fighting as well as a thinking force. Art has caught up with life; in this work of fiction that tremendous process has been lived through. It is strangely comforting." M. L. Becker

+ Books p5 F 15 '42 650w

"Not up to public library standards. Not recommended." H. A. Carpenter

— Library J 67:131 F 1 '42 50w

Reviewed by J. D. Beresford

Manchester Guardian p3 S 12 '41 100w

"Those sections of the book which show civilian London preparing for the Blitzkrieg have particular timeliness just now, especially since they are written, toughly and factually, by an ex-soldier. An integral part of the story because of Shepherd's share in them, they have also . . . value as a candid picture of mistakes made no less than of success achieved. . . In the final tragic scene when Blitzkrieg has bereaved Shepherd, the liaison between reader and sufferer is so complete that one understands his quiet decision to 'go on, and do more.'" J. S. Southron

+ N Y Times p7 F 8 '42 850w

New Yorker 17:61 F 7 '42 70w

"Mr. Raymond gives some vivid impressions of war-time London. But the facetiousness of his principal character makes the book very hard and tedious to read." John Hampson

+ — Spec 167:366 O 10 '41 130w

Springf'd Republican p7e F 15 '42 330w

"Although there are certain passages in Mr. Raymond's new novel that are a little discomforting and embarrassing, it is a book that is worthy to stand beside the best that has been written about England under the Nazi Blitzkrieg."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p437 S 6 '41 450w

RAYMOND, MARGARET THOMSEN, and MOHR, CARL OTTO. Prairie dog town; phot. by J. W. Jackson and others; drawings by Carl O. Mohr. 57p $1.50 Dodd

599.32 Prairie dogs 42-11754

Life story of a Colorado prairie dog family, describing their home, upbringing, enemies, and characteristics. Illustrated with photographs and drawings. For grades three to five.

Reviewed by A. E. Brown

Library J 67:477 My 15 '42 60w

Reviewed by P. D. Edie

Library J 67:892 O 15 '42 10w

"Aided by many clear drawings and delightful photographs, the authors show the life cycle of this little creature in a readable text that children from 7 to 12 will enjoy." A. T. E.

+ N Y Times p8 Je 7 '42 200w

Wis Lib Bul 38:141 O '42

RAYMOND, MARGARET THOMSEN, and ZYLSTRA, FREIDA. Skylark; a story of a girl photographer who flew over South America. 340p il $2 Dodd

41-23712

Career story for girls. It describes a girl photographer's trip by airplane over South America, and is based upon Miss Zylstra's own experiences.

RAYMOND, M. T.—Continued

"An appealing career story, combining thrills and romance as well as reality and information that carry to the reader the fact that courage, skill and initiative are requisites for a career in photography." F. B. Sloan

+ Christian Science Monitor p11 My 28 '42 130w

"Travel incidents are interesting but sketchy; the story would be improved by more plot, instead of letters in the middle chapters, and by distinctive pictures. Good characterization, some love interest. . . . Recommended for high school girls, but boys will read it for the pilot angle." Maude Adams

+ — Library J 66:1096 D 15 '41 50w

REA, MARGARET LUCILE PAINE. Death walks the Dry Tortugas. 278p $2 Doubleday 42-18666

Detective story.

"Not bad, not bad."

+ Boston Globe p17 Ag 5 '42 20w

"You will be entertained and horrified." Isaac Anderson

N Y Times p14 Ag 2 '42 180w

"Eerie surroundings of crumbling Civil War prison-fort and odd lot of characters more interesting than murders though plotting is competent. Average."

+ Sat R of Lit 25:17 Ag 8 '42 40w

READ, JAMES MORGAN. Atrocity propaganda, 1914-1919; pub. for the Univ. of Louisville. 319p $3.50 Yale univ. press

940.488 European war, 1914-1918—Propaganda. European war, 1914-1918—Atrocities 41-24133

For descriptive note see Annual for 1941.

Reviewed by G. S. Ford

Am Hist R 47:560 Ap '42 500w

"Close scrutiny of the facts and opinions involved in important situations is always a serviceable task; and that is true of this study. However, emphasis upon unique facts of specific instances of atrocity has deflected the author from full collective analysis. Also, the case analyses are not entirely convincing when they must needs depend upon secondary works, many of which were produced during the years when propaganda about war propaganda was in flower." H. C. Beyle

Am Pol Sci R 36:390 Ap '42 180w

"Although too heavily burdened with detail for the general reader, the book will be found to be extremely satisfactory to the student of the period or the specialist on public opinion." H. C. Peterson

+ Ann Am Acad 220:227 Mr '42 380w

"The volume will hardly be popularly read but will furnish valuable source for reference and study, in its field." T. F. Opie

Churchman 156:16 F 15 '42 150w

Reviewed by R. G. Woolbert

Foreign Affairs 20:569 Ap '42 30w

Reviewed by Gregory Zilboorg, M.D.

Sat R of Lit 25:6 Mr 7 '42 1250w

REAVIS, WILLIAM CLAUDE, and JUDD, CHARLES HUBBARD. The teacher and educational administration. 604p $3 Houghton 371 School administration and organization. Teachers 42-9967

"This book is an outgrowth of twenty years of experimental efforts to develop fundamental course material dealing with the administrative responsibilities and relations of teachers and with the problems of administration that are of vital concern to teachers. . . . In the writing of the book, the needs of readers of four types have been constantly kept in mind: (1) students in teacher-training institutions who have had no experience in classroom teaching; (2) teachers in service whose training for administrative or noninstructional duties has been neglected and who now realize the importance of a thorough knowledge of the place of the teacher in educational administration; (3) persons preparing for administrative positions in village, town, and city school systems; and (4) administrators who desire to consider with their teachers the numerous responsibilities and interests of those teachers in the administrative aspects of education. . . . The volume here presented attempts to provide a systematic and well-balanced treatment of all the areas of educational administration considered fundamental to teachers. It is written from the viewpoint of the teacher and is intended to supply the information needed by teachers in meeting the array of administrative responsibilities which are encountered at all levels of service." (Pref) Chapter bibliographies. Index.

"One may well question the distribution of space among the various topics. The two chapters dealing with the relation of the teacher to school finance and to the federal government seem unduly detailed for a book of this kind. These chapters appear to have been written from the point of view of the administrator rather than that of the teacher. On the other hand, the responsibility of the teacher for making periodic reports to parents receives relatively scant attention. No mention is made of the diagnostic letter, which in many progressive school systems is replacing the traditional report card. The responsibility of the teacher for pupil attendance is inadequately treated in less than a page. The volume contains a wealth of excellent material. The selected references at the end of each chapter are well chosen, and the brief summary of each reference adds to its value." F. T. Goodier

+ — EI School J 42:789 Je '42 700w

"This volume will serve well as a textbook for courses such as those which are called 'A General Introduction to Educational Administration' or 'The Teacher and Administration.' It should prove valuable in connection with in-service training programs, discussion groups, and professional meetings." L. N. Morrisett

+ School R 50:536 S '42 800w

RECK, FRANKLIN MERING. Varsity letter. 238p $2 Crowell

(W) 42-10685

A collection of college sports stories, all laid in a typical American college, "State," and covering football, baseball, ice hockey, golf, etc.

Booklist 38:349 My 15 '42

"These tales are easy, original and coherent, held together by the distinctive quality of life at an American State College. . . . They are the more convincing, for being simply written; together they represent something formative." M. L. Becker

+ Books p8 Ap 26 '42 290w

Reviewed by F. B. Sloan

Christian Science Monitor p11 My 28 '42 90w

Reviewed by Dorothy Lawson

Library J 67:477 My 15 '42 50w

Wis Lib Bul 38:100 Je '42

RECKITT, MAURICE BENINGTON, and CASERLEY, JULIAN VICTOR LANGMEAD. Vocation of England. 173p $1.75 (5s; pa 3s 6d) Longmans

914.2 Great Britain—Civilization. Great Britain—Religion 42-14651

"This is a critical and constructive analysis of the culture that is peculiarly England's. That its loss to the world would be irreparable is the basic assumption in these discussions by the Church Union School of Sociology as presented by two of its members. . . . They tell what England must do to preserve and perpetuate her national genius." Churchman

Reviewed by W. F. Thompson

Churchman 156:17 Je 1 '42 210w

"It is a book of great learning and absorbing interest, full of generalisations with some of which I disagree but which are all thought-provoking."

+ Manchester Guardian p3 F 24 '42 80w

Reviewed by Sidney Dark

New Statesman & Nation 23:128 F 21 '42 600w

"In the questions which it evokes, quite as much as in the positive statements which it makes, lies the value of this book."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p50 Ja 31 '42 700w

RED CROSS. UNITED STATES. American national Red cross. American Red cross textbook on Red cross home nursing; prepared under the direction of Nursing service, Am. Red cross, by Lona L. Trott. 431p il $1.10; pa 60c Blakiston

649 Hygiene. Nurses and nursing (W) 42-19971

"This official Red Cross manual aims to help homemakers and potential homemakers to meet personal and family health problems in their own homes and does not attempt to train workers for hospitals or homes. Two members of the AHEA shared in its preparation: Melva B. Bakkie, director of the Red Cross nutrition service, Edna P. Amidon, chief of the home economics education service, U. S. Office of Education." J Home Econ

"Red Cross Home Nursing is written, it would appear, for Mrs. John Doe and her daughters. We believe they, and even father and brother, will like the book and want to own it, for it is a veritable mine of authentic information and a reliable index for more if desired." Margaret Reid

+ Am J Pub Health 32:1409 D '42 450w
J Home Econ 34:553 O '42 70w

REDDEN, JOHN D., and RYAN, FRANCIS ALOYSIUS. Catholic philosophy of education. 605p $3.50 Bruce pub.

370.1 Roman Catholic church—Education. Education—Philosophy 42-18335

"In the preface Dr. Redden and Dr. Ryan of the School of Education at Fordham University state their end and the means by which they hope to attain it—"The purpose of this book is to present a Catholic philosophy of education flowing from a Catholic philosophy of life. The authors have attempted to achieve this objective in three ways: (1) by setting forth the fundamental principles of education in the light of Scholastic philosophy, (2) by applying that philosophy in a critical evaluation of certain false philosophies of education, (3) by presenting evidence to show that Catholic education takes into account the "whole man," because it embraces the discipline of all the powers of body and soul, and essentially is, therefore, religious, moral, liberal, cultural and universal." Cath World

Reviewed by G. C. Dammann

+ Cath World 156:366 D '42 700w

"A Catholic Philosophy of Education" is well designed and well written. Particularly are definitions stated clearly, concisely, and yet comprehensively. . . Throughout the book quotations from many sources have been used for substantiating statements and points of view. These have been selected judiciously and used wisely. . . Because of its soundness, its excellent form, and the careful presentation of material this book will find wide usage as a basic text in Catholic colleges. It will also be an essential and valuable item in the library of Catholic educators." W. A. Kelly

+ School & Society 56:524 N 28 '42 650w

REDDING, JAY SAUNDERS. No day of triumph; with an introd. by Richard Wright. 342p $3 Harper

325.26 Negroes (W) 42-22760

The author, a Negro college professor, was commissioned by the University of North Carolina with funds from the Rockefeller foundation, to "go out into Negro life in the South—go anywhere you like and see what you find." His book combines something of his own autobiography with a report of what he found.

"An angry and honest and compassionate book; a better book than the University of North Carolina and the Rockefeller Foundation, who subsidized it, had any right to expect; perhaps the sanest and most eloquent study of the Negro American that has appeared." Wallace Stegner

+ Atlantic 170:130 D '42 850w

Booklist 39:132 D 15 '42

"This is a surprising book, one that will catch you off balance and sock you before you can duck. You may see stars." Arna Bon-temps

+ Books p4 O 11 '42 950w

"In general this book is the most accurate picture we have of Southern life as it appears to an educated Northern Negro." Malcolm Cowley

+ New Repub 107:470 O 12 '42 1100w

Reviewed by W. S. Meacham

+ N Y Times p8 O 25 '42 1200w

Reviewed by O. G. Villard

Sat R of Lit 25:15 N 21 '42 550w

"Mr Redding's book ought to be read by every Negro of the middle class in America and by all of 'the talented tenth.' They need not agree with all that the author says as he flays the pessimism and self-indulgence of some of their class, but it will prove a healthy stimulant against falling into similar habits of thought and action. Members of the white group who read the book need to be warned that this is not a complete picture of the Negro in America today, but it is a revelation of much that goes on in the shadow of democracy." S. R. Harlow

+ — Springf'd Republican p7e N 8 '42 750w

REED, RUTH. Single woman. 227p $2 Macmillan

396 Woman. Spinsters 42-25298

"Dr. Reed deals with the problems of the single woman from a practical, common-sense point of view. She does not touch the deep frustrations which are likely to beset such women. Her book is based on interviews with 300 single women concerning their attitudes toward themselves and their work, their living arrangements, their recreations, etc. The author is professor in the school of social welfare of the Catholic University." Christian Century

Christian Century 59:1496 D 2 '42 70w

"Will interest career women and many others who have adapted to [a] way of life they had not planned. Without sentimentality, with touches of lightness; should prove useful book." J. M. Flexner

+ Library J 67:951 N 1 '42 110w

REED, TRUMBULL. The catalyst. 255p $2 Presbyterian bd.

42-18728

"The story of a young preacher and a girl chemist whose skepticism kept them apart—until the last chapter. By that time her skepticism had disappeared before 'revelation in a test-tube.'" Christian Century

"The Catalyst' is an interesting study of how love fused the lives of the maid of science and the man of faith." Lisle Bell

+ Books p22 N 1 '42 180w

Christian Century 59:1359 N 4 '42 30w

"Very light fiction, interesting as a love story to older young people. Encouraging, perhaps, but will hardly be held a substantial contribution to a serious 'solution to the doubts and moral conflicts of thinking people.'" Elizabeth Beal

+ — Library J 67:913 O 15 '42 70w

REED, WALLACE. Marked for murder. 256p $2
Phoenix

41-13503

Detective story.

"The author has provided enough suspects to make the going difficult for the reader as well as the detective. You can well afford to give this story a miss." Isaac Anderson

— N Y Times p21 Ja 25 '42 220w

"Not literature, not even refined; merely full of good old-fashioned skulduggery."

New Yorker 17:80 S G '41 60w

REGLI, ADOLPH CASPER. The Mayos; pioneers in medicine; il. by Raffaello Busoni. 248p $2.50 Messner

926.1 Mayo, William Worrall. Mayo, William James. Mayo, Charles Horace (W) 42-11788

Story of the lives of the three Mayos, Dr William Worrall Mayo, and his sons William and Charles, who founded the Mayo clinic in Minnesota. Contains a listing of the honors bestowed upon the doctors; a bibliography, and an index.

"Style does not contribute much, but this lack seems hardly important. Format is attractive although illustrations by R. Busoni are only passable. Recommended for young people fourteen and over." Alice Vielehr

+ — Library J 67:477 My 15 '42 70w

Reviewed by M. C. Scoggin

Library J 67:895 O 15 '42 20w

Reviewed by E. L. Buell

N Y Times p9 Ag 23 '42 400w

"Although it shows signs of having been rather hastily put together, this book . . . [is] excellent as vocational reading for boys with a leaning toward medicine."

+ Wis Lib Bul 38:100 Je '42

REICH, HERBERT JOSEPH. Principles of electron tubes. 398p il $3.50 McGraw 537.53 Vacuum tubes. Electric circuits

41-22929

"Essentially an abridgment of the author's well-known Theory and Application of Electron Tubes, [Book Review Digest, 1939] the present volume is designed to meet the need for a text suitable for courses offered primarily for students who do not intend to specialize in communication. In the abridged edition some of the material has been deleted and the rest has been modified sufficiently to give unity and coherence. New material includes a brief treatment of electron dynamics and an introductory treatment of frequency modulation." (Publisher's note) Author and subject indexes. Answers to problems.

N Y New Tech Bks 27:30 Ap '42

Reviewed by R. W. Sears

R of Scientific Instruments 13:165 Ap '42 650w

REICHENBACH, HANS. From Copernicus to Einstein; tr. by Ralph B. Winn. 123p $2 Philosophical lib; Alliance bk.

530.1 Relativity (physics). Physics—History. Copernicus, Nicolaus. Einstein, Albert 42-17603

"Scientific history of ideas and discoveries that have led to the formulation of the theory of relativity. The story begins with the revolt of Copernicus against the Ptolemaic system and presents a systematic development of his views of the world. It shows how the modern conception of space and time has been affected by findings in the field of light and electricity. The theory of relativity is demonstrated to be an outgrowth of these two major trends and is discussed briefly but so clearly as to be readily understood by any intelligent layman." Publisher's note

"This is a highly competent popular account. . . Readers unfamiliar with the central ideas of the special and general theory should find it a useful introduction to the subject, free from common misrepresentations. It is nevertheless not clear why the book has been published at this time, since it contains little that has not been widely accessible to English readers for many years. . . The present translation is only a fair job, since the translator is not at home with the standard English equivalents of technical German phrases." E. N.

+ — J Philos 39:448 Jl 30 '42 180w

N Y New Tech Bks 27:42 Jl '42

"This story has been told over and over again. It is the peculiar merit of this new version that it is presented from the astronomer's and the philosopher's point of view, which is what we may expect from so able a scientist and pragmatic a philosopher as Professor Reichenbach. . . All the eminences who figure in Professor Reichenbach's captivating volume concerned themselves with space, time and motion—the essentials of astronomy. . . It is a pleasure to record that Mr. Winn has made an exemplary translation in good, idiomatic English." W. K.

+ N Y Times p2 Je 14 '42 500w

Reviewed by H. P. Robertson

R of Scientific Instruments 13:453 O '42 420w

REID, ALBERT CLAYTON. Invitation to worship; with an introd. by Willard L. Sperry. 157p $1.50 Abingdon-Cokesbury

252 Sermons

42-11274

Fifty short sermons, five-minute talks, most of them delivered in the chapel at Harvard University during one summer when the author served there as chaplain. Dr Reid is professor of philosophy at Wake Forest college.

"Anyone can read [these talks] with spiritual profit. Preachers can read them as models of condensation without sterility."

+ Christian Century 59:530 Ap 22 '42 70w

"[These addresses] are crisp without being staccato, devout without being soft, practical without being inconsequential. Five minutes a day with this little book will do things for a man." M. S. Enslin

+ Crozer Q 19:255 Jl '42 200w

REILLY, MRS HELEN (KIERAN). Name your poison. 273p $2 Random house

(W) 42-20994

Detective story.

Booklist 39:34 O 1 '42

"As always, Mrs. Reilly writes with grim strength and hesitates not an instant to spring powerful mystery devices when and where they will do the most good. Love in quantities, wedded and otherwise, in this recommended puzzle." Will Cuppy

+ Books p10 Ag 30 '42 180w

Boston Globe p19 Ag 10 '42 30w

"The case is probably the most complicated one in McKee's entire career. Many readers will perhaps find it too complicated, especially in the beginning, but those who do not lose patience too easily will find in it as neat a bit of detecting as McKee has ever done." Isaac Anderson

+ N Y Times p15 Ag 23 '42 240w

"Money and love affairs are at the bottom of the evil doings in this well-written book. Fine reading if you don't object to being misled by a lot of false clues."

+ New Yorker 18:60 Ag 29 '42 60w

"Detecting, although in customarily excellent McKee manner, is rather subordinated to emotional crises of high-strung characters. Satisfying."

+ Sat R of Lit 25:15 Ag 29 '42 30w

REILLY, JOSEPH JOHN. Of books and men.
273p $2.75 Messner

820.4 English literature—History and criticism. American literature—History and criticism. Books and reading 42-51224

"A delightful series of essays on poets and prose writers. Included among others are A. E. Housman, Maurice Baring, Agnes Repplier, William Lyon Phelps, Chesterton, Conrad, Strachey, Galsworthy, Hardy, and Kate Chopin." Library J

"This is the sort of book one gives to a friend and then borrows back, the sort that proves how far from bookish the scholar's look on life may be." M. L. Becker

+ Books p14 D 27 '42 400w

Reviewed by Alice Brown

Cath World 156:626 F '43 450w

"A real contribution to contemporary literature helping to make one realize why each writer wrote as he did. Recommended for all libraries." J. A. Sohon

+ Library J 67:844 O 1 '42 100w

Reviewed by John Cournos

N Y Times p35 Ja 24 '43 440w

REIMANN, QUENTER. Patents for Hitler; with an introd. by Creekmore Fath. 316p $2.50 Vanguard

338.8 Patents. U.S.—Relations (general) with Germany. Germany—Relations (general) with U.S. World war, 1939—Economic aspects 42-22505

Study of the tie-ups between large corporations in Germany and in this country in the period between 1929 and the present, with stress on the activities of the years from 1935 to 1941. Partial contents: Hitler's secret weapon; Private world empires under Nazi control; The rise of the I. G. world empire; Transformation of I. G.; Wartime sale of 2,000 I. G. patents; Hitler's $23,000,000 offer to Standard Oil; Oiling the Nazi machine in South America; The secret Oil International; Why a rubber shortage? General Electric and Krupp; Plexiglas and plastics; A new kind of ammunition international; World control of military optical instruments; The crisis of the international patent system; Doom of private world empires. Index.

Booklist 39:194 Ja 15 '43

Cleveland Open Shelf p21 N '42

Reviewed by Lewis Corey

Nation 155:658 D 12 '42 650w

"This book is a courageous piece of reporting and projecting and it is to be hoped that it will be widely read." R. M. Hunter

+ New Repub 107:689 N 23 '42 700w

"Reimann's narrative is simple and telling. It is not comprehensive in the sense that the whole terrible story of the men who did 'business with Hitler' is related. An appendix could effectively trace the influence of Standard Oil in government, in the heading off of rival grain-to-rubber and Houdry synthetic oil processes. Stylistically it lacks the caustic irony or trenchant analysis which a Veblen could employ to lift these facts into telling social satire and social analysis. But in its highly readable way it does raise the two basic questions involved in the strange spectacle of a once-proud world-empire bending its knee to the young Nazi upstarts." Daniel Bell

+ Sat R of Lit 25:21 O 17 '42 750w

REISER, OLIVER LESLIE. New earth and a new humanity. 252p $2 Creative age press, inc, 11 E. 44th st, N.Y.

144 Humanism—20th century. Science—Philosophy. Civilization 42-7270

"An approach, with the aid of semantics and concepts of modern physics, to a 'scientific humanism' as the basis for a 'global democracy' upon which, the author cogently argues, the salvation of society depends. . . Dr. Reiser is a professor of philosophy in the University of Pittsburgh." (Christian Century) Index.

"The discussion is thought-provoking and the style captivating."

+ Christian Century 59:322 Mr 11 '42 60w

"This book is an attempt to outline a philosophic basis for a new world. As such it takes certain things for granted which may or may not be true. . . However, there is much of value in this volume. For one thing, scientific humanism is presented in a virile and interesting way. And for another, there are sections of discussion which present ideas needed for the creation of a better world." K. P. L.

+ — J Philos 39:390 Jl 2 '42 300w

Reviewed by H. S. Smith

J Religion 22:456 O '42 170w

+ Scientific Bk Club R 13:3 F '42 390w

RELIGIOUS leaders of America, 1941-1942; ed. by J. C. Schwarz. (v2) 1147p $12.50 J. C. Schwarz, 277 Broadway, N.Y.

922 Clergy—U.S.

(36-13442)

"Volume 1 was published under the title, Who's Who in the Clergy, 1935-36, and was reviewed in Subscription Books Bulletin, October 1937 [Book Review Digest, 1937]. According to the preface in the latest volume 'The change in name is significant of a similar expansiveness in the scope of the work. . . which includes 'religious groups who have no clergy in the accepted sense. . . Persons who have retired, or whose activities since publication of volume 1 have involved no new information, are listed with reference to the earlier volume. A necrology would increase the value of this work, which is evidently designed for permanent reference use. As in the previous volume, information given for each individual usually includes present position, date and place of birth, parents, education, to whom married, date of ordination, positions held, publications, membership in societies and organizations and present address.' Subscription Bks Bul

"A check of several biographies with entries for the same persons in Who's Who in America indicated accuracy of information. There are 77 less pages in this volume than in its predecessor. It is recommended."

+ Subscription Bks Bul 13:19 Ap '42 270w

RENICK, JAMES L., and RENICK, MRS MARION. Steady; a baseball story; il. by Frederick Machetanz. 137p $1.50 Scribner

(W) 42-7376

In story form the book describes how a group of boys learned to play good baseball. For grades four to six.

Booklist 38:312 Ap 15 '42

"The Renick-Machetanz sports stories have made a place for themselves in this popular department of boys' books. They are, in the first place, for younger boys—seven to eleven—yet make a specialty of teaching up-to-date technique. . . Incidentally, it will save time in explaining baseball to women. If they cannot understand what is going on in a league game after reading this, nothing will help them." M. L. Becker

+ Books p6 Ap 12 '42 400w

Reviewed by F. B. Sloan

Christian Science Monitor p11 Ap 27 '42 150w

"This third of a series of sports stories for younger readers is a lucid and informative introduction to the game for those just beginning, written with a communicable enthusiasm." E. L. Buell

+ N Y Times p10 Jl 12 '42 200w

Wis Lib Bul 38:140 O '42

RENNER, GEORGE THOMAS. Conservation of national resources; an educational approach to the problem. 228p il maps $2.75 Wiley

339.4 Conservation of resources—Study and teaching. U.S.—Economic conditions

(W) 42-13718

"In the first nine chapters it briefly presents the story of the growth of the conservation

RENNER, G. T.—Continued
movement, classifies natural resources from the viewpoint of conservation, lists and evaluates the educational materials available, and examines the philosophy involved. Part II presents simply an outline of a course in conservation of resources. Four remaining chapters consider curriculum, methods, and materials. The work, primarily a syllabus, is intended to be useful chiefly to those in teacher-training and the teacher in service. A bibliography is presented at the end of each chapter." (Am Pol Sci R) Index.

Reviewed by H. C. Cook
Am Pol Sci R 36:1188 D '42 230w
School & Society 55:568 My 16 '42 10w

RESNICK, LOUIS. Eye hazards in industry; extent, cause, and means of prevention; pub. for the Nat. soc. for the prevention of blindness. 321p il $3.50 Columbia univ. press
617.7 Eye—Care and hygiene. Accidents—Prevention 41-23588

"This volume not only lays bare the eye hazards present in industries and occupations of all sorts but also reports on the measures that may be taken to eliminate these hazards and to guard workers against those which cannot be eliminated. It is the hope of the sponsors of this volume that it will serve not only as a handbook for safety engineers, safety inspectors, and all others actively engaged in accident prevention generally and sight conservation in particular or in industrial efficiency, but also as a textbook by engineering schools, vocational training authorities, and all others engaged in preparing youth for work in industry." (Pref) Bibliography. Index.

"As a whole the book is excellent and should be put into the hands of everyone in industry whose duties are in any way concerned with health and safety. The admirable chapters on preventive measures merit reproduction in cheaper form for distribution to small industrial plants where such material is most needed and where it may not otherwise penetrate." B. F. Jones

+ Am J Pub Health 32:661 Je '42 380w
Chem & Met Eng 49:168 Ap '42 250w
Management R 31:152 Ap '42 60w
School & Society 54:480 N 22 '41 50w

RESNICK, WILLIAM S. Dragonship; a story of the Vikings in America; il. by Raffaello Busoni. 214p $2.50 Coward-McCann 42-23867

Story of an early Norse settlement on Vinland, and the trouble caused by Freydis, sister of Leif Eriksson. Young Nils, ward of Freydis, makes friends with Indians and Eskimos, and when the ships sail for Greenland on a mission, Nils stays on in Vinland.

Booklist 39:108 N 15 '42

Reviewed by M. L. Becker
Books p14 N 15 '42 200w
Cath World 156:379 D '42 110w

Reviewed by A. M. Jordan
Horn Bk 18:339 S '42 120w

"Distinguished and beautiful book. Drawings by Raffaello Busoni, page arrangement and binding, the strong prose—all are exceptionally well done. Story is as sturdy and full of fire as the Norse people with which it deals." S. J. Johnson

+ Library J 67:741 S 1 '42 70w

"A strong and graphic story full of interesting detail. Mr. Resnick's frequent use of modern colloquial speech too often jars us a little from the sense of the period which he has carefully built up, but for the most part the Vikings stand out, tough and robust, to stir the imagination of 10 and 12 year olds." E. L. B.

+ — N Y Times p26 N 15 '42 290w

RESPECTFULLY yours, Annie; introduced by Sylvia Brockway. 230p $2.50 Dutton
940.548142 World war, 1939—Personal narratives, English. World war, 1939—Great Britain (W) 42-3595

Letters from a London cook to her beloved mistress and the "two Babes," aged thirteen and fourteen, now living in New Hampshire, while Annie cares for Mr. B, and the animals in their London home. Annie's letters written "to let you know how things are going and to keep you in touch with Home," minimize the blitz, and show her valiant spirit as she goes on her way attempting to keep the English customs intact in a changing world.

Booklist 38:231 Mr 1 '42

"Annie through her own letters, and through the affectionate introduction by Mrs. Brockway, is clearly a magnificent character. It is valuable to know her and understand her because she is legion. . . Her preoccupation with the buying and preparing of food gives one of the clearest pictures possible of what the rationing system in England means to the ordinary person. She laughs, scolds, moans and chatters her way through her letters, and you love her. I think Mrs. Brockway must miss Annie desperately, not only for the comfort she created round her, but for the warmth of her heart." Diana Forbes-Robertson

+ Books p3 F 8 '42 600w

"The letters are interesting to a point, but, naturally, amounting as they do to nearly 200 pages, in Annie's unaltered and evidently unabridged style, they contain considerable repetition, of both idea and form. The reviewer wishes that their editor had continued, using the letters as source material, to weave the book together after the manner of her introduction. On the whole, however, the book will be much enjoyed." P. P. S.

+ — Christian Science Monitor p20 F 25 '42 400w

"Annie's philosophy is implicit in every letter, rarely specifically expressed. . . Sylvia Brockway's 38-page introduction is a beautiful piece of writing, warm, clear, and itself significant. She has given the letters as much annotation as they need, and no more. And she ends the book with a note to 'Dear Annie,' to ask forgiveness for the presentation of her 'indomitable, pungent self.' It is a stirring tribute and it ends, in the only way for a letter to Annie, who is the 'essence of the English spirit'—'Very respectfully yours.'" K. W.

+ N Y Times p4 F 15 '42 700w

Pratt p23 D '42

"Annie's language is vivid and accurate. Her letters are racy and communicate even to strange readers the living detail of Annie's days. Annie herself is, I suppose, typically British. And yet, except for her attitude toward the Royal Family and the upper-classes in general, she is as familiar a type in the United States as in any other country. British pluck, grit, and stamina characterize Annie, but any American will recognize her as someone who just doesn't like to be pushed around." Frances Smyth

+ Sat R of Lit 25:8 F 28 '42 400w

Springf'd Republican p7e F 15 '42 440w
Wis Lib Bul 38:44 Mr '42

RESTON, JAMES BARRETT. Prelude to victory. 244p $2 Knopf

940.5373 World war, 1939—U.S. U.S.—Politics and government—20th century (W) 42-15782

Articles on the position of the United States in the war, particularly in its political aspects. The author was formerly London correspondent of the New York Times, and is now on the Times Washington staff. "The theme of the book [is that] we cannot win this war until it ceases to be a struggle for personal aims and material things and becomes a national crusade for America and the American Dream." (Pref) Index.

Appeared on Best Seller list in: ALA (1)
Books (8) N Y Times (3)

Reviewed by T. H. Thomas
Atlantic 170:102 Ag '42 380w
Booklist 38:424 J1 1 '42
Bookmark 4:12 N '42

"The prelude to victory is to wake up and fight. Here is a dive-bomber attack—smashing but with precision accuracy—on complacency in all its forms, particularly those which many of us still have difficulty in recognizing as complacency. . . . [This] book is a vivid as well as earnest message and there are many who would profit by it." Walter Millis

+ Books p5 Je 28 '42 1100w

"In these days of generally careless writing, one hesitates to criticize a book that speaks for our side, that is well organized and often brilliantly expressed, that sets itself a useful task and carries it through. 'Prelude to Victory' answers most of our questions—and helps us to answer other people's questions—about the politics of the war. There are, however, three respects in which it might be improved. In the first place, Mr. Reston is so loyal to The New York Times that he writes with altogether too much respect for its personnel and its editorial policies. . . . And he is, for my taste, a little spendthrift in the language he uses. . . . My third complaint is not against anything he has written, but against the mere accident that caused his book to be completed a few weeks too soon. If he had waited until the middle of July, he would have had more and better occasions for ill humor." Malcolm Cowley

+ New Repub 107:178 Ag 10 '42 1100w

"A brilliant and altogether admirable book. Time may even decide that it is a great book." W. R. Deuel

+ N Y Times p4 Je 28 '42 1200w

"I commend this young Paul Revere to the overhight of heart, to the faint of heart, and—for there are such—to the divided of heart." Clifton Fadiman

+ New Yorker 18:60 Je 27 '42 500w
Pratt p23 D '42

"There are in the book some points in which the emphasis seems misplaced but on the whole it says the right things. It says the things which are the most necessary to be said now, right now,—because soon it may be too late—and it says them with an insistence which is the result of the clear recognition of the danger that we may lose the war, not because we cannot win it, but because we remain enmeshed in the illusions which have hindered our vision. It says things which may seem obvious to some, but we are in danger of losing this war because they are not yet obvious to a very large part of the public." Hans Kohn

+ Sat R of Lit 25:10 J1 4 '42 800w

Reviewed by D. W. Brogan
Spec 169:316 O 2 '42 800w

"Mr. Reston's tract is timely reading for anyone so foolish as to think that time is firmly on our side, without our having to do anything very strenuous to deserve its favours."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p483 O 3 '42 1100w

REVES, EMERY. Democratic manifesto. 144p $1.50 Random house

321.041 International law and relations.
Political science. Democracy 42-20951

"Emery Reves, European-born, naturalized in England, now in the United States and long associated with the early and fruitless attempts to establish an effective international community, has really done a remarkable thing. Within the space of not more than 25,000 words he has drawn up both a democratic credo and a program of action: this in short, is what the United Nations are fighting for." Books

"While Mr. Reves says very little that has not been said many times before, his style is sprightly and his book is a useful primer in approaching the problems of the post-war world. Since he has set out to compose a manifesto, it is perhaps unfair to take him to task for a neglect of the methods by which the ends he envisages are to be realized. But he has not been sufficiently aware, it seems to me, of the really radical changes in our domestic social orders which the adoption of his program of international relations would necessitate." J. D. Kingsley

+ Ann Am Acad 225:238 Ja '43 360w

"This book is at once stimulating and irritating. It is stimulating because it lays bare in a keen and pungent style, many of the shams and hypocrisies of our time, because the author sees clearly some of the dilemmas of the present crisis in the history of civilization. It is irritating because Mr. Reves often fails to think through the practicality of some of the remedies he advocates." W. H. Chamberlin

+ Atlantic 170:138 S '42 270w

Booklist 39:28 O 1 '42

"It is sincerely to be hoped that this little book will get the widest audience possible, for it is one of those fascinating pieces of writing that at one and the same time can satisfy the requirements of both the most recondite and only the passably educated. Mr. Reves carries his learning effortlessly. . . . From the point of view of scholarship the book is eminently satisfying. But the scholarship can be dismissed, once having been mentioned; and I am sure that Mr. Reves would prefer to have it so." L. M. Hacker

+ Books p6 S 13 '42 1800w

Reviewed by L. M. Lyons

Boston Globe p19 Ag 10 '42 600w

"[The author] usually makes some good points, even where he is unable fully to convince reader; but cures he proposes, to establish world democracy, are often too vague or theoretical to promise lasting success. Nevertheless a helpful book for political discussion groups. Recommended for larger public libraries." F. E. Hirsch

+ Library J 67:681 Ag '42 80w

"Mr. Reves has here written so much that one must enthusiastically agree with, and written it so well, that it may appear ungracious to emphasize the equally important things he has omitted. Yet I must confess I put his book down with some disappointment, feeling that while he has clarified excellently the necessary role of coercion in organized society and the demand for a new beginning in international thinking and organization, he still has not come to grips with the revolutionary nature of the events through which we are living or with the necessity for releasing the dynamic energy of the democratic idea itself." Frank Kingdon

+ Nation 155:304 O 3 '42 700w

"There are no startlingly new single ideas in [the book], but you can get a new grouping of old ideas which really amounts to a new creation. . . . By this test of creative novelty Mr. Reves has written as stimulating and heartening a primer on democracy in a new world order as one can recall. He has intelligence and he has, in exceptional degree, courage. We do not always find the two combined in programs of democracy and new world order. . . . A bold and honest and intelligent book, by a tough-minded idealist, this is particularly welcome." Simeon Strunsky

+ N Y Times p4 S 6 '42 1100w

REY, HANS AUGUSTO (UNCLE GUS, pseud). Anybody at home? [24]p [coloured pictures] pa $1 Houghton [2s Chatto]

42-50767

Short rhymes and folded pictures, which open to show "who is at home," make up this book for the very young.

"The colors are bright, the drawings show [the author-artist's] usual grotesque humor." M. L. Becker

+ Books p10 N 8 '42 100w

"Little children whose activity cannot always be subdued long enough to listen to a real story, will find 'Anybody at Home,' exactly to their liking. Not only can they look at the pictures while Daddy is reading the verses, but they can wiggle in anticipation of turning back the folded pages to see 'who is at home.'" E. V. D.

+ Spring'd Republican p7e Ja 3 '43 140w

REY, HANS AUGUSTO (UNCLE GUS, pseud). Cecily G. and the 9 monkeys [il. in color by the author]. 32p $1.75 Houghton

(W) 42-20276

Nonsense book for ages four to seven, describing in prose and picture the adventures of a lonely giraffe, and some homeless little monkeys.

Booklist 39:36 O 1 '42

Reviewed by F. B. Sloan
Christian Science Monitor p10 N 30 '42 220w

Reviewed by A. M. Jordan
Horn Bk 18:420 N '42 20w

Reviewed by J. K. Dillon
Library J 67:797 S 15 '42 70w

"Good fun and nonsense." R. A. Hill
+ Library J 67:882 O 15 '42 30w

"H. A. Rey's spirited picture-story books have an unforced humor which is irresistible; while their grave attention to the matter in hand, their carefully worked out details, make the absurd so entirely logical and credible that the adventures of Cecily G. the amiable giraffe and her monkey friends have for children the absorbing interest of their own make-believe."

A. T. E.
+ N Y Times p36 N 15 '42 280w

"More good nonsense. Mr. Rey's big, colored pictures of Cecily Giraffe are unexpected and laughable, and it's remarkable to how many surprising uses his nine, young monkeys can put one obliging giraffe." K. S. W.

+ New Yorker 18:105 D 12 '42 30w

REY, HANS AUGUSTO (UNCLE GUS, pseud). Christmas manger; with text from Matthew and Luke; a new kind of punch-out-and-play book. unsp $1 Houghton

This is more a toy than a book. It consists of text of the Christmas story from the books of Matthew and Luke, and figures to be pushed out and placed in the picture of the manger of Bethlehem, which is represented on the inside covers of the book.

"We recommend A Christmas Manger."
+ Cath World 156:371 D '42 90w

Reviewed by H. L. Binsse
Commonweal 37:116 N 20 '42 40w

"The covers have pockets to keep the punched-out figures safe. At a time when imported crèches and many Christmas toys are unobtainable, Mr. Rey has made an important and delightful addition to the pleasures of Christmas in the home." A. T. Eaton
+ N Y Times p9 D 6 '42 300w

"The colors used are simple, stark reds, blues and yellows; the whole effect is one of austerity which will appeal to small children who like uncluttered, basic scenes." E. V. D.
+ Springfield Republican p7e D 13 '42 80w

REY, HANS AUGUSTO (UNCLE GUS, pseud). Elizabite; the adventures of a carnivorous plant. [32p] il $1.50 Harper

42-11251

The hilarious adventures of one Elizabite, a carnivorous plant of uncertain origin, who began her career by innocently swallowing a mosquito, and advanced by leaps and bounds to the stage where she devoured a burglar. After that she had to be banished to the zoo. Told in rhyme and colored pictures for ages four to six.

"The pictures of the eager and ferocious flower, happily bringing down its scarlet petals on anything handy, are funny in the hearty, slapstick way little children enjoy. . . . Four years to six is the age for it; the couplets are to be read aloud by an older person who will enjoy it. Rey comes from Rio, where he heard a botanist describe jungle plants so vividly he shied away from the centerpiece."

+ Books p17 My 10 '42 300w

"Children will be quick to catch fun of story." E. G. Mullan
+ Library J 67:416 My 1 '42 60w

"This unruly creature gleefully nips her way through pictures which will rouse amazed guffaws from adults and the hardier-spirited youngsters as crisp rhymes outline her outrageous behavior. The whole adds up to a bright spot of hilarity in a darkened world." E. L. Buell

+ N Y Times p8 Ap 26 '42 280w

New Yorker 18:72 My 23 '42 50w

REY, HANS AUGUSTO (UNCLE GUS, pseud). How do you get there? [il. by the author]. spiral pa $1 Houghton

Picture book for children under six. Questions are asked on one page—"A little girl says good-bye to her mother and father. They are going away. But how will they get there?" On the opposite page is the illustration, with a section which folds back, answering the question.

Reviewed by E. V. Wyatt

Cath World 154:372 D '41 40w

Horn Bk M 17:453 N '41 10w

REYNOLDS, BERTHA CAPEN. Learning and teaching in the practice of social work. 390p $2.50 Farrar

360.7 Social work—Study and teaching
42-24857

The book is divided into five parts: the scientific method of social work; the process of learning an art; learning and teaching in groups; supervision of practice; and working thru others. The main concern of the work is with the processes of teaching in social work, but learning and practice receive considerable attention. Bibliography. Index of subjects.

"Before Miss Reynolds could write such an analytical volume it required first learning how to do social work, second, service as a social worker, and third, experience as a teacher. To all of these Miss Reynolds brings an unusually sensitive insight and a facility for lucid expression. These qualities make the volume as valuable to practitioners as to teachers." A. E. Fink

+ Ann Acad 225:263 Ja '43 450w

"This book [is] written in Miss Reynolds' customarily graceful style. . . . It is rare that persons can, as the author does, define clearly methods of teaching, supervising, and exercising leadership. Miss Reynolds' success in this direction probably depends largely on her ability to distinguish between the art of practice and the art of teaching others to practice. Educators and agency supervisors will be particularly interested in her exposition of supervisor-worker relationship as inextricably bound to the disciplined use the practitioner makes of himself as a person in the interests of service to another." Jeanette Regensburg

+ Survey 78:348 D '42 500w

REYNOLDS, QUENTIN JAMES. Convoy [Eng title: Don't think it hasn't been fun]. 303p $2 Random house [8s 6d Cassell]

B or 92 Journalists—Correspondence, reminiscences, etc. World war, 1939—Personal narratives, American (W) 42-36073

In order to while away the time on a long trip to England via convoy, the associate editor of Collier's Weekly wrote these stories of his own experiences as a reporter. The scenes and incidents range from Vienna to the Bahamas, from the receipt of the present of an umbrella donated by William Cosgrave, then president of the Irish Republic, to sail fishing off Key West. And always he returns to the convoy, sailing slowly but safely, across the Atlantic.

Booklist 38:274 Ap 1 '42

"What little there is of the convoy is grand reading. Mr. Reynolds is a brilliant reporter, and in the very uneventfulness of the convoy trip he feels and reacts to the tremendous organization which enabled it to be—comparatively speaking—uneventful. And when toward the end of the book Mr. Reynolds gives three short chapters to the ostensible subject of his book, he does it with verve. Mr. Reynolds can be so very good at his own trade, and in the off moments when he gets down to his own trade in this book he shows it. One suspects that this book is the result of being bayed at by publishers to 'get another book off your chest,' and one notes with some dismay that they are already hounding him for the next one." J. M. Minifie

+ — Books p12 F 8 '42 500w

Reviewed by E. F. Allen

N Y Times p20 Mr 15 '42 600w

"Mr. Reynolds's feat consists in grafting on to this uneventful voyage so that they seem part of it 'Stories' from his reporter's memory. It may be that the best story of the lot is concealed in his mastery of the difficult art of the transition; the reader finds himself in Vienna without being aware that he has left the freighter."

+ — Times [London] Lit Sup p509 O 11 '41 750w

REYNOLDS, QUENTIN JAMES. Only the stars are neutral. 300p $2.50 Random house

B or 92 Journalists—Correspondence, reminiscences, etc. World war, 1939—Personal narratives, American (W) 42-36257

An American reporter's account of his experiences during the winter of 1941-1942. He was in London part of the time; spent three months in Moscow and Kuibyshev; flew to Cairo in the same plane with the Litvinovs and Steinhardt; and came back to America via freighter. Part of his book is devoted to an account of battles in the north African desert.

Appeared on Best Seller list in: Books (19) B & T (1) N Y Times (10) PW (7) RB (2) W (1)

Booklist 38:424 J1 1 '42

"Mr. Reynolds' new book is at the same time exciting, extremely vivid, humorous all through. At times it becomes dramatic and moving, as in the chapters describing the terrific bombings of London and of the little desert post in Libya. One does not get tired of it, although it deals with phases of the war we have heard much about. Mr. Reynolds managed to instill new life into things that might have seemed stale." Sonia Tomara

+ Books p3 Je 21 '42 850w

Reviewed by Otto Zausmer

Boston Globe p17 J1 15 '42 500w

"There are more ponderous and more scholarly books than Reynolds's by war correspondents, but none more authentic or more readable. The readability of the book, sustained on every page, is a minor literary miracle, as any professional writer will tell you." Harry Sylvester

+ Commonweal 36:284 J1 10 '42 950w

"Good anecdotal material; easy and interesting reading." J. M. Flexner

+ Library J 67:532 Je 1 '42 80w

"One does not get much real information on Russia from Mr. Reynolds. His is a book of personal impressions and adventures, not one of analytical discussion or political synthesis. The best chapters are those on the 'retreat' to Kuibyshev and on the life that diplomats and journalists were compelled to lead in that forlorn town. Written in the light, sparkling style which is always one of Mr. Reynolds's assets, the book tells us more about the ways of American newspapermen than about the U. S. S. R." Marc Slonim

+ — Nation 155:54 J1 18 '42 480w

Reviewed by Nigel Dennis

New Repub 107:27 J1 6 '42 330w

"There is no need to compare or contrast this book with similar books by other war correspondents. Mr. Reynolds is a distinctive personality. He writes interestingly. He adds to our store of confidence as well as to our store of information. He is good medicine." R. L. Duffus

+ N Y Times p4 Je 21 '42 800w

"Readable enough, and soberer than the author's previous books, but Mr. Reynolds is still romantically inclined, especially about Mr. Reynolds."

+ — New Yorker 18:67 Je 20 '42 50w

Pratt p23 O '42

"Here is an even more lushly readable Quentin Reynolds volume which deserves and probably will achieve top-seller rank. There's hardly a quiet paragraph in it; in fact, it has more action than a carload of movie thrillers and circus acts and gay humor which actuates appreciative chuckles. . . . His chapters on Russia are about as vivid reporting as have come out of the war." Linton Wells

+ Sat R of Lit 25:5 Je 13 '42 1400w

Time 40:86 J1 6 '42 1100w

"The book is gossip to excess, though not uninteresting."

Times [London] Lit Sup p616 D 19 '42 500w

RHOADES, WINFRED. Great adventure of living. 176p $2 Lippincott

170 Life

42-3546

A group of chapters based on the theme that successful living means growth of strength and beauty of character. Contents: A bit of preamble; The human complexus; Growth is life's business; Be kind to brother body; What are you doing with your mind? You can choose your emotional habit; Life is victorious struggle; From mystery to mystery; Increasing purpose.

Books p9 Mr 15 '42 100w

"It does not say much that thoughtful people do not already know, but even the most thoughtful need to have their thoughts focused. The focus here is perhaps too exclusively on the self, even in the section on 'cultivating a realization of God.' In a discussion of the 'great adventure,' something might be said of the importance of occasionally forgetting the consequences for one's own personality, or even for one's soul, in a consuming devotion to a great and unselfish enterprise."

+ — Christian Century 59:288 Mr 4 '42 130w

Cleveland Open Shelf p11 My '42

RHODE, JOHN, pseud. See Street, C. J. C.

RHODES, FRED HOFFMAN. Technical report writing. 125p $1.50 McGraw

620.09 Reports—Preparation. Engineering (W) 41-24944

"In addition to the chapters on the importance, characteristics, organization and the form of good reports, there are chapters on laboratory notebooks, on oral presentation and on style, convention and correct usage. Appendices give a list of references, conventions for use in sketches and flowsheets, and symbols commonly used." Chem & Met Eng

"All who are concerned with the preparation of reports of engineering or scientific investigations will profit by study of Professor Rhodes' book."

+ Chem & Met Eng 49:166 Ja '42 200w

N Y New Tech Bks 27:29 Ap '42

RHODES, THOMAS J. Industrial instruments for measurement and control. 573p il $6 McGraw

620.78 Measuring instruments 41-23845

"[This text is] designed to cover in a theoretical and practical treatment the measurement and control of the four fundamental physical factors encountered in industrial processing and manufacturing: temperature, pressure, fluid flow, and liquid level. Automatically controlled continuous processes are thoroughly analyzed and practical rules are established for the design and maintenance of controlling instruments." Publisher's note

RHODES, T. J.—Continued

"The actual scope of the book is not as broad as the title seems to promise. There are numerous other quantities which the chemical engineer may be interested in, such as pH, electrical conductance of solutions, color, transparency, opacity, viscosity, weight, numerical count, and chemical composition. A discussion of the specialized instruments for measuring, recording and controlling these quantities is either omitted entirely or given a much less detailed and thorough treatment. However, this statement is not intended as a criticism, which would be ungracious in view of the high quality and great usefulness of the book, but merely as information to prospective buyers and as a suggestion that the coverage might well be extended in a supplementary volume or in the next edition." Grinnell Jones

+ — Am Chem Soc J 64:728 Mr '42 300w
Chem & Met Eng 49:185 F '42 400w
N Y New Tech Bks 27:8 Ja '42

RIASANOVSKY, MRS ANTONINA FEDOROVNA (PODGOZINOVA) (NINA FEDOROVA, pseud). The children. (Atlantic monthly press bk) 386p $2.50 Little

(W) 42-6835

This story of White Russian refugees in Tientsin and Harbin in 1938 is a continuation of the author's prize novel The Family (Book Review Digest, 1940). It carries on the story of Mother and Lida, the only ones of the family left in Tientsin. Mother has a poorly paid job in a hospital; Lida is studying for her operatic career with an aged opera star. The two live in an attic room provided by another family of refugees, Spanish, and better off than Lida and Mother. All thru the book runs the theme of Lida's love for the American boy, Jimmy, and in the end she manages to get to California and Jimmy.

Appeared on Best Seller list in: Books (12)
B & T (1) RB (1)

"Mme. Fedorova has taken a little chunk of life and offered it to us, simply, unpretentiously, with realistic and full detail in 'The Children.'" F. H. Bullock

+ Books p3 Ap 12 '42 900w

"It is told with instinctive charm and human understanding. But the philosophy is facile rather than profound; it shows no deepening of the author's powers."

+ — Cath World 155:379 Je '42 270w
Cleveland Open Shelf p8 Mr '42

"Few writers have surpassed the classic nineteenth century Russians at the art of narrative. And this talent still flourishes both in the land of the Soviets as well as among the White Russians exiled to the four corners of the earth. Nina Fedorova to a superior degree has the gift of telling a story. Her central love story in 'The Children' is imbedded in a dozen minor narratives, each a little gem of ease and skill." Edward Skillin, Jr.

+ Commonweal 35:652 Ap 17 '42 420w

"Recommended." Catharine Van Dyne

+ Library J 67:319 Ap 1 '42 50w

Reviewed by Harold Brighthouse

Manchester Guardian p3 Ag 21 '42 180w

"A book that is vivid with real people facing real and often terrible problems."

+ Nation 154:469 Ap 18 '42 150w

"The new book, like its predecessor, is a gallant song of the upspringing joy of life." K. W.

+ N Y Times p4 Ap 12 '42 950w

"Nina Fedorova's English is a trifle shaky and she is innocent of any feeling for the structure of a novel. Her book must be read as a collection of character sketches bound together by the author's temperament and recalling, though on a smaller scale, the enormous humanity of her predecessors, the great Russian novelists." Clifton Fadiman

New Yorker 18:74 Ap 18 '42 220w
Pratt p13 O '42

"In a way a sequel to 'The Family,' since some of the same characters recur in it, Miss Fedorova's new novel has much the quality of that earlier book and like it is a fresh, lively, and engaging portrayal of an unfortunate group of persons carrying on courageously and spiritedly in the face of adversity. . . I like Miss Fedorova's books immensely—they flow along with such engaging vivacity and naturalness, they have such pleasant people who behave in such agreeable fashion even when the world around them is uncomfortable, and who are so undaunted by the loss of all that lent grace to their living before misfortune overtook them, that despite the tragic undertone of the novels they make delightful reading. Her people are emotional and excitable and intense, but they are real and vivacious and lovable. And how unquenchable!" Amy Loveman

+ Sat R of Lit 25:12 My 9 '42 380w

Reviewed by John Hampson

Spec 169:202 Ag 28 '42 210w

"It is all assured in manner, filled with a melancholy gaiety and often acute in psychological observation. What is unsatisfactory is the conventionalized form in which the various Russian (or White Russian) yearnings about love and happiness are cast; there is some oddly skittish over writing on this score. But the generalizations about the broad Russian nature are not seldom just, and the frustration of these uprooted lives is not turned to theatrical effect."

+ — Times [London] Lit Sup p413 Ag 22 '42 420w

RICE, ALICE CALDWELL (HEGAN) (MRS CALE YOUNG RICE). Happiness road. 115p $1.50 Appleton-Century

170 Conduct of life 42-17891

"Last work of author of Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch, who died in February, 1942. Essays on achievement of a happy life under today's difficult circumstances. Mrs. Rice considered happiness a duty because of its influence on ourselves and others." Library J

Books p18 Jl 26 '42 180w

"The distinguished literary career that began in 1902 with Mrs. Wiggs ends fittingly with the same message translated out of the dialect of the cabbage patch into the author's own cultured idiom and enriched with wisdom distilled from long experience and much reading."

+ Christian Century 59:960 Ag 5 '42 100w

"A prescription book for happiness! The last will and testament of a woman who understood the common problems of the common people." E. C. Thompson

+ Churchman 156:17 S 1 '42 150w
Cleveland Open Shelf p23 N '42

Reviewed by Isabel Douglas

Library J 67:629 Jl '42 80w

Wis Lib Bul 38:132 O '42

RICE, CRAIG (MRS LAWRENCE LIPTON). Big midget murders; an Inner sanctum mystery. 365p $2 Simon & Schuster

42-15599

Detective story.

"This has plenty of zip, speed and macabre fun. Miss Rice could improve her writing style by the simple expedient of omitting the verb 'to stare.' Why all this staring, we ask you." Will Cuppy

+ — Books p18 Je 14 '42 280w

Reviewed by Isaac Anderson

N Y Times p24 Je 28 '42 300w

"Superior."

+ Sat R of Lit 25:16 Je 20 '42 40w

Time 40:88 Jl 6 '42 40w

RICE, CRAIG (MRS LAWRENCE LIPTON). Sunday Pigeon murders. 314p $2 Simon & Schuster

42-24669

Detective story.

Booklist 39:225 F 1 '43

"A funny mystery that really clicks. Yep, this is a real killer-diller, both for manner and matter." Will Cuppy

+ Books p46 N 15 '42 200w

"You will meet some interesting and amusing characters in the story. Even some of the villains contribute to the comedy, although Handsome and Bingo are the stars. And along with the comedy you have a genuinely puzzling mystery." Isaac Anderson

+ N Y Times p34 N 23 '42 240w

"Innocents at large in a plot that is almost too much for them. Brisk and very funny."

+ New Yorker 18:80 N 14 '42 60w

"Grand combination of whimsy and wickedness, introducing Bingo and Handsome, two admirable additions to top-notch sleuthing circles. Very good."

+ Sat R of Lit 25:18 N 14 '42 40w

Springf'd Republican p7e N 22 '42 200w

"Exciting scenes, a bountiful supply of able amateur detecting, moments of fantasy, humor and sentiment place this story far above the average."

+ Time 40:116 D 7 '42 50w

RICE, CRAIG (MRS LAWRENCE LIPTON). Telefair; the house on the island, 287p $2.50 Bobbs

42-7203

The scene of this mystery-horror story is a lonely island in Chesapeake Bay, the home of the Telefairs. David Telefair, an orphan, has never seen the island, until at the age of twenty he is summoned home by his guardian and great uncle, Philip. The mystery of the Telefairs, the reasons for David's exile, the purposes of his uncle are gradually unfolded in the days that follow.

Booklist 38:369 Je 1 '42

"The narrative would have been more effective if the author had devoted less time and fewer adjectives to stalking the mystery. At the outset the pages begin to drip with ominous implications. The build-up is overlaid with scary words. Asking the reader to shake in his boots before the hero has done so is putting the cart before the horrors." George Conrad

Books p10 Mr 8 '42 300w

"The novel is a curious one, strange, fantastic, and with a good deal of charm, especially at the beginning. It should, as the publishers advise, be read straight through, since the author's aim has been to establish a mood and an atmosphere. In this she succeeds, but having established them she is unwilling to let them alone. She readjusts and embroiders, rearranges and repeats until the reader grows impatient. Radical eliminations, especially in the second and third parts of the narrative, would have improved it greatly, even though this might have meant the sacrificing of many descriptions very lovely in themselves. The structure is exquisite, but too fragile to sustain the weight imposed upon it." L. M. Field

N Y Times p7 Mr 1 '42 650w
New Yorker 18:60 F 28 '42 60w

RICE, JOHN ANDREW. I came out of the eighteenth century. 341p $3 Harper

B or 92

(W) 42-36390

Autobiography of a South Carolinian, the son of a Methodist preacher. In his childhood he spent as much time as possible on his grandmother's plantation, where some of the happiest days of his life were spent. He was educated at Tulane and Oxford. Returning to America from England he held professorships in a variety of schools and colleges—the Webb school; the University of Nebraska, New Jersey College for Women, Rollins, and finally Black Mountain college, which he helped to found. Altogether it is the saga of a liberal educator.

Booklist 39:120 D 1 '42

"Mr. Rice's characterizations will certainly be denounced as distortions, which, no doubt, they frequently are. But a good caricature reveals more of the subject than most photographs and these pictures, distorted or not, are memorable.

If none of your friends happens to be involved—and perhaps even if some of them are—it is the sort of book you will read with unholy joy." G. W. Johnson

+ Books p3 N 15 '42 1250w

Reviewed by Cuthbert Wright

Commonweal 37:258 D 25 '42 270w

Reviewed by Harriet Sampson

Nation 155:726 D 26 '42 550w

"His recent years have been full of altercations, and Mr. Rice doesn't enjoy talking about them. The end of his book makes me think of a train plunging through the night with its curtains drawn and ending its run at what should be only a way station. But Mr. Rice writes superbly when describing his Grandmother Smith's plantation in the red clay hills and his Grandmother Rice's plantation in the lowlands—indeed, whenever he deals with the lost country of his boyhood." Malcolm Cowley

+ New Repub 107:614 N 9 '42 500w

"In [this] as in most good books of its kind, a modern American recalls and regards his world. Mr. Rice does it, one may say, first with pungent charm and then with charming pungency, in a book which serves forth its solid substance with rich delight." Katherine Woods

+ N Y Times p4 N 15 '42 1550w

"A fine book, homely and wise, with a mellow, eighteenth-century, American plainness of style that helps to bear out the title."

+ New Yorker 18:83 N 7 '42 50w

"This autobiography, full of memorable passages and devastating epigrams, is also attractive as the document of a life unfinished, yet full of promise; of glimpses of success and understanding amid many defeats; of strength to go on fighting after today's hurts are healed." Marshall Bragdon

Springf'd Republican p6 N 7 '42 1050w
Wis Lib Bul 38:184 D '42

RICH, BENNETT MILTON. Presidents and civil disorder. (Inst. for gov. research. Studies in administration) 235p $2 Brookings
353.03 Presidents (U.S.)—Powers and duties. U.S.—History. Revolutions. Riots 41-24184

"This study shows how the presidents have handled the major instances of domestic disorder. The Whiskey Insurrection, the Dorr Rebellion, the Great Railroad Riots of 1877, the Pullman Strike, the Bonus Marchers, and the strike at North American Aviation—in these disturbances and others the role of the president is considered in detail. Emphasis has been placed upon the manner in which the presidents have made use of the Army, together with the methods employed by the armed forces to terminate disturbances." Management R

"This volume is a noteworthy example of the productive research work now being done in our graduate schools." R. S. Rankin

+ Am Pol Sci R 36:374 Ap '42 230w

Reviewed by T. H. Williams

Ann Am Acad 220:245 Mr '42 420w
Management R 30:471 D '41 90w

RICH, DANIEL CATTON. Henri Rousseau [prepared] in collaboration with the Art Institute of Chicago. 80p il $2 Museum of modern art

759.4 Rousseau, Henri

42-7539

"Reproductions in black and white and colors of Rousseau's paintings, recently exhibited in the Chicago art institute, with a few pictures not included in the exhibit. The director of fine arts of the Art Institute contributes an interpretation of the artist's work, with a chronology, a list of Rousseau's writings, and a bibliography." Booklist

Booklist 38:326 My 1 '42

"The Museum of Modern Art's publication of Henri Rousseau has some fine reproductions, colored and otherwise, of that artist's work, and the discourse by Daniel Catton Rich on the artist's development seems logical. But if you are one, as I am, who believes the Rousseau legend has swelled and magnified him out of all proportion to what he actually was as a painter, this book leaves much to be cleared up." Manny Farber

RICH, D. C.—Continued
New Repub 106:645 My 11 '42 360w

"If Mr. Rich seems to be unnecessarily concerned about the insistence on 'the Douanier's' habit of mind, he is to be thanked for a careful and perceptive account of Rousseau's artistic development."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p280 Je 6 '42 330w

Reviewed by S. L. Faison, Jr.
Yale R n s 31:854 summer '42 240w

RICH, JOHN LYON. Face of South America; an aerial traverse, 299p il maps $4 Am. geographical soc.

918 South America—Description and travel 42-13820

"More than 300 excellent aerial photographs show the physical features of South America as the author-photographer viewed it on an airplane tour that circled the continent, omitting only the southern tip. The text explaining the physiography and the use of the land is for geographers and students. Route maps show where each picture was taken." Booklist

Am Hist R 48:438 Ja '43 100w

Booklist 39:69 N 1 '42

"The text will not be read lightly by the uninformed. It was written for geographers and students who sit at their feet. Its wealth of fact and figure will serve them well. It is the sort of book which will be immensely useful to all writers about Latin America." Hubert Herring

+ Sat R of Lit 25:8 Jl 11 '42 300w

RICH, MRS LOUISE (DICKINSON). We took to the woods. 322p il $2.75 Lippincott B or 92 Country life. Maine—Description and travel (W) 42-24308

Witty picture of life in the Rangeley Lake district of Maine, far from any neighbors, or modern improvements, where the author, her husband, and her children live summer and winter. Her chapters are headed with questions which her friends have asked about her remote way of living: But how do you make a living? Isn't housekeeping difficult? Don't you ever get bored? Is it worth-while? etc.

Appeared on Best Seller list in: Books (7) N Y Times (6) RB (1)

Reviewed by Edward Weeks
Atlantic 170:144 D '42 60w

Booklist 39:119 D 1 '42

"While, as she confesses in self-evaluation which endears her to a reviewer's heart, she has no gift for creating literary works, she has something that is admirably suited to the delightful material with which she packs her pages, an engaging and robust sense of humor and a fine gift for narrative; and, there are moments in her book when she comes close to writing literature." Rose Feld

+ Books p3 N 22 '42 1150w

"Colorful, informal, this nature book is exceptionally interesting and well done."

+ Cath World 156:637 F '43 200w

"Vivid descriptions, heightened by author's sense of humor and Yankee philosophy, and many photographs add much charm to the book." M. J. Messler

+ Library J 67:1012 N 15 '42 120w

"'We Took to the Woods' is an unusual book. It is uncommonly good reading even for those who pick it up without any special interest in its subject. And the crux of its unusual quality, and of its excellence, is in the author's pervading sense of humor. Some of the most worthy folk who tell you how they remade their lives by adapting themselves to the wilderness (a term of wide relativity that!) take themselves far too seriously; justifiable, of course, but a little heavy on the receiving end. Louise Dickinson Rich avoids that. And yet—this is important—she takes life seriously." Katherine Woods

+ N Y Times p4 N 22 '42 800w

"'We Took to the Woods' [is] a book which will arouse in readers sharp envy of, and warm admiration for, Mrs. Rich, together with a fierce determination to go and do likewise. The fierce determination will last about six hours. The charm of this loosely composed, informal record is unimposing but genuine." Clifton Fadiman

+ New Yorker 18:94 N 21 '42 400w

"Mrs. Rich laughs at herself, at her husband, at her children, her cat, her dog, her four decrepit motor vehicles, and the very stones of Maine and their ornery cussedness. So that we chuckle too on almost every page. And Mrs. Rich has wisdom to match her wit. As a writer, she can exercise an accurate and ruthless self-analysis, which amounts to an analysis of the reader too. That is, she finds in herself, not what is peculiar, but what is universal." D. C. Peattie

+ Sat R of Lit 25:7 N 21 '42 950w

School & Society 56:504 N 21 '42 30w

Time 40:114 D 7 '42 400w

RICHARDS, GRANT. Housman, 1897-1936; with an introd. by Mrs E. W. Symons and appendices by G. B. A. Fletcher and others. 493p il $4 (21s) Oxford

B or 92 Housman, Alfred Edward 42-9485

An account of a friendship of forty years duration, written by the man who published Housman's works, beginning with A Shropshire Lad in 1898. The book includes many letters from the poet never before printed, and accounts of some well-planned dinners, which were Housman's pride and delight. Index.

Booklist 38:329 My 1 '42

"Mr. Richards has succeeded in preserving much of the personal quality of his friend, and consequently his book is little less than a manual of human distinction." G. F. Whicher

+ Books p24 N 8 '42 800w

Reviewed by Pearl Strachan

Christian Science Monitor p10 My 29 '42 360w

Reviewed by J. G. E. Hopkins

Commonweal 36:161 Je 5 '42 550w

"The solution of the Housman enigma does not rest in this volume though the record is valuable and delightfully unfolded." B. I. Evans

+ Manchester Guardian p3 D 23 '41 300w

Reviewed by Rolfe Humphries

Nation 154:550 My 9 '42 1750w

"No reader in his right senses has ever supposed that Housman's life was other than morally 'blameless,' but no one in his right mind can ignore his insistent emphasis on a profound curtailment of nature that was imposed on him in life, or see it as anything but the source of a fundamental saliency in Housman's talent, or stigmatize it as a crime. . . . And the biographer who dismisses it as Mr. Richards does is guilty of a serious disservice to the poet who happened, incidentally and often very uncomfortably, to be his friend. Two points in favor of Mr. Richards' volume must be granted, however (apart from the interest its various documents will have for those who are wise enough to use them intelligently): it contains a charmingly written and acutely revealing foreword by the poet's sister, Mrs. Symons, which says more about the 'enigma' of Housman's personality, and says it better than Mr. Richards' four hundred pages; and it includes Laurence Housman's statement that 'a complete life' of his brother can never be written 'because no one is competent to write it.' Mr. Richards, despite his prefatory disclaimer ('it is not a biography; it is not a critical study'), has produced a crude infringement of both the territories he begins by avoiding. Yet it is finally not Mr. Richards' ineptitude alone that makes his book what it is; neither is it Housman's inability to lead a richer life; it is Housman's refusal to cultivate the surviving elements of his nature in the way that Cowper, Fitzgerald, Hopkins and Rilke did theirs, thus bringing them into greatness of character and into their triumphs in the art of words." M. D. Zabel

+ New Repub 106:510 Ap 13 '42 1550w

"The most valuable section of Mr. Richards's book is a series of appendices, including recollections by Dr. Percy Withers, Professor F. W. Oliver, Professor O. L. Richmond, Sir Sidney Cockerell, and Miss Joan Thompson; and, best of all, notes on Housman's poems by Professor N. B. A. Fletcher. Professor Fletcher provides a fascinating series of quotations revealing Housman's debt to earlier writers, notably Shakespeare, Arnold, Heine, Stevenson and the composers of the Authorised Version. He also cites poems by Johnson, Gray, Kingsley, Darley and other authors that anticipate Housman's style; and he collects the repetitions and favourite poems in Housman's verse. This appendix is the most enlightening article on the poet that has yet appeared."

+ New Statesman & Nation 22:530 D 27 '41 300w

"Richards's book is an invaluable source of information, and its understanding of Housman is unusually simple and sound." P. M. Jack

+ N Y Times p4 My 3 '42 1600w

"A necessary volume for all students and admirers of A. E. Housman. . . Not by any means profound, but complete as far as all superficial observation can go, and of the greatest documentary value."

+ New Yorker 18:80 Ap 25 '42 60w

"The book is written round a long series of letters from Housman, and it is their profusion and quality which provide, it must be admitted, most of its distinction. . . Mr. Grant Richards does not really tell us much that is new about his subject. Moreover, his matter is not always well digested and his manner may be a trifle too discursive for some tastes. He is sometimes repetitive and often trivial; and his pages are sadly over-encumbered with footnotes." John Carter

+ Spec 167:581 D 19 '41 750w

"The reader of Mr. Grant Richards's book, which, with much valuable additional matter supplied by others, is the largest work on the personal side of Housman which has yet appeared, and perhaps is ever likely to appear, may be inclined to place an allegorical interpretation on the gastronomical aspect of the scholar and poet."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p630 D 13 '41 2300w

Reviewed by C. B. Tinker

Yale R n s 31:832 summer '42 1100w

RICHARDS, IVOR ARMSTRONG. How to read a page; a course in effective reading with an introduction to a hundred great words. 246p $2.50 Norton

153,665 Reading. Meaning (psychology). Semantics 42-11776

"This book undertakes to show the shortest and most direct way to improvement in reading through the study of the main meanings of certain key words—the great words on which the rest depend. If we can see what the great words are saying, what all the other words may say will become clearer to us. . . The book outlines how the reader is to improve and gives the program, listing the Hundred Great Words and offering a series of pages for close study. It trains the reader in self-observation, notes the influence of the voice, how to compare different ways of 'saying the same thing' and why some ideas are more important than others." (Publisher's note) Index.

Reviewed by Wilson Follett

Atlantic 170:104 Ag '42 250w

Reviewed by Milton Rugoff

Books p21 J1 12 '42 500w

"Though written down in spots and offensively cute in others, the work bears little relation to the description given on the jacket, 'A Course in Efficient Reading.' It is itself extremely difficult to read, and at best it only establishes the fact that prose needs as much interpreting as poetry." Jacques Barzun

— Nation 154:492 Ap 25 '42 420w

Reviewed by Ivy Low

New Repub 106:673 My 18 '42 900w

"To those who jump to the conclusion that the study of 'key words' may be an arbitrary guide to 'effective reading' it must be emphatically pointed out that this author's principle is exactly the opposite of a reduction to formula. His argument focuses on the 'archproblem, Reason.' His guiding rules depend on interdependence."

N Y Times p18 Ap 26 '42 440w

Reviewed by R. E. Roberts

Sat R of Lit 25:3 My 9 '42 1900w

"Mr. Richards runs true to form in the interesting and somewhat exasperating book which he has chosen to call 'How To Read a Page.' As usual, he has something significant to say; as usual, he has managed to say it in a fashion which is often pedantic and needlessly difficult; and as in some of his earlier books, he has chosen a misleading title. It is safe to predict that those who do not already know 'how to read a page' will not learn how from this book." W. El. Woodbridge

Yale R n s 32:180 autumn '42 850w

RICHARDS, PHILIP MACLEOD, and BANIGAN, JOHN JOSEPH. How to abandon ship. 152p il $1 Cornell maritime

359 Shipwrecks. Navigation. Life saving 42-19800

"This is a practical manual giving specific instructions concerning equipment, preliminary precautions, lowering and navigating the lifeboat, maintaining health and morale. It is based largely on the experience of the co-author John J. Banigan, who spent 19 days in a lifeboat after the sinking of the Robin Moor." Booklist

"Material is not well organized but seems to cover the subject thoroughly."

+ Booklist 39:5 S '42

N Y New Tech Bks 27:45 J1 '42

RICHARDS, ROBERT WILLIAM. I can lick seven. (Atlantic monthly press bk) 312p $2.50 Little

42-17800

A story of Reconstruction days in Mississippi. Melancthon Fowinkle had lost an arm in the war but still boasted he could "lick seven Yankees." However, the things he could not lick—his love for his brother's widow, the hatred of war's aftermath, poverty and disgrace—these things finally drove him into exile.

"Robert Richards achieves a quality that is only too rare in books about the Old South. He is objective and unsentimental. 'I Can Lick Seven' is a novel of great distinction and its author is a writer to reckon with." Milton Hindus

+ Books p2 J1 12 '42 850w

"Good atmosphere, but not important." J. E. Cross

Library J 67:629 J1 '42 80w

"'I Can Lick Seven' is a satisfying novel, and one that considering the youth of its author is surprisingly mature. A realist to the bone, and gifted with a style that is cool, clean-cut and easily colloquial, Mr. Richards seems to me to have cast more light on the Civil War and its sequel than has many a more pretentious novelist." E. H. Walton

+ N Y Times p6 J1 12 '42 800w

Reviewed by N. L. Rothman

Sat R of Lit 25:14 J1 18 '42 400w

"If corpses dropped less often than ripe plums, in less tricky postures of amazement at death, and if fingers moved less automatically to triggers, this would have been a better novel. Even as it is, a queer cross between a Freudian dream and a Grand Guignol shocker, it is good enough to suggest that it will almost certainly sire a better."

+ Time 40:92 Ag 10 '42 480w

RICHARDSON, ALAN. Miracle-stories of the Gospels. 149p $2 Harper [6s Student]

226.7 Miracles [A42-3428]

"The author of this book is the Study Secretary of the Student Christian Movement, and was formerly, before a few years as Vicar of Cambo, Chaplain of Ripon Hall and also (for brief spells) of Worcester and Jesus Colleges at Oxford. The book, which was finished during the bombing of London, does not attempt to recapitulate the familiar arguments for and against the historicity of the Gospel miracles, but concentrates chiefly upon asking what was the theological meaning of the miracle-stories for the evangelists, particularly St Mark, who worked them into their accounts of the ministry of Jesus." (Hibbert J) Indexes.

Christian Century 59:634 My 13 '42
160w

"We have here an excellent combination of historical analysis and religious faith, but the author draws a false dilemma and demands an unqualified answer, and then he backs down and says each miracle must be judged by the individual Christian on the merits of the case." R. C. Miller

+ Churchman 156:17 Je 1 '42 180w

"The book is well-written. It is far from being light reading. By that I do not mean that it is dull—it is distinctly not that—but that it requires close concentration and not infrequent rereading." M. S. Enslin

+ Crozer Q 19:242 Jl '42 600w

"We feel that Mr Richardson's tendency to avoid facing the question of historicity squarely detracts from a most useful book, well worthy of the B.D. conferred in respect of it by Oxford University. Otherwise there are but few blemishes." H. P. Kingdon

+ — Hibbert J 40:205 Ja '42 950w

Times [London] Lit Sup p272 Je 7 '41
1450w

RICHARDSON, LYON NORMAN, ed. See James, H. Representative selections

RICHARDSON, MRS MYRA REED. Sophie of the Lazy B; il. by Nicholas Panesis. 249p $2 McBride

42-50420

Combination of western and mystery story for children from twelve to fourteen. The scene is Wyoming in 1892, during the cattle war between the big ranchers and the homesteaders.

"There are unromanticized, friendly Indians, and life at the Lazy B ranch is lively in itself, but the suspense and excitements of the cattle war carry the story."

+ Books p28 N 15 '42 250w

"Good characterization, humor, and cleverness in the writing, besides a graphic picture of life on cattle ranch. Recommended." Gertrude Andrus

+ Library J 68:84 Ja 15 '43 70w

"Here is a grand Western tale for any one who has a soft spot in her heart for tomboys. Although Sophie manages to cover more territory than three ordinary heroines, her adventures are, in the main, plausible and always exciting, and she herself is an engaging, well-rounded character. The story, which has its basis in Wyoming history, is quick with humor and with the sense of the life of that frontier, lived hardily, honestly, with time for neighborliness and fun." E. L. Buell

+ N Y Times p11 Ja 24 '43 300w

RICHMOND, WINIFRED VANDERBILT. Making the most of your personality. 247p il $1.75 Farrar

136.7354 Adolescence (W) 42-3517

A book addressed especially to boys and girls of high school age. Defining personality as "what a man is" in all his aspects—body, mind, ways of thinking and feeling—the author goes on to discuss in successive chapters physiology and hygiene, intelligence, emotional life, the sex side of life, habits, motives and ideals.

Booklist 38:245 Mr 15 '42

"While the information and advice of this valuable guide is offered to young people of high school age, in so attractive a form that they will actually read it, the book should be in the possession of any one of riper years called upon to advise or otherwise deal with boys and girls who are growing up. For this is a sound method of passing on the information to which they are entitled. It is the more needed because the very word personality has been so often identified with glamour, or even with salesmanship, that a thorough overhauling of its meaning is required."

+ Books p17 F 15 '42 170w

Reviewed by Maude Adams

Library J 67:270 Mr 15 '42 80w

Wis Lib Bul 38:63 Ap '42

RICHTER, CONRAD. Tacey Cromwell. 208p $2 Knopf

(W) 42-21771

The story of Tacey Cromwell is the story of a "bad" woman who might have made good as a mother of adopted waifs and strays, had not the "good" women of the community—an Arizona mining town—combined against her and "rescued" the children.

Reviewed by Edward Weeks

Atlantic 170:142 N '42 270w

Booklist 39:72 N 1 '42

"To this plot Mr. Richter has brought his unusual and noteworthy gifts for recalling the American past. And so the time and the flavor of the time are real. The mining town is real, not a Western stage set. The people are real, and as Tacey, throughout, is seen through Nugget's eyes, she herself takes on reality. Not completely—the stock situation is a little too much even for Mr. Richter." S. V. Benet

+ — Books p6 N 1 '42 500w

Reviewed by E. F. Kelly

Library J 67:739 S 1 '42 60w

"Successful local color cannot compensate for a novel so cinematically conceived, so without realization of its characters or development of its theme."

— Nation 156:67 Ja 9 '43 100w

"Tacey's character comes out, as the author intended, quite noble and powerful; the writing, likewise, comes off well, with a kind of sun-burned prose typical of Southwestern regionalism. But, somehow, an undertone of repression is present which the author, obviously, has mistaken for restraint."

New Repub 107:802 D 14 '42 120w

"Perhaps Mr. Richter is more at home in the wilderness than among the humans who tamed it; perhaps a deeper penetration into his subject, and more elbow-room, would have produced the novel he was trying to write. But 'Tacey Cromwell' is an opulent canvas in a sketch-book. For all Mr. Richter's facility, he has crowded far too much into far too few pages. His story rings true in its major premise, but it does not stir the heart." William Du Bois

+ — N Y Times p6 O 25 '42 850w

"Mr. Richter writes with great distinction and with the rare talent of seeming not to judge the human folly he describes. Highly recommended."

+ New Yorker 18:81 O 31 '42 90w

"The lush beauty that enhanced 'Trees' and the 'Seas of Grass,' is missing from 'Tacey Cromwell,' in its place is compact and acute perception of persons; but all Mr. Richter's books are written in the same measured, limpid prose, without affectation, and with a loving understanding of the heart of western America." L. S. Munn

+ Spring'd Republican p7e N 8 '42 500w

"In the hands of a hack this plot could be a sentimental monster. But Author Richter handles it deftly, intelligently, against an effective regional background. His studies of children are acute and true."

+ Time 40:100 N 9 '42 350w

RIESEBERG, HARRY E. I dive for treasure.

33p il $2.75 McBride

656 Diving, Submarine. Shipwrecks. Treasure trove (W) 42-14791

Tales of the author's various underseas adventures in search of sunken treasure. He has taken $60,000 off the Santa Paula, sunk in the Yucatan Channel in 1679, and $40,000 from the bottom of Manto Bay, on the coast of Peru, both stories being retold here. Battles with tiger sharks and a giant octopus are part of the story. Map on end papers.

Booklist 38:381 Je 15 '42

"The author should know his history better than to think he discovered the flagship of the French Admiral de Grasse off Dominica. The great ship-of-the-line, Ville de Paris, was not sunk by Rodney, but was captured, towed to Jamaica for repairs and subsequently lost in the Atlantic on its way to England. Written in a rollicking style, 'I Dive for Treasure' may best be described as a juvenile aimed at adults. The right sort of public will read it avidly." W. A. Roberts

Books p18 Je 7 '42 650w

N Y Times p3 My 17 '42 500w

RIESENBERG, FELIX, 1913-. Salvage; a modern sea story. 220p $2 Dodd

(W) 42-19435

Sea story, part of which takes place after Pearl Harbor. The Albatross, a small American freighter, spies a derelict, and the captain and crew determine to take it as a prize. They encounter a Japanese ship and are boarded by Japs, but manage to capture their captors, and get their prize safely into port. For older boys.

Booklist 39:36 O 1 '42

"The teen age will welcome so rousing and real a tale." M. L. Becker

+ Books p26 N 15 '42 310w

"Writing is stilted at times, and story drags occasionally. Not a must book but a good story. Recommended." M. R. Lucas

+ Library J 67:742 S 1 '42 90w

Reviewed by M. C. Scoggin

Library J 67:894 O 15 '42 20w

RIESS, CURT. High stakes; a story of strange people and happenings. 282p $2.50 Putnam

42-18467

"'High Stakes' deals with the twilight era of a German news bureau operating in New York during the pre-Pearl Harbor days. It was, of course, merely a thinly disguised front for the protection of espionage agents and we are given a cross-section view of their various maneuvers seen sometimes close to and sometimes at a distance through the eyes of the F. B. I." Books

"In 'High Stakes' . . . we have a spy novel on a higher literary level, divorced from the moth-eaten formulas that served as recipes twenty-odd years ago. Here we have a fresh technique and a skillful handling of sensational material, and the result is a topical and entertaining book." T. Q. Curtiss

+ Books p8 Jl 26 '42 600w

"A thriller that owes its excitement more to the timeliness of its revelations than to the creative talents of its author."

Nation 155:98 Ag 1 '42 60w

"Considered simply as a spy thriller, 'High Stakes' stands up well. The suspense is adequately handled and there is a romantically satisfying ending." Drake De Kay

+ N Y Times p20 Jl 26 '42 400w

"Readers will recognize persons and events of the last two years in America, Nazi agents and agencies, their intrigues and how they were liquidated. This should make for added interest, the appeal of the roman à clef. But the reader finds that his own recollection of Nazi espionage in America is more exciting than the author's treatment of it. As for the invented characters, they are stock numbers out of hackneyed fiction." Joseph Gollomb

+ Sat R of Lit 25:14 Ag 8 '42 360w

RIESS, CURT. The self-betrayed; glory and doom of the German generals. 402p $3 Putnam
943.086 Germany—History, Military. World war, 1939—Germany. Germany—Army—Officers (W) 42-25078

"Or how the German generals double-crossed themselves. The author pretty much accepts the idea that the Prussian officers' coterie began to get ready for a new war almost before the 1918 armistice, and goes on to argue that the generals, by collaborating with Hitler, have made it sure that their own class will go down with him." (New Yorker) Chronology. Selected bibliography. Index.

"Mr. Riess is a gifted journalist and these pages read like an exciting detective novel, but one could wish that the book were more substantiated. Fundamentally, probably entirely right in describing the sociology and the decline of the self-betrayed, it is not convincing in detail. It gives no sources; it is filled with anecdotes based on nothing more than gossip and rumor; on occasion it uses as unquestioned evidence testimony presented in the Moscow trials. But of course—who would be in possession of all the most carefully guarded secrets of the enemy?" Paul Hagen

+ — Books p24 N 29 '42 750w

Christian Science Monitor p18 D 28 '42 650w

"Entertaining and exciting book. . . Riess seems to possess some pertinent information not available to average newspaper man, but there is no possibility of checking up now on the accuracy of his stories. Nevertheless, book will have fairly wide appeal and might be useful in larger libraries." F. E. Hirsch

+ Library J 67:908 O 15 '42 90w

"Mr. Riess is an anti-fascist exile. I accept his politics and reject his book. The central theme of 'The Self-Betrayed' is that the German generals, in dealing with Hitler, have betrayed their caste. It is thus at oblique variance with Mr. Fried's scholarly and documented 'Guilt of the German Army.' Much of the material of the present book can be obtained elsewhere and is beyond question. But Mr. Riess's specialty is revelation. 'The Self-Betrayed' is crammed with sensational accounts of private conversations and conspiracies between leading Nazis and soldiers of the Third Reich, reported as if Mr. Riess or his informants had been eyewitnesses. . . It is best to be frank. Mr. Riess may believe what his contacts tell him, but for my part I believe about one word of it. Obviously, Mr. Riess's informants are so close to the works that they ought to be able to tell us where Hitler will strike next. Whether it is believable or not, however, its verbosity, absence of logical order, and lack of selective discretion make the book a rococo horror for this reader." Ralph Bates

— Nation 155:588 N 28 '42 420w

"Curt Riess's 'The Self-Betrayed' is an able study of the complex relations between the Nazi Party and the old military oligarchy of Germany. It is a significant study because it reveals to what degree the power in Germany rests upon an uneasy alliance between the new Nazi oligarchy of demagogues and the old Junker military oligarchy." Reinhold Niebuhr

+ New Repub 107:764 D 7 '42 480w

"In giving us this picture of the German generals Mr. Riess has done the cause of lasting peace a great and needed service." P. R. Knauth

+ N Y Times p4 D 6 '42 1200w

"Readable, detailed journalism, but somewhat glib and wordy. Much new material."

+ — New Yorker 18:79 N 14 '42 90w

Reviewed by H. C. Wolfe

Sat R of Lit 25:10 N 28 '42 850w

RIESS, CURT. Underground Europe. 325p $3 Dial press

940.53 World war, 1939—Occupied countries (W) 42-11034

An account of the different kinds of opposition which the Nazis have met in the conquered countries of Europe.

RIESS, CURT—Continued

"I find this book unbalanced and unsatisfactory. It would not be difficult, for example, to collect enough instances of labor unrest and violence in various parts of the United States, in any chosen year, to give the impression that revolution was imminent in this country and only checked by oppression. Mr. Riess proves too much. There are sabotage and propaganda and assassination in Europe, and these things are symptoms of a state of mind. They are not in themselves very important." R. E. Danielson

Atlantic JI '42 300w

Booklist 38:344 My 15 '42

Reviewed by Wallace Deuel

Books p6 Je 7 '42 1150w

"Mr. Riess calls his stories sagas. Unfortunately, that has added an atmosphere of fairy story to 'Underground Europe,' without relieving it of dullness. Nevertheless, it is a useful work. It is well for Americans, in the midst of this terrible struggle, to realize that almost the whole western world is with them. . . . The author has covered a large field, in which fact-gathering is extremely difficult; so it is not strange he has made mistakes. For instance, he plays up the Serbian Chetnik leader, Pechanats, when as a matter of fact Pechanats is now working with the Belgrade pro-Nazi government. Also, he pictures the Croatian leader, Dr. Vladko Machek, as a pacifist. Machek indeed is not militaristic, but he is a fighter and was a chief of the Croatian Peasant Home Guards." R. H. M.

+ — Christian Science Monitor p18 Ap 21 '42 450w

Cleveland Open Shelf p9 My '42

"His book should win a wide audience by its human appeal even among those who will understand little of its political import." Frank Kingdon

+ Nation 154:519 My 2 '42 150w

Reviewed by Shepard Stone

N Y Times p4 Ap 19 '42 220w

Reviewed by Alfred Werner

Sat R of Lit 25:21 My 2 '42 230w

Reviewed by Sigmund Neumann

Yale R n s 32:197 autumn '42 700w

RIIS, ROGER WILLIAM, and PATRIC, JOHN. Repairmen will get you if you don't watch out. 271p $1.95 Doubleday

629.28 Automobiles—Repairing. Repairing (W) 42-13395

"The volume is the result of a nation-wide tour which John Patric of the Reader's Digest made with the purpose of testing the honesty, competence and resourcefulness of the country's repairmen. The book is mainly devoted to automobile repairmen of whom Patric found a startling 63 percent dishonest and sometimes incompetent. The authors also give 10 solid and sane rules to follow when your car, or radio, watch, typewriter, vacuum cleaner or electric iron must be fixed." Boston Globe

Booklist 38:364 Je 1 '42

Books p16 Je 14 '42 100w

"With the manufacture of all of these articles either drastically limited, or curtailed, this book should save owners a good deal of expense and promote the longevity of their machinery."

+ Boston Globe p19 Je 3 '42 100w

N Y New Tech Bks 27:43 JI '42

Pratt p15 D '42

RIKER, THAD WEED. Story of modern Europe; ed. by Howard R. Anderson. 382p 11 maps $2.40 Houghton

940.2 Europe—History—Juvenile literature 42-11834

School history for children from twelve to fifteen. It covers the social history of Europe from the Middle Ages to the present, and discusses manners and customs, industry, science, and social and political problems. Maps, charts, and index.

"Excellent maps, charts, and contemporary prints." Dorothea Dawson

Library J 67:477 My 15 '42 40w

"A very competent and teachable text that should prove interesting for the younger students."

+ Social Studies 33:287 O '42 10w

RILKE, RAINER MARIA. Poems from the Book of hours, Das Stundenbuch; tr. by Babette Deutsch. 31p $1; pa 50c New directions

831

42-21208

Fourteen poems from an early work of the German poet, Das Stundenbuch, written about 1900. Originals and translations are given on opposite pages.

"Miss Deutsch's translations excellently convey not only Rilke's philosophical concepts but sustain something of the rich music of his lines, the grave beauty of his imagery." Ruth Lechlitner

+ Books p13 JI 19 '42 250w

"Neither Herrick and Rilke nor any of the Greeks can, practically speaking, be considered Poets-of-the Month in 1942. Their pamphlets should be called Printings-of-the-Month—and as such they are excellent. I am sorry that New Directions insists on confusing the issue—which is the presentation of new work by poets writing today." Oscar Williams

New Repub 107:28 JI 6 '42 60w

Reviewed by P. M. Jack

N Y Times p4 F 1 '42 400w

"These poems are transitional, and the marks of Rilke's early sentimental flirting with the idea of God are apparent in them, yet they cast forward to his last great poems, written twenty years later, and they bear the signs of his impeccable eye and ear. Miss Deutsch, wisely keeping the original form, has reproduced the tone of the originals." Louise Bogan

+ New Yorker 17:69 F 14 '42 110w

"On the whole, this (with the possible exception of J. B. Leishman's) is the best translation of Rilke's poetry which has yet appeared." Louis Untermeyer

+ Yale R n s 32:369 winter '43 140w

RILKE, RAINER MARIA. Sonnets to Orpheus; tr. by M. D. Herter Norton. 160p $2.50 Norton

831

42-17662

A group of poems written in February, 1922, and more or less directly based on the account of the death of a young girl, sent to the poet by the child's mother.

"Perhaps because Rilke appears to have taken down the sonnets virtually at the dictation of his subconscious, they do not offer a coherent philosophy. Nor do most of them exhibit the compelling quality of certain other lyrics of his. . . . It is unfortunate that they should be presented to a public unfamiliar with them in an English version that is so far from the originals. The present translator makes no attempt to follow the rhyme scheme or the cadences of the German, as did Mr. Leishman, and so one might expect at least a faithful prose rendering." Babette Deutsch

Books p13 Ag 2 '42 700w

"Nobody who can read German will deny that Rilke's poetry has strong musical charm. Nobody will deny that he was a seeker after truth, and that he gave his whole life in search of an answer to the two fundamental questions of death and love. . . . But a translation kills this very delicate beauty which is often only of the auditory kind; it reveals the frequent absurdity of his dark, evaporating images, and brings us a message so queer and unhelpful that we wonder, cui bonum? The translation is extraordinarily true to the orig-

final and skilfully done, and the editor and publisher take great pains to give us a true 'version' of this strange Fin de siècle poet." H. A. Reinhold

Commonweal 36:404 Ag 14 '42 650w

"The 'Sonnets to Orpheus,' a sequence written in 1922, is, with the 'Elegies,' Rilke's finest work—the two books really belong together, shine the better for each other's presence, and should some day be published in one volume. And as of the 'Elegies,' one wants a better translation than as yet exists. The present one is at best adequate, in the barest sense of the word—a mere literal transcription—which is all it pretends to be, and for which we are grateful. But even this is now and then definitely misleading, where Rilke's summary procedure is too exactly followed. The task is one for a poet. And the opportunity a great one." Conrad Aiken

New Repub 107:521 O 19 '42 1000w

"It often happens that a poet gets so bound to his own outlook, language and form that he is inclined to imitate himself, and it seems to us that this is what happened in 'Sonnets to Orpheus.' Rilke himself seems to have placed a high value on them, even though he said they were an overflow from his Duino Elegies. But followers of Rilke will be glad to have this book with the original sonnets on one side and Mrs. Norton's careful, direct and often beautiful translation on the other." M. M. Colum

+ N Y Times p12 N 29 '42 280w

"A literal version of the great sonnets, printed with the originals, that has qualities which raise it well above the trot class."

+ New Yorker 18:91 O 1 '42 30w

"Mrs. Norton not only does a service for Rilke. She provides profitable instruction for those courageous enough to attempt the difficult craft of translation." W. M. Sale, Jr.

Poetry 61:447 N '42 420w

Pratt p16 D '42

"Mrs. Norton's translation is highly functional, and from it a reader without German can doubtless obtain a better knowledge of the Sonnets than by any other available means short of learning the original language. Despite its minor faults of rendition, hers is the best translation of the work that this reviewer has seen." George Zabriskie

Sat R of Lit 25:14 O 5 '42 800w

"Mrs. Norton has translated literally, to a large extent she has preserved the meters. But the verbal coloring, the inner rhythms, the delicate nuances have disappeared in these doggedly faithful versions. The loss of nuance, of the subtle flow of sound and sense, is particularly grievous in the 'Sonnets to Orpheus,' which Rilke rhymed with such musical richness and which Mrs. Norton has turned into such unrhymed and unresponsive flatness." Louis Untermeyer

— Yale R n s 32:369 winter '43 140w

RIMINGTON, CRITCHELL. Fighting fleets. 240p il $3 Dodd

359 Warships. U.S.—Navy (W) 42-14653

"A poor man's 'Jane's Fighting Ships,' corrected to March 1, 1942: diagrams, text, data, and more than 300 photographs covering the naval types and classes of the major sea powers, in addition to sections on our naval aircraft and Coast Guard. Introduction by Rear Admiral Yates Stirling, Jr., U.S.N., retired." (New Yorker) Index of ships.

Booklist 38:420 Jl 1 '42

"'Fighting Fleets' will prove as satisfactory to the layman as Jane's famous annual is to the professional, and at only a fraction of the cost."

+ Books p22 Je 7 '42 150w

"Useful for reference." H. A. von Urff

+ Library J 67:413 My 1 '42 70w

Reviewed by M. C. Scoggin

Library J 67:894 O 15 '42 10w

New Yorker 18:68 My 30 '42 50w

Pratt p18 D '42

RIMSKII-KORSAKOV, NIKOLAI ANDREEVICH. My musical life; tr. from the 5th rev. Russian ed. by Judah A. Joffe; ed. with an introd. by Carl Van Vechten. 3d ed rev 502p il $5 Knopf

B or 92 Musicians—Correspondence, reminiscences, etc. 42-3635

"The present edition of My Musical Life follows faithfully the final form given to the text by the composer's son in the two latest (fourth and fifth) Russian editions, issued before the reviser's death. A. Rimsky-Korsakov painstakingly collated the Russian text, with the autograph manuscript in the Manuscript Division of the State Public Library at Leningrad, restoring passages deleted, in accordance with the author's wishes, in the first Russian edition, correcting errors, and adding an introduction of his own. Furthermore he added over four hundred and fifty extremely valuable and illuminating footnotes. In this present edition footnotes ascribed to no one else are those of the Russian editor. All other deviations from the Russian text are enclosed in brackets." (Pref) For earlier edition see Book Review Digest, 1924. Index.

Booklist 38:238 Mr 1 '42

New Repub 106:310 Mr 2 '42 20w

Reviewed by Desmond Shawe-Taylor

New Statesman & Nation 24:144 Ag 29 '42 1250w

"It is a book of absorbing interest, but chiefly to musicians and music-lovers, for it is a professional autobiography and tells you next to nothing about the composer's personal life outside his musical interest and his development as a creative artist."

+ Spec 169:32 Jl 24 '42 300w

Times [London] Lit Sup p345 Jl 11 '42 650w

RINEHART, MARY (ROBERTS) (MRS S. M. RINEHART). Haunted lady. 275p $2 Farrar (W) 42-10686

Detective story.

Booklist 38:347 My 15 '42

Bookmark 3:18 My '42

"Here it is, the new Mary Roberts Rinehart book. Biggest event of the spring mystery drive. What's more, it is a major Rinehart, a worthy addition to a long and honorable line of successes unmatched in the field. Mrs. Rinehart easily and gracefully retains her rating as America's best, let a few misguided fans yelp as they will for rougher fare and worse grammar." Will Cuppy

+ Books p18 My 3 '42 450w

"Each murder mystery that Mary Roberts Rinehart writes seems at the time to be better than those that have gone before, and this one is no exception. How does she do it?" Isaac Anderson

+ N Y Times p17 My 3 '42 160w

"A haphazard story, with a weak solution, by an ordinarily skilled author."

New Yorker 18:72 My 2 '42 50w

"A clean-cut, quick-stepping yarn, minus the garrulous complexities of recent Rinehart stories."

+ Time 39:92 My 4 '42 50w

Times [London] Lit Sup p560 N 14 '42 150w

RIPLEY, CLEMENTS. Mississippi belle. 307p $2.50 Appleton-Century

42-5688

New Orleans and Memphis in the 1830s, when Andrew Jackson was still alive, and gambling on the Mississippi steamboats was the accepted thing. Caitlin Ryan, whose father was a Boston politician, made a hasty marriage with a hot blooded young Southerner. On the trip south all her husband's money and her own was lost in one night's gambling, and her husband shot himself. The remainder of the story is of Caitlin's attempt to bring up her son respectably, tho she earned her living in a New Orleans gambling house.

Booklist 38:252 Mr 15 '42

RIPLEY, CLEMENTS—Continued

"Drama of the nth degree, crammed with chivalry, perfidy, politics and mother love. We are inclined to agree with the author when he says that Memphis has seen nothing to equal it 'since Judge Silus adjourned court and shot the County Prosecutor from the bench.'" Lisle Bell

Books p22 Mr 8 '42 300w

"We never have, in reading about any of these people, the feeling that they belong particularly to their times. They would all be quite familiarly at home in the Nineteen Forties. Once this is said, the only serious objection to 'Mississippi Belle' as historical fiction is out of the way. It is not less entertaining by reason of it. Indeed, it could hardly be more entertaining. 'Mississippi Belle' is a very slick piece of writing. And slick is used in a complimentary sense, not to mean as it sometimes does merely glib and hollow, but expertly assembled and pared down and polished to the required luster." Margaret Wallace

+ — N Y Times p6 Mr 15 '42 700w

RIPLEY, DILLON. See Ripley, S. D.

RIPLEY, ELIZABETH, il. See American Girl magazine. Lots of laughs

RIPLEY, SIDNEY DILLON. Trail of the money bird; 30,000 miles of adventure with a naturalist. 306p il $3.50 Harper

598.2 Birds, New Guinea—Description and travel (W) 42-25018

Account of the author's part in the Denison-Crockett expedition to the south Pacific, for the Academy of natural sciences of Philadelphia, in 1937 and 1938. He was commissioned to collect specimens of exotic birds, and he describes the natural habitats of the birds and their capture and the difficult journey back to America.

"For me the first four chapters of the book might just as well never have been written. . . But, by Jove! when Mr. Ripley gets us to New Guinea things begin to happen. All at once we're alive again. . . Best of all are the discussions of the birds themselves. For its paragraphs on paradise birds alone 'Trail of the Money Bird' should take its place among the natural history classics." G. M. Sutton

+ — Books p6 N 8 '42 1050w

"Most travelogues are either boring because they contain too much dry description, or else they are marred by sensationalism. Ripley has been entirely successful in avoiding both faults. I have rarely read a travel book which I found as thoroughly satisfactory as his 'Trail of the Money Bird.' It is written with a charm and humor which captivate the reader at once. And he will be loath to put the book down, once he has started reading." Ernst Mayr

+ N Y Times p8 N 29 '42 800w

"While the author of the 'Trail of the Money Bird' proves himself a passable writer, this reviewer found the book generally dull reading. In fact, what Mr. Ripley says of interest or consequence, might well have been compressed in approximately half the space." C. B. Moore

Springf'd Republican p8 D 3 '42 750w

RITNER, MRS ANN KATHERINE (GILLILAND). Shelter without walls. 320p $2.50 Mill (W) 42-50078

Composite portrait of the members of an American family, living in a Western university town, in the late 1930's. Henry Banister, a lawyer of known integrity; his quiet but charming wife; their three daughters and the men they marry; with Henry's doctor brother, are the chief characters. It is the unsuccessful, humorous, penetrating brother, who is able to save Henry's family when stark tragedy overtakes them.

Booklist 39:225 F 1 '43

"There are tragedies in this story, but they are the tragedies of life itself. The writing has warmth, and even the minor figures are carefully and truly drawn." Lisle Bell

+ Books p11 D 27 '42 230w

Christian Century 59:1562 D 16 '42 70w

"The author has made great strides in the mastery of her work since her last book, 'Elizabeth, My Daughter,' which showed definite promise. This one is more perceptive, more subtle. Its minor characters, Henry's wife and John Collins's mother, for example, are only sketched in, but their proportions are interesting and one can see their effect on the others." Charlotte Dean

+ N Y Times p34 D 6 '42 550w

ROBB, DAVID METHENY, and GARRISON, JESSE JAMES. Art in the western world. rev ed 1045p il $5 Harper

709 Art—History. Architecture—History. Sculpture—History. Painting—History

42-25191

"A section on minor arts has been added, and portions of the book revised and amplified. For first edition see [Book Review Digest, 1936]." (Booklist) Selected critical bibliography. Glossary. Index.

Booklist 39:142 D 15 '42

"New revised edition of a reference book already known for its comprehensive treatment of the subject. Well illustrated but rather scantily indexed."

New Yorker 18:104 D 5 '42 20w

ROBB, JANET HENDERSON. Primrose league, 1883-1906. 258p $3.25 Columbia univ. press

329.942 Primrose league 42-16974

"Two years after the death of Benjamin Disraeli a simple field flower became the party badge of those who honored that sophisticated statesman. So began the Primrose League, a social cult, a Conservative political association. . . The purpose and program of the League were clear and simple. Its members followed the ideals of Conservatism, the principles of Disraeli. They organized Conservative opinion for election purposes. A barrage of pamphlets rolled from their central depots." (Social Studies) Bibliography. Index.

Reviewed by Paul Knaplund

Am Hist R 48:336 Ja '43 430w

"A thorough and interesting history of the Primrose League in its heyday." J. R. Starr

+ Am Pol Sci R 36:788 Ag '42 300w

"This scholarly and competent monograph is a study of the most significant political association in the fermenting years of late Victorian England. Too many books are solely descriptive, drugging the reader with solid facts, carefully confirmed. This essay is more valuable than that, for it is in part a portrait of an age. Dr. Robb has essayed a difficult task of synthesis and interpretation." Goldwin Smith

+ Social Studies 33:333 N '42 450w

ROBBINS, MRS ANN BROKAW (ROE). 25 vegetables anyone can grow; il. by Leonard J. Robbins. 219p $2.25 Crowell

635 Vegetable gardening (W) 42-36163

Cultural details on twenty-five common vegetables, with some historical data, frost zone maps, garden plans, etc. Has one chapter on canning. Index.

Booklist 38:304 Ap 15 '42

"Her selections of vegetables are satisfactory, and she tells enough about growing them to meet the needs of her chosen market. If you think of it as a suitable book on which to cut your vegetable gardening teeth, as it were, you won't go wrong." R. S. Lemmon

+ Books p15 Ap 19 '42 170w

Boston Globe p17 Ap 22 '42 100w

Wis Lib Bul 38:84 My '42

ROBBINS, JAMES JACOB. Government of labor relations in Sweden. 367p $3.50. Am.-Scandinavian foundation; Univ. of N.C. press
331.19485 Arbitration, Industrial. Labor contract. Labor laws and legislation—Sweden
42-13984

"The economic aspects of collective bargaining in Sweden have received considerable attention in this country in recent years. In this book the political and juridical side of Swedish union-management relations is comprehensively examined. The first half of the book deals with the development of unions and employers' associations, by industries, and with the system of collective contracts between corresponding industry groups which has gradually evolved over the past half-century. . . The subject matter of the second half centers around the functioning of the Labor Court, a tripartite (union-management-government) body established in 1929 to adjudicate disputes over the interpretation and application of collective contracts." (Ann Am Acad) Index.

Am Hist R 48:406 Ja '43 20w

"Of the half-dozen worth-while books on Swedish social affairs which have appeared in this country during the past two years this is easily the most important to political scientists. It is a solid work, the result of mature research on the ground, and gives the reader an excellent account of the general labor problem in Sweden as well as the law of labor relations." E. C. Bellquist

+ Am Pol Sci R 36:192 O '42 550w

Reviewed by P. H. Norgren
Ann Am Acad 223:247 S '42 850w
Library J 67:476 My 15 '42 60w

ROBBINS, ROY MARVIN. Our landed heritage; the public domain, 1776-1936. 450p 11 maps $5 Princeton univ. press

333.1 U.S.—Public lands 42-3317

"Professor Robbins has not attempted the ambitious task of recording the whole history of the public domain; that task would require many volumes. He has confined his inquiry to its official political history, not neglecting those social and economic factors which of course controlled governmental policy. He has not, in short, told the story of the westward movement, of the cultivation of the soil, of the interrelations of land and society; he has confined himself rather to legislation about the land and the class and sectional struggles over that legislation." Books

"This book is a highly valuable synthetic treatment of a century and a half of the complicated history of the public domain. Sober figures and official data are humanized by settlers' accounts, newspapers, and flocks of monographs. Robbins gives more credit to the surveyors and settlers than to statesmen and statutes. Farmers, cattlemen, and immigrants constituted a more powerful force than the speculators. This work is a just and effective sermon on F. J. Turner's text that 'These free lands promoted individualism, economic equality, freedom to rise, democracy.'" Louis Pelzer

+ Am Hist R 48:350 Ja '43 500w

"Mr. Robbins gives evidence of careful research and scholarly balance on practically every page of his work. He seems to make use of every available authority and, very properly, he does not disdain local Western newspapers such as the Copper Mountain Miner, the Laramie Boomerang, and the Walla Walla Weekly Statesman. He is careful in apportioning praise and blame, thus avoiding the common mistake of visiting condemnation upon classes of persons for the mistakes and frauds incident to disposition of the national domain. His conclusions are marked by scholarly restraint." C. O. Johnson

+ Am Pol Sci R 36:357 Ap '42 650w

"This is a valuable book. It by no means displaces the numerous monographs which deal more elaborately with special phases of the story—the studies of Treat, Wellington, Stephenson, Hill, Hibbard, and the encyclopedic Donaldson. It is not always well balanced—there is too much concern with some of the early land acts, too little with some of the later acts—and many matters of interest are ignored. The maps are far from satisfactory. Yet it tells for the first time with any completeness the history of the disposal of our public domain. It brings to our attention many fresh facts, presents many new interpretations. It is, on the whole, vigorous and interesting." H. S. Commager

+ — Books p24 Mr 1 '42 1700w

"This book, which Professor Robbins subtitled a study of the public domain, is, from any point of view, a remarkable piece of work. First, because it is done with such scrupulous care. A great deal of research has, very obviously, gone into it. Its scholarship is remarkable and beyond dispute. Second, because there are many things that are new in it. Third, because it is, clearly, the best single synthesis of the history of our public lands that we have." Francis Downing

+ Commonweal 35:593 Ap 3 '42 700w

Reviewed by Carey McWilliams
Nation 154:634 My 30 '42 1150w

"The story of our land history has needed telling, and although the title of Mr. Robbins's book and its preface seem to promise it, only part of the story is to be found here. A valuable book as far as it goes, it is primarily a legislative history of the alienation of our public domain." A. S. Kenas

+ N Y Times p15 My 24 '42 800w

"While Our Landed Heritage may not merit the praise so fulsomely offered on the jacket by a distinguished professor of American history, it does extend our knowledge of American land policy and the forces that shaped it. Its chief contribution is the description of western development, with its 'boom or bust' cycle, in which the story of land policies—somewhat conventional, it is true—is given an admirable setting." P. W. Gates

Pol Sci Q 57:299 Je '42 900w

Pratt p9 D '42

"Mr. Robbins has treated an important aspect of national development in a comprehensive, thorough, and scholarly manner. He has made genuine contribution to the literature of American history as well as to an understanding and appreciation of 'our landed heritage.'" P. W. Wager

+ Social Forces 20:523 My '42 480w

ROBERTS, CECIL. One small candle. 284p $2.50 Macmillan [8s 6d Hodder] (W) 42-16500

Romantic tale of a young English doctor turned playwright who wanders from Henley-on-Thames to Florida, back to Henley, to Venice, and finally to Poland, in his pursuit of the woman he loves. The book closes on the eve of the outbreak of war.

Booklist 38:442 Jl 15 '42

"With the easy magic of a lesser Marco Polo, Cecil Roberts trails a romance from England to Florida, to Venice, and Poland in war time. The love interest is a bit anaemic in spite of an entrancing Hollywood star, a great Polish pianist who happens also to be a prince, a luscious predatory ballet dancer and an amazingly young English dramatist. But if the plight of the dramatist who goes to the dogs in Venice in the old-fashioned Byronic manner is not too moving, there is some good sightseeing along the way." Page Cooper

+ — Books p8 Jl 5 '42 700w

"Mr. Roberts is master of a picturesque, vivid style; even his more stereotyped characters live, he has a sense of drama, and arranges skillfully a crowded canvas, that in other hands might be confused. It is however not quite true to type to make the scion of a princely house of Catholic Poland resort to suicide as a noble gesture to free his faithful wife for the man she really loves."

+ — Cath World 155:636 Ag '42 200w

"If you are looking for light but not too flimsy Summer reading, for a book that keeps you entertained and never throws you out of balance, we suggest Cecil Roberts's latest novel. . . There is a lot of suspense in it and it's all as real as a movie in technicolor. Considering the war and the pianist's state of health, the last chapter does not seem particularly gloomy and makes a smooth ending to a smoothly written book." Marianne Hauser

ROBERTS, CECIL—Continued
+ N Y Times p7 Ag 2 '42 650w

"Mr. Roberts's latest novel is of the same genre as his other spectacularly popular cosmopolitan romances, and it is the fault of the times, perhaps, and not the fault of the author, that its essential message fails to strike at our hearts even though barbed with pathos. There are various reasons for this; perhaps the broadest is the too continuous division of interest; it is a short book, but there are four major backgrounds to it, all realized with sympathy but hurried."

Times [London] Lit Sup p377 Ag 1
'42 330w

ROBERTS, MRS EDITH (KNEIPPLE). Little hell—big heaven. 327p $2.50 Bobbs 42-21079

A story of contrasting lives in the homes of the rich and the slums of the poor in Chicago. The hero and heroine, daughter and son of a multi-millionaire, fall in love with members of the so-called "lower classes" and have their eyes opened to a way of life vastly different from their own.

Reviewed by Page Cooper
Books p6 Ag 30 '42 500w

"The naïveté of her story, its flamboyance, its banality, prevent one from taking her moral lesson to heart—or even from crediting the tale she has to tell. Because she is an experienced novelist, 'Little Hell—Big Heaven' is not, in spite of everything, as painful as it might be, but neither is it a story that I would care to recommend." E. H. Walton
— + N Y Times p16 Ag 30 '42 650w

ROBERTS, HOLLAND DE WITTE; RACHFORD, HELEN FOX, and GOUDY, ELIZABETH. Airplanes to English. 501p il $1.72 McGraw

808.5 Elocution. Radio authorship 42-5650
"A guide to speaking, listening, reading, and writing through speech and radio." (Sub-title) The program of radio and other speech activities outlined in the book are drawn from the daily experiences of the student, and are aimed at the individual. Although desirable, no special equipment is required to carry out this program. A high school textbook. Bibliography." Booklist

Booklist 38:271 Ap 1 '42

Reviewed by T. L. Harris
School R 50:665 N 42 800w

ROBERTS, KATHARINE. Center of the web. 292p $2 Doubleday 42-15037

Spy story of the present war, the scene of which is German-occupied Belgium, especially Antwerp. The hero is Peter Stanleigh, sent from London to check on a certain Fraulein Doktor.

Booklist 38:385 Je 15 '42

"Here is an espionage yarn so neatly tailored and smoothly written that it should convert many who pass up spies and spying." Will Cuppy

+ Books p18 My 3 '42 200w

Reviewed by Elizabeth Hull
Boston Globe p17 Je 10 '42 180w

"The author has sketched in her background so convincingly that she seems at times to be telling a story of fact rather than of fiction. 'Center of the Web' deserves high rank among the spy stories of the present war." Isaac Anderson

+ N Y Times p17 My 10 '42 200w

"Bang-up thriller."

+ Sat R of Lit 25:17 My 23 '42 40w

"Spy-stuff at its best."

+ Time 39:84 Je 1 '42 40w

ROBERTS, WALTER ADOLPHE. French in the West Indies. 335p il $3 Bobbs

972.9 West Indies, French, France—Colonies. French in the West Indies 42-9012

The author of 'The Caribbean: the Story of Our Sea of Destiny' (Book Review Digest, 1940) in this new book traces the story of the French influence in Caribbean lands—in Haiti, Martinique and Guadeloupe, in Florida and Louisiana, in Mexico and French Guiana. The time covered is from the days of the explorers and early settlers to the aftermath of the fall of France in 1940. Index.

"While the book does not pretend to bring out any strikingly new facts, the interesting narrative is vividly and pleasantly told and concludes with an up-to-date description of the situation in Martinique." W. H. Chamberlin

+ Atlantic J1 '42 300w

"All in all, Roberts has admirably filled an historical vacancy. There have been travel and descriptive books galore about the West Indies (none better than that of Lafcadio Hearn), innumerable accounts of buccaneers and pirates from Esquemeling's blood-curdling narrative to Means's scholarly 'The Spanish Main,' and a plentitude of fact and fiction about English seamen and Spanish conquistadors. But not before, so far as this reviewer knows, has there been a complete, accurate, carefully written presentation in English of French exploits and achievements in the West Indies." P. J. Searles

+ Books p6 Ap 19 '42 900w

Reviewed by J. E. Cross

Library J 67:268 Mr 15 '42 100w

"The timely, the picturesque, and the historically interesting are ingredients excellently served forth in the new book by the author of 'The Caribbean.' It would be too much to describe 'The French in the West Indies' as a pièce de résistance in a menu of present-day reading, but it is certainly to be recommended as a savory; and that not because it is sensational or romanticized, but, basically, because it is not. Mr. Roberts can put plenty of pungency into his long, eventful story without ever sacrificing his emphasis of sound scholarship, poise, and good sense."

+ N Y Times p3 Ap 12 '42 550w

New Yorker 18:67 Ap 4 '42 60w

ROBERTS, WALTER ADOLPHE. The U.S. navy fights. 275p il $2.75 Bobbs

973 U.S.—History, Naval. U.S.—Navy—History (W) 42-25803

"Mr. Roberts has in [this book] brought together the men and ships and deeds that compose American Navy tradition. From the archives he has selected outstanding examples of Navy men in action and from contemporary naval history he has taken enough to bear out his claim that the men of today, with their steel ships and hurtling planes, fit into the glowing tapestry which was begun by John Paul Jones on the quarterdeck of a wooden sailing vessel. Before coming to his chapters on the individual combats which compose all but a small fraction of the book, Mr. Roberts presents a brief résumé of the nine wars in which the naval service has been involved." N Y Times

Booklist 39:199 Ja 15 '43

"This book is a worthwhile addition to the popular literature on our Navy. It should be welcome in all but the smaller sizes of masculine Christmas stockings." R. F. Armknecht

+ Books p16 D 13 '42 950w

"It is a good book. It supplies the background against which to study the Navy as its men and ships, now part of the United Nations' sea-arm, live up to the records of the past." R. G. Doyle

+ N Y Times p31 D 13 '42 750w

"The writing is a little stiff but the events themselves make up for that."

+ New Yorker 18:99 N 28 '42 40w

Reviewed by Bernard Brodie

Sat R of Lit 26:8 Ja 9 '43 700w

ROBERTSON, BEN. Red hills and cotton; an upcountry memory. 296p $2.50 Knopf
917.57 South Carolina—Description and travel. South Carolina—Social life and customs (W) 42-17018

The author of I Saw England (Book Review Digest, 1941) here turns his eyes on his own South Carolina homeland, where his forebears have lived for nearly two hundred years. In a contemplative vein he writes of those ancestors, among them Daniel Boone, and some of the founders of Tennessee and Texas. He describes their effect upon the lives of his present-day family, hard working, God fearing, self-respecting farmers of the Carolina piedmont. It is a picture of a country and a people.

Booklist 39:69 N 1 '42

Bookmark 4:13 N '42

"This is a delightful book. As far as I am concerned, it will go on that special, small shelf reserved for books that are to be re-read and cherished." Rosemary Benet

+ Books p3 Ag 16 '42 750w

Christian Science Monitor p10 S 19 '42 550w

"Mr. Robertson writes with almost Old Testament eloquence of his own people. . . [It is] notable as the portrait of a people, or a small segment of one, and abounding in quotable anecdote." J. K. Paulding

+ Commonweal 36:569 O 2 '42 550w

"Recommended." E. F. Kelly

+ Library J 67:681 Ag '42 90w

Reviewed by Stark Young

New Repub 107:421 O 5 '42 420w

"From the first page of 'Red Hills and Cotton,' charm casts a witching spell; and the warmth, beauty, and individual flavor of this 'up-country memory' will linger long and happily in the reader's mind. But its greater importance is felt quickly, beyond all its personal charm. Grandfather Bowen, who worked for the spread of education and believed in small farms and factories, was quite simply convinced that 'something divine guided the plain common people of the United States' to ends of righteousness and wisdom. . . Throughout this book the spirit shows its human richness, in diversity and savor as in valor and work and faith." Katherine Woods

+ N Y Times p5 Ag 23 '42 1350w

Time 40:92 S 28 '42 800w

Wis Lib Bul 38:162 N '42

ROBERTSON, MRS CONSTANCE (NOYES). Salute to the hero. 597p $3 Farrar

42-1114

Character sketch of a clever, unmitigated cad, who manipulated his own life so well that even though he was a liar, a cheat, a coward, and a murderer, he flourished for many years as a national hero. General Bute was a man in public life before the Civil war; he was a high-ranking officer during the war; and much in public eye thereafter. The book closes in 1913 when once more the general was able to pull out of a bad mess, with colors flying. Bibliography.

"The author has written an interesting novel with an adequately studied background, but many will object to the general scheme and philosophy of her work. Richard Bute is so palpably Daniel Sickles in all major incidents that one is forced to assume that Daniel Sickles in private life was the kind of man Mrs. Robertson presents as the dreadful Bute. Thus a dead man is libeled by indirection. General Sickles may have deserved such treatment, but the method is neither ingenious nor ingenious, and one hopes that it will not be followed by other novelists." R. E. Danielson

Atlantic My '42 300w

"Mrs. Robertson has written Bute's story in a style that well becomes it. Her style is hard, factual unemotional, a masculine style that is enormously effective. And although one might quarrel with the introduction of the device of the trial as a means of telling fully a third of Bute's shifty odyssey, it is difficult to see how she could have improved the novel. Admirably constructed, soundly executed and thoroughly finished in both characterization and event, 'Salute to the Hero' is a good, entertaining, evocative book." A. B. Tourtelot

+ Books p4 Mr 29 '42 800w

"'Salute to the Hero' might have been a cold book. It is a great tribute to the wit and vigor and realism of Mrs. Robertson's writing that it emerges as nothing of the sort. In the love story of Vinnie Bute and Simon Brand there is all the warmth any novel needs, together with the impact of final tragedy. And it would be impossible to number on the fingers of one hand the murder trials in fiction worthy to be set beside this one. Also, if more were needed, the reader can work up no little heat and enthusiasm over the tantalizing hope that Dick Bute will trip and break his neck before long." Margaret Wallace

+ N Y Times p7 Mr 29 '42 750w

"As a story of how a clever but unscrupulous man can pull the wool over the eyes of his fellow-citizens, this is interesting, but the General is almost too much of a scoundrel to be credible."

New Yorker 18:79 Mr 28 '42 80w

"The title of the novel is, of course, ironic. It is Mrs. Robertson's business to strip the mask from the face of the hero. The face is scheming, cruel, ambitious, unscrupulous. There must have been more than that to Richard Bute. He raised a brigade and commanded an army corps and was influential in two political parties. In order to mishandle monument funds, he first had to be entrusted with them. At worst, he needed to possess a glow and fascination which never warm the cold and calculating fellow of Mrs. Robertson's invention. 'Salute to the Hero' makes good reading; but most of us must believe in our villains before we can thoroughly detest them." Margaret Leech

Sat R of Lit 25:5 Mr 28 '42 750w

ROBERTSON, HELEN; MACLEOD, SARAH JOSEPHINE, and PRESTON, FRANCES. What do we eat now? a guide to wartime housekeeping. 370p $2.50 Lippincott

641.5 Cookery (W) 42-36357

Guide to budgeting for wartime economy. Meal planning, food buying, recipes and budgeting are all included. Special attention is given to box lunches and inexpensive party menus. Has a chapter on care of household equipment. Index and sample budget.

Booklist 39:97 N 15 '42

Bookmark 4:8 N '42

Cleveland Open Shelf p22 N '42

"Menu patterns with illustrations of their use will be especially appreciated by the unimaginative homemaker. The recipes are all of the 'down-to-earth' type, not fancy, and are appropriate for those who wish to shift their food habits to keep within their food budget. . . Principally intriguing is the chapter on the lunch box. Many people who never expected to carry or pack a lunch are now doing so." D. E. Shank

+ J Home Econ 35:48 Ja '43 250w

ROBINSON, BENJAMIN WILLARD. Jesus in action. 217p $1.50 Macmillan

232.9 Jesus Christ—Character. Jesus Christ —Teaching 42-7870

"This is not another biography of Jesus, playing fancifully with the few biographical details that have come down to us; it is a vivid account of his direct, vigorous personality, his dynamic, positive teaching and leadership, his affirmative and creative program. Jesus did not array 'thou shalt not's' before his followers; he presented a strong, invigorating way of life. . . It is addressed to modern minds in the world in which we live today." (Library J) Index.

Reviewed by Paul Minear

Christian Century 59:1221 O 7 '42 600w

ROBINSON, B. W.—Continued

"Fresh and new in its application of the person and power of our Saviour, the book deserves a big circulation among Christian students." A. L. B.-C.

+ Churchman 156:14 My 15 '42 70w

Reviewed by J. P. Berkeley
Crozer Q 19:240 J1 '42 850w

"The author follows a harmonistic method with very little attention to the results of historical method. He selects the particular version of an event best suited to make his point, regardless of whether historicity can be claimed for it. If the author has any doubts that Jesus actually cursed a fig tree, they are not betrayed. Many effective paraphrases of individual sayings of Jesus are given, and the author frequently offers expositions of real homiletic value. But it seems a pity to retreat to this kind of harmonistic treatment of the Gospels when religious and devotional values are sought." C. T. Craig

+ J Religion 22:457 O '42 240w

"This clear, nonsectarian study of its force and power is free of the theological trimmings that have dulled the real impact of its significance for many." A. H. Campbell

+ Library J 67:130 F 1 '42 100w

ROBINSON, CLARK SHOVE. Recovery of vapors; with special reference to volatile solvents. 275p il $4.75 Reinhold

660 Chemical engineering. Vapors. Solvents 42-14410

"The author, associated with the Department of Chemical engineering, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, offers a course of study for the engineer and others not familiar with the subject." (N Y New Tech Bks) First published, 1922, under title: The Recovery of Volatile Solvents.

"A definite need for this book has existed for several years. . . The author's exposition is simple and rational. Much of what he says is easily comprehensible to the average intelligent non-engineer reader, although by no means too elementary for the engineer just getting into the subject. . . If the book leaves something to be desired in its format and typography, still, its purpose has been well achieved."

+ Chem & Met Eng 49:231 S '42 330w
N Y New Tech Bks 27:45 J1 '42

ROBINSON, GEORGE LIVINGSTON. Bearing of archaeology on the Old Testament. (Princeton theological seminary. L. F. Stone lectures) 207p il $1.75 Am. tract

221.93 Bible. Old Testament—History of contemporary events. Bible. Old Testament—Antiquities 42-894

Sketches the part played by archeology on our knowledge of the Old Testament. Material is arranged by countries. Selected bibliography. Index.

"These lectures, undoubtedly charming and informative to their original audience, scarcely warranted a new volume, especially under so comprehensive a title. As might be expected from this revered veteran of Negeb exploration, the section on Petra is excellent, as are also sections on Ras Shamra, Hittites, and the Lachish letters. Yet in view of the scope of the title, there are serious omissions: e.g. Tepe Gawra, Al Ubaid, Ezion Geber, Nuzi. In fact, the discussions move in an earlier period." C. S. Knopf

+ Christian Century 55:599 My 6 '42 650w

"Professor Robinson covers a great deal of ground in this moderate sized book, and yet the reader will find the information given quite adequate." L. W. Batten

+ Churchman 156:17 Ap 15 '42 300w

ROBINSON, GERTRUDE. Catch a falling star; lithographs by Albert Carman. 251p $2 Dutton (W) 42-16188

Historical novel for older girls. The heroine is Elsbeth Converse, daughter of the captain of the King's guards, stationed at a frontier post on the Kennebec in 1693. The girl's bravery twice saved the fort and the lives of those in it when her father was away, and proved her a fitting wife for the American frontier leader, Ronald Snow. The account of Elsbeth's long, dangerous journey over wilderness roads from Boston to the trading post at Fort Albany, ends with her marriage.

Booklist 39:17 S '42

Reviewed by F. B. Sloan
Christian Science Monitor p10 O 7 '42 200w

"The late Seventeenth Century in New England and New York supplies the background for this fine romance." A. M. Jordan

+ Horn Bk 18:336 S '42 140w

"Well written historical novel, filled with adventure and spirit of courage. Reflects nice feeling for period and sturdy New England pioneers. Definitely for girls of high school age." Claire Nolte

+ Library J 67:688 Ag '42 100w

"In this distinguished novel Gertrude Robinson has given us more than a portrait of a remarkable heroine. She has caught the essential qualities of the pioneer woman—of, indeed, the American woman in the making. In Elsbeth Converse were the courage, the dauntless determination, and an understanding love of the New World which have sent generations of women out to help build a country, and so this book which would be welcome at any time is especially noteworthy today." E. L. Buell

+ N Y Times p10 J1 12 '42 420w

ROBINSON, HOWARD, and others. Toward international organization; a series of lectures at Oberlin college. 218p $2 Harper

321.041 International cooperation. War 42-10644

"Eight lectures delivered at Oberlin College by Howard Robinson, Harvey Alden Wooster, Max Lerner, George Fielding Eliot, Jacob Viner, Quincy Wright, William Ernest Hocking, and Oscar Jaszi. They trace history of efforts toward international organization in the past and point out economic, political, religious, military, judicial, and cultural aspects of problem of world federation. Biographical data follow each lecture." Library J

Reviewed by H. W. Briggs
Ann Am Acad 223:223 S '42 160w
Booklist 38:436 J1 15 '42

"Here is a symposium that is something more than a bundle of essays dug out of attic trunks or skimmed off the top of tired minds. In spite of the heavy and tentative title the papers are remarkably well integrated and uniformly good. Every one addresses himself to the larger subject; no one strays far from his own specialty. Except for Major Eliot, all the contributors are liberal internationalists of the Cripps-Wallace school. . . This collection is well planned and well edited. The contributors are not solemn pundits but craftsmen in words as well as in ideas. There is much that is original in every paper." R. H. Rovere

+ Books p17 J1 19 '42 550w

Reviewed by L. R. Etzkorn
Library J 67:318 Ap 1 '42 60w

Reviewed by W. M. Daniels
Springf'd Republican p8 My 13 '42 500w

Reviewed by C. B. Mahon
Survey G 31:392 S '42 100w

ROBINSON, MRS JOAN (MAURICE). Essay on Marxian economics. 122p $1.75 (7s 6d) Macmillan

335.4 Marx, Karl. Economics

"This book both outlines Marx's arguments and discusses the relations of his thought to orthodox (classical) economics and to modern academic teaching." Times [London] Lit Sup

Reviewed by Harold Mager
New Repub 107:473 O 12 '42 1200w

"A vigorous and suggestive book."
+ Times [London] Lit Sup p430 Ag 29 '42
480w

ROBINSON, MABEL LOUISE. Island noon.
294p $2.50 Random house

42-7964

A small island off the coast of Maine is the scene. Two brothers, Mark who was deformed in body, but fine in every other way, and Perry, whose handsome body harbored a wastrel soul, loved the same girl, Abby Willis. When Perry deserted Abby and left her to fight her battle alone, it was Mark who married her and took her to the island to live, there to find a new life. And even when Perry returned to stir up old pain and jealousies, it was Mark who saved Abby.

Booklist 38:309 Ap 15 '42

"'Island Noon' is a good book to read these days not alone as a release from the pressure of a world concerned with warfare but because it is a simple American tale about simple American people whose essential strength and dignity survive the destructive things that pass." Rose Feld

+ Books p6 Ap 5 '42 700w

Cath World 155:255 My '42 200w

"The definitions, practical as a sailor would make them, sound gallantly romantic to a landlubber's ear. The whole book is very close to the simple realities of life. . . The time might be almost any time, though it is probably somewhere between the two world wars. But there is a pioneer quality to it which makes it a vital, engrossing story with a timeless appeal." Beatrice Sherman

+ N Y Times p7 Mr 22 '42 750w

"The plot is neatly put together, the characters are credible, and the author has made the most of the sea, the weather, and the rugged New England landscape—a beguiling combination."

+ New Yorker 18:79 Mr 14 '42 60w

"'Island Noon' is a fine, restrained, and absorbingly interesting novel, warmer and more dramatic than 'Windswept.'" Rebecca Lowrie

+ Sat R of Lit 25:17 My 2 '42 320w

ROBINSON, RICHARD. Plato's earlier dialectic. 239p $3 Cornell univ. press [14s Oxford]

184.1 Plato. Logic 41-25362

"The dialectic which Professor Robinson discusses in this book is called 'earlier' because the limits of the subject exclude 'the theory of synthesis and division prominent in the Phaedrus, Sophist, Statesman and Philebus,' and 'the methodology in the Parmenides.' Assuming the common view that the Platonic dialogues can be arranged in three groups with characteristic differences, Professor Robinson distinguishes within the earlier period two subdivisions. Of these the first is dominated by the Socratic method, the second by the more complex method of dialectic and the specific doctrine of hypothesis. These distinctions consequently determine the plan of the book, which is divided into two parts, one concerned with 'elenchus' and the other with 'dialectic.'" Ethics

Reviewed by G. S. Brett
Ethics 52:504 Jl '42 1350w

"There is little in this book to which anyone acquainted with Plato's dialogues could take exception. If it does not produce conviction, this is probably because the writer has considered Plato's dialectic apart from its dramatic context and without reference to the situation in each dialogue out of which the dialectic is developed. Like a composite photograph, the analysis is accurate in its details, but misleading in its total effect." D. S. M.

J Philos 39:359 Je 18 '42 1000w

ROBINSON, VANDELEUR. Albania's road to freedom. 135p il map $4.50 Norton [15s Allen, G.]

949.6 Albania [A42-5561]

Discussion of the rise and fall of Albania as a self-governed country, between the years 1925 and the Italian invasion of 1939. The author has traveled widely in Albania. No index.

"Mr. Robinson has used much first-hand material. He is not guilty of sentimentality of the kind which seeks to exaggerate the importance of a small nation. He sees the faults of the personal rule of King Zog." R. P.
+ Christian Science Monitor p10 F 21 '42
450w

"Mr. Robinson has written an interesting book, rich in illuminating instances of the difficulties with which King Zog was confronted and the way in which he tried to deal with them."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p550 N 8 '41
850w

ROBINSON, VIRGINIA POLLARD, ed. Training for skill in social case work. 126p $1.50 Univ. of Pa. press [9s Oxford]

361 Social work—Study and teaching
42-16573

"This book, written by faculty and student supervisors of the Pennsylvania School of Social Work, sets forth the philosophy of their case work practice as it affects content and method of professional education. Two supplementary papers—a reprint of Jessie Taft's article on 'The Relation of Function to Process,' and a paper by Kenneth Pray on 'The Agency's Role in Service' are included because they clarify the concepts of 'function' and 'process' essential to an understanding of skill." Survey

Reviewed by A. E. Fink
Ann Am Acad 222:237 Jl '42 500w

Reviewed by I. K. Carter
Social Forces 21:121 O '42 360w

"Though the book contains a good deal of repetitious explanation, it offers a clear-cut description of one philosophy and method of education for social case work." Leah Feder
+ Survey 78:317 N '42 450w

ROBINSON, WILLIAM MORRISON. Justice in grey; a history of the judicial system of the Confederate States of America. 713p $7.50 Harvard univ. press

347.9 Justice, Administration of—Confederate States of America A 41-1524

"This is the first detailed account of the administration of justice in the Confederacy. It covers the organization and history of the inferior federal courts; the story of the unfulfilled mandate for the creation of a Supreme Court; the state judiciaries during the War and Reconstruction; federal tribunals of special jurisdiction, as the territorial courts in Arizona and the Indian country, the Board of Sequestration Commissioners, and courts-martial; the administration of martial law; and finally the functioning of the Department of Justice, as a law office and in the subordinate activities of the Patent Office and the Bureau of Public Printing." Harvard Law R

"No such exhaustive work on the Confederate courts has heretofore been attempted, and Mr. Robinson has done such a thorough job that no one will need to do it again. The author's earlier researches in Confederate history prepared him for the task of sifting the great mass of materials, including manuscript sources, such as judges' dockets and minute books of the courts, as well as published documents, both state and Confederate. Mr. Robinson has himself uncovered many heretofore unknown manuscript records of the Confederate courts. He has produced a work that will be used as a reference and source book by all students in the field but one that will seldom be read by the general public. It contains so much tedious detail and extraneous material that it is difficult

ROBINSON, W. M.—Continued
cult reading, although the style itself is clear. Several typographical errors appear, but factual errors are few." F. M. Green

+ Am Hist R 47:641 Ap '42 1050w

"This is a piece of careful research, which a brief review cannot properly evaluate. While most of the information in the study is new, its most suggestive features are those disclosing the changes made in an effort to improve upon the experience of the United States. The study is rich in detail, carefully documented, and filled with exhibits of legal forms and papers of interest to students of government and law. It is a contribution to historical jurisprudence." C. P. Patterson

+ Am Pol Sci R 35:786 Ag '41 1000w

"The book is no jerry-built affair; it was competently contrived out of first-hand material. The decisions of the Confederate States courts were never officially reported. Records, so far as extant, had to be located by painstaking search—throughout the South, in out-of-the-way archives at Washington, and elsewhere. Mr. Robinson worked with imagination and persistence, and to excellent purpose." Charles Fairman

+ Harvard Law R 55:172 N '41 1750w

ROBINSON, WILLIAM WILCOX. At the seashore; pictures by Irene Robinson. [40p] $2 Macmillan

(W) 42-9902

Picture-story book for grades one to three. It describes the vacation adventures of Ann and Bill at a seashore resort somewhere on the Pacific coast.

Booklist 38:335 My 1 '42

"Story and pictures will not be forgotten by children who have played on such a seashore, or by inland children to whom marine creatures have the appeal of the unknown." M. L. Becker

+ Books p6 Ap 12 '42 330w

Reviewed by F. B. Sloan

Christian Science Monitor p7 Ag 31 '42 140w

"This large picture book with its lovely colors will be a delight to families with little children, summering by the seaside. . . The seashore invites quests without end, and it has been none too easy to satisfy young children's curiosity about the animal life swarming there, so this beautiful book is sure of a welcome." A. M. Jordan

+ Horn Bk M 18:172 My '42 100w

Reviewed by Claire Nolte

Library J 67:416 My 1 '42 60w

Reviewed by A. T. Eaton

N Y Times p8 Jl 19 '42 200w

"Lovely, big pictures in color."

+ New Yorker 18:77 My 23 '42 40w

RODGERS, ANDREW DENNY. John Torrey; a story of North American botany. 352p $3.75 Princeton univ. press

B or 92 Torrey, John. Botany—North America 42-19817

Biography of an early American botanist, geologist, and physician, who was born in 1796 and died in 1873. Professor Torrey held various positions at West Point, Princeton, New York college of physicians and surgeons, and at Columbia. Among his writings are his system of classification; A Catalogue of Plants Growing Spontaneously Within Thirty Miles of the City of New York; Flora of the State of New York. Bibliography. Index.

Am Hist R 48:417 Ja '43 70w

Booklist 39:101 N 15 '42

"Mr. Rodgers is now at work upon a life of Asa Gray. Two years ago he wrote the biography of his great-grandfather William Sullivan, the early specialist on North America mosses. The three volumes should form a splendid history of nineteenth century botany in America." D. C. Peattie

+ Books p9 Ag 30 '42 700w

Reviewed by D. F. Lucas

Library J 67:532 Je 1 '42 90w

Scientific Bk Club R 13:3 Jl '42 420w

RODGERS, WILLIAM ROBERT. Awake! and other wartime poems. 64p $1.50 Harcourt [5s Secker & Warburg]

821

42-9478

Poems of a world at war, written by a young Ulsterman.

Booklist 38:365 Je 1 '42

Reviewed by Ruth Lechlitner

Books p16 S 27 '42 280w

"The work of this young English poet has undeniable power and sensitiveness. It shows the unevenness which we must expect of any writer who has not yet mastered self-criticism, and certain other qualities which are interestingly indicative of the modern style. Whereas the young poet of a few years ago was apt to depend on 'purple' passages to heighten his style, the young poet of today increases the number and strangeness of verbal incongruities and figures—those mannerisms loosely called 'metaphysical.' If the result be sometimes strained, at least it is more interesting than the former prolixity." Robert Hillier

+ Boston Globe p17 Ap 8 '42 280w

"A British critic of distinction is quoted as saying that this young Ulsterman, who never wrote a poem until three years ago, is the Rupert Brooke of the present war. About as much as Walt Whitman was the Felicia Hemans of his generation. No disrespect to Brooke, but Rodgers has a range of ideas that far outreaches 'some spot that is forever England,' and a power of expression more adequate for his thought than any lilting lyricism could be. These are 'wartime poems,' but they contain no heroics and no conventional patriotism."

+ Christian Century 55:600 My 6 '42 260w

Churchman 156:14 My 15 '42 20w

"The imagery of Rodgers's poetry often strikes one with a shock of surprise and delight, like some French impressionist painting: Suddenly all the fountains in the park Opened smoothly their umbrellas of water. This is lovely, surely, and there are many moments as lovely in this short book. Rodgers's faults are an unrestrained verbosity and a sometimes tiresome over-use of alliteration. With more economy he would be a wholly delightful, if somewhat spasmodic, poet. With more thought the development of his poems would be strong and sweeping. As it is, his lines tend to arrest the attention, and then fail to develop beyond what is vivid and striking. Sometimes the ends of poems seem arbitrary and prosaic." Stephen Spender

+ Nation 154:344 Mr 21 '42 650w

"Because Mr. Rodgers has not yet really digested the English vowel his poems often bog themselves down in this acoustic over-emphasis: 'padding the paths and boosting boots,' and so on. Here the creaking of the technical machinery takes the attention away from the poem as a whole and concentrates it altogether too heavily on the individual phrase. . . But this obsession with the word as machinery is acknowledgedly the healthiest of propensities in the young poet. . . I do not think that Rodgers is a Tennyson, but I am sure he is better than Rupert Brooke. I remark these tendencies toward the umlaut stutter and the mechanical acoustics because they are about the only qualifications I have in my admiration for these poems; and since the advent of a new poet should be an occasion for all round congratulation rather than for quibbling over technicalities, it is becoming to omit what Mr. Rodgers would call the rag-ends and fat-ends of criticism, and simply express my feeling that he is a very good poet." George Barker

+ New Repub 106:517 Ap 13 '42 800w

"One cannot say that one is exactly carried away by the poems in this book, but they cannot be brushed aside. One has to admire them and one has to praise the workmanlike way he lays his foundations and sets up his edifice. But one is a little uncertain as to what his future may be. W. R. Rodgers seems to have the makings of a satirist, but either the present temper or his language is not exactly right; he has not the proper touch of scorn—scorn that gives the right edge to satire and which is so different from the mere contempt to which he so often gives vent." M. M. Colum

+ — N Y Times p9 Mr 22 '42 350w

"W. R. Rodgers, whether or not he is a soldier poet, is not a profound thinker, but a contemporaneous and candid spirit is in him. He has at his disposal a firm, rugged idiom, since Ulster still has here and there surviving pockets of primitive speech. He uses the packed directness of the alliterative Anglo-Saxon of Hopkins' and Auden's experiments and gives it surprising Celtic turns. His unexpected and salty epithets pick out many unexpected details of what he observes, from a fountain in a park to an airman in his bomber. What is best about this poet is his glance into the future and his realization that more than peace must be demanded after the end of this war." Louise Bogan

New Yorker 18:64 Ap 4 '42 750w

Reviewed by David Daiches

Poetry 60:94 My '42 2300w

Pratt p16 D '42

"Mr. Rodgers is a young Ulsterman whose work startles at the outset with a modern image of an express-train very well handled. After that, though one recognizes dexterity and real poetic feeling without poeticism, one is never quite so agreeably startled again."

Sat R of Lit 25:17 Ap 25 '42 350w

"I do not like Mr. Rodgers' work, but I must grant him certain strong qualities. He is too rhetorical, too fluent, too hard-hearted. He falls into bad allegory and irresponsible satire. He has more of Dean Swift's bitterness than of his precision. He has the basic fault of an aggressive approach to the world—for experience is inviolable and remains a still small voice, very unlike Mr. Rodgers' histrionic shout." Kathleen Raine

— + Spec 167:432 O 31 '41 80w

Times [London] Lit Sup p487 S 27 '41 240w

Reviewed by Louis Untermeyer

Yale R n s 32:368 winter '43 170w

RODITI, EDOUARD. Prison within prison; three elegies on Hebrew themes. Ltd ed 22p pa $1 Press of James A. Decker

811

42-16233

"These are religious poems not only in their sense of ultimate human problems but also as doctrine or exploration of doctrine, like the poems of Eliot since Ash Wednesday or of Rilke. I mention these two poets because Edouard Roditi also begins with the disheartenment of starting over and the retrospection on a past of loss and failure." Poetry

"These pieces have little to recommend them as poems. . . . As a contribution to scholarship, Mr. Roditi might have been better advised to translate his sources, rather than use them as themes for his own variations." Lloyd Frankenberg

New Repub 106:371 Mr 16 '42 120w

Reviewed by Paul Goodman

Poetry 60:282 Ag '42 900w

RODMAN, SELDEN. Revolutionists; a tragedy in three acts; il. by Rudolf C. von Ripper. 195p $2.75 Duell

812

42-21909

Three-act play in verse, dramatizing the revolt of the slaves in Haiti in 1791. This is the second book in a poetic trilogy on "the destination of modern man." The first, a narrative poem called The Airmen, appeared last year (Book Review Digest, 1941). The play, Revolutionists, has been translated into French and is to be produced in Haiti, with an all-Haitian cast.

"With its conflicting race-war situations, its dependence on French political shifts and maneuvers, its cross-currents of jealousies and counterplots among the revolutionists, its complexity of characters, the action of the play is difficult to set and manipulate. The linking commentary helps, its lighter touch providing a necessary contrast to the heavy tragedy of events in the scenes proper. Mr. Rodman has sustained both action and character with mature competence. The writing itself rises to few eloquent heights, few memorable passages; but, representing the speech of men who, as revolutionists, are, first of all, soldiers, it is functionally flexible and vigorous." Ruth Lechlitner

+ Books p22 O 4 '42 1100w

Nation 156:103 Ja 16 '43 200w

"A well-made play, soundly constructed, efficient in its use of historical materials, prepared also for a reading audience by the adroit octosyllabic couplets introducing each scene, a verse form allowing the poet an objective and wryly humorous commentary on a universal melancholy, supplemented by the vigorous black-and-white illustrations of Rudolf C. von Ripper, The Revolutionists is a permanent contribution to the small library of notable American drama." Jeremy Ingalls

+ Poetry 61:511 D '42 850w

"To come right down to it, this is a swift-moving and exciting historical play. Mr. Rodman has felt his material emotionally and 'got inside' of it. I, for one, should like to see and hear it, with actors. I should say that it will probably need condensation. The panoramic may have to be stressed, as it is the story of the whole course of a revolution, and is, so far, multifold. It does not concentrate on any one phase. So far as Mr. Rodman's creation of the personalities of his various characters is concerned it seems very good. If there is no great and memorable verse here, the book, nevertheless, adds another living voice to the literature of liberty." W. R. Benét

+ Sat R of Lit 25:15 O 10 '42 650w

ROEBUCK, JOHN RANSOM, and STAEHLE, HENRY CARL. Photography, its science and practice. 283p il $5 Appleton-Century

770 Photography (W) 42-4619

Treatise on photography for the advanced student who needs to study the scientific and technical side of the art. Includes a laboratory manual, a bibliography, and an index.

Booklist 38:270 Ap 1 '42

Cleveland Open Shelf p15 Jl '42

"This book, long in careful preparation, fills a distinct need. . . . Its chief asset lies in encompassing within its pages both the methods of scientific theory and practical photography."

+ Scientific Bk Club R 13:4 F '42 100w

Times [London] Lit Sup p455 S 12 '42 190w

ROEMER, THEODORE. Ten decades of alms. 322p $2.75 Herder

282.73 Roman Catholic church in the U.S. Roman Catholic church—Missions 42-21735

"This book contains detailed accounts of how the needs of our Catholic dioceses were succored by the Lyons-Paris Society for the Propagation of the Faith, the Austrian Leopoldinen-Stiftung and the Bavarian Ludwig-Missionverein for ten decades, from 1822 to 1922." Commonweal

Reviewed by B. L. Conway

Cath World 156:243 N '42 290w

"Too much cannot be said of the masterly arrangement, the skillful documentation, the admirable bibliography, appendices and index of this book. Clearly printed in large type, the volume is one that our Catholic scholars and publishers may well note." D. H. Moseley

+ Commonweal 37:284 Ja 1 '43 420w

ROETHLISBERGER, FRITZ JULES. Management and morale. 194p $2 Harvard univ. press [11s 6d Oxford]

658.3 Employment management. Efficiency. Industrial A41-4302

For descriptive note see Annual for 1941.

"This is an indispensable handbook for those interested in the theory and practice of personnel work." Paul Pigors
+ Am Soc R 7:305 Ap '42 450w

Reviewed by W. N. Mitchell
Ann Am Acad 220:260 Mr '42 460w
Booklist 38:326 My 1 '42

"A provocative study. The title, as well as the author, who is associate professor of industrial research at the Harvard Business School, will recommend the book to the specialist, but it will also appeal to every one interested in human relations." E. L. Jenks
+ N Y Times p18 Ap 5 '42 750w

Pratt p8 O '42

"To the economic theorist 'Management and Morale' presents a strong case for the enlargement of present economic theory to include the social as well as economic organization of modern industry. To the student of industrial relations a point of view is presented which merits serious consideration in clarifying the sources of grievance between labor and management. In addition, 'Management and Morale' brings to the business executive suggestions for the maintenance of morale which can be effectively practised in stimulating the will-to-work-together." M. S. Viteles

+ Sat R of Lit 25:20 Mr 7 '42 900w

ROGERS, FRANCES. Indigo treasure; front. by the author; headings by Lois Lenski. 291p $2 Stokes

(W) 41-21290

Story of life on a South Carolina plantation in the 1740's. Thirteen-year-old Polly Lucas is the central figure, altho it was her slightly older sister Eliza who introduced the growing of indigo on her father's plantations, the theme of this book for grades seven to nine.

Booklist 38:179 Ja 15 '42

"An excellent picture of life on a South Carolina plantation forty years before the American revolution, making a book that will undoubtedly remain popular in school libraries. For the indispensable feature of any story for young folks—human interest—is tied in with the interest one of its heroines takes in the great Colonial experiment of growing indigo for dye-stuff." M. L. Becker

+ Books p8 Mr 22 '42 300w

Cleveland Open Shelf p20 O '41

Reviewed by A. M. Jordan
Horn Bk M 18:37 Ja '42 130w

"Humor, good characterization, and well-conceived plot make this an entertaining story for girls eleven and older." M. M. Clark
+ Library J 67:132 F 1 '42 110w

ROGERS, FRANCES, and BEARD, ALICE. Old Liberty bell; il. by Frances Rogers. 106p $1.50 Stokes

974.811 Liberty bell 42-18813

Records the story of America's Liberty bell, from its casting in London in 1752 to its return to Independence hall in Philadelphia. For grades five to eight.

Booklist 39:18 S '42

Reviewed by M. L. Becker
Books p9 S 20 '42 300w

"More than the biography of a bell, this book is a résumé of high lights in our nation's struggle for freedom from 1753 to 1917. Incidents are well chosen and dramatically presented. Indexed, but information is not direct enough to be valuable for reference use. Book is inspirational rather than informational." Claire Nolte

Library J 67:798 S 15 '42 90w

"Children should be familiar with the essentials of its dramatic past. This book gives them a worth-while piece of living history." I. S.

+ N Y Times p34 N 15 '42 200w

School & Society 56:152 Ag 22 '42 10w

ROGERS, SAMUEL. Flora Shawn. 281p $2.50 Messner

42-6836

Character study of a selfish, cruel, and self-centered American woman from the time when she was a little girl, about 1900, until she reached her thirties. Flora Shawn was the daughter of a wealthy Chicagoan, whose father had made his money in lumber. Because her own early life was blighted by the loss of her adored father, and by a shocking episode with an abnormal chauffeur, Flora spent the remaining years of her life making life difficult for the men whom she married.

"Samuel Rogers, winner of 'The Atlantic Monthly' novel prize in 1934, has a notable talent for writing, but he uses it to minor advantage in his portrait of a woman in his new book, 'Flora Shawn.' I say 'portrait' advisedly, for it is to delineation of his character that he devotes himself. The others in the book serve primarily to bring out the details and the highlights of Flora's personality. Like her, Mr. Rogers tosses them aside when they have served his purpose. In explaining her he blurs his material a little." Rose Feld

Books p8 Mr 15 '42 550w

"It is written in a sensitive, penetrating style which makes it seem more important as you read along than it looks after the back cover is closed. One searches for a deeper meaning than any the novel develops. . . The best and most absorbing part of the story is its beginning, when Flora promises to grow into a woman of stature, for good or bad. The futility of her maturity belies the significant atmosphere of her early years." Beatrice Sherman

+ N Y Times p18 Mr 15 '42 550w

ROGERS, VIRGINIA HORTON. Bathsheba. 80p $2.50 Funk, W.

811

42-2638

"Miss Rogers has retold the story of David and Bathsheba in a sequence of eighty Shakespearean sonnets." Times [London] Lit Sup

"By choosing to tell the story of Bathsheba from the point of view of the lady herself, Virginia Rogers avoids for the most part those complicated moral issues which she would have had to face if she had told it from the vantage point of either David or Uriah the Hittite. Personally I feel regret that this should be so, because there are more important issues involved here than those of beauty and passion. . . But accepting the poet on the premises she has chosen, it must be said that Miss Rogers has acquitted herself always competently." Milton Hindus

Poetry 60:285 Ag '42 240w

"Miss Rogers's writing is simple and direct. What I miss is any extraordinary lift of phrase or unusual insight." W. R. B.

Sat R of Lit 25:24 Ap 25 '42 100w

"Despite the colour and passion of her verse she too often indulges in a kind of modern sentimentality which is in damaging contrast with the simplicity of the Bible story. . . It is not all so picturesquely sensational as this, and she has made the story so compellingly her own that it does unfold, as she tells it, with the force of an inner necessity. But her language, so often commonplace despite its sensuous exaltation, reflects more of fluent emotion than of real imagination."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p83 F 14 '42 180w

ROJANKOVSKY, FEODOR, II. See Mother Goose. Tall book of Mother Goose

ROLO, CHARLES JAMES. Radio goes to war; the fourth front; introd. by Johannes Steel. 293p $2.75 Putnam

940.5488 World war, 1939—Propaganda. Radio broadcasting (W) 42-558

The author tells the story of the part played in the war by radio propagandists in the principal belligerent countries. Partial contents: Radio: instrument of conquest; Germany speaks; bombs for the mind; The fabulous Lord Haw-Haw; Radio's battle of France; Berlin's Benedict Arnolds; Radio war on the U.S.A.; The BBC goes to war; The mighty voice of the Kremlin; The secret stations; voices from out of the night; U.S. Radio's "good-neighbor" policy. Index.

"Today, when everyone has at least one ear constantly cocked for the radio, it seems strange that Rolo's book is the first and most complete volume on the whole aspect of propaganda in the air. And more than that: it is a very good treatment of its subject, both journalistically and academically; for Rolo has done an excellent job of reporting and summarizing the story of the international radio situation in the war of words by utilizing Professors Harwood L. Childs and John B. Whitton's source material at the Princeton Listening Center, together with their valuable studies in the field of propaganda." J. S. Roucek

+ Ann Am Acad 220:216 Mr '42 500w

Booklist 38:205 F 15 '42

Bookmark 3:12 Mr '42

"It is a well-written book, and while it is alive to the dramatic side of the story, the care with which the information has been gathered from many sources makes it a valuable contribution to the history of one of the many aspects of the war."

+ Current Hist 2:228 My '42 80w

Reviewed by R. G. Woolbert

Foreign Affairs 20:774 Jl '42 30w

"This book is for the general reader: a racy, anecdotal account of radio propaganda the world over. . . Mr. Rolo pleads that now and hereafter democrats make itself known and make sure that it conveys its message in the language of the people. His plea is sound and timely, which makes one regret all the more that it is so superficially developed and that so much previous space was devoted to descriptive trivia." C. A. Siepmann

+ New Repub 106:339 Mr 9 '42 750w

"There are many surprising things to learn from this book about what goes forth from the radio transmitters of the world, and the author has gathered and set forth a great deal of information that cannot fail to be of keen interest to those who wish to keep abreast of swiftly moving events. It has been carefully written and adequately indexed." E. F. Allen

+ N Y Times p4 Ja 25 '42 600w

"A timely and informative job, clearly presented."

+ New Yorker 17:63 F 7 '42 60w

Pratt p22 My '42

"Charles J. Rolo has done an excellent job of reporting and summarizing the story of the international radio situation in the war of words. He has drawn heavily and with due credit on other publications, speeches, and articles on the same subject. All in all, however, it is the first and most complete volume on the whole aspect of propaganda in the air. It should be a historical volume in times to come: one for future students of the Second World War." A. A. Schechter

+ Sat R of Lit 25:3 Ja 24 '42 700w

Discussion by W. M. Ramsey

Sat R of Lit 25:14 Mr 7 '42 180w

"The book is history, romance—and warning." Leon Whipple

+ Survey G 31:154 Mr '42 700w

Reviewed by Quincy Howe

Yale R n s 31:644 spring '42 250w

ROLSTON, HOLMES. Social message of the Apostle Paul. 250p $2 Presbyterian com.

225.83 Sociology, Biblical. Paul, Saint

42-18314

This book contains the James Sprunt lectures delivered at the Union Theological Seminary in Richmond, Virginia, in 1942. "This book is an endeavor to catch Paul's point of view, to think Paul's thoughts after him, and to relate his message to the actual problems believers must face as they seek to realize the meaning of the Christian life in the midst of the terrifying world of the twentieth century." (Pref) Index.

Reviewed by M. S. Enslin

Christian Century 59:663 My 20 '42 1000w

"Dr. Rolston writes as one appreciating the social responsibility of Christianity and as one outspokenly critical of contemporary social sins. We believe that a powerful case can be made for Paul's contribution in this area. At many points the author has stated this contribution in a telling way. It concerns first of all the norms for human relationships within the Pauline churches, and their theological foundations. But we believe that he has overstated the case, both by reading preoccupations into Paul's mind that were not there and by using the sub-Pauline writings and Acts. And he has compromised the persuasiveness of the case and blurred its edges by the framework of the dialectical theology in which he has stated it." A. N. Wilder

+ Crozer Q 19:248 Jl '42 800w

ROMAINS, JULES, pseud. (LOUIS FARI-GOULE). The new day; tr. from the French by Gerard Hopkins. (Men of good will, v 10) 589p $3 Knopf

(W)

This volume contains two parts: Promise of dawn, and The world is your adventure. "In 'Aftermath,' Jules Romains dealt with the immediate repercussions of World War I on French society. In this new addition to 'Men of Good Will' (and the end is not yet), society is still demoralized, but men are turning their faces toward a new light, a light which comes from the east, from Russia. 'It may be the dawn; it may be a conflagration. But whether we believe it to be the one or the other, we are all agog to get there.'" (Sat R of Lit) Index.

Reviewed by Milton Rugoff

Books p6 Ap 26 '42 1550w

Reviewed by R. G. Davis

Boston Globe p19 Mr 11 '42 650w

"Heartily recommended." Emma Olcott

+ Library J 67:86 Ja 15 '42 70w

Reviewed by Albert Guerard

Nation 154:464 Ap 18 '42 700w

"By the end of the present instalment faithful readers will have followed Jules Romains through no fewer than 5,876 pages (counted in the original text). . . At this point one cannot help envying whoever first said that the men of will in question were the readers." Justin O'Brien

N Y Times p4 Mr 8 '42 1250w

"Candor compels even this inveterate Romains fan to admit that the tenth volume of 'Men of Good Will' is uninspired. This does not put me off the series as a whole; I propose to stick with it for at least another decade. But I look forward to rather rocky going unless the pace of 'The New Day' is bettered in the volumes still to come." Clifton Fadiman

New Yorker 18:58 F 28 '42 330w

"Romains adheres to his established method of portraying society through widely separated groups of characters moving in parallel planes. If he simplifies the picture of France in 1922 by hewing too closely to his line of social instability, he at least strengthens his point through simplification. Yet, for all this singleness of purpose, one feels that he, like the period he depicts, is not quite sure what comes next. All the old vividness of character portrayal is still there, however, with the keen analysis of the impact of external forces on individual temperaments." S. L. McGee

ROMAINS, JULES—Continued

+ — Sat R of Lit 25:7 Mr 14 '42 1050w

"Romains' account of the run-around the Russians give him is as icily slick as the run-around itself. But his reporting of the famine is harder to swallow whole. The drought and the European blockade, Jallez finds, are far less responsible for the famine than the subhuman corruptness of the local officials. This and other arraignments, just or not, are set down in much too general and unqualified terms. But the volume ends with much, obviously (and as usual), still to be said."

Time 39:78 Mr 2 '42 600w

Reviewed by Robert Littell

Yale R n s 31:viii summer '42 30w

ROMAINS, JULES, pseud. (LOUIS FARI-GOULE.) Salsette discovers America. 234p $2.50 Knopf

917.3 U.S.—Social life and customs

(W) 42-11992

In the summer of 1941, a French professor, a friend of Jules Romains, arrived in this country as a refugee. M. Romains served as his guide about New York and Brooklyn, and on a trip to New England. The book, which is largely conversational, records the reactions of an intelligent foreigner to American customs, the men and women, the food, our subways, parkways, amusement parks, buildings, etc.

Booklist 38:367 Je 1 '42

"We impressed this stranger mightily, and he came to like us. The reader, moreover, will be inclined to like Salsette. To say that he has 'discovered America' is laying it on rather thick. He discovered only a small part of a small segment of America, and that under the most pleasant circumstances. Nevertheless, there is much here to think about. There is much in the observations of Romains and his friend to make us ponder the value and the meaning of the things we have. The translation is by Lewis Galantiere, who also contributes a discriminating introduction." Stanley Walker

+ Books p20 Ap 26 '42 1150w

Cleveland Open Shelf p12 My '42

"With the exception of the three or four pages on the American middle ages, the banality of Salsette's and Romains's remarks about our women, our cooking, our architecture, our landscape, our subways and parkways is disheartening. Where is the satiric talent of the earlier Romains, the man who wrote the comedies 'Knock' and 'Musse' and the novel translated here as 'The Boys in the Back Room'? Aiming to be ingratiating, Jules Romains has written for his American hosts a bread-and-butter book." Justin O'Brien

+ — Nation 154:495 Ap 25 '42 270w

"Professor Salsette might be one of the more insipid characters in 'Men of Good Will.' . . . The only news in the book is that M. Romains thinks this is a marvelous country except for its dull cooking. The translation, by Lewis Galantiere, is done with more deftness and zest than the text deserves."

+ — New Repub 106:838 Je 15 '42 90w

Reviewed by G. W. Stonier

New Statesman & Nation 24:378 D 5 '42 300w

"As the exiled French university professor who is its protagonist looks about him . . . Jules Romains's writing excursion makes its way in subtlety, wit and charm. As a holiday it has produced the short book, the single point of view, the light touch. And even in its most serious play of thought it is wholly delightful. But its lasting worth is in the fact that this French 'discovery' of America is also illuminating. For this is, in sum, an appreciation of American freedom by a mind that knows how to value it." Kathleen Woods

+ N Y Times p7 Ap 26 '42 650w

"Certainly one of the most charming books a visitor has written about us, and so consciously flattering, on the whole, that your ears may burn as you read it. Excellent translation."

+ New Yorker 18:78 Ap 25 '42 110w

Pratt p21 D '42

"M. Romains is not a mere Salsette, but that he produced this parody of his own role is also proof of the dangers of the too remote exile. As for what Salsette has to say about America, it could have been put in a shortish article for the National Geographic Magazine."

D. W. Brogan

Spec 169:534 D 4 '42 750w

Reviewed by Leon Whipple

Survey G 31:297 Je '42 230w

"Salsette and his guide are kinder than natives might be, but they are honest. One realizes, in Salsette's summation, a deep genuineness, an almost embarrassing tribute. 'This is what I call a materialistic civilization,' he exclaims. 'And I like it.'"

+ Time 39:96 Ap 20 '42 450w

ROMIG, WALTER, ed. Book of Catholic authors (first series) informal self-portraits of famous modern Catholic writers; with pref. and notes. 302p il $2.20; to schools and libs $1.98 Walter Romig & co. 14 Nat. bank bldg, Detroit

928 Roman Catholic authors. Roman Catholic literature—Bibliography (42-21745)

Fifty-odd sketches, mainly autobiographical, of modern Catholic writers, poets, essayists, novelists, sociologists, historians, editors, and lecturers. Each chapter is prefaced by the author's portrait, and concludes with a list of author's writings.

"It is of course far from complete, but we are promised a second and a third series, if this first volume receives a hearty welcome. We are confident that it will."

+ Cath World 156:508 Ja '43 160w

Reviewed by Edward Skillin, Jr.

Commonweal 36:596 O 9 '42 350w

ROMULO, CARLOS PENNA. I saw the fall of the Philippines. 323p $3 Doubleday

940.542 World war, 1939—Philippine Islands (W) 43-87

"Colonel Romulo, native of the Philippines and now aide de camp to General MacArthur, used the four newspapers and two radio stations he owned in Manila before Japanese invasion to secure President Quezon's government and Philippine independence. He fought with General MacArthur and Quezon on Bataan and Corregidor to the end, also broadcasting daily messages from the General to soldiers on Bataan and prisoners in Manila. After he escaped to Australia, he learned that he had won [the] Pulitzer prize for interpretative correspondence. Reader spends three months in filthy tunnel on Corregidor and the fox-holes of Bataan, missing little of that bloody struggle." Library J

Booklist 39:221 F 1 '43

"Carlos P. Romulo has complete command of a clear, vivid English necessary for the telling of a great story. . . . He tells the grisly story of what he saw and the bitterness that he heard in behalf of those thousands who must remain mute in Japanese prison camps until after the war. . . . Colonel Romulo's account of conditions on Corregidor and of the courage of American and Filipino boys fighting side by side on Bataan can never be surpassed until the end of the war. It is a beautiful story, beautifully told." W. L. White

+ Books p1 Ja 17 '43 1850w

Reviewed by Joseph McSorley

Cath World 156:628 F '43 650w

"Simply and quietly written but carrying heavy punch. Highly recommended for information and viewpoint." Katharine Shorey

+ Library J 67:951 N 1 '42 140w

"A book that brings home the heartbreaks of the lost battles of the Philippines as movingly as 'They Were Expendable' did, but in very different fashion. It is a somber story, a depressing one; but it deserves to be widely read, that Americans may appreciate how their Filipino friends stood by them in the hour of defeat." F. S. Adams

+ N Y Times p3 Ja 10 '43 800w

"No American can read this book without shame. Through its stark and beautiful chapters runs the question of the starving men of Bataan: 'When is help coming from America?' No American can read this book without pride. The gangrene-eaten, bomb-rocked soldiers of the Philippine fox-holes stand with the noblest heroes of all time. Americans should read Colonel Romulo. There is no finer exponent of democracy anywhere in the world today. The heroic Filipino defense of freedom at Lingayan and Manila, on Bataan and Corregidor has made history." H. C. Wolfe

+ Sat R of Lit 26:5 Ja 16 '43 1000w

"I Saw the Fall of the Philippines" is worth the time of every reader. The colonel has done a fine workmanlike job. Its message should not fall on deaf ears." M. L.

+ Springf'd Republican p7e Ja 24 '43 650w

RONALD, JAMES. Old soldiers never die. 309p $2.50 Lippincott

(W) 42-14629

Lieutenant-General Charles Victor Church (retired) was sixty-eight when the second World war began. Tho he disapproved of England's course during the last ten years he immediately offered his services—and was rejected. In a cold rage he offered his services to the Civilian defense forces in his own small village—and was rejected. That nearly broke, not only his heart, but his spirit. However, the machinations of a devoted servant and thirteen London slum evacuees restored him, eventually, to life and service.

"Rather gay, convalescent reading for tired minds." Edward Weeks

+ Atlantic 170:101 Ag '42 100w

Booklist 38:385 Je 15 '42

"The problem of an old and unwanted man, still full of vigor and burning to serve his country, is very real. That he comes to learn that one is as much a soldier even though a civilian in this war is the experience of many of his type. One could wish that this theme had been developed more really." Diana Forbes-Robertson

+ Books p8 Je 14 '42 550w

Cleveland Open Shelf p16 Jl '42

Reviewed by Gloria Amoury
Commonweal 36:282 Jl 10 '42 310w

Reviewed by J. S. Southron
N Y Times p6 Je 7 '42 650w

"Nice feeling about it all, though it's pretty romantic."

New Yorker 18:79 Je 6 '42 50w

ROOD, ROLAND. Color and light in painting; ed. by George L. Stout. 299p il $3.25 Columbia univ. press [16s 6d Oxford]

752 Color. Light. Painting. Esthetics 41-16947

"This discussion of both the aesthetics and the technique of painting is so technical that only a practicing painter would be competent to review it, but even a layman can find in it many illuminating comments on the nature and functions of art and can see that the author has thought profoundly and unconventionally about his theme. Theories of color, as well as specific methods of their application, are a highly controversial subject. Rood was an independent thinker with training in physics, especially the physics of light, as well as in painting. This work was left unfinished at the time of his death in 1927. Friends and colleagues have rightly deemed it worthy of preservation, and Mr. Stout's editorial work has given to it the coherence and finish which were lacking in the manuscript and notes as Mr. Rood left them." Christian Century

Christian Century 59:432 Ap 1 '42 130w

"This book is full of unexpected details which make one realize that colors and lights, far from being merely passive materials to be touched to life by the artist's creative imagination, have a complex character and meaning of their own. Both those estheticians who disparage 'mere technique' and those who give to art a merely technical analysis might do well to read this work. For the author shows in detail how much a part of one another are the artist's feelings and intuitions on the one hand and his techniques on the other." J. S.

+ J Philos 39:136 F 26 '42 450w

Pratt p12 My '42

ROOS, KELLY, pseud. of AUDREY KELLEY and WILLIAM ROOS. Frightened stiff. 235p $2 Dodd

42-22619

Detective story.

"Complete with a handful of lifelike villagers and other suspects, smooth deducing by Jeff and Haila and good plain prose, except for an over-use of that pulpy verb 'to stare.' Why do they do it? Pending further investigations on that point, we recommend this as swift and likable entertainment." Will Cuppy

+ Books p26 O 25 '42 230w

"A stirring feature of this somewhat above-average story is the quirk at the end." Kay Irvin

+ N Y Times p25 O 11 '42 200w

"Engaging couple finally pierce secret of uncommunicative fellow tenants and snare well-concealed murderer. Plenty of thrills. Exhilarating."

+ Sat R of Lit 25:20 O 10 '42 40w

ROOSEVELT, ELEANOR (ROOSEVELT) (MRS FRANKLIN DELANO ROOSEVELT). This is America. [191p] $3 Putnam

917.3 U.S.—Description and travel. U.S.—Pictorial works. Hingham, Massachusetts (W) 42-50110

"Book of photographs by Frances Cooke Macgregor with comment and interpretation written by Mrs Eleanor Roosevelt. Mrs Macgregor, after presenting a quick camera glimpse of the nation's scenes and people, turns to Hingham as an 'average town' wherein the flavor and pace of American life may be more intensively portrayed." Springf'd Republican

Booklist 39:200 Ja 15 '43

"The book has earned the right to so proud a title: these pictures really are America. It is not an exclusive right, for many another book could be made with entirely different photographs that would show America too. But this one is here now: it shows us a land worth living, a life worth fighting for." M. L. Becker

+ Books p5 D 13 '42 400w

Reviewed by H. L. Binsse
Commonweal 37:117 N 20 '42 30w

"The idea behind this book is magnificent. It is to catch the fundamentals of America, in photograph and text, and sum up this huge land of ours in a statement that can be encompassed in one slim volume. If the achievement falls short, it is the fault of the vastness of the subject, not necessarily that of the authors." Hal Borland

N Y Times p4 D 27 '42 140w

"Some ordinary photographs and lots of good ones, and, unfortunately, some rather poor reproductions."

+ New Yorker 18:79 N 14 '42 50w

Springf'd Republican p7e N 29 '42 170w

ROOSEVELT, FRANKLIN DELANO. See United States. President, 1933-

ROOT, RALPH RODNEY. Camouflage with planting; il by Margrette Oatway Dornbusch. 79p pa $1.50 Seymour

355.43 Camouflage (military science). Landscape gardening. Civilian defense 42-12177

"An aspect of industrial camouflage not adequately covered in existing texts on camouflage is considered in this small book by one of the country's well-known authorities on landscaping. Emphasis is laid on the importance of planning for camouflage in advance of construction, and much of the text is devoted to that aspect of the work. Considerable space also is devoted to the photographic values of foliage because of the importance of these values to effective camouflage." Eng N

Booklist 38:363 Je 1 '42

Cleveland Open Shelf p14 Jl '42

"For the engineer engaged in camouflage work, the text would have been materially improved by inclusion of a chapter giving specific information on planting for camouflage effects. Such questions as spacing of trees and shrubs to disrupt shadows with the minimum amount of planting, proper grouping of plants as to height, placing of trees and shrubs with respect to shadow zones, and the proper handling of shrubs to get the desired color effects are not answered in this or any other text on camouflage."

Eng N 129:112 S 10 '42 200w

ROPE, FREDERICK THORNTON. Opinion conflict and school support. 164p $2 Teachers college

370.193 School finance. Public opinion

42-1262

"The schoolman concerned with the impact of public opinion upon school policy will find in this book concrete suggestions for developing a constructive and democratic public relations program. [It] considers public opinion as a force affecting education, summarizes research methods, and, by describing a study conducted in a large American city, shows how to adapt for public school use the techniques of opinion polling." Publisher's note

Reviewed by Ethel Shanas

Am J Soc 48:157 Jl '42 260w

School & Society 54:480 N 22 '41 60w

Reviewed by N. B. Henry

School R 50:234 Mr '42 1100w

"This little book is of interest to the school administration and to the student of democracy. The first part of it contains an admirable discussion of public opinion and research methods relating to it. This discussion is particularly welcome since it places the main educational problem with which the book is concerned in its proper perspective." R. J. Stanley

+ Social Studies 33:235 My '42 230w

ROPER, DANIEL CALHOUN, and LOVETTE, FRANK HENRY. Fifty years of public life. 422p $3.50 Duke univ.

B or 92 U.S.—Politics and government—20th century 41-26547

Autobiography of a southern politician who served in various capacities in Washington during several administrations, culminating in service as Secretary of Commerce under Franklin D. Roosevelt. Index.

Reviewed by J. W. Patton

Am Hist R 47:904 Jl '42 390w

Reviewed by H. C. Nixon

Am Pol Sci R 36:373 Ap '42 300w

"I had the feeling that neither Mr. Roper nor his collaborator quite dared to let go in reporting important people and national problems. The result is a conventional narrative which will add little color to history. But in the South Carolina boyhood there is reality though even then Mr. Roper must have moved a little stiffly in terms of the conventional Christian virtues which in his last chapter, a final essay in advice to his country, he recommends as the one safe course for America now. The whole book is the record of a useful American life but not an exciting one, and the book in this regard accurately reflects the life." Jonathan Daniels

+ Books p16 F 15 '42 400w

"The autobiography of Mr. Roper, former secretary of commerce, will fill a large place in the history and literature of the period it covers. . . . Doubtless the two most significant contributions are Roper's account of his public work, the grasping of big administrative problems and the settlement of vexatious questions, and the picture of the changing times, the emergence of new issues and new forces in American life. . . . The second best feature of the book is the intimate picture of the great men of his period with whom Roper had such a close and intimate friendship. . . . One of the finest things in the book is the full and adequate appreciation Secretary Roper gives to the wife who has shared his more than fifty years of active life. It is a beautiful and gracious tribute to an ideal family relationship. This is one of the highlights of the book." W. C. Williams

+ Christian Century 59:285 Mr 4 '42 90pw

"Prosy, if you like, but not without warmth and humor."

+ New Yorker 17:60 D 27 '41 50w

RORER, JOHN ALEXANDER. Principles of democratic supervision. 230p $2.35 Teachers college

371.2 School supervision and supervisors. Teaching 42-20074

"A critical investigation of proposed principles of supervision in light of a democratic philosophy of education. Results imply relationships among administrators, supervisors and teachers which will contribute to the practice of democracy in the schools." (School & Society) Bibliography.

"As a synthesis of principles in a broad field, this book will fill a real need. Pointed up with appropriate factual material and suitable illustrations from actual school situations, the thought contained in it would make the foundation of an excellent textbook in supervision." F. S. Albright

+ El School J 43:121 O '42 1300w

School & Society 55:736 Je 27 '42 40w

ROSE, WALTER. Good neighbours: some recollections of an English village and its people, with drawings by J. Hookham. 140p $2.75 Macmillan [10s 6d Cambridge]

914.2 England—Social life and customs

[A43-277]

"Memories of village life in England. . . . Walter Rose—whose corresponding book, 'The Village Carpenter,' was a runaway best-seller in England—was born in the village fifty miles from London, whose 'good neighbours' he describes as he knew them fifty years ago; he has lived there all his life; his father and grandfather were born and lived all their lives there." Books

"It is a proud and happy book, a social and a human document."

+ Books p14 Ja 17 '43 480w

"As a realistic, unsentimental but sympathetic picture of village life, Good Neighbours is as authentic and creditable as anything we have had in recent years. The quality of the writing is scarcely adequate to sustain the book among the few classics of its kind, but the solid worth of Mr. Rose's detail quite out-classes such literary candy as Edmund Blunden's English Village." Desmond Hawkins

+ New Statesman & Nation 24:413 D 19 '42 300w

"As richly satisfying, as thought-provoking and as beautiful a little book as one has met with in years." J. S. Southron

+ N Y Times p7 Ja 10 '43 750w

Reviewed by Thomas Hennell

Spec 169:292 S 25 '42 430w

Springf'd Republican p7e Ja 17 '43 650w

Times [London] Lit Sup p417-Ag 22 '42 750w

ROSENBERG, HANS REINHARD. Chemistry and physiology of the vitamins. 674p $12 Interscience

612.015 Vitamins

42-15300

"Comprehensive volume of available data discussing each vitamin separately with reviews of the nomenclature and historical development; also includes the industrial methods of preparation. The book ends with a list and abstracts of patents issued in the United States, Great Britain, Germany, and France." N Y New Tech Bks

"In this age of high-pressure publicity, and in view of the somewhat confused state of vitamin affairs, Dr. Rosenberg's book should be heaven sent to teachers of biochemistry, nutritionists, clinicians, and even to vitamin-plagued laymen. It is neither dogmatic nor is it simply a historical survey of the field. The author plainly states after a critical survey of each topic, what could be considered as known, established, or doubtful, pending further work." J. A. Stekol

+ Am J Pub Health 32:1292 N '42 360w

"The work is exceedingly clearly and well written, surprisingly so for one to whom the English language is not native. The reader must search diligently to find even a slight error in idiom. The typography and mechanical workmanship reflect credit on the publishers." R. E. Remington

+ Chem & Eng N 20:877 J1 10 '42 350w

N Y New Tech Bks 27:45 J1 '42

ROSENFELD, MRS LEONORA DAVIDSON (COHEN). From beast-machine to man-machine; animal soul in French letters from Descartes to La Mettrie; with a pref. by Paul Hazard. 353p $3.50 (15s) Oxford

128 Philosophy, French. French literature—History and criticism. Materialism. Descartes, René

41-9705

"The purpose of this book," says the author . . . "is to examine from the viewpoint of the historian of ideas the twofold theme of the beast-machine and the animal soul in French literature from Descartes to La Mettrie . . . with particular attention to the implications of the controversy in science, philosophy, theology, and belles-lettres." Philosophy and literature were particularly close in their relationship during the period, extending roughly from the Discours in 1637 to the Homme-Machine in 1748. Mrs. Rosenfeld, however, is more interested in the ideological background of literature than in literary repercussions in philosophy. As a result, her survey of the widespread controversy includes a mélange of great names: Malebranche, Bossuet, Gassendi, Bayle, and Locke; and of the members of 'a legion of obscure writers.'" J Philos

Reviewed by Hester Hastings

Am Hist R 47:842 J1 '42 600w

"Mrs. Rosenfeld has painstakingly exhumed obscure and forgotten thinkers. Her justification is that 'the controversy on animal soul is a sort of window through which one glimpses a fleeting panorama of an intellectual era in flux.'" Vincent Guilloton

Am Soc R 7:125 F '42 140w

J Philos 38:276 My 8 '41 330w

"This most interesting chapter in the history of French thought has been studiously put together and competently told. Seven appendixes and an exhaustive bibliography complete a work of thorough scholarship and literary excellence." Roger Hazelton

+ J Religion 22:229 Ap '42 120w

ROSKOLENKO, HARRY. I went into the country [poems] il. by Frederico Castellon. ltd ed 64p $1.50; pa 50c Press of James A. Decker

811

"Mr. Roskolenko identifies his collection as being about the abstract heroes of the SELF, this century, the corpses, the monuments, our values, our reporters, our politicians, us. Now is the time of death. Now tears. Now shouting. Now madness.' How he worked himself into this state of mind is not appended." Poetry

"The poems are, at once, bold and hot-blooded and inchoate and careless. An improvement over his first book, 'Sequence on Violence,' because more orderly. 'I Went into the Country' is still not ordered enough. . . In spite of all this, Mr. Roskolenko has a great deal to recommend him: what he brings to poetry is important, what he has as experience, what he feels about experience, humanly, places him on a higher level than most of our now canonical young English poets." Harvey Breit

+ New Repub 105:261 Ag 25 '41 360w

Reviewed by Nelson Algren

Poetry 59:220 Ja '42 400w

ROSS, EARLE DUDLEY. Democracy's college; the land-grant movement in the formative stage. 267p $3 Iowa state college press

379.123 Land-grant colleges. Colleges and universities—U.S. Education—U.S.

42-11686

"The author of this volume has attempted to present the main lines of development of the land-grant college as an important phase of the provision of a democratic program of education. The beginnings of this 'common school' movement reach far back into the colonial and early national eras. Democracy's college is interpreted as the extension of educational opportunity beyond the elementary and secondary school to youth of the great middle class who, because of limited economic competence and lack of interest in 'liberal studies,' were not being served by the standard liberal arts college." Ann Am Acad

"An admirable study in American institutional history. . . It is to be hoped that Professor Ross will continue the story. He has the skill of covering in his general chapters a wide range of references to specific institutional developments without losing a central thread or the interest of his reader; his style is marked by a quiet wit and humor and a humane evaluation of motives and interests; and his notes and bibliography are genuinely valuable for this personal evaluation of materials." J. M. Gaus

+ Am Hist R 48:140 O '42 500w

Reviewed by Merton Oyler

Am J Soc 48:283 S '42 150w

"Anyone interested in the evolution of the American public school system will find in Democracy's College a highly important contribution to the literature on the subject. The effect of the land-grant college movement upon higher education in America as presented in this volume should be a matter of deep concern to anyone interested in the evolution of the liberal arts college and university." E. D. Grizzell

+ Ann Am Acad 222:239 J1 '42 380w

School & Society 55:308 Mr 14 '42 50w

ROSS, ISHBEL (MRS BRUCE RAE). Isle of escape. 300p $2.50 Harper

(W) 42-21235

Novel about European refugees in New York city in 1941. An American reporter, recently returned from England, and the people he met on the ship coming back, are the center from which the action spreads out. Bill, the reporter, goes to visit his mother in a quiet New England town, and the reactions of his mother's friends to the news he brings is recorded. From there he goes to New York and finds it teeming with fifth columnists. A fine series of articles about refugee activities brings results, but Bill cannot resist direct contact with the fight. After Pearl Harbor he enlists as a soldier.

Booklist 39:139 D 15 '42

"In 'Isle of Escape' Miss Ishbel Ross writes an interestingly factual novel of the refugees on Manhattan, 1941. Thrown in for good measure and inevitable in the work of so competent and thorough a newspaper woman as Miss

ROSS, ISHBEL—Continued

Ross is a good deal of shrewd, sane background commentary on what various strata of American citizens were thinking and saying about war in those pre-Pearl Harbor days." F. H. Bullock

+ Books p6 Ag 30 '42 700w

"This novel presents a timely problem of human and political importance, but it presents it in such a way that the true significance of the theme becomes obscured. . . . There is much valuable material in this book. Miss Ross has studied the problem thoroughly, but one wishes that she had given a clear, factual account of it instead of spending her fine journalistic talent and first-hand knowledge on a commonplace story. . . . The dialogue is always smart and clever and witty, and yet it all remains unreal." Marianne Hauser

+ — N Y Times p7 Ag 23 '42 400w

"Miss Ross's new novel is more interesting as a piece of reporting than as fiction: in fact the story is so secondary to the startling facts which its able reporter-author has unearthed that it is hardly necessary to bother about it in a review. This is a great pity, for a first rate story would have helped point up the facts and perhaps drive home the moral for readers, if there still are any, who are sceptical about enemy activities in this country."

+ — Sat R of Lit 25:44 O 24 '42 180w

ROSS, LILLIAN BOS. The stranger; a novel of the Big Sur. 282p $2.50 Morrow

42-21690

Story of the first year of the married life of Zande Allan, roughly-reared, lonely rancher, and Hannah, the Kansas-born woman he got as his wife thru the use of a matrimonial agency. The time is the 1870s; the place the wild, rugged California coastland south of Monterey.

Booklist 39:72 N 1 '42

"This, to be sure, is in one sense a love story, the immemorial story of the War Between Man and Woman. It is also the old story of the pioneer woman strong enough to meet new conditions and conquer them. In neither of these aspects is it wholly new, nor does it bring a great deal to the discussion of its general theme that has not been said and written before. What is new and fresh about it is the setting and the direct, strong approach the author selects." J. H. Jackson

+ Books p6 O 18 '42 950w

"For all the surface dissimilarity, this novel will stand comparison with the best work of Marjorie Kinnan Rawlings. Both women are writing out of a deep love for the soil in which their lives are rooted; both draw a rich folk humor, a universal wisdom, from the everyday lives of their neighbors. And if Mrs. Ross is not quite so metaphysical as the poet of the Florida scrub, she is a better story teller. Judging the Californian by her first novel, it is not too much to wish her the same deserved success the Floridian has enjoyed." William Du Bois

+ N Y Times p7 O 18 '42 850w

"In a fresh, pleasant style, the author presents a locale that is strange and people who are vividly alive."

+ New Yorker 18:83 O 24 '42 50w

"This is an excellent piece of work in every respect. The development of the hero, from an intolerable ruffian to a sympathetic character, is very well and credibly done. The scene is fresh and the most is made of it; the writing itself has a good deal of the hero's own brutal strength." Phil Stong

+ Sat R of Lit 25:17 O 17 '42 380w

ROSS, PATRICIA FENT. In Mexico they say; il. by Henry C. Pitz. 211p $2.50 Knopf

Tales, Mexican

(W) 42-8284

Fourteen Mexican folk tales about saints and animals, princes and elves. For grades four to six. Glossary.

Booklist 38:335 My 1 '42

"The dramatic pictures lend interest and harmonize well with the Mexican background."

A. M. Jordan

+ Horn Bk M 18:172 My '42 80w

Reviewed by Dorothea Dawson

Library J 67:534 Je 1 '42 50w

Reviewed by R. A. Hill

Library J 67:884 O 15 '42 30w

"The thoroughly delightful drawings by Henry Pitz heighten the dramatic quality of the tales. A book to be added to the fairy-tale shelves in libraries and one that children will enjoy having for their own." A. T. Eaton

+ N Y Times p10 J1 5 '42 240w

New Yorker 18:74 My 23 '42 30w

ROSSI, BONIFACE E. Welding and its application. 343p il $2.50 McGraw

671 Welding. Electric welding. Metal cutting (W) 41-20969

"The object of this book is (1) to familiarize the beginner with certain fundamental facts concerning the welding process, (2) to give the experienced welding operator a wider understanding of the welding process, and (3) to provide a source of reference for the draftsman, designer, engineer, executive, and anyone else interested in the application of welding. Although emphasis has been placed on electric-arc welding, an attempt has been made to give a picture of the welding industry as a whole." (Pref) Index.

Booklist 38:127 D 15 '41

N Y New Tech Bks 27:14 Ja '42

Wis Lib Bul 38:79 My '42

ROSSLYN, J. Electro-plating and anodising. 224p il $2.50 Chemical pub. co. [7s 6d Newnes]

671 Electroplating 41-50584

"A guide to modern plating practice. It covers gold, silver, nickel, copper, chromium, cadmium, and zinc plating, also interested in the application of welding. Emphasis has been placed on electric arc welding although it gives a good picture of the welding industry as a whole. Well illustrated." Wis Lib Bul

N Y New Tech Bks 27:24 Ap '42

Wis Lib Bul 38:79 My '42

ROSTEN, LEO CALVIN (LEONARD Q. ROSS, pseud). Hollywood; the movie colony; the movie makers. 436p $4 Harcourt

791.4 Moving pictures. Hollywood, California (W) 41-25392

For descriptive note see Annual for 1941.

"A delightful and penetrating account of the social and professional life of the moving picture capital." W. H. McPherson

+ Am Econ R 32:395 Je '42 850w

"The story of Hollywood is a fascinating one, and the author has written an interesting account of it. The bulk of the material is presented in a popular style. . . . As a research report it lacks scientific scrutiny and verification of data; and, except for the description of folkways and mores, one looks in vain for the terminology of the social sciences." M. H. Neumeyer

Am Soc R 7:296 Ap '42 700w

"The book is well written, fast moving, and interesting. It corrects certain popular conceptions of Hollywood, and confirms others. In most of the chapters the author goes beyond the data contained in the Appendices, and gives his impressions, which no doubt are based on his interviews and observations."

M. A. May

Ann Am Acad 221:224 My '42 450w

Bookmark 3:9 Mr '42

"The book is readable, but in everything except the many tables and the thousands of quotations, it is padded and repetitive, sometimes to the detriment of complete coverage of a subject. And the writing gets pretty much in your hair after a while, being a mixture of pedantry and arch newspaperese." Otis Ferguson

+ — New Repub 106:275 F 23 '42 900w
Pratt p21 O '42

Reviewed by Paul Lewis
Survey G 31:334 J1 '42 460w
Wis Lib Bul 38:28 F '42

ROTH, CECIL. History of the Jews in England. 306p $5 (15s) Oxford

296.0942 Jews in Great Britain [42-11942]

"This latest history of the Jews in England describes their fluctuating fortunes from the earliest times until their political emancipation in 1858. Mr. Roth has not been content to follow unquestioningly in the footsteps of previous historians, but has based his work upon a considerable amount of original research and availed himself of substantial new sources of information, of which there is profuse evidence throughout the book." Manchester Guardian

"This fresh erudite history of the Jews in England contains much that is valuable for the sociologist interested in problems of minority relations, antisemitism, xenophobia, and mass psychoses." Ephraim Fischhoff

+ Am Soc R 7:577 Ag '42 700w

Reviewed by E. A. Beller
Ann Am Acad 223:200 S '42 550w
Commonweal 36:212 Je 19 '42 170w

"The reader will be grateful to Mr Roth for the freshness of his study, for the skill with which he has marshalled his materials, and for the intrinsic value of his book, especially in its combination of completeness with brevity. These sentiments will establish a solid welcome for the volume, even if it may not succeed literally, as the dust cover affirms, in 'correcting the accepted account at every turn and presenting what is substantially a new story.'" Norman Sykes

+ Hibbert J 40:398 J1 '42 1000w

"A scholarly and well-written work." I. C.
+ Manchester Guardian p3 Ja 6 '42 300w
Times [London] Lit Sup p128 Mr 14 '42 1750w

ROTHENSTEIN, SIR WILLIAM, and CECIL, LORD DAVID. Men of the R.A.F. 134p il $3 (12s 6d) Oxford

940.544942 Great Britain. Royal air force. World war, 1939—Pictorial works A42-4039

The book consists of three parts. In part one, Sir William Rothenstein gives an account of life in the R.A.F.—impressions of life at bomber, fighter and other stations. Part two is an essay on the R.A.F. and what it means to the civilian, written by Lord David Cecil. Part three has forty full-page reproductions of portraits made by Sir William Rothenstein of men of all ranks in the R.A.F.

"Sir William Rothenstein must have had [a future age] in mind as well as his contemporaries. In these forty portraits he has left finely on record what manner of men they seemed to a contemporary artist distinguished in intelligence and draughtsmanship. . . . It is a fine piece of bookmaking in these difficult times, and the portraits are admirably reproduced." J. B.

+ Manchester Guardian p3 Ap 29 '42 200w

"Sir William Rothenstein's portraits are excellent of their type, closely observed and ably drawn. They provide a distinguished and necessary record of the flyers who fought the Battle of Britain." Holger Cahill

+ New Repub 107:324 S 14 '42 480w

"It requires uncommon skill and sensibility to write with decorum about the men of the R.A.F. The strangeness of their way of life excites too violently the imagination, and it is hard not to be embarrassed by one's sense of inferiority, and tongue-tied or hyperbolic from admiring with such intensity. The authors of these books, however, set an example by avoiding all inflated talk about Paladins of the Air." Raymond Mortimer

+ New Statesman & Nation 23:371 Je 6 '42 700w

"Lord David Cecil's contribution to the book is called 'The R. A. F.: A Layman's Glimpse.' It does not add to already existing literature on the subject, but it is written with appreciative pride and lends some additional interest to the volume. . . . Sir William Rothenstein's drawings alone would entitle this book to an honored place in the archives of World War II." E. F. Allen

+ N Y Times p17 Ag 9 '42 500w

New Yorker 17:59 J1 25 '42 40w

"On the whole, this is the best book on the subject that has yet been published." H. G.

+ Spec 168:424 My 1 '42 340w

"Written with quiet dignity and charm, this book adds a valuable chapter to the records of the work of the R.A.F."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p183 Ap 11 '42 1450w

ROTHERY, AGNES EDWARDS (MRS H. R. PRATT). Family album. 237p il $3 Dodd

920 Rothery family (W) 42-12269

Reminiscences of the author's family, in which her father, still hale and hearty at ninety-two, holds the center of the stage. Delightful memories of her sedate little blind grandmother, and of her own lively mother who liked entertaining in their Wellesley home, compose part of this picture of American family life.

Booklist 38:367 Je 1 '42

Bookmark 4:15 N '42

"It's a fine heritage that Agnes Rothery possesses, and excellently has she put it down in 'Family Album.'" Rose Feld

+ Books p2 Ap 12 '42 1250w

"Generally recommended." Jacqueline Overton

+ Library J 67:318 Ap 1 '42 90w

"'Family Album' is a book of rare quality, pungent in flavor and delightful in style. We shall cherish it as Americana while we read and reread it for the liveliest entertainment. There is reality in all its humor and sentiment and robustness and charm." Katherine Woods

+ N Y Times p4 Ap 12 '42 1700w

Pratt p6 D '42

ROTHERY, AGNES EDWARDS (MRS H. R. PRATT). Washington roundabout; il. by Carl Burger. 248p $2 Dodd

917.53 Washington, D.C.—Juvenile literature (W) 42-8269

This guidebook for boys and girls covers many points of interest in Washington, D.C.—the Washington monument, the Capitol, White House, etc.—and also places of interest nearby—Mount Vernon and Arlington House, Annapolis, Fort Myer, etc.

Booklist 38:335 My 1 '42

Reviewed by M. L. Becker
Books p6 J1 19 '42 240w

Reviewed by F. B. Sloan
Christian Science Monitor p11 Ap 23 '42 120w

Reviewed by Alice Monroe
Library J 67:369 Ap 15 '42 120w

ROTHSCHILD, LINCOLN. Sculpture through the ages; foreword by Paulanship. (Whittlessey house publication) 279p il $5 McGraw

730 Sculpture (W) 42-52156

Traces sculpture thru the ages from the Egyptians to the present, and includes a chapter on African primitives, by presenting a series of 123 plates illustrating some of the best examples in each age. Each plate has an accompanying page of historical and cultural description.

Booklist 39:220 F 1 '43

ROTHSCHILD, LINCOLN—Continued

"It is not always convincing. Thus it is difficult to understand the statement, apropos of Michael Angelo's tondo, the 'Madonna and Child,' at Florence, that 'his heart does not seem to be in this skillfully executed work.' There is much more than skill in it. Mr. Rothschild's opinions do not make the most persuasive contribution to his book. But it is essentially a picture book. . . . The subjects are mostly well chosen, and this, like 'The Enjoyment of Art in America,' makes a welcome holiday publication." Royal Cortissoz

+ — Books p6 D 20 '42 350w

"Pompous style of the critical passages will not attract laymen, but art libraries will welcome the fine selection of plates. One wishes that moderns other than Epstein and Brancusi had been included." Rice Estes

+ — Library J 67:908 O 15 '42 110w

ROUCEK, JOSEPH SLABEY, and others. Sociological foundations of education; a textbook in educational sociology. 771p $3.75 Crowell

370.193 Educational sociology 42-16435

"A symposium suitable for use as an introductory sociology text for prospective teachers. Part I presents with a justifiable educational slant, selected basic units in the usual introduction to sociology. In Part II consideration is given to some of the major social problems, again with implications for education. Obviously the book cannot be used as a text for an advanced course in sociology." Am Soc R

"What is needed in this comparatively virgin field of educational sociology is more work such as that represented in Waller's The Sociology of Teaching and Wilson's recent The Academic Man. Roucek and his collaborators, however, have done a creditable job in the present volume. The text should be widely adopted, especially in teacher education institutions where work in educational sociology may be the student's first, and too often his last, exposure to sociology." G. W. Blackwell

+ Am Soc R 7:880 D '42 450w

"The chief weakness of the textbook is the lack of a unifying framework. To be established as a subject in its own right, educational sociology needs greater systematization than is achieved here (or than is possible in the symposium method of textbook writing). Almost every chapter of Part I devotes considerable space to establishing its own sociological framework with the result that discussions of elementary terms and concepts—culture, human nature, community, family, etc.—become very repetitious. Most of the chapters, as individual contributions, are effectively done. And one cannot miss the underlying argument for an educational program in which social knowledge shall play a major role." B. Parker

+ — Social Forces 21:251 D '42 400w

ROUGEMONT, DENIS DE, and MURET, CHARLOTTE (TOUZALIN) (MME MAURICE MURET). The heart of Europe. 274p $2.50 Duell

342.494 Switzerland—Politics and government. Federal government (W) 41-20984

For descriptive note see Annual for 1941.

Bookmark 3:5 Mr '42

"With the happily chosen subtitle, 'A small scale model of a working federalized Europe,' this volume contains a delightful and most instructive description of a little country which for a long period has been teaching lessons badly needed, but for the most part disregarded by the world. Within the limitations established for themselves by the authors this book leaves almost nothing to be desired." Joseph McSorley

+ Cath World 155:373 Je '42 340w

Reviewed by R. G. Woolbert

Foreign Affairs 20:577 Ap '42 10w

"In the scope of a short review the grand conceptions of this thoughtful book can be hinted at only in rough detail. Here and there one could make some objections, but they will not touch the nucleus of the idea. . . . The Swiss people appear in a somewhat rosy light, and even where the authors have to admit faults in the Swiss they are mitigated by the authors until they finally become advantages." Dieter Cunz

+ N Y Times p16 F 8 '42 1000w

ROURKE, CONSTANCE MAYFIELD. Roots of American culture and other essays; ed, with a pref, by Van Wyck Brooks. 305p $3 Harcourt

917.3 U.S.—Civilization (W) 42-19827

A collection of essays, notes, and fragments which were to have formed parts of a monumental work on the history of American culture. Contents: The roots of American culture; The rise of theatricals; Early American music; The Shakers; A note on folklore; Voltaire Combe; Traditions of a Negro literature; American art: a possible future. Index.

"Such chapters as 'The Rise of Theatricals' are not merely a promise of more to come; they are valuable and understanding studies which every observer of the American scene can read with pleasure and profit. Miss Rourke's work is marked with sympathy. Never a mere antiquarian or student, she feels with the people she describes, and lives in their period and in their thinking. Her imagination walks in step with her scholarship—a happy and, alas, uncommon combination. This volume is recommended for its content; our only regret is that the magnum opus was not completed." R. E. Danielson

+ Atlantic 170:140 S '42 150w

Booklist 39:10 S '42

"All are interesting, well—and sometimes wittily—written. But they are fragments; fragments extensive enough to reveal clearly both the author's point of view and the fact that she spread the net of her research both very widely indeed and deep into seldom-explored seas; sufficiently fragmentary, nevertheless, to leave unanswered the questions how and how well she would have been able to solve the problems of scale, selection and integration." J. W. Krutch

+ — Books p3 Ag 9 '42 1950w

Reviewed by Margaret Meagher
Cath World 156:506 Ja '43 800w

Reviewed by W. E. Garrison
Christian Century 59:1005 Ag 19 '42 160w

Reviewed by Jerome Mellquist
Commonweal 36:545 S 25 '42 490w

"Unique, stimulating, penetrating, these eight essays are fruit of rich and prolonged research among unusual source materials relating to American past. . . . Recommended for all but smallest libraries." A. G. Higgins

+ Library J 67:681 Ag '42 70w

Reviewed by Margaret Marshall
Nation 155:418 O 24 '42 2900w

Reviewed by R. L. Duffus
N Y Times p4 Ag 9 '42 1300w

"Miss Rourke had a living sense of our country's past, clearly distinct from the sweet cooings of the antiquarian and the mortuary interests of the purely historical researcher. Her books on Audubon and Davy Crockett and American humor, though firmly based on original investigation, were lit with brilliant intuitions. The same is true of her 'The Roots of American Culture.' Clifton Fadiman

+ New Yorker 18:54 Ag 8 '42 400w

"If the publication of Constance Rourke's new book sends the reader back to her earlier volumes, as it should, that is not to belittle the contents of the final volume, but to draw attention to its excellence. Its two major essays, 'The Roots of American Culture' and 'The Rise of Theatricals,' give the measure of her maturity. Some of her earlier writing is occasionally weakened by a Henry-Jamesian allusiveness and obliqueness of approach. But the deeper that Constance Rourke got into her great subject, the more direct did she become, and the more firm and sinewy her style." Lewis Mumford

+ Sat R of Lit 25:3 Ag 15 '42 1850w

Reviewed by E. J. R. Isaacs

Theatre Arts 26:727 N '42 1250w

"These essays, if Miss Rourke had lived, would have been part of a culminating work which she had planned in three volumes. As last words, they lack unity, but they have charm, sense, vision."

+ Time 40:91 Ag 10 '42 1200w

Wis Lib Bul 38:134 O '42

Reviewed by S. T. Williams

Yale R n s 32:375 winter '43 800w

ROWE, ANNE. Little dog barked. 249p $2
Morrow

42-6762

Detective story.

Reviewed by Will Cuppy

Books p10 Mr 15 '42 220w

"Inspector Pettengill and the Maine coast background are the most attractive features of a sufficiently entertaining but not outstanding tale." Kay Irvin

+ — N Y Times p20 Mr 8 '42 200w

"Down-east characters well handled, also assorted actors, authors, etc. Pettengills' unobtrusive and canny deducing pleases. Good."

+ Sat R of Lit 25:22 Mr 7 '42 40w

ROWELL, ADELAIDE CORINNE. Touch-down; decorations by Woodi Ishmael. 256p
$2 Dutton

41-26746

Michael Grainger, a football hero of the first water in the college which his grandfather founded, is suddenly stricken with infantile paralysis. This story for older boys and girls describes his fight for rehabilitation, helped by the charming, wholesome family next door.

"Boys who know football will catch a few technical discrepancies. Well-drawn servant characters and southern setting; humor, mystery, and romance. Of equal interest to girls of twelve to sixteen. The style lacks smoothness but the theme is fresh, without mawkishness, and enjoyable. The illustrations by Woodi Ishmael lack this artist's usual distinction. Recommended." Maude Adams

+ — Library J 67:183 F 15 '42 130w

"Michael's friends are convincingly lively, the children almost recognizable as those next door to you or me, and if occasionally the writing verges on the sentimental there is no sentimentality in the substance of the book." E. L. Buell

+ N Y Times p8 Ap 12 '42 340w

RUBEY, HARRY; LOMMEL, GEORGE EDWARD, and TODD, MARION WESLEY. Engineering surveys: elementary and applied. 834p il maps $4.50 Macmillan

526.9 Surveying

42-14136

"Three earlier texts by one or more of the three authors of 'Engineering Surveys' have been combined in the new text in order to provide in a single volume information for a complete course in surveying. The elementary surveying information is identical with that in the earlier book 'Engineering Surveys: Elementary' which still is to be separately published. Sections on applied surveying have been largely rewritten and amplified to bring them up to date on recent developments in such fields as photogrammetry. No attempt has been made, however, to cover fully the latter subject or the specialized field of the U. S. Coast and Geodetic Survey. Tables have been amplified." (Eng N) Index.

Eng N 128:79 Mr 26 '42 120w

Nature 148:152 Ag 9 '41 150w

N Y New Tech Bks 27:13 Ja '42

RUKEYSER, MURIEL. Wake island. 16p pa
50c Doubleday

811 Wake island—Poetry. World war, 1939
—Poetry 42-20970

A short poem on the gallant defense of Wake island.

Reviewed by Ruth Lechlitner

Books p16 S 27 '42 40w

"Miss Rukeyser has sincerely taken as her thesis that the stand on Wake was a fight for freedom throughout the world. But how damply she represents this conviction! With what rhetorical hollowiness and limpness! We are right back in the parlor, with the oil lamp, the antimacassars, and the volume of Owen Meredith on the centre table. I still think that the poetry of this war will be written in the field and that it will sound far more simple and moving than anything Miss Rukeyser has produced in this volume." Louise Bogan

New Yorker 18:80 O 31 '42 230w

"It is one of the fine poems of the war."
W. R. Benet

+ Sat R of Lit 25:14 Ag 29 '42 90w

RUKEYSER, MURIEL. Willard Gibbs. 465p
$3.50 Doubleday

B or 92 Gibbs, Josiah Willard (W) 42-36387

Scholarly biography of an American genius in the field of thermodynamics, who was born in 1839, and who taught at Yale for thirty years. "Miss Rukeyser's interest lies only secondarily in an exact weighing of the scientific value of Gibbs's work. Her emphasis is on the contours of his mind, the qualities which made him 'the type and emblem of the imagination in America.' Her fine book interprets Gibbs as an example of the profoundly American search for unity, of which our passion for standardization is but a vulgar expression and of which our effort in this war may yet prove to be the highest embodiment." (New Yorker) Reading list. Index.

Booklist 39:120 D 1 '42

"Muriel Rukeyser, the poet, has skillfully managed to link the life of Gibbs with several of the great figures of the arts and sciences of his time—with Melville, Whitman, Henry Adams and William James—a linkage which will add greatly to a deeper understanding of the cultural history of America. Her book may well remain the definitive biography of an American genius done with the pen of a distinguished poet in the tradition of Parrington's 'Main Currents of American Thought.'" Bernard Jaffe

+ Books p4 N 22 '42 1350w

"If there ever was a dreadful subject for biography, Willard Gibbs is it. He simply stuck around New Haven, at work on a task that even his friends did not understand, nor most of his pupils. Miss Rukeyser has done miracles with him, setting his glories against those of contemporary Adamases, Jameses, Edisons and such, with admirable skill. Her style of forced gaiety seems inappropriate to her subject, it is true, yet her book is an unbelievably precise and intelligible collation of a mountain of mysteries." E. L. Keyes

+ Commonweal 37:304 Ja 8 '43 380w

"Magnificent biography. . . Not a scholarly evaluation of Gibbs' scientific achievements, which are known to experts throughout the world, but a praiseworthy attempt to make general public aware of personality and lasting merits of her hero, whom she ranks with Lincoln, Melville and Whitman among the great men of his time. Brilliantly written book highly recommended for public and college libraries." F. E. Hirsch

+ Library J 67:908 O 15 '42 110w

"It is obvious that Miss Rukeyser has worked earnestly and hard to equip herself for her task. She talks as well, perhaps, as any layman could about entropy and the laws governing the energy of a system. But it is hardly well enough to create any assurance that she is competent to speak, as she does at great length, concerning the ultimate philosophic significance of Gibbs's work; and at the risk of being thought

RUKEYSER, MURIEL—Continued
an incompetent reader I am bound to confess, not only that I found her book very exceptionally hard going, but also that after I had finished I did not feel that I knew much more than I did before." J. W. Krutch
— + Nation 156:97 Ja 16 '43 1100w

Reviewed by Alfred Kazin
New Repub 107:752 D 7 '42 1600w

"Gibbs died without an adequate biography. It was high time that some one with penetrating insight gave us her picture of him and what he stands for in the history of science. Her biography is bound to remain the standard for years to come." Waldemar Kaempffert
+ N Y Times p3 D 13 '42 2150w

"I have read no other biography this year that has interested me half as much or from which I have learned one-tenth as much. If the Pulitzer Prize Committee judges overlook it, they may comfort themselves with the assurance that they are firmly in that tradition of our higher learning which for so many years overlooked the greatest intellect in our country's history, the towering one of Willard Gibbs." Clifton Fadiman
+ New Yorker 18:79 N 7 '42 1550w

Reviewed by F. S. C. Northrop
Sat R of Lit 25:10 D 5 '42 1200w

"Even now the name of the father of physical chemistry, one of America's greatest scientists, is scarcely known to the general public. Acclaimed at last by the initiated, it has remained for a poet to write an illuminating and sensitively appreciative popular biography of this man whose life was so inextricably entwined with that of New Haven and Yale University during the pregnant years of the nineteenth century."

+ Scientific Bk Club R 13:2 D '42 550w

"Miss Rukeyser has done heroically with a most abstruse, technical subject—the formulations of Gibbs's discoveries in scientific theory—presenting it neither as uncomplimentary to one's intelligence nor as a biography too abstract to ever become well-read. She has placed a man of Himalayan brilliance within comparatively easy comprehension; but one must still, nevertheless, read with open eyes. It is not a book to be read with music in the air. That is not to say the book has not music in itself. Miss Rukeyser's style is smooth and she writes with genuine feeling and understanding of her man. Whatever her accomplishments in her own field, she here reveals a remarkable grasp of technology and mathematics and would appear to have the key to one of the most brilliant and difficult minds of all time."

+ Spring'd Republican p7e N 29 '42 800w
Time 41:90 Ja 4 '43 600w

RUNBECK, MARGARET LEE. Our Miss Boo; decorations by Peggy Bacon. 226p il $2 Appleton-Century

818

(W) 42-36041

Collection of short sketches about the daily activities of the author's little daughter, from the age of four to five or six. Miss Boo is an engaging small person, and she is lovingly portrayed as she goes about making friends with the neighbors, hobnobbing with the colored cook, and making her young presence felt thruout the house.

Booklist 38:210 F 15 '42

"The more a reviewer enjoys this book, the more his review is likely to misrepresent it. For it acts directly on the deepest of emotions, often upon several at once. It puts any one who ever had or wanted a child into a state that sounds sentimental when described. Where-as the book is nothing of the kind. It is an act of love, of clear-eyed love." M. L. Becker
+ Books p8 F 15 '42 400w

"You will hunt up excuses to read it aloud to somebody you care about. Like little Miss Boo herself, it must be shared." Millicent Taylor
+ Christian Science Monitor p11 F 17 '42 490w

"Some of these slight sketches are delicately amusing and gay, some gently pathetic. The book is a pleasantly sentimental tribute to a little girl which should please all admirers of little girls, in general or in very special and individual cases." B. S.

+ N Y Times p18 Mr 15 '42 360w

Wis Lib Bul 38:48 Mr '42

RUNES, DAGOBERT D., ed. Dictionary of philosophy. 343p $6 Alliance bk; Philosophical lib, inc, 15 E. 40th st, N.Y.

103 Philosophy—Dictionaries (W) 42-13195

"The aim of the present volume, according to the editor's preface 'is to provide teachers, students and laymen interested in philosophy with clear, concise and correct definitions of the philosophical terms, throughout the range of philosophic thought.' The list of contributors of articles to this dictionary includes seventy-two names, approximately two-thirds being members of the American Philosophical Association. A feature of the 'Dictionary' is the prominence given to the various philosophies of the Orient." Commonweal

"There is much display of terms from Hindu, Chinese, Islamic, and other non-Western philosophy, and every so often there is a fashionable dash of symbolic logic. The result, in a book of only 343 pages, is brevity so excessive that some pages look like a bare list of words."

— Am Soc R 7:460 Je '42 120w

Cath World 155:638 Ag '42 160w

"While there are many excellent articles in the present dictionary, it is plain that as a whole, the work does not fill the need for an authoritative and contemporary dictionary of philosophy. The present reviewer, therefore, is in agreement with the ten contributors who have found it necessary to declare their disapproval of the work as it stands. This is all the more regrettable in view of a number of good individual articles contained in the dictionary." William O'Meara
— + Commonweal 36:68 My 8 '42 490w

Pratt p8 D '42

RUSH, BENJAMIN. Road to fulfillment. 226p $1.50 Harper

248 Spiritual life

42-24210

"It is helpful to have the view of a business man on the spiritual values of life and the spiritual forces in the universe. The author, who is chairman of the board of directors of the Insurance Company of North America, thus defines the scope of his work: 'A brief explanation of twenty-one spiritual laws whereby man may, through obedience, obtain dominion over his environment, secure contentment, happiness and serenity, fulfill the purpose of his life in the world of matter, and fit himself for progress in the world of spirit.'" (Christian Century) Bibliography.

Christian Century 59:1359 N 4 '42 80w

"Mr. Rush does not teach any of the familiar doctrines in the age-old nomenclature, but he does present a positive and practical interpretation of the laws that make for life's fulfillment by basing each chapter on Biblical texts and codifying the laws into a unity that will have a wide appeal to many who are anxious to bridge the river that often separates dogma, creed, worship and even faith from a realistic religion in terms of living." A. L. Murray

Churchman 156:19 D 15 '42 330w

RUSH, JOHN ANDREW. City-county consolidated; with an introd. by Benjamin C. Hilliard. 413p $4; to libs, educators and public officials $3 The author, 121 S. Hudson av, Los Angeles

352 Municipal government. County government 41-14137

"Mr. Rush's book is an intensive study of the history of attempts on the part of large urban areas to get increased control over their local affairs and to divorce themselves from the surrounding rural districts. As an enthusiast of this trend, Mr. Rush has traced the history of urban areas from their beginnings in England up to the present in the United States, and he has included an interesting recital of the history of several of our larger cities in the field of home rule." Harvard Law R

"Much useful and interesting information can be extracted from this book by one willing patiently to endure unto the last. . . This is altogether a book to be read patiently with the hope of reward. The scholarly aids—index, bibliography, table of cases, and appendices—are adequate." C. W. Shull

+ Am Pol Sci R 35:1185 D '41 600w

"Viewed as a whole, The City-County Consolidated is a brief of an advocate rather than an impartial study. The advantages of consolidation are too much taken for granted. In particular, the financial results should have been more carefully and critically analyzed. . . Notwithstanding these shortcomings, Mr. Rush has produced an extremely useful book which may be read with profit by all those who, with de Tocqueville, hold that municipal institutions are 'the strength of free nations.'" R. H. Wells

+ Ann Am Acad 219:188 Ja '42 480w

"Well-balanced and thoughtful text." Newbold Morris

+ Columbia Law R 42:323 F '42 1400w

"The author's enthusiasm for local autonomy somewhat overflows its bounds in the section on judicial attitudes toward restrictions of home rule, and his vitriolic criticism of judges with whose decisions he disagrees tends to obscure any more basic criticism which he might have to offer. Nevertheless, the leading cases in this field are thoroughly discussed—if in a somewhat rigid pattern."

Harvard Law R 55:1073 Ap '42 150w

RUSH, WILLIAM MARSHALL. Wild animals of the Rockies. 296p il $3 Harper

591.5 Animals, Habits and behavior of (W) 42-22347

An American forest ranger describes his own encounters with wild animals in the Rocky mountains—bear, deer, moose, mountain sheep, antelope, and others.

Booklist 39:97 N 15 '42

"A warning should perhaps be issued that 'Wild Animals of the Rockies' is meant to be read by nature-lovers who are honest and whole-hearted in their love. William Rush is a clear-eyed outdoorsman, which is to say that he sees in nature not only the sunsets and the tremulous anemones, but also the lung-worms and the scab-mites and the monstrous parasites that coil in the hoofs of deer. He writes about all natural facts unsqueamishly, and sometimes with a bluntness to dismay the finicking." Alan Devoe

+ Books p26 N 1 '42 390w

Library J 67:795 S 15 '42 30w

"Those parts of the book devoted to animal pests and disease are not for the squeamish, though they certainly belong in this study. As a whole, the book should appeal to every one interested in wildlife, hunter, conservationist, ranchman or naturalist. It will undoubtedly find a large audience among older boys, though it isn't a boys' book." Hal Borland

+ N Y Times p24 S 27 '42 600w

Wis Lib Bul 38:159 N '42

RUSSELL, MRS CHARLES EDWARD BELLYSE. See Russell, L. M. R.

RUSSELL, MRS CHARLOTTE (MURRAY). Message of the mute dog; a Jane Amanda Edwards story. 274p $2 Doubleday

42-7965

Detective story.

Reviewed by Will Cuppy

Books p16 Ja 25 '42 170w

Reviewed by Elizabeth Hull

Boston Globe p19 Mr 11 '42 80w

"Jane Amanda Edwards can always be depended upon for thrills and comedy." Isaac Anderson

+ N Y Times p14 F 1 '42 140w

"Exuberant."

+ Sat R of Lit 25:17 F 7 '42 40w

RUSSELL, MRS CHARLOTTE (MURRAY). Murder steps in. 273p $2 Doubleday

42-25517

Detective story.

"Ingeniously plotted time-killer with accent on love." Will Cuppy

Books p32 N 22 '42 200w

"Much as we miss Jane Amanda Edwards, who has been temporarily shelved, we hope that we shall see more of Noah and Louelle Harper." Isaac Anderson

+ N Y Times p18 N 22 '42 180w

"Foreign intrigue, high finance, and home-grown hatreds well mixed in adequately mystifying job with some likable characters. Readable."

+ Sat R of Lit 25:16 N 21 '42 40w

RUSSELL, ELBERT. History of Quakerism. 586p $3 Macmillan

289.6 Friends, Society of 42-14069

Comprehensive history of the Society of Friends, from George Fox's "great experience" in 1647 to 1941. The work is divided into three main periods: The rise of the society, 1647-1691; The age of quietism, 1691-1827; The modern revival and reconstruction. The author is a Quaker scholar and writer, an educator, and dean of the School of religion of Duke university. Bibliography. Index.

"Notwithstanding the scholarly nature of this work, several historical and editorial errors occur, the most notable of which are the confusing of the Great Pardon of 1672 with the General Pardon of 1686 (p.147) and giving the title of chapter xxii as 'Causes of the Separation of 1927-1928' in stead of '1827-1828.' At the same time one must emphasize the contribution which Dr. Russell's book makes to modern religious historiography and its uniqueness as the only well-rounded one-volume treatment of the history of the Friends." A. J. Mekeel

+ Am Hist R 48:293 Ja '43 450w

"Elbert Russell's intent in writing this history of the Society of Friends was to supply a brief, well-balanced treatment of the 'phases, periods and divisions' of Quakerism. In this he has succeeded well. The book is not only informative and well organized as a chronicle of events and leading personalities in Quaker history but also lucid and discerning in its interpretation of Friendly concepts and practices." A. W. Elster

+ Am Soc R 7:735 O '42 700w

"Written in a somewhat pedestrian style and not entirely free from misprints and minor inaccuracies, the book is nevertheless a successful synthesis of a large body of recent scholarship in Quaker history, and, particularly in the later portions, is itself a substantial contribution to that scholarship." F. B. Tolles

+ Ann Am Acad 223:259 S '42 550w

Reviewed by W. H. Chamberlin

Atlantic 170:108 Ag '42 180w

Booklist 38:419 Jl 1 '42

Bookmark 4:4 N '42

"Dean Russell's personal and inside knowledge of the work of the Friends through many years of distinguished service has been supported by a careful study of the literature, to which his bibliography furnishes a useful guide. His book deserves the place it will undoubtedly have as a standard history of the Quakers."

W. E. Garrison

+ Christian Century 59:757 Je 10 '42 300w

+ Christian Science Monitor p12 O 24 '42 460w

"Few writers of Quaker history have found it possible to attain impartiality and objectivity in their task. The very genius of this religious philosophy of life is its doctrine of the Inner Light and its sense of the mystical which tends to create a spirit of unreality, a feeling of unaccountability, save the divine, concerning its origins and records. Professor Russell, dean emeritus of the Divinity School, Duke University, has been able, more than most writers on Quakerism, to achieve the historical method." R. E. E. Harkness

RUSSELL, ELBERT—Continued
+ Crozer Q 20:74 Ja '43 550w

"Very satisfactory work, heavily though unobtrusively documented; exhaustive bibliography." J. E. Cross

+ Library J 67:318 Ap 1 '42 100w

Reviewed by Odell Shepard
Nation 155:158 Ag 22 '42 550w

"Such a book as this is naturally one of wide intellectual appeal; far outside the membership of the Friends' own association. There is an unfortunate misprint in a top-page heading in the middle of the volume, where the separation of 1827-1828 is dated, page after page, a century later, but probably that error in type will confuse no one. 'The History of Quakerism,' in its entirety, is as clearly and interestingly written as it is inclusively informative."

+ N Y Times p10 Je 7 '42 440w

Reviewed by L. S. Kenworthy
Social Educ 7:37 Ja '43 450w
Wis Lib Bul 38:93 Je '42

RUSSELL, FRANK ALDEN (TED MALONE, pseud). American pilgrimage. 270p il $2.50
Dodd

810.4 American literature—History and criticism 42-36175

Accounts of visits to the homes of sixteen American authors, first given over a radio broadcasting program. Includes photographs of the houses visited. Contents: Noah Webster; Mark Twain; James Fenimore Cooper; Nathaniel Hawthorne; O. Henry; Harriet Beecher Stowe; Ambrose Bierce; Herman Melville; Francis Parkman; Louisa May Alcott; Washington Irving; Francis Bret Harte; Henry David Thoreau; Edgar Allan Poe; Jack London; Ralph Waldo Emerson.

Booklist 38:329 My 1 '42

Books p14 My 3 '42 200w

"A pleasant and unusual introduction to the lives, characters and backgrounds of some of the most notable—but not always the best known—figures in American literature."

+ N Y Times p5 Ap 12 '42 320w

"Excellent little biographical and character sketches, not particularly critical, but thoroughly enjoyable, even if one is already reasonably familiar with the books and personalities discussed." J. T. Winterich

+ Sat R of Lit 25:12 My 23 '42 180w

Wis Lib Bul 38:96 Je '42

RUSSELL, FRANK ALDEN (TED MALONE, pseud), ed. Pack up your troubles. (Whittlesey house publication) 289p il $2 McGraw

821.08 American poetry—Collections. English poetry—Collections (W) 42-14346

A collection of verse selected from nearly a half million favorite poems sent to Ted Malone by listeners to his radio program, Between the Bookends.

Booklist 39:46 O 15 '42

Books p18 My 24 '42 130w

RUSSELL, LILIAN M. (RIGBY) (MRS CHARLES EDWARD BELLVSE RUSSELL). Path to reconstruction; a brief introduction to Albert Schweitzer's Philosophy of civilization. 68p il $1.50 Holt [3s 6d Black, A. & C] 901 Schweitzer, Albert. Civilization.—Philosophy [42-16041]

"Unpretentiously, but with fine insight derived not only from the study of Schweitzer's writings but also from years of association with him in the work of his mission at Lambarene, Mrs. Russell sets forth the principles of Schweitzer's philosophy, and especially of his ethics, centering in 'reverence for life,' as a guidepost on the path to any right reconstruction of a world honeycombed with hate." (Christian Century) Bibliography.

+ Christian Century 59:1459 N 25 '42 80w

"Mrs Russell, with all her devotion to Dr Schweitzer, makes no real contribution in her attempt at the restatement of his philosophy of civilization. It is not fair to comment on the philosophy itself on the basis of this book, but this reviewer is inclined to believe that this generation can learn more from Schweitzer the great-souled man than from Schweitzer the metaphysician." C. D. Kean

Spring'd Republican p8 O 14 '42 500w

RUSSELL, WILLIAM. Berlin embassy. 307p $2.50 Dutton [10s 6d Joseph, M]

940.5343 World war, 1939—Germany. World war, 1939—Personal narratives, American. Germany—Social conditions (W) 41-20446

For descriptive note see Annual for 1941.

"The observations of Russell about the reactions of the average person to the unheated rooms and the shortage of food, and his description of how Berliners were listening to the British broadcasts despite the heavy punishment imposed on such an offense, make this book a very valuable contribution to the understanding of the mentality of wartime Berlin. But when Mr. Russell tries to draw deductions on the basis of only a few months' residence in Berlin, he commits grave mistakes." M. W. Fodor

+ Ann Am Acad 220:222 Mr '42 550w

Reviewed by R. G. Woolbert
Foreign Affairs 20:572 Ap '42 20w

Reviewed by G. W. Stonier
New Statesman & Nation 23:229 Ap 4 '42 390w

Reviewed by Felizia Seyd
N Y Times p3 F 15 '42 1050w

"There have been a number of books by Americans lately giving first-hand impressions of Germany in war-time. The question whether there is room for another may be answered in the affirmative in regard to Mr. Russell's book. Although jerky in style and carelessly constructed, it has a certain originality to distinguish it from the much better-written works of Messrs. Shirer and Harsch for example."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p171 Ap 4 '42 500w

RUSSELL, WILLIAM. Robert Cain. 339p $2.50 Putnam

42-24774

The story of a losing struggle, of a man who fought and lost. Robert Cain, even as a small boy, sensed the narrow, stifling influence of the little Mississippi cotton town where he was born. As he grew older, Robert took things in his own hands, and ran away to St Louis. There he discovered the only freedom he was ever to know; when circumstances demanded his presence in his own home town he returned. Gradually his freedom left him; Robert became once more a stifled, worn-out human husk.

"Mr. Russell has written a sincere book, dealing frankly with a problem which he knows thoroughly. The novel, however, is lacking in originality and freshness, both in style and more particularly in subject matter. The author speaks of new elements and ideas stirring in the South, but he does not seem to feel them." Barbara Woolcott

+ Books p16 N 22 '42 600w

New Repub 107:866 D 28 '42 160w

"Mr. Russell tells [his story] with all the uneven vigor of youth on a crusade. A great deal of it is turgid, particularly in its thematic improvisations. Mr. Russell has yet to learn that people are more important to a story than local color, and the iteration of certain unpleasant sights and smells can only end in monotony. But his genuine feeling atones for the fact that his final manuscript is both overlong and overemphatic." William Du Bois

+ N Y Times p48 N 15 '42 800w

"Mr. Russell may very easily do something good the next time, now that he has got this out of his system." Phil Stong

— + Sat R of Lit 26:9 Ja 9 '43 450w

RUTLAND, HARRIET. Blue murder. 288p $2
Smith & Durrell

42-25580

Mystery story.

"Readers may wonder at times whether this nightmarish narrative may not have been offered as good-natured fun. If so, it doesn't quite jell, but it has its mystery moments." Will Cuppy

Books p32 N 22 '42 160w

"'Blue Murder' has a novel plot and some characters who are more interesting than attractive." Isaac Anderson

N Y Times p18 N 22 '42 240w

RYAN, JOHN AUGUSTINE. Distributive justice; the right and wrong of our present distribution of wealth. 3d. ed rev 368p $4 Macmillan

339.2 Wealth. Economic conditions 42-8340

"In the belief that the system of private enterprise, perhaps modified in form, will survive the war, the author has revised his text and added a quantity of new material, including the encyclical of Pope Pius XI. Second edition was entered in [Book Review Digest 1928]." Booklist

Booklist 38:333 My 1 '42

"'Distributive Justice' will amply reward thoughtful reading. It may be disappointing to those who are seeking a panacea for the economic maladjustments of our times, but the clear, concise presentation will give even them food for thought." W. J. Dunn

+ Springf'd Republican p14 My 22 '42 600w

RYCROFT, WILLIAM STANLEY. On this foundation; the Evangelical witness in Latin America. 210p $1; pa 60c Friendship press

278 Protestants in Latin America. Missions —Latin America 42-14672

Account of the work of various Protestant churches in Latin America. "Information [is given] in regard to the state of religion, its place in the cultural heritage of the peoples, and the efforts now being made to improve it by Protestant missions. This material is given concisely, with scholarly exactness and social as well as religious insight, and is supplemented by an ample bibliography." (Christian Century)

+ Christian Century 59:664 My 20 '42 230w

Churchman 156:31 S 1 '42 80w

"A well-balanced treatment of the Continental situation with due emphasis upon religious and spiritual factors which so many secular writers overlook." A. G. Baker

+ J Religion 22:457 O '42 280w

S

S. K. See K., S.

SABATINI, RAFAEL. Columbus. 430p $2.75 Houghton

Columbus, Christopher—Fiction (W) 42-574

A novel based upon the love story of Christopher Columbus and the beautiful Beatriz Enriquez. The book begins with Columbus in Spain shortly after his rebuff by the king of Portugal. His trials at court, and his voyage are traced, and then he returns to Spain to continue his search for his lost Beatriz.

Booklist 38:210 F 15 '42

"Columbus comes out of this picture not as the dead figure of dull textbooks which, to my mind at least, he has always been, but as a vivid, arresting personality. And with the leading figure comes alive the whole Spain of his time. That the author is able to make an enthralling narrative out of a series of events which denies him the full benefit of suspense is a tribute to his excellent art as a story teller." Milton Hindus

+ Books p6 Ja 25 '42 800w

"The outlines of the tale are, of course, known to every child, but the author has told it with gusto, with a richness too of coloring and a delight in its drama, which make it fresh and glowing." L. M. Field

+ N Y Times p7 Ja 25 '42 700w

Springf'd Republican p7e Ja 25 '42 200w

"Mr. Sabatini, with his accustomed skill, gives a convincing picture of the Court of Spain, and when he finally brings his hero to the shores of the New World he presents the various islands and their inhabitants in a colorful panorama."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p185 Ap 11 '42 130w

Wis Lib Bul 38:48 Mr '42

SACKVILLE-WEST, VICTORIA MARY (MRS HAROLD GEORGE NICOLSON). Grand canyon. 304p $2.50 Doubleday [8s 6d Joseph, M] (W) 42-36349

Fantasy concerning America in the next war, date 1945. Germany is supposed to have won the present war, and the United States has been trapped into getting the peace signed. The action takes place in Arizona, in a hotel on the edge of the Grand Canyon, and in the never-never land at the foot of canyon, where the hotel guests retreat when the German invaders have bombed the hotel.

Reviewed by Wilson Follett

Atlantic 170:170 D '42 300w

Booklist 39:72 N 1 '42

"Approach the book as an imaginative reconstruction of a war to come and you'll agree that Mr. Wells could have made it twice as solid and a dozen times as plausible. Consider it from the point of view of what the author has to say and you'll find only a species of shell-shocked 'philosophy' which jumps and shudders and doubles back on itself every time you try to get hold of it. Look for characterization and you will find none worth mentioning. In the end you are bound to conclude that you've been led rather shabbily by the nose." J. H. Jackson

— Books p14 N 1 '42 800w

"As fantasy the book is not very interesting, because the events are too close to the present, and as propaganda in favor of loyalty to the English cause, it is a bit too late. The author has style and ability; one wonders why she has turned to a trivial exercise like this in the midst of a war which has forced the bitter cup of suffering on the whole English nation." N. E. Monroe

+ Cath World 156:368 D '42 220w

"In style, the book has distinction and great fascination in its skillful description and characterization; while in subject matter it is at least confusing and contradictory. Perhaps Miss Sackville-West had an idea, genuine, even tremendous, but did not know quite how to carry it through to an inescapable conclusion." M. W.

+ Christian Science Monitor p18 O 31 '42 700w

"Has obvious faults (perhaps through hasty writing) and yet, because of subject matter, remains a fairly interesting work. Recommended." H. G. Kelley

+ Library J 67:909 O 15 '42 70w

Reviewed by J. D. Beresford

Manchester Guardian p3 N 6 '42 150w

"This is Miss Sackville-West's political warning; in its own small way, as a message to America, it can only rank in impudence and bad

SACKVILLE-WEST, V. M.—Continued
taste with Mr. Luce's famous letter to England."

— Nation 156:31 Ja 2 '43 170w

"The moral is that an undefeated Germany is not a safe element in any peace; and the novel, to prove the point, is a very fantastic fantasy, delicately and suavely told, but with mystical fringes which will baffle and distract many a reader who agrees heartily with the author's thesis. . . . The combination of mystic and realistic treatment is a bit bewildering. It muffles the impact of this 'cautionary tale.' The reader cannot but applaud the author's intention to sound a warning and yet wonder at her method. The tale doesn't seem very tactful, very practical or very clear. Maybe an outright tract would have accomplished the purpose better." Beatrice Sherman

+ — N Y Times p18 O 25 '42 900w

"A rather unimportant effort of an important novelist."

New Yorker 18:82 O 31 '42 100w

Reviewed by Bess Jones

Sat R of Lit 25:7 O 31 '42 950w

Reviewed by Kate O'Brien

Spec 169:464 N 13 '42 200w

Spring'd Republican p7e N 8 '42 500w

"Miss Sackville-West has her moments, but she has not integrated the diverse elements of her fancy into an imaginative whole."

Times [London] Lit Sup p545 N 7 '42 480w

"It is a wilful book, with flashes of wisdom and beauty in it, but of a rather complacent unreality which annoys where it tries to entice." Robert Littell

— + Yale R n s 32:viii winter '43 90w

SAFFORD, HENRY BARNARD. Tory tavern.
389p $2.50 Penn

42-14357

Story of the American revolution. The hero is a Long Island lad, the rebel son of a notorious Tory family. After he has served three years on a British warship Roger is eagerly ready to fight for freedom even if his fighting does take the ignominious form of spying.

Reviewed by Lisle Bell

Books p17 Jl 12 '42 230w

"More a tale of adventure than any special contribution to historical research." H. A. Wooster

Library J 67:582 Je 15 '42 50w

"Any reader who has begun to feel lately, as any reader excusably might, that we have had too many novels interpreting the American Revolution in terms of our own day and our own political thinking, will find pleasure and refreshment in 'Tory Tavern.'" Margaret Wallace

+ N Y Times p7 Je 28 '42 800w

SAGENDORPH, KENT. Thunder aloft; U.S. air power today. . . tomorrow. 300p maps
$2.50 Reilly & Lee

358.4 Aeronautics, Military. U.S.—Defenses
(W) 42-9804

A series of informal, only partially inter-related chapters on air power and particularly American air power in the present conflict. Contents: Prophets without honor; This is the plan; How the eagle fights; The eagle's talons; Cracks in the armor; Between two oceans; The man with the newspaper; America on the defensive; "Lick Hell out of 'em!" The fighting man's balance sheet.

Booklist 38:380 Je 15 '42

"Chatty, lively, full of realistic detail, the book covers the whole subject of our air power. . . . Quite apparently, the author's main contacts are not with the public relations branches in Washington, but with the men in the field who do the actual building and the actual flying. 'Thunder Aloft' makes interesting reading now; twenty years from now it may be prime material as a faithful reflection of what was said," and thought around the flying fields in 1942." Wolfgang Langewiesche

+ Books p18 Je 7 '42 200w

SAINT EXUPERY, ANTOINE DE. Flight to Arras. 255p il $2.75 Reynal

940.544 World war, 1939—Aerial operations.
World war, 1939—France (W) 42-5807

"On one of the last days of May, 1940, Captain Antoine de Saint-Exupéry, with observer and gunner, was sent out on a reconnaissance flight over the German lines around the already burning town of Arras. The three men made one of the French Army's total equipment of fifty reconnaissance crews and one in twenty-three of its own group unit; but seventeen of the twenty-three had been destroyed in the past three weeks, and the proportion of safe returns from sortie flights averaged one in three when they were easy." (N Y Times) This is the author's account of that experience, written quietly and poetically, embodying his philosophy of life, death, and war.

Appeared on Best Seller list in: ALA (1) Books (23) N Y Times (3) PW (10) RB (3) W (1)

Reviewed by Edward Weeks

Atlantic Ap '42 100w

Booklist 38:249 Mr 15 '42

"'Flight to Arras' not only matches 'Wind, Sand and Stars' in edged beauty of expression. It is a deeper book, for it plumbs through the anguish of the suspense of death, of the strange exaltation of combat, to the desperate serenities of a defeat beyond even despair. It is difficult to think of another writer who so artfully—and ardently—unites the Homeric simplicity of action recounted in quickening images with the meditations of a mind all steady lucid flame. . . . A word, and more than a word, ought to be spoken about the extraordinarily fine and apposite gravure illustrations by Bernard Lamotte. The artist has not only caught the spirit of the text with wonderful fidelity and tact, but the illustrations themselves are serious works of art, recalling the best of France and modern French painting." Irwin Edman

+ Books pl F 22 '42 1450w

"Any reader who fell under the spell of Wind, Sand and Stars will find the same characteristic blending of factual realism and poetic vision in the present volume. . . . It is a heartbreaking story—never more heartbreaking than in its occasional glimpses of the futile evacuation to the south. But because of the magnificence of the human spirit at its best it is also a heartening story—and an illuminating story for Americans to read." Katherine Brégy

+ Cath World 155:247 My '42 360w

Cleveland Open Shelf p6 Mr '42

Reviewed by David Burnham

Commonweal 35:565 Mr 27 '42 850w

"Perhaps the greatest book of the year, for its beauty of phrase and its clarity of thought." M. C. Scoggin

+ Library J 67:893 O 15 '42 100w

Manchester Guardian p3 S 25 '42 300w

Reviewed by Margaret Marshall

Nation 154:286 Mr 7 '42 380w

Reviewed by Nigel Dennis

New Repub 106:372 Mr 16 '42 1150w

"Saint-Exupéry is a rare combination of technician, man of action and gifted introvert. In all the fields covered by these abilities he is a consummate descriptive writer. But in his intellectual conclusions he is less at ease. A tribute should be paid to Lewis Galantière who has translated the book with subtlety and discretion." Philip Toynbee

+ — New Statesman & Nation 24:245 O 10 '42 500w

"The observation and analysis of French defeat by the author of 'Wind, Sand and Stars' differs, of course, from similar essays in the simple, magnificent fact of being literature. And as, being literature, it moves naturally from the instant's sharp individual consciousness to the searching of all life, so it tacitly disdains all accusation save that which the soul may make in humility of its own shortcomings. As commentary the book is rich in brief significant moments which may well provoke long thought. . . . Lewis Galantière makes an adequate translation; and no spate of words could hold higher praise. Bernard Lamotte's acutely evocative illustrations are also worthy (again, no praise could be higher) of their place in a book which brings a vibrant and lasting contribution to civilization from France's tragic battlefield." Katherine Woods

+ N Y Times p1 F 22 '42 1000w

"Flight to Arras' is one of the few war books that, born of personal experience, rise above that personal experience, and, indeed, above the whole action of the war itself, to a level where only final questions are asked and final answers given. One cannot say that these questions and answers are necessarily meaningful to all, nor can one say that Saint-Exupéry has given them a perfect form. But he has made a truly noble attempt to think out his war experiences as a philosopher would, not as a soldier would, or a mere writer. 'Flight to Arras' is a credo, the credo of a fighting man to whom the ordinary reasons for fighting have proved unsatisfactory." Clifton Fadiman

+ New Yorker 18:67 F 21 '42 900w

Pratt p23 O '42

"This new book by the author of the highly poetic 'Wind, Sand and Stars,' is, of course, written in prose. But it is a poem, and I am right to call it a poem. It is a poem because of its overtones and undertones, of its phraseological agility, of its emphasis on mood, of its sensitiveness to impression and of its mystical depth. . . . Never in a book that I have read on this war has the whole overhanging pall of defeat, clogging action as in an evil dream, been more impressively drawn. It is done almost with gestures of trance; the weariness, the incoherence, the futility." W. R. Benét

+ Sat R of Lit 25:6 F 28 '42 1100w

Reviewed by Lettice Fowler

Spec 169:342 O 9 '42 470w

Reviewed by Leon Whipple

Survey G 31:214 Ap '42 850w

"Flight to Arras is the most important book yet written about this war. Like all Saint-Exupéry's books, it is a description of a flight. . . . But this particular flight, in which Saint-Exupéry faced death, he transmutes into a magic text, at times almost Biblical, of why men fight, and how they feel in the presence of death. . . . His perceptions are so sharp and deep, his language so pure, that most of Flight to Arras radiates poetry and a renewal of truth."

+ Time 39:88 F 23 '42 1250w

Times [London] Lit Sup p507 O 17 '42 850w

Wis Lib Bul 38:67 Ap '42

Reviewed by André Maurois

Yale R n s 31:819 summer '42 850w

ST JOHN, ROBERT. From the land of silent people. 353p $3 Doubleday

940.5349 World war, 1939—Balkan peninsula. World war, 1939—Personal narratives, American (W) 42-36014

An American Associated press correspondent describes his experiences during the Nazi campaign in the Balkans. At the time he and his fellow correspondents were unable to send a single dispatch, and were lucky to escape with their lives. As it was, some of them were wounded. The narrative, which shows plainly the horrors of Nazi warfare, begins from the day when Serbian nationalists rebelled at the compact signed by Prince Paul, and ends when Mr St John and two other correspondents reached Egypt, about a month later.

Appeared on Best Seller list in: Books (10)
PW (2) RB (1)

"If anyone wants to know what modern war can be, at its horrible worst, told without euphemisms and without reservations, but with a powerful sweep of imagination, horror, pity, and indignation, he should read this book. Offhand it is difficult to think of anything written about the present war that can match Mr. St. John's story of his tragic odyssey across Yugoslavia and Greece at the time of the German smash last spring." W. H. Chamberlin

+ Atlantic Mr '42 650w

Booklist 38:187 F 1 '42

Bookmark 3:12 Mr '42

"I believe that 'From the Land of Silent People' is so far the most exciting war story written by a foreign correspondent. The adventures of all the other war writers pale away in comparison with Robert St. John's in the Balkans. . . . The book does not make pleasant reading but the author did not intend it to be pleasant. Yet we all should read it, now that America is in the war. We can learn from Mr. St. John's story what war does to people who are not prepared for it, who have only human bodies to put up against steel, fire and explosives. . . . Painful as it is to read 'From the Land of Silent People,' its story is so vivid and quick moving, that one cannot lay the book aside. I read it breathlessly, though some chapters were full of almost unbearable suffering." Sonia Tomara

+ Books p5 Ja 11 '42 800w

"All this is told without going deeply into political problems, just as a human story presented in a dry matter of fact style. The war hysteria of terrorized people becomes a reality to the reader, while the author is fully aware how dubious he and his fellow reporters must appear before their tragical background. But because St. John himself does not write like a sensational copy writer but as a modest chronicler, his book will survive those of his more ambitious colleagues. When all the political wisecrackers shall prove démodé in style and short sighted in opinions, the grandeur of this factual report will survive. Without hesitation we emphasize that it is by far the best realization of war terror, in our times which we have read till now." Max Fischer

+ Commonweal 35:438 F 20 '42 450w

Reviewed by R. G. Woolbert

Foreign Affairs 20:777 J1 '42 50w

Reviewed by M. C. Scoggin

Library J 67:894 O 15 '42 30w

"Mr. St. John's moving and honest book is perhaps the grimmest piece of reporting yet to come out of the war. An eyewitness of the invasion of Yugoslavia and the evacuation of Greece, the author has put down 'all that I saw and heard and smelled and just a bit of what I thought,' and his story has the same quality of nightmare reality which makes unforgettable Ambrose Bierce's sketches of the Civil War. It is no book for people with weak stomachs." Keith Hutchison

+ Nation 154:169 F 7 '42 600w

"St. John's book is likely to be a best-seller. I hope it is a best-seller, because it gives vivid glimpses of the 'Wave of the Future' which will engulf and destroy our civilization unless an AEF marches into Berlin in time. I am sorry therefore that such a book, certain to excite the enthusiasm of the undiscerning, should prove so inadequate. Mr. St. John repeatedly insists that he merely means to report what he saw and smelled and heard. 'If it makes sense to you, all right,' he tells the reader. 'It makes no sense to me.' This kind of reporting is only a lame excuse for second-rate writing and the absence of convictions. By going beyond what he saw and smelled and heard, an artist like Ernest Hemingway—who is also a superlatively able and honest reporter—gives us a really convincing and moving picture of the horror of indiscriminate blood-letting. Mr. St. John slips too often into the oh-boy-it-made-me-sick-at-the-stomach school of writing, embellished by the intrusion at fixed intervals of a little girl, a little boy or even a little dog." J. T. Whitaker

+ New Repub 106:244 F 16 '42 1200w

"Robert St. John belongs to that group of American journalists who have lived through and felt deeply the strain of that European nightmare; who have, moreover, the art of recounting it to us with dignity, veracity and consummate skill. He is at his full height in telling us what he has experienced: his gift of recounting strikes at our hearts. If comparisons were not so lame, one would be tempted to cite Tolstoy's 'War and Peace' in attempting to express appreciation of the best pages in this book." Milos Safranek

ST JOHN, ROBERT—Continued
+ N Y Times p9 Ja 18 '42 1065w

"A bitter, vivid narrative of one of the darkest, least publicized chapters of the war."
New Yorker 17:67 Ja 24 '42 100w

Pratt p23 O '42

Reviewed by Stoyan Pribichevich
Sat R of Lit 25:8 Ja 24 '42 650w

"This book, more than any other, makes one aware of the price which Greece paid for being small and fearless, weakly armed and utterly faithful, Germany's enemy and Britain's friend. As St. John points out, to win the war and leave such things still possible would be a shame from which no people would deserve to recover." Kenneth Matthews
+ Spec 169:18 J1 3 '42 250w

"From the Land of Silent People' is in several respects a remarkable book. As an account of personal adventure it tops Richard Harding Davis, for its materials are so rich. As 'human interest' stuff it is of course almost intolerably moving. As military and political criticism of German, Yugoslav, Greek and British hits and errors, it is probing and luminous. But above all it is a terrific testimony regarding what modern war does to obscure, well-meaning millions, when the machine implements the hates of wicked leaders and penalizes horribly the stupidities or credulities of their foes."

+ Springf'd Republican p6 Ja 10 '42 750w
Times [London] Lit Sup p410 Ag 22 '42 1100w

"[This book] is so far the most vivid and moving human document this war has produced. . . In nothing that I have read since the war began is there anything like [Mr. St. John's] ability to take you along with him." W. L. White

+ Yale R n s 31:615 spring '42 650w

SALAMANCA, LUCY. Fortress of freedom; the story of the Library of Congress; with a foreword by Archibald MacLeish. 445p il $4 Lippincott

027.5 U.S. Library of Congress (W) 42-10055

"Tells the whole story of the Library of Congress from the days of Thomas Jefferson to Archibald MacLeish. Few names of significance are missing. . . Even though the author is primarily concerned with this particular library, she never forgets to show also the progress of American librarianship in general and to describe the background of life in the capital." N Y Times

Reviewed by H. E. Bourne
Am Hist R 48:374 Ja '43 490w

Booklist 38:341 My 15 '42

Bookmark 3:3 My '42

"An apt title for this timely history of the Library of Congress."

+ Commonweal 36:116 My 22 '42 100w

Reviewed by H. M. Lydenberg
Library J 67:619 J1 '42 1200w

"Miss Lucy Salamanca combines happily a number of important qualifications for telling the story of the Library of Congress. For she is both a writer in her own right and a librarian by vocation. She holds today one of the key positions in the Library of Congress, where she heads the inquiry and general research section of legislative reference service. Her job has given her a rich opportunity to watch the wheels go round in the national library. On the other hand, her contributions to newspapers, like The New York Times, and to many periodicals have made her understand the needs of the general reader. Lastly, her education in various countries has given her a fine sense of perspective. Her book reflects all these qualifications admirably. . . Not all readers will realize immediately how much genuine research has gone into this book. Miss Salamanca has apparently used the personal papers of many people connected with the history of the Congressional Library, including, for instance, Thomas Jefferson's correspondence; but she avoids intentionally the ponderous apparatus of footnotes by which many learned authors spoil the reading of their books." F. E. Hirsch

+ N Y Times p12 My 10 '42 1400w

Pratt p6 D '42

"Miss Salamanca's narrative does not over-stress antiquity. She brings her chronicle down to the present and the present librarian, whose foreword calls 'Fortress of Freedom' 'the first complete history of the Library of Congress.' Complete is an all-out word; Miss Salamanca could have told a longer, more detailed, more abundantly documented story. But, 'Fortress of Freedom' will bring home to Americans the scope, function and value of one of their most prizeable possessions." J. T. Winterich
Sat R of Lit 25:17 Je 13 '42 700w

Wis Lib Bul 38:82 My '42

Reviewed by Donald Wing

Yale R n s 32:204 autumn '42 350w

SALE, RICHARD. Lazarus #7. 299p $2 Simon & Schuster

42-6837

Detective story.

Reviewed by Will Cuppy

Books p18 Mr 22 '42 150w

Reviewed by Elizabeth Hull

Boston Globe p15 My 20 '42 100w

Reviewed by Mort. Post

New Repub 106:470 Ap 6 '42 110w

"The motive, which is probably unique, ties in perfectly with the general atmosphere of Hollywood as the author has pictured it. There is romance in the story as well as crime, and both have the accepted Hollywood touch." Isaac Anderson

+ N Y Times p14 Mr 22 '42 200w

New Yorker 18:80 Mr 14 '42 40w

"Good."

+ Sat R of Lit 25:19 Mr 14 '42 40w

SALE, RICHARD. Passing strange; a story of birth and burial. 304p $2 Simon & Schuster

42-18665

Detective story.

"Sensational is the word for 'Passing Strange.' Some of the scenes have a big mystery impact. If we were one to carp, we'd say that Mr. Sale might have omitted some of the desperate words he uses for shock." Will Cuppy

Books p12 Ag 16 '42 230w

"Good."

+ Boston Globe p19 Ag 10 '42 30w

Reviewed by Isaac Anderson

N Y Times p17 Ag 16 '42 160w

Sat R of Lit 25:16 Ag 22 '42 50w

"Full of surprises, slick dialogue, strange people."

Time 40:116 S 7 '42 50w

SALERA, VIRGIL. Exchange control and the Argentine market. 283p $5.50 Columbia univ. press [14s King]

337.0982 Argentina—Commerce, Foreign exchange 41-12851

"A study of a neglected sector of recent international commercial policy—British bilateralism vis-à-vis Argentina—of its unfavorable effects on American trading interests, and of possible means for improving the American position in the Argentine market." (Am Econ R) Bibliography. Index.

Am Econ R 31:894 D '41 40w

"The story that Salera tells is well worth telling, and the book represents careful research and competent analysis. It is unfortunate that the manuscript was not subjected to a rigorous editorial revision before publication. As it stands, the ponderous style oversteps even the standards charitably applied to doctoral theses." F. W. Fetter

+ — Am Econ R 32:383 Je '42 650w

Reviewed by R. G. Woolbert

Foreign Affairs 20:583 Ap '42 10w

"It is regrettable that Salera should have cloaked his carefully elaborated economic analysis in a particularly shabby raiment of expository style, idiom, and even grammar." H. S. Ellis

+ — J Pol Econ 50:777 O '42 850w

SALLANS, G. HERBERT. Little man. 420p $3.50 Humphries

This novel won the All-Canada Fiction Award. It tells the story of George Battle who served with the Canadian forces in the first World war and then returned to civilian life and the conflict with economic forces.

"Mr. Sallans oversimplifies the problems so freely that 'Little Man' might almost be read as a tract provided, say, by the National Association of Manufacturers. Every page of it, however, is marked by the simplest sincerity. Mr. Sallans is not an extremely wise man; but he is unmistakably an honest one." F. H. Bullock

+ — Books p8 Ja 3 '43 1050w

"This is the story of a family's, of a nation's and of a man's life. In the round it is not all emotion any more than it is all Western pioneering or all politics or all war. . . . You may find the beautiful cousin with the wonderful voice and the hateful personality difficult to take. You may even, like this reviewer, think her diablerie too complex for the story and dub her the novel's weakest link. But there will be nothing else to criticize. You will have found it a book that claimed your continuous attention to the last word and that will be thought about long afterward." J. S. Southron

+ N Y Times p7 D 27 '42 850w

SALTEN, FELIX. Forest world; English text by Paul R. Milton and Sanford Jerome Greenburger; il. by Bob Kuhn. 274p $2.50 Bobbs

(W) 42-50435

Animal story, contrasting the lives of the wild animals of the forest and the tame ones living in the barnyard. The connecting link is Martin, the hunchback, who had retired to his farm near the great forest, to live his life among the animals who loved him despite his ungainly appearance.

"The book is in one sense of the word, escape literature, but the escape is into the heart of life, not out of the business of living." M. L. Becker

+ Books p6 D 20 '42 600w

"Salten's philosophy and sincerity, no less than his deep knowledge of the forest and his love of animals, give reality to his personalized characters. His warm sympathy gives beauty to the forest world and his sparkling humor lightens its tragedies."

+ Horn Bk 19:40 Ja '43 100w

Library J 67:1068 D 1 '42 20w

New Yorker 18:59 D 26 '42 50w

Springf'd Republican p7e Ja 31 '43 200w

SALTEN, FELIX. Good comrades; tr. by Paul R. Milton; il. by Bob Kuhn. 251p $2.50 Bobbs (W) 42-36119

These "good comrades" are all animals—dogs, cats, birds, a rabbit, a cow, even an ant. The stories are short and understanding, told simply enough to give to children, but useful with adults also.

Reviewed by M. L. Becker

Books p10 Mr 8 '42 400w

"This is quite definitely an adult's book—but one not to be missed." E. G. K.

+ Canadian Forum 22:61 My '42 240w

"It has a singular simplicity and charm which lift it into the realm of art for all ages and, one is tempted to say, for the ages."

+ Christian Century 59:386 Mr 25 '42 120w

"From his refuge in Switzerland Felix Salten, author of 'Bambi' and 'Renni, the Rescuer,' sends this new group of animal sketches which speak with their old magic, with that sense of the oneness of nature and the unity of all living creatures which is his especial gift." Anita Moffett

+ N Y Times p23 Mr 22 '42 700w

SALTONSTALL, WILLIAM GURDON. Ports of Piscataqua. 244p il maps $3.50 Harvard univ. press [15s Oxford]

974.2 Piscataqua river. New Hampshire—History A41-4303

"The Piscataqua in New Hampshire is hardly a river at all in its lower reaches; it is more like an inland sea. Great bays and inlets spread on either hand, the fairway splits up into numerous channels, there is nothing regular or riverlike about it, and it is all tide water with rockweed growing around the shores. . . . Mr. Saltonstall has set himself the task of approaching this unique region from a strictly nautical standpoint; the turbulent and complicated history of New Hampshire stands in the background, but most of this history has to do with nautical affairs." Books

"'Ports of Piscataqua' covers all the ground; told with charm and dignity, it is historically and nautically sound yet carries a wide interest for the general reader." Lincoln Colcord

+ Books p15 Jl 12 '42 550w

"A valuable and enjoyable contribution to our sea history; the twenty well-selected illustrations and the excellent presswork go still further in making this a book well worth having at hand." R. G. Albion

+ New Eng Q 15:741 D '42 650w

SAMPSON, RICHARD HENRY (RICHARD HULL, pseud). Unfortunate murderer. 253p $2 Messner

42-6838

Detective story.

"With all his explosive ingredients, Mr. Hull doesn't go in for loud noises, just spins the story quietly and impressively." Will Cuppy

+ Books p10 Mr 15 '42 150w

"Bad writing, bad editing and bad proof-reading all combine to make difficult reading." Isaac Anderson

N Y Times p12 Mr 15 '42 180w

"Competently done."

Sat R of Lit 25:22 Mr 7 '42 40w

"It is pleasant to be able to salute the quality of freshness in a detective story; one feels that Mr. Hull had a good deal of fun writing it—a nice change in the genre whose producers seem as a rule to be pursued by Time's Chariot rather than to follow inspiration. The Unfortunate Murder has a fair and well-planned puzzle and goes with a swing." John Fairfield

+ Spec 169:134 Ag 7 '42 130w

Times [London] Lit Sup p225 My 2 '42 60w

SANDBURG, CARL. Storm over the land; a profile of the Civil war; with 60 halftones from phot. and 98 drawings, maps, and sketches. 440p $3.50 Harcourt

973.7 U.S.—History—Civil war (W) 42-23236

The story of the American Civil war "carved mainly from the pages of the four-volume book Abraham Lincoln: The War Years. . . . The author has rewritten some sections of the larger work for service herein, on occasion adding new text." (Pref) Index.

SANDBURG, CARL—Continued

Booklist 39:67 N 1 '42

"The book is not, as a whole, what it would have been had Sandburg written it all new from cover to cover. In places the stitching between the cuts is apparent, but the impressionistic story of the great war is there, and the men who peopled it come alive. The 98 drawings have been selected with an artist's eye and the 60 photographs, some of them most unfamiliar are as full of color and character as the text, arousing by their strength the suspicion that lens-portraiture has been declining ever since its birth." Lloyd Lewis

+ Books p7 O 25 '42 950w

Reviewed by Paul Hutchinson
Christian Century 59:1491 D 2 '42 250w
Christian Science Monitor p10 N 21 '42 90w

Reviewed by Wilfred Williams
Churchman 156:19 D 15 '42 180w

Reviewed by Paul Kiniery
Commonweal 37:48 O 30 '42 350w

Reviewed by M. C. Scoggin
Library J 67:893 O 15 '42 60w

Reviewed by Elizabeth Beal
Library J 67:958 N 1 '42 100w

"A swift and straightforward story which, while it lacks the magnificence of the original volumes, has dispensed with their formidable length and occasional turgidness." Margaret Leech

+ Nation 155:420 O 24 '42 800w

New Yorker 18:83 O 31 '42 60w

Reviewed by Allan Nevins
Sat R of Lit 25:3 O 31 '42 1100w

Reviewed by R. B. Scandrett, Jr.
Survey G 31:601 D '42 700w
Wis Lib Bul 38:162 N '42

SANDERSON, EZRA DWIGHT. Rural sociology and rural social organization. 806p il maps $4 Wiley

323.354 Sociology, Rural 42-22587

"A college textbook with an analysis of social structure based on the distinction between rural sociology as a science and rural social organization as a technology. A survey of environmental conditions is followed by a study of rural institutions, groups, and classes, and a discussion of rural social organization in relation to the great society. Library service is given a 12-page study under rural institutions." (Booklist) Index.

"Professor Sanderson's book opens with a lucid distinction between analysis and policy-making or reform. This distinction is needed particularly by beginners in sociology. Unfortunately the distinction is not maintained; reformistic and ethical remarks appear throughout the book. Nonetheless, the discussion of procedures for organizing groups and communities is more adequate than can be found in any other introductory book. . . This book will probably become the most popular text among those available. Its value as a text is enhanced by the community case studies in the appendix. The reviewer's judgment is that more students using Sanderson will take additional courses in the field, but that they will not be so well equipped with professional skills of sociologists." C. A. Anderson

+ Ann Am Acad 225:249 Ja '43 400w

Booklist 39:116 D 1 '42

SANDOE, MILDRED WILLIAMSON. County library primer. 221p il $2.25 Wilson, H.W.

027.4224 Libraries, County (W) 42-36258

"Experience in Ohio, a state which has county-wide library service, is the basis for this book covering financing, staff, bookmobile, branch, and mail service. The state survey which determined the library setup is described. Particularly valuable illustrative material in facsimiles of forms, code sheets, and costs as well as specifications, photographs, and plans of bookmobile. Librarians planning county service will profit by the work in Ohio; the 45-page list of recommended books, many in inexpensive reprint form, will be suggestive but not an absolute guide for other localities." Booklist

Booklist 38:419 J1 1 '42

"This book supplements Harriet C. Long's County Library Service published nearly two decades ago and now thought of as a brief account of the beginnings of public library service in the United States. Miss Sandoe's book is more extensive and it is also more specific than Ethel M. Fair's Countrywide Library Service [Book Review Digest, 1934]. . . The general make-up of the book is good and the style is pleasing. The information is stated clearly in a business-like way, and even a layman might find it an interesting treatise on public library service. As a whole, the book offers a distinctive contribution to library professional literature, and it will undoubtedly become a very useful reference tool especially in library schools." H. E. Vogleson

+ Library J 67:743 S 1 '42 1000w

"The County library primer would perhaps be more accurately titled Ohio county library primer, since it is essentially a handbook for Ohio-county librarians. A general county library primer would presumably contain a discussion of the fundamental principles of county library service, such as the features of an adequate county library law, would place more emphasis on the necessity for trained librarians, and would include a more universal description of the structure of county government. . . However, Miss Sandoe's County library primer will be of practical value and interest to both newcomers and veterans in the county library field for its account of the Ohio situation and the leadership of the state library, for its detailed information, and for the spirit of service which prompted its writing." M. R. Gillis

+ Library Q 12:867 O '42 1100w

Wis Lib Bul 38:132 O '42

SANDOZ, MARI. Crazy Horse; the strange man of the Oglaas; a biography. 428p $3.50 Knopf

970.2 Crazy Horse (Oglaa Sioux chief). Oglaa Indians, Indians of North America—Wars (W) 42-50340

Traces the life story of the Oglaa Sioux chieftain, Crazy Horse, from boyhood to his death in 1877. It is a story of troubled times between Indians and whites in Montana, when the buffalo herds were being depleted and the Indians were driven farther back toward the hills. The author says of the book: "In it I have tried to tell not only the story of the man, but something of the life of his people thru that crucial time."

"Miss Sandoz has now, with Old Jules and Crazy Horse, written two of the great stories of the West, and written them in the spirit of the sagas, with a scrupulous regard to truth and history." Wallace Stegner

+ Atlantic 171:140 Ja '43 270w

Booklist 39:199 Ja 15 '43

"The story of Crazy Horse is eminently worth doing. Miss Sandoz writes with vigor and feeling. For these reasons it is probable that many persons will greet this book as a masterpiece of its sort. Those who fancy they have insight into the ordinarily inscrutable soul of the Indian will doubtless be delighted with this performance. But not every one will feel this way. This reviewer, for example, who yields to no one not even Miss Sandoz, in admiration for the Plains Indians and in fascination at their history, found it exceedingly tough going. To be blunt about it, the book is hard to read. The reason for this is that the gifted Miss Sandoz tries to write and think as a Sioux of the period of Crazy Horse would think and write." Stanley Walker

+ Books p4 N 29 '42 1600w

"Language is simple and ideally suited to the tale. Recommended for adults who desire to know truth concerning treatment of the Indians by the whites." H. P. Bolman

+ Library J 67:951 N 1 '42 110w

"Here is a glorious hero tale told with beauty and power; and although it is hardly flattering to our breed, it belongs to us; for this is the story of a great American who exemplified in the raw stuff of life with which he had to work, the fundamental virtues that we wish our sons to have in this our time of trial." J. G. Neihardt

+ N Y Times p4 D 20 '42 900w

"A book that is half history, half heroic epic, and not entirely successful as either. Crazy Horse was doubtless a great, if inevitably doomed, leader, but his story is told so completely from his own point of view that it seems to belong as much to the literature of apologetics as to the literature of biography. Whenever she is able to extricate herself from the quagmire of detail Miss Sandoz writes with great drive and passion—more, perhaps, than the average reader will think the theme deserves. Unquestionably, her book, the product of studious labor, will rank among the important records of the history of the American Indian." Clifton Fadiman

+ — New Yorker 18:100 D 5 '42 320w

"A full-bodied and historically accurate book, which seems likely to remain the standard work on its subject. Competent research and skilled writing combine to make a most readable volume." Stanley Vestal

+ Sat R of Lit 26:20 Ja 2 '43 650w

Reviewed by E. G. Eastman

Springf'd Republican p6 D 14 '42 1150w

SANDWELL, BERNARD KEBLE. Canadian peoples [Eng title: Canada]. (World today) 128p il $1.25 (3s 6d) Oxford

971 Canada—History. National characteristics, Canadian (W) 41-19791

Brief outline of the development of Canada, and a survey of the racial composition and the geographical distribution of its eleven million inhabitants.

"The book is probably intended as an introduction to Canada for readers abroad, but it contains much that is suggestive for Canadians as well." R. G. Riddell

+ Canadian Hist R 23:328 S '42 220w

Reviewed by R. G. Woolbert

Foreign Affairs 20:385 Ja '42 20w

Manchester Guardian p3 F 10 '42 200w

"Mr. Sandwell's able summary describes the forces that shape Canadian life and give that life a character different from either Britain or the United States. He tends, perhaps, to dwell too long upon Constitutional questions, but that, in its way is a very Canadian habit. His treatment of the French-Canadian is discerning and sympathetic."

+ — New Statesman & Nation 23:99 F 7 '42 250w

"This [book] is a brilliant success. The problems of Canada are complex, and to illustrate their complex character without breeding despair in the reader takes gifts of a high order. These gifts Mr. Sandwell abundantly displays. He weaves the historical, geographical and economic strands together with great skill, and his statistical illustrations are admirably illuminating."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p515 O 18 '41 480w

SANGSTER, WILLIAM EDWIN. Christian has wings; a Christian commentary on democracy's war aims. 153p $1.50 Abingdon-Cokesbury

940.531 World war, 1939—Religious aspects 41-25696

"Out of his experiences in a London air-raid shelter this pastor of Central Hall, Westminster, reviews the key words of a number of prominent statesmen of today, as Roosevelt's 'new order', Churchill's 'security', Mackenzie King's 'democracy' et al, and finds that in these aims a new and better world is not an assured outcome, but only as the gift of God, in the preaching of the Cross, brings mankind into a better life." Churchman

Christian Century 58:1513 D 3 '41 110w

Churchman 156:31 F 15 '42 70w

SANTAYANA, GEORGE. Realms of being; one-volume edition; with a new introd. by the author. 862p $4 Scribner

191 Ontology. Philosophy. Truth. Soul 42-36200

Omnibus volume containing the four volumes originally published as The Realm of Essence; The Realm of Matter; The Realm of Truth; and The Realm of Spirit (Book Review Digest, 1927, 1930, 1938, and 1940). Index.

Booklist 38:371 Je 1 '42

"It is a matter of singular convenience to the reader to have this closely integrated matter close together. Perfection it would have been to have also in the collection the volume introductory to these four volumes, i.e., Scepticism and Animal Faith. But that would have been perfection-plus in an age where perfection, like pulchritude, runs to the slender. This volume is, after all, the right size, and for its size the right price at last. Mr. Santayana takes his place now with other philosophers in a presentation of his doctrine for which relatively prosperous people can pay, a price on the modest side of the preciousness that can be purchased with money." T. V. S.

+ Ethics 52:506 Jl '42 1500w

"One of the most important reprints of the year." E. L. Tinker

+ N Y Times p26 N 22 '42 80w

SAPIEHA, VIRGILIA (PETERSON) ROSS (PRINCESS PAUL SAPIEHA). Beyond this shore. 348p $2.50 Lippincott

(W) 42-36074

The story of an American girl, married to a Polish diplomat and living in Austria and Poland during the last years before the outbreak of war.

Booklist 38:234 Mr 1 '42

"The author knows the European scene she describes very well. Though the actual situation is a little conventional, the background is interesting and authentic. Society abroad... Nina's family here... Stash's family in Poland, all come to life. There is an amusing incident, excellently done, of how Nina disputes with a German official at a dinner party, and the implications of the moment. The contrast between life here and life abroad, the pull between two ways of life are well set down." Rosemary Benet

+ Books p2 Mr 1 '42 450w

Reviewed by Sister Mariella, O. S. B.

Commonweal 35:539 Mr 20 '42 280w

Reviewed by Dorothy Reading

Library J 67:131 F 1 '42 80w

"Although one would wish that she had chosen a less humorless and more sympathetic heroine—although one misses the lightness of touch which 'Polish Profile' possessed and which this book does not—'Beyond This Shore' is, on the whole, an interesting novel, one that is written with feeling and intelligence. It dramatizes skillfully, and quite unsensationally, the conflict between the two viewpoints, two cultures, two worlds. That it is clearly in part autobiographical is nothing in its disfavor, though, because she is so good a writer, one hopes that the Princess, in her next book, will break new ground." E. H. Walton

+ — N Y Times p6 Mr 1 '42 950w

"Readable, human, and unobtrusively topical."

+ New Yorker 18:59 F 28 '42 90w

Pratt p13 O '42

SARGEANT, HENRY ANTONY, and WELLS, GEOFFREY HARRY (GEOFFREY WEST, pseud). Grand strategy. 246p $2 Crowell [8s 6d Cape, JJ]

355.01 War. Strategy. Economic policy 41-24419

For descriptive note see Annual for 1941.

"On the whole, the book presents in stimulating form commonly held ideas and generally accepted facts. Its authors state that the occasional references in the text and the thirty notes added to it bear no relation to the considerable and specialized research and experience of which it is a result. As a guide to present grand strategies and their evaluation as means to an end, Grand Strategy should be useful to the student and teacher of courses related to the present war." George Manner

+ Am Pol Sci R 36:367 Ap '42 550w

Reviewed by D. P. Barrows

Ann Am Acad 221:207 Mr '42 450w

"Being Britishers, the authors are influenced by the British point of view, but their book, despite the perhaps unintentional presentation of British answers to many moot questions, gives rise to numerous interesting surmises." F. L. O.

Christian Science Monitor p10 F 21 '42 600w

"This thoughtful little book abounds in new ideas and suggestive interpretations." R. G. Woolbert

+ Foreign Affairs 20:773 J1 '42 80w

"The book gives an impression of immaturity, as if the writers had hardly thought out their ideas. On the other hand, they have a great deal to say that is interesting and timely, and the vigour and spirit with which they write are attractive in later chapters, where they are less overwhelmed by their subject. Their book may be described as a stimulating experiment."

+ Manchester Guardian p3 Mr 18 '42 80w

Reviewed by Quentin Bell

New Statesman & Nation 23:112 F 14 '42 850w

"Grand Strategy" is, as its authors rightly make clear, only a preliminary and tentative study. The theme—an exciting and significant one—is necessarily simplified and generalized, and some of its vast implications may not be immediately grasped; but for all that, 'Grand Strategy' is a first-class and essential job of work, completely done, and healthily disturbing."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p50 Ja 31 '42 850w

SARGENT, DANIEL. All the day long: James Anthony Walsh, cofounder of Maryknoll. 259p il $2.50 Longmans

B or 92 Walsh, James Anthony, bp. 41-26029

For descriptive note see Annual for 1941.

Reviewed by B. L. Conway

Cath World 154:761 Mr '42 550w

"To convey to a reader who never knew him the flavor of such a person is almost impossible; difficult; in this I am afraid that Mr. Sargent has not succeeded. But to say that is not seriously to criticize his book, for to have expected success would have been to have expected too much. At least—and that is a great deal—he recites the facts with charm and understanding; for that he deserves our gratitude." H. L. Binsse

+ Commonweal 35:420 F 13 '42 700w

Wis Lib Bul 38:46 Mr '42

SARGENT, PORTER EDWARD. Getting U S into war. 640p $4 Sargent

940.5373 World war, 1939—U.S. U.S.—Politics and government. Propaganda, British. 41-7544

"A voluminous compilation of handpicked quotations and data, together with the author's interpretation of them, constituting a campaign manual for isolationists." Foreign Affairs

"This is a valuable source book for students of propaganda and social control." Read Bain

+ Am Soc R 7:566 Ag '42 700w

"Mr. Sargent is a phenomenon beyond all dispute. A Harvard esthete who has tracked rare Oriental jades and porcelains in the far corners of the earth, during the last quarter-century he has become the outstanding authority on the state of education in the private schools of the United States. The greater the surprise, therefore, to see him burst forth in this war as a flaming pamphleteer in the Sam Adams tradition, covering the nation with bulletins whose main refrain is that which waked the farmers of Lexington and Concord, 'The redcoats are coming!'" Paul Hutchinson

Christian Century 58:864 J1 2 '41 600w

"I believe the book is still worth the reading as a lesson for the future. Both its truth and its error now shine brilliantly from the light of December 7. It reveals the terrible confusion within the extreme camps during America's war of nerves. It illustrates the failure to distinguish between expediency and morality. On the positive side, it contains facts and statistics which we need now more than ever if a just peace is to follow." Emerson Hynes

Commonweal 35:325 Ja 16 '42 500w

Reviewed by R. G. Woolbert

Foreign Affairs 20:379 Ja '42 20w

SAROYAN, WILLIAM. Fables; with il. by Warren Chappell. 1td autog ed 89p $7.50 Harcourt

41-24505

"Some of these fables are, in their narrator's words, 'old Armenian stories remembered by his relatives from the Old Country, set down in very simple English.' There are also several 'about a number of young and old Armenians of his home town, Fresno, Calif., set to paper here for the first time in any language.'" Books

"It takes more than melodious lines of 18-pt. Caslon Old Face with the sustaining accompaniment of just right margins; more than this curious running scroll that sets the title across the foot of every page; more than woodcuts in sepia, to make a book, in times like these, worth the price of a limited edition. What the general reader thinks about all this beauty of page is that it is worthy of the words on it, which is, after all, what it should be. Some of these fables sound as familiar as Grimm. Some were basically old stuff to Boccaccio... But no other fabulist manages to be at once so clear-sighted about the human race and so fond of it." M. L. Becker

+ Books p2 Ja 25 '42 450w

Time 38:98 N 17 '41 550w

SAROYAN, WILLIAM. Razzle-dazzle: frontispiece by Arthur Szyk. 505p $3.50 Harcourt 812

(W) 42-12443

Sixteen short plays, ballets, vaudeville acts, with introductory essays on their composition. Contents: Elmer and Lily; The great American goof; The poetic situation in America; Opera, opera; Bad men in the West; The agony of little nations; A special announcement; Radio play; The people with light coming out of them; There's something I got to tell you; The ping-pong players; The hungerers; Hello out there; Coming through the rye; Talking to you; Subway circus; Curtain, or the happy ending.

Booklist 38:382 Je 15 '42

"There is no escaping the fact that the majority of the plays and prefaces in 'Razzle Dazzle' are worthless for the theater and not very impressive in the library. Yet for those who find an inescapable fascination in the strange, undisciplined and engaging talent that is William Saroyan such a collection has its value. For even in the worst of them—and 'The Great American Goof' is very bad indeed—there still is that remarkable vitality, sense of excitement and instinctive feeling for democracy which are so characteristic. To those who are skeptics about the Saroyan qualities, on the other hand, it might have been just as well if most of these short works had been discreetly tossed away." Richard Watts, Jr.

Books p13 Ap 19 '42 950v

Library J 67:533 Je 1 '42 50w

Reviewed by Clifton Fadiman

New Yorker 18:74 Ap 18 '42 200w

Pratt p18 O '42

Reviewed by George Beiswanger

Theatre Arts 26:488 Jl '42 500w

"Saroyan writes like a fancy diver. Like a diver, he can never revise his act in mid-air. His best impulses have an extraordinary daring, purity and liveliness. But sometimes they fail to come off, or are brought off only by a fake twist. Like some comedians and jazz musicians, Saroyan is creating a warm and genuine popular art. The question is whether fancy diving can ever become sustained and serious flight."

Time 39:95 Ap 27 '42 500w

SASSO, JOHN. Plastics for industrial use; an engineering handbook of materials and methods. 229p $2.50 McGraw

668 Plastic materials (W) 42-25131

Data on the properties of materials and methods of fabrication of modern plastics. Principal types are examined and methods of working them described. A final chapter includes trade names, suppliers, and molders. The book is of interest to engineers chiefly. Index.

Booklist 39:133 D 15 '42

Chem & Met Eng 49:169 D '42 150w

Library J 67:953 N 1 '42 20w

"Sasso's text will be of interest only to engineers." Waldemar Kaempffert

N Y Times p35 N 22 '42 100w

SASSOON, SIEGFRIED. Weald of youth. 259p $2.75 Viking

B or 92 Authors—Correspondence, reminiscences, etc. 42-24274

Continuation of the autobiographical study begun in The Old Century and Seven More Years (Book Review Digest, 1939). The present volume takes the author thru the years 1909 to 1914, covering the period of his early literary publications, and ending with his thoughts on the outbreak of the first World war.

Reviewed by Elizabeth Drew

Atlantic 170:177 D '42 330w

Booklist 39:200 Ja 15 '43

"In parts the book is a self-portrait in a tower of mirrors, yet because of its beauty it succeeds in creating a world that will last in men's minds, and what lasts in their minds is brick and porphyry for rebuilding by builders still unborn, of other races and other classes. The earth remains unaltered, and all men are begotten strangers and yet see themselves in each other. Unimportant details in 'The Weald of Youth' will find grateful readers and students for a long time when again we read at the slow pace this book demands." Euan Evans

+ Books p2 D 6 '42 850w

"The book suffers from the drifting indecision of the period it records. But if the mental interest is slight, he is delightfully skilled as a 'stereoscopic memoriser' of the 'minute of mortality,' whether in the cricket field or at a point-to-point or at a party at the Edmund Gosses' or as a fellow-guest with Rupert Brooke at breakfast. The idle, privileged world of which he writes seems ghostly now, but these gentle and artful revisitations of it distil the essence of a still unsophisticated youth. All the details of the picture are beautifully composed." H. P. A. F.

+ Manchester Guardian p3 O 28 '42 230w

Reviewed by George Barker

Nation 156:138 Ja 23 '43 480w

"In 'The Weald of Youth' Mr. Siegfried Sassoon continues to write about a world that is doubly dead with such delicate precision and brooding charm that the seventeen chapters approach the plane of poetry. Not, heaven forbid, prose poetry with its purple patches, but that substance of poetry that is sometimes implicit in the regretful remembering of things and ways long past—Blake's 'lost traveler's dream under the hill,' as it were." Herbert Gorman

+ N Y Times p32 N 1 '42 950w

"Not the least skillful and subtle thing in this new book of Mr. Sassoon's subtle and humorous self-portraiture is the way in which he distinguishes the young Siegfried, moving towards poetry and war, from the Sherston of his early essays in a more arranged autobiography. It is amusing to see how well the Siegfried Sassoon of today can remember and understand the young Siegfried, top-hatted, tail-coated, spatted, of thirty years ago." R. E. Roberts

+ Sat R of Lit 25:7 N 28 '42 400w

Reviewed by Edmund Blunden

Spec 169:436 N 6 '42 750w

"The whole certainly is carefully composed, the pictures are harmonious, and the biographer, to whatever inward turmoils the spectacle of another war has subjected him, remains outwardly unfussed."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p529 O 31 '42 1400w

SATURDAY EVENING POST (periodical). Post biographies of famous journalists; ed. by John Eldridge Drewry. 518p $3 Univ. of Ga.

920.5 Journalists 43-64

Biographical sketches of some twenty American journalists written by other American journalists and first published in the Saturday evening post. Among the subjects are: Ben-narr Macfadden, O. O. McIntyre, Edgar Guest, Arthur Brisbane, Dorothy Thompson, Westbrook Pegler, Walter Winchell, Ed Howe; among the authors: Alva Johnston, Stanley Walker, Forrest Davis, J. P. McEvoy, Tom Wallace.

"The writing is vigorous in motion and sharp in perception. What is more, the twenty-two subjects, while by no means representative of the working press, are diverse enough in every way to provide a clear topside view of the modern newspaper business. The real creators are here; so are the stooges and trained seals." R. H. Rovere

+ Books p26 D 13 '42 1050w

"The one certain thing the book proves is that the journalists who are the editors of the Saturday Evening Post know a good nickle's worth (a dime now) of biography when then see it. There may be no works of art here included; there are also no works of dullness. Indeed, our journalists as presented by our journalists are as lively material for our reading as our politicians or our prize fighters—as even our gangsters ever were. The world in which they worked might be moving from depression to war but those who shaped our copy made good copy themselves." Jonathan Daniels

+ Sat R of Lit 25:8 D 12 '42 850w

SATURDAY EVENING POST (periodical). Post stories of 1941; Wesley Winans Stout, editor. (v7) 384p $2.50 Little

Short stories—Collections (37-27266)

Contents: Afternoon off, by Glenn Allan; Let there be honour, by Kay Boyle; Angel-Face, by J. C. Beckett; Monarch the bum, by G. A. Chamberlain; Helen, thy beauty is to me, by John Fante; A smattering of bliss, by Virginia Faulkner; An egg for the major, by C. S. Forester; Sit in the sun, by Zachary Gold; Miss Bronska, by Gene Henry; To whom it may concern, by Edward Hope; It's a free country, by Colin G. Jameson; Breeze o' wind, by Alexander Key; The Yorkshireman flies again, by Eric Knight; A kiss for Mr Lincoln, by L. K. Mable; Tolerance, by Ray Millholland; Six P.M., P.S.T., by Eddy Orcutt; The wedding gift, by T. H. Raddall; Somebody has to be nobody, by Budd Schulberg; Weep no more, my lady, by James Street; You could look it up, by James Thurber; Time and a half for a hero, by Doug Welch; Spitfire squadron, by Arch Whitehouse.

SATURDAY EVENING POST--Continued

Booklist 38:385 Je 15 '42

"Here are twenty-two stories by as many different writers done finely to the taste of the many readers of Ben Franklin's old magazine. Most of them have a dash of humor and a pinch of sentiment, and all of them are distinguished by professional craftsmanship. If one or two of them seem a little too sweet syrupy to the sophisticated palate, that is really no objection in these days of sugar rationing." Milton Hindus

Books p8 My 24 '42 750w

Boston Globe p19 Je 3 '42 100w

SAUCIER, WEEMS AURELIUS. Theory and practice in the elementary school. 537p il $3.25 Macmillan

372 Education of children 41-26095

"Aims to show how each of the ordinary subjects of the elementary school can be so taught through 'meaningful experiences' that broad comprehension, insight and integration in learning are the result. May be useful as a text for a course in methods of teaching in the elementary school." (School & Society) Index.

"The book is to be heartily recommended for elementary-school teachers whether or not they approve of progressive practices. For those who already have accepted the viewpoint presented in the book, the discussion will give an opportunity to explore some of the basic principles and the facts underlying them. For those who hold to the traditional viewpoint, the book will present some very cogent facts and arguments for re-examining their practices." Hilda Taba

+ El School J 42:472 F '42 1250w

School & Society 54:628 D 27 '41 50w

SAUER, LOUIS WENDLIN. From infancy through childhood. 200p il $2 Harper

649.1 Infants--Care and hygiene. Children--Care and hygiene 42-9416

"A good, up-to-date, authoritative and simple manual for the guidance of mothers. Author is a well-known pediatrician in Chicago." (Wis Lib Bul) Short vocabulary list. Index.

"Concise, well arranged and practical handbook for parents which answers the questions most frequently raised in the care of babies and young children. It includes up-to-date material on vitamins and balanced diets and on the various immunization procedures." R. A. Bolt

+ Am J Pub Health 32:378 Ag '42 200w

Wis Lib Bul 38:94 Je '42

SAUTHOFF, HERMINE ELIZABETH. Tap dance for fun; music by Norman Lloyd; photography by James G. Meyers. 94p $2.50 Barnes, A.S.

793.32 Tap dancing 42-3705

Manual for teachers and experienced pupils, containing routines for dances, given in symbols. Includes photographs of posture and movement, and music for tap dances.

Booklist 38:248 Mr 15 '42

Cleveland Open Shelf p15 Jl '42

SAVAGE, ALMA HELEN. Dogsled apostles. 231p il $2.75 Sheed

266.2 Roman Catholic church--Missions. Missions--Alaska 42-25451

"Development of Catholic missions in Alaska in the last half of the nineteenth century shown in the work of the individual priests and nuns, and patterned around the life of Bishop Crimont. There is some incidental information about Alaska, its history, native peoples, and animals, but chief interest and value is the tribute to the work of a zealous and faithful group in a country that Pope Pius XI called 'the hardest mission.'" (Booklist) Short bibliography. Index.

Booklist 39:131 D 15 '42

"The book contains a number of fine original photographs, but the lack of anything in the nature of a map, limits its interest provokingly."

Cath World 156:370 D '42 110w

"In 'Dogsled Apostle,' Miss Savage not only brings the missions of Alaska to us, but brings us to the missions of Alaska. With the turning of the pages we unveil a great picture painted in bold true strokes, of the conquest of a vast-strange land by the faith of fearless men. . . The whole story of Alaska is in this book, for the history of the territory, with its growth and development, is inextricably tied up with the work of the missionaries, who were its true founding fathers." R. C. Riggs

Commonweal 37:282 Ja 1 '43 650w

SAVORD, RUTH, comp. American agencies interested in international affairs. 200p $2 Council on foreign relations

327.06 International cooperation

"Directory of the many institutions, societies and committees in the United States that deal in one way or another with international affairs and that in the great majority of cases have ideas and aims arising from the needs of the post-war world." Current Hist

Booklist 39:64 N 1 '42

"Excellentlly arranged and informative directory." Alvin Adey

+ Current Hist 3:454 Ja '43 110w

SAVORY, GERALD. Hughie Roddis. 292p $2.50 Alliance bk.

42-7966

Story of an idiot boy, of the world of dreams in which he lived, and of how that world is shattered by the stupidity and prejudice of people who should have known better.

"Despite the Hogarthian grimness of much of this tale, it does not fail of interest. Its characterizations are refreshingly real. . . I think we may expect from the author more novels in a style that is quite his own, out of an observation as kind as it is acute." Donald Corley

+ Books p10 Ap 19 '42 600w

"The limpidity of Mr. Savory's style is exactly suited to his method of mirroring rather than directly describing regional 'folk' idiosyncrasy. . . It is a story buttressed by strength and made exquisite by tenderness." J. S. Southron

+ N Y Times p7 Ap 26 '42 700w

"A compassionate tale. . . The vague mental processes of the idiot are well and convincingly handled on the whole, and the subject induces pity rather than revulsion."

+ New Yorker 18:86 Ap 11 '42 40w

SAWYER, RUTH (MRS A. C. DURAND). Way of the storyteller. 318p $2.50 Viking

372.214 Story telling (W) 42-36136

Chapters on the art and philosophy of story telling, based on the author's own experience, and on the folk tale spinners of different countries, including a born teller of stories from Ireland who was Miss Sawyer's nurse. The second section of the book has a collection of selected stories from Ireland, France, Spain, Russia, and Hungary. Reading list. Index.

Booklist 38:268 Ap 1 '42

Bookmark 3:5 My '42

"Here is a book that belongs not only in adult literature but in its alcove reserved for books that will be classics in their line. Yet I can review it on the page devoted to children's books because it is for children's delight, though addressed to those elders through whom this delight will be communicated. Briefly it is the best book about the way to tell a story (with several good stories to tell) that I have ever read." M. L. Becker

+ Books p5 Je 28 '42 350w

"Galleys of The Way of the Storyteller assure me even before I've done more than take a glimpse that here is a book I shall place beside Anne Eaton's Reading With Children to be read and reread by my students in familiar association with their own discoveries among books—their authors and illustrators." A. C. Moore

+ Horn Bk M 18:117 Mr '42 50w

"Behind this fine book lies not only a life-long association with the best in literature, but the fruits of scholarly research in folk lore, as well. It could hardly be Ruth Sawyer's book if it did not tell a story. This holds the adventure of her mastery of her art. She is generous in sharing so vividly the rewards gathered through listening to folk tales told supremely well, in Spain, Ireland and France and in her American childhood home, by her incomparable Johanna." A. M. Jordan

+ Horn Bk M 18:182 My '42 240w

"Ruth Sawyer's latest book is as invigorating as a wind blowing over the Spring meadows. . . Here is a book that not only story-tellers but parents, teachers, librarians, all adults interested in children and in the development of sensitive, perceptive individuals, will find indispensable." A. T. Eaton

+ N Y Times p8 My 3 '42 700w

Pratt p6 D '42

Wis Lib Bul 38:83 My '42

SAXBY, CHARLES. Death wore roses. 253p $2 Dutton

41-26009

Detective story.

"The author takes his lush and lurid background none too seriously. It was all 'desperately Spanish—Spanish till it hurt,' says he of the festive scene. In another place he observes, 'In movie-ridden California everything is slightly phony.' Mr. Saxby is a deft hand at swinging a puzzle in that kind of set-up." Will Cuppy

+ Books p16 Ja 25 '42 120w

Reviewed by Isaac Anderson

N Y Times p12 Ja 4 '42 240w

"High class."

+ Sat R of Lit 25:16 Ja 3 '42 40w

Springf'd Republican p7e Ja 18 '42 150w

SAXBY, CHARLES. Even bishops die. 250p $2 Dutton

42-17638

Mystery story.

Reviewed by Will Cuppy

Books p9 S 6 '42 150w

Reviewed by Isaac Anderson

N Y Times p17 Ag 16 '42 240w

"Straight-laced clergy, Col. Blimpish islanders, sultry ladies, native witchcraft, armorous intrigues, and violent deaths satisfactorily mixed. Passable."

Sat R of Lit 25:16 Ag 15 '42 40w

SAYERS, CHARLES MARSHALL. Book of wood carving; a text for beginners; il. with phot. of work by the author, students, and apprentices. 118p il $5 Caxton printers

736 Wood carving (W) 42-7538

A book on the technique of wood carving especially designed for the beginner. General chapters are followed by detailed instructions for executing a number of designs, all employing only four tools.

Booklist 38:305 Ap 15 '42

"Stimulating both by spicy text and large photographs showing every point in processes described. [Illustrated with] designs of actual work by the author—a famous teacher and craftsman—and his students and apprentices. These commend themselves by beauty, ease and a flowing quality adapted to the medium: only four tools are employed."

+ Books p26 S 20 '42 130w

Wis Lib Bul 38:65 Ap '42

SAYERS, DOROTHY LEIGH (MRS ATHERTON FLEMING). Mind of the Maker. 229p $2 Harcourt [6s Methuen]

201 God, Creation (literary, artistic, etc.), Christianity—Philosophy 42-597

The first of an English series of books which will attempt "to interpret a new and very radical attitude to life which [the editors] discern on the horizons of the near future." (Manchester Guardian) This book by the author of some well-known detective stories assays to explain the nature of God, in his capacity of the Creator, by analogy with the creative activity of the human mind.

Booklist 38:225 Mr 1 '42

"To understand what is really involved in this analogical concept, and how it reaches from the Athanasian Creed to the latest blueprint of peace after the war, or to the latest play or symphony, one must read Miss Sayers' own brilliant exposition of her thesis. Much of the book is a discussion of literary problems, in the last chapter, the detective-story technique, which will delight every student of literature. But it is the theologian who will perhaps derive entire satisfaction from these pages, since here he finds a demonstration that the creeds of the Church are not the product of fine-spun speculations of superstitious minds, but of profound understanding of what life is and how it works." J. H. Holmes

+ Books p23 Mr 1 '42 440w

"This book will help everyone's theology, provide many illustrations for literary sermons, and give all readers an enjoyable evening or two." R. C. Miller

+ Churchman 156:17 Mr 1 '42 240w

"Miss Sayers, author of really distinguished detective stories, and an enthusiastic High Anglican, has given us a surprising book, aimed at illustrating the doctrine of the Trinity by an analytical study of man's creative activity in art and particularly in imaginative literature. Gratifying as it would be to find in her work a contribution to the analogical aspect of Trinitarian theology, this reviewer is obliged to state that Miss Sayers' results, in spite of her zeal and intelligence, are dubious and obscure, as far as her main purpose is concerned. Her discussion of creative writing, however, is often keen and suggestive." T. L. Riggs

+ Commonweal 35:572 Mr 27 '42 600w

Reviewed by Edwyn Bevan

Hibbert J 40:202 Ja '42 1000w

"It was with some misgiving that this reviewer opened a book by his favorite detective-story writer on a subject which appeared to be philosophic. Although it was a sunny, Saturday afternoon the book commanded attention until the last page was read. This is an absorbing study of creative thinking. . . This is not a book for professional theologians, philosophers, and writers alone. It is fascinating reading for any thinking person whether he agrees with it or not. The writing is superb." K. P. L.

+ J Philos 39:307 My 21 '42 330w

"Anyone but Miss Sayers would make all this heavy going—indeed, there are passages where she herself is exceedingly difficult, and, unfortunately, most of them come at the beginning,—but she makes it all a pleasure by her extraordinary skill in literary illustration and her criticisms of the examples she is always providing. Over and over again she illustrates a point by an analysis of a piece of her own work. The book of hers she most often uses for this purpose is 'Gaudy Night,' and one reader at least will go back to that book and read it once more, but with a fresh understanding." R. L.

+ Manchester Guardian p3 Ag 1 '41 380w

"Whether Miss Sayers is right in her abstraction or I am wrong in carping at it, the fact remains that her thesis is extremely well conceived and her exposition of it in the terms of the orthodox doctrine of the Trinity at once dramatic and persuasive. No more hocus-pocus here than in her tales of detection." Jacques Barzun

SAYERS, D. L.—Continued

+ Nation 154:238 F 21 '42 750w

Reviewed by John Cournos

N Y Times p29 S 27 '42 460w

"[This] is a dangerous analogy, and it is not made less dangerous by Miss Sayers' very personal approach and the importance she obviously attributes to her own work. On page 94, rather in the manner of Professor Lowes, who traced the literary sources of Coleridge's inspiration in The Road to Xanadu, Miss Sayers analyzes her own 'sources of power': by way of Job, Isaiah, the Psalms, Milton, Keats and Browning—we reach a rather over-written passage from her detective-story called The Nine Tailors. Nor is one impressed with the happiness of her self-criticism when she detects 'a hymn to the Master-Maker' in Whose Body?"

Spec 167:190 Ag 22 '41 170w

"'The Mind of the Maker' is fascinating reading for anyone who has ever wondered how a book gets written, but it should delight especially those who combine a lively curiosity about the creative process with at least some acquaintance with and interest in Christian theology. The comparison between God and man as creators is soundly conceived and carried through and it raises questions of more than academic interest to all of us. It is hardly necessary perhaps to add that whether Miss Sayers is discussing literary heresies by theological analogy or explaining the dangers inherent in viewing everything as a problem to be solved rather than as a work to be made, she writes with wit and distinction."

+ Springfield Republican p7e F 15 '42 600w

"Anyone who has attempted even in humble fashion, to write creatively, must admit the aptness of Miss Sayers's analysis and must confess that, for persons who have had experience in this field, it illuminates the Christian dogmas in a rich and novel way."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p382 Ag 9 '41 1450w

SAYERS, MICHAEL, and KAHN, ALBERT
EUGENE. Sabotage! the secret war against America. 266p il $2.50 Harper

940.5405 World war, 1939—U.S. Sabotage.
World war, 1939—Propaganda (W) 42-22041

"This book uncovers sensational evidence of the techniques and plans of Axis saboteurs operating in the United States. Told by two journalists who have won a nationwide reputation for their investigations into fifth-column activities, and carefully documented with hitherto-unpublished data, this book reveals the amazing ramifications and devious workings of the secret Axis offensive against American war production and morale." (Publisher's note) Index.

Appeared on Best Seller list in: Books (11)
N Y Times (16) PW (2) RB (2)

Reviewed by J. S. Roucek

Ann Am Acad 225:228 Ja '43 500w

Booklist 39:47 O 15 '42

Bookmark 4:12 N '42

"Sabotage is so obviously a state of policy of our enemies in this war, rather than the auxiliary weapon it was in the World War, that we shall do well to acquire more than a superficial knowledge of its workings. A flood of books on the subject is inevitable. Messrs. Sayers and Kahn are among the first since Pearl Harbor to seek to bring the evidence up to date, and although their work is uneven they succeed in making out a case that both convinces and horrifies. They deserve a million readers and even if they get only one-hundredth as many they still will have done a great deal of good." W. A. Roberts

+ Books p3 S 20 '42 1000w

"The material in this book is not new. It has all appeared in papers and magazines in one form or another. But here it is collected in an effective manner and its sober, factual presentation shows a terrible lack of foresight or responsibility or loyalty on the part of some Americans." R. H. M.

+ Christian Science Monitor p20 O 21 '42 500w

Cleveland Open Shelf p21 N '42

Reviewed by Russell Fraser

Current Hist 3:258 N '42 800w

"'Sabotage' is an absorbingly interesting book, one which deserves to be widely read and deeply pondered. Not all the information in it is new: much will already be familiar to attentive newspaper readers. But some of the most important material in the book will not be, and new and old are here woven together into the first coherent and comprehensive account we have had of what the authors call the 'secret war against America.' . . . It is a damning indictment, an appalling story, perhaps as important a story as any that can be told today, a story we must remember throughout the war, and by no means allow ourselves to forget afterward. Michael Sayers and Albert Kahn tell it well and, on the whole, thoroughly, though they miss some cues. . . . But, even with its omissions, 'Sabotage' is one of the most important war books we have had so far."

+ New Repub 107:472 O 12 '42 950w

"The first part of the book . . . strangely enough, reads more like a comic-strip thriller than the thoroughly documented story it really is. But, terrifying as it is, it seems minor to the second part of the book, which covers psychological sabotage." Frederick Graham

+ N Y Times p5 S 20 '42 1350w

SCANDRETT, RICHARD BROWN. Divided they fall; a plea for unity. 76p $1 Harper
940.5373 World war, 1939—U.S. 41-22875

An essay written before December 1941, in which the author refutes the arguments of the isolationists and those opposed to aid for Britain. Mr. Scandrett is a nephew of the late Dwight Morrow, a lawyer, and president of Survey Associates, publishers of Survey and Survey Graphic.

"Though written before the entry of the United States into the war . . . this little tract is still pertinent to the main issue—what is to be America's world role in the future?" R. G. Woolbert

Foreign Affairs 20:574 Ap '42 40w

"A book like Mr. Scandrett's reviewing the developments of the last quarter of a century and bringing into high relief its significant features, is calculated to perform an important service, and should clarify the thinking of all but those who seem determined not to understand." W. A. Neilson

+ Survey G 30:703 D '41 500w

SCHACHER, GERHARD. He wanted to sleep in the Kremlin. 261p $2 Reynal

940.5347 World war, 1939—Russia 42-18131

"For many years Dr. Schacher lived in Czechoslovakia and observed for British newspapers the methods of the Nazis. He knows why and how Hitler's mad plans to invade Russia came about. . . . Important and very interesting reading for Americans." Dr Jan Masaryk in preface

Booklist 39:9 S '42

Reviewed by W. R. Deuel

Books p8 J1 19 '42 750w

Cleveland Open Shelf p13 J1 '42

SCHACHNER, NATHAN. King's passenger. 413p $2.75 Lippincott

(W) 42-14078

A novel based on the history of Bacon's rebellion in Virginia in 1676. The hero is a young English aristocrat, unjustly convicted of treason, whose sentence is commuted to deportation to Virginia. He comes over in the ship that brings Nathaniel Bacon to the New World and becomes in time Bacon's secret co-worker in the revolt against a transplanted tyranny of corrupt and greedy English officials.

Booklist 38:442 J1 15 '42

"The King's Passenger" is historical fiction as Americans have come to love it. Full, salty, vigorous, defiantly true and unadorned, it is as rewarding entertainment as one could hope to find." A. B. Tourtellot

+ Books p2 My 24 '42 850w

"Good background novel with satisfactory plot, though love story is not very convincing. Some frank passages." G. W. Hill

Library J 67:476 My 15 '42 70w

"Any one interested in the technical aspects of the historical novel will find amusement in comparing 'The King's Passenger' with 'Man Cannot Tell,' [Book Review Digest, Ap 1942] a recent novel by Philip Lightfoot Scruggs on the same theme. . . The impression they leave with the reader is strikingly dissimilar. To draw the distinction roughly, the weight of sober scholarship lies with Mr. Scruggs; while Mr. Schachner, beyond all argument, bears the palm for color and violence and sheer excitement." Margaret Wallace

+ N Y Times p21 My 17 '42 900w

SCHAFFTER, DOROTHY. State housing agencies. 808p $7.50 Columbia univ. press 331.833 Housing—U.S. 42-19459

"A comprehensive history of state housing agencies as a background for a reorganization of the present system of furnishing governmental aid to housing. She concludes 'that immediate steps should be taken to insure full state participation in the public housing program.'" (Social Studies) Bibliography, p. 691-783. Index.

Reviewed by C. S. Ascher

Am Pol Sci R 36:1167 D '42 600w

"The book's usefulness is limited by its shortcomings of organization, especially the very large amount of detail. Documentation is considerable, but inadequate as to form. A ninety-two-page bibliography is composed mainly of references to bills, statutes, appropriation acts, and agency reports. Supporting economic and general political materials are also lacking. The book contains much useful information and an able presentation of a point of view." H. M. Groves

+ Ann Am Acad 225:248 Ja '43 400w

Social Studies 33:335 N '42 50w

"Although the author includes a history of the legislation on which each state program is based, her approach is primarily that of the student of administration. She has taken a magnifying glass and scrutinized the personnel, the budgets, the promises and the achievements. In presenting her findings she has pulled no punches. . . A gold mine of information for the student of housing administration will be found in the sixty-five tables and charts." I. S. Robbins

+ Survey G 31:442 O '42 330w

SCHATTSCHEIDER, ELMER ERIC. Party government. 219p $1.75; text ed $1.25 Farrar 329 Political parties—U.S. U.S.—Politics and government (W) 42-2229

"This book is a hard-headed and realistic analysis of certain factors in the American party system. Professor Schattschneider is no dull describer of the multitudinous details in the formal structure and organization of political parties. . . There is, first, a brief justification of political parties because of their very substantial contributions as entrepreneurs in the democratization and simplification of a complex governmental and social system. . . Chapters IV, V, and VI, comprising approximately one-half of the volume, portray the basic factors in the actual operation of party government. . . Professor Schattschneider believes that the most significant features of the American major party is its decentralization." (Am Pol Sci R) Selected bibliography. Index.

"Although no material errors have been noted, a somewhat repetitious style and the frequent use of the symbols (1), (2), and (3) might well have been avoided." T. S. Barclay

+ Am Pol Sci R 36:552 Je '42 600w

"Dr. Schattschneider has written a provocative analysis of party government in the United States. The author need offer no apology for an additional volume on this subject, for he has not traversed the ground covered by conventional textbook writers. His treatment is original, stimulating, and engaging, and will be fully appreciated by students with at least an elementary knowledge of American political institutions." Belle Zeller

+ Ann Am Acad 221:199 My '42 500w

Bookmark 3:5 My '42

"This is a book which should be read by everyone interested in understanding the politics of modern America. Certainly it should be required for students under a tutelage designed to reveal the inner sense of American democracy, although it is far from a traditional textbook. . . The analysis of the meaning and role of the party is made with a freshness, penetration, and realism which stamp the work as an unusually able contribution to political thinking." J. P. Horlacher

+ Social Studies 33:184 Ap '42 320w

SCHATZMANN, IMAN ELSIE. Country school at home and abroad. 233p il $1.50 Univ. of Chicago press

379.173 Rural schools 42-36120

First hand studies of rural schools in five European countries, Iceland and the United States, before the World war. It attempts to show how the people of Switzerland, Denmark, Sweden, Iceland, England, Italy and the United States have improved their methods in country schools, and contains historical and statistical material. Bibliography. Index.

Booklist 38:268 Ap 1 '42

Christian Century 59:355 Mr 18 '42 70w

"The Country School: At Home and Abroad, is informal and readable. The style is charming and the format unusually attractive. Each chapter is richly illustrated. The book is a real contribution to the literature of rural life and education, useful for teachers at work, for students in teacher-preparing institutions, for normal-training high schools, for rural-school supervisors and superintendents, and for lay people who are interested in helping to improve rural communities. It is one of the few books that describe the education of different countries in the nontechnical terms of people, schools, homes, and children's experiences." E. G. Bathurst

+ El School J 42:550 Mr '42 1350w

J Home Econ 34:386 Je '42 90w

School & Society 55:252 F 28 '42 70w

SCHAUFFLER, ROBERT HAVEN. New and selected poems. 197p $2 Dodd

811

(W) 42-7566

Contains thirty or more new poems as well as poems chosen from the author's earlier volumes and revised for this republication.

"This reviewer has long cherished one of the Schaffler's anthologies, The Poetry Cure. But he is also a poet in his own right, not great but good. His skill with words, including an uncanny gift for fluent versification and punctual arrival at the rhyming note without apparent effort, gives a quality of expertise to all his work. But he does not take it too seriously."

+ Christian Century 59:498 Ap 15 '42 100w

"Mr. Schaffler enjoys putting lines and rhymes together. They are easy on the ear and they scarcely touch the mind." P. M. Jack

N Y Times p4 Mr 29 '42 200w

SCHELLING, FRIEDRICH WILHELM JOSEPH VON. Ages of the world; tr. with intro. and notes by Frederick de Wolfe Bolman, jr. 251p $3 Columbia univ. press

111 Ontology 42-15925

"After spending his youthful impetus in a series of works which form the historical link between Fichte's and Hegel's idealism, Schelling entered upon a new stage of his intellectual development. He now strove to crown the 'negative philosophy,' Fichte's and Hegel's rational idealism and his own earlier system, with a 'positive philosophy.' The new system was to overcome the as yet unreconciled duality of idealism and realism and to uncover the true principle of identity. In order to escape the vicious circle of ideal possibilities which debars the idealist from grasping reality, Schelling found it necessary to establish a discontinuous relationship between God and creation, existence and essence, and to describe the primordial Being as Will, revealed by the free act of creation. Professor Edgar S. Brightman is probably right when he assumes, in his Foreword to the present edition of the Ages, that it is the philosophy of his mature manhood and old age which may make Schelling a vital impulse to our own thought." (J Philos) The Ages of the World was begun in 1811, and first published after Schelling's death, in 1854. Bibliography. Index.

Am Hist R 48:389 Ja '43 20w

"For many students of philosophy, Schelling has been a vague middleman between Fichte and Hegel. In regard to his earlier and more familiar writings, this evaluation was probably right. The publication of this translation of one of his later works, with the aid of a clear and able introduction by the translator, makes his position more significant. Dr. Bolman's introduction is highly technical, and his translation is a fairly literal rendering of a metaphysical treatise. Amateurs may find it hard going. As a contribution to the modern problems of theology and metaphysics, Schelling's Die Weltalter should be considered seriously." R. C. Miller

+ Christian Century 59:1220 O 7 '42 600w

"A highly welcome contribution. The translator has discharged his duties competently and with a meticulous attention to the various aspects of his difficult task. The reviewer, comparing page after page of the translation with the original, found a number of sentences where a somewhat different phrasing or a different choice of terms would have seemed to him preferable. But nowhere did the disagreement have an important bearing on the meaning of the passage, and in almost every case excellent reasons presented themselves which might justify the translator's decision. . . . In short, the students of Schelling in the English-speaking countries are greatly indebted to Mr. Bolman for his fine and scholarly work." Helmut Kuhn

+ J Philos 39:586 O 8 '42 600w

SCHERER, JAMES AUGUSTIN BROWN. Thirty-first star. 371p il $3.50 Putnam

979.4 California—History. California—Politics and government. Frémont, John Charles 42-19961

A history of the two decades which witnessed the fight to make California a state and to bring her influence and wealth to the Union's side in the Civil war. The story is told largely in biographical terms dealing with persons prominent in the struggle: Senator Thomas Hart Benton of Missouri, his daughter Jessie, and her husband John Charles Frémont, William M. Gwin, Thomas Starr King, and Albert Sidney Johnston. Index.

Booklist 39:47 O 15 '42

"Dr. Scherer has a way with history; his scholarship is careful, but he does not allow the strictures of factual narrative to master him. Time and again he is willing to pause for a bit of color, an anecdote that contributes to the development of his central theme. . . . The result is a sometimes pleasantly discursive, always amiable rendering of the history in the case, a book which the general reader, not necessarily a Californiac, should find both entertaining and enlightening." J. H. Jackson

+ Books p19 S 13 '42 1000w

Library J 67:683 Ag '42 30w

SCHERER, PAUL EHRMAN. Place where thou standest. 176p $1.50 Harper

252 Sermons 42-15286

Twenty-five sermons by the minister of the Church of the Holy Trinity (Lutheran) in New York City.

Reviewed by J. H. Holmes

Books p18 Jl 12 '42 300w

"Praise of the compactness of these sermons must not divert attention from their more important qualities—the tone of high conviction, the vigor of expression, the courageous grappling with the real problems of thought and life, and the high intelligence with which these problems are faced. This is preaching!"

+ Christian Century 59:732 Je 3 '42 70w

Reviewed by A. L. Murray

Churchman 156:20 S 15 '42 300w

SCHERF, MARGARET. They came to kill. 265p $2 Putnam

42-18287

Detective story.

Reviewed by Will Cuppy

Books p12 Ag 16 '42 200w

"A story filled with amusing dialogue and puzzling situations. What matters most of all is that we have the rare privilege of meeting Dr. Mitton, one of the most entertaining amateur detectives in the fiction roster. There are indications that we are to hear from him again, and it can't be too soon." Isaac Anderson

+ N Y Times p15 Ag 9 '42 240w

"Good."

+ Sat R of Lit 25:16 Ag 15 '42 40w

SCHILDER, PAUL. Goals and desires of man; a psychological survey of life [ed. under the supervision of Lauretta Bender]. 305p $4 Columbia univ. press

131.34 Psychoanalysis. Life. Death 42-15409

"When Dr. Paul Schilder died prematurely in 1940, he had been director of the psychiatric division of Bellevue hospital, New York, for a decade, and before that one of the leading psychiatrists of his native Vienna. He had also published parts of a projected six-volume work designed to give a unified view of the whole realm of psychology. The present posthumous volume is one of the series. It is an unsystematic treatise, dealing in disconnected chapters with such topics as sex in its various aspects, sadomasochism, morals, economics, ideology. Its full implications will be clear only to those who are thoroughly familiar with the technical concepts of Freudianism. Dr. Schilder's own 'post-Freudian' point of view is especially evident in the chapters on death, aggression and work." (Christian Century) Bibliography. Index.

Christian Century 59:1153 S 23 '42 190w

"Since these ideas actually help human beings, there must be some truth in them. The question is: how much truth and what kind? The present reviewer is inclined to believe that psychoanalysis is at present in its imaginative stage and that the critical period will perhaps come later. Certainly imagination runs riot on some of these pages under discussion. Perhaps that is necessary before the really arduous testing and critical process can begin." J. S. Bixler

Crozer Q 20:69 Ja '43 650w

"Recommended for large or college libraries, but case studies may put it in closed-shelf class. Examine before purchase." L. M. Kinloch

Library J 67:532 Je 1 '42 80w

SCHILLER, A. ARTHUR. Military law and defense legislation; with a foreword by Edward C. Betts. 647p $5 West

355 Military law. Courts martial and courts of inquiry. U.S.—Army—Recruiting, enlistment, etc. Civil rights 41-20822

"The first chapter, 'The Constitutional Extent of Military Power,' includes 30 cases in addition to extracts from the Constitution, the federal statutes, Army Regulations, opinions of the Attorney General and the Judge Advocate General, and Executive Orders. . . . Entitled 'The Army of the United States,' the second chapter is the longest in the book. It begins with an introductory section on liability to military duty, with which is coupled some rather sketchy material on the organization and composition of the army. Then follow sections which deal with the Regular Army, Army Personnel, and National Guard and Reserve Forces. The section on Conscription concludes this chapter. . . . 'Military Law Proper,' Chapter 3, deals with the materials which have been included in the conventional and traditional courses in military law. . . . The final chapter is entitled 'The Soldier's Civil Rights.'" Columbia Law R

"Although the volume contains a large amount of material other than judicial opinions, the question may legitimately be raised whether the subject is not one which calls for an even greater departure from the typical casebook pattern. Many cases which reach obvious conclusions and others which are of only historical interest, having been overruled might well have been omitted and their substance set forth in far less space. Nevertheless, this timely volume will undoubtedly enjoy a wide adoption and help fill a real need in law school instruction." J. R. Pennock
+ Am Pol Sci R 36:1166 D '42 600w

"As law schools respond to the need of the times and offer a course in military law they cannot do better than to adopt this volume." B. F. Boyer

+ Columbia Law R 42:178 Ja '42 1850w

"Professor Schiller has prepared a useful collection of cases, one that will be a valuable addition to any library of military law. It is distinctly not a bad book. But a little more study, a little more soaking in the sources, would have made it a very much better book, and a more useful and reliable guide for the novice." F. B. Wiener

+ Yale Law J 51:1047 Ap '42 900w

SCHILPP, PAUL ARTHUR, ed. Philosophy of Alfred North Whitehead. (Library of living philosophers) 745p il $4 Northwestern Univ.

192.9 Whitehead, Alfred North 42-4532

A volume of essays on the philosophy of Alfred North Whitehead. "The contributors . . . include Victor Lowe, Willard V. Quine, F. S. C. Northrop, E. B. McGilvary, Joseph Needham, Percy Hughes, W. M. Urban, A. D. Ritchie, A. E. Murphy, William Ernest Hocking, Roy Wood Sellars, John Goheen, Bertram Morris, J. S. Bixler, Charles Hartshorne, Paul A. Schilpp, Henry W. Holmes, and John Dewey. Whitehead himself supplies a few very modest autobiographical remarks and two hitherto unpublished lectures entitled 'Mathematics and the Good,' and 'Immortality.' Finally, there is a bibliography of Whitehead's writings from 1879 to 1941." (Sat R of Lit)

"In this work Professor Schilpp carries forward his unique and highly important plan of presenting the great philosophers of today through the eyes of their philosophical contemporaries with opportunity for those discussed to reply to their critics. . . . The plan has been halley on every hand as a magnificent idea, setting forth interpretations, comments and questions by competent specialists and allowing clarification, correction and valuable restatement by the master himself. Eighteen friendly critics contribute to this volume, but unfortunately Professor Whitehead was unable on account of ill health to write the answers to the 660 pages of reflection upon his system. In his own handwriting, however, appears his observation that this 'is but a slight loss' since philosophy does not primarily involve agreement or dissent but consists rather in the enlargement of thought toward wider points of view. To such enlargement Whitehead himself contributed substantially." E. S. Ames

+ Christian Century 59:430 Ap 1 '42 950w

Reviewed by S. P. Whitehouse
Hibbert J 41:93 O '42 1300w

Reviewed by Sidney Hook
Nation 154:401 Ap 4 '42 1800w
Pratt p20 O '42

"The book makes no attempt to serve as an introduction to Whitehead's philosophy, but rather presumes a knowledge of it for critical purposes. The essay by Victor Lowe, however, deserves special commendation for describing the development of Whitehead's thought. The kindly Dewey handles brilliantly and constructively what he believes to be the central aspect of Whitehead's philosophic enterprise. Other contributors whose articles perhaps stand out from the others as being of particular interest are Northrop, McGilvary, Urban, Ritchie, Murphy, Hocking, Sellars, and Holmes. . . . In general, the volume compares favorably with its predecessors, on Dewey and Santayana, and maintains the high level of philosophic writing which has come to characterize this Library." Robert Bierstedt

+ Sat R of Lit 25:12 F 7 '42 550w

School & Society 55:56 Ja 10 '42 70w
Times [London] Lit Sup p165 Mr 28 '42 360w

SCHLAUCH, MARGARET. Gift of tongues. 342p il $3.50 Modern age

400 Language and languages (W) 42-13302

A survey of linguistics written for the layman. "Here will be found 'a revelation of some of the poetry and romance in language studies, and an exposition of some of the more practical benefits which may be derived by teachers and learners from these same studies.'" (Scientific Bk Club R) Index.

Booklist 38:363 Je 1 '42

Bookmark 3:5 My '42

"There is a need for a popular introduction to the whole science of linguistics, and 'The Gift of Tongues' does much to fill the need. Professor Schlauch's book is attractively written, sprightly in its choice of examples and illustrations, and on the whole admirably successful in hitting the mean between oversimplification and overelaboration." H. N. Doughty Jr.

+ Books p16 Je 7 '42 550w

"Readers of recent popular books on semantics will enjoy this book, though parts of it are technical. The concluding chapters on such subjects as the language of contemporary poets, social aspects of language, taboos, and class speech, are the most readable for laymen. Recommended for college and larger public libraries." Rice Estes

+ Library J 67:318 Ap 1 '42 60w

Reviewed by James Orrick
Nation 155:422 O 24 '42 40w

"After the vulgarizations of Chase, Hayakawa and the Basic Englishmen this engaging book comes as a proper reminder that there is more to language than semantics and synonyms. At the same time Professor Schlauch leaves little room for the notion of a philologist as a dusty pedant pursuing through the mazes of Ablaut and svarabhakti. . . . And she lets the Grammarian lie safely where Browning buried him. She has much learning, but carries it gayly. Her approach is genuinely humanistic and rational; and though her treatment of some subjects may be summary, it is always sound." J. A. W. Bennett

+ New Repub 107:61 Jl 13 '42 1000w

"It is rarely that one comes across an academic treatise so lively, so easy to read, and so full of meat and meaning as 'The Gift of Tongues.' Dr. Schlauch's essay gives, to the unlearned, a succinct, well-arranged history of the origin and growth of speech. Her

SCHLAUCH, MARGARET—Continued
range is enviably wide; her examples are apt and witty; she lists her authorities in excellent appendices, and her work has a tolerance and sense not always found in writings of those whose field of study is commonly regarded as narrow. In short her book is another monument to the truth that no field of study is narrow if the student is broad-minded." R. E. Roberts
+ Sat R of Lit 25:3 My 9 '42 1050w

School & Society 55:596 My 23 '42 30w

"Realizing that 'the educated reader with an unprofessional, merely casual interest has not yet received the kind of book he deserves,' Miss Schlauch proceeds to give him one. It is safe to prophesy that his interest will be quickened beyond mere casualness, almost from the first paragraph, into a desire to know more of his own and other languages. . . It is the type of book that offers myriad temptations to quote; it is replete with interesting examples of words whose derivations and travels from country to country through the years give a far more cosmopolitan idea of language than even the semi-initiated might suppose." A. H. Compton & others
+ Scientific Bk Club R 13:1 Ap '42 1450w

SCHMIDT, JAMES NORMAN (JAMES NORMAN, pseud.). Murder, chop chop. 267p $2 Morrow

42-2017

Detective story.

Reviewed by Will Cuppy
Books p16 Ja 25 '42 210w

"If you are in search of comedy and mystery rolled up in one neat package, this is the book for you." Isaac Anderson

+ N Y Times p21 Ja 25 '42 240w

"Nice plot, which unfortunately develops into light entertainment only."

+ New Yorker 17:64 F 7 '42 50w

SCHMIDT, KARL PATTERSON, and DAVIS, DELBERT DWIGHT. Field book of snakes of the United States and Canada; with plates and drawings by Albert A. Enzenbacher. 365p $3.50 Putnam

598.12 Serpents (W) 41-25180

Manual on the snakes of the United States and Canada, in which the authors state that "we have placed particular emphasis on life history, habits, behavior, and ecology. Description has been restricted to what is necessary for identification of specimens." (Pref) Brief notes on all species and sub-species are included, with 82 photographs from life, four colored plates, and 103 drawings. Index.

Booklist 38:153 Ja 1 '42

"The lack of a field guide to snakes has long made a conspicuous gap in Putnam's famous series of pocket nature guides. The closing of the gap by this book, a model work of its kind, is a triumph for American reptile study. The senior author, Karl P. Schmidt, has a superb knowledge of American reptiles based on professional experience of thirty years; D. Dwight Davis, his collaborator, is an anatomist with a special interest in snake behavior." C. H. Pope

+ Books p14 Ja 25 '42 630w

SCHMITT, BERNADOTTE EVERLY, ed. Some historians of modern Europe; essays in historiography by former students of the Dept. of hist. of the Univ. of Chicago. 533p $5 Univ. of Chicago press

928 Historians 42-3309

"Professor Schmitt has here gathered together the fruits of several years of historiographical seminars at the University of Chicago. There are essays on twenty-two modern historians whose work is too recent to be included in the historiographical writings of Gooch and Fueter and about whom, therefore, there have hitherto existed few sources of biographical information beyond 'Who's Who' and university and library catalogues, and only scattered critical writings." Sat R of Lit

"The book fills a definite gap in our available literature and should be of interest to any student in the field of modern European history or of historiography." Hans Kohn

+ Ann Am Acad 222:201 Jl '42 400w

"Substantial and very informative volume. . . It will probably make the authors wince and blush: although I am not one of the craft I did enjoy most of these very serious essays." Albert Guerard

+ Books p12 Ag 9 '42 750w

"The writing, if undistinguished, and savouring occasionally of the graduate seminar, is usually unpretentious and direct, and marred only in rare instances by such samples of jargon as 'the Spanish people were geared to a psychology of failure after the 1898 debacle.' And if one confesses to a preference for the essays on Ashley, Croce, and Halévy, that is, in part at least, because of the perhaps superior interest of the work of their respective subjects. Will Dr. Schmitt give us another volume on another twenty-two?" H. N. Fieldhouse

+ Canadian Hist R 23:210 Je '42 1500w

Reviewed by R. G. Woolbert
Foreign Affairs 20:576 Ap '42 30w

Reviewed by Jacques Barzun
Nation 154:404 Ap 4 '42 480w

New Repub 106:774 Je 1 '42 40w

Pratt p14 O '42

"Merely as a work of reference, then, this book is of great value. The essays, each by a different hand, are of surprisingly uniform competence. Although the sources are often slender, there is something about the personality and character of each historian. His works are carefully listed and his place in the guild of historians estimated. All in all, an excellent job of teamwork." Crane Brinton

+ Sat R of Lit 25:6 F 7 '42 380w

"A very valuable addition to historical literature."

+ Social Studies 33:144 Mr '42 20w

SCHMITT, GLADYS (MRS SIMON GOLD-FIELD). Gates of Aulis. 652p $2.75 Dial press (W) 42-14052

Carl Hasselmann, an American teacher of German descent, is the central character. The scene is a large industrial city, probably Pittsburgh. The Hasselmanns as a family are prone to sacrifice themselves for others in one way or another. Carl gives up a normal life to study the question of world chaos and its cure; his sister, a painter of note, gives herself to two lonely but essentially worthless lovers. Thru the medium of Ellie's remembrance of things past, other members of the family who were brought to 'the gates of Aulis' are faintly visualized.

"From a passionate love and study of writing, as well as out of a remarkable talent for it, Miss Schmitt has achieved something quite remarkable in her first novel. It is no detriment to its quality, to its intensely individual flavor, to say that it is full of echoes. . . 'The Gates of Aulis' is a passionately sensuous and gravely emotional story of the love of one girl and of one man for each other, for other men and women and for humanity." Iris Barry

+ Books p4 My 3 '42 950w

"Gladys Schmitt is a genius and with one novel has stepped into the very first rank of American writers." Harry Sylvester

+ Commonweal 36:164 Je 5 '42 900w

"Many passages of fine, sensitive, and powerful writing indicate promising career for author." R. D. Minnich

+ Library J 67:268 Mr 15 '42 70w

"Miss Schmitt's first novel is serious and ambitious. Its manner heavily obscures its merit, but if you stand well back from it and manage to see through its verbiage and its lumpy lyricism, you cannot help finding it in some ways admirable." Lionel Trilling

+ Nation 154:547 My 9 '42 1000w

"Miss Schmitt's writing is astonishingly good, a tactile and heightened prose that is rare enough in modern writing and unbelievable in a first novel. . . The book is poetic in the sense that numerous passages insist on being quoted." S. E. Hyman

+ New Repub 106:643 My 11 '42 1000w

"Any novel which departs so far from the norm as this novel of Miss Schmitt's is almost bound to lay itself open to criticism on several scores. There is always a question of whether characters so taut and high-keyed can be emotionally convincing, and whether extreme subtlety and deviousness do not defeat their own ends. In 'The Gates of Aulis' I for one was bothered by the excessive articulateness of the author's every character, and by what seemed to me, on occasion, to be an extravagance of emotion almost approaching the hysterical. On the whole, however, there is no question that this novel is a very distinguished piece of work, and that it has more than a touch of genuine brilliance." E. H. Walton

+ N Y Times p6 Ap 26 '42 1000w

"One's first impression is that 'The Gates of Aulis' is an extraordinary novel. One's second impression (or perhaps it is continuously superimposed upon the first) is that it is an extraordinarily irritating novel. Yet, no matter what frenzy of exasperation Miss Schmitt's characters may drive you into, she reveals herself as a considerable writer. She is annoying, but not because she lacks talent; rather, because she lacks the ability to prevent it from spilling over. Her talent, indeed, is too much for her theme, whose dimensions are less grandiose than she supposes." Clifton Fadiman

+ New Yorker 18:68 My 2 '42 850w

"Here is a first novel with an enormous wealth of emotions, an unceasing stream of ideas, a torrent of tortures of the mind and body, all clothed in language highly artistic if overrich in similes and poetic images. . . Miss Schmitt, very conscientious and overflowing with ideas, describes each move every character makes. There is no doubt, however, that her's is an unusual talent, the talent of artistic writing and poetic vision. For a first novel, 'The Gates of Aulis' is overwhelmingly adult." R. R. Plant

+ Sat R of Lit 25:9 My 30 '42 400w

Time 39:87 Je 15 '42 400w

"The most singular and gifted novel of the quarter—though not exactly the most likable—is Gladys Schmitt's The Gates of Aulis, a tortured, involuted dissection of human feelings done with uncommon subtlety." Robert Littell

+ Yale R n s 31:viii summer '42 230w

SCHNABEL, ARTUR. Music and the line of most resistance. 91p $1.50 Princeton univ. press

780.1 Music. Musicians 42-7681

The text of three lectures, given in April, 1940, at the University of Chicago. It contains "ideas on music and on conditions which surround music," by a famous pianist, composer, and teacher.

Books p22 Je 7 '42 130w

"This book provides much information for the reader who knows little or nothing of musical science and musical activities, and it offers occasional shrewd observations that are provocative and stimulating to the music-lover and the music-maker. But perhaps because we expect so much from Artur Schnabel it is disappointing. . . As is so often the case when lectures are issued in book form, the engaging personality of the lecturer retires behind the conscious personality of the author, and almost all is lost." E. M.

+ Canadian Forum 22:94 Je '42 210w

Cath World 155:510 Jl '42 230w

Reviewed by Jeffery Smith
J Philos 40:52 Ja 21 '43 750w
Pratt p18 D '42

SCHNEIDER, DAVID MOSES, and DEUTSCH, ALBERT. History of public welfare in New York state, 1867-1940 [foreword by David C. Adie]. 2v v 2 410p il $3.50 Univ. of Chicago press

360.9747 Charities—New York (state). New York (state)—Social conditions

The second volume in this history of the development of public welfare in New York state carries the record from 1867 to 1940. As in the earlier volume (Book Review Digest, 1939) the study is arranged chronologically. The main divisions are: Reconstruction and industrial expansion, 1867-94; The expanding scope of state supervision, 1895-1916; Interlude—the Great war and its aftermath, 1917-21; State consolidation and control, 1922-29; Impact of the great depression, 1930-40. Index.

"Unfortunately, recent developments are not analyzed critically. Changes are described, but not evaluated. The result is that little light is shed upon the experience which New York has had in dealing with the most important current problems of public welfare—problems of finance, overhead organization and management, state-local relations, functional integration, and the coordination of federal, state, and local responsibilities in the entire welfare field." P. T. Stafford

Am Pol Sci R 35:1193 D '41 250w

"The volume is well integrated and well documented. It is by no means, however, in the class of the Webbs' works. There is altogether too much a posteriori thinking. . . It may be that the focusing of the attention of the volume on the State Welfare Department and the role of the State in welfare has cramped the style of the authors. This reviewer, however, regrets profoundly that the great opportunity for social interpretation offered by a history of relief has been muffed by the authors of this volume." Abraham Epstein

+ Ann Am Acad 220:265 Mr '42 450w

Reviewed by Murray Ross
Pol Sci Q 57:460 S '42 600w

"This history is told in an interesting and scholarly manner in this and the earlier volume. Together they constitute the most complete history of public welfare in a single State yet to be written, and an important contribution to the history of public welfare in the United States." R. M. Brown

+ Social Forces 20:414 Mr '42 400w

"Of Dr. Schneider's earlier volume this reviewer wrote: 'This history . . . is all that such a book should be—objective, scholarly, thoroughly documented.' That statement requires no modification on the basis of the completed series." F. S. Hall

+ Survey 78:61 F '42 650w

SCHNITTKIND, HENRY THOMAS (HENRY THOMAS, pseud), and SCHNITTKIND, DANA ARNOLD (DANA LEE THOMAS, pseud). Living biographies of American statesmen; il. by Gordon Ross. de luxe ed 323p $1.98 Garden City pub. co.

923.2 Statesmen, American. U.S.—Biography 42-13211

Short biographical sketches of twenty North American statesmen. Those included are: Roger Williams, William Penn, Franklin, Washington, Hamilton, John Adams, Marshall, Jefferson, Madison, Monroe, Jackson, Clay, Webster, Sumner, Lincoln, Jefferson Davis, Cleveland, Theodore Roosevelt, Wilson, Franklin Delano Roosevelt.

"The authors of this book have in very worthwhile manner shown us anew how rich is our heritage." G. S. Hellman

+ Books p28 N 1 '42 850w

"The authors of this book had a lot of fun writing it. You feel how much they enjoyed their work while you are reading the book. The word 'biographies' in the title is perhaps misleading. It makes one think of a full description of the life of a person. But with the Messrs Thomas the accent is not on the word 'biographies,' but on the word 'living.'"

+ Boston Globe p17 Je 17 '42 150w

SCHOFIELD, WILLIAM GREENOUGH. Ashes in the wilderness. 317p $2.50 Macrae Smith co.

42-21305

King Philip's War in Massachusetts and Rhode Island is the background of this historical novel based on the war diary of Captain Benjamin Church, leader of the Colonial forces in the war. The connecting link between Roger Williams' colony in Rhode Island and the Massachusetts side of the war is Christian Painter, a young officer under Captain Church. Chris is in love with a Quaker girl, and finally succeeds in saving her from the Indians, and Roger Williams marries them.

Reviewed by George Conrad

Books p10 S 13 '42 300w

Cath World 156:255 N '42 250w

"The few fictional characters and the love story interfere only slightly in an otherwise good historical novel that seems to ring true in its settings, its incidents, and its characters both white and Indian. Usable." G. W. Hill

+ Library J 67:739 S 1 '42 70w

"The story is vivid to the point of brutality in some spots. It takes little notice of the women's lives or home, farm and town activities. The war is the thing, and a frightful and fascinating thing, too." Charlotte Dean

+ N Y Times p24 O 18 '42 480w

SCHOLZ, JACKSON VOLNEY. Soldiers at bat. 271p il $2 Morrow

42-19436

A baseball player headed for the big leagues, enlisted in the army. All thru the first months of his stay in training camp Kip had to combat the distrust and gossip of his mates. But he proved to them that the reputation given him by a malicious reporter was false, and in time won respect and a corporal's stripes. For older boys.

Booklist 39:139 D 15 '42

"Author is a better track man than author, but the plot moves smoothly. Kip's character develops under stress, and one overlooks conventional framework because of present appeal." Gertrude Andrus

+ Library J 67:849 O 1 '42 70w

Reviewed by M. C. Scoggin

Library J 67:897 O 15 '42 40w

SCHOYER, PRESTON. The foreigners. 617p $2.75 Dodd

(W) 42-36121

Two years before the beginning of the Chinese-Japanese war Peter Achilles, a young teacher, went out to China, to take up his life there in a foreign community of missionaries, doctors, and business men. The story is of some six years of life in this community, as seen thru Peter's eyes. He learned to know and to like the country, he fell in love with a Chinese girl, but always in the background was the real hero of the story—China.

Booklist 38:276 Ap 1 '42

"Most of the portraits of this tapestry are nicely fitted into the scheme, for this is a storied tapestry with interwoven strands of plot, a thing of unity and coherence. I suggest that a critical study, as of an established novel, would reveal several flaws—more exactly, perhaps, slips and imperfections. But within the limits of time and space of a first review of a first novel, 'The Foreigners,' for its genuine distinction as well as for its timeliness, seems to me deserving of nothing but recommendation and praise." F. T. Marsh

+ Books p3 Mr 22 '42 1150w

Cath World 155:254 My '42 180w

Cleveland Open Shelf p12 My '42

"The Foreigners is of great interest now that we, too, are at war with Japan, and is definitely recommended." R. D. Minnich

+ Library J 67:131 F 1 '42 50w

"Like everybody's first novel, it is twice as long as it should be and too full of impressive Chinese words and phrases that never get translated, but what it has to say is worth saying as well as worth reading." S. E. Hyman

+ New Repub 106:468 Ap 6 '42 180w

"Knowledge, understanding and affection combine to make this one of the best books on China that have yet appeared. . . The experiences described are so clearly authentic that one can scarcely imagine them to be a transcription of anything but of first-hand experience. But it is not the experiences alone, however extraordinary they are, that make this the distinguished book it is, but rather the author's warmth and imagination, which have translated them into a form at once absorbing and attractive." John Cournos

+ N Y Times p6 Mr 15 '42 1050w

"A sensitive and sometimes heroic novel of China."

+ New Yorker 18:79 Mr 14 '42 100w

"Without possessing either the verbal magic or the concentrated drama of Mrs. Buck's books, Preston Schoyer's novel of China is in its own way a very rich and eloquent piece of work. It is a result of Mr. Schoyer's three and a half years of work in China; throughout the book the fictional device runs thin where it does not actually disappear, and we find ourselves reading a first hand account of China and the Chinese." N. L. Rothman

+ Sat R of Lit 25:14 Mr 28 '42 500w

Time 39:84 Ap 6 '42 500w

SCHRIFTGIESSER, KARL. Amazing Roosevelt family, 1613-1942. 367p $3.75 Funk, W.

929.2 Roosevelt family (W) 42-11995

"The story of the seven generations (1613-1942) from the shadowy Dutchman Claes Van Rosenvelt, immigrant, to today's living seed. Nicholas, first native born son, about 1690, fathered Johannes, in the line of President Theodore, and Jacobus, in the line of President Franklin. The simple chart of both lines is the framework on which is told the story of the births and marriages, the family life, the works, of the heads and collaterals of this amazing family. The solid dull Roosevelts, male and female, the occasional distinguished ones, the rare weaklings, cousins and aunts, march down the years, registered with loving family Bible detail and often in brilliant portraits." (Survey G) Bibliography. Index.

"This family chronicle is not written with overmuch sobriety. It is, to tell the truth, persistently spiced with the least admirable mannerisms of the gossip column. . . Moreover, the treatment of the Presidential Roosevelts and their families, occupying over two-fifths of the book, is fulsome in tone as to the Hyde Park branch and monotonously sarcastic as to the Oyster Bay branch, without adding much to the commonly accessible information about either. Nevertheless, on the simple score of legitimate curiosity gratified, the book well justifies its existence and would earn forgiveness for more and worse faults than it has." Wilson Follett

+ Atlantic J1 '42 250w

Booklist 38:345 My 15 '42

Bookmark 4:15 N '42

"Mr. Schriftgiesser's book is an unfinished work. But as it stands it is a monument of erudition, a contribution to American family history, and—most important of all to the average book buyer—easy and pleasant reading. 'Amazing' is the word for it." G. W. Johnson

+ Books p3 Ap 19 '42 2250w

"The average reader will probably become confused and weighed down by the Roosevelt family tree, but Mr. Schriftgiesser has done a masterful job of research to straighten out seven generations and added enough stories and anecdotes to make the genealogy popular reading." M. H.

Christian Science Monitor p20 Ap 23 '42 360w

"Much of the material is of the gossipy type; much of the general social and political comment is discerning."

Commonweal 36:188 Je 12 '42 70w

"Though it isn't easy to find one's way intelligently through this maze of ancestors, the journey is worth while. If this is an aristocracy we are studying, it has its democratic and homespun qualities." R. L. Duffus
+ N Y Times p3 Ap 26 '42 1450w

"The author is occasionally careless with detail and sprinkles his 'begats' too thickly at times, but he weaves even the little-known earlier Roosevelts and in-laws into an absorbing chronicle, which he tops with an eloquent study of F. D. R. Full-bodied and thoroughly readable." — New Yorker 18:87 Ap 11 '42 90w

Pratt p6 O '42

Reviewed by Leon Whipple
Survey G 31:254 My '42 800w

SCHUBERT, PAUL. Sea power in conflict. 252p maps $2.50 Coward-McCann
940.545 Sea power. World war, 1939—Naval operations (W) 42-6549

The first half of the book is a study of navies in general, and the elements which make up "the new sea power." The second half is devoted to the naval history of the present war to the attack on Pearl Harbor. Index.

"Here is a clean-cut, double-barreled account of the navies and the naval actions in the present war; clean-cut because it is clearly and economically written, double-barreled because that is the way Mr. Schubert planned it." R. F. Armknecht
+ Books p10 Je 7 '42 850w

"This is a first-class book."
+ Boston Globe p17 Ap 8 '42 150w
Christian Science Monitor p11 My 29 '42 550w

Reviewed by R. G. Woolbert
Foreign Affairs 20:778 Jl '42 30w

"In interpreting sea power to the lay reader Mr. Schubert has done a very fair piece of work. He gives a fine account of the development of naval science during the past quarter-century, pointing out the changes being brought into modern warfare by the airplane and submarine. His chapter on the German navy is notable for a penetrating analysis of German strategic thought. . . . The second half of the book is less valuable. In fact, Mr. Schubert's accounts of the sea war do not go much beyond official communiqués." D. W. Mitchell
+ Nation 154:494 Ap 25 '42 240w

"Mr. Schubert's book, written with the interpretative skill of one who has served in great waters, and its companion piece, Gilbert Cant's 'The War at Sea,' are in one sense complementary. Both trace the struggle at sea — Mr. Cant's in considerably more detail than Mr. Schubert's — but the titles betray the differences. 'Sea Power in Conflict' is more of an interpretation, Mr. Cant's book more of a narrative. Both are interesting and help to provide a valuable background for the bloody battles yet to come; neither one is comprehensive, and both suffer from the inevitable flaws of history and interpretation written 'hot off the giddle.'" H. W. Baldwin
+ N Y Times p19 Ap 26 '42 600w

"Simply and interestingly written."
+ New Yorker 18:79 Mr 14 '42 60w

Reviewed by Herbert Rosinski
Yale R n s 31:843 summer '42 250w

SCHUMAN, FREDERICK LEWIS. Design for power; the struggle of the world; maps by George D. Brodsky. 324p $3.50 Knopf
909.82 World politics. World war, 1939- (W) 41-259.3

"All but the final twenty pages of this book represent a history of the Second World War, right up to the moment when it became a world war in fact. . . . [The author] intends to give us as comprehensive a picture as possible of the stupidity, the evasions, and the incredible blindness of the various anti-Nazi forces as they met or failed to meet, the threat and the reality of Nazi aggression. While all the facts are familiar enough there is value in having them strung as beads upon this tragic historical rosary so that we can 'tell them over one by one.' The basic purpose of this survey is fully revealed in the final chapter of the book, which is devoted to an impassioned plea for a democratic federation of the world, as the only possibility of salvation for our civilization." (Nation) Includes a sixteen page pamphlet entitled Preface to victory, 1942; a table of nations, numerous maps, and an index.

Reviewed by P. R. Anderson
Am Hist R 48:168 O '42 110w

"In the reviewer's humble opinion, Schuman has developed during recent years into one of our ablest political scientists. His distinguished position is, the reviewer believes, due to three combinations. In the first place, Schuman is an academician endowed with an unusual ability to write in a very exciting style which makes his otherwise deadly factual subject also quite stirring. . . . Secondly, Schuman belongs to the younger group of political scientists who, in spite of all the antagonism they have to face from the entrenched ruling clique of the American Political Science Association, are trying to rejuvenate the old-fashioned purely descriptive and legalistic approach to Political Science by injections of the recent discoveries of the dynamic aspects of the other social sciences. . . . In the third place Schuman is gifted with a unique ability to sponge up an enormous amount of material on the enormously crowded last decade, digest it, and present it in sweeping judgments which give full credit to his obviously unlimited energy. Design for Power is a work which is a splendid example of Schuman's peculiar abilities." J. S. Roucek
+ Ann Am Acad 220:217 Mr '42 1100w

Booklist 38:187 F 1 '42

"Here, compressed and powerful, is the diplomatic and military history of the disastrous quarter of a century from Versailles to Pearl Harbor. It is, as are Professor Schuman's other works, history written out of scholarship, but out of scholarship informed by a blazing conviction. I could detect few slips (Maginot was never a general, and hardly more than accidentally associated with the strategy of the defensive; but it doesn't matter); rather there are more places where the authority for the author's statements is not given and may be open to question. The statements may even be reversed with time and knowledge; I doubt whether that matters very much, either. There is a very large amount of detailed and incontestable information packed into these pages." Walter Millis
+ Books p5 Ja 11 '42 1150w

Reviewed by Alvin Adey
Current Hist 2:60 Mr '42 650w

Reviewed by R. G. Woolbert
Foreign Affairs 20:772 Jl '42 70w

"The story is almost too familiar by now and the present book seems little more than a reworking of material already covered adequately in Schuman's previous Europe on the Eve and Night Over Europe." R. H. McDonough

Library J 66:999 N 15 '41 60w

"There may be some question about the value of such a work, lacking, as it must, any new sources of information not available to the careful reader of the daily newspaper and the wider historical perspective without which a historical catastrophe of the kind in which we are involved cannot be fully comprehended. Such a history cannot be much more than journalism. It is, in fact, somewhat similar to the afternoon newspaper which contains only the score of the first half of the football game. Nevertheless, Professor Schuman is amply justified in what he has done. For his journalism has a purpose." Reinhold Niebuhr
+ Nation 154:42 Ja 10 '42 900w

Reviewed by Ralph Bates
New Repub 106:152 F 2 '42 1450w

"Whether or not the author always offers the right answers, he has posed in a witty, vivid, challenging style many of the fundamental problems that are raised by the global war into which America has now been precipitated. Both in style and in substance his book is calculated to appeal to many of the ever-increasing number of Americans who find that they can no longer isolate or insulate themselves from the impact of world affairs."

SCHUMAN, F. L.—Continued

W. H. Chamberlin

+ N Y Times p8 Ja 18 '42 1650w

"Design for Power" suffers from a swollen torrent of 'telling' phrases and a wearying attitude, too consistently maintained, of bitter irony—the tone, shall we say, of an extremely intelligent but rather young man. Otherwise, I see no reason for not commending it heartily as an invaluable one-volume chronicle of the history of the world's seven leading powers during the last and fateful decade."

Clifton Fadiman

+ New Yorker 17:57 Ja 10 '42 700w

"Whether Professor Schuman's Design for Power is realized or not, every reader of this book will be indebted to him for a piece of incisive writing and bold planning." O. J. Hale

+ Pol Sci Q 57:610 D '42 550w

Pratt p24 My '42

"It is clear, on the one hand, that Professor Schuman set out to write a narrative text suitable to accompany, and to give background for, the maps drawn by his collaborator. This job he has done superbly. But the role of supplying 'sound effects' for a series of cartographic pictures was not, apparently, one with which Professor Schuman could rest content. He had something to tell the world which he felt—and quite rightly felt—the world needed to know. And so, after the last map is disposed of, he attempts to diagnose the maladies of an international order ridden by power politics. At this point (nineteen pages from the end) the book takes on two new, and quite ambitious, purposes: the setting forth of a diagnosis and the justification of that diagnosis to the reader." C. S. Joslyn

+ Sat R of Lit 25:9 Ja 24 '42 550w

"Design for Power" is useful as a review of a crowded, cataclysmic decade; but uniquely valuable, like Dr Schuman's other books, for a vigorous interpretation of the roots and the fruits of events. If one is now and then mildly annoyed by Dr Schuman's exhortation of some democratic leader's astigmatism, and is moved to remark that hindsight is easy, then one must remember that Dr Schuman has accurately and repeatedly predicted the effects of such blindness at the time. Future historians may correct his analysis at this or that point, and perhaps reprove his passion; but they will not be living in the murk and sweat of the crisis."

+ Springf'd Republican p7e Ja 4 '42 1170w

Time 39:71 Ja 5 '42 750w

SCHURZ, WILLIAM LYTLE. Latin America. 378p map $3.75 Dutton

918 Latin America

(W) 41-19149

For descriptive note see Annual for 1941.

"In the political and cultural fields, too Mr. Schurz makes many observations that show good judgment as well as an extensive knowledge of the vast subject matter. . . . On the other side of the ledger Mr. Schurz's book suffers from many defects which it is hoped will be corrected in future editions. His treatment of the highly important question of foreign investments in Latin America is fragmentary and superficial. His treatment of foreign commerce, while excellent in detail, fails to bring out clearly either the fact that the combined trade of the European countries with Latin America is normally larger than that of the United States or that the statistics of the foreign trade of Latin America have to be analyzed on a regional basis if we are to appreciate either their economic or political significance. The section entitled 'History' stops without explanation at the end of the wars of independence in the 1820's and the subsequent history of Latin America is nowhere discussed systematically. It is in his handling of international relations that Mr. Schurz's book is least satisfactory." A. P. Whitaker

+ Am Econ R 32:588 S '42 1100w

"The author has produced a type of book altogether too rare in this field. It is both accurate and readable, compact and comprehensive—the fruit of adequate scholarly preparation and of wide diplomatic and business experience. For these reasons he gives his readers a variegated picture of our southern neighbors, enriched with personal observations that are at once well documented, unusual, and appropriate." I. J. Cox

+ Am Hist R 48:437 Ja '43 280w

"The book might have gained by excluding the chapters on history and international relations and concentrating on the economic and sociological aspects. . . . There are a few minor mistakes. . . . An adequate map, or several special maps, would have been very desirable. These minor deficiencies, however, do not really impair the great value of the book as a source of information for readers seriously interested in acquainting themselves with the general characteristics of 'the other America.'" R. F. Behrendt

+ Ann Am Acad 220:252 Mr '43 550w

Bookmark 3:13 Mr '42

"A well-informed compendium of useful and interesting data." R. G. Woolbert

+ Foreign Affairs 20:582 Ap '42 60w

Nation 154:201 F 14 '42 90w

"We can pick out here and there some minor error of fact. . . . The spirited biography of the Gaucho chieftain Facundo Quiroga by Sarmiento is labeled a novel; and the entire section given to literature is not much above the vicarious, half-hearted performance culled from hearsay by the ordinary American professor touching on Latin-American letters. But when we come to the presentation of facts, Mr. Schurz has a knack all his own. He knows how to make figures both dramatic and self-revelatory." Ernesto Montenegro

+ N Y Times p9 F 22 '42 900w

"To the task [the author] brings not only scholarly interest but also many years of active service, which have served to give him a comprehensive outlook on his subject. . . . The volume is a most useful survey which serves to give a general idea of Latin America as a whole. The author is to be commended for his frank statement in the preface as to the right of the citizens of the United States of America to call themselves Americans." R. R. Hill

+ Pol Sci Q 57:474 S '42 460w

Pratt p23 My '42

SCHUSTER, SIR GEORGE ERNEST, and WINT, GUY. India and democracy. 444p $5 (12s 6d) Macmillan

954 India—Politics and government

A41-4685

"Mr. Guy Wint is a young man who spent four years in China. . . . For the purposes of this book he spent two years in India, and his contribution is a survey of the existing situation and its historical causes. . . . Sir George Schuster follows up the survey with an attempt to propound a solution of the immediate problem. He and Mr. Wint between them show very clearly what the problem is and its most important difficulties. The difficulties of defence and of the minorities are emphasised, and both of them are inclined to think that Congress is anti-democratic and would rule India as a totalitarian Party on the model of the Nazis or Communists. Sir George Schuster's solution is to give India 'self-government,' but not a parliamentary democratic system." New Statesman & Nation

Reviewed by G. M. Dutcher

Am Hist R 48:341 Ja '43 430w

Reviewed by L. A. Mills

Am Pol Sci R 36:766 Ag '42 550w

Reviewed by Eric Beecroft

Ann Am Acad 222:210 Jl '42 650w

Economist 141:744 D 20 '41 1800w

Reviewed by R. G. Woolbert

Foreign Affairs 20:581 Ap '42 20w

Reviewed by Norman Angell

New Repub 106:401 Mr 23 '42 1250w

"An extremely interesting volume." Leonard Woolf

+ New Statesman & Nation 22:333 O 4 '41 400w

Reviewed by H. G. Rawlinson

Spec 167:278 S 19 '41 1800w

"At last we have a book which sets the political controversy against its social and economic background and concerns itself with the nature and needs of the governed as much as with the form of government. For that reason in particular it is much the best book that has been written about India for a long time."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p466 S 20 '41 1850w

SCHWARTZ, SELWYN S. Poet in blue minor; introd. by David Daiches. 141p $2.50 Press of James A. Decker

811

42-21983

A volume of poems written in the manner of E. E. Cummings.

"Despite the bravest of the brave formal conventions, this book is full of borrowed echoes and imagistic clichés. Excellent images, in varied patterns, removed from the intention of this or that poem, clash in all sorts of poetic array. The form, if and when these poems have form, is old and borrowed—too small for the frames, however interesting in a minor degree."

New Repub 107:94 Jl 20 '42 60w

Reviewed by Dudley Pitts

— Sat R of Lit 25:13 N 7 '42 130w

SCHWARZ, JULIUS CAESAR, ed. See Religious leaders of America

SCHWARZSCHILD, LEOPOLD. World in trance; from Versailles to Pearl Harbor [tr. by Norbert Guterman]. 445p $3.50 Fischer, L. B.

940.5 Europe—Politics. European war, 1914-1918—Influence and results. World war, 1939- 42-24638

"A documented authoritative history of Germany's war against the world in the years 1918 to 1939 as part of a Thirty Years War; and of the failure of the allies to recognize and stay united against this undeclared but continuing assault. It reveals the German expansionist and militarist policies which were carried on by all the governments of Germany and which waged a successful war against the western powers by splitting them up and utilizing well-meaning but misinformed support from western liberals and utopians." (Publisher's note) Index.

Booklist 39:136 D 15 '42

"The clarity which is so delightful in Mr. Schwarzschild's narration of complex events is made possible by his highly simplified interpretation of them. He selects the apt detail—the revealing incident, the damning quotation—so artfully that his comprehensive knowledge of the tortuous doings of the last two decades assumes the compelling logic of a fairy tale." Hiram Motherwell

+ Books p44 N 15 '42 800w

Reviewed by Lena Ruppert

Library J 67:951 N 1 '42 120w

Reviewed by Karl Billinger

Nation 165:656 D 12 '42 1100w

"'World in Trance' is one of the most reasoned, most eloquent and most carefully documented expositions of the anti-German view. The fact that its author is himself a German—Schwarzschild was editor of the Tagebuch in Germany and later of the Neue Tagebuch in Paris—makes it all the more impressive. For this is a terrible indictment, not just of a clique or a cabal, but of a whole people." Vorian Fry

+ New Repub 107:864 D 28 '42 1300w

"'World in Trance' will cause controversy, but out of the controversy a new and sounder view of the 'two accursed decades' ought to come. Schwarzschild has set a new course for the historians of this period." W. R. Deuel

+ N Y Times p1 N 1 '42 1450w

"Certainly a challenging work, and perhaps a very significant one."

+ New Yorker 18:83 O 24 '42 90w

Springf'd Republican p7e D 27 '42 750w

SCOTT, GEORGE DOW. Heredity, food, and environment in the nutrition of infants and children. 778p $5 Chapman & Grimes

649.3 Children—Nutrition. Infants—Nutrition 42-17685

"Dr. Scott believes that 'the average person possesses but a rudimentary and often fragmentary understanding of the principles underlying nutrition.'... And so his book 'tries to clarify the origin of hereditary and somatic disease, and in general to enumerate the foods and methods used in preventing and curing them.' As the source of the child's energy is metabolism, many pages are devoted to this subject, as well as to physical and psychic stimuli and to 'nature's appetizers.'" Scientific Bk Club R

"This unindexed book of 778 pages hardly lives up to the jacket's claim that it is 'a complete guide to child nutrition' for parents, nurses, and social workers as well as the author's fellow physicians... There are many indications that the text was written originally some years ago and has not been redrafted to keep pace with recent rapid developments in nutritional knowledge." M. M. Heseltine

— J Home Econ 34:551 O '42 150w

"Scholarly and all-inclusive volume."

+ Scientific Bk Club R 13:4 Ag '42 200w

SCOTT, JOHN. Behind the Urals; an American worker in Russia's city of steel. 279p $2.75 Houghton

330.947 Magnitogorsk, Russia. Steel industry and trade. Russia—Economic conditions (W) 42-16792

A combination of autobiography, and a study of the life in the Russian industrial center of Magnitogorsk, beyond the Ural mountains. For five years in the 1930's the author, son of Scott Nearing, was employed as electric welder, foreman, and then as chemist in the coke and chemical by-products plant. During those years he married a Russian girl. In 1937 he went to Moscow as a foreign correspondent, and in 1941 he returned to the United States with his family.

Booklist 38:440 Jl 15 '42

Bookmark 4:5 N '42

"Because Mr. Scott's book, for all the ugliness it presents, still is a record of progress, of a great people painfully raising itself to leadership in the battle against world aggression, it is a valuable contribution to a sympathetic understanding of our great ally. 'Behind the Urals' is not stirringly or dramatically written but it possesses a keen eye for detail. Reading it, you see the struggles of the Russian people on actual, everyday terms of Russian life. It is a cruel but epic picture." Richard Watts, Jr.

+ Books p3 Jl 12 '42 1100w

Reviewed by Otto Zausmer

Boston Globe p19 Jl 22 '42 700w

Christian Science Monitor p18 Jl 22 '42 500w

Cleveland Open Shelf p13 Jl '42

"'Behind the Urals' is indeed a queer production. It is sloppily written and worse edited. Words are left out of sentences; statistics are obviously misprinted. One gets the impression of a man dictating off-hand and never bothering to revise what his secretary types from her notes. There is a monotony in the sentence structure, a carelessness in the use of words which are likely to make readers find the book repellent, even though they themselves do not quite know why. Yet in spite of all this, 'Behind the Urals' should be read by anyone seeking enlightenment on the Russian enigma." H. L. Binsse

SCOTT, JOHN—Continued
— + Commonweal 36:231 Je 26 '42 1250w

Reviewed by Carol Thompson
Current Hist 3:253 N '42 170w

"Book is purely objective, never critical in tone. Should appeal particularly, to young men interested in factories of Russia." R. E. Rankin
+ Library J 67:581 Je 15 '42 100w

Reviewed by M. C. Scoggin
Library J 67:895 O 15 '42 20w

Reviewed by Marc Slonim
Nation 155:55 J1 18 '42 480w

Reviewed by Ralph Bates
New Repub 107:58 J1 13 '42 400w

"A genuine grassroots account of Soviet life—a type of book of which there have been far too few." W. H. Chamberlin
+ N Y Times p8 Je 28 '42 1250w

"Plain, vivid writing, not noticeably pro or con; in fact, the author sounds more like a disciple of John Dewey than a disciple of Lenin."

+ New Yorker 18:63 Je 27 '42 70w

"One of the most revealing books that have yet come out of Russia." Ida Treat

+ Pol Sci Q 57:601 D '42 1000w

Pratt p22 D '42

Wis Lib Bul 38:136 O '42

Reviewed by Michael Karpovich
Yale R n s 32:413 winter '43 550w

SCOTT, JOHN. Duel for Europe; Stalin versus Hitler. 381p maps $3.50 Houghton

327.47 Russia—Foreign relations—Germany. Germany—Foreign relations—Russia. World war, 1939—, Europe—Politics (W) 42-23877

An account of the relations between Russia and Germany, and Russia and the western powers, from the days following Munich to the opening of the German-Russian war.

"What makes 'Duel for Europe' outstanding and convincing is not only its sometimes cruel sense of realism, but Mr. Scott's unique knowledge of the Russia of today. Ambassadors, journalists, military experts... had a chance to see one side of the picture. John Scott, working and living with the Russian people for years, knew more than most of them." Paul Hagen

+ Books p5 O 25 '42 1300w

Reviewed by E. McN. Burns
Christian Century 60:134 F 3 '43 600w

Reviewed by Edward Skillin, Jr.
Commonweal 37:98 N 13 '42 750w

"The book, vivid and valuable as it is, naturally has the inevitable defects both of the reportorial method of presentation and of the reportorial oversimplification of the issues at stake. But that is doubtless churlish criticism and taking an excessively long view of a book that throws much real light on Russia during these past few years." Leo Gershow

+ Current Hist 3:355 D '42 280w

Reviewed by Ralph Bates
Nation 155:516 N 14 '42 600w

"Where Mr. Scott reports on his own impressions of the Soviet Union, he is always well informed, thoughtful and highly interesting. He has the advantage of having lived many years in the Soviet Union, not only as a journalist but as a worker. He reports faithfully and honestly." Hans Kohn

+ New Repub 107:739 D 14 '42 850w

"There is no book that could be recommended with more confidence to the American reader as a reliable background guide to the personalities and politics and economics of the contemporary Soviet Union. Such a work is all the more welcome because books about Russia have displayed an unfortunate tendency to vary in style and content, depending on the prevalent state of public opinion." W. H. Chamberlin

+ N Y Times p4 O 25 '42 1400w

Springf'd Republican p8 D 2 '42 500w
Time 40:117 N 23 '42 900w

SCOTT, MARY WINGFIELD. Houses of old Richmond. 332p il $5 Valentine museum, 1015 E. Clay st, Richmond, Va.

728 Richmond, Virginia—Historic houses, etc. 42-8803

"The founder of the Valentine Museum of Richmond, Virginia, Mr. Mann S. Valentine, made the wise provision in his will for the publication of materials in the collection to 'make them all interesting, instructive and profitable to those of my community and State.' From this collection and elsewhere Miss Scott has chosen 124 houses, eighty-four of which are still standing. Some were selected because of their intrinsic interest, others for their interesting associations. In this book she has treated these with affectionate but discriminating appreciation. There are photographs, descriptions, and histories of the houses and of their occupants. Information was drawn from a wide range of material, both primary and secondary. The story of Richmond's ante-bellum architectural development falls conveniently into five periods—village and early capital, the development into a city, stagnant years after the panic of 1819, the Greek revival boom, 1836-52, and the 'exuberant 'fifties' with their Victorian characteristics. Each chapter is prefaced with an excellent brief history of the period, describing its chief architectural characteristics and showing how these were affected by the economic growth of the city." Am Hist R

Reviewed by R. L. Morton
Am Hist R 48:128 O '42 450w

"Carefully documented, richly illustrated volume. . . . The more than 300 photographs in this book, of houses that have been demolished as well as those that remain, should prove invaluable to architects and antique fanciers: the chatty tales about the individual houses should delight Virginians. But the broad interest of the work which Miss Scott began in 1928 derives from the truly scholarly manner in which she has been able to make graphic the early period of America's industrial expansion—an important period too often obscured by the dramatic wars that marked its beginning and end." Grace Adams

+ Nation 154:403 Ap 4 '42 450w

SCOTT, ORAL E. Stars in myth and fact. 374p pl maps $3 Caxton printers

523 Astronomy. Constellations. Mythology. 42-10733

Myths and legends about the constellations and factual descriptions of the stars and other heavenly bodies. Illustrated with charts and photographs. Index.

"His story is not for a minute dull and dry. . . . This book proves the poet wrong who said: 'One must not reach for the stars, one must just enjoy their beauty.'" Otto Zausmer

+ Boston Globe p19 My 27 '42 110w

N Y New Tech Bks 27:37 J1 '42

SCOTT, WINFIELD TOWNLEY. Sword on the table; Thomas Dorr's rebellion. [30p] $1 New directions

811 Dorr rebellion, 1842—Poetry 42-15738

A poetic rendering of the story of Dorr's Rebellion, a popular protest against injustice, which was led by a Rhode Island lawyer a hundred years ago. Dorr was elected governor as a counter stroke against a reactionary legislature. When he tried to lead an attack on the state arsenal, he was deserted by his men, was captured, tried, and sentenced to prison.

Reviewed by P. M. Jack
+ N Y Times p16 Je 14 '42 600w

"One is grateful for this revival of the Dorr story; the facts and quality of Dorr's gesture stick in the mind, if they do not exactly fire the heart." John Holmes

+ Poetry 61:454 N '42 650w

Reviewed by Louis Untermeyer
Yale R n s 32:370 winter '43 110w

SCOTT, WINFIELD TOWNLEY. Wind the clock. 79p $2 Press of James A. Decker

811

42-1337

"This is the diary of a contemporary American poet, an Easterner, a New England boy, a college man, a good reader, a Robinson-admirer." Poetry

"The difficulty of evaluating Winfield Townley Scott's work in relation to that of other young contemporary poets is evidence at least of its originality in subject and method. That stressed interest in the scenes, characters and episodes drawn from his own background, marked in Biography for Traman, his first book, makes up the major and most interesting portions of Wind the Clock. These bear, sharply, pertinently, poignantly, their own meaning and purpose. Others though no less skilled technically, are less clear of intention in their groupings." Ruth Lechlitner

+ — Books p20 My 3 '42 750w

"Mr. Scott is a proficient enough versifier to begin to strike out on his own now; to spot and eliminate his influences." Lloyd Frankenberg

New Repub 106:371 Mr 16 '42 240w

Reviewed by Maurice Swan

N Y Times p5 Ja 18 '42 280w

"Wind the Clock, because it is a good poet speaking, is a good book of poems. It is a diary whose recordings are always interesting because the writer is always intelligent, aware and unpretentious—not swayed by last year's social consciousness, or this year's attitudes toward this and that. Whatever faults Scott has, and the greatest of these may be a too great willingness to bow to word-fashions of the immediate day (especially in titles), a close reader of Wind the Clock must end up very grateful that the poet lives who made it." Marshall Schacht

+ Poetry 60:46 Ap '42 500w

SCOTT, MRS WINIFRED MARY (WATSON) (PAMELA WYNNE, pseud). Happiness round the corner. 284p $2 Kinsey [8s Collins]

41-23271

An English woman of forty-two is the heroine. Until her husband's death Mrs Pearce had lived at his behest. As a widow she was dominated by her two daughters, who were very much like their father. It was not until an understanding doctor took things in hand that she found a belated happiness.

"It should be a satisfying book for the more mature of the light fiction addicts since the younger generation comes off definitely second best." C. D.

+ N Y Times p34 N 23 '41 160w

"Very light 'summer' fiction."

+ Springf'd Republican p7e F 1 '42 40w

SCRUGGS, ANDERSON M. Ritual for myself. 75p $1.50 Macmillan

811

41-19824

Volume of short poems by a Georgia poet, much of whose work has seen previous publication in various anthologies, among them Moul't's annual volumes.

Reviewed by A. M. Sholl

Cath World 155:379 Je '42 90w

"Dr. Scruggs is a fine and fastidious writer, but not, as I think, a new writer. . . The thing is, that there is not enough wonder, complete and astonished wonder, in his poetry. It is a statement of poetry rather than a poetry in itself." P. M. Jack

+ — N Y Times p4 F 1 '42 280w

"The entire book is reassuring and comforting—a ritual, indeed, to be appreciated today." A. M. Jakeman

+ Springf'd Republican p7e Ja 25 '42 250w

SCRUGGS, PHILIP LIGHTFOOT. Man cannot tell. 396p $2.75 Bobbs

42-7204

American historical novel, the first of a trilogy. In 1670 Jellis Holt came to Virginia as an indentured servant. Jellis served out his time as servant to John Branch, fell in love with Anne Branch, became involved in Bacon's rebellion, was made prisoner, and finally freed thru Anne's carefully laid plans. The book closes with the capture of Lord Berkeley, and with Anne and Jellis facing a new life together.

"This volume is the first of what is to be a trilogy set against a background of Virginia history. And it promises much for its successors in the series. There is drama, mystery, feeling and quite solid characterization, all of which so animate the historical element that one cannot read this novel without breathing again the healthful air that led Bacon's recalcitrant crew to take matters into their own hands." A. B. Tourtellot

+ Books p4 Mr 22 '42 750w

"The story is inherently exciting, as any tale of a perilous lost cause must be. Clearly a vast deal of research has gone into the background of Mr. Scruggs's novel. He has given us an admirable account of life in the young Virginia Colony." Margaret Wallace

+ N Y Times p7 Mr 8 '42 750w

"Mr. Scruggs manages everything capably and with a lot of dash."

New Yorker 18:63 Mr 7 '42 50w

"It is a tale of unflinching interest, and the author realizes the greatness of his theme." Allan Nevins

+ Sat R of Lit 25:8 My 23 '42 390w

SEABROOK, WILLIAM BUEHLER. No hiding place; an autobiography. 406p $3 Lippincott

B or 92

(W) 42-24186

Apparently frank confessions of an American writer and adventurer who has lived with cannibals in Africa, and with the socially elect on the Hudson; studied witchcraft in Haiti, and spent months getting cured of the drink habit in a famous hospital for the insane; traveled far and wide; written many books, and loved many women.

"I finished the book with the feeling that I now had a good acquaintance with its author. It is far more revealing than most autobiographies. I still don't understand why Seabrook did many of the things he did, but he doesn't understand any better than I do, so it is even money and the reader will have a good time." Stewart Holbrook

Books p6 N 8 '42 1100w

"A personal confession in these times is not necessarily of importance. Rousseau is dead. The man who offers to tell all must have something to tell. These facts must be applied to Mr. Seabrook, as they would be to a lesser or greater man. And one suspects that some readers will come through this book with the impression that Mr. Seabrook is not close enough to the main stream of humanity to merit much attention at this moment; just as others, perhaps a little pre-war in their attitudes, will find him very much worth while as a study in extreme individuality." R. L. Duffus

N Y Times p4 N 1 '42 1100w

"Mr. Seabrook is a man who has spent his life doing the unconventional and writing about it. He has sometimes written pretty well, sometimes not so well. If he were a first-rate literary artist, he could make his oddities and defiances add up to something. As it is, his disregard for convention, instead of interesting us by its amorality, too often amuses us by its absurdity. . . All of which does not by any means make 'No Hiding Place' a dull book. It is not only not dull; it is curiously engaging, even wistful." Clifton Fadiman

+ — New Yorker 18:78 O 31 '42 650w

"Your reaction as you close the book, is I fear likely to be as was mine—and so what! Yet I am almost sure you will finish it. For with all its absurdities and sophomoric nonsense it manages to be far more interesting than most novels and even to get under your skin in several spots. You may see this chronic escapist as a case of arrested adolescence, you may rage that not a trace of humor went into his make-up, but somehow you like him." M. S. Ulrich

+ — Sat R of Lit 25:20 N 28 '42 500w

SEABROOK, W. B.—Continued

"The year's weirdest autobiography, which is very readable and, despite its elaborate frankness, somewhat superficial."

Time 40:104 N 16 '42 600w

SEAGLE, WILLIAM. The quest for law. 456p $5 Knopf

340 Law—History and criticism (W) 41-12667

For descriptive note see Annual for 1941.

"There is a tremendous amount of critical scholarship in Seagle's unceasing attacks on past and prevailing judicial forms and jurisprudential thought. His range of knowledge in legal history is great and his discussions of the emergence of archaic law and the flowering of mature law are fully detailed; they will be enlightening to any reader. It is a pity only that the constructive scholarship of Seagle's work suffers the severe detraction of a style that is prolix and colored by an oblique sarcasm which runs unpleasantly close to a chronic sneer." E. A. Hoebel

+ — Am Anthropol 44:141 Ja '42 1150w

"The house of Knopf has achieved both a highly attractive format and a probable best-seller of more than ordinary merit in the publication of Mr. Seagle's book. So much is beyond cavil. But it is difficult to go much farther in assessing the quality of the book as a whole, because it is disconcertingly uneven. Mr. Seagle has, for example, two rather short chapters (one at the beginning and one at the end of the work) which deal with the philosophy of law. To be quite frank, the reviewer does not find these altogether coherent. On the other hand, the bulk of the volume consists of a survey of legal institutions which is eminently satisfactory, even when provocative of sharp disagreement." K. C. Cole

+ — Am Pol Sci R 36:362 Ap '42 1700w

"This is an interesting and ambitious volume. . . The development of the thesis is stimulating and in various respects commendable. . . Nevertheless, effective though it be as a point d'appui for skeptical criticism, the thesis exacts a substantial price. Crudely summarized, it identifies the law with the state, conceived as the mere monopoly of politically organized force, and takes the sanction of such force to be the essential attribute of law. This is to define social institutions by their initial implementation, a procedure that involves a double fallacy." H. E. Yntema

+ — Ann Am Acad 220:271 Mr '42 700w

"If the word 'brilliant,' used to describe scholarly achievement, may connote some slight regret or limitation, I venture the summary statement that this is the most brilliant book on the history of law one can imagine. Its positive qualities are, in fact, so strong as to leave little to be desired for long parts of it. Here at last we have, in a lively presentation, never over-technical and always attractive, a comprehensive history of law, in all its meanings and transmutations, from speculations on its origin to the final stages of maturity and to borderline regions such as modern administrative and international law." Arnold Brecht

+ Columbia Law R 42:500 Mr '42 1900w

"The general style of the book abounds in picturesque and vigorous phrases. Those who think of books about law in terms of a sedate and solemn prose will be agreeably disappointed." Max Radin

+ — Harvard Law R 55:901 Mr '42 2500w

"This reviewer has only one serious criticism of the book. One of Seagle's strong points is the way in which he links economic and legal developments. When he arrives at our own period, however, his conceptions become somewhat confused, notably when he speaks of finance capitalism as a sequence to monopoly capitalism. . . But Seagle has the merit of having written one of the first thoroughly intelligible accounts of the legal past and present." Otto Kirchheimer

+ — Pol Sci Q 57:295 Je '42 850w

Pratt p17 F '42

SEARS, CLARA ENDICOTT. Some American primitives: a study of New England faces and folk portraits. 292p il $3 Houghton

757 Portraits, Painters, American 41-26522

The author has made an extensive collection of the portraits painted by itinerant artists in the New England of a hundred years ago. Her book, illustrated with reproductions of over one hundred portraits, relates the stories of the painters and some of their subjects and her own adventures in discovering them.

Reviewed by W. P. Eaton

+ Books p8 Ja 11 '42 600w

Reviewed by Alan Burroughs

New Eng Q 15:186 Mr '42 700w

"Miss Sears's style of writing, never brilliant, always intimate and informal, is not inappropriate to the romantic nineteenth century with which it deals. An absorbed if not actually profound approach is perhaps the manner best suited to a discussion of folk material. More proselytes can thus be won. Such a book will help to perform the urgent task of unearthing, by its brave and effective example, still more paintings and further information. It may well enrich the growing corpus of early American art." A. E. Ford

+ N Y Times p20 Je 7 '42 850w

Wis Lib Bul 38:12 Ja '42

SEARS, WILLIAM REES. Airplane and its components. 75p il $1.25 Wiley [7s 6d Chapman]

629.134 Airplanes

42-9028

"[This work] is intended to be an introduction to the field of aeronautical engineering. It has been prepared under the assumption that its readers will be engineering students or other persons of some technical knowledge." (Author's pref) Index.

Booklist 38:304 Ap 15 '42

N Y New Tech Bks 27:37 Jl '42

SEATON, GEORGE WHITING. Letters to a soldier. 93p $1 Dutton

355.12 U.S.—Army—Military life 42-9014

Letters from a former soldier to his foster son who is at present in the United States army. The letters touch on many subjects of interest to a newly inducted soldier. Partial contents: Of a new life; Of promotion; Of homesickness; Of sex; Of boredom; Of officers; Of gifts; Of morale; Of friendships; Of an adjustment.

Books p10 S 6 '42 100w

"Something might well have been said about religion, though of course it is not easy to say it well. And the section on sex leaves a good deal to be desired."

Christian Century 59:530 Ap 22 '42 100w

"Mr. Seaton knows what the war is about, he appreciates America, understands the need of patriotism and deeply loves his soldier son. So he is a good counsellor. His profession is preparing guidebooks; this is a soldier's guidebook on how to get around. The style seems rather stilted. But that is far better than crude slang or excessive sentimentality." R. H. M.

+ Christian Science Monitor p18 Ap 17 '42 340w

Churchman 156:31 Jl 1 '42 130w

SECHRIST, MRS ELIZABETH (HOUGH), ed. Merry meet again; poems for small children to recite; with il. by Guy Fry. 186p $1.75 Macrae Smith co.

808.81 Children's poetry—Collections 41-17182

Anthology of easy, short poems, selected for their adaptability for recitations by small children. Indexes of authors and first lines and titles.

Reviewed by H. L. Binsse
Commonweal 35:113 N 21 '41 10w

Reviewed by A. T. Eaton
N Y Times p8 Ap 19 '42 200w
Wis Lib Bul 38:69 Ap '42

SECHRIST, MRS ELIZABETH (HOUGH), ed.
Thirteen ghostly yarns [il. by Guy Fry]. rev
ed 240p $2 Macrae Smith co.

(W) 42-14388

"In a completely reset edition the stories 'The soul of the great bell,' by Lafcadio Hearn and 'The spectre bridegroom,' by Washington Irving have been substituted for the 'Devil and Tom Walker,' by Washington Irving and 'Thrawn Janet,' by Robert Louis Stevenson." Booklist

Booklist 38:444 J1 15 '42

"As interesting and generally useful a collection of ghost stories as I know. Its audience does not stop with the teens, where its widest usefulness will be found; an older person beginning Mark Twain's tale of the Cardiff Giant will go straight into Quiller-Couch's Hendry Watty and the Water Ghost of Kendrick Bangs, and so to the end. But the ghost-story age—any Scout knows it—is here presented with tales good for more than a shiver." M. L. Becker

+ Books p8 My 31 '42 330w

SEDGWICK, HENRY DWIGHT. Memoirs of an epicurean. 349p $3 Bobbs

B or 92 Authors—Correspondence, reminiscences, etc. (W) 42-36225

An informal autobiography by an American author of a number of scholarly biographies and historical works. The author with many anecdotes, and little essays on casually related topics, tells of his childhood in New York, his years at school and at Harvard, his early career as a lawyer, and of his trips abroad, and his writings.

Reviewed by Wilson Follett

Atlantic J1 '42 280w

Booklist 38:367 Je 1 '42

"Mr. Sedgwick does not attempt the stereotyped full length of himself but gives us, rather, quiet, fleeting clues to his personality and character, and, whether specifically stated or left to be read between the lines, they are always unassuming and frank. There is something akin to impersonality about this very personal book, a true power of detachment." Royal Cortissoz

+ Books p7 My 10 '42 1300w

Reviewed by A. M. Colt

Library J 67:318 Ap 1 '42 80w

"There is no self-glorification in this book—the author's sense of good taste and humor would be insurance against that—but one gets the impression that Mr. Sedgwick has found his way of life agreeable. . . Mr. Sedgwick would probably be the last one to claim that his book is important, but he may rest satisfied that he has done something for the cause of relaxation in a high-tension world." E. F. Allen

N Y Times p2 My 3 '42 650w

Pratt p6 O '42

SEGAL, SIMON. New order in Poland; with an introd. by Raymond Leslie Buell. 296p il $3 Knopf

943.8 Poland—History—German occupation, 1939-. World war, 1939—Poland

(W) 42-13432

"It is the purpose of the present volume, says Dr. Segal, to show what the German 'New Order' is in practice. To accomplish this, he discusses German administration plans and problems, the failure to establish a puppet régime, and what in his opinion were the reasons therefor. He tells the sad story of population shifts, sums up the effect of the 'New Order' on Polish religious, cultural, and economic life, on labor, food production and distribution. He dwells at length on the organization of the ghettos and life in them. One chapter is devoted to the widespread underground movement; and the last, which hardly belongs with this series, is concerned wholly with the Polish Government in Exile." Christian Science Monitor

Booklist 38:382 Je 15 '42

Bookmark 3:13 My '42

"Since we here in America are sending our men to the four corners of the earth to give battle to the Nazi system without having actually felt its iron grip upon ourselves, this book of Mr. Segal's can be of great use in helping us to understand precisely against what corrosion we are struggling and for what high values we are willing to die." Virgilia Sapieha

+ Books p1 My 24 '42 1150w

"The writing is not always skillfully done. Sometimes it is quite uneven, awkward, repetitious, lacking in clarity. The book would have gained much by careful revision, for undoubtedly some of these faults are due to the fact that the author is not using his native tongue. There are also factual errors. . . Many will disagree with Dr. Segal's comments and judgments passed, convinced that not all his assertions will bear comparison with factual evidence. But, as said at the outset of this review, the value of the book lies in its résumé of what the Germans have done in Poland." A. S. C.

+ — Christian Science Monitor p18 My 21 '42 480w

Reviewed by E. M. Lynskey

Commonweal 36:283 J1 10 '42 600w

Reviewed by Rustem Vambery

Nation 155:96 Ag 1 '42 550w

New Repub 107:206 Ag 17 '42 60w

Reviewed by Milos Safranek

N Y Times p3 My 31 '42 1200w

"The principal reason why this or any other book on the subject cannot be regarded as scientifically accurate is the impossibility of making a complete check on information and even of gaining precise data. Segal's statistics are inevitably but samples, and his information, as is notably the case in his discussion of religious life, is sometimes obviously one-sided, or, for example, on the subject of population movement, is incomplete. . . Taken for what it is, an interim report before scientific details are available, this is a useful and timely book. It puts between two covers material heretofore scattered about in Polish propaganda materials and in German and other newspapers. The defects noted above are relatively minor matters when compared with the value of the book as a record of what is known about the Nazi order in Poland up to the beginning of this year." D. E. Lee

+ — Pol Sci Q 57:444 S '42 600w

Pratt p14 O '42

SEGHES, ANNA. The seventh cross; tr. from the German by James A. Galston. 338p $2.50 Little

(W) 42-20567

"The story is mainly George Heisler's, the young workers' delegate who with six others escaped one day from the concentration camp at Westhofen. But together with George's story it is the story of Wallau, whom George revered and loved as a leader and friend, and the story of a hidden, scattered army of men who fight their common enemy, the German State, without guns or bullets." Books

Appeared on Best Seller list in: ALA (1) Books (14) B & T (1) N Y Times (15) PW (2) RE (3) W (1)

"Noble simplicity of style and story, relentless march of incident, and complete absence of comment make this novel of pre-war Nazi Germany intensely engrossing and powerfully moving." R. M. Gay

+ Atlantic 170:144 O '42 180w

Booklist 39:49 O 15 '42

Bookmark 4:18 N '42

SEGHERS, ANNA—Continued

"Many fine books have come from the hands of those who were fortunate enough to escape from the carnage in Germany, bitter fruits grow out of soil saturated with blood and tears. But few reach the stature and the depth of 'The Seventh Cross.' . . . It is more than a compelling story of a man's escape from a German concentration camp; it is a testament to the grandeur and nobility of the human soul. One reads it sometimes with a choking throat and always with a quickened pulse. As long as men recognize a responsibility of brotherhood, no matter where they are, no matter who they are, the light of freedom cannot be dimmed. And in this story this responsibility is acknowledged, whatever the cost. Those of us who read it comfortably, safely, are strangely humbled." Rose Feld

+ Books p1 S 27 '42 1800w

"The most impressive account of Nazi Germany to date. It is possible in fiction to paint a truer picture of a people than factual reporting can create. The artist who can perceive the soul of his times, who with a richness of detail and character, a choice of revealing incident, a powerful theme, can invoke this soul in print, is the truest key to his civilization. The great Russian writers are examples of this. Anna Seghers is such an author." Dorothy Hillyer

+ Boston Globe p19 S 23 '42 750w

"The novel uses a cinematographic technique, the varied incidents of camp, street, and country all taking place simultaneously, and though the narrative is compelling and vivid, the effect is static. . . . The best thing about the book is its vivid evocation of the psychology of flight, of a world that has taken on the quality of a nightmare because of the fear in Heisler's mind and in the mind of his friends who try to protect him." N. E. Monroe

+ Cath World 156:502 Ja '43 360w

"It is a story of hope and of the majesty of faith and loyalty in ordinary men and women, in die-makers, railroad workers, paperhangers, housewives." W. K. R.

+ Christian Science Monitor p12 N 21 '42 550w

Reviewed by O. B. White

Commonweal 37:46 O 30 '42 430w

"Sometimes has tension of mystery novel; on the other hand, suffers from being unnecessarily drawn out and confused by many parallel narratives. Worth while for readers interested in German workers' attitude." H. H. A. Berntr

+ Library J 67:683 Ag '42 90w

"The difficulty is to puzzle out why, Seghers being as good a writer as she is, her novels are not really first-rate. This latest book gives us perhaps more light than before, because here she has frankly embraced her weaknesses." Clement Greenberg

+ Nation 155:388 O 17 '42 1450w

"Perhaps the gravest problem for serious writers in our time is to find a working compromise between the two attitudes represented by 'The Seventh Cross' and [Silone's] 'The Seed Beneath the Snow.' . . . Anna Seghers has written by far the better novel, perhaps the best of all books dealing with the Underground. In 'The Seventh Cross,' all the values are taken for granted. There is good and there is evil, both absolute, both unmistakable, one being represented by anti-fascism and George Heisler, the other by fascism and the camp commander. Between these extremes are all the ordinary people in whom good and evil exist in varying proportions, but the mixtures, so to speak, are mechanical rather than chemical. There is never any hint that good and evil may be independent, or that heroes and villains may be produced by the same situation, out of almost the same human material. Miss Seghers is dealing with a situation in which evil is almost everywhere triumphant and yet she seems to believe that people are naturally good." Malcolm Cowley

+ New Repub 107:385 S 28 '42 1250w

"'The Seventh Cross' is both a gripping story and a graphic picture. If Frau Seghers is by no means a great artist, she is much more than a good story teller, and she has managed to reveal a good deal about her life in the Third Reich during the years before the war." Louis Kronenberger

+ N Y Times p1 S 27 '42 1100w

"'The Seventh Cross' is this war's closest parallel to 'The Case of Sergeant Grischa.' It is by no means as moving a work, but the author, a German refugee now resident in Mexico, resembles Zweig in her humanity, her sense of the subtle connections that bind people, and her capacity to transform an apparently minor episode into a sweeping, symbolic experience. 'The Seventh Cross' is one of the few thoroughly mature novels to come out of the war. . . . I should add that the concentration-camp scenes are the most effective I have encountered in any book. The horrors are not piled on. Indeed, they are hardly described. The tone is quiet; suggestion conveys everything. There is hardly any anger on the part of the author. There is plenty in the reader." Clifton Fadiman

+ New Yorker 18:77 S 26 '42 550w

Pratt p12 D '42

"A general feeling of doubt has lately been growing as to whether contemporary fiction writing could hope to live up to the realities of contemporary history. Here, at last, is a book which is to give indisputable proof that fiction writing can, and does, stand the test. Anna Seghers, well-known for her distinguished work in pre-Hitler Germany, has written a great novel. In this reviewer's opinion, it is not only the most important contribution to world literature made, so far, by any exiled German author, but also one of the most remarkable books to come out of these times of chaos and moral danger." Robert Pick

+ Sat R of Lit 25:8 S 26 '42 800w

Time 40:92 S 28 '42 1000w

SEIDMAN, HAROLD. Investigating municipal administration; a study of the New York city Dept. of investigation. 215p $2.50 Inst. of public administration

352 New York (city). Investigation, Department of. New York (city)—Politics and government 41-25749

"Dr. Seidman writes as an important employee of the New York City Department of Investigation and as a candidate for a degree at Columbia University under the tutelage of Dr. Luther Gulick. The resulting doctor's dissertation is a history of the Department from its inception in 1873 to the present, plus a brief discussion of departmental procedure, and a still briefer evaluation of similar staff agencies in other cities." Am Pol Sci R

Reviewed by L. D. Upson

Am Pol Sci R 36:358 Ap '42 700w

"Since the author is a member of the Department, it is to be expected that the latter part of the volume may err slightly on the side of laudation and be somewhat weak on critical analysis. It is, however, a good exposition of the history, the organization, and the work of the leading municipal department of its kind in the country." Harvey Pinney

+ Ann Am Acad 220:250 Mr '42 450w

SEIDMAN, JOEL ISAAC. Needle trades. (Labor in twentieth century America, v 1) 356p $2.50 Farrar

331.7687 Clothing trade. Trade unions—U.S. (W) 42-5253

This is the first volume of a series to be devoted to historical surveys of the conditions of the working classes and unionization in certain major American industries. Partial contents: The needle trades; Working conditions; Early unions; The I.L.G.W.U.; The rise of the Amalgamated; Unions in the other needle trades; Recent developments; Collective bargaining; Problems ahead; Bibliographical note. Index.

"Especially valuable is the critical bibliography although Dr. Seidman's book shows every evidence of an absorption so complete that little study of previous sources should be necessary. The scholarliness of the work has not stood in the way of a presentation as vividly alive as the life and activities of the organizations which he describes and analyzes." Elsie Glück

+ Am Econ R 32:640 S '42 340w

"Seidman writes with fidelity to the facts, a scholar's knowledge of dependable sources, and a devotion to the cause of the labor movement which mars not at all his objectivity, but rather improves it by informing it." J. R. Walsh

+ Ann Am Acad 222:231 J1 '42 480w
Booklist 38:247 Mr 15 '42

SEIFERT, ADELE. Three blind mice. 271p $2
Morrow

Detective story. 42-3384

"Miss Seifert loads her story with ill-starred passion, not to say great hunks of agony, so perhaps it will prosper as a matinee item. A case of young love balances some of the grief, and Thor, a dog, figures handsomely at strategic points. Speeds up in the middle, as do most murder tales, once there are questions to answer." Will Cuppy

Books p25 Mr 1 '42 80w

"The story offers some promising characterization, a good deal of incident, and one cleverly managed piece of evidence. But it would have to be more expertly developed to be lifted above the run-of-the-mill class." K. I.

N Y Times p22 Mr 29 '42 160w
Sat R of Lit 25:18 F 28 '42 50w

SEIFERT, ELIZABETH (MRS JOHN GASPAROTTI). Army doctor. 259p $2.50 Dodd
(W) 42-4615

Story of a young doctor's first year in the army, of his rebellion against regimentation and red tape and of the two women who influenced his career.

"'Army Doctor' is a vivid presentation of camp life and the problems involved in adjusting civilians to soldiering." Lisle Bell

+ Books p17 F 22 '42 240w

"'Army Doctor' gives a realistic picture of the problems of new citizen soldiers, men and officers. The dangers of camp boredom, town temptations, disease, and radical agitation are discussed as they arise in this particular camp. As matters of vital importance in the nation's war program they provide interesting but not profound ground material for young Lieutenant Saunders's career and love story." B. S.

+ N Y Times p24 Mr 8 '42 380w
Springf'd Republican p7e F 15 '42 220w

SEIFERT, ELIZABETH (MRS JOHN GASPAROTTI). Surgeon in charge. 245p $2.50
Dodd

(W) 42-21080

Miss Amy Fleming's grandfather had endowed the Women's and Children's Hospital at Fairfax, Missouri, so when Miss Fleming returned home after years abroad it was right that she should become Chairman of the Board. Even tho she and the head surgeon were by nature antagonistic, all might have gone well enough, had not three doctors fallen in love with her—young Dr. Barry, the refugee Dr. Boehner, and—the head surgeon himself. In the end, however, Miss Amy proved she had wisdom as well as beauty and charm.

"Miss Seifert is so intent upon bringing her plot to a boil, and watching the bubbles of gossip churn to the surface, that she sometimes overdoes it. The characters in whose behalf she speaks behave in a fashion that alienates one's sympathy." Lisle Bell

Books p12 S 13 '42 370w

"Miss Seifert is clever at making her dramatic situations lifelike and plausible, and her medical and hospital details have the true hospital smell." Charlotte Dean

N Y Times p32 S 27 '42 280w

SELDES, GILBERT VIVIAN. Proclaim liberty!
202p $2 Greystone

940.5373 World war, 1939—U.S.

"Mr. Seldes contends that if we 'proclaim liberty throughout the land and to all the inhabitants thereof' we shall furnish them with spiritual munitions which will overcome the tanks and planes and subs and battleships, the machine guns and the hand grenades of the dictator. He offers no war strategy. That is not his branch of the war. But he holds that if the peoples of the earth can trust the United States and the democratic nations of the world to take leadership and actually proclaim liberty, the love of liberty will cover the earth and conquer the tyrants now." Books

"Mr. Seldes's book is a textbook of spiritual strategy. It should be a handbook for lovers of liberty everywhere. It is eloquently written and logically conceived." W. A. White

+ Books p5 Je 14 '42 350w

Christian Science Monitor p18 J1 16 '42
360w

"Readers may disagree with certain tenets advanced, but no one can fail to be impressed with his fervor. Written at white heat, Proclaim Liberty! is succinct and forceful. Ephemeral book but will be read widely." Rice Estes

Library J 67:475 My 15 '42 70w

"Mr. Seldes has written a stirring book, the aims of which will appeal to all progressives. But it is doubtful that his attempt to resurrect the Declaration of Independence and to make that 'forgotten document' the basis of our peace aims and the focal point of national unity will succeed. For Mr. Seldes has not inquired why the Declaration is a forgotten document; and such an inquiry is basic to his problem." J. D. Kingsley

+ New Repub 107:204 Ag 17 '42 360w

"No vast plans for Mr. Seldes. He deals in promising expedients rather than ironbound conclusions. A mixed bag: some sketchy and even naive reasoning and some oversimplified history, but also some good, germinal ideas about strategy, unity, morale, the postwar problems, and other matters. Temperately written."

New Yorker 18:80 Je 6 '42 90w

"A sincere, useful fundamental book." J. B. Reston

+ Sat R of Lit 25:8 J1 4 '42 600w

Reviewed by Russell Chapin

Springf'd Republican p7e Ja 3 '43 300w

SELTZER, CHARLES ALDEN. So long, sucker. 276p $2 Doubleday

41-25427

Western story.

Booklist 38:210 F 15 '42

"In this fast and snappy tale Charles Alden Seltzer, veteran of some thirty-five Western stories, is in top form. It is cleverly worked out and well written and convincingly skillful in characterization." G. W. Harris

+ N Y Times p25 F 15 '42 260w

Times [London] Lit Sup p321 Je 27 '42
70w

SEMLER, MRS ISABEL (PARKER), and UNDERWOOD, PIERSON. Horatio Parker; a memoir for his grandchildren, compiled from letters and papers. 330p il $3 Putnam

B or 92 Parker, Horatio William 42-1778

Biography of the author's father, who was an American composer, organist, and teacher. His first work, a cantata, King Trojan, was heard in Munich in 1885. Among his best known works are Hora Novissima (1893) St Christopher (1898) and the opera Mona (1911). An appendix contains a bibliography of his complete works.

Reviewed by Leonard Young
Churchman 156:17 Je 1 '42 360w

SEMLER, I. P.—Continued

"A biography of such an important figure as the composer of Hora Novissima should be greeted with genuine pleasure, and Isabel Parker Semler's volume does make interesting reading, but it is not a penetrating work. . . A good deal of the man Parker emerges from these letters and papers, a lovable character, and a serious artist, but the connecting commentary is avowedly for the reverent grandchildren and entirely uncritical. Thus we shall have to wait for a full length critical biography toward which the present authors have contributed valuable material." P. H. Lang
+ — Sat R of Lit 25:31 Ap 11 '42 310w

SERT, JOSE LUIS. Can our cities survive? an A.B.C. of urban problems, their analysis, their solutions; based on the proposals formulated by the C.I.A.M. 259p il $5 Harvard univ. press

711 City planning. Architecture A42-5311

"This book, an A B C of urban problems, their analysis and solutions, based on the proposals formulated by the International Congresses for Modern Architecture, warrants the attention of all who are discouraged or uncomfortable over the problems connected with modern cities. It enables both the layman and the technician to understand the urban organism as a whole, in a study of the four primary functions that are connected inseparably with our everyday lives—dwellings, work, recreation and transportation. Suggestions for reorganization are made 'in the hope of a better fulfillment of the cultural rôle of cities, which constitutes the main justification of their existence.'" Scientific Bk Club R

"The study of this fine book will give any reader a comprehensive and adequate idea of town-planning and the problems of modern urbanization, as long as this reader is not a specialist or an architect looking for detailed technical and professional information. . . Mr. Sert's book makes one assumption which, I think, is made too easily: that this is a non-political issue and that all you have to overcome is the ignorance of inertia of the masses. With the right leadership you can take these obstacles. But the wilfully blind, the selfish, vested interest and the—justifiable—fear of being sold into regimentation are the really serious obstacles to this thesis. But read it." H. A. Reinhold

+ Commonweal 37:402 F 5 '43 700w

Reviewed by Albert Guérard
Nation 156:62 Ja 9 '43 900w

Reviewed by Lewis Mumford
New Repub 108:186 F 8 '43 1500w
Scientific Bk Club R 13:4 D '42 330w

SEYBERT, MILDRED, and OLSON, LYLIA MAE. Taffy and Tuffy; with a tribute to a dog, by Helen Keller. [51p] il $1.25 Appleton-Century

Dogs—Legends and stories 42-25895

Two nurses at the Mayo clinic took photographs of their King Charles spaniels, Taffy and Tuffy, and wrote short descriptive text of their activities to make this book for young readers.

"King Charles spaniels have a way of co-operating with children that is all their own: letting themselves be dressed in dolls' clothes and dutifully holding poses like humans, they never have that hang-dog, apologetic look while doing it that dogs with history less regal always put on. Taffy and Tuffy, in this story-picture-book of posed photographs, manage somehow to keep their dignity intact and even on occasion to radiate good will." M. L. Becker

+ Books p6 Ja 3 '43 150w

Spring'd Republican p7e D 13 '42 170w

SEYFERT, ELLA MAIE. Amish moving day; with il. by Henrietta Jones. 126p $2 Crowell (W) 42-15002

Story of the Wengers, Amish folk from the Lancaster county farm country, who moved to the new colony in Maryland. There was considerable excitement and sadness, as well as the joy of discovering that friendly people lived in Maryland, as well as in Pennsylvania. Grades four to six.

Booklist 38:444 Jl 15 '42

"The story is new light on a corner of our country. The Amish contribution to American life may not be considerable, but it is distinctive and should not be overlooked in our children's literature." M. L. Becker

+ Books p6 Jl 19 '42 400w

Reviewed by D. M. MacDonald

Library J 67:798 S 15 '42 80w

"The Pennsylvania Dutch dialect makes it difficult reading for children of the age to which the style of format appeals. Subject matter seems too mature, with too little action to hold interest of younger readers. Not recommended for average library." J. E. Wooster

Library J 67:798 S 15 '42 60w

"The dialect is skillfully handled in a way to lend interest and freshness without puzzling the inexperienced reader, and the story has a wholesome simplicity. With its calm atmosphere of unpretentious, industrious country living, 'Amish Moving Day' is excellent reading for those 8 to 11 years olds who must live more sophisticated and crowded lives. Miss Seyfert has again drawn an authentic and sympathetic picture of a sturdy, peace-loving section of our country. The drawings have plenty of action and the gentle charm of the text." A. T. Eaton

+ N Y Times p11 S 27 '42 340w

Wis Lib Bul 38:140 O '42

SEYMOUR, BEATRICE KEAN (STAPLETON) (MRS W. K. SEYMOUR). Happy ever after. 314p $2.50 Macmillan [8s 6d Heinemann] 42-5689

Brenda Martindale, the daughter of a fine English family living in the Lake District, married a charming young summer visitor from London. She stood by him even when she discovered he was a gambler and adventurer, but when a man was killed in her house Brenda took her young daughter and fled to Devon. Even there she found no long lasting peace, for the announcement of her daughter's marriage gave away her hiding place, and once more Brenda had to deal with her worthless husband.

Booklist 38:276 Ap 1 '42

Reviewed by Lisle Bell

Books p17 Ap 12 '42 290w

"Not by any means a cheerful business; and yet, after reading much contemporary fiction, Mrs. Seymour's novel is delightfully refreshing, if only because there are at least some characters in it who have wholesome standards of decency, and Brenda's own struggle is a struggle to preserve the values of her personal integrity." Wilfrid Gibson

+ Manchester Guardian p3 S 26 '41 200w

"This wry inversion of old fairy-tale formulae could not well be bettered in craftsmanship or as finished literary art. As a story of many-faceted human conflict on the personal side its most distinguishing features are compassion and undeviating integrity, with integrity winning every time. It is, in short, life seen in terms of character governed by immutable law." J. S. Southron

+ N Y Times p7 Mr 8 '42 700w

"A grim tale in an attractive rural setting."

New Yorker 18:63 Mr 7 '42 50w

"Except for the love and knowledge of gardens that is part of almost all Miss Kean Seymour's books, it would be difficult to recognize her latest story as hers; not that it is not good—it is excellent in its way but its way is quite different from the endearing warmth and intimacy of the Sally books. It is so difficult, in the present book, to believe that people would act as they do, and usually the convincing veracity of Miss Kean Seymour's psychology is the very skeleton of her work. . . For all that, Miss Kean Seymour's skill and her easy, flowing style carry the reader along irresistibly and make him accept those parts of the book which seem to strain credulity a little."

+ — Times [London] Lit Sup p481 S 27 '41 240w

SEYMOUR, EDWARD LOOMIS DAVENPORT, ed. New garden encyclopedia; a complete, practical and convenient guide to every detail of gardening. new rev 1941 ed il 1348p $2.98; de luxe ed $3.48 1942 Wise

635.903 Gardening—Dictionaries 41-4501

"An earlier edition of the Garden Encyclopedia was reviewed in Subscription Books Bulletin, July 1936. The present edition contains new material on the subject of soilless culture and other developments in the science of gardening. Among the new articles are: soil conservation; bio-dynamics; nutrient solution. Examples of revised articles are: soil testing; standards. The amount of new material included represents about fifty pages." Subscription Bks Bul

"The new edition is not an essential purchase for libraries and individuals having the earlier edition in good condition. Many libraries will wish to replace worn copies at the reduced price. The New Garden Encyclopedia is recommended."

+ Subscription Bks Bul 13:16 Ap '42 300w

SFORZA, CARLO, conte. Real Italians; a study in European psychology. 156p $2 Columbia univ. press

914.5 Italy—Civilization. National characteristics, Italian 42-14340

Nineteen chapters on various aspects of Italian history, and Italian characteristics, in which a prominent exile expresses his hope that his country will one day outlive fascism. Partial contents: Why their history has made the Italians discontented internationalists; The Italians and their literature; The Italians and their roots in the soil; The Italians and their religion; Italians of the North and Italians of the South; Italy and foreign visitors and writers; The Italians and their French neighbors; The Italians and their German neighbors; The Italians and their English neighbors; The Italians and America; The Italians and the future of Europe. Recent books on Italian problems.

Reviewed by S. W. Halperin

Am Soc R 7:892 D '42 500w

"The very brevity of the book precludes adequate treatment. It abstracts the Italian and idealizes him, especially the peasant. Addressed originally to the French people, many of the references to French history and events will carry no meaning to the American reader. And there will no doubt be discriminating readers who will regret that the author drags in so many references to himself and the part he has played in a world of privilege that is gone... One point the author might have brought out, namely, that it is precisely the Italians' simplicity and peacefulness that makes them from time to time the easy prey of tyrants... We would wish also that the author had given us a clear-cut statement of present-day Italian aspirations, and of the position he plans to take in the liberation movement." Constantine Panunzio

Ann Am Acad 223:202 S '42 470w

"This is no political pamphlet. Rather it is a series of urbane observations on the Italian language, literature and temperament, written with a scholar's fond citation of little known passages in literature and a modest sprinkling of anecdote from the author's distinguished diplomatic career. Count Sforza sees his people as the product of the centuries. The Mussolini tyranny is but an evil episode in their majestic history... In these serene and luminous pages one of the most courageous of living Italians gives his pledge that his people will presently become a loyal component of the new free Europe." Hiram Motherwell

+ Books p7 S 20 '42 650w

Christian Century 59:732 Je 3 '42 130w

Current Hist 3:358 D '42 170w

"Certainly there is great need for book on understanding the Italian people—along lines of The English Are Like That—but it will have to be better organized and more solid than this volume." R. S. Alvarez

Library J 67:413 My 1 '42 90w

Reviewed by Gaetano Salvemini

Nation 155:271 S 26 '42 1100w

"This is perhaps the best of Sforza's books, and, from a certain angle, the best book a non-Italian can read about Italy today." G. A. Borgese

+ New Repub 107:26 Jl 6 '42 1050w

Reviewed by Arthur Livingston

N Y Times p9 Je 14 '42 1150w

"Because it is short, informal, and agreeable to read, the value of this book might be underrated. Historians will be able to point out inconsistencies; economists will be disturbed because the author describes the Italian's love of the land without admitting that this land is overpopulated. It remains, however, an eloquent statement of faith in the Italian people—or in common humanity—and it should be read by all believers in democracy as an antidote to the cynicism of war." Elizabeth Wilder

+ — Social Studies 33:376 D '42 480w

SHANE, SUSANNAH. Lady in danger. 274p $2 Dodd

42-4616

Detective story.

Reviewed by Will Cuppy

Books p21 Mr 8 '42 130w

"Although it is a wildly improbable tale, 'Lady in Danger' is skillfully plotted and is a great improvement upon the author's 'Lady in Lilac.'" Isaac Anderson

+ — N Y Times p14 F 22 '42 200w

"Nice, social book, with a plot that may seem a trifle complicated."

New Yorker 17:72 F 14 '42 70w

"Emotional and exciting workout of rather elderly motive for mass murder. People interesting and action plentiful, although somewhat involved. Good grade."

+ — Sat R of Lit 25:18 F 14 '42 40w

SHANKLE, GEORGE EARLIE. American mottoes and slogans. 183p $1.75 Wilson, H.W.

973 U.S.—History—Dictionaries, Mottoes, Slogans (W) 41-26048

"About 300 slogans and mottoes, mostly of historical and political significance, are listed in alphabetical order. When possible, information is given on the origin and significance of each." Booklist

Booklist 38:187 F 1 '42

"An indispensable aid in the field of American history." Alvin Adey

+ Current Hist 2:65 Mr '42 110w

Pratt p14 O '42

SHANN, MRS RENEE. Air force girl. (Carlton house bk) 275p $2 Random house [7s 6d Collins]

42-14628

Jane and Stella lived together in bachelor girl quarters in London. Jane knew Stella had been married and was divorced, but when she joined the WAAF and fell in love with a young flight lieutenant, she did not know until too late for heartaches that the man was Stella's ex-husband. A third woman further complicates matters but in the end all is resolved happily.

Reviewed by Lisle Bell

Books p14 My 17 '42 130w

"The author, who has a fresh slant on triangle plots, brings this one to a satisfactory conclusion. It is a well-told story." Charlotte Dean

+ N Y Times p23 My 10 '42 180w

SHAPIRO, IRWIN. How Old Stormalong captured Mocha Dick; pictures by Donald McKay. 47p $1.50 Messner 42-20568

Tall tale of the sailor Stormalong, who stood four fathoms high in his stocking feet. Stormalong's ambition was to capture the great white whale, but he found on his first voyage that it took a little practise. This story for grades five to eight describes Stormalong's adventures on land, and his final success on the sea.

Booklist 39:75 N 1 '42

"The tale is in the true tall tradition and the pictures go right along with it. Repetition makes it slightly rhythmic, not enough to make it too much so. For this is a he-boy story whose graces are incidental, as they were when folk-legends like this were getting their growth in this America of ours." M. L. Becker
+ Books p9 O 25 '42 350w

Reviewed by R. A. Hill

Library J 67:883 O 15 '42 30w

Reviewed by J. E. Wooster

Library J 67:956 N 1 '42 70w

"Children won't know which is funnier, the yarn or its pictures. They are perfectly matched, and the book is the freshest, most rollicking one that boys, wanting to laugh, will have found in a long time." Irene Smith
+ N Y Times p9 N 15 '42 240w

SHAPIRO, KARL JAY. Person, place and thing. 88p $2 Reynal 811 42-51003

Poems by a young American. "These mordant, taut outpourings of an embittered and sensitive young American will be the current talk of poetry circles, for, whether the reader likes these poems or not, he will certainly react strongly to them." (Library J)

"Consists of short lyrics and ballads, uneven in quality, some being packed with intensity and highly polished in style, while a few suffer from confusion and harshness of tone. But at no time does Mr. Shapiro commit the crime of dullness. His attitude for picturesque phraseology is indeed remarkable, and his craftsmanship excellent. He is a poet to watch and to buy." Rice Estes
+ Library J 67:1012 N 15 '42 100w

"The poet has to keep many activities going, but one activity as necessary as any other is to keep thinking all the time. It is not easy, but it is necessary. Fortunately Mr. Shapiro's practice is far superior to his theory, so that what we have here is a book which everyone interested in modern poetry ought to read." Delmore Schwartz
+ Nation 156:63 Ja 9 '43 1100w

"Shapiro's style is on the classical side. The images are often violent but are always contained in a strict pattern. Repeated sound ('the land command,' 'the iron lion') is used effectively; conventional end-rhyme sparingly. In the early poems the image of the camera shutter, following just beyond life and taking the subject from several angles, is ever present. But in the later ones, with the old America and the enemies of the trade excoriated, all such impedimenta are dropped. 'A Cut Flower,' written in July of this year, fuses exterior observation and personal symbol with such extraordinary skill that it might be called the War Poem as Still Life. I cannot refrain from emphasizing the importance and significance of the actual war poems in this book. They are few in number and perhaps slight in intention. But they make me feel doubly confident that Shapiro is a true spokesman of our generation—a generation that grew up to hate war." Selden Rodman
+ New Repub 107:834 D 21 '42 750w

"It is the kind of easy good writing that makes perfect satire if the matter is worth while. There is a hint of love poetry, but not much. There are some worthless religious lyrics. It is Mr Shapiro's directness and hardness in his quick-tempered and hair-triggered lines that stand out. He could be a great satirist." P. M. Jack

+ N Y Times p11 Ja 3 '43 450w

"This book was edited and published without the author's assistance. Shapiro is at present on active duty somewhere in the Pacific. Poetry has recently given him its highest award, the Levinson Prize, and no recipient ever more thoroughly deserved it." Louise Bogan
+ New Yorker 18:49 Ja 9 '43 550w

SHARPE, DORES ROBINSON. Walter Rauschenbusch. 463p $2.75 Macmillan

B or 92 Rauschenbusch, Walter

(W) 42-12945

"In introduction to this biography by Dr. Rauschenbusch's secretary, Harry Emerson Fosdick calls Rauschenbusch 'one of the most inspiring teachers and prophets American Christianity has produced.' He had far-reaching influence on developing social awareness of Protestant religion in years preceding World War I, beginning with publication in 1907 of his Christianity and the Social Crisis." (Library J) Index.

Booklist 38:425 Jl 1 '42

"Every Christian with a social conscience will want to read this reassuring book, which will bring him encouragement and inspiration. Any 'Christian' without a social conscience ought to read it—it may be the means of his conversion!" H. C. Phillips
+ Christian Century 59:727 Je 3 '42 950w

"It is a sympathetic, intimate book; its preparation a devotional labor... And Dr. Sharpe has been conscientious and thorough in his authorship. Perhaps this is why some of us have had to be impatient that the expected biography did not appear sooner. But this very thoroughness has overloaded the book... Nor has the author's plethora of material been well assembled. He runs from one phase to another of Rauschenbusch's life and views. You fail of a real life story; it is piecemeal." Mitchell Bronk
+ Crozer Q 19:235 Jl '42 800w

Reviewed by A. W. Taylor

J Religion 22:427 O '42 800w

"Authentic, but too meticulous to arouse wide popular interest in a man who was himself dynamic and inspiring." J. S. Cleavinger
Library J 67:318 Ap 1 '42 70w

"Rauschenbusch's literary output is more the subject of the biography than is Rauschenbusch himself. The book is interesting, but it is rather a compendium of Rauschenbuschiana than a clear portrait of a man. Try as he will to bring to life someone whom he almost worships and about whom he makes the most unqualified assertions, Dr. Sharpe leaves the reader unsatisfied at some points." C. D. Kean
+ Springfield Republican p6 D 1 '42 650w

Reviewed by Leon Whipple

Survey G 31:255 My '42 230w

Wis Lib Bul 38:119 Jl '42

SHARTLE, SAMUEL GRANT. Spa, Versailles, Munich; an account of the Armistice commission; with a foreword by Robert Lee Bullard. 136p $1.50 Dorrance

940.439 Permanent international armistice commission. European war, 1914-1918—Armistices 41-10230

"An account of the work of the Armistice Commission in 1918-1919, by one of its American members, with a postlogue on the present-day foreign policy of the United States." Foreign Affairs

Christian Century 58:887 Jl 9 '41 100w

Reviewed by R. G. Woolbert

Foreign Affairs 20:381 Ja '42 30w

SHAW, ARCHER HAYES. Plain dealer, one hundred years in Cleveland [1842-1942; foreword by Paul Bellamy]. 419p il $4 Knopf

071 Plain dealer, Cleveland 42-1503

History of the Cleveland Plain Dealer thru its first hundred years. The growth and struggles of the paper often coincided with the development of the city itself, all of which is brought out in this study. The book is divided into three periods: The Gray regime (1842-1862); The Armstrong regime (1865-1885); The Holden regime (1885-). Index.

"This is a competent book, but it has the fault which is characteristic of most of our full-length biographies of newspapers. Written by a long-time member of the paper's staff, it is almost inevitably panegyrical in tone. Not that Mr. Shaw omits the shadier parts of his paper's career; he has for them an indulgent smile, for it's a grand old paper after all." F. L. Mott

+ — Am Hist R 48:145 O '42 350w

Booklist 38:203 F 15 '42

"Mr. Shaw, the scholarly author of this excellent newspaper history, has been chief editorial writer of 'The Plain Dealer' for the last thirty-two years. It is said that this book, on which he has been working for years, will mark the end of his active service and that he will go into retirement. His swan song, if such it be, is generally satisfactory. It is not highly exciting, but it is balanced, judicious, and apparently at all times as fair as could reasonably be expected." Stanley Walker

+ Books p4 Ja 11 '42 1050w

"A valuable contribution to the history of American journalism, with interesting material on the history of one of our great cities and revealing sidelights on the political history of the past century. Recommended for large libraries and for special collections in history and journalism." H. L. Wooster

+ Library J 66:1094 D 15 '41 100w

Nation 154:469 Ap 18 '42 40w

New Repub 106:374 Mr 16 '42 60w

"The history of this outstanding journal of the Western Reserve joins the ranks of other newspaper chronicles and well deserves a place on the shelf. . . . The reader of Mr. Shaw's volume may feel that somewhat too large a proportion of his space has been given to the earliest days of The Plain Dealer and the unimportant details of struggles with rival newspapers. One wishes for a more extended story of the past thirty years. Incidentally, there is only one reference to the Van Sweringens, in a footnote." C. McD. P.

N Y Times p21 Mr 22 '42 320w

Reviewed by O. G. Villard

Sat R of Lit 25:9 F 7 '42 800w

Spring'd Republican p8 Ja 7 '42 1100w

SHAW, IRWIN. Welcome to the city, and other stories. 269p $2 Random house

42-5833

"These have to do with the minor crises in the lives of minor people, of little people with jobs or for the moment without them, of lonely people who find some others quite as lonely to help them through the unendurable solitude of crowded cities. A number of the sketches have appeared in this magazine." New Yorker

"Shaw's stories are contemporary to a degree and New Yorkish to a degree. There are in them elements that in other writers would be merely a modish despair, a modish heartbreak, a modish 'social consciousness.' But Shaw's genuine warmth and rightness of feeling, his mature and discriminating sensibility, give the best of them what one feels is a solid and lasting quality." H. N. Doughty, jr.

+ Books p6 Ja 25 '42 850w

"The author strives for the human touch but doesn't quite make the grade, for the book is neither subtle nor obvious enough to leave a lasting impression. There is an air of futility in all episodes; the characters talk and talk, but lack an individual spark such as brings each of O. Henry's people to life. The stories vary in quality." H. R. Burdett

Library J 67:41 Ja 1 '42 70w

"I am sick of writers whom we should 'watch' or expect fine things from," after they have grown up, that is. I will settle for anybody who can keep the book light in my hand as I read it, reading for pleasure. 'Welcome to the City' is not Irwin Shaw's best work to date, and it probably is not his best work for the future. But I will settle for Irwin Shaw." Otis Ferguson

+ New Repub 106:157 F 2 '42 370w

"Mr. Shaw's dialogue is, as it always is, smart, tough and often funny. Its hard comedy relieves to some degree the general gloom of murky depression and fear—but not much. For the comments are tentative and incomplete, and although Mr. Shaw is an extraordinarily fine technician, his brilliance as a narrator is not great enough to do more than dimly illumine his characters under their heavy pall of discouragement and discontent." Robert Van Gelder

+ — N Y Times p6 F 1 '42 500w

New Yorker 17:67 Ja 24 '42 60w

Time 39:92 F 16 '42 210w

SHEAHAN, HENRY BESTON. See Beston, H.

SHEARING, JOSEPH, pseud. See Long, G. M. V. C.

SHEDD, MARGARET (MRS OLIVER MICHAEL KISICH). Hurricane caye; a novel of the tropics. 309p $2.50 Harper Sophisticated novel which traces the courses of three very different love stories against the background of tropical Central America.

42-14744

"It is because her gifts are peculiarly fine and sensitive that Miss Shedd fails to bring off the third affair in any convincing manner. For in dealing with Mrs. Talbot, nymphomaniac wife of the manager of the plantation, and Amenebar, the oily, paunchy Mexican bordelo magnate, she is on territory that seems completely alien to her. . . . But, apart from this flaw, 'Hurricane Caye' is a highly interesting and highly individual first novel. Miss Shedd's description of the hurricane and of the tragic events which followed are, in themselves sufficient to insure her a high place among the new novelists of this year." Rose Feld

+ — Books p3 My 31 '42 700w

Nation 154:664 Je 6 '42 120w

"This story about a group of people on a palm plantation in the Central American tropics introduces a novelist of distinct individuality and promise. Miss Shedd's writing, highly subjective and often self-possessed, makes one feel her personality almost tangibly behind each phrase. At times her emotionalism becomes a bit too self-consciously an end in itself, obscuring the course of the story and leaving the reader dazed as if he had spent a day in the tropical sun. But there are moments where the versatile expressions of her temperament are blended into a style brilliantly eloquent and even precise." Marianne Hauser

+ — N Y Times p6 My 31 '42 800w

"A sophisticated, complicated, and stylistically elaborate story."

New Yorker 18:66 My 30 '42 60w

"'Hurricane Caye' will be enjoyed by readers who relish good writing which never quite degenerates into fine writing. The author is at her best in communicating the exhilarating and lyric beauty of flight, and in the breath-taking account of a ferocious tropical storm which leaves the reader all but exhausted." R. A. Cordell

+ Sat R of Lit 25:6 My 30 '42 410w

SHEEDY, ANNA T. Bartolus on social conditions in the fourteenth century. 267p $3.25 Columbia univ. press

914.5 Italy—Social conditions. Bartolus de Saxoferrato

"This study has evolved from an examination of the writings of Bartolus of Saxoferrato for information regarding certain aspects of social life in fourteenth century Italy. Bartolus—the Prince of Commentators, the Lamp of the Law—was the leading civilist of the age. For more than a century his opinions were regarded as authoritative in the schools and in the courts; at times, as in Spain and Portugal, they even had the force of law." (Pref) Bibliography. Index.

SHEEDY, A. T.—Continued

"The present treatise records a piece of sound research by a competent and careful scholar."

+ Christian Century 60:81 Ja 20 '43 300w
+ Springf'd Republican p6 D 23 '42 600w

SHELDON, MRS JEAN (PENDLETON)
(GENE HENRY, pseud). Miss Bronska. 250p
$2 Dodd

(W) 42-1191

Miss Bronska was a Polish refugee, delighted to be in England and to be allowed to work in an underground canteen. She was tiny and bright-eyed and quick in her movements—not unlike a sparrow, but much more effective. Thru her almost miraculous perception and instinctive tact Miss Bronska retrieved a blinded R.A.F. officer from the brink of insanity and converted him into a highly useful citizen. This was just one of Miss Bronska's thank offerings to the haven that was England. Some of these chapters have appeared in the Saturday Evening Post.

Booklist 38:189 F 1 '42

"'Miss Bronska' contributes a touching minor figure to the records of valor." Lisle Bell

+ Books p14 Ja 11 '42 130w

Cleveland Open Shelf p2 Ja '42

"Few more lovable characters of fiction have emerged during this war. By quiet and loving deeds Miss Bronska applies the lesson that one of the most valuable helps to any maimed person, and especially the blinded, is a belief in his continuing value to society."

+ Springf'd Republican p7e Ja 18 '42
120w

SHELDON, WILLIAM HERBERT, and STEVENS, STANLEY SMITH. Varieties of temperament; a psychology of constitutional differences. 520p $4.50 Harper

137 Temperament 42-13656

Second volume of the Constitutional psychology series of which the first was The Varieties of Human Physique (Book Review Digest, 1940). "The second book deals mainly 'with behavioral dynamics and with the interrelations between the static and dynamic levels of personality.' It is based on the belief that 'if human beings can be described in terms of their most deep-seated similarities and differences, it may prove not impossible to differentiate between heredity and the effects of environment.' A system is presented for treating the problem 'in terms of what appear to be basic components of temperament. These components in turn are tied back to and interpreted in terms of basic components of morphology. The emphasis is upon constitutional factors, upon the relatively stable qualities of a man which give him basic individuality.'" (Scientific Bk Club R) Index.

"This is an important and extremely useful study. The success achieved in introducing clarity and order in a particularly complicated and confusing field has been possible because the contributors to the study have been versatile in their approach to and handling of their problem. The techniques and concepts of the statistician, the physical anthropologist, the medical clinician, and the psychologist have all been drawn upon, in a manner perhaps not entirely acceptable to the purist in some given fields, but certainly in one appropriate to the author's purposes. One notes, however, that so doing has apparently taxed the assimilative capacities of the author. He would appear to have some prejudices against clinicians and psychoanalysts." G. J. Mohr, M.D.
+ — Am J Soc 48:439 N '42 3550w

"The book is crammed with the sharp, witty, and illuminating comments and asides with which Professor Sheldon delightfully hints at the practical bearings of his work. . . This book will interest all who care to enlarge their understanding of human nature, whether or not they favor numerical schemes of rating." H. M. Parslhey

+ Books p29 N 8 '42 800w

Scientific Bk Club R 13:4 My '42 180w

SHELTON, ALFRED COOPER. Down to the sea in Maine; photographs; with an introd. by Robert P. Tristram Coffin. 116p $3.50 Dutton

917.41 Maine—Views

42-12128

Reproductions of eighty-four photographs of the Maine coast in summer and winter garb. In an introduction Robert Tristram Coffin describes the coast and the people who inhabit it.

Booklist 38:425 J1 1 '42

"Mr. Shelton's new and beautiful collection of Maine coast photographs should hold especial appeal just now both for those who this summer will be denied a return to the coast, and for those who had hoped to see it for the first time this season. . . Mr. Shelton's interesting and adequate foreword is supplemented and completed by an ecstatic introduction by Robert P. Tristram Coffin. This should be read carefully, for beneath and within Mr. Coffin's somewhat irritating suggestion that the grace of God is sturdily withheld not only from those who do not know Maine, but even from those beyond tidewater in Maine itself, there is a really acute and splendid analysis and description of those features which make the coast incomparable and its people unique and admirable. In other words, Mr. Coffin's ecstasy should not obscure his sound knowledge and his searching as well as poetic interpretation." M. E. Chase

+ — Books p2 Ag 2 '42 650w

Reviewed by K. P. Kempton
New Eng Q 15:546 S '42 550w

SHENTON, EDWARD. New alphabet of aviation; il. by [the author]. [64p] $2 Macrae Smith co.

629.1303 Aeronautics—Dictionaries. Aeronautics—Juvenile literature (W) 42-542

"A new edition, similar to the earlier one with text by Paul John Jones and illustrations by Edward Shenton [Book Review Digest, 1929] in which pictures, diagrams, and concise text describe fundamentals of flying and types of aircraft. Grades 5-9." Booklist

Booklist 38:212 F 15 '42

Reviewed by H. L. Binsse
Commonweal 37:118 N 20 '42 10w

SHEPARDSON, WHITNEY HART. Interests of the United States as a world power. 64p $1.75 Claremont colleges, Administration office, Claremont, Calif.

327.73 U.S.—Foreign relations 42-12913

"A transcript of lectures delivered at Claremont Colleges two months after Pearl Harbor. They describe, briefly and simply, the attitudes of the United States toward European problems since 1776 and the consistent growth of realization that isolationism is not in the country's interest. In conclusion, Mr. Shepardson supports Anglo-American cooperation, without strings, as the basis of post-war reconstruction." New Repub

"This small volume is delightfully written and provocative." W. I. Cargo

+ Am Pol Sci R 36:794 Ag '42 260w

Christian Century 59:635 My 13 '42 70w

Reviewed by R. G. Woolbert
Foreign Affairs 20:779 J1 '42 20w
New Repub 106:646 My 11 '42 60w

"Mr. Shepardson's lectures are thought-provoking even though one may not agree with all his conclusions. We need to be stimulated to give serious consideration to the problems of the new world that must rise from the ashes of the old." C. B. Mahon
+ Survey G 31:392 S '42 360w

SHERIDAN, MARTIN. Comics and their creators; life stories of American cartoonists. 304p il $2.75 Hale

741 Caricatures and cartoons (W) 42-10820

Information on the makers of comic strips, with some history of comics, and the way they are made. Index.

Booklist 38:326 My 1 '42

"On the practical side, this book contains much information that should be of value to youngsters who fancy themselves as budding proprietors of nationally read comic strips. There is no attempt, naturally, to tell any one how to draw, but dozens of the little tricks of the trade are explained." Stanley Walker

+ Books p21 Je 7 '42 750w

Wis Lib Bul 38:84 My '42

SHERMAN, MRS EDITH (BISHOP). Flying banners; decorations by Janice Holland. 246p $2 Longmans

42-23637

Story of a young high school girl, Carol Boyd, transferred from a New Jersey home of some pretension to a shabby Iowa farm. The course of Carol's struggle to adjust herself to such a radical change is traced thru a tale of illness, poverty and flood, to a happy ending.

Reviewed by P. D. Edie

Library J 67:892 O 15 '42 10w

"Well-handled story to give to modern pampered adolescents to help them appreciate home and mother. . . 'Perfect,' our girls will say." Sonja Wennerblad

+ Library J 67:1070 D 1 '42 70w

"The moral is here, but it is pressed home subtly and 'Flying Banners' has a courageous message which is refreshing."

+ Springf'd Republican p7e D 27 '42 110w

SHERMAN, HENRY CLAPP, and PEARSON, CONSTANCE S. Modern bread from the viewpoint of nutrition. 118p $1.75 Macmillan
612.39274 Bread. Nutrition 42-5734

A review of recently made studies and experiments in the possibility of improving and enriching bread by the addition of various ingredients or by changes in processes. Bibliography. Index.

Reviewed by C. A. Elvehjem

Am J Pub Health 32:656 Je '42 200w

Booklist 38:437 Jl 15 '42

J Home Econ 34:252 Ap '42 250w

Pratt p15 D '42

"This little book packs much information within its covers. It tells with great authority about the recent trend to restore to bread the qualities that made bread once a stouter staff of life." Russell Wilder, M.D.

+ Survey 78:223 Ag '42 550w

SHIELDS, BERT A. Air pilot training. (Whit-lessey house publication) 602p il maps $4; text ed $2.75 McGraw

629.13 Aeronautics (W) 42-5524

"The purpose of this book is to present in a single volume all the information necessary to pass the written examinations for a private and a commercial pilot license. Elementary principles are fully explained, and no previous technical education is required in order to understand each subject. In almost every case the explanation of each basic principle is tied in with its application to the appropriate type of flight problem or procedure." Pref.

Booklist 38:304 Ap 15 '42

Reviewed by Eleanor Kidder

Library J 67:270 Mr 15 '42 90w

N Y New Tech Bks 27:35 Jl '42

SHIELDS, GEORGE. The rugged path, and The summit [two] plays in three acts. 238p $2 (7s 6d) Macmillan

822

42-23610

"George Shields is one of the most prolific dramatists writing for the Abbey Theater. 'The Rugged Path' and its sequel, 'The Summit,' are the fifteenth and sixteenth plays he has written for that organization. Most of his previous work has been comedy, but here he is plainly out to show that one reason why it is so hard for even the Irish to govern Ireland (pardon—Eire) is because the Irish still brand any one as an 'informer' who gives evidence to the police, no matter what the crime, and because, like the ignorant in other parts of the world, they are terrified by the threats of lawless men in the community." Books

"So far as an alien can judge, these two plays are almost painfully truthful, and also rich in character types. But they are more restricted in appeal than the plays which started the Abbey on its career, and they are far less infused with poetry or imagination." W. P. Eaton

+ Books p19 O 11 '42 180w

"All libraries with drama collections will want this volume for its literary merits. Actable by highgrade amateur groups. Recommended."

+ Library J 67:1013 N 15 '42 40w

"Mr. Shields is said to have affinities with both sides of the border and to be a dramatist whose plays are as welcome to Belfast as to Dublin. Whatever his politics, his vision takes in all humanity; and long after anything in The Rugged Path and The Summit has ceased to be topical the plays will be alive, both as works of creative imagination and as treasures of good counsel."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p298 Je 13 '42 800w

SHOEMAKER, MYRON E. Fresh water fishing; a fisherman's manual. 218p il pl $3 Doubleday

799.1 Fishing. Fishes (W) 42-36102

"A guide for the fresh water angler, treating the places to fish, the history of angling, the principles of fly casting and the equipment required. . . The author devotes a chapter to each of the important fresh water fish to be found in North American streams and lakes. . . These fish are described in detail, their habits are recorded, and . . . the fisherman is given advice on how to land them." (Publisher's note) Index.

Booklist 38:248 Mr 15 '42

Books p26 Mr 8 '42 70w

Cleveland Open Shelf p10 My '42

"Excellent tables, well-organized information for reference; valuable for many different approaches to the art of angling." D. F. Lucas

+ Library J 67:40 Ja 1 '42 50w

SHOOPS, NAHUM E. Corrective treatment for unadjusted children; principles and practice; manual, by George Goldberg. 240p $3 Harper

371.92 Children, Abnormal and backward. Child study 42-5510

Practical instruction for teachers on problems involved in guiding various types of maladjusted children. Makes use of the case study method. Index.

Booklist 38:324 My 1 '42

"This book will be of greatest value in the orientation of students undertaking the study of personality development. To those who have had wide contact with problem cases in school, the whole treatment may seem oversimplified and over-optimistic." L. W. Putzke

+ El School J 42:707 My '42 500w

School & Society 55:168 F 7 '42 40w

Wis Lib Bul 38:42 Mr '42

SHOOLMAN, REGINA LENORE, and SLATKIN, CHARLES E. Enjoyment of art in America; a survey of the permanent collections of painting, sculpture, ceramics and decorative arts in American and Canadian museums: being an introd. to the masterpieces of art from prehistoric to modern times; introd. by George Harold Edgell. 792p 740il $10 Lippincott

709 Art—U.S. Art—Canada (W) 42-36423
"Compendium, in one volume, of treasures of art in museums of North America. Between seven and eight hundred fine reproductions. Miss Shoolman was formerly member of research staff of National Museum of Canada." (Library J) Index.

Booklist 39:196 Ja 15 '43

"Their text is at once historical and analytical and drives all the time at communicating in lucid terms to the reader grounds for appreciation. They are scholarly but not pedantic and they are commendably brief, as they had to be, of course, in exploring so vast a field. They rightly give abundant space to their illustrations. These are printed in good half-tones and make a fairly overwhelming array. Introduced by sympathetic and generally persuasive critical remarks, these illustrations are breath-taking in their revelation of what exists in our museums. Brought together, as it were, in one volume, the works of art chosen take on a noble status." Royal Cortissoz
+ Books p6 D 20 '42 440w

Library J 67:1068 D 1 '42 70w

Nation 156:139 Ja 23 '43 200w

"It's the 739 beautiful half-tone illustrations which make the book valuable."

+ New Yorker 18:62 Ja 30 '43 70w

"Although objective in their approach, the authors are discriminating, too. The relative importance accorded to this or that culture might at times be challenged (for instance, ancient Rome is dismissed in less than two pages of text). It remains that this thoughtfully and handsomely prepared book represents a genuine contribution to the literature of art." E. A. Jewell

+ Sat R of Lit 25:54 D 5 '42 1000w

SHORT, LLOYD MILTON, and TILLER, CARL W. Minnesota, commission of administration and finance, 1925-1939; an administrative history. 160p pa $2 Univ. of Minn. [9s Oxford] 353.9776 Minnesota, Commission of administration and finance. Finance—Minnesota 42-37031

"[This] is the story of one state's efforts to improve its public administration. The account provides a desirable chapter in the growing volume of analyses of governmental reorganization in the states since the last war. A brief historical sketch of the establishment of the three-man Commission helps to explain some of its subsequent successes and failures. . . The work that the Commission was supposed to do and the work that it actually did are interestingly contrasted. In all of its several functions—budgeting, control of expenditures, auditing, supervision of accounting, purchasing, personnel classification, and other miscellaneous activities—the Commission was ever subject to the wills of the governor and legislature." Am Pol Sci R

Reviewed by C. E. Hawley
Am Pol Sci R 36:781 Ag '42 360w

Reviewed by A. G. Buehler
Ann Am Acad 223:239 S '42 220w

SHORT, LUKE. Sunset graze. 280p $2 Double-day 42-15040
Western story.

Booklist 39:34 O 1 '42

Reviewed by Will Cuppy
Books p9 Je 28 '42 110w

SHOULTS, DAVID ROY, and RIFE, C. J. Electric motors in industry; ed. by T. C. Johnson. 389p $4 Wiley

621.313 Electric motors. Electric controllers. Vacuum tubes 42-13394

"The characteristics and control of a-c, d-c, synchronous, induction, single-phase, three-phase, and other types of electric motors and their representative uses are discussed. Includes two sections on the principles and important features of electronic devices and their application." (Booklist) "This book has grown out of a course in industrial engineering given by the General Electric Company for its engineers in training for positions in engineering departments, laboratories, and sales organizations of the company and the industry generally to convey a clear and sound knowledge of motor performance. . . The original of the present book was written largely by Mr. C. J. Rife under the direction of Mr. D. R. Shoultz. Corrections have since been made and some chapters have been revised." (Pref) Index.

Booklist 38:422 Jl 1 '42

N Y New Tech Bks 27:39 Jl '42

SHOUP, CARL SUMNER. Federal finances in the coming decade; some cumulative possibilities, 1941-51. 121p $1 Columbia univ. press

336.73 Finance—U.S. Taxation—U.S. 41-24174

"This book presents a series of estimates of federal revenues, expenditures, debt increases, and deficits over the decade 1941-50. The author's purpose is not prediction, but to gain some sense of proportion with respect to the size of the fiscal problems confronting the United States over the ten-year period." (Am Pol Sci R) Bibliography. Index.

Reviewed by H. L. Lutz

Am Pol Sci R 36:142 F '42 1100w

"This little book bears the marks of thoughtful, scholarly work, though owing to limited space, some assumptions are given little or no support. Unfortunately, the possibilities of the next eleven years are infinitely varied, and each pattern of events has implications for public finance." M. S. Kendrick

+ Ann Am Acad 220:207 Mr '42 330w

Reviewed by R. G. Woolbert

Foreign Affairs 20:780 Jl '42 10w

"This is a small book, but it treats of the largest figures this or any other government has ever been called upon to consider. Here is the shadow of financial things to come—a shadow which will darken our country if we refuse to prepare for it."

+ Management R 30:471 D '41 240w

"Dr. Shoup has not attempted to make outright predictions but his discussion throws much light on the enormously difficult problem of federal financing in the next ten years." R. H. Wells

+ Social Studies 33:136 Mr '42 320w

SHRIBER, MRS IONE (SANDBERG). Body for Bill. 307p $2 Farrar 42-25808

Detective story.

"A fast and timely thriller, amply provided with love." Will Cuppy
Books p24 D 13 '42 220w

"'A Body for Bill' is another triumph for Mrs. Shriver." Isaac Anderson
+ N Y Times p22 D 6 '42 260w

"Interesting picture of busy war-industry town and its workmen. Nicely dovetailed plot and some agreeable characters. Average."
+ Sat R of Lit 25:21 D 12 '42 40w

SHRIDHARANI, KRISHNALAL JETHALAL. Warning to the West [Eng title: My India, my West]. 274p $2.50 Duell [12s 6d Gollancz] 950 Eastern question (Far East). Asia—Politics. World war, 1939—East (Far East) (W) 42-36422
"Author of My India, My America [Book Review Digest, 1941] discusses 'concrete and crucial issues, not of India alone, but of all Asia.' Gives picture of India in the war and advises change in our thinking on Eastern problems." Library J

Booklist 39:200 Ja 15 '43

"What matters most in this book is not the force of its arguments, which sometimes are questionable, but the fact that these are the arguments that so many men in Asia are making, especially in India. Even if they are wrong, the fact that they so believe is a potent political fact. And with the substance of Mr. Shridharani's arguments most Indians at least would, I think, agree." Nathaniel Peffer

Books p3 D 13 '42 1000w

Library J 67:1068 D 1 '42 40w

"Although the writer's point of view is wholeheartedly nationalist, he strives to deal with his themes objectively—his account of Hindu marriage is an example—and where he goes astray, as in his remarks on non-violence on the frontier, the error is due to lack of knowledge of a highly specialised subject. The discussion of the vexed question of India's entry into the war is temperate, and the section on India and Japan deserves attention. The book is well written and enjoyable to read." John Coatman

+ Manchester Guardian p3 O 23 '42 200w

"Shridharani's new volume is hardly as significant as his recently published 'My India, My America,' which won the instant acclaim of the American reading public, but it contains some very good writing. The various essays in the volume are not too well organized, and some of them are no more than occasional journalism. The unity of the volume is achieved by the consistent resentment, expressed in all of them, against the white man's arrogance." Reinhold Niebuhr

+ — Nation 156:25 Ja 2 '43 650w

"The weakness of Shridharani's otherwise excellent and timely book is that nowhere does it concede that India, too, will have to make sacrifices and show a readiness for compromise. All the rest of the world is out of step, it seems to the author, except only the Gandhi-Nehru faction. Several sections of 'Warning to the West' are invaluable. The Tagore-Noguchi correspondence, given in its entirety, is one of these, and reflects new luster upon Tagore's great name. Another section of great importance is that which deals with the Cripps mission to India, and why it failed." Hallett Abend

+ — N Y Times p6 D 27 '42 1000w

"Many damning things are going to be said about this book. It will be said that it can only have the purpose of embarrassing the United Nations at a time when they have all they can do to concentrate on the job at hand. It will be said that it is Indian propaganda against Great Britain. It will be said that it seeks to instigate and confuse rather than to enlighten. Don't believe it. Shridharani's honesty, his sincere and constructive purpose in writing this book, cannot be questioned. He tells us something about the problems we shall have to face sooner or later. Far from being obstructive or harmful, 'Warning to the West' can be valuable ammunition for the cause of the United Nations." Norman Cousins

+ Sat R of Lit 25:7 D 12 '42 1400w

SHULTZ, BIRL EARL. Securities market and how it works. 433p il $5 Harper

332.61 New York stock exchange. Stock exchange 42-2675

Textbook covering the procedure of operation of the New York Stock Exchange. The work is based on a course of instruction formerly given to employees of the Exchange in the New York Stock Exchange Institute, of which Dr Shultz was for many years director. Index.

"Every step in the complicated procedure of the security markets is explained in pointed detail and clarified by innumerable illustrations. One gains the conviction as he reads that here, for the first time, is available a thorough and authentic treatment of the technical business and procedure of the securities markets written from the inside. It deserves to succeed all previous books of a similar nature." J. E. Kirshman

+ Am Econ R 32:389 Je '42 400w

Management R 31:152 Ap '42 90w

SHUMAN, JOHN THEODORE, and others. Machine shop work. 499p il $3.50 Am. tech. soc.

621.75 Machine shop practice (W) 42-10875

"A comprehensive treatise on approved shop methods including construction and use of tools and machines, details of their efficient operation and a discussion of modern production methods." (Subtitle) Index.

Booklist 38:343 My 15 '42

N Y New Tech Bks 27:25 Ap '42

Pratt p12 O '42

SHUSTER, GEORGE NAUMAN, ed. World's great Catholic literature; with an introd. by William Lyon Phelps. 441p $3 Macmillan
808.8 Roman Catholic literature—Collections (W) 42-50182

A collection of passages from many writers from the earliest Christian times down to modern times (no living authors are included). The materials are grouped under seven headings: The early church; The middle ages; The early renaissance; Religious humanism; An expanding faith; The nineteenth century and after; Modern creative and critical writing. Biographical notes. Index.

"There are several things that ought to be said about this book: First, it has great literary merit, for the authors, whose works it reproduces, were great literary lights whose genius blesses Catholics and non-Catholics alike. . . Second, it presents the writings of men and women whose lives have profoundly influenced the ideals of our own civilization. Third, it helps us understand and interpret our own age better by becoming familiar with the thought of those who went before us." W. C. Kernan

+ Churchman 157:16 Ja 15 '43 300w

Reviewed by F. D. Cohalan

Commonweal 37:332 Ja 15 '43 950w

"There is more than mere literature in this volume. There is a way of life here, an unbroken tradition, an inspired attitude and an undiluted oneness of the spirit that is like a great tree growing out of the beginning and towering into the end. One does not have to be a Roman Catholic to sense this." Herbert Gorman

+ N Y Times p31 Ja 24 '43 900w

"A book to be read for pleasure and equally a book to be used for reference." R. L. D.

+ Spring'd Republican p7e Ja 24 '43 240w

SHUTE, NEVIL, pseud. See Norway, N. S.

SICKELS, EVELYN RAY. School bell rings; with il. by Sandra James. 153p $2 Scribner
(W) 42-21069

Twelve stories for young readers, each about a different type of school in the United States, from a school on Boston Common in 1775 to an octagonal shaped schoolhouse in Pennsylvania in 1863. In each story customs of the time in methods of study and punishment are brought out.

Booklist 39:75 N 1 '42

Reviewed by M. L. Becker

Books p9 S 27 '42 300w

"Such stories shed light on the ways of school children in the days of horn books and slates, and children of today will enjoy making comparisons with their own modern equipment."

+ Horn Bk 19:37 Ja '43 90w

SICKELS, E. R.—Continued

"The stories are interesting, the characters well drawn, and the whole idea well carried out." R. A. Hill

+ Library J 67:886 O 15 '42 40w

"Pleasantly written and attractive in format. . . Both for public and school libraries." J. L. Sauer

+ Library J 67:911 O 15 '42 60w

"As a story book this has a genuinely child-like quality; but beyond its historical fiction value it becomes a tribute to the school bells which have rung for two hundred years, calling young America to its most earnest duty. A sense of time and of childhood, implied in the make-up, seem to express added meaning." I. S.

+ N Y Times p32 N 15 '42 220w

SIEBER, SYLVESTER ANTHONY MICHAEL, and MUELLER, FRANZ H. Social life of primitive man. 566p $3.50 Herder
572 Society, Primitive. Schmidt, Wilhelm
41-16933

For descriptive note see Annual for 1941.

"The essential and very real value of the book lies in its lucid presentation of principles that have colored and influenced, even if in part only as an irritant, the thought of most anthropologists during the last generation. Its place, then, will be with collateral readings in courses on the history and theory of our science. Since it so deliberately avoids a scrutiny of the warrant for the principles it expounds, I doubt whether it will fulfil the authors' intention of serving 'as an introductory textbook to the study of sociology and economics.'" R. H. Lowie

+ — Am Anthropol 44:313 Ap '42 400w

Reviewed by M. E. Opler

Am Hist R 47:812 Jl '42 700w

"This work should not be confined in its interest to followers of Dr. Schmidt. It is simply and clearly written and represents the best attempt in English to set forth for the benefit of students certain of the basic precepts of the Kulturkreislehre. Not least of the contributions it contains is a clear elucidation of Schmidt's theory as to the origin of primitive secret societies." L. C. Elseley

+ — Social Educ 7:40 Ja '43 450w

"The book makes no pretensions to being a major original contribution to anthropology at either the factual or theoretical levels. It is, however, distinctly useful as translation and as compilation. The freshest note is provided by Mueller's tentatives at correlation with general social theory. The unquestioning acceptance of Roman Catholic dogmas and premises at various points makes claims to scientific detachment unacceptable." Clyde Kluckhohn

Social Forces 20:407 Mr '42 550w

Reviewed by D. S. Davidson

Social Studies 33:92 F '42 270w

SIKORSKY, IGOR IVAN. Message of the Lord's prayer. 68p $1.25 Scribner

226.9 Lord's prayer (W) 42-36084

An attempt to explain "the extensive and profound message" underlying the outwardly simple sentences of the Lord's prayer. The author is widely known in Europe and America as an airplane designer.

Booklist 38:225 Mr 1 '42

Reviewed by M. L. Becker

Books p16 Je 14 '42 400w

"Two facts about this book, taken together, make it almost unique: first, it was written not by a professional theologian but by the famous Russian-American designer of airplanes; second, it is completely free from those amateurish qualities which are commonly found in the religious writings of laymen whose main work does not lie in fields related to religion. This is a beautifully written expression of deep religious feelings and of cogent thoughts that have evidently been matured through years of profound meditation."

+ Christian Century 59:698 My 27 '42 200w

Reviewed by W. L. Caswell

Churchman 156:17 D 1 '42 300w

"From the full-page picture of the author and airplanes on the jacket of the book, one is led to feel that the publishers make much of the fact that Mr. Sikorsky is 'one of the world's foremost airplane designers.' Perhaps his vocation accounts psychologically for some of the flights which make the book different. It should be read for its interesting treatment of the subject and some helpful comments." J. H. Franklin

Crozer Q 19:166 Ap '42 220w

"As a contribution to theological literature 'The Message of the Lord's Prayer' has little importance; as a devotional study it has its place. It is intended to encourage and strengthen individual morale among Christian people by holding up anew the hopeful and confident spirit of this greatest of all prayers."

+ Spring'd Republican p8 Ap 29 '42 330w

Reviewed by W. R. Bowie

Survey G 31:263 My '42 600w

SILONE, IGNAZIO. Seed beneath the snow; tr. from the Italian by Frances Frenaye. 360p $2.75 Harper

(W) 42-20277

Continues the story of Pietro Spina, begun in Bread and Wine (Book Review Digest, 1936). Pietro, an anti-Fascist, is hiding in the home of his grandmother, Donna Maria Vincenza, the great lady of the little village of Colle in the Abruzzi. The time is during the period of the Ethiopian war. Pietro does not agree with his grandmother's attempts to win him a pardon, so he goes to another hideout. In the end he gives himself up to the authorities to save his friend, the half-idiot, deaf-mute Infante.

Reviewed by George de Santillana

Atlantic 170:131 O '42 650w

Booklist 39:12 S '42

Bookmark 4:18 N '42

"Ignazio Silone's new book may be described as a soul-stirring anti-Fascist experience, an orchestration of hope and fresh courage, a reservoir of wit and satire. This brave and sensitive author, who in the field of the intellect is to suffering and enslaved Italy what De Gaulle, the military hero, is to martyred France, has given us another unforgettable story of his countrymen's degradation." Elliot Paul

+ Books p3 Ag 23 '42 1550w

"The trouble with the book is that Silone has nothing to say, except what he has said before and could have said to better advantage in a tract than in fiction, and has no story to tell about his characters, all of whom deserve the compliment of development or elaboration. The hero too nearly repeats the author's story to be convincing as art. . . If Silone were able to forget his message, he might become a novelist of importance; as it is he has written a very good tract against the Italian government." N. E. Monroe

+ — Cath World 156:245 N '42 340w

"This novel I should think would be incomprehensible to most Americans who do not know the Abruzzi nor in general the intense seriousness of the Italian south. It is an old-fashioned book and a sincere book. It will not please politically minded anti-fascists. It cannot satisfy many requirements of the intellect. It is a simple and noble book. I can imagine that Silone would wish it read by simple people. And for the reader who would like to know if it is interesting, I can say that Silone does excellently that which seems to be one of the few things contemporary Italian novelists can do, and that is to describe people and places and make them absorbingly real. There are unforgettable characters in the book, many of them, curious and living and explained and moving in a wealth of anecdote and incident. The hero unfortunately is not one of them." C. G. Paulding

+ — Commonweal 36:498 S 11 '42 700w

Library J 67:683 Ag '42 10w

Reviewed by Paolo Milano

Nation 155:174 Ag 29 '42 1000w

"Judged simply as a novel, 'The Seed Beneath the Snow' is much less effective than

'Bread and Wine.' The characters tend to lose their human shape, with the peasants idealized like the little birds of St. Francis and the fascist officials revealing themselves as wolves, goats, vultures or hyenas. The story itself gets lost in a fog of feeling. . . At every step in his career, [Silone] has shown a private integrity that is even rarer among contemporary authors than public integrity. He is following a difficult and lonely path, and one would like to report that it is leading him toward new achievements as a man and a novelist; but he has not yet managed to reunite the scattered fragments of his own personality, or to combine his Catholic childhood with his Communist early manhood, his love of virtue with his love of freedom; he is still groping in darkness." Malcom Cowley

New Repub 107:234 Ag 24 '42 1200w

Discussion by Ignazio Silone

New Repub 107:582 N 2 '42 2100w

"First and foremost, this is a novel, and one of superlative beauty, in which the characters are allotted parts in inter-relation. If their talk is eloquent, their acts are scarcely less so, especially in great moral crises. One will not soon forget Pietro, Donna Maria Vincenza, Severino (intellectually a cynic, but a man of great soul), and that charming girl, Donna Faustina, loved by Pietro, and worthily. Few novels can show four such memorable characters. And it would be unfair not to mention its humor, of which there is a good measure." John Cournos

+ N Y Times p6 Ag 23 '42 1050w

"The narrative line is thin, wavering, and quite incapable of supporting the weight of so long a work. Actually, 'The Seed Beneath the Snow' is a series of pictures, a chain of dialogues, a procession of scenes, a collection of sermons. It is anything but a novel. Silone is deficient in structural power and apparently contemptuous of the more conventional requirements of verisimilitude. His hero is by no means the central character, the love interest is pasted on quite absurdly at the very end, and the action is all in slow motion. The book's beauty lies in Silone's extraordinary fellow-feeling for the Italian peasant, the true hero of the story. He skirts sentimentality but, saved by his humor and a kind of bitter good sense that is itself peasantlike, never falls into it." Clifton Fadiman

+ New Yorker 18:56 Ag 22 '42 1150w

Pratt p12 D '42

"Silone is a writer of stature, who, given the right material, can stand any comparison with Hemingway and Steinbeck. But in 'The Seed Beneath the Snow' he did not choose the right material. If he had planned to show us the inner rebellion of the Italian farmer against the new unnatural system that Mussolini has imposed on them, by giving a picture of a typical village in the mountains, he has fallen victim to his own realism. . . Perfect, of course, are the descriptions of the Italian housewives. . . Equally biting are his descriptions of the menfolk's dinner, where everybody tries to play up to the new government speaker, sent up from Rome. These parts are written with a penetrating acerbity that would make a caricaturist envious. But even the end of the novel does not give us the feeling, that beneath the cold snow of the new regime there is the seed of hope." R. R. Plant

+ Sat R of Lit 25:5 Ag 22 '42 650w

"This novel about Fascist Italy is by no means a perfect book, but in some respects it may be a great one. It will mean little to those who use politics to butter their daily bread and not much to those for whom politics is the breath of life. But it will mean much to those who prefer to be human beings despite all politics."

+ Time 40:80 Ag 24 '42 800w

Wis Lib Bul 38:163 N '42

SILVERCRUYS, SUZANNE (MRS EDWARD FORD STEVENSON). Primer of sculpture; phot. by Kip Ross. 137p $2.75 Putnam

731 Sculpture, Modeling (W) 42-13172

Simply written booklet dealing chiefly with the mechanics of sculpture, the tools, clay and other materials, armatures, etc. Illustrated with photographs of different steps in the works and with a few photographs of famous works of art which illustrate points in the text.

Booklist 38:382 Je 15 '42

Reviewed by Elizabeth Beal

Library J 67:583 Je 15 '42 70w

SIMENON, GEORGES, pseud. (GEORGES SIM). Maigret and M. Labbé; tr. from the French by Stuart Gilbert. 312p $2 Harcourt [8s Routledge]

42-20570

Two detective stories: Death of a Harbour-Master; and The Man from Everywhere.

Booklist 39:12 S '42

Reviewed by Will Cuppy

Books p13 Ag 9 '42 150w

Boston Globe p19 Ag 12 '42 30w

Christian Century 59:1031 Ag 26 '42 20w

"The little harbour town on the French coast and the small Alsatian holiday resort in the second tale are both exceedingly well described. The detection, again as is usual, is of an engaging simplicity. M. Maigret makes a guess, the culprit says 'How right you are' and promptly confesses or commits suicide." E. R. Punshon

+ Manchester Guardian p3 N 28 '41 70w

Reviewed by Ralph Partridge

New Statesman & Nation 22:381 O 25 '41 170w

Reviewed by Isaac Anderson

N Y Times p15 Ag 23 '42 280w

"Georges Simenon is unsurpassed, and don't believe anyone who tells you he isn't."

+ New Yorker 18:56 Ag 8 '42 50w

"Grade-B Simenon."

+ Sat R of Lit 25:16 Ag 15 '42 40w

"The new Simenon is made up of a very good Maigret story yoked to an extremely bad story about a retired master criminal whose patent absurdity drags the affair into the Sexton Blake class." John Fairfield

+ Spec 167:338 O 3 '41 300w

"To read 'Death of a Harbour-Master' as the half-title of this fresh two-story volume by M. Simenon is certainly exciting in itself, and Maigret's arrival among the shipping in a fog becomes a cumulative pleasure because it recalls past murder mysteries he solved among barges, luggers and smacks. . . In the second story, 'The Man From Everywhere,' Maigret does not appear. The detective, named Labbé, is a thing of nought. The scenery is M. Simenon at his best. The plot is of a kind that makes us see crinolines and whiskers and feel flabbergasted when cars are mentioned."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p497 O 4 '41 210w

SIMMONS, HELEN. Lark. 286p $2.50 Smith & Durrell

42-25368

"The story is of a sensitive youngster who, in addition to every adolescent's search for an individual pattern, had to find her way among warring fantasies to a reality of her own. The setting of the book is an orange grove in California, with a backdrop of high mountains lit at times by savage forest fires. Both in this background and in the relationships of the girl to her aunt and cousin, the neighbors, her teacher and the lad she loved, the story has flashes of vividness and insight." Books

"As a novel, 'Lark' is slight and not always convincing, the girl is a symbol—a girl in a ballad, so to speak—rather than a real person." Margaret Evans

Books p12 N 29 '42 250w

"If Helen Simmons is very young, then it is possible that some day she will be a writer. She has an eager, questing mind, an ardent spirit, and passion, amounting to mania, for words. At present, however, her work is labored and distorted by self-consciousness and artificiality. Instead of using language as an instrument to shape character and plot, she wields it like a weapon and destroys the thing she would create." Rose Feld

SIMMONS, HELEN—Continued

— + N Y Times p12 N 15 '42 440w

SIMNETT, WILLIAM EDWARD. British colonial empire. 254p $3 Norton [8s 6d Allen, G] 325,342 Great Britain—Colonies. Imperial federation [A42-2467]

"Major Simnett—author, and the founder and editor of technical journals—was member of British Delegation at Peace Conference after last war, chairman of Colonial Empire Union for several years, and has held other important governmental positions. . . . On his visit here in 1940, it seemed to him that Americans misunderstood relationship among members of British Colonial Empire. Consequently, he endeavors to explain, briefly and readably, the facts covering their history, growth, privileges, and problems." Library J

Commonweal 37:77 N 6 '42 70w

"Valuable reference aid for every library." Lena Ruppert

+ Library J 67:737 S 1 '42 120w

"The word for Mr. Simnett's British Colonial Empire is smug. . . . The book is full of information, and it is a great pity that it should have been written as it is; for it will, I fear, be reckoned as propaganda, and may have an effect other than that intended by the author." Freda White

— + New Statesman & Nation 23:293 My 2 '42 280w

Reviewed by W. M. Macmillan

Spec 168:535 Je 5 '42 430w

Times [London] Lit Sup p218 My 2 '42 1100w

"If Mr. Simnett has not always selected his historical examples as happily as he might, he does know the British empire today, which is, after all, the subject of this book." H. T. Manning

+ — Yale R n s 32:392 winter '43 1000w

SIMON, CHARLIE MAY (HOGUE) (MRS JOHN GOULD FLETCHER). Lonnie's Landing; il. by Howard Simon. 176p $2 Dutton

(W) 41-27889

Story of the Tennessee frontier for ages nine to twelve. In 1838 Lonnie and his older brother and their grandfather left their home in Louisville and moved by flatboat down the Mississippi to a place where they expected to find a town. They owned the land, no doubt, but the town was non-existent. But forest and its animals and Indians fascinated them, so they stayed, and in time the town which grew up was called Lonnie's Landing.

Booklist 38:212 F 15 '42

"It makes a city dweller a trifle discontented with his modern conveniences, he wonders for a moment if somewhere in America there may be left a corner of this lost Paradise. It is the wilderness as it was loved, when only strong men and brave boys could afford to love it. Indians, and Scott's men sent to hunt them, and deer and bears, take part; Bruce brings home a wife: 'Lonnie's Landing' is on its way to be a river metropolis in spite of land speculators." M. L. Becker

+ Books p6 F 22 '42 300w

Cleveland Open Shelf p16 J1 '42

"Like other of Charlie May Simon's books, this vitalizes the country with delightful bits of description of outdoor life, animals and birds, woods and rivers. The sturdy, self-reliant family have all the qualities that go toward conquering a frontier. They are understandingly shown in the illustrations." A. M. Jordan

+ Horn Bk M 18:106 Mr '42 110w

"Interesting material, well presented." D. M. MacDonald

+ Library J 67:131 F 1 '42 80w

Reviewed by P. D. Edie

Library J 67:891 O 15 '42 10w

"As always, Mrs. Simon writes of people and places with a warm, true touch, bringing the wilderness alive in unforgettable little scenes.

This is one of Mrs. Simon's most significant books for children of the middle years because it traces, with a sense of effortless reality, the birth of one of those little towns which are so much a part of the American scene and which have had so large a part in the making of the American character." E. L. Buell

+ N Y Times p8 Ap 26 '42 360w

"Thanks to Miss Simon's skillful and sympathetic writing, the Mississippi wilderness, the settlement which grows out of it, and the white children and adults and Indians of her tale all take on color and reality."

+ New Yorker 18:74 My 23 '42 50w

Wis Lib Bul 38:142 O '42

SIMON, CHARLIE MAY (HOGUE) (MRS JOHN GOULD FLETCHER). Younger Brother; a Cherokee Indian tale; il. by Howard Simon. 183p $2 Dutton

(W) 42-18291

A young Cherokee Indian lad, known by the name of Younger Brother, trains himself to use his eyes, and ears, to run, shoot, ride, and control his fears as much as possible, so that in time he has earned a name more fitting for a warrior. Grades four to seven.

Booklist 39:18 S '42

"Of all Indian tales lately offered our ten-year-olds, this is at once the most sensitive and the most likely to show them what the Indian's world was in remote parts of Tennessee a century ago." M. L. Becker

+ Books p24 N 15 '42 310w

Reviewed by A. M. Jordan

Horn Bk 18:337 S '42 90w

Reviewed by D. M. MacDonald

Library J 67:687 Ag '42 110w

Reviewed by P. D. Edie

Library J 67:891 O 15 '42 10w

"This is a good story for children of the middle years of a boy's achievement of courage and maturity, told in a grave, melodious prose which makes the life of the forest and of the Indians seem very close." E. L. Buell

+ N Y Times p10 N 29 '42 240w

New Yorker 18:106 D 12 '42 50w

SIMON, HOWARD. 500 years of art and illustration; from Albrecht Dürer to Rockwell Kent. 476p $2.98 World pub.

741.64 Illustration of books. Illustrators

(W) 42-24935

"The editor of this volume rightly assumes that all art partakes of the nature of illustration, and proceeds to prove it by assembling more than five hundred examples ranging from Albrecht Dürer to the contemporary Americans. The selections are confined to the field of black-and-white, and include, besides performances of such masters as Holbein, Hogarth, Blake, Goya and Daumier, a large number of unfamiliar works by the recent print-makers of England and the Continent of Europe. The editor, who draws no clear distinction between book illustration and independent prints, devotes extravagant space to undistinguished woodcuts executed in modern Germany, Poland, Belgium, Holland and Italy, and in consequence has no room for the twentieth-century Americans." (Books) Index.

Books p29 O 4 '42 160w

Reviewed by Frank Weitenkamp

N Y Times p18 O 11 '42 420w

SIMON, ROBERT EDWARD, ed. Be your own music critic; the Carnegie Hall anniversary lectures: Olin Downes [and others]. 309p $2.50 Doubleday

780.4 Music. Musical instruments

(W) 41-23391

Lectures given at Carnegie Hall in 1941, celebrating its fiftieth anniversary. Contents: Be your own music critic, by Olin Downes; Styles in singing, by Edward Johnson; The literature for the voice, by Yves Tinayre; The evolution of the piano and its literature, by Leopold Mannes; Problems of piano playing and teaching, by Egon Petri; The violin, the singer among instruments, by Albert Spalding; The capacities of the string instruments, by Albert Stoessel; The woodwinds, by Georges Barrère; Panorama of the brass and percussion instruments, by Modeste Alloo; Facing the conductor, by Leon Barzin; The evolution of orchestral styles, by Harl McDonald.

Booklist 38:127 D 15 '41

"The idea was good and, as it turned out, so were the general results. These lectures are plain and informative, not nearly so dry as some of the titles indicate, and they can readily be assimilated by the casual listener to music. What is more important, at the moment, they read well." C. W. Durgin
+ Boston Globe p19 My 6 '42 230w

SIMON, SOLOMON. Wandering beggar; or. The adventures of Simple Shmerel; il. by Lillian Fischel [tr. by the author and David Simon]. 118p $1.50 Behrman's

42-16053

"A Jewish juvenile. . . Simple Shmerel was a stupid fellow who became a beggar, was mistaken for an eccentric seer, and by a combination of stupidity and luck always got the right results." Christian Century

Booklist 39:108 N 15 '42

"There has seldom been a version more clear-cut than this of the 'reiner Tor,' the deliverer whose power rises from something other than the mind—the instinctive, unknowing force at the heart of a people. The stories are not child-like in any way: Jewish folklore has this much in common with Irish, that it is thoroughly adult. Its cold fire burns in the illustrations as well, woodcuts of unusual power. It is a book not to be lightly passed over." M. L. Becker

+ Books p7 Ag 23 '42 350w

"Cleverly told and attractively illustrated."

+ Christian Century 55:601 My 6 '42 60w

"Artfully shaped, but with genuine feeling for the folk tale's essential quality, these stories deserve to be known by readers of all faiths." E. L. Buell

+ N Y Times p9 O 18 '42 240w

SIMON, YVES. Road to Vichy, 1918-1938; tr. by James A. Corbett and George J. McMorrow. 207p $2.25 Sheed

944.08 France—Politics and government. France—Foreign relations 42-22677

"A diagnosis of the cultural sickness, the political confusion and the ultimate military weakness of a given country in a given period—in this case France between the two wars—as seen at close range and from a partisan standpoint. . . Dr. Simon gives an ardent and educated Catholic youth's view of the earlier events, a more mature view of the later ones. Fifteen years old in 1918, he studied philosophy in the Catholic Institute of Paris and in the Sorbonne, and came to America in 1938 to teach at Notre Dame. . . The Catholics of France have been a political party demanding unique privileges and status for their church. The party was too weak to get what it wanted, but it never quit trying. Many other parties sought their separate ends, and the ensuing confusion rendered the nation incapable of a strong national policy. The author apportions the blame among them, not altogether sparing the Catholics, whose vulnerability to Hitler's propaganda in which he dramatized himself as the foe to communism, atheism and Freemasonry helped to weaken the French front." Christian Century

"Dr. Simon exhibits many socially liberal sentiments and recites the details of French political and diplomatic history with much true insight."

+ Christian Century 59:1494 D 2 '42 300w

Nation 156:103 Ja 16 '43 100w

SIMPSON, WILLIAM JOHN SPARROW. Ministry and the eucharist. 215p $1.60 Macmillan [6s; pa 3s 6d S.P.C.K.]

262.12 Church of England—Government. Lord's supper. Church unity 42-50834

"Dr. Sparrow Simpson is one of the leading English Anglo-Catholics, and this book represents the views of the most extreme of them. Parts I and II sketch the relation of the ministry to the Eucharist from the earliest times to the Reformation, and since the Reformation in the Church of England. Part III discusses schemes for re-union, particularly that in South India." Churchman

"Such a work as this—first issued by the S.P.C.K. in London and recommended by the executive committee of the Church Unity—is a useful check upon the optimism of those who think that the reunion of the churches is just around the corner. It is also serviceable as a clear statement of the Anglo-catholic view of the ministry, the eucharist and the nature and authority of the church, and a very intelligent and scholarly argument in support of this view." Christian Century 59:1562 D 16 '42 290w

"It would not be difficult to offer criticism of Canon Simpson's argument here and there; but space will not allow. It will be more to the point to urge those who are interested in Christian unity, especially the proposed Episcopal-Presbyterian union, to read the book and see what they are up against. From this point of view, it is at once an enlightening and a depressing book. It makes the Anglo-Catholic position quite clear; but it also puts the reunion beyond the bounds of human possibility." F. J. Moore

Churchman 156:18 O 1 '42 360w

Times [London] Lit Sup p292 Je 13 '42 900w

SIMS, MRS MARIAN (MCCAMY). Beyond surrender. 492p $2.75 Lippincott

(W) 42-24435

A novel of Reconstruction days in South Carolina. The hero is Denis Warden, a major in the Confederate army, who returns after the defeat to take up the management of the family plantation, and to play a part in the political strife of the community.

Booklist 39:139 D 15 '42

"Mrs Sims tells a big, vivid, solidly constructed story that has the authentic flavor of history, and her people are flesh and blood in spite of the handicap that they conform so closely to the Southern romantic convention." Page Cooper

+ Books p12 N 8 '42 800w

"Good reading. Recommended for purchase."

F. A. Boyle

+ Library J 67:952 N 1 '42 60w

"Although the book might have gained by compression—often there is too much paraphernalia about the matter of speaking a few words or taking a drink—this is a minor fault in an honest picture of a complex and fascinating period of American history." Harriet Sampson

+ N Y Times p26 N 8 '42 550w

New Yorker 18:82 N 7 '42 70w

SIMUTIS, ANICETAS. Economic reconstruction of Lithuania after 1918. 148p $1.50 Columbia univ. press

330.9475 Lithuania—Economic conditions

42-12362

"A technical study of the improvement of agriculture, foreign trade and other features of economic life in this now extinguished Baltic state in the years between the Versailles treaty and the Russian occupation." (Christian Century) Bibliography, Index.

"The author writes as a Lithuanian patriot would be expected to write, with sympathy for the cause and yet with sufficient objectivity

SIMUTIS, ANICETAS—Continued

based on a mass of statistics speaking for themselves." Josef Hanč

Ann Am Acad 223:210 S '42 450w

Christian Century 59:635 My 13 '42 30w

Social Studies 33:286 O '42 30w

SINCLAIR, HAROLD. Port of New Orleans. (Seaport ser) 335p il $3.50 Doubleday

976.3 New Orleans (W) 42-18891

Chronicles the history, rise and development of the city of New Orleans, from 1699 to 1942. The theme of the book is the city as a great American port, and it is the author's contention that its importance might have been much greater. The book is realistic and popular in style. Illustrated with photographs. Index.

Booklist 39:9 S '42

"Far from being carried away by the city's charm, as so many writers have been, Harold Sinclair is critical of past errors and exhibits a certain impatience with the characteristics of the people. The author's statistics are impressive and some of his conclusions seem fair enough." W. A. Roberts

Books p4 J1 26 '42 1300w

"Told accurately and entertainingly. A good map of the city streets would help northern readers find their way from one quarter to another, but this one bit seems to be all that's missing from Mr. Sinclair's historical journey around the famous old vine-covered patios and rioting streets."

+ Boston Globe p19 J1 22 '42 150w

"Mr. Sinclair does not gloss over the rascality of its governors and generals, and he makes us feel power and caprice of the Mississippi River. Recommended." F. A. Boyle

+ Library J 67:629 J1 '42 50w

"The author's whole attitude is sharp and hard-boiled, doubtless in reaction to the lush travel writers. One is glad to have his plain facts but wishes for greater sympathy and proportion in their presentation. It is also a pity that he has not refrained from topical reflections more suited to newspaper correspondence, which will date the book almost immediately. Few subjects lend themselves better to illustration; but the pictures included are few, random, and not particularly interesting."

Nation 155:489 N 7 '42 240w

"On the whole Mr. Sinclair has wrought well for the general reader who would learn something of the personality of one of our most picturesque and exotic cities, although there is enough spice of opinion in his book to hold many a reader who knows many of the facts. In an author's note Mr. Sinclair expresses the hope that his book will not seem hypercritical. This reader for one can assure him that it does not, that his exposition of New Orleans' faults and failures, as well as her virtues and triumphs, gives his portrait the variety of truth. We would not have either the city or his book other than it is." Horace Reynolds

+ N Y Times p1 Ag 2 '42 1200w

"The author passes over Audubon and Antoine's and Buddy Bolden in his earnest desire to get to the bottom of the reasons for the city's decline in spite of its being the deepwater port of the Mississippi Valley. He doesn't quite do it, but the whole thing makes a colorful narrative, even though the writing is often wandering and prolix."

+ New Yorker 17:59 J1 25 '42 70w

Reviewed by Albert Goldstein

Sat R of Lit 25:17 S 19 '42 700w

Wis Lib Bul 38:136 O '42

SINCLAIR, MRS KATHLEEN HENRIETTA (NASH-WEBBER) (BRIGID KNIGHT, pseud). Westward the sun [Eng title: Sun climbs slowly]. 364p $2.50 Crowell [9s Cassell]

(W) 42-36172

South Africa from 1877 to the Jameson Raid in 1895 is the background of this historical novel. Charlotte Durant and her brother Adrian were children of a mixed marriage: their father was a Boer; their mother the daughter of an English bishop, and they typified the best of both races. For Adrian, caught in toils of an unhappy marriage, there was participation in the Jameson Raid and death; but for Charlotte, with her happy marriage with the English Roderick Mason, there was a promise of happiness after despair.

Booklist 38:330 My 1 '42

"Westward the Sun' has an atmosphere attuned to the slow, passionate, inexpressive folk, about whom it is written, attuned to the provincialism of a backwater colony, and attuned to the unsettled paramount problem of humanity, the right to be free." Virgilia Sapieha

+ Books p5 Mr 29 '42 650w

Reviewed by E. F. Kelly

Library J 67:263 Mr 15 '42 70w

"Painted gradually throughout the narrative, whose background he dominates, Brigid Knight's Paul Kruger is a masterpiece. As fiction this second novel is a notable advance on the first. It is more compact and it is better (indeed excellently) integrated. The characters, whether Boers or English or like Adrian, Charlotte's dreamy brother, Boer-English in a difficult stage of transition, strike particularly by their integrity, their fundamental allegiance to reality. Miss Knight can re-create a scene." J. S. Southron

+ N Y Times p7 Mr 29 '42 750w

"A thoughtful and sometimes heavy novel of men at war and struggling to be free, with a large dose of romance . . . and a picturesque background capably worked in."

+ New Yorker 18:66 Ap 4 '42 50w

"Last spring Mrs. Knight published her first novel, a sprawling chronicle of South American life that covered three generations. . . . Something of its promise is fulfilled in this second novel. Mrs. Knight has obviously given study to her craft. The verbal diffuseness has gone and with it the unnecessary incident, the superabundant detail. Now every page counts in the building of a story that moves rapidly and dramatically to its inevitable climax. And, what is perhaps most important, in exercising economy she has lost none of the enthusiasm which made her first book, for all its faults, fresh and attractive." A. D. Charles

+ Sat R of Lit 25:5 Ap 4 '42 360w

Times [London] Lit Sup p341 J1 11 '42 150w

Wis Lib Bul 38:37 My '42

SINCLAIR, UPTON BEALL. Dragon's teeth. 631p $3 Viking

(W) 42-106

This third volume in the story of Lanny Budd, covers the years between 1930 and 1934. It describes the rich American playboy, who had spent much of his life abroad, living in Germany, where he met Hitler, Goering, and Goebbels; in Paris, where his feather-brained wife had established a salon; and on the yacht of the wealthy Jewish financier, who was a relative by marriage. When the Nazi terror broke out, Lanny moved by pity and friendship attempted to get his Jewish friend out of Dachau, and in consequence was imprisoned himself. The book closes with the release of Freddy Robin, broken in body and spirit.

Reviewed by Wilson Follett

Atlantic Mr '42 150w

Booklist 38:190 F 1 '42

"Sinclair's pictures of ranking Nazis are vivid and revelatory, and his projection of the entire European scene—making shrewd use of hindsight—is convincing. Although Sinclair hardly foregoes his perennial baiting of capitalism and all its works, 'Dragon's Teeth' is still headlong story stuff. He is as much as ever the homiletic novelist, telling his tale for the sake of social justice, but rarely does he forget to stamp it with action and color. 'Dragon's Teeth' is easily the peer of the best that Upton Sinclair has done." Milton Rugoff

+ Books p2 Ja 4 '42 900w

Canadian Forum 21:381 Mr '42 180w

Cath World 155:254 My '42 230w

Reviewed by G. E. Shieler, Jr.

Churchman 156:16 Ap 1 '42 250w

"Unreadable 'novel' but, especially in the final pages, a telling attack."

— + Commonweal 35:372 Ja 30 '42 70w

"The excellently told story is particularly interesting, as a survey of the background of Hitlerism." Lena Ruppert

+ Library J 67:41 Ja 1 '42 80w

"It is a damning survey of men and motives in Nazi Germany, and immensely and for its last third excitingly readable." Harold Brighthouse

+ Manchester Guardian p3 Jl 24 '42 300w

Nation 154:73 Ja 17 '42 200w

"In a gentle and effective way, this book should make comprehensively clear to thousands 'the realities of National Socialism' (to quote Professor Schuman), and I can think of no better mission which a book might have today." Kay Boyle

+ New Repub 106:125 Ja 26 '42 190w

"The serious criticism of this kind of writing is that it is neither history, journalism nor fiction, but a hotchpotch which gets the worst of all three. All that can be said for Dragon's Teeth is that it provides a rather twisted nostalgia, not for the period it describes, but for this naive and dated conception of the novel as an indiscriminate harvest of contemporary events. One may be grateful, too, for the frankness of Mr. Sinclair's formula—luxury, glamour and a social conscience." Philip Toynbee

New Statesman & Nation 24:129 Ag 22 '42 500w

"This novel, the finest yet turned out by Mr. Sinclair, deals with history, and with history's reaction on people. There is little scope in such a novel for normal character development. The action of this novel might be best likened to what happens when men caught up in a fierce torrent are trying to save themselves. Some do save themselves and some don't. But the heroes drown as easily as those who are not heroes—perhaps more easily." John Cournos

+ N Y Times p4 Ja 11 '42 1600w

New Yorker 17:59 Ja 10 '42 80w

Pratt p16 My '42

"At the beginning the novel is slow. . . But the slow start, the lengthy passages in the initial chapters, the over-rich canvas of characters that make rather laborious going at first, do not condemn the book; in fact, they seem to make the final climax all the more exciting. In the cool, detached style of the historian the machinery of the totalitarian state appears the more terrifying. Because Sinclair is seldom given to emotional writing, he becomes the more effective when he suffers for the tortured and broken, and cries out in an agony of pity for the lost souls of Hitler's Inferno." R. R. Plant

+ Sat R of Lit 25:7 Ja 24 '42 750w

"As a masterly presentation of national attitudes, class attitudes and intellectualist attitudes toward the terrible tragedy of Europe during the past decade this book has few peers at the moment of its publication." R. J. Conklin

+ Springf'd Republican p7e Ja 4 '42 850w

"The third and best volume in Upton Sinclair's rich cyclorama of 20th-Century world history. It is the first to suggest that the completed work may, for all its lack of psychological and esthetic depth, be almost great. Great or not, few works of fiction are more fun to read; fewer still make history half as clear, or as humane."

+ Time 39:63 Ja 5 '42 850w

"For most of the time Mr. Sinclair is content to annotate, as it were, the march of events. It is an astonishingly many-sided record and the swift little illustrations in the margin are often pointed and interesting. But the imaginative substance of the story is spread too thin. Only towards the end . . . does Mr. Sinclair rise to the full fictional possibilities of his material. All the same, his is a notably sincere and brave performance."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p357 Jl 18

'42 600w

Wis Lib Bul 38:32 F '42

SINGER, CAROLINE (MRS CYRUS LE ROY BALDRIDGE), and BALDRIDGE, CYRUS LE ROY. Santa Claus comes to America; il by [the authors]. [32p] $1 Knopf

42-17470

The legend of St Nicholas and its versions in different lands told in relation to the American legend of Santa Claus. For grades three to four.

Reviewed by F. B. Sloan

Christian Science Monitor p10 D 14 '42 90w

Churchman 156:15 N 15 '42 20w

"Amount of information in small space is confusing, and some of material seems irrelevant. Author's colored illustrations are of superior quality and make a most attractive book." E. G. Mullan

+ — Library J 67:956 N 1 '42 90w

Wis Lib Bul 38:165 N '42

SINGER, CHARLES JOSEPH. Short history of science to the nineteenth century. 399p $3.75 (8s 6d) Oxford

509 Science—History

41-24675

"An elementary survey of the development of knowledge of the material world, which discusses the emergence of the leading scientific ideas from Greek times to the nineteenth century. The book has been written for the general reader rather than for the scientific specialist, and therefore treats scientific problems in the historic order in which they have arisen and not in relation to the conventionally accepted frontiers of the separate sciences. Avoiding technical terms and details, it provides an outline sketch, in historical perspective, of the intellectual background of modern classical science and especially its characteristic doctrines of Energy and Evolution." (Publisher's notes) Index.

Booklist 38:269 Ap 1 '42

Reviewed by Ernest Nagel

Books p12 Mr 29 '42 950w

"While the stream remains single, Dr. Singer's method has yielded a book which is luminous and stimulating, the book of a scholar and a philosopher with a wide and sufficient knowledge of an immense field. It is not, perhaps, any fault of his that when his Nile reaches its delta in modern specialism his light seems to fade somewhat and the interest of the theme to lose definition as we pass from the history of science to the recent history of sciences." C. E. W.

+ — Manchester Guardian p3 Jl 22 '41 470w

"Dr. Singer's learning is always exact, as befits the senior British historian of science. His book is full of fascinating information, and will at once become a standard work on the history of science both for the man of science himself and the general reader." J. G. Crowther

+ Nature 148:178 Ag 16 '41 700w

"Scholarship and authority of the highest order distinguish this book by one of the greatest living historians of science. . . Decidedly not a book for lazy minds, but for those who really desire a serious and dependable account of man's struggle with nature and with his own ideas about the world, it is, and will long remain, indispensable."

+ New Repub 106:438 Mr 30 '42 140w

Reviewed by J. G. Crowther

New Statesman & Nation 22:164 Ag 16 '41 1000w

Reviewed by F. S. Taylor

Spec 167:209 Ag 29 '41 1000w

"Nothing is more impressive in the history of thought than the development of science from its rudimentary beginnings in Babylonia, Egypt and Asia Minor to its commanding position to-day. It is a development which can now be studied with a new delight in an agreeable history by an eminent authority, Dr. Charles Singer, whose name is a guarantee both of accuracy and of style."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p396 Ag 16

'41 1350w

SINGH, REGINALD LAL, and LOWNSBERY, ELOISE. Gift of the forest; il. by Anne Vaughan. 296p $2.50 Longmans

(W) 42-36284

Story of rural life in India and of a courageous little Hindu boy who found a tiger cub in the jungle and brought him up as a pet. Even after the tiger was full grown he obeyed and loved the boy, but when the Maharajah demanded the animal for his menagerie, the boy was forced to let his beloved pet escape to the free life of the jungle. Grades five to eight.

Booklist 39:18 S '42

Reviewed by M. L. Becker

Books p8 O 11 '42 500w

Christian Century 59:1360 N 4 '42 30w

Reviewed by A. M. Jordan

Horn Bk 18:428 N '42 80w

"Unusually good story of rural India. . . Has a distinctly Eastern flavor and includes many quotations from sacred books of India. The kind of book boys and girls should be encouraged to read, and, although it probably will not be popular, should be included in all library collections. Recommended." J. E. Stromdahl

+ Library J 67:797 S 15 '42 110w

"This is an unusually fine story of rural India, for it is based on real knowledge and sympathetic understanding of Indian village life." A. T. E.

+ N Y Times p40 N 15 '42 300w

SINGMASTER, ELSIE (MRS HAROLD LEWARS). High wind rising. 296p $2.50 Houghton

(W) 42-24105

The scene is eastern Pennsylvania between the years 1728 and 1755. It is the story of Conrad Weiser, and the German boy he found in the Long House of the Mohawks. The boy, christened Sebastian, grew up in the German settlement, met the girl Ottilia, and in time came to be an interpreter and peace maker between the Indians and the whites.

Booklist 39:201 Ja 15 '43

"It is history that Miss Singmaster writes in this tale. . . The kind of history that grandfathers weave into stories for their children's children. Perhaps Sebastian and Ottilia and grandmam never lived. Their names may have been Wilhelm and Sarah. They might have cleared land on the Schoharie instead of Tulpehocken, but they were very real, these people who paid for their land and tried to live in peace with their neighbors, Indians as well as whites." Margaret Fenimore

+ Books p12 N 8 '42 500w

"The book is interesting enough, but marred by a commonplace style better suited to a popular magazine than to the novel." N. E. Monroe

Cath World 156:368 D '42 140w

Reviewed by E. P. Nichols

Library J 67:1071 D 1 '42 110w

"It is a wholesome experience to read a novel about the early settlers of Pennsylvania. What made these German immigrants good pioneers: their capacity for hard work, their stability, their love of home and their good cheer, are virtues planted deep in the republic, and it is a satisfaction to see credit given where it is due. Miss Singmaster, herself a descendant of these pioneers, tells their story with the liveliness and affection appropriate to family tradition." Harriet Sampson

+ N Y Times p41 N 22 '42 400w

Wis Lib Bul 38:187 D '42

SITWELL, EDITH. Street songs. 34p $1.75 (3s 6d) Macmillan

821

42-9862

"This is the first collection of new poems produced by Miss Sitwell for some years. Street Songs, she calls them, because they are on themes common to all mankind: the Voice of Christ's love for the world, sounding over the hell of battle; the false, misleading voice of materialism, singing, from its heart of despair, a lullaby for the dying world." Publisher's note

Reviewed by Stephen Spender

New Statesman & Nation 23:228 Ap 4 '42 230w

New Yorker 18:63 Ja 30 '43 20w

"Miss Sitwell's focus is narrow and intense, but she seems to me to be the only one of the established poets to have turned the war to good poetic purpose; to have taken today into her heart and refashioned it. This is not to say that she writes of nothing but the war; far from it. She has so far assimilated the present background that she can write lyrics of unusual perfection and, greatest virtue of all, Miss Sitwell is neither disillusioned nor cynical." Sheila Shannon

+ Spec 168:446 My 8 '42 260w

"The whole [book] shows Miss Sitwell's poetic art in its true greatness."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p70 F 7 '42 900w

SIXTH column; inside the Nazi-occupied countries. 313p $2.50 Alliance bk.

940.53 World war, 1939—Occupied countries. World war, 1939—Atrocities

(W) 42-11035

This book is based on authentic reports and letters from conquered peoples of Europe, and describes their attitudes toward their conquerors. Contents: Czechoslovakia, by Jan Masaryk; Poland, by Mme Antonia Paderewska-Wilkonska and Stanislaw Stronski; Denmark, by Karin Michaëlis; Norway, by Tor Myklebost and Theodore Broch; Holland, by Dr. N. A. C. Slotensaker de Bruine; Belgium, by Henri Fast; Luxembourg, by Prince Jean of Luxembourg and Pierre Dupong; France, by Genevieve Tabouis; Yugoslavia, by Svetislav-Sveta Petrovitch; Greece, by Sofocles Venizelos.

"Any such report is necessarily fragmentary and imperfect, and the authors do not always escape the exile's temptation to be too hopeful of speedy immediate results. But some interesting light is shed on conditions in occupied Europe, and there are some fine pieces of description, as of the venerable Paderewski standing at attention in his Swiss villa as he listens over the radio to the last playing from Warsaw of the Polish national anthem." W. H. Chamberlin

+ Atlantic J1 '42 250w

Reviewed by W. R. Deuel

Books p6 Ap 19 '42 1450w

Reviewed by Carlton McNaught

Canadian Forum 22:124 J1 '42 330w

Cleveland Open Shelf p9 My '42

Reviewed by Frank Kingdon

Nation 154:519 My 2 '42 700w

Reviewed by Shepard Stone

N Y Times p4 Ap 19 '42 400w

Reviewed by Alfred Werner

Sat R of Lit 25:20 My 2 '42 650w

SKARIATINA, IRINA (MRS VICTOR FRANKLIN BLAKESLEE). Tamara; a novel of imperial Russia. 394p $2.50 Bobbs

(W) 42-3385

Dramatic story of the life of a Russian princess, whose gay and ardent temperament was considered a throwback to her gypsy great-grandmother. Three generations of the family, beginning in 1830, are briefly traced in the first section of the book. The story of Tamara herself begins with her birth in the eighteen nineties and closes with her escape from Russia at the beginning of the European war in 1914.

Booklist 38:235 Mr 1 '42

"It is for Irina Skariatina's portrayal of actors moving against a background of an ancien regime rather than for plot or action that 'Tamara' holds claim to distinction. The whole story is told spiritedly and with a nice sense of humor." Rose Feld

+ Books p3 F 1 '42 750w

"The book is a criticism of the society in which Tamara lived, and is evidently intended as such. In any event, it stands as a novel on its characterization and its development as the story of a life." John Cournos

+ N Y Times p7 F 1 '42 900w

SKIDMORE, HUBERT. Hill lawyer; with woodcuts by Richard Bennett. 301p $2 Doubleday

(W) 42-19562

Sequel to River Rising (Book Review Digest, 1939) and Dr York Allen of that book is one of the leading characters in this second story of the Blue Ridge mountains. The hero is a young lawyer determined to establish social justice in the small mountain community. He has his troubles and is involved in a murder case, but he makes a success of his career. For older boys.

Reviewed by M. C. Scoggin

Atlantic 170:149 D '42 110w

Booklist 39:75 N 1 '42

"It might be called a success story because Jim does win out for his clients. It might be called a murder mystery because for some time it looks as if a killing might be pinned on him. But it belongs to neither of these types because as offered to boys they are usually stereotypes, and this situation is real. Jim is no richer on the last page than on the first, but justice has come out ahead; the force the 'hill lawyer' represents has won for honest folks against lawlessness." M. L. Becker

+ Books p7 S 6 '42 400w

"Although technically a 'murder mystery,' it is not lurid nor deliberately sensational. Good career story of combating exploitation and mob violence. Recommended for young people. Type excellent." Maude Adams

+ Library J 67:849 O 1 '42 70w

Reviewed by M. C. Scoggin

Library J 67:896 O 15 '42 10w

"Hubert Skidmore writes of the mountain country with vigor and conviction, and Jim Martin, York Allen and Frank Frost are young Americans of whom we may be proud in a typically American setting." A. T. E.

+ N Y Times p42 N 15 '42 460w

Wis Lib Bul 38:168 N '42

SKIDMORE, REX AUSTIN. Mormon recreation in theory and practice; a study of social change [thesis]. 137p priv ptd Univ. of Pa. 289.3 Mormons and Mormonism. Recreation A41-4068

"This is a history of recreation among the Mormons and a social examination of the events as they pass in review. It is a contribution to the subject and should interest recreation people. Mormons were ahead of other sects in blessing the dance, the drama, and other forms of play. They did not consign fiddlers to hell but took them to the frontier to make the isolation of pioneering more tolerable. The author has handled this phase of the history of his people objectively, although tenderly." Am J Soc

Reviewed by Nels Anderson

Am J Soc 48:159 J1 '42 130w

Reviewed by J. E. Hulett, Jr.

Am Soc R 7:148 F '42 320w

SKILLING, HUGH HILDRETH. Fundamentals of electric waves. 186p $2.75 Wiley

537.5 Electric waves 42-21535

"The content of the book has been used for university courses, where it is most effective at about the senior college level. It has also been presented to a group of experienced radio engineers in the Engineering, Science, and Management Defense Training program. The book is arranged for those who do not necessarily have any previous knowledge of electromagnetic theory; all that is required is general college physics and mathematics through calculus. Vector analysis is introduced for use in the book but it is not expected that the reader should have any earlier acquaintance with it. The opening chapters of the book concern themselves with electrostatics, the use of vector analysis, and similar matters that will be discouraging to the impatient reader. . . Maxwell's equations, appearing about the middle of the book, are presented as logical conclusions of the work that has gone before. Then, with their aid, radiation and wave propagation are readily developed, and these topics lead to a short discussion of antennas, transmission lines, and wave guides. Problems are given with each chapter, and they are an integral part of the book." (Pref) Bibliography. Index.

"Dr. Skilling's book is admirably lucid to one with the proper mathematical equipment to understand it. The book is not light reading, but it will make clear a number of points which have been foggy to many physicists and most engineers. To them it will serve as an introduction to other new works even more advanced." James Stokley

+ Books p10 D 27 '42 200w

"Presented in straightforward manner. Excellent for radio engineer, physicist or student. . . Recommended."

+ Library J 68:37 Ja 1 '43 50w

SKINNER, CLARENCE RUSSELL, and COLE, ALFRED STORER. Hell's ramparts fell; the life of John Murray. 177p il $2 Universalist pub. house

B or 92 Murray, John. Universalism

41-26030

"A brief but essentially readable biography of a certain John Murray, who was raised in a rigidly Calvinistic environment in eighteenth-century England. In revulsion from this he was readily attracted to the broader views of Universalism. His acceptance of this new faith aroused opposition from his associates, and at last he decided to leave the country. . . Bound for New York, the ship in which Murray sailed ran aground on the New Jersey coast, and there he met one Thomas Potter . . . who demanded that he preach the Gospel. Accepting this as an undeniable call to the ministry, John Murray entered upon his career as 'the apostle of Universalism.'" Christian Science Monitor

Christian Century 58:1443 N 19 '41 20w

"Besides giving a closer account of the rise of Universalism in America, the authors of this book present a vivid and often humorous picture of English and American life in the late eighteenth century." T. L. L.

+ Christian Science Monitor p12 F 14 '42 250w

SKINNER, CORNELIA OTIS (MRS ALDEN S. BLODGETT), and KIMBROUGH, EMILY. Our hearts were young and gay; drawings by Alajálov. 247p $2.50 Dodd

914 Europe—Description and travel

(W) 42-36388

In the early '20s Miss Skinner and her friend Miss Kimbrough, recently out of Bryn Mawr, took a trip abroad, unhampered by parents and guardians. Their unusual and highly spectacular adventures are recorded in this gay book.

Appeared on Best Seller list in: Books (8) N Y Times (8) PW (1) RB (2)

Reviewed by Katherine Woods

Atlantic 170:156 D '42 600w

Booklist 39:119 D 1 '42

"A joyous chronicle from beginning to end. Throughout the book Cornelia is the narrator and she fills her pages with the same sparkle and wit which make her presence on the stage a delight. With the actor's sixth sense for comedy she knows how to light up a scene and point up a phrase. Alajalov has caught the infection of the youthful madness she describes and his illustrations contribute generously to the book's hilarity." Rose Feld

SKINNER, C. O.—Continued

+ Books p5 N 15 '42 1200w

"The season's most joyous reading." Dorothy Hilmyer
+ Boston Globe p21 N 18 '42 750w

"Our Hearts Were Young and Gay" ranks decidedly in the upper bracket of recent reminiscence books. It will warm the hearts of those who've done any sort of pre-war tour abroad and make others wish they had. Gay youth and travel in the Twenties make an unbeatable subject for the Cornelia Otis Skinner brand of humor." Beatrice Sherman
+ N Y Times p5 N 22 '42 1100w

"The authors get great fun out of their remembrance of their own naiveté, and perhaps pile it on a little for effect. The Alajalov drawings that accompany the text are in the vein of the period. The title, by the way, is ill chosen. Nothing could be more inapposite than its use of the past tense. The book could have been written only by a couple of ladies whose cardiac youth and gaiety are as unimpaired as ever." Clifton Fadiman
+ New Yorker 18:96 N 21 '42 270w

"The book is compact of little nothings, made electric by the irresistible delight of youth in life and adventure. We defy anyone to read it without laughter or recall it without a smile." Amy Loveman
+ Sat R of Lit 25:16 N 14 '42 400w

Spring'd Republican p7e N 29 '42 280w

Theatre Arts 27:131 F 43 220w

SLATER, MRS FLORENCE C. Betsy Yates: realtor; a story of a girl's real estate career. 242p $2 Dodd 41-23713

Story of a girl who came to New York to make a career for herself, and worked first at selling real estate, and then as renting agent in a small building.

"It lacks dramatic quality and strong characterization. Optimistic in representing New York as a city full of women and girls ready to become warm, helpful friends to the stranger making her way." Maude Adams
+ Library J 66:1097 D 15 '41 60w

Reviewed by E. L. Buell

N Y Times p8 Je 21 '42 60w

SLATTERY, MARGARET. Primer for teachers. 141p $1.25 Harper

268 Religious education 42-22743

A series of studies on the principles of teaching in Protestant church schools. Some of the aspects considered are age of the teacher; imagination; technique; ideas; the Bible itself, etc. Discussion questions. Short bibliography.

"If Miss Slattery had begun her book last chapters-first, she would have more enthusiastic—and just plain more—readers. In those last chapters on the church and the Bible she does a whale of a good job, handling material which might easily be pedantic—crowded as it is into relatively small space—but is instead exciting. There is something grandly simple about her latter chapters. The earlier chapters are simple, too, but studiously simple." M. H. Bro

+ Christian Century 59:1356 N 4 '42 500w

"Although somewhat 'preachy,' the essentials advocated are few and sound, the techniques advised, practical for schools with limited resources. Best of all, the enthusiasm of the author should lift the morale of the reader for whom it is intended. A bibliography at the end suggests useful, non-technical, inexpensive books." E. C. T.

+ Churchman 156:17 D 1 '42 100w

SLAUGHTER, FRANK GILL. Spencer Brade, M.D. 375p $2.50 Doubleday 42-7503

Disappointed at the beginning of his career as a surgeon, when another man was appointed to the place which he expected, Spencer Brade married a wealthy young Southern beauty. The marriage was made on the spur of the moment to help the girl out of a bad jam, and Spencer repented at leisure, for he fell in love with his wife, which was not included in the bargain. The result was one long series of mistakes during which Spencer lost faith in his ability completely, and had to regain it the hard way.

Reviewed by Lisle Bell

Books p21 Ap 5 '42 270w

"The theme of money against service to mankind is not a new one in literature. Dr. Cronin explored it in his book about doctors; so did Sinclair Lewis in 'Arrowsmith.' But it is an ever interesting subject and is well worth reconsidering in Dr. Slaughter's skillful presentation. The development of the love angle has some minor defects of plot and characterization, but the story with respect to medicine is excellent." R. F.

+ N Y Times p27 Mr 29 '42 700w

New Yorker 18:66 Ap 4 '42 70w

SLOANE, ERIC. Clouds, air and wind [il. by the author]. 76p $3 Devin-Adair

551.5 Meteorology. Meteorology in aeronautics 42-163

"A very beautifully illustrated book on cloud and weather conditions as they are observed by, and as they affect, the air pilot. In addition to the full-page pictures reproduced here in tones of blue and green, from paintings by the author, there are other full-page illustrations devoted to sketch drawings and diagrams showing how the air man must adapt his course to wind and weather." Wis Lib Bul

Booklist 38:186 F 1 '42

"Any one who follows the suggestions given by Mr. Sloane will be able, much of the time, to be his own weather forecaster. It is an excellent book for the layman who wants to know something about meteorology." James Stokley

+ Books p22 O 13 '42 180w

"The minimum of undefined technical words, the pictures and the authenticity of the reading matter, will make it popular with aviation enthusiasts, art lovers and all who may desire a simplified story of the world of clouds."

+ Scientific Bk Club R 13:4 Ja '42 300w

Wis Lib Bul 38:11 Ja '42

SLOANE, MRS GERTRUDE LARNED. Fun with folk tales; six plays in verse with music and songs; decorations by Marion Downer. 177p $2 Dutton

812 Children's plays (W) 42-18034

Six short plays in verse based on folk tales. Four are for older children: King Thrushbeard; Golden Goose; Rumpelstiltskin; and Sprig of Rosemary; the other two: Little Red Hen, and Who Laughs Last Laughs Best, are for younger children. Includes directions for costumes and settings, and music and songs.

Booklist 39:36 O 1 '42

"These are more systematized than the dramatizations young children instinctively make for themselves, and will be useful when they are to appear before audiences more exacting than their playmates." M. L. Becker

+ Books p9 O 25 '42 280w

"Charming songs are set to old English and Scottish airs and the dialogue is in verse and very good verse at that. Three of the plays are for tiny children and as a whole this is by far the most engaging invitation to the theater that we have read for a long time. The format of the book is also attractive."

+ Cath World 156:374 D '42 70w

"Though slightly ambitious for purely amateur productions because of elaborate costuming and many scenes, all are excellent dramatic reading. Lifting quality of verse form will be definite help in memorizing." D. M. MacDonald

+ Library J 67:687 Ag '42 90w

SLOANE, MRS MARY (HUMPHREYS). Strong cables rising [poems; with an introd. by Robert P. Tristram Coffin]. ltd autog ed 89p $2 Dutton

811

42-15990

"Fourteen sonnets on the reaffirmation of human faith, symbolized by a bridge with 'strong cables rising.'" Books

"Lyrics that are small, calm, pleasant, easy to read. . . Mrs. Sloane's work is best when most reminiscent of that of Robert P. Tristram Coffin, whose pupil she is."

+ Books p25 O 4 '42 100w

"Mrs. Sloane's poems are in sonnet, quatrain and couplet form, mostly of a personal or quasi-philosophical nature; best when they are descriptive, as in 'The Fox.' . . The sonnets are embarrassingly amateurish." P. M. Jack

+ — N Y Times p5 My 17 '42 280w

SLOUTZKI, NOKHIM M. World's armaments race, 1919-1939. 129p pa 40c Columbia univ. press

355.09 Armaments

A41-4614

"Mr. Sloutzki is a statistician and a former member of the Disarmament Section of the League of Nations, which edited the Armaments Year Book. In this study the author sets out to co-ordinate the available statistical material on the world armaments race of the two decades preceding this war, in a single volume of 129 pages. Most of the work is devoted to facts and figures on the amounts of money spent for armaments by the various countries, and the value of the armaments they exported." Ann Am Acad

Reviewed by H. S. Foster

Am Pol Sci R 36:175 F '42 210w

Reviewed by B. W. Maxwell

Ann Am Acad 221:200 My '42 450w

Reviewed by W. C. Langsam

Pol Sci Q 57:468 S '42 260w

SMALLEY, BERYL. Study of the Bible in the middle ages. 295p $4.75 (17s 6d) Oxford 220.7 Bible. Whole—Criticism, interpretation, etc. 42-3280

"Deals with biblical exposition in the age of St Augustine, the Carolingian revival, the Victorines, of Peter Comestor and Stephen Langton, and of the Aristotelian renaissance of the thirteenth century, with St Thomas and his massive learning reorientating biblical study. Specially noteworthy are her treatment of the evolution of that tremendous work, the Glosa Ordinaria, and the work of the canons of the Abbey of St Victor of Paris, Hugh of St Victor, Richard of St Victor and Andrew of St Victor. This hitherto little recognised scholar, with whom Miss Smalley deals at length, gave himself up wholly to 'the toilsome search for wisdom, toilsome but pleasant,' by way of the scholarly investigation of the Hebrew text of the Old Testament and its Jewish commentators. Miss Smalley admires Andrew, while admitting his tentative proposal to substitute research for revelation; she is in good medieval company, however, for those pillars of orthodoxy, Peter Comestor and Hugh of St Cher, both used him, and to his contemporaries he seemed a second Jerome. Notable also are her treatment of the work of Stephen Langton." Hibbert J

"Her comments on the work of the Fathers, though not so original or new as other parts of the book, should not remain unread, but no scholar attracted to the twelfth and thirteenth centuries should dare ignore what she has to say of the great Victorines and their successors." G. C. Boyce

+ Am Hist R 47:831 Jl '42 400w

"This is a joyful book for those interested in medieval scholarship; it is quite surprising how much new and accurate information it offers on points and people hitherto obscure. Many years of work lie behind the clarity and scholarship with which the subject is treated, and behind the power of selection which has enabled the reader to see the factors that governed the study of the Bible in the Middle Ages by the learned. Miss Smalley's work is much more than a reference book to medieval biblical scholarship, though it is that. She has walked a long time in that dark and largely uncleared forest, but she writes as one outside, never letting her reader fail to see the wood for the trees. Only the specialist who knows the extent of her materials will, she says, know how fragmentary her description is." M. Deanesly

+ Hibbert J 40:193 Ja '42 1150w

"If the reader opens the book expecting to have all his questions about the Bible in the Middle Ages answered, he will be disappointed; but the delight and instruction afforded within those areas to which the author has given emphasis will more than atone for the disappointment. Throughout the book we feel the fascination of a keen, inquiring mind and recognize a genuine appreciation of the intellectual powers displayed by medieval expounders of Holy Writ." J. T. McNeill

+ J Religion 22:438 O '42 1050w

"The scope of the title assigned to this volume is so vast and the difficulty of compassing it is so great that, whatever the general reader may feel, the professional student will be relieved to find that by a prudently invented series of limitations the writer has succeeded in providing a notable contribution to a portion of the subject."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p416 Ag 30 '41 700w

SMALLZRIED, KATHLEEN ANN, and ROBERTS, DOROTHY JAMES. More than you promise; a business at work in society. 336p il $3.50 Harper

684 Studebaker corporation

42-23153

Popular history of a family and an industry, the Studebakers. In 1835 John Studebaker, devout Dunkard, with his family, left Pennsylvania and settled in Ohio. The Studebakers, were blacksmiths and wagon makers and their calling was of definite value on the frontier. The five sons of the original Studebaker were the founders of the ninety-year-old industry which has turned out wagons and automobiles for five wars and millions of machines for peace times. Bibliography. Index.

"This is an excellent and exciting book: good history, sparkling narrative, native American through and through. We talk much of the American heritage these days. Here it is, in the story of the Studebaker brothers." L. M. Hacker

+ Books p18 N 1 '42 1550w

"Although as told by the Misses Smallzried and Roberts the story of the Studebakers seems to belong more in the realm of folklore than in financial or business history, the authors manage to bring it down to date without hazard—through the depression and the New Deal. Had not some one told the ladies they had to be popular they would have had a magnificent book. As it is they have produced one that makes pleasant reading of an evening by the radio, even if it doesn't belong on the permanent shelf." Karl Schriftgiesser

+ — N Y Times p38 N 22 '42 1050w

"Perhaps on the theory that all the Studebakers are gone, but the business remains, the authors consciously have glorified the factory at the expense of the founders, but whatever the reason the result is more like the report of the chairman of the board than an excursion into an intriguing field of Americana. . . There is a tremendous amount of information in the book, but too much of it is about things that are interesting in themselves but have no particular bearing on the Studebakers. There is too much background which just gets under the wire as being pertinent to the Studebaker industry, and there is much which seemingly would be pertinent that is missing."

SMALLZRIED, K. A.—Continued
Springf'd Republican p14 O 30 '42 850w

SMART, WYATT AIKEN. Contemporary
Christ. 164p $1.50 Abingdon-Cokesbury
232 Jesus Christ 42-19357

Lectures delivered on the Fondren Foundation at Southern Methodist University in Dallas. Contents: The elusive Galilean; The Son of the Father; These my brethren; The impossible Christ; The eternal spirit; The author of salvation.

"Those early Christians transmitted to us the picture of a man who was aflame with the consciousness of God, who proclaimed all men sacred in their filial relationship to God and therewith brethren one of another, who found in God's will the precepts of a religion unattainable in this imperfect world and for this very reason a perpetual challenge to the soul. Dr. Smart would recapture this personality for our age, and has done so brilliantly." J. H. Holmes

+ Books p18 N 1 '42 230w

"The author, who is well grounded in New Testament scholarship and has been professor of biblical theology at Emory University for almost thirty years, takes no short cuts and makes no easy assumptions. A thousand preachers will borrow this title for a sermon subject. It will be to their advantage to make this book a part of their preparation."

+ Christian Century 59:1122 S 16 '42 80w
Cleveland Open Shelf p23 N '42

"The brevity of the discussion is not the least merit of this judicious and practical book." Gordon Potrat

+ Crozer Q 19:327 O '42 450w

Reviewed by C. W. Gilkey
J Religion 23:68 Ja '43 900w

SMEDLEY, CONSTANCE. See Armfield, C. S.

SMILEY, DEAN FRANKLIN, and GOULD, ADRIAN GORDON. Community hygiene. 3d ed 448p il maps $2.50 Macmillan

614 Public health 42-36016

"The first edition of this volume was published in 1929. After six years a revision became necessary and now again six years later the rapid changes taking place in the field of preventive medicine have necessitated a second revision. As we surveyed the project of incorporating the new findings, substituting the new figures and omitting the material which had become antiquated it became evident that certain of the chapters, such as those on military hygiene and the health agencies, would have to be practically rewritten while most of the other chapters would not require such complete revamping. We have therefore maintained the general plan of the first edition with but slight changes in the five section headings and twenty-five chapter titles." (Pref) Index.

"Streamlined, abreast of the times, and supported by well chosen and in most instances, modern illustrations, the 1941 revision of Community Hygiene by Smiley and Gould will be valued by public health students and workers alike. The general field is well covered, the basic information is accurate, and the method of presentation is attractive. Bibliographies reflect careful choice." W. L. Halverson

+ Am J Pub Health 32:432 Ap '42 220w

Booklist 38:193 F 1 '42

SMITH, MRS ALICE ELIZABETH (BEEMAN) (ALICE B. WINN-SMITH, pseud). Thrifty cooking for wartime. 147p $1.50 Macmillan
641.5 Cookery 42-22708

"An attempt to set down in concrete and usable form some . . . new rules for wartime cooking and . . . the best and thriftiest of old recipes.' Complete but not detailed cookbook giving basic recipes with 'thrifty changes,' to supply family with well-balanced meals including desserts." Library J

Booklist 39:97 N 15 '42

Boston Globe p17 S 2 '42 100w

Cleveland Open Shelf p22 N '42

Reviewed by E. F. Kelly

Library J 67:629 Jl '42 70w

SMITH, BETTY, comp. 25 non-royalty one-act plays for all-girl casts; with an introd. by Kenneth T. Rowe. 359p $2.50 Greenberg
812.08 Amateur theatricals (W) 42-22427

Plays for amateurs. All the plays have been tested on the stage and are suitable for high school, college, women's clubs, camps and little theater groups.

Reviewed by M. L. Becker

Books p8 Ja 17 '43 80w

"Best anthology of its kind I have encountered. In wartime, it will be a lifesaver for play-reading committees and useful at any time in girls' schools and colleges. All play types included; authorship is better than competent. Highly recommended."

+ Library J 67:1013 N 15 '42 50w

Springf'd Republican p7e D 20 '42 170w

SMITH, CHARLES EDWARD, and others. Jazz record book. 515p $3.50 Smith & Durrell
789.9 Phonograph records. Jazz music (W) 42-7112

A combination history of jazz music and its makers, and a listing of more than a thousand jazz records, analyzed as to soloist, band, period, and style. Index.

Booklist 38:327 My 1 '42

Pratt p20 O '42

"This excellent book takes its place automatically with the three or four books essential to an understanding of jazz. The subject is vast; the future will show that such a book as this has appeared at just the right moment. Those lovers of jazz and collectors of jazz records who are legion in the United States and elsewhere have needed the substantial nourishment that publishers have, perhaps mistakenly, been slow to provide. 'The Jazz Record Book' symbolizes the emergence of jazz as an American institution with historical roots, a literature, a sturdy present, and a promising future which, growing by what it feeds on, will be more muscular because of this book." Robert Goffin

+ Sat R of Lit 25:18 Mr 21 '42 500w

SMITH, CHARLES HENRY. Story of the Mennonites. 824p il $2.50 Mennonite bk. concern, Berne, Ind.

239.7 Mennonites

41-19358

"This volume deals with Mennonite history from the days of the Anabaptists to 1939. About three hundred pages are devoted to America, the rest to Europe. . . This volume is a revision and enlargement of the author's Mennonites of America (1909) and The Mennonites—A Brief History (1920). The chapters that are distinctly new deal with the more recent migrations to this continent and with the attitude and experiences of the Mennonites as conscientious objectors in the first World War." Am Hist R

Reviewed by Carl Wittke
 Am Hist R 47:659 Ap '42 210w
 Reviewed by F. L. Weller
 Am J Soc 48:294 S '42 130w
 Christian Century 58:1306 O 22 '41 200w

SMITH, CLEVELAND H., and TAYLOR, GERTRUDE R. United States service symbols. 116p il $1.50 Duell

355.14 U.S.—Armed forces—Insignia.
 (W) 42-36380

Contains many illustrations with captions and brief text illustrating insignia, uniforms, medals, etc. Contents: Our flag; United States army; United States navy; United States marine corps; United States coast guard; United States air forces; Decorations and medals; American women's voluntary services; United service organizations; Civilian defense; How to address mail to service men. Index.

Booklist 39:116 D 1 '42
 Books p53 D 6 '42 100w
 Library J 67:1067 D 1 '42 20w

SMITH, DENYS HARRISON HERBERT. America and the axis war. 424p $3 Macmillan [15s Cape, J]

327.73 U.S.—Foreign relations. World war, 1939—U.S. 42-25475

"Written by English newspaper correspondent who has lived in this country since 1929. He reviews events in American diplomacy between the Versailles Treaty and Pearl Harbor, developing the theme that isolationist bloc in Congress determined foreign policy for years, although constitutionally such policies are the province of the President. Also, he emphasizes influence of public opinion upon government and shows how it affects presidential action, even in foreign relations." (Library J) Index.

Booklist 39:132 D 15 '42

"Mr. Smith of 'The Telegraph' admits no blunders on the part of the Foreign Office, whose judgments, so far as his record shows, are true and righteous altogether. As a result he cannot explain our pre-war foreign policy; he can only indict it." Hiram Motherwell
 — + Books p22 N 22 '42 600w

"Interesting but not essential book. Non-technical, easy reading, without journalistic padding. . . Recommended for popular libraries, and to readers of current history." F. L. D. Goodrich

+ — Library J 67:908 O 15 '42 110w

"Mr. Smith has written a volume that is timely, sound, and provocative. It stands out in refreshing and distinguished contrast to many of the items that have swollen the flood of war books by correspondents." Frank Monaghan

+ Sat R of Lit 26:8 Ja 2 '43 500w

"The small band of addicts who take a permanent and serious interest in American affairs, especially in American politics, have long learned to make the Washington correspondence of The Daily Telegraph required reading. A book by Mr. Smith was therefore sure of a welcome. It is all the more distressing to have to admit that the welcome must be seriously qualified, for the care, the acuteness, and the ability that have gone to making the book, are present in so abundant quantities that they make its basic fault all the more obvious. That basic fault is a fault of temper. Years of contemplating the ostrich tactics of American isolationism, and of the in-and-out running imposed on the President and the Secretary of State by the power of this blind bloc of hopeful thinkers, seem to have soured Mr. Smith." D. W. Brogan

+ — Spec 169:153 Ag 14 '42 850w

"Mr. Denys Smith has told the story of recent American foreign policy with clearness, competence, and balance. The record is well documented, and in the notes at the end of each chapter the source and authority of important passages are given."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p518 O 24 '42 800w

SMITH, EDNA BARBARA, ed. Best I know; with caricatures by Xavier Cugat. 175p $1.50 Waverly house
 817.08 Humor 41-27854

A collection of funny stories contributed by famous personages in American public life from Helen Hayes to Wendell Willkie.

Booklist 38:187 F 1 '42

Springf'd Republican p7e Ja 18 '42 160w

Wis Lib Bul 38:12 Ja '42

SMITH, LADY ELEANOR FURNEAUX. Man in grey. 301p $2.50 Doubleday [9s Hutchinsonson]

42-36090

A romance of Regency days retold, by the young wife of the present Lord Rohan, from letters and diaries which she found behind a secret panel. The man in grey was an earlier Lord Rohan, and the two women in his life were the lovely Clarissa, Marchioness of Rohan, "the most beautiful woman of her epoch," who was his first wife; and Hester Shaw, a second Becky Sharp, who was Clarissa's friend and then her betrayer.

Booklist 38:252 Mr 15 '42

Reviewed by Marjorie Bright
 Books p20 Mr 1 '42 430w

Manchester Guardian p3 N 7 '41 80w

Reviewed by Charlotte Dean
 N Y Times p24 Mr 1 '42 450w

"Somewhat too bogus reconstruction from old letters of a Regency romance." Kate O'Brien
 Spec 167:474 N 14 '41 70w

"It is a more accomplished piece of storytelling than may appear. The period flavour, what with the great Whig families and their fashionable routine, the routs and the gambling and the political oratory and the peach-coloured livery is beglamoured, of course—rather defiantly beglamoured—and there is not much occasion for the sobrieties of period atmosphere. But within such limitations the thing is very skilfully contrived."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p541 N 1 '41 430w

SMITH, ELLEN HART. Charles Carroll of Carrollton. 340p il $3.75 Harvard univ. press
 B or 92 Carroll, Charles A42-5400

"Sympathetic study of a great American, last-surviving signer of the Declaration of Independence. Emphasizing the intimate and personal side of Carroll's life (1737-1832), author shows his gradual development into eminent lawyer and statesman. Lively descriptions of social and political life in Annapolis and Baltimore, graphic accounts of stormy period following the Revolution, and interesting sketches of men who made our history. Carefully selected bibliography." Library J

"Miss Smith makes a determined and interesting, but not quite successful, effort to prove that Charles Carroll of Carrollton was in fact a great man. Nevertheless, if her book fails of its main objective, it does no small service to Carroll's memory, for it shows him as an interesting and in many ways an admirable man, patriotic, courageous and worthy of the respect of posterity." G. W. Johnson
 + — Books p5 Ja 10 '43 1750w

Reviewed by Emma Olcott

+ Library J 67:1065 D 1 '42 90w

"Excellent and stimulating biography." N. G. Goodman

+ N Y Times p12 Ja 24 '43 1700w

"Miss Smith's book, supplementing rather than supplanting the old two-volume life of Kate Mason Rowland, which still remains of value for its documentary appendices and some special points of view, performs a number of useful services. It gives us our first compact, lively, and really interesting biography of Carroll. It explores a great deal of untouched manuscript, newspaper, and monographic material, and makes use of the latest conclusions of history regarding the Revolution. It defines with scrupulous accuracy the place of Catholics in the political and social life of Maryland, and the somewhat unorthodox position of Carroll in the Catholic Church. . . . Most interesting of all, it paints a skilful picture of Carroll as a man." Allan Nevins

SMITH, E. H.—Continued

— + Sat R of Lit 26:28 Ja 23 '43 850w

SMITH, GERALD BIRNEY. Principles of Christian living; rev. by Leland Foster Wood. 2d ed rev 280p $2 Univ. of Chicago press
171.1 Christian ethics 42-36076

Textbook on Christian ethics first published in 1924 (Book Review Digest, 1925). The revision has been done by a former student of Dr Smith's. Mr Wood, now on the secretarial staff of the Federal Council of Churches "retains the basic material of the original book, bringing in the important psychological theory which stresses the influence of the environment on the individual and pointing out the conflict in ethical thinking introduced by the present World War." (Publisher's note) Index.

Booklist 38:238 Mr 1 '42

"A good book has been bettered as well as modernized by the revision."

+ Christian Century 59:115 Ja 28 '42 70w

"'Principles of Christian Living' is remarkably comprehensive, and contains many stimulating and helpful thoughts." T. L. L.

+ Christian Science Monitor p10 S 26 '42 600w

"It is just the book for the clergyman or the thoughtful layman who desires to freshen his ideas concerning practical questions in Christian living. But the 'old Gospel' people will not like it, the Roman mind will not read the book and the Anglican orthodox person will not be satisfied with the treatment given his own particular beliefs and attitudes. But there are Anglicans and Episcopalians who will greet this book with great pleasure." H. J. Simpson
+ Churchman 156:16 Mr 1 '42 260w

"Mr. Wood has improved the book for current use by bringing the bibliographies down to date and by revising those chapters that are concerned with contemporary social problems. It will be found a valuable elementary text for youth groups and in the church school." E. R. Walker
+ J Religion 22:76 Ja '43 450w

SMITH, HENRY LADD. Airways; the history of commercial aviation in the United States. 445p il $3.50 Knopf

387.7 Aeronautics, Commercial (W) 42-36042

History of commercial aviation in the United States, describing the growth of our air lines since the late nineteen twenties. The author gives an account of the personal rivalries and financial intrigue involved in the establishment of the air and mail routes, and the influence of government regulation. Index.

Booklist 38:204 F 15 '42

Bookmark 3:8 Mr '42

"A fascinating book." Wolfgang Langeweische
+ Books p1 F 8 '42 1550w

"A notable contribution to the history of the airplane. . . Carefully documented account, with copious chapter notes." E. D. Hart
+ Library J 66:1046 D 1 '41 80w

N Y New Tech Bks 27:36 Jl '42

"'Airways' stands as the only accurate, constructive account of the development of American air transport to date. Despite its inadequacies, it should enjoy considerable popularity as interesting reading, and as being of reasonably informative value to those concerned with aviation history. It is to be hoped that the author will revise his work as soon as an interim presents itself for suitable summation of his subject and for the bringing of it completely up to date, especially with reference to air cargo and the future of air transport in this vital respect." W. H. Graham, Jr.

+ N Y Times p4 Ja 25 '42 1150w

"A good, inclusive picture."

+ New Yorker 17:68 Ja 24 '42 30w

Pratt p3 O '42

"Mr. Smith knows more about the personalities involved than many of them know about themselves and he must have spent years in reading dull reports, financial statements, and clippings from newspapers in the back blocks. The marvel is that having done all this spade work he was able to produce a book so vivid and energetic in style, so interesting even to the layman who approaches the subject without special interest. Whatever other books are written about it in the future this one will always remain the classic and standard work for its period; and will also be sheer good reading in any period." F. P.

+ Sat R of Lit 25:21 F 7 '42 190w

SMITH, HILIRIE SHELTON. Faith and nurture. 208p $2 Scribner

268 Religious education. Liberalism (religion) (W) 41-25774

For descriptive note see Annual for 1941.

"Professor Smith does not advocate either a wholesale rejection of liberalism or a wholesale acceptance of neo-orthodoxy, although he shows much more skill in exhibiting the defects of the former than in presenting a systematic exposition of what is sound in the latter. So far as strictly theological issues are concerned, he covers territory which is now quite familiar to most of his readers; the chief value of the book lies in the fact that these issues are brought into connection specifically with the problems of religious education." D. E. Roberts
+ — Books p21 Mr 1 '42 360w

Reviewed by J. M. Dawson

Christian Century 59:150 F 4 '42 700w

"The clearness and fairness with which the critical expositions of liberalism are made are most admirable. The author's challenge to religious education to serve well its day, his erudite grasp of modern religious education movements, and the timeliness of the presentation of this particular view make the book unquestionably valuable to the rank and file of religious educators of today. Having said this, the reviewer must take emphatic exception to the main contention of the book and to the a priori viewpoint that maintains it." I. A. Morton

+ — J Religion 22:212 Ap '42 1050w

SMITH, HOWARD KINGSBURY. Last train from Berlin. 359p $2.75 Knopf [10s 6d Cresset]
940.5343 World war, 1939—Germany. Germany—Politics and government

(W) 42-36292

The author, a newspaper man and CBS commentator, was the last American to leave Germany before Japan entered the war. He reached Switzerland in December, 1941, after six years in Nazi Germany. His account is of the economic and psychological conditions in Germany before the war, and in the months of war which he experienced from inside the Reich.

Appeared on Best Seller list in: ALA (1) Books (17) B & T (1) N Y Times (18) PW (2) RB (3) W (1)

Reviewed by C. W. Morgan

Atlantic 170:134 O '42 480w

Booklist 39:9 S '42

"'Last Train From Berlin' is as up to date a first-hand account of conditions in the Reich (except for those in Bad Nauheim) as we are likely to get from a trained observer until the war is over. It is also a singularly vivid and stirring account, altogether one of the very best of the 'personal history' books by a correspondent to come out of the war so far. This, more than any of the others, is a true successor and companion-piece to 'Berlin Diary.'"

W. R. Deuel

+ Books p3 S 13 '42 1300w

Reviewed by E. M. Burns
Christian Century 59:1222 O 7 '42 450w
Christian Science Monitor p18 S 10 '42 360w

"Hats off to Howard Smith. For all the tribulations we suffer with him and all the padding he has inserted between his early sufferings and his final conviction how to shorten the war, he has sung out for sound idea. If he is the reliable reporter he seems to be, we neglect it at our peril." Edward Skillin, Jr.

+ Commonweal 36:500 S 11 '42 750w

Reviewed by Ralph Bates
Nation 155:215 S 12 '42 900w

Reviewed by Malcolm Cowley
New Repub 107:289 S 7 '42 1300w

"Mr. Smith tells a very lively and human story. He is frank about his own fears and doubts and mistakes; he hates the whole Nazi set-up as a decent man should and he does not pretend that Germany is about to collapse as a result of a revolution, unaided by decisive military victories by the United Nations. But he is encouraging; his facts are facts and not gossip; his generalisations spring, not from theory, but from observation of Germany's internal conflicts for the last six years." Kingsley Martin

+ New Statesman & Nation 24:13 J1 4 '42 950w

"Here is an analytical exposition by a brilliant young reporter of conditions within the Nazi State when Hitler declared war on the United States... In 'Last Train From Berlin' Mr. Smith does not attempt to explain why, in the long-range view, the German people are as they are. He takes the German people as they appeared to him last Winter and, as an expert familiar at first hand with his material, suggests a method more quickly to accomplish the defeat of Hitler and nazism." C. B. Peters

+ N Y Times p3 S 13 '42 1100w

"Mr. Smith's report is an extraordinary document. Interesting as it is, I am not at all sure that it should be recommended widely, for its effect on the reading public may hardly be salutary to the successful prosecution of the war. Mr. Smith is an unrestrained optimist... In general, Mr. Smith is first-rate on detail and fuzzy in his conclusions. One wonders what the Russians, who have been doing the dying, would make of his basic conviction that victory is almost in the bag—except, they might say, for the fighting." Clifton Fadiman

+ New Yorker 18:68 S 12 '42 700w

Reviewed by H. C. Wolfe
Sat R of Lit 25:5 S 5 '42 1000w

"Mr. Smith gives an interesting description of economic and domestic difficulties in day-to-day life in Germany, and often a casual phrase (as, for example, 'if the sons of the old families want to continue their tradition they will have to do it by entering the Gestapo Ordensburgs of Munich, not the officers' institute of Potsdam') throws a flood of light on the trend of social change. He has only made one bad mistake—the inclusion of a chapter on social revolution, breathing all the ardours of the University Labour Club at Oxford rather than the admirable objectivity which the United Press journalist and Columbia broadcaster habitually manifests. In spite of that, the book is to be highly commended—and recommended." Warren Postbridge

+ Spec 169:15 J1 3 '42 700w

"Mr. Smith went to Germany hating all the things for which National Socialism stands, and closer observation and personal experience confirmed him in his convictions and condemnation. He rightly asks the reader to remember his 'prejudices, predilections, sophistifications.' It is a remarkable report of conditions in Germany which he gives—one of the first full and free reports we have had. He is aware of the criminality of raising false hopes, and, while recording the signs of deterioration which he noted, he insists that the overthrow of Hitler must come through military means."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p326 J1 4 '42 950w

SMITH, NICOL. Black Martinique, red Guiana; phot. by Loren Tutell. 312p $3.50 Bobbs 917.298 Martinique, French Guiana

(W) 42-8490

An anecdotal account of the author's visit to Martinique and French Guiana in the spring of 1941.

"Mr. Smith has an easy, colorful style and the light touch comes naturally to him. His book on two of the most interesting of French colonies is, as a result, extremely good reading... The picture of Martinique and Guiana is far from complete. But the author's approach makes this seem unimportant. The whole is divined from the parts which he adroitly displays to us." W. A. Roberts

+ Books p16 Ap 12 '42 750w

Cleveland Open Shelf p11 My '42

"Wherever he gets them, Nicol Smith tells his stories with an easy spontaneity and a fine flourish, and readers who liked his earlier books will enjoy this one just as much, or perhaps even more."

N Y Times p8 Ap 5 '42 480w

Reviewed by Linton Wells

Sat R of Lit 25:28 Ap 11 '42 550w

SMITH, ONNIE WARREN. Musings of an angler. 187p il $2 Barnes, A.S.

799.12 Fishing 42-10914

"A Wisconsin preacher who has written several rather technical books about fishing contributed these musings to the magazine Outdoors, of which he is 'fishing editor.' They do not tell how to catch fish but furnish a guide to quiet meditation with a piscatorial flavor for days when the fish are not biting, or for evenings in camp, or for the off-season." Christian Century

Christian Century 59:498 Ap 15 '42 60w

Wis Lib Bul 38:117 J1 '42

SMITH, PERCY DE WILLARD. Modern marine electricity. 279p il $2.50 Cornell maritime 623.85 Electricity on ships. Electric engineering (W) 41-17743

"This practical work covers light and power, generators, motors, motor starting and control equipment, operation of motors and generators, electric propulsion, electromagnetic slip couplings, interior communication, maintenance, tables and other useful information." (N Y New Tech Bks) Index.

Booklist 38:76 N 1 '41

N Y New Tech Bks 27:6 Ja '42

Pratt p16 My '42

SMITH, RICHARD AUSTIN. Sun dial. 264p $2.50 Knopf

42-12641

"A yarn about a man possessed by the sea. A Maine fisherman to begin with, he is persuaded by a young wife to live as a landsman. Tragedy overtakes them and he goes back to the sea—from sail to steam, from tramp to destroyer." New Yorker

Booklist 38:427 J1 1 '42

"The Sun Dial' is a book which at times generates a rare emotional quality, even when the import of its involved symbolism is not made explicitly clear. The author is a man oppressed by his knowledge of the fleetingness of all things and the minuteness of men in the face of the universe. Courage, he would say, is the only answer with which we can defy the unknown, and even the value of that is sometimes doubtful. In spite of an attempted heroic note at the end, this is a deeply pessimistic book. Richard Smith may have some interesting things to say to us in the future." Milton Hindus

+ Books p10 My 31 '42 700w

Nation 154:664 Je 6 '42 40w

SMITH, R. A.—Continued

"It starts badly, with some of the worst and phoniest lovers' dialogue ever written, but warms up in the second half with some nice technical stuff."

— + New Repub 106:838 Je 15 '42 70w

Reviewed by Rose Feld

N Y Times p7 Je 7 '42 550w

"A good, stiff breeze blows through this one, smelling of hot oil and salt."

New Yorker 18:79 Je 6 '42 60w

Reviewed by N. L. Rothman

Sat R of Lit 25:13 Je 20 '42 230w

SMITH, ROY LEMON. Revolution in Christian missions. 223p $1.75 Abingdon-Cokesbury

266 Missions 41-25072

"'Christianity faces today a testing far more serious than any period of persecution through which it has ever passed, and upon the way the Christian Church meets this new challenge depends the whole future of the faith.' With this recognition the author sets out to clarify the issues, reveal the facts, and think through the problems with which the missionary enterprise of the Church is concerned." Publisher's note

"This book [is] clear, concise and incisive in style." A. G. Baker

+ Christian Century 59:429 Ap 1 '42 800w

"The book has an awakening ring and a decisive way of making the challenge clear and urgent." A. L. Murray

+ Churchman 156:19 Ja 15 '42 240w

SMITH, SIMON HARCOURT—. See Harcourt-Smith, S.SMITH, THEODORE CLARKE. The United States as a factor in world history. (Berkshire studies in European hist) 142p $1 Holt

327.73 U.S.—Foreign relations. U.S.—History. World politics 41-10192

"In his slim volume, Professor Smith has essayed, with considerable success, the difficult task of sketching, within very small compass, the entire history of the United States with special reference to its relations to world history." (Am Pol Sci R) Bibliographical note. Index.

Reviewed by L. B. Shippee

Am Hist R 48:194 O '42 170w

Reviewed by J. M. Mathews

Am Pol Sci R 35:997 O '41 40w

Reviewed by R. G. Woolbert

Foreign Affairs 20:574 Ap '42 20w

SMITH, THOMAS VERNOR. Democratic tradition in America. 152p $1.50; college ed $1 Farrar

321.8 U.S.—Politics and government, Democracy 41-19709

"Professor Smith's volume constitutes in effect an historico-philosophical statement of the essential elements in American democratic political thought. It is composed of various parts of Smith's earlier work, revised and roughly organized, to demonstrate his thesis that creative growth, judicious compromise, and a rough and ready equality between citizens have in fact been fundamental in the American past, and must be preserved and vitalized if peaceful change is to continue in the future." (Pol Sci Q) Index.

"Among the many good chapters in this volume the one on Operative Equality and the Middle Way must be particularly commended. In it the author rigorously upholds equality as the regulative principle of democratic justice. But he also understands, as some equalitarians do not, that if this regulative principle is raised to an absolute dogma it does violence to the complexities of social life." Reinhold Niebuhr

+ Nation 153:460 N 8 '41 300w

Reviewed by T. I. Cook

Pol Sci Q 57:297 Je '42 330w

SMITH, THOMAS VERNOR. Discipline for democracy. 137p $2 Univ. of N.C. press

321.8 Civilization. Democracy. Citizenship 42-50116

"These lectures are an expansion and revision of the chapter entitled 'Democratic Discipline' in The Democratic Way of Life [Book Review Digest, 1939]. In that chapter the three disciplines of science, art, and politics are characterized as follows: science cultivates accuracy in dealing with fact; art cultivates consistency in the realm of the imagination; politics represents a synthesis of 'the discipline of discovery and the discipline of creation' in the field of action. This synthesis of disciplines is achieved in the 'political leader' who combines the virtues of men of power with those of saints, and who is therefore able to keep the pursuit of power from interfering with the pursuit of perfection. In the present volume this analysis is revised significantly at several points, though the general divisions remain the same." (J Philos) Index.

"There are times when T. V. Smith is a genuine 'philosopher amid chaos.' There are other times when he is simply one of the wisecrackers in the gang at the corner drug-store at coke time. This meaty little book, made up of four lectures delivered at the University of North Carolina, essays about three parts philosopher to one part wisecracker."

Christian Century 59:1494 D 2 '42 260w

"The more significant and clearer aspect of Smith's theory seems to me to be the distinction he draws between public and private conscience, between the law as the principles of the art of mediation, and the right as the expression of insistent group demands. This distinction throws needed light not only on the relation between public and private morality, but gives a precise and useful definition of the politician's function and responsibility. There is a delightful humor and 'wistful' irony in this analysis, but it is certainly none the worse for that. . . . Were T. V. Smith chiefly interested in social science, he could write an admirable text, but he is interested chiefly in poetry, and his poetic imagination dominates his diction. Hence it takes more than a democratic discipline to read his writing sympathetically and understandingly." H. W. Schneider

+ — J Philos 40:21 Ja 7 '43 1700w

SNOW, HELEN (FOSTER) (MRS EDGAR SNOW) (NYM WALES, pseud). China builds for democracy; a story of cooperative industry. 326p il $2.50 Modern age

334 Cooperation—China 42-36193

"A circumstantial, illustrated account of the origin and operation of the industrial co-operatives in Free China." Foreign Affairs

Booklist 38:324 My 1 '42

Reviewed by R. G. Woolbert

Foreign Affairs 20:785 Jl '42 20w

Reviewed by L. E. Frechtling

New Repub 106:273 F 23 '42 850w

SOBY, JAMES THRALL. Early Chirico. 120p il $3 Dodd

B or 92 Chirico, Giorgio de 42-746

A biography of the modern Italian painter and a discussion of his early works (up to 1917) and their influence on modern art. The volume is illustrated with 69 plates grouped after the text. Bibliography. Index.

Booklist 38:232 Mr 1 '42

"Mr. Soby's well written, reasonably argued, carefully discriminating study is one of the best monographs in its field in recent years—exactly what was needed to bring the genius of Chirico into line with the significant developments of his age and to fix him as one of its most decisive and influential inventors." M. D. Zabel

+ Nation 154:259 F 28 '42 460w

Reviewed by Jerome Mellquist
New Repub 106:405 Mr 23 '42 60w
Pratt p4 D '42

"Mr. Soby brings a rare combination of scholarship and insight to a painter whose 'wondrous poetry' obviously enchants him. He attempts neither psychoanalytical 'explanation' nor the rendering of final judgment on the early Chirico; but there is no hesitancy in his statement of Chirico's meaning for our time." Oliver Larkin

+ Sat R of Lit 25:16 Mr 21 '42 320w

SOBY, JAMES THRALL. Salvador Dali [paintings, drawings, prints]. 87p $2 Museum of modern art

759.6 Dali, Salvador 42-319

Plates in black and white, with four in color, which illustrate the work of the surrealist painter, Salvador Dali from 1924 to 1941. The introduction contains a discussion of his art.

Booklist 38:233 Mr 1 '42

"Mr. Soby insists... that Salvador Dali is a master. Perhaps he is—to the cognoscenti of Hartford. To others his antics, his polish, his savoir-faire, merely betray an academic gone wrong." Jerome Mellquist

— New Repub 106:405 Mr 23 '42 60w

Pratt p5 O '42

SOCIETY FOR THE PSYCHOLOGICAL STUDY OF SOCIAL ISSUES. Civilian morale; second yearbook of the Society; Goodwin Watson, editor. 463p $3.50 Reynal

301.15 Morale. Social psychology

"Scientific study of problems of morale by eminent psychologists, appearing as second yearbook of Society for the Psychological Study of Social Issues. Contents cover: Theory of Morale, How Morale Develops, The State of American Morale including Morale Among Negroes, Morale in Industry, and Essentials for a Civilian Program in American Democracy." Library J

Booklist 39:3 S '42

Cleveland Open Shelf p13 J1 '42

"Should prove indispensable to all dealing with either national or individual morale problems." M. E. Clark

+ Library J 67:629 J1 '42 80w

School & Society 56:196 S 5 '42 60w

Reviewed by A. H. Compton & others

Scientific BK Club R 13:1 Ag '42 1150w

SOCKMAN, RALPH WASHINGTON. Highway of God. 228p $2 Macmillan

251 Preaching. Christianity (W) 42-36164

The Lyman Beecher lectures for 1940-1941, delivered at Yale Divinity school, by the minister of Christ Church (Methodist) of New York city. In them he discusses some of the difficulties of preaching the gospel effectively in the modern world, and contrasts them with "the first Christian appraisal of preaching, that is, our Lord's own estimate of the great popular preacher of his day, John the Baptist." Index.

Booklist 38:301 Ap 15 '42

Bookmark 3:4 My '42

"It is appropriate and high praise of this book . . . to describe it as worthy of this great succession." His pages are aglow with fervor and vision." J. H. Holmes

+ Books p10 My 17 '42 150w

Reviewed by Charles Gerlinger

Christian Century 59:697 My 27 '42 600w

Reviewed by W. L. Caswell

Churchman, 156:16 Ap 1 '42 600w

Reviewed by W. R. McNutt

Crozer Q 19:238 J1 '42 600w

"Dr. Sockman's twenty-five years in a leading New York pulpit have supplied him with a ripe wisdom, and he has a singular knack in phrasing it. His lectures are easy reading, and one marks many sentences. He has the defect of his quality, and the cleverness of his phrase may catch the attention rather than the thought which it seeks to convey." H. S. Coffin

+ J Religion 22:432 O '42 550w

"Addressed specifically to preachers, it has strong appeal for any adult reader interested in spiritual concerns." J. S. Cleaver

+ Library J 67:182 F 15 '42 70w

SOLDIER'S MOTHER. See A letter to my son

SONDERGAARD, MRS ARENSA. My first geography of the Americas; il. by Fritz Kredel. 60p $1.75 Little

917 America—Description and travel

(W) 42-22054

"A highly decorative geography for small children, with pictures and text to inform the mind and excite the imagination. The aim is to represent the country as a great area in which many different kinds of people live and do various important and interesting things in different places." Christian Century

Booklist 39:53 O 15 '42

"The appeal of this greatly needed book is not only to children: it will be treasured by librarians who must meet the problem of presenting America to adult beginners in our language, or indeed by any one who would be the wiser for a pictorial idea of our hemisphere as a whole, comparable to the one Miss Sondergaard offered him last year for our history. But a child who gets his first idea of geography from this will get the right idea: it makes a fine start on hemispheric solidarity." M. L. Becker

+ Books p9 S 13 '42 330w

"It is a fascinating picture book as well as being chock-full of useful information."

+ Cath World 156:374 D '42 50w

Christian Century 59:1089 S 9 '42 50w

"A picture-geography that is fun and impressive."

+ Churchman 156:15 N 15 '42 10w

Reviewed by H. L. Binsse

Commonweal 37:119 N 20 '42 20w

Reviewed by Elizabeth Babcock

Library J 67:797 S 15 '42 50w

Reviewed by R. A. Hill

+ Library J 67:885 O 15 '42 60w

"In the many pictures the young reader finds those things which are deeply interesting to him. . . The colors are soft and pleasing and while there is a generous number of drawings, the page is never overcrowded or restless. There are maps, too, designed to suggest the long distances which separate one part of the country from another rather than to locate specific places. A book for which parents and teachers will be grateful and one that boys and girls will find genuinely satisfying." A. T. Eaton

+ N Y Times p10 O 25 '42 320w

New Yorker 18:116 D 12 '42 50w

SONDERGAARD, MRS ARENSA. They went exploring; il. by C. H. De Witt. 52p $1.50 Harper

910.9 Discoveries (in geography)—Juvenile literature (W) 42-25261

Lithographs in color and short descriptive text describe exploration by land and sea and in science, for third to fifth graders.

Booklist 39:187 Ja 1 '43

Reviewed by M. L. Becker

Books p10 N 15 '42 180w

Horn Bk 19:42 Ja '43 60w

"A volume that elementary school libraries and public library children's departments will find very useful." S. J. Johnson

+ Library J 67:1069 D 1 '42 60w

SONDERGAARD, ARENSA—Continued

"Mrs. Sondergaard, who knows children, has not cluttered her narrative with unnecessary details, but in a few words and with considerable skill has managed to characterize her explorers so that the young reader finds in 'They Went Exploring' real people, not a mere list of names." A. T. Eaton

+ N Y Times p10 Ja 31 '43 280w

Wis Lib Bul 38:190 D '42

SONNICHSEN, CHARLES LELAND. Billy King's Tombstone: the private life of an Arizona boom town. 233p il $3 Caxton printers

979.1 Tombstone, Arizona. Frontier and pioneer life—Arizona. King, William Aurelius 42-10170

Tales of Tombstone, Arizona, in its bold, bad days at the end of the last century and the very beginning of the present one. These legends of the bold, bad men of those days, and of the women, too, are based on the recollections of Billy King, veteran barkeeper and deputy of the '80's.

"This is a well written, straightforward account of Tombstone as it appeared to the eyes of Billy King. . . . The author does not rely solely on King's memory, for he has bolstered his narrative with the memories of other one-time citizens of Tombstone. . . . Much of the material is new, or at least new to more-than-casual students of Tombstone doings, and the job of deflating the reputation of Buckskin Frank Leslie is notable debunking of a male parasite who has needed just such a treatment for a long time." S. H. Holbrook

+ Books p15 Jl 19 '42 280w

Canadian Forum 22:94 Je '42 80w

"Another book about Tombstone—very readable but not particularly edifying! . . . The photographs of men and women well-known in Billy King's day, many of which are reproduced in this volume give unusual interest and value to the book. There are pictures here of a number of beautiful women and brave men never before made accessible to the public. In this connection, too, it should be said that however little edification or enlightenment concerning the cleaner and soberer view of life there may be in these pages, the facts as presented are historically true." F. C. Lockwood

Sat R of Lit 25:36 My 16 '42 300w

SOPHIA CHRISTINA CHARLOTTE, princess of NASSAU-SAARBRUCK. Concerning the education of a prince; correspondence of the Princess, 13 June-15 Nov, 1758; ed. with an introd, essay by John M. S. Allison. 48p $2 Yale univ. press [12s Oxford]

370 Diderot, Denis—Le père de famille. Education 41-15410

"Some reflections on education by Diderot, already published in revised version as the dedicatory letter of the Père de famille (1758) to the Princess of Nassau-Saarbruck, are sandwiched between twenty-four pages of preliminary matter and introduction and eleven pages of the princess's answering letters to provide an interesting footnote on eighteenth century rationalism." Am Hist R

"To the reviewer the chief value of this little book lies in the editor's careful comparison of the original draft of Diderot's dedicatory letter with the printed version. Diderot's omissions of passages like those dealing with natural equality (p 31), the reward due to 'all men of merit' (p. 32), and the proper place of voluptuousness (pp. 34-36)—the last at least on the princess's express demand—furnish a neat example of a sort of censorship by patronage of which we know far too little." Louis Gottschalk

Am Hist R 47:415 Ja '42 210w

"Mr. Allison's introductory essay to this beautifully printed little book makes clear why it will be useful to scholars. The five letters it contains furnish one of the very few proofs extant of the effect of the philosophies of the age of reason upon a monarch." W. A. S. Dollard

+ Books p22 N 23 '41 300w

"The correspondence, with John M. S. Allison's introductory essay, is well worth the attention of any one who is interested in social history."

+ N Y Times p31 O 19 '41 500w

SOPHOCLES. Oedipus at Colonus; an English version by Robert Fitzgerald. 156p $1.50 Harcourt

882.2

41-16324

"With this version, Mr. Fitzgerald has... [completed] the translation of the great Sophoclean trilogy started by William Butler Yeats's 'Oedipus the King,' and continued two years ago by Dudley Fitts's and Robert Fitzgerald's 'Antigone' [Book Review Digest 1939]." Sat R of Lit

"Mr. Fitzgerald has entirely avoided the most fatal pitfall of the ambitious translator, namely, the attempt to amalgamate the substance of the Greek with a style and idiom already established in English poetry. There is nothing reminiscent of the Bible or Shakespeare or Swinburne in Mr. Fitzgerald's work, nor is there any touch of the false archaic. He has aimed at writing in what he well calls 'the English of Sophocles,' an English equally acceptable to Jonathan Swift and Ernest Hemingway. This means in practice an idiom uncolored by colloquialisms and yet like the colloquial in its cadence and fluidity and its power to respond to the demands of any conceivable occasion." G. F. Whicher

+ Books p14 O 12 '41 700w

"It is high praise to each one to say that they should be read together, and that the transition from the poetic prose of Yeats's version, with some of its choruses in pure poetry, to the poetry of Mr. Fitzgerald's version, and then to the sparkling poetry of the 'Antigone,' in which Mr. Fitzgerald collaborated with Mr. Fitts, is smooth, natural, and inevitable. There are distinctions, to be sure; and probably many readers will have their preferences; but these distinctions are minor ones, and all readers will be sensible of the service that these three moderns have performed." D. A. Shephardson

+ Sat R of Lit 25:13 F 14 '42 550w

SORENSEN, MRS VIRGINIA (EGGERTSEN). Little lower than the angels. 427p $2.75 Knopf

(W) 42-7633

The Mormon settlement in Nauvoo, Illinois, is the scene of this first novel. It deals with the period of Mormon history just before and after the death of Joseph Smith, and the beginning of the trek of his followers to Utah, led by Brigham Young. The family of Simon Baker and his wife Mercy are the central characters, especially Mercy whose faith in her husband was greater than her faith in his religion.

Booklist 38:347 My 15 '42

Bookmark 3:17 My '42

"A novel of distinction. With many a fine touch Virginia Sorensen has spun a revealing narrative out of the trials of a sensitive woman who found her fate bound up with that of the early Mormons. . . . Although the point of view is necessarily feminine, it plunges deeply enough to reach psychological and emotional roots not earmarked for any one sex. A word for the author's style: its fusion of vivid imagery and a poetic impressionism, its sudden insight and swift turns make the narrative continuously stimulating. 'A Little Lower Than the Angels' is good." Milton Rugoff

+ Books p4 My 10 '42 950w

"Interesting, well written, with good suspense value. Some readers will object to frank treatment of sex. Not essential to small library collection. Read before purchase." E. F. Kelly

+ Library J 67:368 Ap 15 '42 70w

"Of the many novels that have the Mormons as a background this seems to me the most intensely dramatic and the most satisfyingly written. Mrs. Sorensen's prose is sharp and distinguished, often poetic without being pretentious. Her instinctive sympathy with the spiritual and physical yearnings of the Saints, who thrived on adversity and refused to yield a single inch in their doctrines or practices in the face of mobs or legal coercion, produces a stirring tale of quiet heroism." L. B. Salomon

+ Nation 154:576 My 16 '42 420w

Reviewed by Rose Feld

N Y Times p6 My 10 '42 800w

"I have read a number of Mormon novels, but none that more convincingly explores the minds of the Mormon women confronted with the tragic, comic, and grotesque problems of plural marriage. A first novel, this is written (except when it is overwritten) with passion and a sense of style." Clifton Fadiman

+ New Yorker 18:72 My 16 '42 320w

"[The author] has more than the capacity to limit and select and create living people. She can write better than the majority of the novelists now practising in this country—much better than many distended reputations. And she betrays constantly, in flashes of observation and passages of reflection, an acute and original mind. For all the sophistication and polish of her prose, she looks through no literary glass. She sees with her own eyes, thinks with her own head. That is to say, she is a young writer with a present and a future." Wallace Stegner

+ Sat R of Lit 25:11 My 9 '42 650w

SOROKIN, PITIRIM ALEKSANDROVICH. Man and society in calamity. 352p $3 Dutton

301.15 Disasters. Social psychology. Social conditions 42-21607

"Detailed analysis of effects of war, revolution, famine, and pestilence upon the human mind, behavior, social organization, and cultural life; illustrated by well-documented references to historical facts ranging from ancient Egypt to Russian Revolution. Bibliography." (Library J) Index.

Reviewed by J. L. Gillin

Ann Am Acad 225:231 Ja '43 500w

Booklist 39:116 D 1 '42

"A great part of the book deals with the obvious and is full of humorless truisms. Even its great discovery that calamities 'polarize' humanity, i.e. split it into saints and sinners, strong and weak, good and bad, would hardly justify such scientific pomp as the author wastes on hundreds of pages. This smile-provoking 'scientific acrobacy' thus describes at great length the behavior of a person in the initial stages of smallpox, typhus, cholera, etc. There is a great deal of dead weight of this kind in the book. . . In its consequences this might be a demoralizing book. As a matter of fact the author is already being quoted by a number of intellectual appeasers who think that the fight for 'democracy' (their quotation marks!) is good enough for the masses. They 'know' we are just fighting to retain our economic empire and our material standard of living." H. A. Reinhold

Commonweal 37:45 O 30 '42 1650w

"Of interest only to libraries with strong sociology collections." H. A. von Urrf

Library J 67:909 O 15 '42 70w

Scientific Bk Club R 13:4 N '42 350w

Reviewed by G. N. Eddy

Spring'd Republican p7e N 22 '42 1000w

Reviewed by Hans Kohn

Survey G 32:57 F '43 190w

SOROKIN, PITIRIM ALEKSANDROVICH. Social and cultural dynamics; v 4, Basic problems, principles, and methods. 804p $6; to colleges $5 Am. bk.

901 Civilization. Sociology. History—Philosophy. Culture. (37-11112)

For descriptive note see Annual for 1941.

Reviewed by George Devereux

Am Anthropol 44:507 Jl '42 1950w

"In spite of the fact that Sorokin's magnum opus is not very readable, and his style is in many respects irritating, it merits careful consideration by all serious students of sociology and the philosophy of history." F. N. House

+ — Am J Soc 47:394 My '42 850w

Reviewed by Ruth Benedict

New Repub 106:154 F 2 '42 850w

"Having freed himself of the restraints of conventional scholarship, Sorokin takes his reader on a free flight through the lands of speculation which is often entertaining, sometimes instructive, generally heavy going, and always provocative. The latter quality should be underscored. Sorokin is the sort of thinker one finds it impossible to take or let alone. It is safe to wager that reviews of his fourth volume, as of the first three, will more often than not turn out to be polemics of one sort or another." H. E. Moore

Social Forces 20:400 Mr '42 1800w

SOULE, GEORGE HENRY. Strength of nations; a study in social theory. 268p $2.50 Macmillan

301 Social problems. Economic policy

(W) 42-9066

"Mr. Soule, editor of the New Republic and author of books on sociology, calls for a new 'psycho-social approach' to the problems of our world. He summarizes lucidly the development of the social sciences and modern psychology, with special application to totalitarian and democratic institutions. The theory he outlines is based on a comprehensive view of human society, with stress on 'social psychology.' He pleads for a dynamic social science, leading to a better society." (Library J) Selected bibliography. Index.

"In this work Mr. Soule endeavors to set forth a new basis for social science that will make it more fruitful in solving the pressing problems that confront our world. The book is a significant one which merits the attention of all social scientists—and particularly of economists, because it is with economics and economic matters that it is primarily concerned." R. T. Bye

+ Am Econ R 32:847 D '42 1800w

"The value of this book lies in its suggestion of the need of eradicating a too narrow specialization of knowledge and in its emphasis on the need of knowing the human organism, man, through psychiatry. This book should prove to be valuable to survey courses in the social sciences." T. W. Johnson

+ Am J Soc 48:425 N '42 480w

"For the political scientist, the author's suggestions have no novelty. . . But the layman finds himself with a book written for him, in non-technical terms, in a facile style, readable and not too profound, dealing with a subject in which an interest has been generated because of the problems brought on by the war." E. A. Weber

+ Am Pol Sci R 36:796 Ag '42 550w

"What Soule has to say in his chapter on 'The Problem of Values' seems most appropriate and timely. It can form the foundation for a new living social science which would be in accordance with the need of present society and with the American tradition. It is a thoughtful book of which however the title is misleading. It is in reality not a study about the strength of nations, but one about the possibility of a social science to illuminate human society, if equipped with the appropriate intellectual apparatus and techniques, and to alter human action in social relationships." Hans Kohn

+ Am Soc R 7:565 Ag '42 400w

Booklist 38:380 Je 15 '42

"George Soule's latest book as a result of his recent preoccupations with physics, physiology, psychology and psychoanalysis (notably the last), turns out to be a curious, logical—and emotional—exercise. He is dissatisfied with the assumptions, methodology and aims of the social sciences, although, to be exact, he ad-

SOULE, G. H.—Continued dresses himself really to those of but one—economics." L. H. Hacker

+ Books p2 Je 28 '42 1400w

Reviewed by H. W. Harris
Boston Globe p19 My 6 '42 60w

"The book, though of necessity incomplete, should prove most refreshing and provocative to anyone interested in social reconstruction."
J. W. McCubbin

+ Canadian Forum 22:125 J1 '42 210w

"The place where Mr. Soule shines is in his diagnosis of totalitarianism (both the nazi and communist varieties) by use of the concepts of post-Freudian psychology. This chapter is brilliant and penetrating. It would surprise the author to be told that the same insights and conclusions could be reached by anyone versed in Christian theology and ethics, but it is quite as important to put it the other way round and remind Christians that a study of Freud and his successors is worth the effort, is indeed a proper supplement to St. Paul and St. Augustine." H. S. Tigner

+ Christian Century 59:1425 N 18 '42
650w

"This volume is especially significant to religionists by its apparent inference that religion is inconsequential and is not included in the proposed synthesis of knowledge and sources needed to save mankind from self-defeat. Whether or not this is true, it is a forceful reminder that in the past religion has not exerted much influence on the course of society, and a stirring challenge that we recognize what is taking place and make religion a force for the welfare of man and his total society." C. L. Willard, Jr.

+ Churchman 156:16 S 1 '42 480w

Reviewed by R. G. Woolbert
Foreign Affairs 20:774 J1 '42 40w

"Although not always agreeing with him, you will find Soule stimulating. Highly recommended for college, university, and larger public libraries." H. H. A. Bernt

+ Library J 67:224 Mr 1 '42 70w

Reviewed by Harold Strauss
Nation 154:690 Je 13 '42 300w

"Worth reading, though much of the material is familiar."

New Yorker 18:76 Ap 18 '42 50w

"The book is weakened by the fact that it is the brief of an advocate for science rather than an inclusive attempt to mobilize all the methods and motives that operate in men's conduct. In the field it covers it is full of active suggestions, but it falls into the error of asserting that its limited approach is the only possible one." Frank Kingdon

+ Sat R of Lit 25:13 My 2 '42 700w

Social Studies 23:287 O '42 40w

Reviewed by Marshall Bragdon
Springf'd Republican p6 My 9 '42 900w

"Anyone who reads Mr. Soule puts himself in touch with one of the sanest and most civilized minds now at work on man and his problems. It is daring to paraphrase the magis-tral title of Adam Smith's famous treatise, thus challenging comparison with this epochal book in the history of Western thought. Soule's volume perhaps is not destined to the sort of greatness that came to 'The Wealth of Nations,' but it nourishes a stream of thought that in the long run will revolutionize man's conception of himself and equip him with instruments capable of harmonizing science, morals, and practice." H. D. Lasswell

+ Survey G 31:431 O '42 550w

Reviewed by H. G. Richter
Yale Law J 51:1413 Je '42 1250w

SOUTHWORTH, JAMES GRANVILLE. Vaux-hall gardens; a chapter in the social history of England. 199p il $2.75 Columbia univ. press
914.21 London. Vauxhall gardens. London—
Social life and customs 42-3315

History of the Royal gardens, Vauxhall, situated on the south shore of the Thames from the late seventeenth century to the year 1859, when they were finally closed. Partial contents:
Owners and operators; The gardens; Entertainments; Vauxhall manners; Some singers and composers. Bibliography. Index.

"This account of the Royal Gardens at Vaux-hall is an agreeable chatty book which makes no claim to great historical significance." W.
O. Aydelotte

Am Hist R 48:326 Ja '43 280w

Books p18 Mr 29 '42 250w

"If only because we already know too much about the problems and pains of earlier ages and too little about their pleasures this book is a refreshing change in historical diet."
W. G. B.

+ Canadian Forum 21:380 Mr '42 270w

"While Southworth's story is interesting and historical and becomes a living and realistic account of an age that is past, the modern reader feels somewhat as did 'Boz.' Charles Dickens' alter ego, it may be remembered, visited the Gardens by daylight and found them disappointingly drab. His disillusionment is reflected in the failure of a twentieth-century reader to be overly enthusiastic about the pleasures of the Vauxhall Gardens." R. E. Keighton
Crozer Q 19:171 Ap '42 250w

Nation 154:525 My 2 '42 20w

"Mr. Southworth's essay is on the whole very well done. He has had access to materials in the Bodleian and the Widener Memorial Library, and used them with sense and discretion. He has not overloaded his book with references, and gives an adequate enough bibliography, though it is odd not to include Thackeray's 'Vanity Fair' as well as 'Pen-dennis.' His style is rather uneven, and occasionaly he betrays a lack of acquaintance with his period." R. E. Roberts

+ Sat R of Lit 25:19 My 30 '42 400w

SOWERS, MRS PHYLLIS (AYER). Sons of the dragon; il. by Margaret Ayer. 285p $2
Whitman, A.

(W) 42-9592

A story of the Chinese-Japanese war written for 'teen age readers. The heroine is Moonflower, daughter of Ching Li, and the tale concerns her love for a young soldier with the Chinese forces.

"This is a tale of endurance and courage,
of hard-pressed troops and brave resistance,
but through it runs a bright thread of romance for gentle Moonflower and hope for her gallant soldier." A. M. Jordan

+ Horn Bk M 18:180 My '42 100w

"Grim story, too depressing for readers below high school age." Claire Nolte

Library J 67:416 My 1 '42 90w

SPAIN, JOHN, pseud? Dig me a grave. 255p
$2 Dutton

Detective story.

"This is lively serio-comic entertainment of standard poker-face grade, fully equipped with strong words and liquor. As for the despondent title, the tale could just as well have been called 'Fry Me for a Catfish.'" Will Cuppy

Books p31 N 8 '42 180w

"A lively yarn with plenty of rough stuff, which seems to be just what a fairly large section of the mystery-reading public wants."
Isaac Anderson

+ N Y Times p16 N 8 '42 240w

"Fantastic on the whole but a good, clear carbon of the Hammett school."

+ New Yorker 18:83 N 7 '42 50w

Springf'd Republican p7e N 8 '42 190w

SPECTHRIE, SAMUEL WALDO. Industrial accounting. 243p $3.75; to schools $3.25 Prentice-Hall

657 Accounting 42-5142

"This volume is intended as a text for engineers, engineering students, and industrial and business administrators who wish to gain an understanding of the processes and executive uses of industrial accounting." (Pref) The material covers basic accounting principles and bookkeeping procedures, accounting theory and practice, and executive use of accounting data. Index.

"The book is unique so far as this reviewer knows, in defying all accounting tradition by combining general accounting fundamentals and cost accounting into a text for a single semester. That such a program will keep students well occupied for a semester, few will doubt. Mr. Specthrie has gone a long way toward making it possible for students to accomplish such a project. Where only a single semester course in accounting is possible, particularly in engineering curricula, this text is as good as can be found." W. C. Beatty

+ Am Econ R 32:601 S '42 340w

Booklist 38:381 Je 15 '42

"This volume presents the principles of industrial accounting clearly and concisely. . . The author . . . is greatly aided by numerous illustrative balance sheets."

+ Chem & Met Eng 49:212 My '42 100w

SPEISER, EPHRAIM AVIGDOR, and others. Studies in the history of science. See Pennsylvania. University. Bicentennial conference

SPELLMAN, FRANCIS JOSEPH, abp. Road to victory. 131p $1.75 Scribner

940.53152 World war, 1939—Religious aspects. World war, 1939—U.S. Sociology, Christian 42-36374

"The Archbishop of New York is the Military Vicar of the Armed Forces of the United States. As a spokesman of both Church and State, he pleads eloquently for our winning a just war and a just peace. . . His Excellency reminds us that we cannot expect to remain a strong nation if our educators eliminate morality and religion from our schools; that we cannot expect to grow and prosper if the advocates of birth control, sterilization and euthanasia are given full scope for their deadening activities. He stresses the need in these trying times of tolerance and patience, when others fail to see eye to eye with us; he points out that a worthwhile preparation for peace must be based upon the principles of justice and charity laid down by Jesus Christ." Cath World

Reviewed by G. N. Shuster

Books p12 D 27 '42 600w

Reviewed by B. L. Conway

Cath World 156:505 Ja '43 340w

"Good Catholics all, you know what an archbishop would write, do you not?—'God and our Country!' Ah, yes, but you cannot know without reading this magnificent burst of oratory the manner in which he writes it. Here is a man speaking. Here is a rousing, rallying war cry to American Catholics. . . Fresh from the first perusal of this book, who could but praise it? Later, perhaps, we shall regret that the Military Vicar of the Armed Forces of the United States did not extend his patriotism to include a more detailed applause of those other nations who are allied with us." E. L. Keyes

+ Commonweal 37:101 N 13 '42 450w

SPENCE, HARTZELL. Get thee behind me; my life as a preacher's son; il. by Donald McKay. (Whittlesey house publication) 375p $2.75 McGraw

B or 92 (W) 42-21323

The author of One Foot in Heaven (Book Review Digest, 1940) now executive editor of Yank, the army newspaper, writes of his adolescence in the nineteen-twenties, his upbringing in the Methodist parsonage where Father was Law, but Mother was no meek nonentity, and describes vividly the life of the parsonage, and the kind of people it produced.

Appeared on Best Seller list in: Books (13) B & T (1) N Y Times (8) RB (4)

"Hartzell Spence, late of the United Press, now a captain in the United States Army and an editor of Yank, has provided in this volume an uncommonly entertaining version of the book that every articulate American not an orphan has in him in one shape or another: to wit, Life with Father." Wilson Follett

+ Atlantic 170:148 N '42 230w

Booklist 39:32 O 1 '42

Bookmark 4:15 N '42

"A strangely satisfying book, an anecdotal tale with a remarkable cumulative effect on the reader's heart and memory. Captain Spence has looked at himself with a rare detachment, a wholesome sense of humor and often an almost irreverent despair at his own very normal shortcomings as an awkward child with growing pains." H. C. Lewis

+ Books p7 S 13 '42 800w

"The book is full of amusing incidents. Spence is a natural story-teller. But behind the romp is an awareness of the passage of time, the inevitability of change. This makes it much more important and significant reading than the average period piece. There is something of everyone's past in this lively and affectionate picture of life in a western parsonage. Read it and weep. Read it and laugh. Read it." Dorothy Hillier

+ Boston Globe p19 S 9 '42 450w

Christian Century 59:1595 D 23 '42 190w

"While 'Get Thee Behind Me . . .' does not quite approach the compelling religious tone and mood of the author's previous work, 'One Foot in Heaven,' it is still a pleasant book. It is good for a lazy day, to satisfy a yearning to escape the warring present and to spend a nostalgic moment back in those 1920's when an ambitious preacher's son could amass $1,000 from a paper route with which to send himself to college." R. R. M.

+ Christian Science Monitor p13 O 24 '42 230w

"A Catholic with a sense of humor will find arguments for a celibate clergy between the lines of 'Get Thee Behind Me'; but anyone with a sense of humor will find it a very diverting and amusing book." Johanna Doniat

+ Commonweal 36:570 O 2 '42 430w

Library J 67:740 S 1 '42 10w

"This book tells the story, laughter-studded as it is, of a normal American boy and girl, in their Western home, in school and in college and the beginnings of work. Like their mother and father, they were independent and high-spirited. Being minister's children, they had a steep and hard and puzzling path to follow. Not until the day of Eileen's wedding—a big wedding instead of a small one—did they realize how much they had had besides, know what their father and their home had given them." Katherine Woods

+ N Y Times p5 S 13 '42 1200w

New Yorker 18:70 S 12 '42 90w

Reviewed by Edwin Daniels
Sat R of Lit 25:17 S 26 '42 460w

Wis Lib Bul 38:160 N '42

SPENCER, FRANCIS AUTEN. Air mail payment and the government. 402p maps $3 Brookings

383.4973 Air mail service—U.S. Aeronautics, Commercial 41-24068

"An historical analysis of the Federal Government's attempts to 'muddle through' to some stable, workable, and economically desirable method of determining air-mail payments to the commercial air lines. Those familiar with an earlier Brookings study by Paul T. David, entitled The Economics of Air Mail Transportation [Book Review Digest, 1934] will find that Spencer has followed the same logical form of organization, but has, of course, covered new ground since 1934." Ann Am Acad

"Spencer's book has the great merit that it deals realistically with the problems which have actually been uppermost in the minds of the officials of the regulatory agency, air transport executives, and members of Congress. His is not a book written in a library about a distant governmental activity. Despite a considerable amount of tactful phrasing, he manages to convey in pointed fashion the results of much penetrating observation. The economic analysis is competent and sufficiently extended for the purposes in hand, but the book is as much a study in public administration as in economics. Because of its success in dealing with an area where economic and administrative issues can never be entirely disentangled, it is a significant contribution to a better understanding of how government functions in the field of economic regulation." P. T. David

SPENCER, F. A.—Continued

+ Am Econ R 32:401 Je '42 500w

"The treatment of the subject, which is necessarily somewhat technical and statistical, will probably not appeal to the general reader. However, this does not detract from its unquestioned value as a well-documented, informative analysis of a significant aspect of governmental relations with a business vested with an unusual degree of public interest." J. E. Kallenbach
+ Am Pol Sci R 36:166 F '42 230w

"Although the book as a whole is an admirable piece of work, there are some noticeable weaknesses in the all too infrequent passages which involve matters of economic theory rather than questions of public policy or administration." C. E. Puffer
+ Ann Am Acad 221:227 My '42 450w

SPENCER, THEODORE. Shakespeare and the nature of man. 233p $2.75 Macmillan

822.33 Shakespeare, William 42-51523

"The Lowell Lectures which Mr. Theodore Spencer delivered in Boston in the spring of 1942 are here published in somewhat revised form. . . Mr. Spencer is not concerned with any of the special problems that usually occupy the attention of contemporary critics of Shakespeare, but with the significance of Shakespeare's work as a whole in relation to the Elizabethan world of thought and, more broadly, to that great revolution in ideas which took place during the latter half of the sixteenth century and the first years of the seventeenth." (Books) Index.

"It is the considered opinion of the present reviewer, after reading and re-reading this book, that it is the most distinguished contribution to our understanding of Shakespeare's mind and purposes that has appeared since the publication of A. C. Bradley's 'Shakespearean Tragedy' nearly forty years ago." S. C. Chew
+ Books p3 Ja 10 '43 1350w

"Theodore Spencer has undertaken one of the most difficult of critical jobs: to present a unified and consistent picture of the Shakespearean world. If he has not entirely succeeded, it is at least partly due to the disorder and uncertainty of our thinking about Shakespeare." William Phillips
+ Nation 156:136 Ja 23 '43 900w

"It is a pleasure to encounter a book of genuine scholarship with a rich cultural background, written in a style of admirable precision and at times of eloquence. I believe it will prove a lasting contribution to the interpretation and enjoyment of Shakespeare." W. A. Nelson
+ Sat R of Lit 25:6 D 12 '42 700w

SPENDER, STEPHEN. Ruins and visions. 138p $2 Random house [6s Faber]

821

(W) 42-20014

Poems written between 1934 and the present. "Intensely personal and yet common to the experiences of all men of this generation, Spender's poetry reflects a world undergoing violent change. All his verse speaks in the language of intense emotion and with high resolution; his poems are lyrical with the voice of originality and freedom. The two sections into which this volume is divided are 'The Still Centre' and 'Ruins and Visions.' It is from the latter that the book derives its title. In its entirety it captures the substance and the spirit and the tendency of English poetry today." (Publisher's note)

"The outstanding quality of Spender's poetry is complete sincerity. . . Pity for the plight of humanity is his strongest emotion, and his best poems are those like 'An Elementary School Class Room in a Slum'. . . But his verse lacks vigor. The absence of rhyme seems symbolic of his failure to reach conclusions, to see his experience in any framework of a larger reality and the faint rhythms and careful phrasing become monotonous." Elizabeth Drew
+ Atlantic 170:102 Ag '42 250w

"There is a decided difference between Stephen Spender's first book of lyrics, published in 1934, and the present collection of recent poems. . . The young poet who, aware of Time's change, stood in the shadow of war and death, could write, none the less, with brilliant emotional drive, with pity and love beyond fear, of a sense of comradeship building toward a communal goal, 'bringing light to life.' He speaks with little of that faith or that feeling now. Here is uncertainty, spiritual sterility and despair, always aloneness in a 'falling, falling world.'" Ruth Lechlitrer
Books p15 Ag 23 '42 850w

"One or two poems proclaim the authentic Spender, but the book as a whole does not."
+ Manchester Guardian p3 My 13 '42 100w

Reviewed by H. P. Lazarus
Nation 156:98 Ja 16 '43 1100w

Reviewed by Malcolm Cowley
New Repub 107:418 O 5 '42 900w

"By always edging towards greater things Ruins and Visions, in fact, enlarges its poetry, and in general Mr. Spender is better worth reading than the safe writer who compounds at a lower level." G. W. Stonier
+ New Statesman & Nation 24:79 Ag 1 '42 900w

Reviewed by P. M. Jack
N Y Times p3 S 20 '42 1000w

Reviewed by Louise Bogan
New Yorker 18:72 O 10 '42 360w

"Standing undismayed amidst ruins, he knows where the sun rises; he can say with assurance that 'a wind blows hither, that men shall be knit 'Into a life of joy again.' At such an advent these poems would glow anew, for the poet, a gifted artist and a profoundly humane personality, has indeed signed them with his honor." Warren Beck
+ Poetry 61:336 O '42 1100w

"[In this book] as in Spender's other work, the limitations are obvious: the frequent failure of the head to impose its wisdom upon the heart, the heavily burdened and sometimes inchoate line, the lack of self-discipline, and the total absence of humor. But, underneath the uncertainties and above all easily discovered blemishes, there is the clear voice of something dearly held and deeply felt as true. Here blending tradition and experiment, is a voice of courage and—there is no lesser word for it—mobility." Louis Untermeyer
+ Sat R of Lit 25:16 S 26 '42 600w

"Mr. Spender is distressingly full of self-pity and an almost smug self-consciousness, and yet there is an engaging, almost touching, quality in some of his poems, and sometimes he does find a happy phrase, an original rhythm, a new form." Sheila Shannon
+ Spec 168:446 My 8 '42 170w

Time 40:102 S 14 '42 430w

SPERRY, ARMSTRONG. Bamboo, the grass tree; story and pictures by [the author]. [47p] $1 Macmillan

(W) 42-18846

Describes the life of Sun Yo, a small Chinese boy, who helps at the family business of making bamboo bird cages. It tells also of the many other uses of bamboo in China. Grades three to five.

Booklist 39:18 S '42

Reviewed by M. L. Becker
+ Books p5 Ag 30 '42 80w

Reviewed by A. M. Jordan

Horn Bk 18:345 S '42 60w

Reviewed by Sonja Wennerblad

Library J 67:797 S 15 '42 40w

Reviewed by R. A. Hill

Library J 67:885 O 15 '42 20w

N Y Times p40 N 15 '42 250w

Wis Lib Bul 38:190 D '42

SPERRY, ARMSTRONG. Coconut, the wonder tree; story and pictures by [the author]. [47p] $1 Macmillan

(W) 42-18845

Tells the story of Toto, a young South Sea islander. The coconut is indispensable in his land; it is used for mattresses, thatching roofs, making dishes, and for food and drink. Grades three to five.

Booklist 39:18 S '42

Reviewed by M. L. Becker

+ Books p5 Ag 30 '42 80w

Reviewed by A. M. Jordan

Horn Bk 18:345 S '42 60w

Reviewed by Sonja Wennerblad

Library J 67:797 S 15 '42 40w

Reviewed by R. A. Hill

Library J 67:885 O 15 '42 20w

N Y Times p40 N 15 '42 250w

Wis Lib Bul 38:190 D '42

SPERRY, ARMSTRONG. No brighter glory. 429p $2.75 Macmillan

(W) 42-21515

"Against a dramatic historical background, Mr. Sperry projects forthright romance. The time is 1810, when the raw young Republic and England were tensing for the war that began two years later. The scene is the Manhattan which knew John Jacob Astor, dreaming practically of his commercial empire, and Eliza Jumel, storming social citadels, and also, by a far remove, the Sandwich Islands and the bleak wilderness of the Columbia River. The protagonists are Mark Denny, a young doctor Vermont born and bred, and India de Chambord, whose short life had encompassed the extremes of savagery and sophistication in both the old World and the New." Books

Booklist 39:49 O 15 '42

"'No Brighter Glory' is not a tale for those who like their realities stern and gray and familiar. But if you wish a book which will carry you miles away to strange places and people, through dangers and feats of valor that are happily remote by more than a century, Mr. Sperry's swift and substantial story offers good sailing." Mary Ross

+ Books p4 S 20 '42 900w

Reviewed by Thelma Brackett

Library J 67:795 S 15 '42 100w

"If at times there seems to be rather too much about the emotional stresses of Mark and India, the story is interesting with plenty of adventure and excitement. The descriptions of the storm and of the Indians' attack are often thrilling, and there are many vivid pen pictures of people and events whose effect on these United States was of no small importance." L. M. Field

+ — N Y Times p7 S 13 '42 900w

SPIEGEL, HENRY WILLIAM. Economics of total war. 410p $3 Appleton-Century

330.19355 War—Economic aspects. World war, 1939—Economic aspects 42-3863

Study of the economic aspects of war, especially of war of the present magnitude. The subject is divided into three main sections. The first is the economic causes of war, explaining such factors as "the quest for living-space." The second section deals with the economic means of warfare—control of prices, curbing of consumption for private use, shifting of workers to war industries, search for substitute materials, etc. The third section is devoted to the economic aftermath of war. Bibliography. Index.

"Professor Spiegel's book... should be particularly useful to those instructors whose library facilities do not permit their making extensive assignments in outside readings. There is frequently real meat in his economic analysis; and there is a large amount of factual material, which is in good part not merely described but also digested. The book obviously reflects a tremendous amount of work, and the author's apparent knowledge of the literature, especially that in European sources, adds to the value of the volume. There is a good, comprehensive bibliography at the end. Despite the general excellence of Professor Spiegel's text, there are a number of points where I would disagree with his presentation. While the opening chapter provides a generally satisfactory treatment of the economic causes of war, the discussion of imperialism leaves something to be desired... Occasionally, Professor Spiegel disappoints the reader by not carrying far enough his analysis of recent and contemporary events." R. A. Gordon

+ — Am Econ R 32:624 S '42 700w

"Despite the fact that the treatment is timely, fresh, and vividly contemporary, the complex aspects of the subject are carefully analyzed and systematically woven into an integral whole. The volume has unity, form, and solid content." J. W. Bell

+ Am Pol Sci R 36:598 Je '42 340w

"Professor Spiegel has written a valuable book. No war book covers the ground more thoroughly. Professor Spiegel has not been content to cover the United States alone; he has an excellent grasp of the materials on the British and German war economy... Unfortunately, when a writer crams the vast riches indicated above into four hundred pages, he must necessarily be uncritical and at times superficial, and analysis will be missing or lack profundity. Professor Spiegel is primarily a collector of materials, and he has proved himself to be a ubiquitous and discerning collector. His concentration of energies in collecting results in a deficiency of analysis, criticism, and creation." S. E. Harris

+ — Ann Am Acad 223:208 S '42 600w

Bookmark 4:5 N '42

"Timely and competent study. . . No important question is omitted from the discussion."

+ Christian Century 59:355 Mr 18 '42 100w

"Today the problems of military science and economics have merged into one world-wide strategy. This merger is indicated by the large number of writers now devoting their attention to the 'economics of war.' One of the better books to come out of this trend is this one by Professor Spiegel of Duquesne University." J. B. Parrish

+ Churchman 156:17 Ap 15 '42 270w

Reviewed by R. G. Woolbert

Foreign Affairs 20:775 Jl '42 20w

"In the hands of a competent teacher who is capable of supplementing the text and who knows how to expand the significant matters of economic theory which Dr. Spiegel has had opportunity only to touch upon in passing, this book would be valuable. The sense of dissatisfaction, with which the perusal of this book leaves the reviewer, should probably not be vented on the author, but rather on the system of instruction which stimulates the production of a flood of textbooks. Dr. Spiegel is obviously a competent writer who is well grounded in economic theory. Had he devoted his talents to the rigorous examination of the relatively few, but nevertheless grave, problems with which the intelligent layman is concerned, he would have produced a book of much more value to the student of the economic aspects of this war and of future wars." P. W. Bidwell

+ — Pol Sci Q 57:605 D '42 650w

Pratt p9 D '42

"Mr. Spiegel knows that wealth in resources and manpower alone does not suffice: 'Wealth must be properly utilized and placed in the service of total defense. . . The technique of such utilization is ably discussed, on sound theoretical ground, with a great amount of factual details, with frequent quotations especially from English sources. To some particular points (to the discussion of rationing or the little weight attached to private credit policy) this reviewer would take exception. But as a whole it is a valuable text." Arthur Feiler

SPIEGEL, H. W.—Continued

+ — Survey G 31:258 My '42 300w

Reviewed by H. L. Reed

Yale Law J 52:197 N '42 1300w

SPINKA, MATTHEW. John Hus and the Czech reform. 81p $1.50 Univ. of Chicago press

B or 92 Hus, Jan, Bohemia—Church history 41-12743

"This monograph is strictly limited in scope. Its sole theme is Hus's alleged Wyclifism, for it was chiefly this charge on which he was tried and condemned by the Council of Constance. Was it true? . . . To ascertain the truth or falsity of this presupposition, to subject the notion to a critical examination, are the aims of this study." (Intro) Index.

"The author of this short monograph claims to have made use only of most of the modern Czech literature on the question of the dependence of Hus upon Wyclif. But as this is more than has been done by any writer in any language of western Europe in recent years, a great gain has been made. No English or American scholar can henceforth be excused for not being aware of the results of decades of very serious work by Czech scholars on the origin and development of Hus's thought." S. H. Thomson

+ Am Hist R 47:578 Ap '42 550w

Christian Century 58:985 Ag 6 '41 100w

Reviewed by T. M. Avery, Jr.

Commonweal 35:372 Ja 30 '42 100w

"This little book, thorough in examination of evidence, restrained in expression, and balanced in judgment, is the product of fine scholarship." R. E. E. Harkness

+ Crozer Q 20:32 Ja '43 340w

Reviewed by R. H. Bainton

J Religion 22:321 Jl '42 480w

SPITTEL, RICHARD LIONEL. Savage sanctuary; il. by Jan Cooke. 335p $2.50 Liveright [9s 6d Rich]

42-16499

"The story of this book is cast in the remotest jungles of Ceylon, and portrays an aboriginal people, the Veddas, familiar only to anthropologists and little more than a tradition even to the cultured inhabitants of the island. . . . This chronicle of Tissahamy is true in all its details, which were obtained from his son Tikkiri, his wife Valli, the Veddas and villagers who knew him, as well as from Police and Excise records, and conversations with officials who took part in the raids designed to trap the outlaw." Foreword

Reviewed by Lisle Bell

Books n14 Mv 17 '42 100w

"Well written, well illustrated; thrilling adventure as well as study of primitive culture." D. F. Lucas

+ Library J 67:414 My 1 '42 90w

"Mr. Spittel's gifts are not inherently those of the novelist; yet, though his writing frequently betrays the hand of the amateur, he manages to give a very convincing account of primitive life, and his intimate knowledge of the trackless jungle enables him to carry his reader with him on many thrilling journeys into a remote world whose aboriginal savagery seems almost idyllic when compared with the mechanised and organised barbarity of life in present-day Europe." Wilfrid Gibson

+ Manchester Guardian p3 Je 6 '41 250w

"Though Ceylon is generally Buddhist, these savages still retain their primitive beliefs and gods. Mr. Spittel treats them sympathetically, using the magic of imagination and insight to turn what might have been an anthropological treatise into a story of living men and women." L. M. Field

+ N Y Times p7 My 3 '42 800w

Times [London] Lit Sup p261 My 31 '41 210w

SPRAGUE, CURTISS. How to make it book of crafts; il. and phot. by the author. 247p $3 Bridgman

680 Handicraft

41-23849

Contents: Model building; Tin can tinkering; Linoleum block printing; Garden craftwork; Archery; Camping out; Kites; Photography; Novelties made of wood; Winter sports; Things to make for Christmas; Practical projects. Index.

Booklist 38:153 Ja 1 '42

Pratt p13 O '42

Wis Lib Bul 38:70 Ap '42

SPYKMAN, NICHOLAS JOHN. America's strategy in world politics; the United States and the balance of power; maps by Richard Edes Harrison. 500p $3.75 Harcourt

327.73 U.S.—Foreign relations. American republics. World politics (W) 42-7980

"This book by a native of the Netherlands, now at Yale, may be regarded as the first fruit of the crop of current war propaganda books emanating from our universities. The professor gives a survey of America's place in the sun from every angle; geographic, political, commercial (capitalistic) and diplomatic, with emphasis on trade and a margin of profits. For that matter he touches about every phase of our ideals save that of our revolutionary origin and principle of political liberty." (Churchman) Bibliography. Index.

"Professor Spykman's book is an important and, in some respects, a brilliant [one]. It makes certain important truths about the working of a system of power politics, and their meaning for America, crystal clear. An understanding of these truths is important for economists." Eugene Staley

+ Am Econ R 32:893 D '42 2700w

Reviewed by C. J. Friedrich

Am Hist R 48:155 O '42 850w

"Persons previously acquainted with the literature of geopolitics, sea power, and military strategy will recognize many familiar terms, phrases, and ideas, though these are rarely attributed to their sources. The text has no accompanying documentation, but there is a well-selected bibliography. The maps are excellent, and the index adequate. Viewed in the large, Professor Spykman has written a challenging book which should be read and pondered by every political scientist. This book has already provoked widespread discussion. And one may safely predict that it will leave an indelible imprint upon the strategy of American statecraft." H. H. Sprout

Am Pol Sci R 36:956 O '42 1200w

Reviewed by Clyde Eagleton

Ann Am Acad 222:189 Jl '42 800w

Booklist 38:302 Ap 15 '42

Bookmark 3:5 My '42

"America's Strategy in World Politics' is not a book to cheer the troops on or help the housewife to do without sugar. It is not heartening to learn that 'Europe's turmoils,' on which we turned our backs in the early days of the republic, have now become the turmoils of the world. It is no joy in a dark time to see outlined the possible Balkanization of South America below the bulge of Brazil. But in terms of power politics, Mr. Spykman is surely sound in his descriptions; and the anarchy of today will be the anarchy of the post-war world, unless those who make the peace will make the pattern otherwise." W. H. Shephardson

+ Books p3 Mr 22 '42 1200w

"This is a book for Americans to read so as to appreciate the problems that appear insoluble to one steeped in the cynical balance of power pattern of international relations. Its hard logic should give pause to those who assume that an Anglo-American hegemony of the earth will be acceptable to other nations now fighting Axis domination. It is good medicine, too, for those who expect a federation of the world to blossom out of this conflict." L. M. Lyons

+ Boston Globe p17 Mr 25 '42 750w

"When the time for making the peace treaties comes, a hard-boiled policy such as Dr. Spykman advocates will undoubtedly be pressed as an alternative for such 'idealistic' and 'visionary' ideas as those with which the churches have been concerning themselves. So it is good for the churches to find out now just what they will be up against when they come forward with their proposals. But if this brand of geopolitical 'realism' wins, the United States is in for a militaristic future under which democracy will become indistinguishable in content from the political systems of the totalitarian powers." Paul Hutchinson

Christian Century 59:427 Ap 1 '42 1050w

"It is amazing for a foreigner of so recent origin (he has been a citizen but fourteen years) to know so much about us, our principles, our ethics and our ideals. But he has performed his task thoroughly and well; the university men and preachers who wish to present arms from now on will have to look to their laurels." A. L. Byron-Curtiss

Churchman 156:17 Ap 15 '42 210w

"Evaluation of this book will depend ultimately on the point of view of the critic. It is likely that there will be general acceptance of the facts which are stated and restated at various stages of the argument. It is also likely that many persons who disagree with the pragmatic philosophy of the author will nevertheless accept the majority of his conclusions but for different reasons." E. M. Lynskey

Commonweal 36:63 My 8 '42 750w

Reviewed by Alvin Adey

Current Hist 2:297 Je '42 1800w

Reviewed by R. G. Woolbert

Foreign Affairs 20:778 Jl '42 170w

Reviewed by Malcolm Cowley

New Repub 106:546 Ap 20 '42 1450w

"Superb analyst of fact, easy to read, and with his thought enriched by philosophical insight, Spykman is weak in the application of his findings to the practical world because he shrinks from intellectual daring. As written his book is a sure guide to an understanding of power politics. It is not for statesmen alone, but for men and women throughout the country who must first defeat the Axis and then set up a better world. . . . Spykman's economy of words, cold realism, brilliant reasoning, catholic mind, and the courage to state his convictions, lift his book out of the narrow lanes of partisanship and give it enduring worth. If to these qualities in his future work, he can bring the political innovation and imagination for which a harassed world pleads, he will become one of the architects of the real New Order." G. H. E. Smith

+ — N Y Times p1 Ap 19 '42 1000w

"A coldly reasoned, icily detached study of the position of our country in terms of geography and power politics. Written with massive pedantry and a total disregard of the average reader, it is nonetheless an important and extraordinarily timely book, a sort of scientific backgrounding of the conclusions expressed more rhetorically in Lieutenant Colonel Kernan's 'Defense Will Not Win the War.' . . . Mr. Spykman is what is known as a realist and perhaps a mite too proud of it." Clifton Fadiman

New Yorker 18:69 Mr 21 '42 360w

Reviewed by Michael Greenberg

Pacific Affairs 15:380 S '42 1300w

Pratt p20 D '42

"The book is brilliant, incisive, provocative, well reasoned, well written, and altogether admirable as an analysis of American foreign policy from a point of view all too long neglected in the United States. It deserves a far wider market than it is likely to get, for it deals with enduring realities of politics and geography which Americans can continue to ignore only at enormous peril to their future. Scholars may regret that Dr. Spykman does not make more explicit acknowledgement, apart from mention in a bibliography, of his obvious debt to MacKinder, Haushofer, Kjellen, Hennig, and the other founders of Geopolitik." F. L. Schuman

+ Sat R of Lit 25:7 Mr 28 '42 1050w

Reviewed by Hans Haas

Social Forces 21:112 O '42 700w

"Professor Spykman has written an exceptionally interesting book and in many ways a valuable one, but its enduring value is diminished by the fact that it is a tract for the times rather than an objective, scholarly study. Even as a tract for the times it is marred by some obvious and serious defects in the handling of the highly controversial problems with which it deals. Its interest lies mainly in the fact that it is a timely, fresh, hard-boiled re-examination of America's strategy in world politics by a well known Yale professor of international relations and that it has been hailed as an up-to-the-minute application of the new 'science' of geopolitics to this problem." A. P. Whitaker

+ — Social Statistics 33:279 O '42 1450w

"Mr. Spykman's conclusions contain more food for thought than dozens of best-sellers; one regrets that they are not discussed at greater length." H. W. Weigert

+ Survey G 31:298 Je '42 550w

Time 39:90 Ap 20 '42 950w

Wis Lib Bul 38:115 Jl '42

"My disagreement with Professor Spykman rests in his conception of power. It is a conception too abstract, too amoral, too lacking in time perspective and in human evaluation. Power is not simply a quantum to be measured and balanced. It is of vital importance to know who exercises that power, under what conditions, and for what purposes. . . . And yet I cannot refrain from quoting one of the most profound observations in the book: 'The first step from anarchy to order is not the disappearance of force, but its use by the community instead of by the individual members.' Following the logic of this line of thought, Professor Spykman is certainly aware of the fact that a socially efficient balance of power can only operate within an ordered polity. The establishment of order through a preponderance of power is an essential condition to the eventual emergence of world constitutional polity." W. P. Maddox

Yale R n s 31:845 summer '42 1100w

STACE, WALTER TERENCE. Destiny of western man. 322p $3 Reynal

321.8 Democracy. State, The. Individualism. Totalitarianism (W) 42-4167

"A reasoned discourse, learned and academic, on the democratic way of life. The argument is derived from a lengthy discussion of the basic nature of man, which, the author thinks, will in the end lead to the downfall of totalitarianism." New Yorker

Reviewed by Hans Kohn

Ann Am Acad 222:204 Jl '42 350w

Reviewed by Wilson Follett

Atlantic Ap '42 250w

Booklist 38:226 Mr 1 '42

"I am in deep sympathy with Mr. Stace's aims and with his turn of mind. But sympathy, as he defines it himself, is action and reaction. It flows from A to B, and back from B to A. If, in presenting Mr. Stace's ideas, I sometimes challenge them, my dissent is not adverse criticism, but the highest praise that a book of this kind could evoke. It stimulated my own thinking. . . . It seems to me that Mr. Stace is attaching undue importance to ideologies which are mere rationalizations. The essential facts are simpler and deeper." Albert Guerard

+ — Books p2 Mr 15 '42 1450w

Reviewed by W. C. Bower

Christian Century 59:1491 D 2 '42 800w

"A lucid and thoroughgoing work which has won a prize for the 'best non-fiction book written for the general reader' by an American professor. One general reader finds the volume rather hard going. But possibly it is about as simple as philosophy which deals with such a subject can be. And probably as philosophy it does as well as we could ask in explaining the mental concepts underlying today's world struggle." D. M. R.

STACE, W. T.—Continued

Christian Science Monitor p18 Mr 27 '42
450w

"This book, which won for its author the Reynal and Hitchcock non-fiction prize contest, is a considerable contribution to present day thought. It is a closely reasoned philosophical treatise." Clifton Macon

+ Churchman 156:31 Ap 15 '42 270w

Reviewed by T. F. Woodlock
Commonweal 35:516 Mr 13 '42 550w

Reviewed by R. G. Woolbert
Foreign Affairs 20:771 Jl '42 20w

"Criticisms of Professor Stace's basic position should not blind one to the very great values of certain sections of his book. His discussion of the relation between rulers and ruled, in a democratic state, is very effective. His analysis of the meaning of individualism is clear cut and valuable. The uses of the word 'organic,' with reference to society, are very carefully analyzed. His treatment of Nietzsche is well done. . . However, the main foundation of his position is open to serious objection. The analysis of the nature of man is not sufficiently realistic. The ultimate standard is not as effective as it is claimed to be." A. H. Johnson

+ J Philos 39:635 N 5 '42 2900w

"The book is written with such simplicity, clarity, and forcefulness that it is easy to understand why it won the publisher's $2,500 non-fiction prize contest. It is especially recommended." M. A. Gray

+ Library J 67:130 F 1 '42 80w

Reviewed by Irwin Edman
Nation 154:290 Mr 7 '42 1000w

Reviewed by Guenter Reimann
New Repub 106:405 Mr 23 '42 600w

"The Destiny of Western Man' would be a superb book at any time, but at this juncture, when two ways of life are in conflict—moreover, when it is generally agreed that both cannot exist side by side, that one or the other must go—Professor Stace's exposition of the rival systems is doubly welcome. His is no superficial examination of the merits, or faults, of democracy and totalitarianism; rather is it a minute study of the roots of both. If his conclusions are, as they cannot help being, satisfactory to us, it is certainly not because the author has failed to make a valiant attempt to give the devil his due." John Cournos

+ N Y Times p9 F 15 '42 1400w

"This work, non-propagandistic, non-'timely,' is the first book of its sort in English. It does not make easy reading."

New Yorker 17:70 F 14 '42 70w

Reviewed by Carmen Haider
Pol Sci Q 57:286 Je '42 1000w

"Despite his sincere effort to be fair and clear, Mr. Stace is also guilty of pretty serious misrepresentations. He repeatedly says, for instance, that the relativist in morals denies the truth of any morality. . . His final and I may say fatal error, however, is the unsureness of his reasoning. By offering abstractions where concreteness is wanted he deceives himself into thinking he has truth when he has only tautology." Jacques Barzun

Sat R of Lit 25:6 Mr 21 '42 1050w

Springf'd Republican p7e F 15 '42 650w

"The ideas are not new, but Mr. Stace presents them with clarity and courage as beacon lights above chaos." Leon Whipple

+ Survey G 31:214 Ap '42 390w

STAGGE, JONATHAN, pseud. See Webb, R. W. and Wheeler, H. C.

STALSON, J. OWEN. Marketing life insurance; its history in America. 911p il $6 Harvard Univ. press

368.3 Insurance, Life

A42-939

"This is the first scholarly study of the marketing problem of life insurance companies.

Dr. Stalson, himself a successful life underwriter, believes that both the greatness and many of the weaknesses of life insurance are due to the agency system. . . Relating in interesting detail the post-Civil War faults of much life insurance management, the author traces the beginning of the demand for more professional training for agents. . . Stalson writes of these leaders and of the Chartered Life Underwriter movement, which gives a professional degree (CLU) to qualified career life underwriters." Am Hist R

"This timely and readable book has a well-balanced, impartial point of view. The 225 pages of notes and appendixes are full of interesting material from original sources. Notable is the fact, believe it or not, that this volume is an expanded doctor's thesis whose subject was proposed by the candidate. The result is a study of a single business, of which we must have many more before we can write the economic history of the United States." M. W. Allin

+ Am Hist R 48:192 O '42 280w

Reviewed by Alfred Manes
Ann Am Acad 222:228 Jl '42 500w

STAMM, FREDERICK KELLER. In the shadow of the cross. 141p $1.50 Macmillan
232 Jesus Christ—Teaching 41-22813

"A study of Jesus' life and teaching as culminating in the supreme sacrifice of the cross. Its chapters are a series of meditations upon various aspects of the gospel as applied to the perplexing problems of daily living in a world that knows not Christ. Relentlessly it holds the reader fast to the contemplation of that adventurous pioneer of the spirit who became the Master of men's souls, and challenges us to a devotion to Him which may mean the cross for us. But this cross is not the end, for it leads to victory. 'Easter lights the road.'" Books

Reviewed by J. H. Holmes

+ Books p12 Ja 18 '42 200w

Christian Century 58:1443 N 19 '41 20w

Churchman 156:31 Mr 15 '42 180w

"The sermons are brief and well written." H. W. Hansen

+ J Religion 22:338 Jl '42 90w

STANDARD American encyclopedia; ed-in-chief, Walter Miller; assistant chief ed, Frank Justus Miller; advisory ed, W. Rainsford Boag; foreword by Gordon J. Laing; associate eds, J. Bradford Pengelly, Ella W. Forkert. 20v in maps price varies c1940, c1916-40 Consolidated bk, pubs.

031 Encyclopedias and dictionaries

"The Subscription Books Bulletin, April 1937, noted that this encyclopedia was offered as a premium by the Chicago Times, the Philadelphia Inquirer, and other newspapers. The c1937 edition of Standard American Encyclopedia was reviewed in Subscription Books Bulletin, January 1938 [Book Review Digest, 1938]. That edition was not available for comparison. The present edition is issued in 20 volumes as compared to 15 volumes of the earlier edition. It is not known whether this change represents an increase in content or merely a rearrangement of content. According to information from the Standard American Encyclopedia, it is primarily for home use rather than for schools and libraries. . . The amount of up-to-date material in the set varies. Hitler's career is carried down to March 1939. The article on Franklin D. Roosevelt does not mention the third term. There are no entries for recent subjects such as chemurgy, plastics, and sulfanilamide. Population statistics for cities in the United States are for 1930, those for other countries vary. Statistics for industries, commodities, etc. are generally for the middle 1930's, e.g., rubber; railroads; automobiles." Subscription Bks Bul

"The criticism of brevity still applies to articles in the Standard American Encyclopedia. Treatment of general subjects is often so concise as to give little information of value.

Some improvements in style and treatment are apparent. The employment of the past tense, however, in many sketches of living persons is apt to confuse the reader, e.g., Josephus Daniels; Charles Gates Dawes. Biography is over-emphasized in comparison with the number and bulk of entries in general subjects. . . Illustrations in the set are well chosen but the poor quality paper is not conducive to clear reproduction. . . Standard American Encyclopedia does contain useful material, apparently drawn from authentic sources. It may have some value in a home where there are few books. For libraries and schools, or individuals needing careful detailed treatment of subject matter, it is not recommended."

+ — Subscription Bks Bul 12:54 O '41 950w

STANDARD handbook for electrical engineers; prepared by a staff of specialists; Archer E. Knowlton, editor-in-chief, R. M. Shoop, assistant editor. 7th ed rev & enl 2303p il $8 McGraw

621.3 Electric engineering—Handbooks, manuals, etc. (W) 41-19383

The sixth edition was published in 1933. "Prominent among the changes effected in this edition is an expansion of the former section on power-plant electrical equipment to embrace electrical equipment for the whole power system. This one section thus constitutes a power-system handbook in itself. Power transmission, electronics and radio, interior wiring, illumination, prime movers, and telephone are other basically new treatments. Recognition is given to such typically modern developments as air conditioning, electricity in aviation and in the petroleum industry, lighting technology, high-voltage generators and cyclotrons. The compilation of codes and standards has been greatly expanded so that users may know where to obtain standard specifications and prescribed practices." Pref.

Booklist 38:193 F 1 '42

N Y New Tech Bks 27:6 Ja '42

STANDISH, ROBERT, pseud. Three bamboos. 396p $2.75 Macmillan [9s 6d Davies].

(W) 42-24039

"Novel following course of Japan's history from time of Commodore Perry's opening of the country to foreign trade to battle of Pearl Harbor. Story of different generations in one family is designed to show characteristics of the Japanese people, stressing their tenacity, treachery, cruelty, cunning, and avarice. Strangely these qualities all belong to the males, while women are pictured as patient, devoted, lovable." Library J

Booklist 39:121 D 1 '42

"There are touches throughout the story which are true to color, and are Japanese in origin, but the story as a story stumbles badly. Following the return of the brothers from Europe, the plot develops quickly and little fictional verities. As for the historical background, the volume, they frequently are. 'The Three Bamboos,' consequently, is rather unsatisfying fiction and somewhat unreliable history. It does present, however, a fresh approach to the treatment of the Japanese mind, with which we must become increasingly better acquainted. That is its value." Joseph Newman

+ — Books p2 N 15 '42 1350w

"Whether this is a true picture of the course of Japanese ambitions, and of the mind and methods of Japan, I do not know. The author presents it in good faith, and on the basis of a considerable residence in Japan. . . But I doubt the legitimacy of this method of presenting the portrait of a nation, even when—especially when—that nation is our enemy. It may be a true portrait. But a representation so devastating in its judgment should, it seems, receive non-fictional documentation." W. E. Garrison

Christian Century 59:1393 N 11 '42 850w

"Although author claims that most of book was written several years ago, it appears an almost vicious piece of present-day propaganda. May be popular with readers who are ready to believe the worst about an enemy nation. Doubtless, most public libraries will include it." G. E. Brown

Library J 67:909 O 15 '42 110w

"Some of the detail may appear a trifle romantic in treatment, but it never fails in its convincing presentation of the Japanese, described in the dedication as 'the cruellest, most arrogant, and treacherous' people on earth, a people devoid of any understanding of Western ethics. It must be added that the book is most entertainingly written and the story of the Furenos, which is only incidentally the story of modern Japan, is quite absorbingly interesting." J. D. Beresford

+ Manchester Guardian p3 Jl 17 '42 280w

"The Three Bamboos' is one of the first novels about Japan which draws an acceptable picture of Japanese character and stems from a firm understanding of the economic and social environment of modern Japan. . . A good story, rapidly and subtly told, works out in the private lives of eminent Japanese the basic conflicts of Japanese society. This is a historical novel in the best sense of the word." G. E. Taylor

+ Nation 155:591 N 28 '42 650w

"It is an atrocious story not so much because the bankers and the military are victorious, as because there appears to have been practically no resistance to their victory. Clearly there is a danger of a Japanese Vansittartism in this country, and this book will do little to ally it. As if to compensate for his unrelieved denigration of the Japanese male, Mr. Standish has a curious habit of placing the female on a pedestal. If there is really so sharp a moral differentiation of the sexes, Japan is unlike any other country. But this remains a triumphant justification of the novel as a vehicle for conveying information. It is impossible to see how Mr. Standish could have told us so much in any other form, and he avoids the irritation of unnecessary plot and laborious psychology. This is a frankly two-dimensional picture of a people and period which are of absorbing topical interest." Philip Toynbee

+ New Statesman & Nation 24:80 Ag 1 '42 280w

Reviewed by John Cournos

N Y Times p6 N 1 '42 1050w

"Mr. Standish's methods are rather clumsy and awkward, he suffers from an excess of material and a lack of objectivity in his long-detailed study of ruthless ambition. The characters are all a little wooden and theatrical; they would be more credible if the author had been content to keep inside the scope of his own limitations." John Hampson

Spec 169:114 Jl 31 '42 220w

"Although the thesis of the book—that industrial expansion and commercial ambition (both imported from the West) are responsible for the decay of the old Samurai code—is perhaps an oversimplification, the story on the whole is convincingly and effectively narrated, with the exception of the final third, which endeavors to cover too large a canvas in too brief a space." R. J. Conklin

+ — Springf'd Republican p7e N 15 '42 750w

Time 40:104 N 9 '42 350w

"The Three Bamboos' is always illuminating, although in the way of novels which compete with the feature article in the newspaper, not to speak of the stop-press column, it has its imaginative drawbacks. At first, as a matter of fact, Mr. Standish is inclined to be stiff and awkward in licking his material into narrative shape, apparently uncertain how much knowledge on the reader's part he can take for granted. But he grows steadily more assured and eventually cuts a dash with the aptness and vigour of his invention."

+ — Times [London] Lit Sup p353 Jl 18 '42 950w

Reviewed by Robert Littell

Yale R n s 32:x winter '43 320w

STANFORD, DON. New England earth, and other poems; foreword by Yvor Winters. 31p $1.50 Colt

811

42-911

"Some poets begin their art by making a noise, then learning how to play the flute or trumpet. Others, like Don Stanford, first carve the instrument, hoping to fill it later with their breath. . . The blueprints for these models in New England Earth are stated by Yvor Winters in his foreword to be 'the complexity of Donne and the suavity of Dryden.' And this fact is so clear in Don Stanford's poetry that the reader may feel that, not only has the poet learned 17th and 18th century attitudes, but has swallowed and reproduced the word-fashions of those times as well." Poetry

"The poems have a rhythmic suavity and a lyrical loveliness that cover a sound frame of ideas, and their author displays a sensitive appreciation of nature and a keen, detailed perception of her various phases." E. L. Tinker + N Y Times p20 F 1 '42 240w

"These poems are executed with the suave skill and resolved complexity, the feel for words and images, the 'sight and insight' which only the trained, fine ear and eye of a good poet can command. Don Stanford has carved no crude flute for his art. I only hope that he bucks up and dares to 'construe experience' outside of ivied walls." Marshall Schacht

+ Poetry 60:107 My '42 360w

STANGER, MARGARET A. Brand new baby; il. by Pelagie Doane. 132p $1.75 Beacon press 42-16710

A baby's first year described in story form for the child of six or seven. The author is head of the psychology department of the Ethical culture schools of New York city.

"This attractive book meets a real need which many expectant mothers have experienced in trying to present to young children the important facts relative to birth and care of the new-born with normal development during the first year. The author recognizes that the arrival of a new baby in the home often presents problems in the lives of older children. She has taken into consideration that the bare facts alone do not suffice, but should be clothed for the child in the emotional medium which meets the requirements of modern child psychology." R. A. Bolt

+ Am J Pub Health 32:1409 D '42 270w

Christian Century 59:1625 D 30 '42 30w

STARCH, DANIEL; STANTON, HAZEL MARTHA, and KOERTH, WILHELMINE. Psychology in education. 722p il $3 Appleton-Century

370.15 Educational psychology 41-7977

"Emphasizing psychology as applied to the work of the teacher. Basic facts regarding learning, remembering, thinking and the like, which were discussed in 'Controlling Human Behavior,' a first book in psychology for college students by the same authors, are not repeated in this volume, but reference is made to specific page numbers of the former whenever advisable." School & Society

"The book by Starch and his colleagues will probably be more satisfactory to students who are concerned with the techniques of learning and child guidance and with the solution of practical school problems than to students who are primarily interested in theoretical problems. It will need some supplementing in classes of students who are already mature in their educational thinking, but most teachers will undoubtedly find it a very satisfying book." G. T. Buswell

+ El School J 42:471 F '42 550w

School & Society 53:648 My 17 '41 60w

"The classroom teacher will search in vain in this book for procedures which he would not otherwise use for the improvement of his teaching. This, however, is not the main fault of the book, but rather the fact that it ignores the science of educational psychology. Quoting the opinions of scientists is not science. They acquire scientific value only in so far as the underlying scientific procedures and results are given in support, but this the book, for the most part fails to do. Instead of leading the way to light as did the Educational Psychology (1919), the Psychology in Education (1941) is a retreat into darkness." H. B. Reed

— School & Society 54:619 D 27 '41 650w

STARHEMBERG, ERNST RUDIGER, furst von. Between Hitler and Mussolini; memoirs. 281p il $3 Harper; Cooperation pub. co, inc, 30 Rockefeller plaza, N.Y. [15s Hodder]

943.6 Austria—Politics and government

42-23185

Memoirs of his political career during the years 1918 to 1938, written by the Austrian prince who was a member of the German Free corps after the First World war. In 1923 he marched with Hitler in the Munich putsch. Later in Austria he was minister of the interior, vice-chancellor, and leader of the Heimwehr movement. After the fall of Austria he escaped to Switzerland, and later became a Free French flyer. At present he is in Argentina.

"'Between Hitler and Mussolini' is remarkable for its point of view and explanations rather than for other kinds of information." W. R. Deuel

Books p4 N 1 '42 750w

"The book bears signs of having been prepared before the fall of France; and one has a suspicion that the Prince, if writing later, would have explained away his connection with Mussolini as skilfully as he has rounded the other awkward points in his career. Indeed this book will convince few who knew Austria and who experienced the out-at-elbows Fascism of the Heimwehr; but the author is both a brilliant writer and a skilful political strategist, qualities not clearly revealed before in the Prince's career." A. J. P. T.

+ — Manchester Guardian p3 My 13 '42 200w

"Prince Starhemberg's efforts to prove himself a real democrat are rather pathetic and certainly not convincing. If anything is to be gleaned from the observations of this essentially obtuse adventurer, it lies in the light he throws upon the relations between Mussolini and Hitler, their contempt for each other, and Mussolini's reluctance to accept a junior partnership in Hitler's firm. The reluctance, according to Starhemberg, was overcome only because the democracies failed to offer any resistance to Hitler. There may be a grain of truth here amid much chaff." Reinhold Niebuhr

— + New Repub 107:765 D 7 '42 270w

"For a variety of reasons English-speaking peoples have long had a warm spot in their hearts for Austria in general and Vienna in particular. During the past decade their sympathies have been quickened by the series of tragedies that overtook the little country. In addition, they desire the presentation of divergent points of view and consequently on principle welcome Starhemberg's interpretation of recent events in which he took such a prominent part. It is regrettable, however, that he was not able to make revisions and additions he had planned; for as he says, 'many necessary things are missing for a better understanding of the facts and events related.'" C. A. Gulick, Jr.

N Y Times p4 N 8 '42 3250w

"Altogether, Starhemberg's unpretentiously styled memoirs are well worth reading, for they reveal the gangsterism that ruined Austria long before 1938, making it 'ripe' for Nazism. It is regrettable, however, that he apparently still believes that the Austrian brand of 'moderate' Fascism, as represented by the Heimwehr, would have been an efficient and desirable bulwark against Nazi Fascism." Alfred Werner

Sat R of Lit 25:21 O 24 '42 1100w

Reviewed by Alan Rock

Spec 168:467 My 15 '42 800w

"The former fascist prince's book is not easy to read without a good background in Austrian history, and even with that it might be confusing. It admittedly has not been revised since the English edition, which was apparently published directly from Starhemberg's dictation and not revised at that time either. This would account, presumably, for omissions of background which the ordinary reader would find necessary. Also necessary, if Starhemberg speaks again, is clearer assurance that he wants Hitler defeated to free Austria, not just to change her rulers."

Spring'd Republican p10 N 13 '42 470w

"Although highly personal and in large measure an apology, Prince Starhemberg's Memoirs are an important and very interesting contribution to European history from 1918 to 1938. In those twenty years the writer was active near the centre of European politics. He frankly acknowledges—and his book gains therefrom—several mistakes, inconsistencies, errors of judgment. But one conviction is constant—that German Austria has a political and cultural mission to carry out independently of Prussia, and that if she is prevented from discharging it Europe must suffer."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p230 My 9 '42 1800w

STARR, CHESTER G. Roman imperial navy, 31 B.C.-A.D. 324. 228p $2.50 Cornell univ. press [11s 6d Oxford]

359.0937 Rome—History, Naval. Rome—Navy 41-20234

"It is appropriate that the first comprehensive work in English on the Roman Imperial Navy should appear at a time when the Mediterranean is again a key to the mastery of the world. . . . A sketch of the navy of the Roman Republic is followed by several chapters, forming the most substantial part of the book, on the Italian squadrons. . . . Chapters on the provincial squadrons of Syria, Africa and the northern frontier are brief, but they collect what is known. The final chapter surveys in detail specific activities of the navy throughout its history." (N Y Times) Index of inscriptions and papyri, and a general index.

"For many years most of the essential information about the Roman army has been easily available, but before the publication of Dr. Starr's work very little was known about the organization and history of the Roman imperial navy. In view of the fact that Dr. Starr is practically a pioneer in this particular field and that this monograph is the outgrowth of his doctoral dissertation, a work lacking much of the excellence of the present one would still have been deserving of high praise. As matters stand, however, he has produced a study of the Roman imperial navy which is fundamental and not likely to be superseded for many years to come." T. B. Jones

+ Am Hist R 47:829 J1 '42 420w

Reviewed by R. O. Fink
N Y Times p23 My 10 '42 320w

STARRETT, VINCENT. Bookman's holiday; the private satisfactions of an incurable collector. 312p il $3 Random house

814 Books and reading. Book collecting (W) 42-9040

Seventeen essays on literary subjects of interest to the bookman. The chapters range from one on the Chinese version of the modern detective story, and a brief biography of Mrs Hudson, landlady to Sherlock Holmes, to Mother Goose, and the search for a lost Stevenson manuscript.

Booklist 38:365 Je 1 '42

"Vincent Starrett follows book trails because nothing else is such fun; it would be hard to find a book that would be more fun than his own for people of this mind." M. L. Becker

+ Books p28 Mr 1 '42 220w

"The book flows on like good talk, always changing and always interesting." E. L. Tinker

+ N Y Times p8 Mr 15 '42 1250w

Pratt p7 O '42

"I recommend the book heartily to all who, like myself, wish to find out what Chinese Detective Stories are really like and the secret of the artist of the 'Sleeping Cat' of Nikko. Here is a suave and accomplished bookman who can thoroughly satisfy this desire." W. R. Benét

+ Sat R of Lit 25:21 Ap 4 '42 600w

Wis Lib Bul 38:66 Ap '42

STECK, HAROLD WALLIS. Right in your own backyard; drawings by Harrie Wood. 76p $1.75 Stewart

712 Landscape gardening (W) 42-18342

Manual on gardening plans, and the construction of garden walls, steps, pools, and outdoor fireplace, a children's play yard, and other backyard accessories.

Booklist 39:45 O 15 '42

"Not a concise landscaping book, and not a handyman's guide, though partaking of the characters of both. Textually alone it would have been good; supplemented with Harris Wood's uniformly fine drawings, it is provocative and in all ways excellent." R. S. Lemmon

+ Books p12 J1 12 '42 80w

Wis Lib Bul 38:134 O '42

STEED, HENRY ALEXIS. Georgia: unfinished state. 344p il $3.50 Knopf

917.58 Georgia 42-13924

An informally written description of Georgia, its people, politics, and economics, interlarded with many historical and personal anecdotes and bits of traditional lore. Index.

Booklist 39:10 S '42

"Mr. Steed tells of Georgia's charm and her ignorance with equal truthfulness. As a result, I believe a more interesting book on the subject could hardly be written." Vereen Bell

+ Books p4 My 24 '42 750w

"Always the author's easy and completely informal presentation has a spicy—rather than saccharine—charm. The material is set down without any pattern, even that of a travelogue, and very modestly introduced with a disclaimer of any approach to omniscience. But as journalist and business man Hal Steed has been going about his native state, studying its speech, its character, its people's lives, for forty years. His book is the natural outgrowth, one guesses, of this long-time observation and contact." Katherine Woods

+ N Y Times p5 My 24 '42 1300w

"The author's plain honesty and fine ear for dialect set his book off from most of the other regional affairs."

+ New Yorker 18:75 My 16 '42 70w

STEEDMAN, MARGUERITE. But you'll be back. 356p il $2.50 Houghton

(W) 42-19437

The story of a sleepy little Georgia town which was slowly going to seed. Beautiful old houses were being superseded by cheap stores, but the main highway had passed the town by, and even cheap stores had trouble to keep going. The departure of a clever young architect for New York was the starting point of the revival; a courageous middle-aged woman and a disastrous fire finished the rehabilitation of a fine town worth its reclaiming.

Booklist 39:34 O 1 '42

Reviewed by George Conrad

Books p8 Ag 16 '42 380w

Boston Globe p19 Ag 10 '42 130w

"Romantic interest given little emphasis. Ideas constructive for similar communities. Recommended especially for small-town libraries." A. R. Eaton

+ Library J 67:630 J1 '42 70w

"The author is so exceedingly generous to her characters and their undertakings, seldom allowing the obvious difficulties to show their heads, and, when they do, causing them to

STEEDMAN, MARGUERITE—Continued
vanish with such remarkable rapidity that reality fades and interest flags. But in spite of its shortcomings—(no doubt largely due to inexperience, this being a first novel)—the book has sympathy and a touch of humor. It is pleasantly written, and Miss Steedman reveals a willingness to grapple with the present and to refrain from wallowing over the dear dead days which is decidedly refreshing." L. M. Field

— + N Y Times p16 Ag 16 '42 750w

"The writing is energetic if not very distinguished, and is done with ease. Ease has permitted carelessness at times, and there are smudgy traces of journalism in an occasional absurdity of phrase and now and then a veil of sheerest hokum falls over the page. Her thesis that no little town need die is laudable and full of interest, but the mind and heart and spirit of the town that would prove this thesis and rise above it are not examined." Eudora Welty

+ — Sat R of Lit 25:22 S 19 '42 1050w
Wis Lib Bul 38:187 D '42

STEEL, JOHANNES, pseud. Men behind the war; a who's who of our time. 447p $3.50 Sheridan

923 World war, 1939—Biography (W) 42-25166

"Biographical and character studies of 75 European, Asiatic, and Australian leaders of today. An evaluation of their political beliefs and record indicates whether or not each is fitted to take part in the rebuilding of the post-war world. The evaluations are from a liberal point of view, and are shrewd estimates even of the idols of the day." Booklist

Booklist 39:137 D 15 '42

"Mr. Steel's record slips here and there, as when he has the Anti-Comintern Pact signed in 1941 and when he identifies 'Lord Haw-Haw' of the Berlin radio as Fred Kaltenbach, of Iowa. But his picture of the world of today in its process of becoming tomorrow is in full proportion and perspective. His thumb-nail biographies are fragments of current history." Hiram Motherwell

+ — Books p42 N 15 '42 400w

"This book is a valuable work of reference. There is a wealth of apposite detail, and some not so apposite, for who cares where Quisling and Monsignor Tiso got their schooling? Throughout the author shows an astonishing assiduity in research, which deserves to be duly rewarded." L. M. Harris

+ — Sat R of Lit 25:18 D 12 '42 800w

"Should be a valuable, if not necessary, addition to the library of anyone who is trying to understand the day's news. . . Mr. Steel writes excellently, his information can be assumed to be accurate, he avoids scandals and his choice of personalities seems entirely adequate. There is nothing, obviously, on Gen Montgomery, who trounced Rommel, or on other military leaders who may arise into glory, but for information on people who started the war and who are to finish it one way or another, his book can hardly be matched at present."

+ Springfield Republican p6 D 16 '42 380w

STEEL, KURT, pseud. See Kagey, R.

STEELE, ZULMA. Angel in top hat, 319p il $3.50 Harper

B or 92 Bergh, Henry. American society for the prevention of cruelty to animals 42-24698

Biography of the founder of the American society for the prevention of cruelty to animals, Henry Bergh. The son of a wealthy New York ship builder, Bergh was noted as a fashionable man about town in his younger days. After his marriage in 1839 he spent many years traveling with his wife in Europe and the near East. In middle life his interest in the mistreatment of animals became the center of his life, and from then until his death, he championed their cause. Bibliography. Index.

Booklist 39:137 D 15 '42

"Miss Steele has written an honest and sprightly biography. She has taken pains to show that the time was ripe, if not a trifle over-ripe, for the appearance of an inspired reformer. As to what inspired Henry Bergh to take on the job, it is, Miss Steele says, anybody's guess." R. B. Peck

+ Books p8 N 22 '42 1250w

"It is the great merit of Miss Steele's method with all this Berghiana that she has collected it at the source—that we see Mr. Bergh not only in perspective, as a man whose passionate pursuit of a mission accomplished in the long run an enormous amount of good, but as the people who had to endure Mr. Bergh saw him. . . It may be said that at times the reader is apt to feel that all this Berghiana is too much for one book. But it is a good job, nevertheless." H. I. Brock

+ — N Y Times p5 N 8 '42 1050w

"Miss Steele has told a striking story well. Her book is replete with detail on the barbarous side of American civilization two generations ago, and it makes of Henry Bergh a living figure, impressive even when unlikely." Allan Nevins

+ Sat R of Lit 26:6 Ja 30 '43 800w

Time 40:105 N 30 '42 450w

Wis Lib Bul 38:184 D '42

STEFANSSON, VILHJALMUR. Greenland. 338p $3.50 Doubleday

998 Greenland (W) 42-25654

History of Greenland, based to some extent on early sagas two of which have been newly translated. The history is traced from the early voyages, thru the discovery of America, the establishment of the Christian church, down to the present. A closing chapter discusses the strategic importance of the island in the defense of the Western hemisphere. Bibliography. Index.

Booklist 39:182 Ja 1 '43

"Mr. Stefansson organizes the evidence gathered during years of research and with invariable mastery of his subject and gift of phrase has turned out a delightful book that should reach a wide audience." W. S. Carlson

+ Books p3 N 29 '42 1500w

"Worthy addition for college and larger libraries. Good basic material." J. B. Fogg

+ Library J 67:794 S 15 '42 60w

"The prospective reader of this book on Greenland who inclines to doubt its timeliness and practical value can quickly convince himself of both by reading its last two chapters first. Having done so, he will know that it is well worth his trouble to turn back to the beginning and to read carefully the whole of this stirring work by our most distinguished authority on all matters pertaining to the Arctic and sub-Arctic areas of America and Europe. . . Mr. Stefansson has grasped firmly the entire vast and difficult subject, and he has laid it before us with skill, thoroughness and vitality." P. A. Means

+ N Y Times p5 N 29 '42 1200w

New Yorker 18:99 N 21 '42 70w

"The point of the book is simply that Greenland is an interesting and valuable place, of great strategic and perhaps economic importance, about which there is a regrettable amount of misinformation afloat. This point may be taken as thoroughly demonstrated before the book is ended; but the arctic flavor of controversy surrounds the whole thing. . . Nevertheless it is an extremely good show, a kind of Greenland encyclopedia which includes everything one would want to know about the place." Fletcher Pratt

+ — Sat R of Lit 26:14 Ja 2 '43 360w

Wis Lib Bul 38:186 D '42

STEGNER, WALLACE. Mormon country. (American folkways ser) 362p $3 Duell
917.92 Utah. Mormons and Mormonism
(W) 42-22811

Description of the country, lying principally in Utah, settled by the Mormons, combined with an informal, anecdotal history of the Mormons themselves. Index.

Booklist 39:100 N 15 '42

"For the first time, the scope and purpose of the Folkways Series, edited by Erskine Caldwell, has become plain to me. Not by states, arbitrarily divided, but by cultures, peoples, traditions, America is studied and perpetuated. Surely no greater service could be performed for her, now or at any other time, and the part of that service intrusted to Wallace Stegner could hardly have been better done." Virginia Sorensen

+ Books p3 O 11 '42 1100w

"Mr. Stegner combines a great amount of information and lively comment with fine description of one of the most beautiful and least known regions of the United States." Hyde Cox

+ Boston Globe p21 N 11 '42 470w

Reviewed by J. B. Fogg

Library J 67:794 S 15 '42 70w

New Repub 107:866 D 28 '42 120w

"Mr. Stegner's book makes excellent reading and also is solidly based. He has even (and this is not a bad test) prepared a really careful index. His residence of fifteen years in the region he is describing shows him to mingle ease with authority." G. R. Stewart

+ N Y Times p20 O 25 '42 800w

"It is my opinion that there are some inaccuracies in the book, although, perhaps, they would be apparent only to one who was born among these people and subsequently spent a lifetime studying them. Also, in spite of 'Milton and his girl,' I had the occasional impression that Mr. Stegner regarded the Mormons as a whole from the typical 'outsider's' viewpoint; that in spite of his fifteen years' residence, he never really understood or 'got next' to the people." Maurine Whipple

Sat R of Lit 26:21 Ja 2 '43 550w

Wis Lib Bul 38:162 N '42

STEIN, AARON MARC. Only the guilty. 273p
$2 Doubleday

42-7370

Detective story.

"Workmanlike yarn. Fauna, flora and place names provide abundant atmosphere. Watch that pet kinkajou." Will Cuppy

+ Books p18 Mr 22 '42 130w

"The author has succeeded in creating a convincing and colorful setting and in making that setting an integral part of a mystery tale of outstanding merit." Isaac Anderson

+ N Y Times p14 Mr 22 '42 200w

"Long-winded but sound."

+ New Yorker 18:68 Ap 4 '42 50w

"Expertly faked manuscript and fraudulent wounds on two corpses tip-off two sleuths to solution clinched by burning of evidence. Good."

+ Sat R of Lit 25:21 Mr 28 '42 40w

STEIN, EMANUEL, and BACKMAN, JULES, eds. War economics, by Jules Backman [and others]. textbook ed 501p $3 Farrar

330.19355 War—Economic aspects. World war, 1939—Economic aspects 42-3864

"Various aspects of the development of a war economy examined by half a dozen economists. The material is frequently detailed and the discussion is on a practical line. The treatment is comprehensive rather than original." (Foreign Affairs) Contents: Transition from peace to war, by Emanuel Stein and Jules Backman; Maximizing wartime production, by Jules Backman; Labor supply in defense and war, by Emanuel Stein; Wages and collective bargaining in wartime, by Emanuel Stein; War finance, by Jules Backman; The price problem, by Jules Backman; Fiscal control, credit control, and general price ceiling, by Jules Backman; Controls over demand, by Jules Backman; Direct price controls, by Jules Backman; War-time foreign trade control; Railroads in war-time, by W. L. Grossman; Electric power in wartime, by W. L. Grossman; Wartime housing and rent control, by Emanuel Stein; Agriculture and war, by R. F. Martin; Consumers in wartime, by J. V. Coles; Business and finance under the United States defense program, 1940-41, by J. I. Bogen; Postwar problems of industrial demobilization, by K. W. Kapp. Index.

"The book is made up primarily of a mass of descriptive detail. Critical analysis is kept to a minimum, and not a little of such analysis as there is, is superficial and inadequately put. The last chapter on post-war problems, which does deal with general issues, is vague, unrealistic, and reflects not a little confused thinking. The book is poorly organized and suffers from a lack of balance. . . . There is a good deal of useful information in the book. For this reason alone, some instructors may wish to use the book or to assign readings in it." R. A. Gordon

+ Am Econ R 32:625 S '42 300w

"The book is not pretentious. It is frankly designed to serve as a text for college courses on the economics of war, current economic problems, or the like, and should help to satisfy the growing demand at this point." J. W. Bell

+ Am Pol Sci R 35:598 Je '42 380w

Reviewed by R. G. Woolbert

Foreign Affairs 20:775 Jl '42 40w

Pratt p10 O '42

STEIN, LEO, pseud. I was in hell with Niemoeller. 253p $2.50 Revell

B or 92 Niemöller, Martin. Concentration camps (W) 42-12093

This report of the author's imprisonment in Nazi concentration camps describes the methods of the Gestapo in handling its victims, and records Dr Stein's meetings and talks with Pastor Niemoeller during the two years when they were fellow prisoners.

Cath World 156:509 Ja '43 180w

Christian Century 55:601 My 6 '42 200w

"If you do succeed in getting out of here, tell the world everything you have seen. Warn the people of the world that Hitler is the enemy of mankind. . . . He is a greater danger to the world than has been any man in history." This was the last word from Pastor Martin Niemoeller, modern martyr, still imprisoned in Germany, to Leo Stein, as recorded in the latter's thrilling book. To many, it will seem just the exaggerated statement of a distraught man—but not to any who read this amazing disclosure." T. F. Opie

+ Churchman 156:10 Je 1 '42 2200w

"The book has many faults. It simplifies complex problems; it makes hasty judgments on insufficient evidence; it is discursive. But it is a sincere tribute to human fortitude, and it emphasizes the truth that nazism must be destroyed by spiritual weapons, as well as by tanks and guns. And it might give some pause to those in our midst who preach reform through 'mercy killing' and sterilization." J. N. Moody

+ Commonweal 36:524 S 18 '42 390w

Times [London] Lit Sup p554 N 14 '42 600w

STEINBECK, JOHN. Bombs away; the story of a bomber team; written for the U.S. army air forces; with 60 phot. by John Swope. 185p $2.50 Viking

358.4 U.S.—Army—Air corps (W) 42-36406

"Steinbeck puts his great skill as a novelist to work and creates the persons of six boys who are to be a bomber crew. Without any fictional story-complications . . . he follows

STEINBECK, JOHN—Continued

these boys from their civilian life through several training schools, describes how they become airmen and soldiers. Finally they come together, assigned to one big bomber. He tells of the further training which welds them together into a team, and how finally one dark night they take off for distant parts of the world, and action." Books

Booklist 39:132 D 15 '42

"It is a moving book. . . Perhaps rather inexplicably so. It may be that Steinbeck uses tricks of the writing trade that we don't notice, but more likely it is that truth of any kind has an electric quality, and a book that assays as high in truth as this one does is bound to be moving. It certainly is an important book." Wolfgang Langewiesche

+ Books p3 D 6 '42 1800w

Cath World 156:635 F '43 150w

Library J 68:37 Ja 1 '43 50w

"The book will probably raise a great deal of money for the Air Forces Trust Fund, but it bears about the same relationship to literature that a recruiting poster does to art."

New Repub 108:94 Ja 18 '43 180w

Reviewed by S. T. Williamson

N Y Times p1 N 29 '42 1250w

"The Army Air Forces did a smart thing when they got John Steinbeck to write 'Bombs Away.' They are a first-rate outfit and there is no reason in the world why a first-rate writer should not handle their recruiting propaganda. For that is essentially what 'Bombs Away' is—an extraordinarily fine job of recruiting propaganda which achieves its effect by telling the truth in words that have life in them." Clifton Fadiman

+ New Yorker 18:96 N 28 '42 390w

"In its simplicity, restraint, and superb workmanship, I found 'Bombs Away' as exciting as any Steinbeck novel." W. B. Huie

+ Sat R of Lit 25:22 D 5 '42 750w

STEINBECK, JOHN. Moon is down. 188p $2
Viking

(W) 42-36103

Short, quietly written novel, describing the occupation of a small mining town, presumably in Norway, by an unidentified army, evidently German. The villagers resort to sabotage, they completely ignore the invaders whenever possible, and go on their way thwarting every move to the detriment of the morale of the invader. In the end the courageous village mayor is shot to bring the people to terms. The mayor goes to his death reciting Socrates' dying message, knowing full well that his people will understand his death, and will continue their resistance.

Appeared on Best Seller list in: ALA (1) Books (29) E & T (1) N Y Times (13) PW (17) RB (5) W (1)

Reviewed by Edward Weeks

Atlantic Ap '42 200w

Booklist 38:252 Mr 15 '42

Bookmark 3:17 My '42

"The lesson this book carries should be known to every American. It is one of the best short novels I ever read." John Gunther

+ Books p1 Mr 8 '42 1000w

"The ending seems to me false and literary, and the people are not real enough to save the book from being exactly what it is, an idea novel, about abstractions. And this I say with some sorrow, because Steinbeck is still one of the two or three best novelists writing in America, and this book under any other name would warrant roses." Wallace Stegner

Boston Globe p19 Mr 11 '42 750w

"Steinbeck has a serious subject and real ability in using it; he destroys the validity of both by introducing elements that throw the story out of key, as his efforts to be whimsical, which confuse the mood of the book and are repeated too often for comfort. Nevertheless this is a vivid and dramatic work, much the best thing Steinbeck has done so far, and written with a restraint he seemed incapable of in his earlier books."

+ Cath World 155:253 My '42 250w

"This is not history; it is prophecy. It is the affirmation of a high faith in humanity—which is the same thing as faith in the ultimate triumph of freedom over force. That faith has not been more beautifully stated than in this novel." W. E. Garrison

+ Christian Century 59:561 Ap 29 '42 950w

"The book is beautifully written, with restraint, dignity, humor, and calm conviction. The style fits the matter in its Apollonian simplicity and purity. The drama is in the events, and there is no theatricalism of language. A masterpiece in little." L. A. S.

+ Christian Science Monitor p18 Mr 6 '42 850w

Reviewed by Charles Duffy

Commonweal 35:569 Mr 27 '42 350w

"The Moon Is Down is both first-class fiction and a valuable document and, one is inclined to think, a little masterpiece." Alvin Adey

+ Current Hist 2:143 Ap '42 470w

"Excellent psychological study, recommended for purchase." F. A. Boyle

+ Library J 67:182 F 15 '42 40w

Reviewed by Harold Brighouse

Manchester Guardian p3 Je 26 '42 250w

"The theme is important, timely, universal. It is closely bound up with prevailing emotions. It would seem, therefore, to be the stuff out of which a modern fable might emerge. Yet I found the book curiously unmoving despite my own preoccupation with the subject. The trouble lies, I think, with the method Mr. Steinbeck has affected—studied understatement, simple, unaccented language, matter-of-fact tone. Such writing depends for its power on the concentration and maturity of feeling with which it is charged. In this case the charge is not sufficient. The form, therefore, seems contrived, the simplicity becomes pretentious, the understatement and matter-of-fact tone sentimental. The sprawling yet effective eloquence of 'The Grapes of Wrath' seems to me much better suited to Mr. Steinbeck's particular gifts." Margaret Marshall

+ Nation 154:286 Mr 7 '42 330w

"There is, I regret to say, a kind of lamplight playing over the mood and style, the events and figures, of Mr. Steinbeck's new short novel. . . The reader of this book does not have to be told that the author had a stage version in mind as he wrote it (the play has gone into rehearsal as I set this down). This has had the unfortunate effect of giving the interiors in the novel the feel of sets. I could not believe that the people who enter Mayor Orden's living room come from the streets and houses of a little town. They come from their dressing rooms. The characters and the language they speak are in keeping with the theatrical atmosphere from Annie, the irate cook, to Colonel Lanser, the leader of the invaders and his staff." James Thurber

New Repub 106:370 Mr 16 '42 1000w

"The best novel yet produced by this war." Philip Toynbee

+ New Statesman & Nation 23:408 Je 20 '42 650w

"So strong, so simple, so true, so dramatic in its values is this story, that its present form is obviously only one of its phases. It is as plainly destined for the stage as was 'Of Mice and Men.' . . This is a novel, a stage play, a motion picture, a radio drama. It is all those things, and merits being all of them." R. L. Duffus

+ N Y Times p1 Mr 8 '42 1100w

"For all its qualities, 'The Moon Is Down' strikes me as unsatisfactory on two counts. Its form is deceiving and its message is inadequate. . . 'The Moon Is Down' is a tense story written with great economy and with a certain grim humor, too. Its characters we have met before in other anti-Nazi books and dramas, but here they are more sharply minted and their dialogue is recorded with precise, if limited, insight. If you read the book quickly and do not reflect upon it, it seems extraordinarily powerful. If you read it slowly and with deliberation, it seems merely extraordinarily skillful." Clifton Fadiman

+ — New Yorker 18:59 Mr 7 '42 900w

Discussion by Clifton Fadiman

New Yorker 18:63 Ap 4 '42 700w

Pratt p13 O '42

"'The Moon Is Down' is a unique reading experience. Steinbeck tells his story with simplicity, force, dignity, and even beauty. I cannot recall another novel of comparable size that has achieved so much of the sense of vital suspense, so strong a feeling of reality. Steinbeck's images are strong and closely knit. Except for one or two slips, he comes as close as any author to making himself unobtrusive and leaving you free to lose yourself in the story. Which you do." Norman Cousins

+ — Sat R of Lit 25:6 Mr 14 '42 1050w

"The first thing to be said of The Moon Is Down is that it is, for these times, better value than most new pieces of fiction, for it is a deft, well-written, economical story." Kate O'Brien

+ Spec 169:44 Jl 10 '42 340w

Time 39:84 Mr 9 '42 1550w

"Mr. Steinbeck's tribute is warm and sincere, and the slight fiction built around it is of nice balance and proportion. Whether he gains from the half-hearted anonymity of his narrative is doubtful; his model, presumably, is the Nazi invasion of Norway, and in the circumstances so nameless a rendering of the event gives it a rather hollow character. Worse still, if we may say so, there is too little imagination, too complacent a vision in what seems to be his shock of pride in the resistance of the occupied countries of Europe. The sentiment of the tale always rings true, but was it necessary to draw quite so comforting a moral from the oppression and torture of the history, or the European history, of our times?"

+ — Times [London] Lit Sup p305 Je 20 '42 1050w

Wis Lib Bul 38:68 Ap '42

Reviewed by Robert Littell

Yale R n s 31:viii spring '42 470w

STEINBECK, JOHN. Moon is down; play in two parts. 103p $1.75 Viking

812

[42-21976]

Text of the play based on the author's successful novel of the same name. The play was produced in New York, beginning April 7, 1942.

"If Mr. Steinbeck could be charged with writing the mere outline of a novel in his published book, it could be maintained, with greater justification, that he created the mere sketch of a play. As a novelette, The Moon Is Down is a distinguished minor work. . . . As a play, The Moon Is Down is still distinguished, because of the penetrative characterization of Colonel Lanser, the noble pathos of Mayor Orden, and the agony of Lieutenant Tonder; and one must respect the dramatic version for its avoidance of obvious melodrama and pyrotechnics, and for the occasional positive values of understatement, as in the quiet final scene. But the play produces a confusing alignment of forces, a divided effect, and a somehow incompletely precipitated dramatic experience. In the theatre, Steinbeck's story is consequently ineffectual." John Gassner

+ — Current Hist 2:228 My '42 2750w

Library J 67:739 S 1 '42 40w

Dramatic criticism by Stark Young
New Repub 106:638 My 11 '42 750w

Dramatic criticism by Rosamond Gilder
Theatre Arts 26:287 My '42 1250w

STEINCRÖHN, PETER JOSEPH. You don't have to exercise! rest begins at forty. 207p $1.50 Doubleday

613.7 Exercise. Rest 42-15437

A book written for men and women past forty. The author, a doctor, advocates no violent exercise, but sensible diet, plenty of sleep and rest, good posture, vacations, and hobbies, as means of staying fit and healthy thru middle age.

Booklist 39:29 O 1 '42

Books p17 Je 14 '42 130w

STEINDORFF, GEORG, and SEELE, KEITH CEDRIC. When Egypt ruled the East. 284p il maps $4 Univ. of Chicago press

932 Egypt—History. Egypt—Civilization 42-3485

History of Egypt from the first dynasty to the nineteenth, based upon all available material, some of which has been discovered since the publication of Breasted's History of Egypt. Social and cultural history is stressed instead of political development. Outline of Egyptian history; maps on end papers. Index.

"The value of this book might easily be underestimated even by one quite familiar with ancient history, but anyone who has faced the problem of teaching the history of the Ancient East to college freshmen and sophomores will be grateful for it." T. A. Brady

+ Am Hist R 48:71 O '42 550w

Booklist 38:231 Mr 1 '42

"It is perhaps enough to say that this is the best history of Egypt since Breasted's a generation ago. The theme itself is one which lends itself both to scholarly research and to exciting presentation with full pictorial accompaniments, and the authors have utilized these opportunities to the full. . . . It would be unfortunate to divert attention from the scholarly text to the pictures, but the illustrations in this book are so thoroughly a part of the story and are so beautiful in themselves that they deserve special mention."

+ Christian Century 59:322 Mr 11 '42 130w

"It is a most useful and welcome book with a unity of focus that is enjoyable." E. P. Richardson

+ Commonweal 35:627 Ap 10 '42 650w

Reviewed by C. C. McCown

J Religion 22:435 O '42 550w

N Y Times p2 Jl 12 '42 420w

STEINER, GEORGE ALBERT, ed. Economic problems of war, by John F. Bell [and others]. [692p] $4.50 Wiley

330.19355 War—Economic aspects. World war, 1939—Economic aspects. European war, 1914-1918—Economic aspects 42-20180

"This symposium on war economics does not ignore the fact that wartime policy cannot be restricted to price control or fiscal policy only. The contributors explore every problem created by the impact of total war on economic organization and conclude that on the whole private enterprise cannot sustain a war economy. Their survey points to the maintenance of governmental controls during the immediate post-war years." (New Repub) Selected bibliography. Index.

Reviewed by H. A. Gray

Ann Am Acad 225:232 Ja '43 600w

"Admirable and readable summation, though designed as textbook." J. E. Cross

+ Library J 67:629 Jl '42 130w

"This is the most comprehensive study of war economics yet published."

+ New Repub 107:585 N 2 '42 90w

STEINER, KALMAN, and RAVNSBECK, FRED. Oil burner service manual. 365p il $4 McGraw

697.7 Oil burners 42-2718

"Intended primarily to give the oil-burner dealer and his mechanical staff the information basic to installing and servicing oil burners, with special emphasis given to the correction of faulty installations." (N Y New Tech

STEINER, KALMAN—Continued

Bks) The book is based largely on manufacturers' instruction manuals, and contains many diagrams. Index.

Booklist 38:248 Mr 15 '42

N Y New Tech Bks 27:27 Ap '42

STEINER, LUKE EBY. Introduction to chemical thermodynamics. 516p il $4 McGraw

541.36 Thermodynamics 41-27690

"The author aims to acquaint the student with the fundamental theory of thermodynamics and of the relations between the thermodynamic functions; to prepare him to utilize the various tables of thermodynamic data and the data found in the current chemical literature; and to give him a sound background for more extended work in the thermodynamics. To this end the book deals with the basic laws and concepts of thermodynamics and with their application both to relatively simple chemical systems and to nonideal systems where the concepts of partial molal quantities and activities are useful." (Publisher's note) Indexes.

Chem & Met Eng 49:186 F '42 150w

"This book has many excellent qualities and several defects, some of these minor, others serious." F. H. MacDougall

+ — J Phys Chem 46:526 Ap '42 750w

N Y New Tech Bks 27:22 Ap '42

STEPHENSON, MRS DELIA DEIRDRE (MORRIS). Patrick, son of thunder; a biography of Patrick Henry [drawings by Emilie DeBeukelaer]. 186p $2 Reilly & Lee

B or 92 Henry, Patrick—Juvenile literature 41-28041

Patrick Henry's life from early boyhood to the day of his famous speech on "liberty or death." Altho told in story form the book adheres scrupulously to historical fact. Suitable for older boys and girls. Short bibliography. No index.

Reviewed by M. L. Becker

Books p8 Mr 8 '42 250w

"A lively, easy-reading narrative, which has much of the color and pace of fiction." E. L. Buell

+ N Y Times p10 Mr 1 '42 120w

"The story is dramatically vivid and should make absorbing reading for youngsters between 12 and 14."

+ Springf'd Republican p7e D 7 '41 140w

STERLING, STEWART. Five alarm funeral. 250p $2 Putnam

Detective story. 42-7205

Reviewed by Will Cuppy

Books p10 Mr 15 '42 150w

"This is a vigorous slap-bang tale of firebugs in New York, so vividly localized you can follow the alarms as easily as the Mayor." Mort. Post

+ New Repub 106:470 Ap 6 '42 30w

"The Chief Fire Marshal proves himself a first-rate detective, and the story of how he does it has not a dull moment." Isaac Anderson

+ N Y Times p12 Mr 15 '42 240w

"Read it for action, novel, and spectacular background, amazing data on arsonists, and tough talk. Less said about motivation the better. Hot stuff."

Sat R of Lit 25:19 Mr 14 '42 40w

Time 39:88 Ap 6 '42 60w

STERN, BERNHARD JOSEPH. Society and medical progress. 264p $3 Princeton univ. press

610.9 Medicine—History. Hygiene—History 41-25497

For descriptive note see Annual for 1941.

Reviewed by Philipp Weintraub

Am Econ R 32:191 Mr '42 50w

Reviewed by R. L. Wilbur

Am Hist R 47:822 Jl '42 550w

"Dr. Stern has brought to this sociology of medicine rich and profound insight, penetrating analysis, sound judgment, and a wide knowledge (based on critical and reflective reading) of the history of the social development of medicine as an art and science. The whole is presented in finished, clear, and at times brilliant prose. It has none of the stuffiness and pedantry one finds in some sociological treatises; yet its learning cannot be gainsaid." N. E. Himes

+ Am J Soc 47:1000 My '42 700w

"Mr. Stern has tapped a mine which is rich in opportunities for sociological analysis. He will be read with the greatest attention, moreover, by those who have asked themselves Mr. Lynd's question: 'Knowledge for what?' It is to be hoped that a great many sociologists will devote themselves to this field, for the history of medicine offers a great body of concrete data which are at once intrinsically interesting and sociologically significant." Bernard Barber

+ Am Soc R 7:135 F '42 400w

"It is to be regretted that the author neither is a practicing physician nor has insight into the present relationships between medicine and social progress. By this is meant an understanding of the present clinical point of view with respect to hospital and institutional research as well as the tremendous contributions of numerous pharmaceutical laboratories which are advancing the knowledge and use of the newer preparations at a rapid pace. . . The bibliography is extensive and comprehensive and will be of good value to students of the subject. In general, the work is statistical and at times the attempts to draw comparisons are not successful. However, the general theme is correctly stated and the book is commended." W. A. Thomas, M. D.

Christian Century 59:429 Ap 1 '42 400w

Reviewed by Alvin Adey

Current Hist 2:300 Je '42 330w

"Recommended unqualifiedly to all who are interested in the development of medical science and in its application to the public well-being." Joseph Hirsch

+ Social Forces 20:506 My '42 380w

STERN, GLADYS BRONWYN (MRS G. L. HOLDSWORTH). Young matriarch. 652p $3 Macmillan

(W) 42-24042

Another story of the Rakonitz family, bringing the tale of this international Jewish family down to the time of the Second World war.

Booklist 39:102 N 15 '42

"One is pressed into superlatives in praising this book. It holds the reader not alone with its magnificent explorations into the history of a unique family but evenmore with its marvelous portraits of its members throughout a long span of years. To say that the spark of life illumines all the Rakonitz characters is rank understatement; they are aflame with it, and this is especially true of the women." Rose Feld

+ Books p2 O 18 '42 1450w

Reviewed by Dorothy Hillyer

Boston Globe p21 O 14 '42 550w

Cleveland Open Shelf p24 N '42

Reviewed by J. K. Paulding

Commonweal 37:304 Ja 8 '43 420w

Reviewed by Charles Marriott

Manchester Guardian p3 D 4 '42 320w

Reviewed by William Soskin

N Y Times p9 O 25 '42 1800w

"A little special, perhaps, and not easy to follow if you're not already acquainted with the characters. But almost no one is as skillful as the author in the characterization of women, and she writes with extraordinary fluency and distinction."

+ New Yorker 18:90 O 17 '42 60w

Pratt p12 D '42

"This record of the Rakonitz clan . . . would have been the better, I think, for some pruning and cutting, a rather tighter hand on the spate of talk, the excess of parties and discussions, the splendor of fireworks which is the Rakonitz notion of a quarrel and a reconciliation. . . . 'The Young Matriarch' is, however, a book of superb set-pieces." R. E. Roberts

+ — Sat R of Lit 25:6 O 31 '42 500w

Springf'd Republican p7e N 1 '42 250w

"There's nobody in this book but Rakonitzes and their kin. Though it is mostly for 'Matriarch' fans, others will find it rich, entertaining, and full-bodied." Alden Stevens

+ Survey G 31:602 D '42 70w

Times [London] Lit Sup p605 D 12 '42 900w

Reviewed by Robert Littell

Yale R n s 32:xii winter '43 20w

STERN, MADELEINE BETTINA. Life of Margaret Fuller. 549p il $3.75 Dutton

B or 92 Ossoli, Sarah Margaret (Fuller) marchesa d' (W) 42-36044

Slightly fictionalized biography of Margaret Fuller, which constitutes a reinterpretation of this "citizen of the world," and describes her share in the liberal movement in America during the first half of the last century. Bibliography. Index.

"It is entirely possible that Miss Stern has in her files the materials for a definitive biography of Margaret Fuller. As for the present volume, it is notably more inclusive and richer in detail than its numerous predecessors, drawing valuable new material from manuscript sources, Margaret Fuller's published work (known to earlier biographers but never before thoroughly digested), and journals and memoirs of contemporaries. And when Miss Stern writes straightforward narrative, she always writes competently and often very readably. But for students of history and literature the usefulness of the book is sharply curtailed by Miss Stern's decision (very possibly made under pressure from her publishers) to abandon historical narrative, as employed in certain chapters which were earlier printed as magazine articles, in favor of sporadic excursions into novelized biography." Tremaine McDowell

+ — Am Hist R 47:886 JI '42 390w

Booklist 38:233 Mr 1 '42

"The human side of this story is Miss Stern's paramount concern. She does not searchingly analyze the quality of Miss Fuller's literary work, nor study, except in an offhand and incidental fashion, the relation of her thought to the idealistic philosophies and liberal movements of her day. For criticism of a more elaborate kind or for formal literary history we must turn to other volumes. But no other book that has been written about the writers of the New England renaissance, unless it be Van Wyck Brooks's life of Emerson, can give us a more living realization than this book does of what Thoreau meant when he declared that he had traveled widely in Concord. . . . Miss Stern has been well advised to evoke the living woman rather than to analyze the dead writer. Her work may be supplemented by critical studies still to be written, but in its own kind it will hardly be surpassed." G. F. Whicher

+ Books p1 Ja 18 '42 1750w

"Miss Stern's book can be commended for its readability, general scholarship, its accurate picture of a fascinating period and finally because it is a full and sympathetic portrait of a notable American woman. The present reviewer can only second the statement of Mr. Van Wyck Brooks quoted on the book's jacket. 'I think it is a capital book.'" W. V. Gavigan

+ Cath World 155:247 My '42 650w

"The author has been able to live again in imagination striking episodes in Margaret Fuller's career and to recreate them credibly for the reader. Well written and dramatically presented. Recommended." H. A. Carpenter

+ Library J 67:40 Ja 1 '42 50w

"Miss Stern's 'The Life of Margaret Fuller' is the fourth biography of this astonishing woman to appear during the past twenty years. . . . To this commentator's way of thinking, it is far and away the best. The fact that it is fictionalized (which might arouse misgivings in those who desire their biography straight) does not diminish its solidity and authority; for Miss Stern, with surprising assiduity of research, has so saturated herself in the period involved, 1810 to 1850, that the fictionalization becomes, in fact, a closely woven skein of a thousand and one tiny threads of actuality." Herbert Gorman

+ N Y Times p5 Ja 25 '42 1300w

"May be rather pat now and again, but brilliant and highly readable."

+ — New Yorker 17:68 Ja 24 '42 50w

"Margaret Fuller is one of the most colorful figures in American literary history, endowed with a quality of eternal aliveness. This book about her takes full advantage of its opportunities. It is interesting and very readable. Its publishers emphasize that it is 'in the Van Wyck Brooks tradition,' but to this reviewer it seems to go many steps farther along the road than Van Wyck Brooks himself has chosen to venture." Townsend Scudder

+ Sat R of Lit 25:17 F 7 '42 550w

"This latest 'Life of Margaret Fuller' represents a thorough piece of research, and a careful reconstruction of the period as well as of the life of its principal character." R. J. Conklin

+ Springf'd Republican p7e F 8 '42 850w

Time 39:76 F 9 '42 220w

Wis Lib Bul 38:30 F '42

STERN, PHILIP VAN DOREN (PETER STORME, pseud). Drums of morning. 625p il $3 Doubleday

(W) 42-18496

In 1837 the Abolitionist Lovejoy was killed in Alton, Illinois. With him there died a local carpenter who left behind him a nine-year old son, imbued with the hatred of slavery. This long historical novel follows the education and adventures of Jonathan Bradford from the death of his father to the end of the Civil war.

Appeared on Best Seller list in: Books (17) B & T (1) N Y Times (15) RB (2)

Reviewed by Wilson Follett

Atlantic 170:146 O '42 240w

Booklist 39:12 S '42

* "Though it is not a book of uniform merit as a novel 'The Drums of Morning' is nevertheless a reading experience well worth while: it gives you, within the dimensions of one book and the span of one man's career, all those conflicting and tragic elements that led to and resolved what was paradoxically the most majestic and the most calamitous event in all American history." A. B. Tourtellot

+ — Books p4 Ag 9 '42 850w

"Don't let the slow start of Mr. Stern's historical machinery in the first chapter put you off. 'The Drums of Morning' is a long book and a good book, and belongs in any collection of American historical novels of importance." Elizabeth Watts

+ Boston Globe p17 Ag 5 '42 550w

"In scholarship, vividness, breadth, and dramatic interest, the book represents a high achievement. Though too long, it never falls off in interest, because the author does not lose sight of the fact that he has a story to tell. There are many interesting sketches of historical figures, and the anecdotes are well integrated with the theme as a whole." N. E. Monroe

+ Cath World 156:115 O '42 500w

Christian Science Monitor p12 O 17 '42 650w

"With the exception of a few muddleheaded, romantic scenes, the book glows with a fine spirit. From the lowliest operator of one of the 'Underground' stations to the most fervid of the socialite crusaders, there rises a feeling of righteous indignation and joy in working for a great cause. In 'Drums of the Morning,' Mr. Stern has happily combined creative imagination and historical accuracy to write a novel that is worth the time and attention of any reader." E. J. Clarke

STERN, P. V.—Continued

+ Commonweal 36:522 S 18 '42 390w

Reviewed by H. A. Wooster

Library J 67:630 J1 '42 80w

"Although Mr. Stern's story about the Abolitionist movement is carefully documented, told with loving detail, and laudable in its passionate stand for freedom, literarily it isn't up to its purpose. Jonathan Bradford is the hero and a pretty bloodless sort, and the three women in his life are as stock, each in her own way, as the usual Civil War heroine. . . But a Civil War novel written in seriousness, whatever its lack of inspiration, is at least a relief from Miss Scarlett and the old plantation."

+ Nation 155:178 Ag 29 '42 150w

New Repub 107:262 Ag 31 '42 90w

"Naturally, 'The Drums of Morning' has its weaknesses and defects. . . On almost all counts, nevertheless, 'The Drums of Morning' strikes me as one of the most distinguished historical novels which the Civil War has evoked—a novel which is not only full of color, pace, drama and excitement, but which is maturely aware of the significance of its theme and its relevance to the present day." E. H. Walton

+ N Y Times p6 Ag 9 '42 1100w

"What distinguishes Mr. Stern from other recent novelists of the Civil War is his overall understanding of the meaning of the struggle. He sees it in just perspective—as one of the battles for universal freedom of which our country seems fated to be the focus. Unfortunately, for a novelist, intelligence is not quite enough." Clifton Fadiman

New Yorker 18:54 Ag 8 '42 230w

"The book is dedicated 'To all those who have fought for freedom anywhere. . . If it were not for the seriousness of this dedication and the honesty with which Mr. Stern has attempted to portray the Abolitionist movement, the reviewer would be inclined to place this book in the category of satire: a 'perfect' Abolitionist novel to end all Abolitionist novels. It is more than that, however. It is a painstaking and thorough reconstruction of a segment of our national past." S. L. McGee

+ Sat R of Lit 25:5 Ag 15 '42 550w

Wis Lib Bul 38:163 N '42

STERN, PHILIP VAN DOREN (PETER STORME, pseud), ed. Midnight reader; great stories of haunting and horror; with an introd. 564p $2.75 Holt

(W) 42-10680

Contents: The beckoning fair one, by Oliver Onions; The mezzotint, by M. R. James; Tarnhelm, by Sir Hugh Walpole; The willows, by Algernon Blackwood; August heat, by W. F. Harvey; The mark of the beast, by Rudyard Kipling; Couching at the door, by D. K. Broster; The familiar, by Sheridan Le Fanu; The upper berth, by F. M. Crawford; The tell-tale heart, by E. A. Poe; The yellow wall paper, by C. P. Gilman; Afterward, by Edith Wharton; Full fathom five, by Alexander Woolcott; The Millvale apparition, by Louis Adamic; The turn of the screw, by Henry James.

Booklist 38:347 My 15 '42

Reviewed by Will Cuppy

Books p18 Ap 12 '42 470w

New Repub 106:774 Je 1 '42 60w

New Yorker 18:75 Ap 18 '42 10w

"Good collection."

+ Sat R of Lit 25:39 My 16 '42 30w

Wis Lib Bul 38:138 O '42

STERNE, MRS EMMA (GELDERS). We live to be free. 298p $2 Farrar

321.8 Democracy

(W) 42-24181

Chapters recording the birth and growth of democracy from Solon, who abolished slavery in Athens in the year 594 B. C., down to the present day. The author defines democracy as "a way of living together, which men have devised so that they may be free." Index.

Booklist 39:144 D 15 '42

"History of an idea—the 'warrior idea' of freedom—written with the fire of intense conviction, looking into the past as part of a living present, Mrs. Sterne's book is at once a sign of the times and a hope for the future. It is for the age that has begun to think and is capable of doing so with feeling. It may be read before the facts of world history have been found at school, for the facts it presents are straight and so chosen as to lead straight toward today. If a few years ago it would have seemed a book beyond the purview of the teens, we [now] know better. The teens will soon be fighting." M. L. Becker

+ Books p12 N 22 '42 550w

"A genuine contribution for these difficult days and for preparation for the peace to come. . . Mrs. Sterne has written well and has included valuable quotations, giving a list of their sources." F. B. Sloan

+ Christian Science Monitor p12 N 19 '42 200w

"Thoughtful young people will be helped by this fine book to formulate their beliefs in this difficult time, when the democratic way of life is under vicious and unparalleled attack. Mrs. Sterne is ably fitted to make such an historical survey."

+ Horn Bk 19:42 Ja '43 90w

Reviewed by M. C. Scoggin

Library J 67:893 O 15 '42 40w

"This is weighty material for youth, but presented in very readable form, in a style which is electric with zeal and conviction, sometimes, it is true, overcharged and repetitious, but the whole should be a provocative and illuminating experience for the thoughtful reader in his teens." E. L. B.

+ N Y Times p46 N 15 '42 340w

School & Society 56:532 N 28 '42 120w

STEVENS, ALDEN. Arms and the people. 262p il $2.75 Harper

917.3 U.S.—Social conditions. World war, 1939—U.S. (W) 42-11484

A survey of America's defense and war efforts covering the period from 1940 to the early spring of 1942 and dealing with such topics as raising an army, change over in industry, boom towns, agriculture, etc. Some of the material has been previously published in Harper's, Survey Graphic, Nation, etc.

Booklist 38:383 Je 15 '42

"Alden Stevens here demonstrates that it is possible to write a book on America's war effort without being dull or pontifical. He manages to view the national defense program in terms of people rather than dollars and things." Joseph Driscoll

+ Books p20 Je 7 '42 650w

"Will appeal mainly to adult readers. Recommended." E. D. Hart

+ Library J 67:319 Ap 1 '42 70w

"'Arms and the People' is written in a popular style, but it is by no means superficial." D. W. Mitchell

+ Nation 155:244 S 19 '42 240w

"Thin in spots, and somewhat flaccid writing."

New Yorker 18:79 My 9 '42 130w

"Good as this book is, Mr. Stevens overlooked a few bets. . . I would have liked to see a chapter telling even more specifically how the war will affect certain groups, such as livestock farmers, loggers, school teachers. And surely the publisher owed a book as valuable as this an index. But these faults are minor. Mr. Stevens' book and 'This is Your War' by Marquis Childs do what countless other books and reams of government propaganda have failed to accomplish. They bring the war into the American home and onto the American farm. Any citizen who reads the chapter 'I See an America'—will realize that the abundance now making possible destroyers and rifles can some day be turned to washing machines and kitchen chairs." R. L. Neuberger

+ Survey G 31:297 Je '42 600w

STEVENS, MRS FRANCES MOYER (ROSS) (CHRISTOPHER HALE, pseud). Exit screaming. 277p $2 Doubleday

42-15003

Detective story.

Reviewed by Will Cuppy
Books p12 Je 21 '42 200w

Reviewed by Isaac Anderson
N Y Times p19 Je 21 '42 280w

"Begins well and speeds satisfactorily through series of exciting and amusing situations to end that super-critical may sniff at. Above average."

+ — Sat R of Lit 25:26 Jl 4 '42 40w

STEVENS, WALLACE. Parts of a world [poems]. 183p $2 Knopf

811

42-19844

"A collection of recent poems written since the publication of The Man with the Blue Guitar. The author . . . is concerned with the relation between the imagination and the world. The various poems are episodes of that relation. Taken together, they are intended to create for the reader a world which, while it is the world of the present time is also a realization thereof in the sense of poetry." Publisher's note

Reviewed by Elizabeth Drew
Atlantic 107:154 N '42 200w

"Once again Wallace Stevens, engaged during a time of total war with images 'filing the imagination's need,' has produced a book of cream out-of-this-world for poets. Always the independent master-musician, while a good many of his fellow practitioners joined the unions, he remains a craftsman holding the respect of all. He writes, too, of his craft—more so here than in former volumes." Ruth Lechlitner

+ Books p26 N 8 '42 950w

Reviewed by A. R. Eaton
Library J 67:738 S 1 '42 80w

Reviewed by Frank Jones
Nation 155:488 N 7 '42 850w

"Stevens has never specialized in intensity; the absence of it, in many of the other poems, combined with a growing rhetorical monotony, accounts for most of his failures. There are mobs and masses in his poetry that were never here before; and there is even one fairly long poem that gives evidence of being the outcome of a brief tête-à-tête with Marxism. And there are a few poems looking like ill-at-ease revivals of standard Stevens favorites, but they are not frequent. His distinguished place in American poetry has never been more secure." Weldon Kees

+ — New Repub 107:387 S 28 '42 950w

Reviewed by M. M. Colum
N Y Times p12 N 29 '42 600w

Reviewed by Louise Bogan
New Yorker 18:73 O 10 '42 650w

"Mr. Wallace Stevens is one of the few living poets who have constructed, each of them, a complete world for his imagination to inhabit. Minor men, half-poets, write out of more or less temporary adjustments between their personalities and their environments. Stevens writes from a unique, whole vision of life, that is revealed in Parts of a World. . . Often in the past fifteen years Wallace Stevens has been called the foremost living master of his art in America. The reader of this, his most deeply imagined work, may judge for himself the sense and the measure in which that is true." Hi Simons

+ Poetry 61:448 N '42 1200w

Reviewed by Louis Untermeyer
Sat R of Lit 25:11 D 19 '42 650w
Time 40:103 N 2 '42 330w

STEVENS, WILLIAM OLIVER. David Glasgow Farragut, our first admiral; il. by the author. 241p $2.50 Dodd

B or 92 Farragut, David Glasgow—Juvenile literature (W) 42-22435

Biography for young readers. "Our first admiral" began his sea career at the age of ten, fought in three wars—War of 1812, Mexican war, and Civil war—and was honored as a national hero before he died at the age of sixty-nine.

Booklist 39:124 D 1 '42

"There have been other lives of Farragut for young folks, but this covers more ground, offers more material elsewhere unused and reaches more readers." M. L. Becker

+ Books p8 O 18 '42 450w

Reviewed by M. C. Scoggin
Library J 67:895 O 15 '42 20w

Reviewed by Dorothea Dawson
Library J 68:39 Ja 1 '43 50w

STEVENSON, AUGUSTA. Andy Jackson, boy soldier; il. by Paul Laune. 196p $1.50 Bobbs

B or 92 Jackson, Andrew—Juvenile literature 42-18721

Story of the boyhood of Andy Jackson, his school days and fights, his adventures with Indians, his understanding of animals, and his rôle in the Revolution, which he took part in when a boy of thirteen.

Cath World 156:380 D '42 60w

"Told in narrative form, the style easy and informal. Type is large; paper rather soft. Silhouettes by Paul Laune. Recommended for boys and girls of nine to twelve." Emily Hutson

+ Library J 67:847 O 1 '42 60w

STEVENSON, AUGUSTA. George Washington, boy leader; il. by Lawrence Dresser. 184p $1.50 Bobbs

B or 92 Washington, George—Juvenile literature 42-21760

Simply written story of the boyhood of George Washington. For children nine to twelve.

Cath World 156:380 D '42 60w

"Recommended." M. N. Miller
+ Library J 67:911 O 15 '42 80w

STEVENSON, DOROTHY EMILY (MRS JAMES REID PEPLOE). Crooked Adam. 306p $2.50 Farrar

(W) 42-22720

Adam Southey, teacher in a boys' school, was called Crooked Adam because he was badly crippled, but the boys agreed that in truth he was "straight as a die." It irked Adam that while others fought he must teach, but the time came when, without thinking of his own safety, he was able to save his country from disaster.

Booklist 39:201 Ja 15 '43

"Miss Stevenson's plot ingredients include a tall and timely invention by Dr. Cooke, headmaster of Rockingham School, villains who want to get control of same, sabotage, a climax suitable to this year of grace and a pleasant flavoring of love, with what amounts to detection by Adam Southey, crippled teacher of heroic tendencies. . . There's a simplicity about it all that may be just what you need. As for Dr. Cooke's gadget, it is the sort that some experienced bafflers would hesitate to use in a story. In Miss Stevenson's hands it seems all right." Will Cuppy

+ Books p22 O 18 '42 150w

"Call it, if you like, and as the jacket does, a spy story but note that it has gained immeasurably by being, also, good D. E. Stevenson. Its action is rapid but never hectic. It has, throughout, a complete air of naturalness. The people in the book are all live people, enemy or not." J. S. Southron

+ N Y Times p49 N 15 '42 600w

STEVENSON, DOROTHY EMILY (MRS JAMES REID PEPLOE). Spring magic. 344p $2.50 Farrar

(W) 41-52074

Romance of a shy, retiring young English woman, who had spent the early years of her life in the home of a selfish aunt. At twenty-five something happened to change the course of her life—a bomb landed in the London square near her aunt's house. The aunt departed for the south of England, but Frances escaped to a quiet village on the coast of Scotland, where a new existence awaited her.

Booklist 38:177 Ja 15 '42

Books p12 Ja 25 '42 260w

"Definitely an adult story, but, though one officer plays Don Juan to the colonel's daughter, it is recommended as a light novel for girls." E. P. Nichols

Library J 67:226 Mr 1 '42 100w

"The humor is inherent in the characterization, illustrating, better than could dissertation or psychological analysis, the shrinking from 'heroics' that is so pronounced a feature of the national make-up. The all-pervading atmosphere that accompanies you whether you are with a famous regiment maneuvering in the Scottish Highlands, dog-fighting with raiding Nazis or helping to save a bomb-threatened factory in Hertfordshire, England, makes resort to either understatement or emphasis unnecessary. Individual characters and national characteristics emerge distinct and understandable. . . It is a story of modern, civilized life stripped to its essentials. A story that might easily have been sentimentalized—and spoiled, but is not." J. S. Southron
+ N Y Times p7 Ja 11 '42 800w

"The story will be enjoyed most if regarded as a frankly twopence-coloured romance which happens to have a contemporary setting rather than as an accurate picture of Britain to-day." Times [London] Lit Sup p173 Ap 4 '42 270w

STEVENSON, JOHN REESE. Chilean popular front. 155p $1.50 Univ. of Pa. press

983 Chile—Politics and government 42-36420

Short political history of Chile, from Spanish colony to democracy. The emphasis is on the organization and operation of the Popular Front and the beginning of Chilean liberalism. Bibliography. No index.

BookWst 39:200 Ja 15 '43

Reviewed by Josephine Hambleton

Canadian Forum 22:310 Ja '43 420w

"Mr. Stevenson's book gives us an excellent picture of the Popular Front in Chile and the period which followed with Juan Antonio Rios. Nevertheless it must be said that Mr. Stevenson is not always just in evaluating the work of the Church in Chile, a work which in the past few years especially has been more and more spiritual and detached from active politics." Clarence Finlayson

+ Commonweal 37:375 Ja 29 '43 1550w

"Gunter's Inside Latin America, Herring's Good Neighbors, and Hanson's Chile, Land of Progress provide more useful and readable material on Chile and give adequate coverage on political front." R. S. Alvarez

Library J 67:1012 N 15 '42 110w

"Here is a sober, serious, painstaking solid book. . . Since this reviewer has covered about the same ground at about the same time as the author, he is fully aware of the amount of labor which has gone into the little book. . . This reviewer believes, however, that the author is not altogether fair to Gustavo Ross, the Hjalmar Schacht of Chile, or to Carlos Ibanez, Chile's most dynamic politico, and he seems also to overestimate the impact of political parties on the economic development which led automatically to a visible improvement after the world depression of 1930 and after it had subsided." Karl Loewenstein

+ — Springf'd Republican p6 Ja 6 '42 750w

STEVENSON, ROBERT LOUIS. Child's garden of verses; il. by Pelagie Doane. [29p] $1 Garden City pub. co.

821

"Pelagie Doane has brought the 'Child's Garden' up to date by illustrating twenty-three favorite poems with gay pictures, in color, of children in modern dress." Library J

Booklist 39:54 O 15 '42

"Board covers and buckram back make it unsubstantial, but it is too attractive to forego." J. E. Wooster

+ — Library J 67:957 N 1 '42 70w

Wis Lib Bul 38:192 D '42

STEWART, ALFRED WALTER (J. J. CONNINGTON, pseud). No past is dead. 265p $2 Little [8s 6d Hodder]

42-15979

Detective story.

Reviewed by Will Cuppy

Books p12 Je 21 '42 180w

"Generally elaborate cast-iron alibis make dull reading, but this one is exceptional and I recommend the book for that alone." Ralph Partridge

New Statesman & Nation 23:393 Je 13 '42 50w

"Driffled proceeds slowly and carefully, taking nothing for granted until it is proved beyond all reasonable doubt. For this reason the story of his investigation is not for those who demand intuitive deduction or rapid-fire action. Those, on the other hand, who prefer really competent detective work and a logical solution will find it eminently satisfactory." Isaac Anderson

+ N Y Times p19 Je 21 '42 220w

"Some exciting scenes and detecting is well done but the family stuff is very long drawn out. Bit tedious."

+ — Sat R of Lit 25:16 Je 27 '42 40w

"There is something of the watchmaker in Mr. Connington. Anyone who wants to recapture the old delight of taking a clock to bits might succeed by trying to reduce the plot of 'No Past is Dead' to diagrams. . . Anyone who knows Mr. Connington will know beforehand how confidently he can fit piece to piece until a hopeless mess of details is a mechanism that ticks."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p261 My 23 '42 150w

STEWART, ANNA BIRD. Bibi, the baker's horse; il. by Catherine M. Richter. 191p $2 Lippincott

(W) 42-36331

Charming story for young readers. Bibi was a small Corsican horse, purchased at the annual horse fair by a baker from Avignon. Rosine, the baker's cheerful little wife trained Bibi and made him one of the family. When her husband could not resist a bargain and sold Bibi, Rosine connived to get the little horse back for good.

"If you have ever been in Avignon, this charming book will make you homesick, and if you never have, it will give you that curious homesickness we feel for places where we want to go." M. L. Becker

+ Books p22 N 15 '42 220w

Cath World 156:376 D '42 50w

Reviewed by H. L. Binsse

Commonweal 37:120 N 20 '42 20w

"Rich in atmosphere, it presents authentic picture of one of most romantic of Old World cities. For readers nine to eleven. Four lovely pages in color and numerous black-and-white drawings by Catherine Richter. Recommended." J. E. Sauer

+ Library J 67:741 S 1 '42 90w

Reviewed by P. D. Edie

Library J 67:889 O 15 '42 10w

"The color and simplicity of Provencal life, the beauty of the surrounding hills, and the charm of ancient Avignon are sensitively woven into a background of unusual interest, while the people themselves and the tempo of their days are recorded with imagination and clarity. The drawings and colored plates add to the authenticity of this gentle story for children 9 and over; one marked by a richness of family feeling in which Bibi shares on almost equal terms." Irene Smith

+ N Y Times p9 N 15 '42 260w

"A true and delightful story."

+ School & Society 56:152 Ag 22 '42 30w

STEWART, JOHN INNES MACKINTOSH
(MICHAEL INNES, pseud). Daffodil affair.
270p $2 Dodd

(W) 42-22452

Detective story.

Booklist 39:121 D 1 '42

"Says Superintendent Hudspeth to Inspector Appleby at a high spot of this remarkable tale: 'We're in a sort of hodgepodge of fantasy and harum-scarum adventure that isn't a proper detective story at all.' Be that as it may—and Hudspeth is probably too modest—the two New Scotland Yard experts are in a honey of a mystery, one that will grace any list of 1942 leaders, and maybe it's the best of all this author's uniformly first-class work." Will Cuppy

+ Books p25 O 4 '42 480w

Reviewed by Wilfrid Gibson

Manchester Guardian p3 O 23 '42 90w

New Statesman & Nation 24:377 D 5 '42 40w

"Like all the puzzlers by the author of 'Seven Suspects' and 'Hamlet, Revenge!' this latest opus is scintillating, shrewd and fearlessly and hilariously highbrow. But where his 'Lament for a Maker' was a brilliant mystery novel, this book, like 'Appleby on Ararat,' tends toward intellectualized farce. In other words, the plot dances off into the domain of the wacky, while the author delights his readers by conjuring tricks with gay colored balls of tireless wit." Kay Irvin

+ N Y Times p10 O 11 '42 280w

"Top-notch foolery. . . A pretty worthy runner-up to 'Appleby on Ararat.'"

+ New Yorker 18:80 S 26 '42 90w

"Amazing goings on in England and South America. Breaks all the rules, but is good writing and swell fun. For initiates."

+ Sat R of Lit 25:20 S 26 '42 30w

Time 40:104 O 5 '42 60w

"The 'Daffodil Affair' is an incoherent sandwich: alternate slabs of instruction and entertainment. Appleby is bad enough, but when he, as hero, converses with a villain as non-existent in terms of flesh and blood as himself, the intellectual strain keeps the cab-horse out of the picture. Appleby, alas! cannot die: he is not sufficiently alive."

— + Times [London] Lit Sup p537 O 31 '42 180w

STEWART, WATT, and PETERSON, HAROLD
F. Builders of Latin America. 304p il maps
$2.50; school ed 343p $1.68 Harper

920 Latin America—Biography. Latin America—History (W) 42-3126

"Subdivided into four parts, this volume embraces the four and a half centuries of Latin-American life, featuring somewhat in story form, the lives and contributions of five or six personalities of each stage of history. Part 1: Foundations; Part 2: Revolution; Part 3: Dictatorship; Part 4: Toward a Better Future." School & Society

Booklist 38:233 Mr 1 '42

"Occasionally the style is pedestrian. There are even several lapses from good taste. . . But the number of such lapses is small, while the occasionally sagging style does not prevent these colorful figures and stirring events from coming through as colorful and stirring. The reader will learn more of the sweep of Latin-American history and the nature of Latin-American moods and views from this book and have a better time at it than from many a more solid, scholarly and less readable history or series of histories of these twenty countries." E. D. Wolfe

+ — Books p20 N 8 '42 700w

"Many Americans are already familiar with a few of their selections: Cortés, Bolívar, Toussaint l'Ouverture, Diaz, Gomez, Cardenas. But the bulk of the characters depicted—some heroes, some rogues—will be strange to all but specialized students. . . The authors have done a sound, eclectic job in composition; and adults as well as secondary school pupils may read the results with profit." D. H. Popper

+ Sat R of Lit 25:5 F 7 '42 270w

School & Society 55:56 Ja 10 '42 50w

Reviewed by C. H. Schutter

School R 50:668 N '42 700w

"Builders of Latin America is a good and much needed start in the right direction." L. F. Ulrick

+ Social Educ 6:238 My '42 500w

"Now, that everything should be done to encourage and contribute to the teaching of Latin American history in the schools, this book will find a real need. It can, with minor reservations, be well recommended for use in high-school classes." Alfred Hasbrouck

+ Social Studies 33:187 Ap '42 300w

STIGERS, MARQUIS FAY, and REED, E. G.
Theory and practice of job rating. 154p $1.75
McGraw

658.511 Job analysis. Wages 42-23275

Study of the factual approach to job rating. Considers the fundamentals and philosophy underlying the subject; gives a scientific technique for actual evaluation work. Includes questionnaires, rating scales and charts. Index.

Booklist 39:65 N 1 '42

"Without doubt the book should be of interest to firms and individuals relatively new to the field of job analysis and evaluation in that it presents a somewhat new and intriguing point of view. Those already engaged in the work will find their present methods challenged." S. L. H. Burk

+ Management R 32:41 Ja '43 600w

STIGLER, GEORGE JOSEPH. Production and distribution theories; the formative period. 392p $3.50 Macmillan

338 Economics—History 41-6430

"A more accurate title might be either 'Modern Distribution Theories' or 'Marginal Productivity Analyses.' The following economists are treated in this order: Jevons, Wicksteed, Marshall, Edgeworth, Menger, von Wieser, von Böhm-Bawerk, Walras, Wickseil, and J. B. Clark. There is an introduction which clearly states the scope of the study. The concluding chapter on Euler's Theorem and the Marginal Productivity Theory points up the preceding discussion in the main body of the text." Ann Am Acad

"The treatment of the individual authors and their theories displays considerable familiarity with older doctrines and an intimate knowledge of the modern theoretical apparatus. There is nothing in the work of the writers whom he discusses that Dr. Stigler has not thoroughly mastered, and it can safely be said that he will not be caught out in any incorrect theoretical formulation. His treatment of the Austrians is particularly good, because it seems to be particularly sympathetic. Perhaps the rather strong idiosyncrasies of Dr. Stigler's teacher may, to some extent, be responsible for this fact. However, these chapters, particularly the one on Menger, exemplify a major weakness of this book. Too much attention is given to the general outline of the marginal utility or value theory of the authors. Even elementary students might have been assumed to be familiar with these theories. The result is that Dr. Stigler's interesting comments on production theory proper tend to get swamped through lack of emphasis." Eric Roll

STIGLER, G. J.—Continued

+ — Am Econ R 31:855 D '41 1100w

Reviewed by Wassily Leontief
 Am Econ R 31:857 D '41 700w

"This book makes a valuable contribution to scholarship and also takes a definite place as a text in its field. The only volume comparable to the one under review is Recent Economic Thought by Paul T. Homan." S. H. Patterson

+ Ann Am Acad 220:259 Mr '42 270w

Reviewed by Joseph Dorfman
 Pol Sci Q 57:468 S '42 260w

STILL, MRS DORRIS (SHELTON). Sue in Tibet; il. by William Arthur Smith. 169p $2 Day

42-11250

Sue Shelby, daughter of an American medical missionary and his wife, a trained nurse, is the heroine of this story of Tibet for young readers. Sue's gradual conquest of the Tibetans, some of whom distrusted the foreigners at first, ends with her triumph as intermediary in a dispute between Tibetans and Chinese, a mission intended for her father, but carried thru by the plucky child when her father had an accident. The author is the daughter of an American missionary, and spent the first seventeen years of her life in Tibet.

"An exceptionally interesting treatment of a subject new to most American children. . . There is enough in the personal history of the author to make the story convincing: till she was seventeen she lived in Tibet, and her father, a medical missionary, was sent as an envoy of peace." M. L. Becker

+ Books p7 My 24 '42 350w

"The book's value lies in the truthful depiction of a strange culture in the heart of a continent, now so conspicuously important to us." A. M. Jordan

+ Horn Bk 18:257 J1 '42 70w

"The freshness and vividness of the tale suggest a first-hand account, and indeed the author knows whereof she writes, for, a daughter of a medical missionary, she lived in Tibet and China until she was 17. Her father, who was much admired by the Tibetans, was asked by them to act as an envoy for peace and many of the experiences Mrs. Still describes were a part of her own childhood. . . This is a spirited, well-told story that girls from 10 to 14 will enjoy." A. T. Eaton

+ N Y Times p10 Ag 9 '42 600w

STINSON, ETHELYN LENORE. How to teach children music; pub. under the auspices of the Child research clinic of the Woods schools. 140p $1.50 Harper

780.72 Music—Instruction and study 41-19179

Account of the methods used in teaching music appreciation to "exceptional children" (mentally retarded or otherwise handicapped) at The Woods Schools, Langhorne, Pennsylvania. Bibliography. Index.

"Here is a well-organized course in music appreciation that should serve as a valuable guide to teachers of handicapped children. To some persons, however, the title of the book might be misleading. Teachers of exceptional children might be more readily attracted to the book if the title suggested the actual content, namely, a special music course for handicapped, retarded, or maladjusted children." Jessie Carter

El School J 42:395 Ja '42 700w

"Teachers of music and also parents who find it difficult to interest their children in this art should find the book suggestive."

J Home Econ 33:746 D '41 100w

STOKES, RICHARD LEROY. Benedict Arnold; a drama in heroic couplets. 137p $2 Putnam
 812 Arnold, Benedict—Drama 41-17544

The scene of this poetic drama is laid in London in 1801. Its thesis is that Arnold was not at heart a traitor but was led astray by his wife and members of her family who were working for the British cause.

"It is a technically skillful piece of work, of readable content, but its somewhat stilted form suggests school pageantry rather than theater." Pearl Strachan

Christian Science Monitor p10 N 8 '41 230w

"Richard Stokes in his 'Benedict Arnold' is to be praised for attempting something which, though by no means a success, is a courageous experiment. Any man who writes a play in verse today can be credited with courage. . . 'Benedict Arnold' is well worth reading, though one cannot see a theatre for it." M. M. Colum

+ N Y Times p5 Ap 12 '42 300w

"The story, whether or not historians accept it, makes good reading. Though the poetry is rather slow and rough as such in getting under way, it develops in power and in beauty as the plot progresses. Finally, when emotions call for longer speeches, especially by 'that headlong fatal man,' the lines reach, if not Shakespearean heights, at least a sweep and a majesty that are commanding." A. M. Jake-man

+ — Springf'd Republican p7e F 1 '42 330w

STOKLEY, JAMES. Science remakes our world. 299p il $3.50 Washburn

600 Technology. Chemistry, Technical (W) 42-50535

Report of "what is going on in the laboratories now, of what is on the horizon for all of us. It surveys almost the whole field of industrial research, where social power is marshaled, but does not venture far beyond the horizon where research in pure science prepares the distant future. It takes full account of the war's acceleration of many researches but does not dwell upon the war as such nor on military objectives of research. Rather, it details our conquests of the last five years over that persistent and insidious enemy of mankind—Nature. Much of the story has been told piecemeal before. The mere listing of the topics is not exciting; explosives, fuels, plastics, textiles, rubber, agriculture, medicines, vitamins, metals, glass, aviation, electronics, radio, light, photography, television, atom-smashing—all sources of power. But in each of these misconceptions and half-knowledge are common while books about them are often technical and puzzling or else too full of marvels and magic." (Books) Index.

Booklist 39:220 F 1 '43

"'Science Remakes Our World' is a simple, clear, comprehensive report. . . Mr. Stokley's discussion is balanced and authoritative, lucid and stimulating. It neatly lives up to its title with a social, not a technical or propaganda point of view. . . [It] is timely because interest in science is perhaps at its peak now." Gerald Wendt

+ Books p4 D 13 '42 850w

"Well illustrated and very readable. Mr. Stokley is a member of the Research Laboratory of General Electric, Schenectady. Recommended for all libraries." J. B. Fogg

+ Library J 67:909 O 15 '42 50w

"Lots of information, but the writing is fairly humdrum. Good photographs."

+ — New Yorker 18:60 D 26 '42 30w

Reviewed by A. H. Compton & others
 Scientific Bk Club R 13:1 N '42 1000w
 Springf'd Republican p7e Ja 31 '43 900w

STOLPER, GUSTAV. This age of fable; the political and economic world we live in. 369p $3 Reynal

330.9 Economic conditions. Europe—Politics (W) 42-2144

For descriptive note see Annual for 1941.

"As there are very few pieces of equipment in our ideological arsenal which are acceptable to him, the number of fables which Dr. Stolper is anxious to refute is almost legion. An amazing variety of subjects are treated in rather pompously written, but highly entertaining chapters, so entertaining, indeed, that to the uncritical reader they may disguise a host of fallacies, misrepresentations, and superficial half-truths potentially more dangerous than all the fables which Dr. Stolper desires to destroy." P. A. Baran

— + Am Econ R 32:374 Je '42 1900w

"The net result is not the destruction of 'fables' but the irrelevant repetition of the word 'fable' without a real clarification either of words or of ideas. This volume is not worthy of Mr. Stolper's well-known erudition and ability." C. E. Merriam

— Am J Soc 48:292 S '42 130w

"The reader who goes through this book will have been led, and frequently irritated, into doing a good deal of thinking for himself." H. W. Stoke

Am Pol Sci R 36:800 Ag '42 230w

"This is an extremely uneven book. There are some passages which are brilliantly written, notably those on Britain's 'degeneracy' and on 'decadent democracy and efficient dictatorship.' In such passages the author is provocative, challenging, and stimulating. However, elsewhere there is much that is open to question. . . . It is to be regretted that Mr. Stolper sees fit to deride opposing viewpoints by the use of a kind of top-sergeant dogmatism. . . . A little more scholarly humility would seem to be in order." L. L. Snyder

— + Ann Am Acad 221:195 My '42 550w

Booklist 38:205 F 15 '42

"This study, although hasty and confused, offers many interesting avenues of thought. There is a good index." J. F. Thorning

Cath World 155:122 Ap '42 550w

"This is, in fact, a book quite extraordinary in its blend of naïveté and disingenuousness, of penetration and prejudice, of wide scope and incompleteness. The debaters' points to be made against Dr. Stolper would fill pages, but he has partly safeguarded himself against these with the disclaimer to scientific standards offered in his Preface. However, a legitimate first approximation is one thing; the deliberate omission of evidence bearing on that approximation—necessarily deliberate, for the evidence is contained in the very authorities, sometimes the very pages, which he cites—is quite another." H. C.

— + Christian Science Monitor p18 F 16 '42 400w

Reviewed by R. G. Woolbert

Foreign Affairs 20:771 Jl '42 60w

"Mr. Stolper evidently is a social homeopathist who thinks he can cure one set of 'fables' by a dose of far bigger ones. Our liberals who think that by their praise of his book they are announcing their emancipation are likely to find their effort a boomerang." D. W. Petegorsky

— New Repub 106:209 F 9 '42 1100w

Pratt p20 D '42

"The author writes simply and clearly. His critique gains strength from the fact that he does not argue much but instead cites facts. He has made a convincing case worthy of serious consideration. I have no doubt that some people will accuse Dr. Stolper of being a reactionary. Personally, I shall be inclined to class this opinion as another one of the fables of our age." Theodore Abel

+ Survey G 31:217 Ap '42 500w

STOLPER, JOEL. Hippo; il. by [the author]. 107p $1.75 Harcourt

(W) 42-21765

Story of a hippopotamus, tracing his adventures from the time he was a baby, weighing only forty pounds, thru the period of his youth, until he was full grown. Grades three to five.

Booklist 39:36 O 1 '42

"This is third in a series of realistic studies of baby animals in the wild, the others being a baby giraffe and a leopard kitten; type is large, and words simple enough to be read by children at the age that loves to hear about other animals besides those at home." M. L. Becker

Books p9 O 25 '42 250w

Churchman 156:15 N 15 '42 20w

"Recommended." D. M. MacDonald

+ Library J 67:741 S 1 '42 70w

Wis Lib Bul 38:189 D '42

STONE, CAROLINE R. Inga of Porcupine mine; il. by Ellen Simon. 212p $2 Holiday 42-24037

Inga's mother was Finnish, her father Cornish, and they lived and worked in the iron ore region of northern Michigan. Altho Inga was only in seventh grade her ambition was to earn money for art school tuition. When her ambition was realized, Inga unselfishly gave up her money for a more important cause. Grades five to seven.

Booklist 39:108 N 15 '42

Cath World 156:378 D '42 30w

Reviewed by P. D. Edie

Library J 67:891 O 15 '42 20w

"One of the most appealing stories for girls to appear this year." S. J. Johnson

+ Library J 67:957 N 1 '42 90w

"This is a simple story, filled with the homely things which one remembers through the years. It is not quite so well developed as it might have been in more practiced hands, but it is warm with a feeling of real life and kindly, hard-working people. You can see the latter well characterized in Ellen Simon's pleasing, brisk line drawings." E. L. Buell

+ N Y Times p10 N 29 '42 280w

STONE, MRS GRACE (ZARING) (ETHEL VANCE, pseud). Reprisal. 334p $2.50 Little (W) 42-36381

Psychological study of the reactions of the people of a little Breton village during the Nazi occupation. A German soldier is murdered and twenty hostages are to be shot unless the murderer confesses. André Galle, former socialist minister is appealed to because of his connection with Vichy. He in turn sends for Edouard Schneider, opportunist, once secretary to Galle, now high up in Vichy. Françoise, Galle's gallant young daughter, attempts to keep an even keel during the heartbreaking interval, during which her younger brother is suspected, and finally escapes to England.

Appeared on Best Seller list in: Books (8) N Y Times (6) RB (1)

"Ethel Vance has written another exciting and absorbing novel of enslaved Europe; and it is a better book than Escape." Katherine Woods

+ Atlantic 170:136 D '42 850w

Booklist 39:122 D 1 '42

"Those who were held by the excellent story and superb quality of 'Escape' will find 'Reprisal' a worthy successor. . . . In many ways 'Reprisal' is a better book than 'Escape'. For, in the latter, one was held mainly by the suspense of following the efforts of a son to bring his mother out of Germany. Here, though the identity of the Frenchman who murdered a petty German officer on a dark country road in Brittany is of primary importance to the plot, it is secondary to Mrs. Stone's fine portrayal of France in chains. . . . It is good story, good drama, completely in keeping with the characters, completely in keeping with the resurgent spirit of France." Rose Feld

+ Books p5 N 22 '42 1450w

STONE, G. Z.—Continued

"A cool, ironic story; and one of haunting overtones."

Cath World 156:633 F '43 220w

"A mature and thoughtful book, marred, perhaps, by the way in which each character is made to represent a different political and social point of view, and by Miss Vance's flashback method of narration, but none the less a subtle footnote to one of the tragic chapters of modern history."

+ Nation 155:692 D 19 '42 240w

"The story of 'Reprisal' unfolds with something of the mounting suspense of a murder mystery, while the conflict of wills is worked out at Rusquec and the hour of the execution draws nearer. This is its source of dramatic strength. In the reverse of the medal unfortunately there is a source of artistic weakness. The story is so tightly planned and written, so stripped of all but necessary elements, that each of its handful of characters tends to seem less an individual than a representative of a political attitude."

Margaret Wallace

+ N Y Times p7 N 22 '42 850w

"Although the story is tense, it is at the same time a lucid psychological study of six people, each isolated by his own reactions to the violent episode of the reprisal and by his own concept of human freedom. Using the pattern of the thriller, Miss Vance manages to make, in admirable prose, a valuable statement about the French mind and character."

+ New Yorker 13:96 N 21 '42 90w

"Quality is a word that has been much used and often abused, but there is scarcely a term better suited to the kind of writing Miss Vance gives us. 'Reprisal' is not merely a highly satisfactory novel on a topical theme. It reveals throughout the beauty, clarity, and precision of the mind of its creator, and those who love seeing a fine intelligence working hand in hand with a genuine creative gift are bound to relish this book." Bess Jones

+ Sat R of Lit 26:6 Ja 16 '43 650w

Time 40:104 N 16 '42 1000w

"A couple of years ago Ethel Vance . . . wrote an able and successful thriller, Escape. This year she has given us another story of the Nazis and their victims with as promising a title—Reprisal. But it doesn't live up to the promise. An air of futility and aimlessness hangs over it, and while this may represent the acts and feelings of French people living under the terror she describes, it does not make nearly as good a yarn as The Seventh Cross, or Hostages—or Escape." Robert Littell

+ Yale R n s 32:vi winter '43 140w

STONE, WILLIAM S. Thunder island; il. by Mordvinoff. 195p $2 Knopf

(W) 42-3784

A South Sea island story for young readers. In the telling of the story of thirteen-year-old Marahiti and his sister the island life is described. The coming of a great typhoon leaves destruction in its wake, but proves Marahiti's right to the status of tane-man. For ages ten to twelve. Glossary.

Booklist 38:386 Je 15 '42

Reviewed by F. B. Sloan

Christian Science Monitor p10 Je 29 '42 160w

"American brothers and sisters will feel akin to these two close comrades, who live on one of the Pacific isles, so often in the news today, for they are real and convincing. Interesting line drawings, obviously made from first-hand knowledge, give glimpses of a simple primitive society surrounded by the palms and the sea." A. M. Jordan

+ Horn Bk M 18:180 My '42 100w

"One incident might well have been modified for young readers: underseas fight between Marahiti and chief's son, too desperate a struggle for boys. Nicholas Mordvinoff's imaginative illustrations show authentic South Seas through Russian eyes." Janet Acheson

Library J 67:477 My 15 '42 100w

Reviewed by P. D. Edie

Library J 67:889 O 15 '42 10w

"You will not find Thunder Island on the map of the South Seas, but it is entirely unnecessary to know the name which white men have given it to enjoy this story of native life in all its freshness, as yet unscarred by the ugly claws of war. . . This is a moving story, one which quickens the imagination. . . There are humor and drama, too, and although the quality of Mordvinoff's illustrations is uneven, they are, at their best, arresting and pleasing." E. L. Buell

+ N Y Times p8 My 10 '42 380w

"Tale of first quality and almost certain to please eight- to twelve-year-old readers. . . The illustrations in bright color and pen-and-ink are unusual, combining style, humor, and beauty."

+ New Yorker 18:75 My 23 '42 80w

Wis Lib Bul 38:165 N '42

STONG, PHILIP DUFFIELD. Iron Mountain. 310p $2.50 Farrar

42-213

Lively tale of life in a Minnesota mining town, where Balkan and Scandinavian miners make difficulties for "Horse" Sturges, the American engineer, and his chief, Marta and Waino, the Finnish boarding-house keepers, were gentle and calm, and so was Lucia, their lovely Italian waitress. But Ekaterine, Marta's beautiful niece, proved to be a Finnish edition of Helen of Troy, and her advent started a train of events, some of which ended tragically.

"Mr. Stong tells his story with vigor and humor. Few authors there are who give the impression, as he does, that writing is a joyous job. His pages glow with love of people, his characters with warmth and laughter and a wholesome vulgarity. He is respectful of men's so-called weaknesses—and that includes a respect for women's rights and privileges in the world of men, as well. The only place where intolerance creeps in—and that is unfortunate—is in his diatribe, put into the mouth of Sturges, about the inferiority of non-Nordic immigrant stock." Rose Feld

+ Books p5 Ja 4 '42 800w

"Here is Mr. Stong at his wittiest, which is to say his worst."

New Repub 106:158 F 2 '42 50w

"The romance of it is skin deep only, but the crisp characterizations of these men and women are original and lively work. They are excellently and briefly done. The mining camp picture is well done, too. Its casual glimpses of the swamp near the mine dump, the restaurants that sell prohibited liquor fresh from Canada, the fights that brew when the men have too much time on their hands in the slack season, the first blizzard that heralds the long Minnesota Winter, the estimates (through the powderman's eyes) of the qualities of the various nationals—this is all mighty interesting stuff." Beatrice Sherman

+ N Y Times p7 Ja 11 '42 850w

"Mr Stong at his humorous best. . . Mr. Stong excels at the racy, warm-hearted, Paul Bunyanish atmosphere generated by a situation of this sort."

+ New Yorker 17:58 Ja 10 '42 110w

Reviewed by Robert Littell

Yale R n s 31:xii spring '42 40w

STONG, PHILIP DUFFIELD. One destiny. 313p $2.50 Reynal

(W) 42-24773

A story of an American family living in Pittsville, Iowa,—of how they heard the incredible news of December 7th, and of how each took up his task in his country's fight.

Reviewed by Wilson Follett

Atlantic 171:142 Ja '43 220w

Booklist 39:122 D 1 '42

"The story rambles amiably along, always in a mood of irreproachable patriotism, to its indeterminate conclusion. Yet it is a curiously exasperating book. For in spite of Mr. Stong's obvious intention to tell us how Iowa's salt of the earth are taking the war, he compromises his intention on every page. For Mr. Stong is down with an acute and virulent case of Sprightly Dialogue. It doesn't matter who's doing the talking . . . one and all, they are afflicted with an irrepressible archness and facetiousness of speech." Philip Wagner

— + Books p8 D 20 '42 650w

"Even though a few events are much too theatrical, the novel remains an earthy and exciting narrative. Recommended." H. G. Kelley

+ Library J 67:1013 N 15 '42 70w

"Even if Mr. Stong is at times somewhat inclined to supplement the natural lighting of 'State Fair' with the Kleig lights of Hollywood, 'One Destiny' still remains a heart-warming and genuinely entertaining story, with a serious message of faith in the American people and our democratic way of life." Edwin Seaver

+ — N Y Times p48 N 15 '42 950w

"Everybody does his duty and is very cheerful about it, but somehow it all makes you feel just too comfortable and cozy about the war."

New Yorker 18:78 N 14 '42 70w

"If the reviewer should define the theme it could only sound mawkish, which would be base libel as applied to 'One Destiny.' Let the reader discover for himself and be grateful for the crisp heartening wind from the West that ruffles the pages of this satisfying novel."

+ Springf'd Republican p7e N 15 '42 440w

STONG, PHILIP DUFFIELD. Way down cellar; pictures by Kurt Wiese. 159p $2 Dodd (W) 42-12310

Lafayette, Connecticut, is the scene of this book for boys, in which a group of eleven and twelve year olds discover the secret of a Revolutionary "priest's hole" in an old church, and use it for their own amusement and the town's consternation.

Booklist 38:373 Je 1 '42

"The book is a permanent investment, for a boy who laughs over it at twelve may still chuckle over it a long time from now. Indeed, in its understanding of small-town boy nature and the secret pride of fathers in the lawlessness of their sons, it reminds me of Judge Shute's 'Puppy,' which is saying something."

+ Books p18 My 10 '42 350w

"Typically American and hilariously funny story. . . Kurt Wiese illustrated this corking good story." D. M. MacDonald

+ Library J 67:477 My 15 '42 60w

"A rollicking tale." P. D. Edie

Library J 67:891 O 15 '42 10w

"If the hilarity seems not quite so spontaneous, a little more forced, than in the best of this book's predecessors, no one is going to cavil over a question of degree once he starts down the cellar hole with the three Cainraisers. For good measure there are, of course, Kurt Wiese's illustrations to help visualize the commotion they caused." E. L. Buell

+ N Y Times p8 My 10 '42 340w

STORK, CHARLES WHARTON, tr. Anthology of Norwegian lyrics; with an introd. by C. J. Hambro. 153p $2.75 Am.-Scandinavian foundation; Princeton univ. press

839.821 Norwegian poetry—Translations into English 42-50231

"A collection of Norwegian lyrics covering a period well over a hundred years from Johan Welhaven and Henrik Wergeland, the founders of modern Norwegian poetry, to contemporary lyricists who witnessed the invasion of their country. Predominantly nature poetry, it is well within the lyrical tradition of Goethe and Heine; but though it follows the main stream of European Romanticism it is curiously free of tributary influences by way of Symbolism or Imagist verse. Well known writers—Ibsen, Björnson, Knut Hamsun—as well as lesser poets are represented." New Repub

"Mr. Stork's warm feeling and his technical skill in versification go far toward achieving the impossible result of expressing both the substance and the spirit of a body of poetry in a language other than that of its authors. These lyrics help us to know the hearts and minds of a people whom we all admire."

+ Christian Century 59:1459 N 25 '42 100w

"The reader who has only the vaguest ideas of the quality of Norwegian verse will do some uneasy wondering, one suspects, as to whether the originals are quite as prettily versy as Dr. Stork makes them sound. Even if it runs up the cost, the originals should be printed, in this kind of collection, on the facing pages; the method is hard on the reader, and harder on the translator, but in the long run fairer to the original."

Nation 156:139 Ja 23 '43 240w

"As far as anyone unfamiliar with the originals can judge, the translations are excellent, the poems retaining their native meters and emerging into English with the quality of freshness and beauty intact."

+ New Repub 107:802 D 14 '42 120w

STORY PARADE [gold book] a collection of modern stories for boys and girls; introd. by Armstrong Sperry. 399p il $2 Winston

Children's literature—Collections 41-22365

Collection of short stories for boys and girls, chosen from those published in Story Parade during the past year.

"One of the features of these collections is that they do not stoop to conquer. Another is that the book is printed so well that no strain falls on the eye. Another is that it lies open easily so that a double picture has its rights, and a story can be read while eating apples or even two-handed refreshments." M. L. Becker

+ Books p8 Ap 5 '42 170w

"Will prove a boon to the parents and teachers searching for material to read aloud which can be finished at one sitting. Work of outstanding authors and illustrators is presented. . . An abundance of stories for all ages is included." Miriam Snow

+ Library J 66:1096 D 15 '41 120w

STOUT, REX. Black orchids [and Cordially invited to meet death] a Nero Wolfe double mystery. 271p $2 Farrar

(W) 42-11451

Two detective stories.

Booklist 38:427 Jl 1 '42

Reviewed by Will Cuppy

Books p13 My 24 '42 330w

"Here are two Nero Wolfe stories for the price of one, and if that isn't a bargain you never saw one. To be sure, the separate stories are not as usual, but that merely proves that Rex Stout is as much at home in the shorter form as he is in the longer." Isaac Anderson

+ N Y Times p21 My 24 '42 200w

"Well-written light entertainment."

+ New Yorker 18:68 My 30 '42 60w

"First-class entertainment."

+ Time 39:84 Je 1 '42 60w

STOUT, REX, ed. Illustrious dunderheads; with an introd. by Frank Sullivan; il. by William Gropper. 193p $1.75 Knopf

328.73 U.S. Congress, U.S.—Foreign relations, Propaganda 42-22401

"A record of what our isolationist senators and representatives said before Pearl Harbor—and of how they voted." New Yorker

Booklist 39:96 N 15 '42

STOUT, REX—Continued

"Mr. Stout should be congratulated for having placed a real weapon at the disposal of the politically literate." James Loeb Jr.

+ New Repub 107:553 O 26 '42 550w

New Yorker 18:75 O 10 '42 70w

Springf'd Republican p7e D 20 '42 110w

STRACK, MRS LILIAN (HOLMES). Aluminum, a magic mineral, 56p il $1 Harper

669.7 Aluminum—Juvenile literature

(W) 42-23190

"A fourth book in the series about important minerals used in today's vital industries. Uniform in style and format with the three earlier books about asbestos, nickel, and radium [Book Review Digest, 1941]. Simple and useful. Grades 5-8." (Booklist) Index.

Booklist 39:109 N 15 '42

"Subject is timely and book more useful, if anything, than the others." J. L. Sauer

+ Library J 67:1014 N 15 '42 50w

STRAIN, MRS FRANCES (BRUCE). Sex guidance in family life education; a handbook for the schools. 340p $2.25 Macmillan

176 Sex instruction 42-15712

"Discussing techniques for dealing with questions arising naturally in the minds of boys and girls on each age level, [the author] describes the need, value, and procedures of providing for personal counselling with youth. . . . She also stresses the importance of providing a simple and dignified sex vocabulary with which to replace the vulgar terminology of the street or schoolyard. The book ends with an excellent classified bibliography." Survey

Reviewed by S. M. Gruenberg

Am J Pub Health 32:1173 O '42 320w

Booklist 39:2 S '42

"The book should prove of value to all grade and high school teachers. . . . In tone the book is friendly, warm, and entirely human." Florence Justin

+ J Home Econ 35:112 F '43 130w

"This book is a 'must' for social workers, public health nurses, all workers with children and youth, as well as for teachers and parents." V. H. Parker

+ Survey 78:253 S '42 400w

STRAIN, HAROLD HENRY. Chromatographic adsorption analysis. (Chemical analysis, v2) 222p il $3.75 Interscience

544.9 Chromatographic analysis 41-27691

"Chromatography involves the selective adsorption of constituents from a solution which is passed through a column filled with a suitable adsorbent. In the past ten years, extensive use has been made of chromatographic adsorption analysis for the detection, isolation, and purification of organic substances which could not be separated easily by other methods. . . . The book contains nine chapters: Historical Introduction; Application of Chromatographic Adsorption Methods; Apparatus and Procedure; Adsorbents; Solvents and Eluants; Location of Colorless Adsorbed Substances; Chromatography of Inorganic Compounds; Chromatography of Organic Compounds; Industrial Uses. A bibliography covering forty pages and an author and a subject index are given at the end of the book." J Phys Chem

"This simply written volume is a useful addition to the literature of chromatography. The author wisely does not attempt the encyclopedic treatment so well given the field already by Zechmeister and Chohnoky. Instead he has produced an easily read and up-to-date book which has, in addition to these desirable features, one chapter which should be particularly useful to those employing the method. This chapter deals with the properties of various adsorbents and contains much information on the useful adsorbents which may be obtained in this country." H. G. Cassidy

+ Am Chem Soc J 64:1013 Ap '42 330w

"This monograph undoubtedly deserves a place in all laboratories in which natural products and other organic compounds are separated and isolated. The reviewer does not expect that chromatography will play an important rôle in inorganic analysis." I. M. Kolthoff

J Phys Chem 46:606 My '42 250w

"Strain has accomplished his task with remarkable skill. The book is clearly written and presents the practical aspects in a thorough manner. A very extensive bibliography is appended. This book should be on the shelf of any organic chemical laboratory, and the inorganic and physical chemist as well as the physicist may use it to their advantage." Maximilian Ehrenstein

+ R of Scientific Instruments 13:170 Ap '42 650w

STRANATHAN, JAMES DOCKING. Particles of modern physics. 571p il $4 Blakiston

539.1 Nuclear physics. Radiation 42-15568

"A good house is built out of many bricks, not only many in number but also manifold in regard to size and shape. The great building which we call Physics is also built out of many 'bricks' differing in size, shape, weight and structure. Dr. J. D. Stranathan of the University of Kansas has undertaken the difficult task to render an account of the state of knowledge of these different species of 'bricks' in his 'Particles of Modern Physics.' The book is divided into 14 chapters which contain the following subject matter: gaseous ions, the electron, the electrical discharge, cathode rays, positive rays and isotopes, photons, X-rays, α -, β - and γ -rays, the positron, the neutron, atomic nuclei, cosmic rays, the mesotron, and particles or waves." Chem & Met Eng

"The book is wholeheartedly recommended to anybody who wishes to acquaint himself with atomistics and wants to keep abreast with the rapid development of the last decades." E. H. Nachod

+ Chem & Met Eng 49:188 N '42 250w

"Dr. Stranathan has a new idea in using the 'particles' of modern physics as his guiding theme, and he is to be complimented on his industry and patience in collecting, organizing, and documenting the tremendous amount of factual material contained in this new publication. . . . In several respects, Dr. Stranathan's book is more detailed and more complete than most, a feature which will make it extremely useful to the teacher in a college where library facilities are inadequate, but which, in the reviewer's opinion, may make it hard reading for a student who has just completed sophomore physics. It ranks high among the textbooks now available, and will undoubtedly be given the highest rating by many professors." T. H. Osgood

+ R of Scientific Instruments 13:447 O '42 900w

STRANG, RUTH MAY. Group activities in college and secondary school. 361p $4 Harper

371.8 Student activities 41-22414

"A source book of techniques and procedures by which schools and colleges may step up 'their accepted responsibility for making democracy mean what it says.' The writer 'brings together . . . all that scattered literature and research offer on how to initiate, finance, supervise and coordinate extracurricular group activities,' and considers 'their crucial value as training grounds for democratic action.'" (School & Society) Indexes.

J Home Econ 34:386 Je '42 40w

School & Society 54:312 O 11 '41 60w

"Although this book deals primarily with descriptions of procedures, it does not impress the reader as being unduly encyclopedic in character. Miss Strang has successfully avoided the danger of presenting a catalogue. By reason of her organization and handling of material, she leaves the impression that the reader's attention has been drawn to certain historical aspects of student activities, to an account of the philosophy and values of these activities, as well as to an unfolding of the most notable procedures employed. The method of presentation with its emphasis on fundamentals, stimulates the reader to think about basic concepts. . . Noticeable deficiencies in Miss Strang's presentation are inherent primarily in the failure of the underlying literature to supply information to the author." J. A. Humphreys

+ School R 50:147 F '42 1000w

Reviewed by Leah Boddie
Survey 78:31 Ja '42 360w

STRANG, RUTH MAY, and SMILEY, DEAN FRANKLIN. The role of the teacher in health education. 359p il $2 Macmillan
613.07 Hygiene—Study and teaching 41-17409

"Each teacher is a teacher of healthful living." This idea, voiced in the Foreword, served as the central concept around which the authors wrote. In order that each teacher be an effective teacher of health it is necessary that he: (1) know the conditions which make healthful living possible; (2) understand human growth and development; (3) possess considerable health knowledge; (4) be able to guide children in wholesome living. Toward a realization of these ends the book is directed." School & Society

"In a field where the literature is voluminous and studies are plentiful, this book still succeeds in making a definite contribution. It is packed with facts, practical suggestions, and logical formulas that cannot be other than helpful to those responsible for health education. It will prove a ready reference at all times. . . No attempt has been made to attract attention by startling comparisons or catastrophic predictions. The book proceeds logically and inexorably to announced goals. Its style is direct, methodical, preceptive, and sometimes arbitrary." V. L. Beggs
+ El School J 42:392 Ja '42 750w

J Home Econ 34:386 Je '42 100w

"The book should prove to be of value to teachers in service as a handbook and to prospective teachers as a text. Administrators and teachers alike will welcome its specific and practical suggestions, its numerous descriptions of practices in other schools and especially its intensive treatment of coordination—internal and external." G. W. Donaldson
+ School & Society 55:160 F 7 '42 400w

STRATFORD, WILLIAM DAVID. Some restrictions and limitations to the free interstate movement of teachers. 248p $2.65 Teachers college

371.13 Teachers 42-18993

"This survey of 542 communities in the 48 states approaches the problem of the barriers to the interstate mobility of teachers from the point of view of sociological factors and administrative personnel." (School & Society) Bibliography. No index.

School & Society 55:736 Je 27 '42 40w

"Those interested in teacher training, placement of teachers, and school administration will find in this volume worth-while material. The data made available by this investigation are significant because they supply the answers to many lively current questions." R. C. Woellner
+ School R 50:731 D '42 450w

STRAUSS, MRS PATRICIA (O'FLYNN). Cripps: advocate extraordinary. 433p il $3 Duell

B or 92 Cripps, Sir Stafford (W)

"The author of this biography is the wife of G. R. Strauss, Labor member of Parliament from Lambeth, a slum district of London. Mrs Strauss for many years has been a colleague of Cripps in the Labor party and is also a personal friend, so her book is somewhat more of an accolade than a critical study despite its thoroughness in following Sir Stafford's remarkable career." Springfield Republican

Booklist 39:183 Ja 1 '43

"The biography, especially in its latter part, is a trifle dry; it fails to make Cripps a dramatic or exciting figure, but it does show him clearly as a man of unusual intellectual powers, as well as an English gentleman in whom a winning personality is combined with great sincerity, moral courage and conviction. 'He will always,' the author believes, 'remain a public man of high integrity and rare ability.' That he will become one of the historic leaders of the British people is perhaps even more doubtful now than when the book was written." Walter Mills

+ — Books p7 D 13 '42 1400w

"The chief merit of this book is that it tells people of what they want to know. We are escorted into a shrine of socialism where Mrs. Strauss as a priestess of the proletariat chants the refrain, 'Looking to Cripps,' the one remaining 'hope of the people.' Clouds of incense somewhat obscure the vision, but, amid the fragrance, the idol on his pedestal proves to be quite a person." P. W. Wilson

+ N Y Times p8 Ja 17 '43 1500w

"Despite a tendency toward over-adulation, Mrs. Strauss has done a first-rate job of explaining to Americans the English political phenomenon that is Sir Stafford Cripps." I. D. W. Talmadge

+ — Sat R of Lit 26:7 Ja 30 '43 850w

Springf'd Republican p7e D 20 '42 700w
Time 40:74 D 28 '42 1700w

STRAUSZ-HUPE, ROBERT. Geopolitics; the struggle for space and power. 274p maps $2.75 Putnam

341 International law and relations. Geography (W) 42-16096

"Geopolitics, with its idiomatic variations in several languages, is a word symbol that has been familiar for some twenty years to political scientists and geographers in many countries. . . This book . . . traces with keen insight the trend of thought from Mahan and Mackinder through Homer Lea and Ratzel to Haushofer and the Munich Work-Group for Geopolitik. It analyzes with scornful accuracy the perversions and euphemisms of the pseudo-scientists whose hokum has so profoundly affected the welfare of all mankind. It drives home the bitter truth that had the statements of the Haushofer school been read and their conclusions taken to heart—as the Nazis read and took to heart the doctrines of British and American strategists—the Allies would have been equipped for the outbreak of the war with a blue-print of Axis grand strategy." But beyond its revelation of the fundamental nature of the Nazi program . . . this book is particularly useful as a contribution to an understanding of the new geographic factors that will necessarily have much to do with the shaping of the pattern of the post-war world." Scientific Bk Club R

"It is founded on a sufficiently thorough and wide acquaintance with the sources, it shows an intelligent understanding of personalities and methods, it is well organized and well written. It should be very widely read by all who have at heart the survival of the United States in the present struggle for world domination. It does not tell, of course, the whole story." Hans Kohn

+ — Ann Am Acad 223:207 S '42 140w

Booklist 39:3 S '42

Bookmark 4:6 N '42

"The subject is a serious, if not a scientific, one, and Strausz-Hupe has written a serious, if not a scientific, book. 'Geopolitics' is not what used to be called hammock-and-bonbon reading. It is, though, simply and clearly organized and written and altogether an excellent introduction to the subject." W. R. Deuel

+ Books p16 Jl 19 '42 1100w

"Mr. Strausz-Hupé did an excellent job when he reduced geopolitical verbosity and vagueness to short and precise sentences. Now everyone can see for himself to what primitive way of thinking the spiritual leaders of Germany relapsed, a fact that was skilfully screened by their use of a pseudo-scientific terminology." E. S. P.

STRAUSZ-HUPE, ROBERT—Continued

+ Christian Science Monitor p18 Ag 12 '42 430w

Cleveland Open Shelf p13 Jl '42

Current Hist 2:464 Ag '42 700w

Reviewed by G. A. Borgese
Nation 155:206 S 12 '42 3100w

"The reading of this book, abounding in material and a wealth of problems, is made easier by the author's perfect knowledge of the subject. The brilliance of the presentation shows no sign of effort." Milos Safranek

+ N Y Times p4 Jl 26 '42 1950w
New Yorker 18:67 Je 20 '42 110w

Reviewed by N. J. Spykman
Pol Sci Q 57:593 D '42 1000w

Pratt p20 D '42

Scientific Bk Club R 13:3 Jl '42 420w

"This reviewer admits the unusual fact that he was forced to stop reading Geopolitics on page 125: the remainder of the book cannot be good enough to excuse even the introduction to the volume. May gentle oblivion cover this tragic mistake of an otherwise immaculate publisher." Hans Haas

— Social Forces 21:243 D '42 450w

"Strausz-Hupé's study is an altogether admirable book. It states the thesis of the Geopolitiker much more clearly than they themselves have ever done. It provides a detached history of the idea. It gives a clear-cut criticism of its errors which is based on logic and not on emotion. It places the theory in the right relation to contemporary political action. And what is perhaps still more, it arouses interest in the long-range and large-scale decisions of human history, one of which we are called upon either to endure or to shape in these tragic and convulsive days of ours." Kurt Lachmann

+ Yale R n s 32:381 winter '43 1700w

STREET, CECIL JOHN CHARLES (JOHN RHODE, pseud). Dead of the night. 264p $2 Dodd

42-21089

Detective story.

Reviewed by Will Cuppy
Books p20 S 13 '42 130w

"Good."

+ Boston Globe p19 S 9 '42 40w

"A good many whodunits nowadays either ignore the war completely or else use it as a background for a situation which involves espionage. In one of the best stories he has written the veteran John Rhode does something quite different. He sets his tale of murder in the midst of wartime activities, and nowhere in the book is there a spy. . . But the pursuit of the puzzle is all part and parcel with the military exercise itself. It is in weaving these disparate threads together, as well as in the story's suspense and surprise, that the reader finds special enjoyment of Mr. Rhode's originality and skill." Kay Irvin

+ N Y Times p10 S 13 '42 480w

• Well-written tale of the Home Guard at work, preparing for the day when Nazi paratroops might land. For readers who do not like to be too ruffled."

+ New Yorker 18:72 S 19 '42 40w

"This Rhode doesn't lead to Dr. Priestley's sanctum but it's exciting nevertheless, with remarkably good wartime background. Mid-dlin'."

+ — Sat R of Lit 25:30 S 19 '42 40w

STREET, CECIL JOHN CHARLES (JOHN RHODE, pseud). Fourth bomb. 260p $2 Dodd 42-1116

Detective story.

Booklist 38:190 F 1 '42

"You'll find a bit of war background in this up-to-the-second and quite satisfactory Dr. Priestley opus. . . This has plenty of John Rhode's village atmosphere and it's a lifesaver for fans who want real detection. Not enough bombs to scare you too much." Will Cuppy

+ Books p13 Ja 11 '42 200w

"Solid and satisfying." Mort. Post

+ New Repub 106:125 Ja 26 '42 50w

"It is merely the familiar Priestley formula set against the background of wartime England." Isaac Anderson

N Y Times p16 Ja 11 '42 150w

"Technically brilliant, but too slow in the telling."

+ — New Yorker 17:60 Ja 10 '42 70w

"Interesting picture of English rural life during wartime. Characters interesting; detecting sound; action leisurely; solution logical. Standard British brand."

+ Sat R of Lit 25:17 Ja 10 '42 50w

Spring'd Republican p7e Ja 25 '42 240w

Times [London] Lit Sup p225 My 2 '42 90w

STREET, JAMES HOWELL. Tap roots. 593p $2.75 Dial press

(W) 42-36265

Long novel of an anti-slavery section of Mississippi from 1858 to 1865. The Dabneys, early settlers and aristocrats of the valley, with their beautiful women and brave men, maintain their leadership even when a Southern regiment is sent to stamp out their rebellion. With the land and very little else of their possessions left, the Dabneys begin life anew after the destructive onslaught of the Southern troops.

Appeared on Best Seller list in: Books (18) B & T (1) N Y Times (15) RB (2)

"As an historical novelist, Mr. Street is a romantic. . . And his description of the final battle is a military nightmare. Yet there is power in this uneven book. It holds ones interest and sympathy. The blurb says of the author: 'He plots his stories (usually in bed) before he writes a line. He knows where he's going, then he starts dictating.' This may be an excellent technique, but one cannot help feeling that a more laborious manual exercise might provide a firmer expression of his very real talent as a novelist." R. E. Danielson

+ — Atlantic 170:136 O '42 250w

Booklist 38:442 Jl 15 '42

"What may well impress the critic of 'Tap Roots' is the author's story-weaving skill. He braids and unbraids rapidly and deftly, creating dramatic situations with almost too much ease. . . 'Tap Roots' is guilty of the stereotypes of the romance tradition, of artificial gestures, melodramatic flourishes and improbable scenes, but these are not, I think, considerable enough to destroy the illusion of the whole." Milton Rugoff

+ — Books p6 Je 28 '42 950w

Canadian Forum 22:222 O '42 140w

Cleveland Open Shelf p16 Jl '42

Nation 155:57 Jl 18 '42 200w

Reviewed by Margaret Wallace
N Y Times p6 Jl 5 '42 900w

"A high-geared costume piece. . . You've read it all before, but Mr. Street is a capable workman and he makes it sound quite fresh and lively."

New Yorker 18:56 Jl 4 '42 30w

"It's a good yarn. Unlike so many historical novels, it doesn't try to make its impact by an appeal to great houses, gaudy clothes, and elaborate manners, nor by the complication of incidents contrived out of all form of reality. The prose, while not distinguished, is rapid and deft and appropriate to the quick turn and movement of event. Above all, the characters are not merely the stuffed and regular types of the customary historical romance, but perfectly possible men, given to error, and women, neither impractical nor delicate." Paul Engle

+ Sat R of Lit 25:15 Ag 1 '42 550w

Time 40:76 Ag 3 '42 400w

STREET, ROY FRINK. Children in a world of conflict. 304p $2.50 Christopher 136.7 Child study. Education of children

41-21408

"The primary purpose of this book is to examine some of the ways in which children respond to environments which are confusing and frequently hostile, and to indicate what might be done to help them make the most nearly adequate adjustments." School & Society

"Children in a World of Conflict will not be of interest to the student of psychology or education; but it should prove to be of tremendous help to the father and mother, unfamiliar with child psychology, who nevertheless feel that they should have a passing acquaintance with its general principles. It is the type of book that administrators and teachers will recommend to parent-teacher associations and adult study groups. In the reviewer's opinion, the list of 286 specific problems which children may sooner or later need to solve is especially pertinent and thought provoking. . . . Just a word of caution, Children in a World of Conflict might lead an unquestioning layman to conclude that the psychologists 'know all the answers.' Again and again the author presents a principle and then cites a case incident in which the application of that principle worked perfectly. He frequently, although not always, neglects to mention instances where, with similar symptoms, the treatment yielded negative results." G. J. Froehlich

+ — El School J 42:474 F '42 700w

School & Society 54:368 O 25 '41 40w

Reviewed by E. R. Groves

Social Forces 21:117 O '42 80w

STRINGER, ARTHUR JOHN ARBUTHNOTT. Intruders in Eden. 308p $2.50 Bobbs

42-12644

Two war-wrecked people, a Canadian nurse invalided home after shell-shock, and an American correspondent who finds his wife has been unfaithful while he was following the armies in Greece, meet on a run-down Canadian farm. Together they attempt the task of rebuilding the farm as well as their own broken lives.

"It is a story in a quieter vein than Mr. Stringer usually pursues, and it is all the more convincing because of that." Lisle Bell

Books p14 My 17 '42 180w

"The story develops some interesting details of working an old farm . . . and the effects of strenuous labor on city people. The love story is stereotyped and cluttered with clichés and the gangster episode seems pure tosh." Beatrice Sherman

N Y Times p16 My 3 '42 280w

STRODACH, PAUL ZELLER, ed. Calling all Christians, and other sermons on the proper gospels of the Lenten season. 259p $1.75 United Lutheran pub.

252 Sermons

42-5284

A volume of Lenten and pre-Lenten sermons and outlines chosen from the works of pastors of the United Lutheran church.

"While such material as that contained in this volume is especially timely at this season, its value is not limited to Lent."

+ Christian Century 59:251 F 25 '42 50w

"All the sermons are solid and meaty, as is to be expected of clergy with a Teutonic background. Yet all have plenty of modernity; not in frothy, catchy sentences but in dignified phrases, expressed in such an epigrammatic manner as to arrest attention." A. L. Byron-Curtiss

+ Churchman 156:17 Mr 15 '42 100w

STRONG, LEONARD ALFRED GEORGE. The bay. 382p $2.50 Lippincott [8s 6d Gollancz]

42-7504

At fifty-seven Luke Mangan, an Irishman of the middle classes, looks back over his life and reviews certain portions of it. He describes his unhappy childhood in the house of relatives; his later boyhood with his mother's beloved nurse; his unhappy marriage; the loss of the woman he loved but could not marry; and his final peace with a third woman.

"Luke's early days . . . are drawn with great zest and breadth, with an acute eye for visual detail and an equally acute ear for picturesque speech. But once adult, the hero becomes somewhat commonplace. His adventures with women follow the usual pattern." Elizabeth Drew

+ — Atlantic Ap '42 200w

Reviewed by F. H. Bullock

Books p2 Mr 25 '42 900w

"Exquisite at times, Rabelaisian at others, but always exciting and well worth reading." M. H. Zipprich

+ Library J 67:131 F 1 '42 50w

"Mr. Strong has evidently enjoyed writing this story, and his enjoyment is conveyed to the delighted reader." Wilfrid Gibson

+ Manchester Guardian p3 My 9 '41 120w

"It is a brilliant book, true to life and teeming with life." J. S. Southron

+ N Y Times p7 F 22 '42 600w

"The life story of a Dubliner, less begrimed than stories of Dublin usually are but colorful enough. . . . Dublin itself is very much alive, and the noises and smells of the waterfront and of the pubs are real, interesting, and strange."

New Yorker 18:69 F 21 '42 50w

"The brutality of description is at times too vivid: but Mr. Strong never forgets the humanity of his actors. His profound sense of tenderness comes out most strongly in Luke's relations with women, especially his wife Muriel and his love—found too late—Mary Carmichael. It may be said that almost too much happens to Luke . . . and that no man could suffer so tragically and yet end with the commonplace, placid happiness of his second marriage and his family of eight. Mr. Strong could have made it plausible if he had not committed the initial mistake of making Luke tell his story himself. That is the one serious fault of the book; never was there a story so unsuited to the autobiographical method." Richard Ellis

+ — Sat R of Lit 25:8 F 21 '42 550w

Reviewed by John Hampson

Spec 166:510 My 9 '41 260w

"There are, as was to be expected, attractive pages in Mr. Strong's new novel—neat and practised little character sketches, mostly of eccentric types, brief descriptive passages done with quiet assurance, and passages of honest if not specially deep meditation about life and its problems. What else Mr. Strong may have intended to put into this novel it is not possible to tell; the simple and disappointing fact is that what he actually gives us on this occasion is not much more than the empty shell of a novel."

— + Times [London] Lit Sup p225 My 10 '41 380w

STRONG, TRACY, ed. We prisoners of war; sixteen British officers and soldiers speak from a German prison camp. 90p $1 Assn. press

940.547243 World war, 1939—Prisoners and prisons

42-12280

Sixteen essays on the lives and thoughts of those imprisoned, written by British officers and men in prison in southern Germany.

"Prison camp induces thought. Not often very profound thought, to judge from this interesting little book, but definite thought, even analysis at times. . . . The editor did a fine job of picking out arresting phrases as titles for the essays: 'A Thousand Hairless Pates'—'Living and Partly Living'—'A Crust Has a Flavor Unbelievable'—'Only Part of Me is in Prison.'" F. A. G.

Canadian Forum 22:157 Ag '42 700w

Christian Century 59:153 F 4 '42 200w

STRYKER, PERRIN. Arms and the aftermath. 157p $1.75 Houghton

330.973 Industrial mobilization. Munitions industry. World war, 1939—United States. World war, 1939—Economic aspects 42-1202

"Here is an inside report on the economic and social upheaval that has begun to dislocate our lives. This book tells what industrial mobilization means; it points out what must be the immediate results of spending billions on rearmament. The aim is to give the reader a behind-the-scenes look at the present industrial mobilization which will enable him to see through the headlines to the real story of what is happening and will happen to those industries now climbing on the Defense bandwagon." Publisher's note

"This is a book, to read for a point of view, and, like some other influential books extant today, not to be judged entirely by the consistency of its argument." William Bray

Am Econ R 32:393 Je '42 650w

Booklist 38:226 Mr 1 '42

Reviewed by Hiram Motherwell
Books p21 S 13 '42 330w

"The style is non-technical and the material well organized." J. B. Parrish
+ Churchman 156:16 Ap 1 '42 260w

Reviewed by R. G. Woolbert
Foreign Affairs 20:779 J1 '42 10w

"Not conclusive, of course, but less dated than you might suppose, perhaps because the author concentrates on a clear explanation of the main technical factors involved."

New Yorker 17:60 Ja 10 '42 50w

Pratt p10 O '42

"It is broadminded in scope, fair towards the errors and virtues of both government and private enterprise. Decidedly shy of any millennium hopes, it attains a middle road of intelligence and a clear analysis of industrial production, which is immensely enlightening to the average reader." L. S. M.

+ Springf'd Republican p7e Ja 11 '42 600w

Wis Lib Bul 38:42 Mr '42

STURM, ALEXANDER. From ambush to zig-zag; verses and drawings. [55p] $2
Scribner

817 42-19846

A merry and sophisticated alphabet book for adults.

"Collectors of alphabets should on no account overlook this one for adults, with some of the most unusual subjects and amusing pictures to be found under this classification."

+ Books p29 S 27 '42 150w

Springf'd Republican p7e N 15 '42 60w

SUCKLEY, MARGARET L., and DALGLIESH, ALICE. True story of Fala; il. with sketches by E. N. Fairchild and photographs. 62p $1.75 Scribner

636.7 Dogs. Roosevelt, Franklin Delano 42-11755

"Fala is [a] Scotty dog who belongs to President Roosevelt. Fala's days at White House, at Hyde Park, and on board ship will interest children of seven to nine years." Library J

"There has been no attempt to 'make a story' out of the pleasant doings of a treasured dog: children with a soft spot for Scotties can do very well with straight facts happily told, as these are." M. L. Becker
+ Books p8 Ap 19 '42 330w

"Fala is an appealing little dog, and his unique place as President's cheerful companion will make book popular." R. W. Stewart
+ Library J 67:477 My 15 '42 70w

"For young and old this is a charming little book. The only suggestion of the 'authorized' biography about it is the insistence that Fala is a very well-behaved dog. It's reassuring to know that at least he tried to 'crash' the third-term inauguration."

+ Springf'd Republican p7e Ap 19 '42 280w

SUCKOW, RUTH (MRS FERNER NUHN). New Hope. 342p $2.50 Farrar

(W) 42-3175

A story of a young Methodist minister's two-years pastorate in a small midwestern town in the early twentieth century. Two of the leading figures in the story are children, the minister's little daughter Delight, and young Clarence Miller, her "almost twin" in age and size.

"The author knows infallibly what she is writing about and has the art to convey it with a sure hand. The portraits of little Clarence and his playmate Delight, the minister's daughter, are so amusing and touching that anyone who misses them is making a great mistake." R. M. Gay
+ Atlantic My '42 200w

Booklist 38:235 Mr 1 '42

"Ruth Suckow's characters emerge with clarity against a period background excellently drawn; her writing, except in rare lapses, has the structure of good craftsmanship. But one gets the feeling that Miss Suckow is more interested in recapturing the essence of a day that is past than in telling a story. Examples of her chapter headings are 'The Church,' 'The Town,' 'The Countryside,' 'Festivals,' and they cogently describe the things she writes about." Rose Feld

+ — Books p3 F 22 '42 600w

Reviewed by L. E. Cannon

Christian Century 59:1055 S 2 '42 290w

Christian Science Monitor p11 My 2 '42

500w

Commonweal 36:20 Ap 24 '42 40w

"A restful book, recommended for all types of readers." R. D. Minnich

+ Library J 67:86 Ja 15 '42 70w

"Whether or not Miss Suckow intended it, an unmistakable note of nostalgia runs through her book and the community which she pictures seems an almost impossibly happy one. It is difficult to believe that any place, anywhere, was ever so fortunate, or that there was not a seamier side to the town's life which she has chosen to ignore. Sweetness and light seem to prevail to excess. 'New Hope,' then, strikes me as a weaker book than 'The Folks' and a more sentimental one. . . . Taken on its own terms, however, it has all the homely virtues which one expects from Miss Suckow, plus an extra warmth, radiance and tenderness which she has not always possessed." E. H. Walton

+ — N Y Times p6 F 22 '42 1200w

"A happy epitaph to a safe and simple period of our history."

+ New Yorker 18:59 F 28 '42 80w

"A good word should be said for the two children, as real and living as any pre-adolescents who ever played, dreamed, quarreled, wheedled, and strutted between the covers of a book. We see the world through their eyes, and it is a tribute to the author's talent that this world is new and brave, and that the children do not become tiresome or obnoxious. 'New Hope' lives up to the cheerful promise of its title and its cheerfulness and warmth are achieved inoffensively and honestly." R. A. Cordell

+ — Sat R of Lit 25:8 F 28 '42 500w

Wis Lib Bul 38:48 Mr '42

"There is a warmth and wholesomeness here for which one should be grateful in cold and bitter days." Robert Littell

+ Yale R n s 31:x summer '42 70w

SULLIVAN, ALOYSIUS MICHAEL. Day in Manhattan. ltd autog ed 112p $2 Dutton
811 42-2410

Volume of dramatic poems by the president of the American Poetry society. The poems were written especially to be read over the radio.

"Like all good writers for radio, Mr. Sullivan makes use of strong action verbs; of figures and images with a rich, concrete, visual texture. Without the aid of narrative pointing he manages to pack both vigor and excitement into his scenes. Sullivan's longer symphonic poems for several voices, despite, or rather because of, the ambitious nature of their intention, are ill-suited to radio. Words, after all, are not notes in music; a poem cannot appropriate or even approximate the particular functions of a large musical composition. And when there is no continuity of action in narrative form it is not easy for the ear of the average listener to grasp and hold, as an integrated piece, a poem that runs half an hour or an hour on the air." Ruth Lechlitner

+ — Books p11 F 15 '42 480w

"Mr. Sullivan has mastered this formula completely: it sounds profound on the radio, and it is cleverly built up in internal rhymes and alliterations. Reading it, much of the importance disappears. The rhetoric is not quite standard; the metaphors are mixed." P. M. Jack

+ — N Y Times p14 F 8 '42 550w

Reviewed by L. S. Doughty
Poetry 60:165 Je '42 100w

Reviewed by Alfred Kreymborg
Sat R of Lit 25:17 O 10 '42 270w

"I am uncertain whether to compliment Mr Sullivan upon his choice of themes and his lusty rhythmic sequences or to quarrel with him for his too obvious attempts to lure the Muse. The sincere lines of his poetry are interlaced with classical allusions and metaphorical epithets which are obviously dragged in for poetic effect; the result is often inept and cumbersome. The volume will be of especial interest to directors of choral speaking since they are fashioned for antiphonal and group speaking. By far the most successful of the five poems is 'Midnight Caravan,' written for five voices." A. W. Mills

+ — Spring'd Republican p7e Ja 11 '42 650w

SULLIVAN, CHARLES JACKSON, comp. Army posts and towns; the Baedeker of the army. 4th ed 199p $3 Haynes corp, 412 E. 11th st, Los Angeles

355.7 Military posts 42-23888

"In view of new censorship regulations this fourth edition does not contain, as did the third, posts located outside of the continental limits of the United States, nor arsenals, ordnance and chemical warfare plants, and a few of the other continental stations which, for reasons of location, newness, or incompleteness, it was felt best not to include. There is new material on the reorganization of the War department, army pay scales, insignia, and medals of honor." (Booklist) Indexes.

Booklist 39:106 N 15 '42

Library J 67:1067 D 1 '42 10w

SULLIVAN, RICHARD. Summer after summer. 306p $2.50 Doubleday

42-22860

A story of a young, lower-middle-class American couple during the long months while they look forward to the birth of their second child.

"In his efforts to make Anna glad Eddie uses no heroics. Yet the simple story has a heroic quality. In novel after novel about childbirth the story is of the mother. The expectant father has become a standard joke. Mr. Sullivan has created in the characterization of Eddie Nails an almost religious figure of the father. He has the dignity of St Joseph. . . Mr. Sullivan has deliberately kept his telling of the story matter of fact. His man and wife are not highly articulate characters. . . For the most part he succeeds in his method. Less restraint in some of the episodes. . . would have given more color and warmth to the book." W. A. S. Dollard

+ — Books p10 O 11 '42 750w

Reviewed by N. E. Monroe

Cath World 156:368 D '42 200w

Reviewed by E. L. Keyes

Commonweal 36:596 O 9 '42 170w

"Well written, not sentimental; autobiographical atmosphere; bits descriptive of nature excellent. Recommended if there is demand for this type of story." E. F. Kelly
+ Library J 67:795 S 15 '42 80w

Reviewed by Isaac Rosenfeld

New Repub 107:519 O 19 '42 160w

"At best, Mr. Sullivan has chosen a difficult subject for a novel, one that requires singularly skillful handling to be worth the trouble. While it is a story that should be told, Mr. Sullivan has unfortunately not realized the full possibilities in the Nails." Jack Gould
N Y Times p21 O 11 '42 320w

"The novel is completely realistic and objective, and quite without satire. Eddie Nails never thinks out of character, and is denied the gaudy dreams Sinclair Lewis awards to Mr. Wrenn and H. G. Wells gives to his underdogs. The merciless employment of exact detail almost makes the book a clinical study of John and Mary Doe of Middletown." R. A. Cordell

Sat R of Lit 25:16 O 5 '42 400w

SUMMERS, ROBERT EDWARD, comp. Wages and prices. (Reference shelf) 219p $1.25 Wilson, H.W.

331.2 Wages. Prices. War—Economic aspects (W) 42-12358

"A 'Reference Shelf' volume containing data and discussions relative to the control of prices and wages, directed especially toward the problem of inflation, the tendencies toward it and the proposed methods of preventing it." (Christian Century) Bibliography.

Christian Century 55:601 My 6 '42 30w

"Up-to-date material bearing on price control and protection against inflation."

+ Wis Lib Bul 38:93 Je '42

SUTHERLAND, DOROTHY GERTRUDE. Do you want to be a nurse? 186p $2 Doubleday
610.73 Nurses and nursing (W) 42-36210

Considers the various aspects of the nursing profession, and includes anecdotes about different kinds of nurses and nursing. Appendix tells where to write for state lists of accredited nursing schools. Bibliography.

Booklist 38:343 My 15 '42

"Interest in novels and vocational stories whose heroines are nurses is general among girls, especially in these war-time days. A practical handbook such as this shows them what to do with such interest once aroused, or with a natural inclination this way."

+ Books p18 Ag 9 '42 300w

"So practical, informative, complete, sensible, up-to-date (includes war nursing) it can be highly recommended; and the brisk style and interesting case histories, covering many types of nursing, should contribute to making it a book of wide appeal. . . Lists of good source material and accurate data on salaries." Elizabeth Beal

+ Library J 67:583 Je 15 '42 60w

SUTHERLAND, ROBERT LEE. Color, class, and personality; prepared for the Am. youth commission. 135p il $1.25; pa 75c Am. council on educ.

325.26 Negroes—Moral and social conditions. Youth. Personality 42-6471

"The concluding and summarizing volume in a series prepared for the American Youth Commission, presenting the disadvantages under which Negro youth labors in the United States, the efforts which have been made and are being made to make adjustment to the situation and to give fairer opportunities, and the next steps that should be taken in the direction of social justice." Christian Century

SUTHERLAND, R. L.—Continued

"It is as a concrete and thoughtful attempt to consider clearly the place and possibilities of Negro Youth in our democracy as a source of verbalized adolescent Negro attitudes on the 'race question,' as an example of noteworthy scholastic cooperation by white and colored scientists, and as a contribution with insight and method in a dynamic application of research to problems of race relations at home and of our time, that the entire study cannot be overestimated. To anthropologists, as well as to all Americans concerned with the efficiency of their nation, its material should be of especial moment. To both, its example, of some planned practical application of significant research-findings, can also be provocative to action now." Manet Fowler

+ Am Anthropol 44:706 O '42 1350w

"The research done in the course of this project takes its place in the fund of organized knowledge and does its part to advance science. The conclusions and recommendations could not be other than premature in the present state of sociology." R. E. L. Faris

Am J Soc 48:139 J1 '42 460w

Reviewed by Ulysses Lee

Ann Am Acad 222:225 J1 '42 450w

Booklist 38:268 Ap 1 '42

Christian Century 59:251 F 25 '42 60w

School & Society 55:168 F 7 '42 60w

Reviewed by Marjorie Pfaelzer

Social Studies 33:187 Ap '42 480w

SUTPHEN, WILLIAM GILBERT VAN TASSEL. I, Nathanael, knew Jesus. 352p $2.50
Revell

Jesus Christ—Fiction. Nathanael, Saint, apostle—Fiction 41-20124

Imaginative story of the life of Jesus, supposedly told by the apostle Nathanael. "The presumptions are: first, that Nathanael was a person of naturally skeptical mind, 'a first-century modernist,' who loved Jesus before he fully believed in him and in whose mind there gradually emerged a belief in his divinity; second, that Nathanael outlived all the other apostles and was acquainted with the written Gospels before he put his own memoirs into writing as a supplement to what others had written." (Christian Century)

Christian Century 58:1146 S 17 '41 140w

"The New Testament critic will object to this novel as a picture of the life of Jesus, and probably no one should be permitted to read it who is not perfectly familiar with the Gospel story and the conclusions of historical criticism. But it is beautifully written, and probably does present fairly the attitude of the first century Christian, though it is a little far-fetched to trace the gradual evolution of the sceptic's faith all the way to the Nicene Creed." W. L. Caswell

+ — Churchman 155:22 O 1 '41 300w

SUTTON, MRS MARGARET. Jemima, daughter of Daniel Boone; il. by I. B. Hazelton. 251p $2 Scribner

(W) 42-19440

"The author, gathering material from old records and letters, from Daniel Boone's own writings, from museums and private collections and from visits to the Boone country which she knows well, has put together a convincing story of the great pioneer and his family. The tale centers around Jemima, Boone's youngest daughter, beginning on her sixth birthday, shortly before her father sets out with five other men from the Yadkin Valley settlement to explore what the Shawnee Indians called 'Kain-tuck-ee,' with a view to making a settlement farther west." N Y Times

Booklist 39:53 O 15 '42

Reviewed by M. L. Becker
Books p20 N 15 '42 230w

Reviewed by A. M. Jordan
Horn Bk 18:342 S '42 70w

Reviewed by M. C. Scoggin
Library J 67:895 O 15 '42 10w

"Author has used authentic sources and documents to obtain facts that are basis of story of a real American girl. For children ten to fourteen." D. M. MacDonald

+ Library J 67:959 N 1 '42 70w

"Rather unwholesome, decidedly trivial, and poorly done. Since we have so many excellent books on Daniel Boone, which do give adequate picture of the times, this decidedly second-rate book seems entirely unnecessary." Claire Nolte

— Library J 67:959 N 1 '42 140w

"Skillfully using what she has found in history, Margaret Sutton has drawn a refreshingly real and high-spirited heroine. The note of frontier romance is touched discreetly but convincingly. An unusual book on the period because of its well-rounded picture and well-sustained atmosphere. For readers from 10 to 16." A. T. Eaton

+ N Y Times p9 Ag 30 '42 500w

"A thrilling story from our past, vividly told." K. S. W.

+ New Yorker 18:114 D 12 '42 70w

Wis Lib Bul 38:168 N '42

SUTTON, MRS MARGARET. Tommy True, a little boy who was hungry; il. by Pelagie Doane. [30p] $1 Oxford

42-17474

Picture story book for second graders, all about a small farm boy who found his parents away when he came to dinner. So Tommy resourcefully went about the farm and gathered up the ingredients of a dinner for himself and his family.

"Story is trivial, and the boy is too resourceful to be convincing. Expensive for wide purchase. Do not recommend." Elizabeth Babcock

— Library J 67:959 N 1 '42 40w

"This simple, repetitive picture storybook of a self-reliant little boy will be enjoyed by preschool children and can be read by second graders." M. M. Clark

+ Library J 67:959 N 1 '42 70w

"The little tale, dealing with familiar things, is told in the spirit of a child's own make-believe. Little children, who like to do something 'all by themselves,' will enjoy vicariously Tommy's independence and resourcefulness. A picture for each page of text shows in pleasing, lively fashion and in clear, bright colors, every incident in Tommy True's adventurous morning." A. T. Eaton

+ N Y Times p9 S 13 '42 180w

SWAIN, VIRGINIA (MRS PHILIP DUFFIELD STONG). Dollar gold piece. 438p $2.75 Farrar

41-25068

"Kansas City in the boom year of 1887 is pictured vividly and without any phony nostalgia in this highly dramatic novel. The plot involves a rough-and-ready livestock millionaire, his cherished daughter, a full-statured villainess, and some others." New Yorker

Booklist 39:72 N 1 '42

"Apart from the outright entertainment of Miss Swain's skillful story telling, readers of 'The Dollar Gold Piece' should close the book with a clearer understanding of their country's growing pains and of every town's story—the lonely rich girl and the fortune hunter." Mary Ross

+ Books p10 N 1 '42 650w

Nation 155:458 O 31 '42 140w

New Repub 107:422 O 15 '42 40w

N Y Times p18 S 27 '42 800w

"A faint breath of Brontëan horror pervades the story and there are several clear-cut scenes that you won't forget in a hurry. Keep your eye on Miss Swain."

+ New Yorker 18:79 S 26 '42 70w

"It is a narrative of distinct and definite people, by no means the type characters of the usual historical novel. The feeblest part of the book is the texture of the prose. The author was for some time a journalist, and, without denying many illustrious exceptions,

I am more and more convinced that newspaper writing is a menace to the writing of good fiction prose." Paul Engle
 + — Sat R of Lit 25:19 O 10 '42 600w

SWANN, WILLIAM FRANCIS GRAY, and FREEMAN, IRA MAXIMILIAN. Physics. (Sciences; a survey course for colleges) 274p $2.25; college ed $1.75 Wiley
 530 Physics (W) 41-22928

One of a series of textbooks designed for use in college orientation or survey courses. The author is Director of the Bartol Research Foundation of the Franklin Institute of Pennsylvania. Bibliography. Glossary. Index.

Booklist 38:229 Mr 1 '42

Reviewed by G. W. Gray
 Books p17 Je 14 '42 150w
 N Y New Tech Bks 27:28 Ap '42

"This work while omitting laboratory exercises for the students, nevertheless presents a sound and comprehensive foundation in the subject."

+ Springfd Republican p7e Ja 18 '42 30w

SWEENEY, JAMES JOHNSON, ed. Joan Miro. 87p il $2 Museum of modern art
 759.6 Miró, Joan 42-320

"A survey of the life of a contemporary Spanish painter, and an analysis of his paintings—most of them abstract studies making use of symbols with associational values. Illustrated with 70 plates, four of them in color. A catalog of the Miro exhibition at the Museum of modern art, a list of his paintings in American collections and of the books he illustrated, and a bibliography, are appended." (Booklist) Bibliography.

Booklist 38:274 Ap 1 '42

Reviewed by Jerome Mellquist
 New Repub 106:405 Mr 23 '42 120w
 Pratt p5 O '42

SWEET, WILLIAM WARREN. Religion in colonial America. 367p $3 Scribner
 277.3 U.S.—Church history. U.S.—Religion (W) 42-19309

"In this volume we have the first installment of what is to be a three-volume history of American Christianity. . . It is limited to the British colonies which ultimately became the nucleus of the United States. . . Some difficult problems of arrangement confront the historian of American Christianity. The author has chosen the somewhat unusual method of tracing separately the course of each main stream from its first appearance on American shores (with due attention to its European background) to the end of the period under consideration. . . The result of this arrangement, as well as of the selection of materials, is a rather heavy emphasis upon the history of churches. Seven of the ten chapters deal with Anglicanism, the Puritans, Baptists and Quakers, Roman Catholics, 'Trade and Religion in New Netherland' (the Dutch Reformed and others in New York), German groups (Lutheran, Mennonite, German Reformed, etc.), and the Presbyterian Irish. Closing chapters discuss the Great Awakenings and the growth of religious liberty." (Christian Century) Selected bibliography. Index.

Reviewed by Ephraim Fischhoff
 Ann Am Acad 225:260 Ja '43 700w
 Bookmark 4:4 N '42

"The quality and comprehensiveness of this volume, and the reputation of its author for accurate and unbiased historical scholarship, justify a confident expectation that the completed series will be a landmark in religious historiography and that it will be a long time before the whole story will have to be told again on this scale. . . The documentation is extensive and accurate, and the reader is introduced to a wealth of relevant literature, much of which will be unfamiliar to him unless he is already a special student of the subject. It is a grand volume which leaves one with an appetite whetted for the other two. But it should be said that this one is sufficiently independent so that the reader who is not sure he wants to enlist for the duration need have no hesitation in committing himself to the extent of the colonial period. Some of the most vital material concerning American Christianity is in this section." W. E. Garrison

 + Christian Century 59:981 Ag 12 '42 900w

"A first-rate, informative, and interesting story of one of the most fascinating periods in American history." R. C. Miller
 + Churchman 156:16 S 1 '42 300w

"Professor Sweet has told the story well. . . The book, in the main, will find a place of value on the shelves of private and institutional libraries. . . Yet there are some misstatements or incautious statements that are not of minor consequence." R. E. E. Harkness
 + — Crozer Q 20:63 Ja '43 1500w

Reviewed by K. S. Latourette
 J Religion 23:60 Ja '43 1000w

"Professor Sweet has written a valuable book, but he has left room for many more books about religion in colonial America." E. S. Morgan
 + — New Eng Q 15:735 D '42 800w

"For its relevance to our intellectual self-consciousness at present, if for no other reason, Professor Sweet's book deserves a wide audience. Those who fail as yet to realize that the ideals we consider commonplace today did not exactly spring full-bloom from the head of seventeenth century Europe into the heart of Massachusetts should be the first to read it. . . Of considerable historical interest is the throng of personages that crowds Professor Sweet's pages." Justus Buchler
 + N Y Times p27 S 27 '42 900w

Wis Lib Bul 38:132 O '42

SWEETZ, PAUL MARLOR. Theory of capitalist development; principles of Marxian political economy. 398p $4 Oxford

330.15 Marx, Karl. Economics. Socialism. Capitalism 42-25876

"This book represents the first attempt in English to provide a comprehensive analytical study of Marxian Political Economy. . . The book is divided into four parts. The first part deals with value and surplus value. The second part analyses the structure of the capitalist economy and shows how and why this structure gives rise to certain evolutionary tendencies. . . The third part provides an analysis of crises and depressions, developing the implications of Marx's theory and criticizing the theories of several of his most important followers. The fourth part is entitled Imperialism and attempts to show the genesis, structure and tendencies of the modern world economic system." (Publisher's note) Index.

"There can be no question but that Paul Sweezy has rendered valiant service in performing this task. His book, lucidly written and accomplished, covers the important essentials of the Marxian system." B. B. Seligman
 + — New Repub 108:90 Ja 18 '43 1450w

"Mr. Sweezy's book is a very competent statement of the basic position of Marx as developed by Lenin and other orthodox revolutionary Marxists. It is comprehensive and impersonal, yet pointed and uncompromising." Carl Friedrich
 + — Sat R of Lit 26:12 Ja 16 '43 1850w

SWENSON, DAVID FERDINAND. Something about Kierkegaard; ed. by Lillian Marvin Swenson. 173p $2.50 Augsburg

B or 92 Kierkegaard, Soren Aabye 41-23464

"About the time that German scholars were discovering and dissecting their unnoticed neighbor from little Denmark, Kierkegaard was independently discovered by the author of this present book, then a graduate student of philosophy. Dr Swenson went on to spend the rest of his life teaching at the University of Minnesota, and finally became head of its department of philosophy. He put much of his time, effort and study on Kierkegaard. This posthumous volume collects some of his notes, lectures and published papers. Part of it has technical value to ministers and to students of philosophy and psychology. Part contains some popular lectures of interest to any adult mind." Springf'd Republican

SWENSON, D. F.—Continued

"The best thing about Something About Kierkegaard is that it manages to say something about everything about Kierkegaard. Its eight chapters were edited by Lillian Marvin Swenson, and evidently they conclude the publication of original material from the pen of D. F. Swenson. If that is so, it is interesting that these last published works of the greatest American exponent of Kierkegaard to date will probably long be the best concise introduction to the Danish author." W. B. Blakemore, Jr.
+ Christian Century 59:282 Mr 4 '42 1000w

"Readers of the popular half of the book, like students of the more difficult part, will agree or disagree. But many serious-minded Americans will benefit by wrestling with Kierkegaard's thought. The editing of this volume is an understanding wife's tribute to her deceased husband, and Lillian Marvin Swenson has done well a painstaking job."
W. T. Riviere
+ Springf'd Republican p10 Ja 9 '42 550w

SWIFT, MRS HILDEGARDE HOYT. Little red lighthouse and the great gray bridge [il. by] Lynd Ward. $1.75 Harcourt

(W) 42-36286

Story of a little red light house situated in the shadow of the George Washington bridge. For children six to ten.

Booklist 39:36 O 1 '42

"There is just enough humanizing in the pictures—the intimation of a face on the tower, fog forming a grasping hand—to maintain the human spirit of the story and lead to its message: 'Each to his own place, little brother.' In three colors, the night scenes are especially beautiful." M. L. Becker
+ Books p30 N 15 '42 220w

Reviewed by A. M. Jordan

Horn Bk 18:331 S '42 80w

Reviewed by M. N. Miller

Library J 67:741 S 1 '42 90w

Reviewed by R. A. Hill

Library J 67:883 O 15 '42 30w

"Lynd Ward's magnificent drawings have a fine sweep and power; at the same time they are drawn with real understanding of childhood. Such a picture-story book as Mrs. Swift and Mr. Ward have made between them will not only be deeply enjoyed by boys and girls from 5 to 7, but will help to cultivate in them the seeing eye, and make them sensitive to the beauty which they can so easily find around them." A. T. Eaton
+ N Y Times p8 N 15 '42 310w

New Yorker 18:106 D 12 '42 50w

Reviewed by Majorie Flack

Sat R of Lit 25:25 N 14 '42 70w

SWINNERTON, FRANK ARTHUR. Thankless child. 380p $2.50 Doubleday [9s 6d Hutchinson]

(W) 42-25367

A psychological novel which depicts the characters of Mordred Snape, a self-styled "brilliant failure," and his daughter, Frankie, upon whom he lavishes all the extravagant love and tenderness of a frustrated life-time.

Reviewed by R. M. Gay

Atlantic 171:140 Ja '43 150w

Booklist 39:139 D 15 '42

"It is Mordred himself who chiefly fascinates Mr. Swinnerton. With infinite skill and pains he builds up this picture of a lazy arrogant, pitiful failure, consumed with self-pity and morbid possessiveness. His lesser characters are also as shrewdly and meticulously drawn as the figures in a Dutch genre painting." Page Cooper

+ Books p16 N 22 '42 750w

Reviewed by Catherine Van Dyne

Library J 67:952 N 1 '42 70w

"The principal motive is set against a rich and varied background of admirably drawn minor characters, and taken as a whole, it is a novel to remember, vital and humorous." J. D. Beresford

+ Manchester Guardian p3 O 9 '42 200w

"Swinnerton's writing, as always, is sensitive and intelligent, but Christina Stead did a similar story (and very similar character) infinitely better in 'The Man Who Loved Children.'"

New Repub 108:62 Ja 11 '43 120w

"Swinnerton develops the twisted psychological conflict with a fine hand. He writes with a dark and bleak intensity admirably suited to his material. And there is a grim and bitter humor in his sardonic portrayal of Scobles, the despised little man who, for his friend's sake, pretends to live a life that is empty of any fulfillment or happiness." Rose Feld
+ N Y Times p12 N 22 '42 700w

"Done as a short story, this might have made a moderately interesting study, but spun out as a full-length book, it is dullish and a bit flat."
+ New Yorker 18:98 N 21 '42 50w

"Rich, diverse, packed with careful detail of character and incident, 'Thankless Child' is the best-constructed and intellectually most notable novel Mr. Swinnerton has given us for a very long time." R. E. Roberts
+ Sat R of Lit 25:44 D 5 '42 550w

"Mr. Swinnerton trots us on a brisk round of pubs, parties and publishers. His use of sustained irony robs his characters of the sympathy they would have legitimately earned in a less frigid atmosphere." John Hampson
Spec 169:394 O 23 '42 260w

"A cleverly contrived, meticulously paced novel of characterization, mood and shadowed background, which is definitely his best since 'Nocturne.'" L. S. Munn

+ Springf'd Republican p7e N 29 '42 500w

"Mr. Swinnerton, has written fuller and more exacting novels than 'Thankless Child.' An exercise in the psychology of a slightly ghoulish father and daughter relationship, it stretches pathos and irony to rather artificial lengths. Much as one admires therefore the practised ease and resilience of his craftsmanship, one is conscious for most of the time of the strain he imposes upon a tenuous or arbitrary invention."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p485 O 3 '42 950w

SWINT, HENRY LEE. Northern teacher in the South, 1862-1870. 221p $2.50 Vanderbilt univ. press, Nashville Tenn.

371.974 Negroes—Education. Education—South. Reconstruction 41-11288

"This is a study of the Northern teachers, 'the spiritual followers of the armies of Grant and Sherman', who were sent South after the Civil War by the various freedmen's aid societies. It is a study of 'their motives, their attitudes, and their experiences' and of the motives of the business and professional men who supported them. It is not a study of Negro education in the South nor of the social and political effects of the work of the Northern societies." (Am Hist R) Bibliography. Index.

Reviewed by R. H. Woody

Am Hist R 47:687 Ap '42 230w

New Eng Q 15:195 Mr '42 230w

SYLVESTER, HARRY. Dearly beloved. 262p $2.50 Duell

42-4617

This first novel is a sociological study of a Maryland community in which the Catholic church and the Jesuits have been dominant for three hundred years. A young Catholic layman from the North attempts to establish a cooperative which will include the Negroes, and thereby comes in conflict with Southern race consciousness.

"We should have a fuller picture of this Maryland community if humor had softened the satire. Even without that human trait, we feel that we have lived in the world Mr. Sylvester has presented." W. A. S. Dollard
+ — Books p3 Mr 8 '42 900w

"On the whole, this book combines good and evil in such proportion as to make a reviewer's task difficult. . . . On the two very important points of religion and sex this novel is calculated to do much harm—insidiously and therefore the more dangerously. It is not a story to be recommended. It leaves a bad taste in the mouth. It might, in fact, reasonably be classified as a nasty book."

+ Cath World 155:117 Ap '42 360w

Reviewed by W. L. Caswell

Churchman 156:17 Ap 15 '42 300w

"The book has great merits, the greatest perhaps being its humanity. Even Father Cornish, the mediocre, the repellant, is a man who suffers, not a caricature embodiment of an author's spite. He arouses the author's and the reader's pity even more than their scorn—no mean achievement. . . . The book also has faults. Its tempo seems to me too unvaried, too close to melodrama, too intense. (You won't put it down till you have finished it, but when you have, you will be a trifle breathless.) Occasionally there is a sign of haste, an awkward repetition. And at least one passage comes perilously close to malicious gossip: the Archbishop's arraignment of a Jesuit magazine. But these are faults of the book's virtues—its honesty, its depth, its passion, its passionate love of people and ready hatred of injustice." H. L. Binsse

+ — Commonweal 35:537 Mr 20 '42 850w

Nation 154:348 Mr 21 '42 80w

"Sylvester doesn't write in anger, yet his blending of irony and compassion awakens a kind of anger in the reader, and in fiction that is the most effective means of protest. The writing is clean and simple. There is no striving for action for its own sake, yet the impression is always that of something happening. Possibly the implications of the material might have been pursued somewhat farther, but as the story of an intelligent young Catholic whose social conscience shows up the shortcomings of the Church, 'Dearly Beloved' makes its point, with conviction and leaves the reader oddly sharing the hero's troubled state of mind." Max Gissen

+ New Repub 106:340 Mr 9 '42 600w

"This is a finely honest story that probes the shams and hypocrisies that are so much a part of everyday life we forget their very existence. The author, a short-story writer and journalist, offers no brief for or against sections, creeds or political or social concepts; he merely shows a cross-section of humanity up to its old game of self-deception, question begging and issue-evading." Drake de Kay

+ N Y Times p6 Mr 8 '42 850w

"A more than ordinarily capable first novel, adult and disturbing."

+ New Yorker 18:68 F 21 '42 90w

"The first thing to note about Harry Sylvester is that he is a writer, a good one. He can handle talk and feelings, people and situations, getting right down under the surface to the core of meaning. His first novel is a powerful and arresting piece of work, and if not perfect, it will do until he writes a better one. . . . This story moves to a fated ending with too much dispatch, and seems truncated. With so many flimsy tales blown up to unreasonable length, Mr. Sylvester could have given his really strong material more time, more horizon. We hope he will next time." R. L. Nathan

+ — Sat R of Lit 25:17 Mr 14 '42 300w

SYMINGTON, MRS ELSIE HILLEN (JENKINS). By light of sun; woodcuts by Clare Leighton. 196p $2 Putnam

B or 92 Gardens (W) 41-18473

This autobiography is told largely thru reminiscences of the gardens the author has known, those she visited, those she grew up with, those she fashioned as a bride and young wife, and finally the wild garden she planted and cared for when the coming of a grandchild presented the need for her own piece of work to do.

Reviewed by M. L. Becker

Books p24 N 23 '41 450w

"'By Light of Sun' is a book of rare distinction, to be savored many times and permanently treasured." Anita Moffett
+ N Y Times p9 O 12 '41 800w

SYMPOSIUM ON THE RESPIRATORY ENZYMES AND THE BIOLOGICAL ACTION OF VITAMINS. Biological action of the vitamins; a symposium; ed. by E. A. Evans, jr. 227p il $3 Univ. of Chicago press

612.0153 Vitamins

42-19818

"This book contains the fourteen papers presented at the symposium on 'The Biological Action of the Vitamins,' held in connection with the Fiftieth Anniversary celebration of the University of Chicago, September, 1941. The material is presented not as a complete review of the field but rather as a series of papers summarizing the recent, most active subjects, each by an author with first-hand knowledge." Am J Pub Health

"The book is the best single source of information on these aspects of the vitamins now available." O. A. Bessey

+ Am J Pub Health 32:1407 D '42 190w

"This book is so written that a person with only a little training in nutrition and allied subjects can obtain much interesting information. It will, however, be appreciated most by the more advanced college student or professional person with a background in physiology and biological chemistry." B. L. Kunerth
+ J Home Econ 34:682 N '42 120w

SYNGE, JOHN LIGHTON, and GRIFFITH, BYRON ALEXANDER. Principles of mechanics. 514p $4.50 McGraw

531 Mechanics

42-10729

"The object is to present mechanics in a compact, classified form with sufficient exposition to make the subject comprehensible. In two parts—plane mechanics, and mechanics in space. A college textbook from the University of Toronto which requires a knowledge of calculus, elementary differential equations, and some analytical geometry." (Booklist) Index.

Booklist 38:326 My 1 '42

N Y New Tech Bks 27:43 Jl '42

SYMPHER, FELTUS WYLIE. Guinea's captive kings. 340p $3 Univ. of N.C. press

820.9 English literature—History and criticism. Slavery in literature 42-13063

A study of "British anti-slavery literature of the eighteenth century." (Subtitle) Bibliographical note. Index.

"Within rather severe limitations, Professor Sypher has produced a well-written book that will be of interest to students of European expansion and modern humanitarianism as well as to students of English literature. His title, bringing the doctrine of 'the noble Negro' into focus, is well chosen. His treatment of anti-slavery verse, drama, and fiction makes sprightly reading. A broader outlook and wider research might well have resulted in a definitive volume." Lowell Ragatz

+ — Am Hist R 48:401 Ja '43 280w

"The volume tends to have the character of an anthology and to be lacking in systematic analysis. Despite the shortcomings indicated, the book represents a competent research undertaking and will prove useful to the student of race and culture." S. M. Strong
+ — Am J Soc 48:293 S '42 410w

"A serious, solid and not unentertaining monograph."

+ Books p22 N 29 '42 400w

SYPPER, F. W.—Continued

Reviewed by Eric Williams

Pol Sci Q 57:636 D '42 500w

"In the discussion of his material Sypper writes understandingly and well, but one detects a struggle against a hidden anti-Negro bias which reveals itself occasionally. Sypper maintains, for the most part an objectivity which makes his volume a useful contribution in the field of intellectual and literary history." G. G. Johnson

+ — Social Forces 21:260 D '42 500w

T

TABOR, PAUL. Wreath for Europa [Eng title: Epitaph for Europe]. 336p $3 Washburn [8s 6d Hodder]

914 Europe—Description and travel. Europe—Politics (W) 42-21624

"An 'Inside Europe,' packed with anecdote and pen-portraits of celebrities, surveying no fewer national scenes than Mr. Gunther, but with ideas, literature and art well in the foreground, and politics in the narrower sense, relegated to the rear. Mr. Tabor left Hungary apparently in the early twenties both of the century and of his own life, was a student in Berlin, and from then onwards darted to and fro between the major capitals on theatrical or journalistic jobs, with bad patches in which he did navvy's or porter's work, or something less common and less salubrious. He dashed methodically also to the minor capitals (somehow omitting Tirana), and of course did not restrict himself, unless in one or two countries, to their political centres." Times [London] Lit Sup

Reviewed by Whit Burnett

Books p2 S 20 '42 850w

"'A Wreath for Europa' gives the impression now of hurry, now of copious padding, now of unquestionable sincerity, and again of deep-felt prophecy. Perhaps such was Mr. Tabor's intention."

+ — Christian Science Monitor p10 O 17 '42 550w

"Book is filled with witty reflections but does not always escape superficiality. Interesting for people who never had opportunity to visit pre-Hitler Europe and want to learn about it in an entertaining way. Recommended for large public libraries." F. E. Hirsch

+ Library J 67:681 Ag '42 100w

"[The author] depicts and interprets [the people] and their countries shrewdly, vividly, and with humanity; above all, he believes that though the old Europe is gone a new and happier one will be born if men of goodwill do their duty by it." G. P.

+ Manchester Guardian p3 Ap 29 '42 200w

Reviewed by Felizia Seyd

N Y Times p16 S 13 '42 1100w

"Familiar mood and material, but readable and nicely done."

New Yorker 18:59 Ag 29 '42 50w

"Mr. Tabor, though, as we learn, a surprisingly prolific writer, is a very young man. Born in 1908, he himself never knew that pre-1914 Europe for whose easygoing charms so many authors today are tempted to plait their more or less colorful wreath. And since Mr. Tabor's historical scholarship does not go very deep, he accepts at their face-value the phenomena of the great interlude of 1919 to 1939. This produces a sort of disarming naïveté and makes for a certain freshness. But his wreath, too, will fade pretty soon. . . Mr Tabor is at his best when dealing with his native Hungary—and at the same time at his weakest. For here, his internationalism vanishes rapidly." Robert Pick

+ — Sat R of Lit 25:6 Ag 29 '42 700w

Times [London] Lit Sup p146 Mr 28 '42 550w

TABOUI, MME GENEVIEVE R. They called me Cassandra. 436p $3 Scribner

B or 92 Journalists—Correspondence, reminiscences, etc. France—Politics and government. Europe—Politics. World war, 1939—Causes 42-6912

Memoirs of the famous French political writer, formerly editor of the Paris newspaper L'Œuvre. Madame Tabouis covers the years from 1900 to 1940, but most stress is placed on European politics and personalities from the 1924 session of the League of nations to the fall of France in 1940. The author is a niece of Jules Cambon, and a friend of many high-ranking European officials, among them Herriot, Briand, and Beneš, so her training was received in aristocratic circles, but her faith in the common people of France is boundless. She gained a wide reputation for her news scoops, and her prophecies, and Hitler once referred to her in a speech as "that wisest of women, she knows what I am about to do even before I know it myself." Madame Tabouis escaped to England after the French debacle, and is now living in the United States. Index.

Reviewed by Eric Severeid

Am Hist R 48:115 O '42 550w

Booklist 38:274 Ap 1 '42

"Mme. Tabouis's book contains some minor slips. For example the name of Leon Bourgeois, the great French champion of the League of nations is misspelled Bourjois. . . But the book is such fascinating reading that it seems ungrateful to bring up such peccadillos. And although Mme. Tabouis has often been guilty of facile optimism, she is not, like the men of Vichy, one to be daunted by temporary reverses of the hour." John Elliott

+ — Books p6 Mr 8 '42 1100w

Reviewed by Clifton Macon

Churchman 156:16 Ap 1 '42 270w

Reviewed by R. G. Woolbert

Foreign Affairs 20:781 Jl '42 40w

"Important contribution to political history, especially of France." L. R. Etzkorn

+ Library J 67:224 Mr 1 '42 60w

Reviewed by Pierre Cot

Nation 154:432 Ap 11 '42 700w

"The contents of the book are unbalanced and uneven in quality. Insignificant pages and superfluous indiscretions are followed by excellent analysis of international political events, analysis supported at times by hitherto unknown documentation. Indeed, it is safe to say that in the best parts of her book Mme. Tabouis will be a very important source for future historians of the present age—if they use her discretion and are able to separate passion from fact. In all probability she will cause them the same difficulties she caused statesmen at the peak of her journalistic activity. It will be difficult to use her autopsy as a completely reliable historical source, however." Milos Safranek

+ — N Y Times p4 Mr 15 '42 1250w

"A sad story but pleasantly and deftly told."

+ New Yorker 18:79 Mr 14 '42 70w

Pratt p6 O '42

"Tabouis is a slapdash writer. The details of accuracy have no attraction for her. She has given little care to the American edition of her memoirs. Not even the French names have been checked. She has a wrong date for the French invasion of the Ruhr; she is a month out in the murder of Dollfuss. And how in the world did a succession of correctors manage to pass the grotesque statement that Stanley Baldwin, England's last conservative prime minister, is 'a descendant of William Morris?' Baldwin was born only thirty-three years after Morris." S. K. Ratcliffe

Sat R of Lit 25:8 Mr 28 '42 850w

Time 39:76 Mr 30 '42 1700w

Wis Lib Bul 38:67 Ap '42

Reviewed by Leo Gershow

Yale R n s 31:834 summer '42 250w

TAFT, DONALD REED. Criminology; an attempt at a synthetic interpretation with a cultural emphasis. 708p il $4.50 Macmillan
364 Crime and criminals 42-13886

"The present text attempts to collect and interpret the more important knowledge about crime and its causation. It assumes that criminals are products and presents much, though inadequate, evidence to support that assumption. One of the major characteristics of the book is perhaps that it goes beyond such a collection of evidence and tries consistently to work out the implications of the apparent fact that criminals are products... The second and third characteristics of this book are probably seen in its attempt to integrate a strong cultural emphasis with a synthetic approach." (Pref) Index.

"The book is by no means void of original contributions to criminological knowledge, consisting in valuable analyses of theories advanced by others, and penetrating observations made on the basis of research data. The chapter on 'Experimental New Penology' deserves special mention. Particularly interesting are the suggestions concerning criminal law, of which one would like to see further elaboration. A progressive and humane approach to the problem of criminal behavior is characteristic of the whole work." P. Lejins
+ Ann Am Acad 223:258 S '42 600w

Booklist 38:436 J1 15 '42

"This is a fine piece of work and a definite contribution to the understanding of the problem of crime." G. K. Brown
+ Social Forces 21:254 D '42 450w
Social Studies 33:288 O '42 10w

TAFT, HORACE DUTTON. Memories and opinions. 336p il $3 Macmillan

B or 92 42-14060

The author of these informally written reminiscences is a brother of William Howard Taft. He was the founder and for many years headmaster of a school for boys in Watertown, Connecticut. Much of his book deals with the school and the boys and his educational theories and beliefs, but there are also notes and observations on politics and national and international affairs and anecdotes of men and women he has known.

"A more delightful book of desultory reminiscences and opinions it would be difficult to imagine. It is not so much literature as good conversation."

+ Christian Century 59:634 My 13 '42 170w

"To anyone who knows Horace Dutton Taft, his Memories and Opinions is a delight. I confess that I have read the book through three times with added pleasure at each perusal. It is a case where the book is the man, for in the writing you can see Horace Taft. The writing is simple, sincere, honest, without the slightest pretense, and you get the opinions of a man whose opinions are worth having." Lewis Perry

+ New Eng Q 15:528 S '42 900w

"There are dozens of amusing stories in these pages, for Mr. Taft has a Lincolnian propensity for illustrating a situation with an anecdote. They show him as a man who is alert to the qualities and frailties of human nature and as sympathetic to all of them. His book is mighty good company and its tag line, quoting an old Negro preacher, aptly sums up his philosophy: 'Bredren, we must cooperate with the inevitable.'" E. F. Allen

+ N Y Times p16 My 24 '42 600w

"Mr. Taft's autobiography is an exception to the general rule that books by or about headmasters are without much merit or interest. Most such books fall between the sentimental chirpings of a Mr. Chips and the preachments of unchallenged moralists. But after fifty years of guiding boys, Horace Taft's ideas remain as long and straight as his body. His life has been characterized by pleasant sanity, and the record of it makes welcome reading these days." LeRoy Makepeace

+ Yale R n s 32:200 autumn '42 800w

TAGGARD, GENEVIEVE. Long view. 113p $2 Harper

811

(W) 42-13259

Poems on many subjects, among them Vermont, Negroes, and war sufferers. Some of the poems were written for music; all of them were written from the liberal point of view.

Reviewed by Elizabeth Drew

Atlantic 170:150 N '42 210w

Booklist 38:382 Je 15 '42

"The recent poems of Genevieve Taggard have the unpretentious look of poetry in its everyday clothes. The verse is casual in appearance, and direct and friendly in its whole effect. If on occasion it falls short of clean-cut austerity, it makes up for it by bearing a pretty fair likeness to the best that has been thought and said in this country during the last two years." Howard Baker

+ Books p8 J1 12 '42 550w

"The interesting work in her book is an attempt to write words for music. There are notes about her experience in this that are so personal that there is no public reason for discussing them. There is a group of spirituals dedicated to the Negro people. Miss Taggard's learned diction simply does not mix with the natural music of the Negroes, and the sooner she detaches herself from this spurious patronizing, the better will be her own pedantic and perfectly patterned poetry. What is good and has always been good about her poetry is her unaffected love, when it has been unaffected, for an imagined perfect humanity and her experience of an imperfect environment." P. M. Jack

+ N Y Times p5 My 17 '42 550w

"One should not be reduced to liking mere parts of poems; and reading Miss Taggard's latest book I am too often distracted by technique, I feel the unqualified pleasure of poetry too seldom. More than anything else the collection gives the impression of experiment, as though Miss Taggard, wishing to renew herself, were in some sense producing juvenilia again. The process is necessary, even laudable. Many of the poems that come from it, however, are such as the poet may well write, but should not be satisfied to print." Edward Weismiller

+ Poetry 61:400 O '42 950w

"I would say in general that you will find life and variety in this book, still of a talent in process, but of a real talent. In a difficult time, this poet has given us a great deal that is beautiful, intelligent, and brave. Miss Taggard follows her hope and imagination 'far out of compromise, into white light, into bright danger.' A poet also of subtlety and suggestion. And the fact that she remains unclassifiable is actually high praise." W. R. Benét

+ Sat R of Lit 25:6 Je 20 '42 700w

"A natural singer, Miss Taggard often extends her gamut beyond her reach and, with the best of intentions, forces the tone. Her convictions are hearty, her social sympathies deep and devout, but she over-uses the imperative mood. As a result, many of her challenges are humanly compulsive rather than poetically compelling." Louis Untermeyer

+ Yale R n s 32:368 winter '43 140w

TALAYESVA, DON C. Sun chief; the autobiography of a Hopi Indian; ed. by Leo W. Simmons. 460p $4.25 Yale univ. press

970.2 Hopi Indians A42-2153

Autobiography of a Hopi Indian. Don C. Talayesva, born in the Hopi village at Oraibi, Arizona, in 1890. The first ten years of his life were spent in Oraibi, the next decade in American schools in Arizona and California. After a moving experience in Riverside, California, he returned to his Indian ways of life. The book is quite frank on matters of sex. Index.

"The present book is one of the most complete and one of the most readable of the autobiographies by men of primitive societies... It is interesting and at the same time it is valuable as a social document." Wayne Dennis

+ Ann Am Acad 223:263 S '42 310w

TALAYESVA D. C.—Continued

"Being an honest book about a Hopi, this is a good book about a man, much more honest than most books about white men, hampered as we are by our taboos. If we can for a moment forget them, we shall find here a very admirable man." Erna Fergusson
+ Books p10 Ag 16 '42 1500w

"So far as the reviewer knows, there has never been a comparable picture of the whole Hopi culture, similarly personalized and documented by the testimony of a member of the community. . . . Incidentally, this book considered as a case study might be of value to missionaries who deal with Indians or other peoples whose culture is widely different from our own."

+ Christian Century 59:698 My 27 '42 290w

"For the most part Talayesva's life, as he describes it, is not greatly different from that of many Hopi men of his generation, and to another Hopi Indian the story would probably seem commonplace. But for anyone else the book makes absorbing reading. It answers about all the questions one might ask about Hopi life and behavior." T. N. Campbell
Sat R of Lit 25:37 My 16 '42 320w

"Notwithstanding points of general interest, the volume is too prolix and too monotonous for wide reading. It is, of course, primarily a sociological text and as such may prove to be of considerable value." E. G. Eastman
Springf'd Republican p10 My 7 '42 550w

TALBOT, HAKE. Hangman's Handyman. 342p.
$2 Simon & Schuster

42-21898

Detective story.

"Goofy in spots, with non-slick tendencies, but active and puzzling." Will Cuppy
Books p23 S 20 '42 200w

"This is a humdinger of a story by a new master of ingenuity. Hake Talbot seems headed for a place in the John Dickson Carr class." Kay Irvin

+ N Y Times p18 O 18 '42 240w

"Fine reading for those who like a haunted atmosphere."

+ New Yorker 18:72 S 19 '42 60w

TAMAS, ISTVAN. Sergeant Nikola; a novel of the Chetnik brigades. 311p $2.50 Fischer, L.B.

(W) 42-50211

Novel based on the exploits of General Mihailovic's Chetnik guerrillas in the mountains of Yugoslavia. It is told in the form of letters, written by a Serbian sergeant to his mother, and recounts Sergeant Nikola's adventures and encounters with Nazis and their allies.

Booklist 39:185 Ja 1 '43

"Superficially the book is an extremely satisfactory novel; basically it is a tract for the cause of the unbeaten Yugoslavs. . . . War isn't pretty as Mr. Tamas presents it, but it is both exciting and real in 'Sergeant Nikola.'" F. H. Bullock

+ Books p7 N 29 '42 1200w

Reviewed by Margaret Byard

Commonweal 37:355 Ja 22 '43 500w

"Heartily recommended." Emma Olcott

+ Library J 67:952 N 1 '42 70w

Reviewed by F. T. Marsh

N Y Times p26 D 13 '42 600w

"In spite of the fact that the book is full of the savagery which characterizes all Balkan fighting, plus hideous German brutality, it remains a cheerful narrative, told with the gusto of a young man who, with his comrades, is obviously having the time of his life swooping down on Nazi supply trains and outwitting Nazi garrisons."

+ New Yorker 18:102 D 5 '42 90w

"There is nothing to be said against the poetical freedom of a legend teller. But it is certainly fair to question the wisdom of a method of war novel writing such as Mr. Tamas has employed—a method combining news reporting and fairy tale, current history and melodrama." F. C. Weiskopf

Sat R of Lit 25:17 D 12 '42 400w

Social Studies 34:48 Ja '43 50w

Springf'd Republican p7e D 13 '42 550w

TANAKA, GI-ICHI, baron. Japan's dream of world empire: the Tanaka memorial; ed. with an intro. by Carl Crow. 118p $1.25 Harper 951.8 Manchuria, Japan—Foreign relations.
Eastern question (Far East) 42-3102

"Complete text of the so-called Tanaka Memorial of 1927, the notorious Japanese plan for world conquest attributed to Baron Tanaka and made to look very prophetic indeed by later events. Carl Crow's introduction and notes show that the Japanese have had leanings that way for a long time." (New Yorker) Bibliography.

Booklist 38:249 Mr 15 '42

Reviewed by Wilfrid Fleisher

Books p12 F 8 '42 700w

"As prophecy the memorial has serious shortcomings. But as a key to the mind of the Japanese militarist it should be required reading." M. S. Stewart

Nation 154:288 Mr 7 '42 750w

"There are occasional slips in the memorial; a well known Japanese scientist is referred to as Hotta instead of Hotta. And some of Tanaka's estimates of the trade and mining possibilities of Manchuria seem exaggerated. At the same time it is well worth remembering that Japan broadened its economic base considerably when it took over Manchuria and that we are very imperfectly informed as to what has been done there in building up heavy industries and in obtaining oil from coal and shale. . . . The grim realism of the Tanaka Memorial is underlined by many daily news developments. It deserves a wide audience." W. H. Chamberlin

N Y Times p19 Mr 1 '42 1050w

New Yorker 17:71 F 14 '42 50w

Pratt p14 O '42

"'Japan's Dream of World Empire' will be a worthy addition to any library." Linton Wells
+ Sat R of Lit 25:11 Mr 14 '42 320w

Reviewed by Frederick Rein

Springf'd Republican p7e F 8 '42 800w

Reviewed by E. O. Hauser

Survey G 31:255 My '42 70w

Time 39:90 My 25 '42 70w

TARLE, EVGENII VIKTOROVICH, Napoleon's invasion of Russia, 1812 [tr. from the Russian by G. M] 422p maps $3.50 Oxford

947.07 Napoleonic wars 42-36171

The complete history of Napoleon's invasion of Russia in 1812 ending in failure and bitter tragedy. It is based upon correspondence hitherto unavailable, and contains fresh pictures of personalities and intrigues, and the ruin of the Grand Army. Maps on end papers. Index.

"Tarle's book definitely simplifies the story. But by this very procedure, by using the black-white coloring of courtly against popular, of pseudo-European against national, Russian, it is both challenging and stimulating. Indeed, the directness of his standards of value and their political implications are even more interesting than the description itself, though at some of the high spots the narrative is full of dramatic intensity." Dietrich Gerhard
+ Am Hist R 48:309 Ja '43 1450w

Reviewed by W. H. Chamberlin

Atlantic My '42 350w

Booklist 38:328 My 1 '42

"Scholarly and extremely definite book. It is sound factual history, free from metaphysics and free from romance, great only because of its sober directness. It tells the familiar story remarkably well, and, at the dramatic moments, in the very words of eye-witnesses." Albert Guerard

+ Books p3 Ap 5 '42 1800w

"This work has not only a high historical and scientific value, it gives us an exhaustive and clear-sighted psychological picture of the Russian people defending their fatherland, of their leaders, and of the remarkable spirit of resistance they offered at the time. Here we have indeed a 'prefiguration' of what is going on at present on the Russian front, and the analogy is so vivid that it is almost uncanny." Helen Iswolsky

+ Commonweal 36:140 My 29 '42 1100w

"Tarié's superb account of the five months that shook the world belongs, by the time of its composition in 1937, to the Russian era of bad feeling; by its merit it deserves a high place in the perfectly enormous body of historical literature on Napoleon." Leo Gershoy

+ Current Hist 2:226 My '42 600w

Reviewed by Rustem Vambery
Nation 154:467 Ap 13 '42 650w

Reviewed by A. M. Nikolaieff
N Y Times p1 Ap 5 '42 1500w

"Military history is generally pretty dull. Tarié's book, though it has its pedestrian passages, is an exception. The translation, by 'G. M.', seems adequate. It is without elegance or force, but then Tarié is not a writer with any particular gift of style." Clifton Fadiman

New Yorker 18:77 Mr 28 '42 600w

"An interesting book, not only for its innumerable sidelights and revealing details of actual history, but even more for the way in which it illuminates the way many important Russians now think and feel." Crane Brinton

+ Sat R of Lit 25:9 Mr 28 '42 1000w

Reviewed by Crane Brinton
Sat R of Lit 25:3 Ag 29 '42 1050w

"This story of Russia's First Fatherland War comes most appropriately at the time when her Second Fatherland War is in full fury. The parallels between the Napoleonic war of 1812 and the present war have been a common subject of discussion since the day Hitler began his attack on the U.S.S.R. And yet one has to read Eugene Tarié's masterly account of Napoleon's invasion to realize fully the striking analogy as regards both the international situation and the war itself, and, above all, the spirit of the Russian people. In reading this remarkable book, written in 1937, one is gradually overcome by a strange feeling of complete fusion between past and present, and one begins to grasp as never before the fundamental continuity of the process of history." George Vernadsky

+ Yale R n s 31:817 summer '42 1050w

TARRY, ELLEN. Hezekiah Horton; pictures by Oliver Harrington. 39p $1 Viking

(W) 42-18466

Hezekiah Horton was a small colored boy with a large admiration for automobiles. In this story for grades two to four, Hezekiah gets a ride in a beautiful shiny red automobile and makes a friend in the owner of the car.

Booklist 39:36 O 1 '42

"It is to the credit of all concerned in making this slight but tender little book that the matter of color is not mentioned and that its many drawings are not grotesque. A car has its charm for any little boy whose mind runs that way." M. L. Becker

+ Books p9 S 13 '42 380w

Cath World 156:373 D '42 50w
Churchman 156:15 N 15 '42 10w

"Every car-minded small boy who can read at all will find this story exactly right. Its plot ingredients are so much the essence of his daily living and aspiration that it needs no oversimplified vocabulary. Recommended for all libraries." J. L. Sauer

+ Library J 67:797 S 15 '42 70w

"A natural and very delightful picture story."

R. A. Hill

+ Library J 67:883 O 15 '42 50w

"At last we have a realistic, honest book about a negro boy in Harlem. Hezekiah speaks the language of all American children, and it is a step upward when negro children in books are no longer handicapped by the Negro dialect." Majorie Flack

+ Sat R of Lit 25:25 N 14 '42 50w

TARSHIS, MRS ELIZABETH (KENT). Look at America; il. by Harold Haydon. [96p] $2 McBride

917.3 U.S.—Civilization—Juvenile literature (W) 42-23238

Pictures and simple text describe the democratic way of life in America. The pictures, which are in color, resemble cartoons, and should interest children in grades four to seven.

Booklist 39:75 N 1 '42

Reviewed by M. L. Becker

Books p10 D 13 '42 330w

Cath World 156:374 D '42 20w

TATE, ALLEN, ed. Language of poetry, by Philip Wheelwright [and others]. 135p $2 Princeton univ. press

808.1 Poetry 42-14242

Four lectures on the nature and function of poetry delivered at Princeton university under the auspices of the Creative Arts Programme. The contributors are: Philip Wheelwright, Cleanth Brooks, I. A. Richards, Wallace Stevens.

Reviewed by Elizabeth Drew
Books p21 Ap 5 '42 500w

"One gets the unmistakable impression that he is reading the best critical minds; and there is the further impression that a movement is under way, that certain notions have been adopted in common, that certain findings are being refined and modified by the components of the group. But you also feel that the critics got stuck in the middle of their papers. The essays are inconclusive, uncertain or downright disappointing; each paper starts out promisingly enough and then somewhere toward the end the main idea gets lost or de-emphasized or the logic shifts to a dubious plane." Harvey Breit

+ New Repub 106:437 Mr 30 '42 650w

"In this particular volume, in spite of its title, very little is said about the language of poetry. The trouble with these essays . . . is that they all come out of the same type of mind, the same school of thought. Also, though some salient ideas are expressed, others are commonplace, and one feels if the group could only have met together in a cafe with another group, threshed out their ideas and winnowed them, the reader would not have to wade through so much ineffective language." M. M. Colum

N Y Times p9 Mr 22 '42 1550w

TATE, ALLEN, ed. Princeton verse between two wars; an anthology; with a preface. 112p $2.50 Princeton univ. press

811.08 American poetry—Collections 42-13062

"Between 1916 and 1925 three volumes of Princeton verses were published. In those three volumes appeared the work of many men who have gained distinction in the field of letters, though not usually as poets. . . In the present collection appears work by eleven men who are now undergraduate students at Princeton and by twenty-five men who have been, at one time or another, undergraduate or graduate students there." Nation

Books p18 Jl 12 '42 150w

"Even if it contained no very good poems, the collection would still be interesting as a symptom. But there are a number of very good poems in the book, and a large amount of skilful and intelligent verse. In this connection it is particularly satisfying to observe the high level of the work by contributors who are still students. Even if none of these eleven young men becomes a poet, it can still be said that poetry is alive in the academic community of which, at present, they are members." R. P. Warren

TATE, ALLEN—Continued

+ Nation 155:137 Ag 15 '42 480w

TATE, ALLEN, and BISHOP, JOHN PEALE, eds. American harvest; twenty years of creative writing in the United States. 544p $3.50 Fischer, L.B.

810.8 American literature—Collections (W) 42-23613

An anthology of creative writing by American writers of the period 1920 to 1940. Includes short stories, excerpts from novels, poetry and literary criticism by Ernest Hemingway, S. V. Benét, Willa Cather, Erskine Caldwell, T. S. Eliot, Marianne Moore, E. S. Millay, Mark Van Doren, Van Wyck Brooks, Edmund Wilson, Kay Boyle, Julian Green, J. P. Bishop, E. E. Cummings, Carl Sandburg, John Steinbeck, and others. Biographical notes.

Booklist 39:99 N 15 '42

Books p22 O 11 '42 180w

Reviewed by Margaret Meagher
Cath World 156:500 Ja '43 500w

Reviewed by Emily Garnett
Library J 67:844 O 1 '42 70w

Reviewed by Louis Kronenberger
Nation 155:592 N 28 '42 950w

Reviewed by Malcolm Cowley
New Repub 107:505 O 19 '42 1300w

"A superior collection, long on stylists."
+ New Yorker 18:75 O 10 '42 60w

"This anthology is an excellent representation of interests severely limited, restricted to a special view of the function of literature, a notion of esthetics that descends from Walter Pater. . . One reading this collection only would infer that the literary life of the nation since 1920 has moved steadily in the direction of what is precious, the peculiar possession of a small coterie, above the battle and out of the world. But perhaps the editors do not mean by 'a literature' what educated people have actually read, perhaps they mean only to include that which as critics they think that people ought to read." H. M. Jones

Sat R of Lit 25:16 O 24 '42 1400w

"If there had never been an anthology of contemporary American literature (excluding the novel), this would be an exciting and stimulating contribution. If one does not own such a collection and is not over-familiar with the material gathered together here, 'American Harvest' is well worth having. Perhaps the introduction promises too much, and the pages that follow are mildly anticlimactic. Evidently in the field of publishing, as in all others, one cannot cry 'Surprise! surprise!' too often."

+ — Springfield Republican p6 O 12 '42 470w
Time 40:107 N 16 '42 280w

TATE, MERZE. The disarmament illusion; the movement for a limitation of armaments to 1907. 398p $4 Macmillan

341.6 Disarmament 42-17792

"A definitive story of the disarmament movement to 1907, published under the auspices of the Bureau of International Research of Harvard University and Radcliffe College. Includes, as Introduction, 'Resumé of the Movement for Disarmament to 1870'; Part I: 'Public Opinion and the Movement for Disarmament, 1870-1898'; Part II: 'The Tsar's Rescript'; Part III: 'The Movement for Disarmament, 1899-1907.'" School & Society

"Our report upon this contribution from the Harvard and Radcliffe Bureau of International Research must be somewhat mixed. The study was written as a doctoral thesis and retains some of the qualities peculiar to that type of composition. There is also in evidence that curious mixture of sophomoric profundity ('The great movements in history . . . have their roots in bygone ages') with dependence upon others, regarded as 'authorities,' although much of the lavish citation of other writers seems traceable to an effort to picture currents of thought or opinion. . . However, it must be recorded also that the volume provides fascinating material for a student of the problem of disarmament in its political aspects." P. B. Potter

+ — Am Pol Sci R 36:973 O '42 450w

Reviewed by L. M. Sears
Ann Am Acad 224:201 N '42 500w

Reviewed by T. H. Thomas
Atlantic 170:106 Ag '42 350w

Books p44 N 15 '42 80w

"Dr. Tate has burrowed into all sorts of sources of information with the most praiseworthy zeal so that we are able to see more clearly than heretofore why, on the one hand, the disarmament movement enlisted so much of the world's finest thought and aspiration and, on the other hand, why it was sabotaged and finally overwhelmed in the catastrophe of 1914. The work has been done so well that it is to be hoped that Dr. Tate will give us another volume in which she will describe how the later attempt after Versailles was made and how, in its turn, its failure proved to be the prelude to another world war that may yet be more devastating than the first." Alvin Adey

+ Current Hist 3:260 N '42 700w

Reviewed by H. H. A. Bernt
Library J 67:582 Je 15 '42 80w

Manchester Guardian p3 S 18 '42 200w
School & Society 56:168 Ag 29 '42 60w

TAUBES, FREDERIC. You don't know what you like; a yardstick for aesthetic judgment in painting. 183p pl $3 Dodd

750 Painting. Esthetics (W) 42-21167

"Contemporary painter gives honest, forthright interpretation of painting and drawing, beginning with discussion of modern criticism and ending with primer of art terminology. Chapters on types of painters, color, contour, composition, light, and taste precede analysis of various pictures, both modern and Renaissance, which are reproduced with the text." (Library J) Glossary.

"Refreshing for its candor and humor, but Mr. Taubes, a creative artist himself, is filled with so many personal prejudices, which explode violently on every page, that value of his book is limited. Conversational and readable style." Rice Estes

+ — Library J 67:681 Ag '42 90w

"So large a subject naturally leads [the author] into occasional generalities, but apart from this and a certain mild impatience with most moderns, he manages to cover the matter eloquently and instructively."

+ — New Yorker 18:68 O 3 '42 70w

TAX INSTITUTE. Financing the war, by Robert Warren [and others] symposium conducted by the Institute, Dec. 1-2, 1941, Philadelphia. 357p $2.50 The Institute, 135 S. 36th st, Philadelphia

336 World war, 1939—Finance. Finance—U.S. War—Economic aspects 42-8816

"This is a timely treatment of war finance by eighteen contributors, authorities in their respective fields. The authors are federal government officials, professors of public finance, and representatives from England, Canada, and the field of private business. A realistic approach is indicated in the opening chapters on the function and scope of war finance (Robert Warren) and the implications of federal fiscal policy (Homer Jones). The volume next shifts its emphasis to types of taxes and their application under inflationary war-time conditions. Here the excess profits tax, general sales tax, selective excises, income, and social security taxes are considered. The much debated proposals of forced loans, and of increased social security taxes to offset inflation, are treated by Albert G. Hart. British (Brinley Thomas) and Canadian (William H. Wynne) efforts to control prices and prevent inflation are particularly interesting. Valuable object-lessons concerning our own fiscal policy are suggested from the experience of countries at war longer than the United States." (Am Pol Sci R) Bibliography. Index.

"The symposium's permanent value lies in the fact that its articles are broadly conceived and stress principles and policies in addition to applications to specific situations." E. W. Carter

Am Pol Sci R 36:555 Je '42 410w

"A volume which is both timely and substantive in character." Paul Studenski

+ Ann Am Acad 223:209 S '42 1200w

"On the whole Financing the War is timely, informative, and stimulating. It does not have as systematic a development of issues as is to be found in volumes like Hart and Allen, Paying for Defense, and Crum, Fennelly, and Seltzer, Fiscal Planning for Total War. The reviewer would like to have seen expounded in greater detail the impact on the distribution of national income and wealth of the alternative tax measures discussed. Nor does he feel that the contributors have envisaged sufficiently our past history as a laboratory in which different fiscal experiments have been tried with varying consequences for the social welfare. But this volume, if read in conjunction with the more recent essays in economic journals, will help citizens to understand their own and the nation's fiscal problems and to support wise and courageous tax legislation." Sidney Ratner

+ — Harvard Law R 56:665 Ja '43 1350w

Reviewed by A. G. Buehler

J Pol Econ 50:629 Ag '42 600w

"Financing the War" is recommended reading for the economist, and highly desirable reading for the business man who is wondering about the shape of things to come on the home front."

+ Management R 31:108 Mr '42 360w

"This reviewer has only one fault to find with the volume as a whole. Remarkably little attention is devoted to the domestic economic problems which will plague the economy after the war as a result of wartime financing." Max Millikan

+ — Yale Law J 51:1224 My '42 1800w

TAX INSTITUTE. Tax barriers to trade, by Mark Eisner [and others] symposium conducted by the Institute, Dec. 2-3, 1940, Chicago, 344p $2.50 The Institute, 135 S. 36th st, Philadelphia

337 U.S.—Commercial policy. Taxation—U.S. Interstate commerce. Sales tax 41-8371

"The book is the product of a two-day symposium conducted by the Tax Institute at Chicago, and reproduces the addresses of twenty-nine distinguished students of the general topic. The foreword is by Dr. Mabel L. Walker, director of the Institute. A general introduction is contributed by Mark Eisner, chairman of the symposium committee. The volume is divided into six parts: (1) 'The Menace of Tax Barriers to Trade'; (2) 'Highway Trade Barriers'; (3) 'Commodity Trade Barriers'; (4) 'Marketing Trade Barriers'; (5) 'Tax Barriers to International Trade'; and (6) 'What Can Be Done about Trade Barriers?'. The book contains an index and a well-rounded bibliography." Am Pol Sci R

Reviewed by C. J. Rohr

Am Pol Sci R 35:805 Ag '41 340w

"Unhappily, the amount of enlightenment to be had from once-over-lightly lectures, delivered for the most part by people with economic axes to grind, is rather small. The past few years have produced sufficient invective to stimulate public interest in the existence of interstate trade barriers. If we are to preserve the free market in the United States, our principal need today is for carefully documented studies and proposals for reform; this collection of lectures makes no very substantial contribution to the problem." H. H. N.

Harvard Law R 55:176 N '41 210w

TAYLOR, CLARA MAE. Food values in shares and weights. 92p $1.50 Macmillan

641.1 Food. Nutrition 42-11238

"This book of food values has been prepared for those who are interested in the nutritive values of common everyday foods and in appraising the nutritive quality of diets. Values are given for common measures of foods in order to simplify calculations. Approximately 500 common foods and prepared dishes are included in the tables. The measures, weights, and calorie values of many of the recipes have been taken from the booklet entitled, Food Values of Recipes in Shares and Vitamin Units, by Mary Swartz Rose and Clara Mae Taylor, the protein, mineral, and vitamin values having been completely recalculated according to more recent information on food composition. In addition, many new recipes have been prepared and included in the tables along with new values for a number of foods. The foods selected and the various measures used are based on the requests of many students over a period of years." (Pref) Bibliography.

"The book will be valuable to teachers of nutrition and also offer a very definite help to public health nurses as well as to the housewife who wants to help herself." M. A. Davis

+ Am J Pub Health 32:882 Ag '42 180w

"This is a useful book for the teacher, dietitian, social worker, and others needing to calculate nutritive values of diets. It will be particularly well received by those who use the share system, as the first half of the book is devoted to giving nutritive values in shares." B. L. Kunerth

+ J Home Econ 36:486 S '42 80w

TAYLOR, DEMETRIA. Nutrition handbook. 231p $2 Doubleday

641.1 Nutrition. Diet (W) 42-21652

"A complete guide to the nutritional content of the food we eat." (Subtitle) Partial contents: The importance of food; Introducing the vitamins; Minerals and proteins in review; Energy foods; Water; Nutrition in terms of three meals a day; Meals for the children; Meal planning and marketing; Menu masterpieces; Fads and fancies. Bibliography. Index.

Booklist 39:117 D 1 '42

"The general principles of nutrition and food preparation given in this book are sound and will answer many of the questions frequently asked by homemakers. However, in an attempt to present the subject for the reader with a nontechnical background, the writer is inclined to oversimplify some points." B. K. Watt

+ — J Home Econ 35:48 Ja '43 100w

TAYLOR, MRS FLORANCE (WALTON). Owen of the Bluebird; il. by Harve Stein. 246p $2 Whitman, A.

42-9471

Story of a Welsh boy who came to the United States in the 1890's, worked in the Illinois coal fields, studied to be a surveyor, and grew to be such a person of value in the community that he was called in to keep peace between mine owners and workers. For junior high school boys.

"Lacks literary distinction, but has value as picture of American life." J. E. Wooster

Library J 67:416 My 1 '42 70w

Wis Lib Bul 38:143 O '42

TAYLOR, FRANK SHERWOOD. Conquest of bacteria, from salvarsan to sulphapyridine; foreword by Henry E. Sigerist. 175p $2 Philosophical lib, 15 E. 40th st, N.Y.; Alliance bk. [6s Secker & Warburg]

615.1 Drugs. Medicine

"An English scientist traces the discovery and uses of such drugs as arsphenamine and the sulfanilamide group and makes a warm plea for public subsidy of chemical research in the field of medicine." New Yorker

TAYLOR, F. S.—Continued

Booklist 38:326 My 1 '42

"This small book is one of the best of the year in the popular science field. It deals with a subject of universal interest and importance, provides the necessary historical background, states plainly and soberly the facts which the layman can assimilate—and a few more—and finally shows forcefully how society can gain by the public support of scientific research in the field in question, namely, the chemical control of disease." H. M. Parsley

+ Books p22 Ag 23 '42 430w

Reviewed by T. H. Hawkins

Nature 147:99 Ja 25 '41 300w

"Up-to-date, short, and simply done."

+ New Yorker 18:72 Mr 21 '42 50w

"Well-written little book. . . The author is an eminent English scientist, well known for his ability as an expositor for the layman."

+ Scientific Bk Club R 13:4 Mr '42 30w

"The book combines the popular appeal of a well-written exciting narrative with the permanent utility of an accurate presentation of important and topical scientific facts. It is full of the sort of information most people want to know."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p403 Ag 17 '40 100w

TAYLOR, GEORGE EDWARD. America in the new Pacific. 160p $1.75 Macmillan

950 Eastern question (Far East), U.S.—Foreign relations. Asia—Politics (W) 42-9116

The author is an expert on Far Eastern affairs who has lived, taught, and traveled in the Orient. This book is an analysis of the reasons for our war with Japan, and a study of the differing philosophies of East and West. Contents: Our struggle with Japan; America in Asia; The United States—a Pacific power; Japan—a planned empire; Western empires and subject peoples; China as an ally; Asia for whom? Index.

"Readers who have devoted any considerable study to the history of Far Eastern international relations will find little that is new or original in this book. To the layman, however, it brings a discriminating summation of the findings and opinions of more studious works; and layman and expert alike will find the author's own conclusions worth serious consideration." A. W. Griswold

+ Ann Am Acad 222:209 Jl '42 500w

Booklist 38:307 Ap 15 '42

Reviewed by P. J. Searles

Books p10 Jl 12 '42 500w

"As a relatively short treatise that could be comfortably read in an evening, America in the New Pacific should be a real addition to the equipment of any man or woman anxious to follow intelligently the current march of events. Such a reader should, however, provide himself with a good large-scale map, for that given in the book is much too small to be helpful." J. D. Squires

+ Christian Century 55:596 My 6 '42 700w

"Recommended for university and public libraries." Walter Hausdorfer

+ Library J 67:319 Ap 1 '42 130w

"An arresting and penetrating study of our conflict with Japan, the causes of that conflict, and some of the tremendous issues which will have to be faced when we have won the war." Hallett Abend

+ Nation 154:687 Je 13 '42 1100w

"Mr. Taylor is conspicuously a summarizer of ideas. In this very short book his most striking success has been in keeping the facts within such well managed proportions that they are ample for the discussion of ideas without being so multifarious that they confuse thought. . . . Even so, it must be said that Mr. Taylor's summary does not escape the weakness of practically all summaries: it compresses, even more than it develops, the discussion of ideas. Because the writer has an acute mind, the ideas that he starts up are worth discussing; but for the most part the reader must continue the discussion himself." Owen Lattimore

+ — New Repub 107:238 Ag 24 '42 750w

"Here, as in regard to many of the other ideas in the book, there is much material for thought and discussion. No other recent publication on the Far East assays so well in terms of original and stimulating ideas." W. H. Chamberlin

+ N Y Times p1 My 17 '42 1000w

"There are a number of clear and useful sections in this book, as for instance the chapter on Japan. This may also be said of parts of the second and third chapters on American policy and interest. The book as a whole, however, at least to this reviewer, lacks clarity of organization and of thought. Somewhere in the book nearly every point of view, contradictory or not, finds expression with the result that the component parts of our war in the Pacific are not clearly disentangled from each other nor depicted in their world setting." F. V. Field

+ — Pacific Affairs 15:238 Je '42 1100w

Reviewed by J. L. Christian

Pol Sci Q 57:469 S '42 420w

"It is a careful, unbiased, and masterly analysis that George Taylor presents in his book. If one must find fault, it is that he has covered too much ground in too little space; but even with all its gaps the book is a valuable contribution to an understanding of our stakes and role in the Pacific." Mark Gayn

+ Sat R of Lit 25:18 Ap 18 '42 650w

"This book, remarkably free of prophecy, is well written and carries a convincing argument." E. O. Hauser

+ Survey G 31:256 My '42 130w

Wis Lib Bul 38:86 My '42

"Professor Taylor's 'America in the New Pacific' is an important book, the work of an English-born scholar of considerable experience in China who is now in the process of naturalization as an American citizen. . . His analysis of internal forces in China is masterly, the best this reviewer has read. And his suggestions for post-war re-ordering of eastern Asia are sensible and liberal. Mr. Taylor is a notable accession to the ranks of American scholarship." H. S. Quigley

+ Yale R n s 31:856 summer '42 850w

TAYLOR, HENRY JUNIOR. Time runs out. 333p $3 Doubleday

940.53 World war, 1939-

(W) 42-11033

Account of the author's trips across Europe during the last months of 1941, visiting England, Scotland, Germany, Sweden, Finland, France, and Spain. Index.

Booklist 38:344 My 15 '42

Reviewed by W. R. Deuel

Books p20 Je 7 '42 430w

"No book on the war that the present reviewer has read gives a stronger emphasis to the time element and its importance in the present conflict. Quite evidently Mr. Taylor fears that the war may be lost unless the dimensions of the danger facing us are more clearly understood, and the relentlessness and audacity of the Nazi planning are better grasped." J. H. Powers

+ Boston Globe p19 My 13 '42 300w

Christian Science Monitor p11 Jl 3 '42 600w

Cleveland Open Shelf p9 My '42

New Repub 106:646 My 11 '42 100w

"The book's faults are few and its interest is very great. It is direct, vital and convincing. And the writer's breadth of spirit is as admirable as his sincerity and courage. No thoughtful American patriot can fail to be thankful for his stirring appreciation of the English, his no less stirring compassion for the French, his implicit call to that effective poise which must join determination with brotherhood and humility." Katherine Woods

+ N Y Times p15 My 3 '42 1150w

New Yorker 18:79 Ap 25 '42 40w

"What makes his book so valuable is Mr. Taylor's ability, in every country visited by him, to go straight to the essential problems and to state them with precision and lucidity." André Maurois

+ Sat R of Lit 25:11 My 2 '42 750w

"It is a vivid, thrilling story, though since it is not too well coordinated [the author] weakens his presentation of the need to strike now on all fronts at the same time. For him, Egypt is the core of the battlefront—who loses Egypt loses the war. He breaks down the argument that time is on our side and calls for action now. None of the implications of this war escape him and no one can fail to be impressed both by his story and his conclusions." C. B. Mahon

+ Survey G 31:392 S '42 230w

Time 39:95 My 11 '42 1100w

Times [London] Lit Sup p494 O 10 '42 800w

TAYLOR, HERBERT C. Private Doakes and me! [188p] il $2 Taylor engr. corp, 2105 McKinney st, Dallas

817

42-25195

"A rhymed and very much illustrated account of the camp experiences and martial adventures of 'Private Doakes,' interspersed with blank pages on which the owner (presumably a recruit who has received it as a gift) can record his own parallel or contrasting experiences." Christian Century

Reviewed by Edward Mack, Jr.

+ Am Chem Soc J 64:1743 J1 '42 800w

Christian Century 59:1258 O 14 '42 40w

Springf'd Republican p7e N 29 '42 140w

TAYLOR, MRS KRESSMANN. Until that day. 314p $2.75 Duell

(W) 42-19761

An account of the Nazi campaign to make the German Lutheran church a party to its scheme of tyranny. It is told in the form of the life story of a young Lutheran minister, Karl Hoffmann, now filling the pulpit in a rural American church. His father, Minister of the Domkirche at Magdeburg, dared to defy the Nazis, and in consequence was murdered by them. The son made his escape afterwards and came to America.

Booklist 39:103 N 15 '42

"Kressmann Taylor is a remarkably gifted writer. If there is artifice in her work she conceals it expertly. Her book succeeds because she is able to make a man live in it. And, being alive, he transforms religious conflict into something as dramatic as a Commando raid. . . This book may seem the story of tragic failure. It is not that at all, only one part of the first and perhaps the most important of the victories over Hitler—the triumph of the naked spirit of man, having no buckler save the Lord's only, over what was the tyrant's conception of invincibility, namely, his machine guns and his henchmen, the ghastly tortures of his concentration camps and the bloody whims that stained his own mind. Kressmann Taylor's book is written in the light of that victory. It will help us to see the desired outlines of our own eventual triumph." G. N. Shuster

+ Books p2 Ag 30 '42 1250w

Cath World 156:509 Ja '43 110w

Reviewed by A. L. Murray

Churchman 156:17 N 1 '42 240w

Nation 155:489 N 7 '42 150w

"Although the book's happenings antedate the war, their recital has an enduring pertinence. And they are of a stirring dramatic interest, as the two generations of Hoffmann pastors meet persecution with unflagging courage, and events bring differing responses from different types of German individuals. Sometimes, too, there's an item which holds another sort of pertinent suggestiveness—as when Karl Hoffmann describes Berlin's air raid precautions in 1937. The city had begun to 'operate on a semi-military basis' by that time."

+ N Y Times p8 Ag 30 '42 500w

"It is a simply and movingly told story. It conveys hope and confidence." H. B. Wreath

+ Sat R of Lit 25:11 S 12 '42 400w

"Of all the books this reviewer has read on the Germany of this period, this clarifies most successfully the inability of the majority of people to withstand Nazi pressure. And it also points up the quality of men like Pastor Niemöller and the father of the hero of this story, who withstood this pressure and paid the penalty bravely. We rejoice in the hero's escape. Wherever in America he is serving his God and expressing his faith, courage and steadfastness must be present." E. H. Johnson

+ Survey G 32:57 F '43 450w

TAYLOR, PHOEBE ATWOOD (ALICE TILTON, pseud). Six iron spiders; an Asey Mayo mystery. 288p $2 Norton

42-15980

Mystery story.

Booklist 38:427 J1 1 '42

"One of the Cape Cod Sherlock's best and gayest cases to date." Will Cuppy

+ Books p18 Je 14 '42 230w

"Uproarious comedy is the keynote of this story. The sleuthing is almost negligible—not nearly up to the Mayo standard." Isaac Anderson

N Y Times p19 Je 21 '42 260w

"Mildly pleasant story."

New Yorker 18:67 Je 20 '42 40w

"Consid'ble good fun poked at First Aiders, well hidden killer, and cool, ca'm and collected detecting. Typical."

Sat R of Lit 25:16 Je 20 '42 30w

TAYLOR, PHOEBE ATWOOD (ALICE TILTON, pseud). Three plots for Asey Mayo. 318p $2 Norton

42-23668

Three short detective stories which originally appeared under slightly different titles in the American magazine. Contents: The Headacre plot; The wander Bird plot; The swan boat plot.

Booklist 39:139 D 15 '42

"That Miss Taylor can write whirlwind novellettes, too. Here are three of them, each and every one full of fun, fury and baffment all starring the Codfish Sherlock, alias the Hayseed Sleuth, and adding up to the equivalent of any full-length puzzle we can recall at the moment." Will Cuppy

+ Books p26 O 25 '42 200w

Reviewed by Isaac Anderson

N Y Times p26 N 1 '42 160w

TAYLOR, ROSS MCLAURY. The saddle and the plow; an historical novel of Texas. 398p $2.50 Bobbs

42-22453

Continuation of the author's Brazos (Book Review Digest, 1938). This is the story of Brazos' marriage to Mary Sullivan, and their long and difficult struggle to make a success of their Texas ranch, in the face of fire, drought, and blizzard.

Booklist 39:201 Ja 15 '43

"Not the least interesting of Mr. Taylor's characters are the horses, Dunton, the big Morgan stallion, and dainty Lady. The horse fair at Fort Worth and the auction in which the leading horse fanciers of the Southwest fought for Brazos's horses is one of the most satisfying moments in a book that has both breadth and power. Mr. Taylor paints Texas with vivid contrasts and a fine lyrical sensitivity that is both delicate and strong." Page Cooper

+ Books p12 O 4 '42 700w

"The publishers have called 'The Saddle and the Plow' a historical novel, which—strictly speaking—it is not. It is a novel with the flavor of the land and the times in a story deeply felt, simple, and, in its derivative sense, homely. Brazos and Mary are the kind of people who make history, in any time or place, without getting so much as a footnote in the history texts. And if Mr. Taylor wants to write yet another novel about them, readers of the first two will think the announcement good news." Margaret Wallace

TAYLOR, R. M.—Continued

+ N Y Times p24 O 11 '42 800w

TAYLOR, WALTER FULLER. Economic novel in America. 378p $4 Univ. of N.C. press

813.09 American fiction. Social problems in literature. U.S.—Social conditions 42-36211

"[The author's] aim has been to describe and interpret the response given by American authorship to one of the major social forces of the latter nineteenth century—the rapid industrialization of our American society, the sudden maturation of the Machine Age. More specifically, [he has] proposed to show how, between the Civil War and the turn of the century, certain democratic and middle-class ideals, which had hitherto been applied chiefly to politics, were so extended as to apply to economics as well, how that democratic ideology found voice in our published fiction; and how, consequently, there developed within that fiction a coherent and incisive critique of capitalistic industrialism." (Pref) Bibliography. Index.

Booklist 38:344 My 15 '42

Reviewed by Kerker Quinn
Books p21 Je 14 '42 1250w

Reviewed by George Mayberry
New Eng Q 15:354 Je '42 1550w

"The title of this book is a gross exaggeration. . . The author has begun with 1870, and then, instead of finding his real climax in 'The Financier' and 'Babbitt' and 'The Big Money', in the growing awareness on the part of our novelists of Veblen's main distinction between production and selling, he has chopped off his investigation at convenient Ph.D. length with the death of Frank Norris. Within these mechanical limitations, he has treated one very interesting phase of a larger evolution." F. O. Matthiessen

+ — New Repub 107:324 S 14 '42 1100w
Pratt p18 O '42

TEAGUE, MRS RUTH TOWNSEND (MILLS), and TEAGUE, WALTER DORWIN. You can't ignore murder. 270p $2 Putnam

Mystery story. 42-36244

Booklist 38:385 Je 15 '42

Reviewed by Will Cuppy
Books p9 Je 28 '42 320w

"A novel of real distinction—one whose mysterious element depends as much upon character as upon material clues." Isaac Anderson
+ N Y Times p19 Je 21 '42 240w

"Has certain shortcomings as a straight detective story but is well characterized and filled with good talk and atmosphere. Different."
+ Sat R of Lit 25:26 Jl 4 '42 40w

TEALE, EDWIN WAY. Byways to adventure; a guide to nature hobbies; il. with phot. by the author. 222p $2.75 Dodd

500 Natural history (W) 42-13102

Describes the relaxation and rewards to be gained from different types of nature hobbies, among them bird watching, astronomy, tree study, microscopy, fossil hunting, and undersea observation. Bibliographies. Index.

Booklist 38:364 Je 1 '42

Bookmark 3:6 My '42

"There is evident advantage to a library in having all these practical points in one volume, especially in times like these, when so many are turning to libraries for suggestions on inexpensive entertainment within walking distance, and when so many family picnics take along nature books."
+ Books p14 My 24 '42 200w

"In 'Byways to Adventure' Edwin Way Teale describes fifteen 'nature hobbies'—and every one of them is both fascinating and sound."

+ N Y Times p8 Je 28 '42 240w

Pratt p13 O '42

Wis Lib Bul 38:94 Je '42

TEALE, EDWIN WAY. Near horizons; the story of an insect garden; il. with more than 160 phot. by the author. 319p $3.75 Dodd

595.7 Insects (W) 42-23287

In an old garden on Long Island the author has planted shrubs, vines, annuals, perennials, and other plants which will attract insects, as a sort of "banquet hall for the six-legged." Here he has studied and photographed flies, wasps, butterflies, beetles, and other visiting insects, and the present volume with its interesting text and photographs is the result. Entomological epilogue. Index.

Booklist 39:97 N 15 '42

"Mr. Teale's photography by this time requires no further praise and probably could not get much better. The professional photographer may claim trick shots of nature. Mr. Teale gives us none such. He does not stunt his camera but employs it straightforwardly to illustrate a story, a whole polity, a world of life which is in itself so fantastic, so eerily lovely, so inhumanly monstrous that photographic fantasies, were they added, would be tasteless and untrue. As a writer Mr. Teale refrains, too, from stunting his facts. . . Like Fabre, he is quite content to take the common insects of our temperate countryside. Well he knows that the familiar is more deeply significant than the superficialities of the exceptional or exotic." D. C. Peattie

+ Books p5 N 1 '42 800w

"As in 'Grassroot Jungles,' 'The Golden Throng,' and other outdoor books from Mr. Teale's pen, the style is both delightful and invigorating. The warmth of Summer sunshine frequently runs liquid in his sentences, but there is the strength, too, of Autumn. His interpretations of the things he has seen may not always have the finality of a conclusion based on laboratory tests, but his book will be read with profit as well as enjoyment, and many a reader will doubtless be stimulated by this book to explore, especially at a time like the present when travel is restricted, the untapped sources of interest at his very doorstep." H. F. Schwarz
+ N Y Times p9 N 29 '42 900w

"Mr. Teale has the gift of transmitting his enthusiasm to the reader. His accumulated memories form the tangible harvest of his garden, and he shares those memories in a most delightful manner. . . More than 140 magnificent photographs are excellently reproduced to illustrate the text. Some of these unique pictures were obtained by the use of a new photographic technique, and all of them reveal intimate glimpses of insect activity. The 'close-ups' and action photographs are especially remarkable."

+ Scientific Bk Club R 13:3 O '42 300w

TEILHET, DARWIN L. Trouble is my master. 335p $2.50 Little

(W) 42-9586

The lively adventures of young Tack Bingham, who was born to trouble, in Philadelphia a few years after the Revolution. Tack was scientific-minded and was interested in an article on a French flying machine which got him into endless trouble. Later he joined forces with Mr Oliver Evans, who had invented a steam-propelled combination boat, wagon and ditch digger. The book has some historical background. Bibliography.

Booklist 38:369 Je 1 '42

"While this tale of Old Philadelphia is, as the publishers claim, 'pure literate fun,' it has also a sturdy abundance of incident, a fine marching plot that should make a place for it among classics for boys as well as their fathers." Page Cooper
+ Books p10 Ap 26 '42 700w

Cath World 155:509 J1 '42 230w

Christian Century 59:862 J1 8 '42 80w

"Tack himself is pictured as a credible and engaging boy. His multifarious misadventures are amusing. The fictional Bingham family and their historical background hit it off together in realistic style. Readers who dote on the minutiae of early America should find the book engrossing. Others no doubt will enjoy it, but still prefer Mr. Teitel in the carefree, adventurous spirit of his earlier 'Bright Destination,' that gay saga of a traveling circus in the South of France." Beatrice Sherman

+ N Y Times p7 Ap 26 '42 600w

"Good fun all around, with a thin background of historical fact."

+ New Yorker 18:78 Ap 25 '42 70w

TELL, ROLF, pseud. ed. Nazi guide to Nazism [Eng title: Sound and Fuehrer]. 192p $2; pa $1 Am. council on public affairs [2s 6d Hurst] 943.036 Germany—Nazi movement 42-25892

"By quotations from Hitler speeches and Nazi pronouncements from a number of other sources, the book allows the Germans to convict themselves out of their own mouths. The excerpts are chosen for their ironic implications, and arranged to emphasize their contradictions and inanities." N Y Times

Am Hist R 48:406 Ja '43 200w

"The book is an enlightening supplement to Mein Kampf."

+ Christian Century 59:1625 D 30 '42 30w

Reviewed by E. F. Allen

N Y Times p18 O 18 '42 270w

"A useful little book this, to be kept at the bedside of those who insist on asking what the present war is about."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p54 F 3 '40 180w

TELLER, WALTER MAGNES. Farm primer; a manual for the beginner and part-time farmer. 266p il $2.50 McKay

630.2 Agriculture 42-15763

Practical handbook for the amateur or part-time farmer. Contains information in condensed form on land, buildings, tools, livestock, and crops. The instructions are general, but application to conditions in the northeastern United States are stressed. Time table of chores, annotated bibliography, tables, and index.

Booklist 38:437 J1 15 '42

"Mr. Teller barks out his advice in staccato style. His wisdom is so compressed that if you want to learn how to do something you cannot skip a sentence, much less one of his short paragraphs. But his love of animals will out... So with all his intentness on serious farming, the experienced Mr. Teller has his human side." Edward Skillin, Jr.

+ Commonweal 35:555 Mr 27 '42 650w

TEMPSKI, ARMINE VON (MRS A. L. BALL). Thunder in heaven. 361p $2.75 Duell

(W) 42-22721

April Wilde, returning to Hawaii after her school days in America, is greeted at the pier by her father's plantation doctor, a half-white named Kauka. Thruout the story this brave, fine man vies for first place with April herself and the disbarred American doctor, whom Kauka befriends and reestablishes in their common profession. The lush beauty of the islands is brought out during the whole of the book. Glossary.

Booklist 39:72 N 1 '42

"The author has a gift for vivid narrative. Her incidents are dramatic. Suspense holds them together. The story moves. Several of the characters—especially Kauka—are flesh-and-blood people. The book is over-long and over-written; but the deep feeling back of it carries an intermittent conviction. Categorically it might be called fluffy entertaining fiction with a stock happy ending. Actually none of it is untrue to the possibilities of life." E. W. Arling

+ Books p14 O 4 '42 500w

"Kauka and his native Hawaiian family are the most delightful characters in the book. Here Armine von Tempski has a fine opportunity to tell vividly of native customs. There is color and humor in her descriptions. A glossary at the end of the book translates the native expressions that are used in the dialogue which is fresh and pungent throughout." Marianne Hauser

+ N Y Times p33 O 4 '42 800w

TENGGREN, GUSTAF, il. See Gibson, K., ed. Tenggren tell-it-again book

TERRELL, JOHN UPTON. Plume rouge; a novel of the pathfinders. 499p map $2.75 Viking

(W) 42-17357

Historical novel based on the wilderness trek of a party of white men and women from St Louis to the Columbia river. They followed the route of Lewis and Clark, by boat, horse, canoe, and on foot. Their difficulties with bad weather, little food, and hostile Indians, are graphically chronicled.

"The author is both a good novelist and a thorough student of his subject. The result is adventure, soberly and convincingly told, with a thread of romance strengthening into a genuine love story." R. E. Danielson

+ Atlantic 170:146 O '42 130w

Booklist 39:12 S '42

Bookmark 4:18 N '42

"'Plume Rouge' is not a world-beating historical novel, but a good serviceable storyteller's account of the era which preceded the covered-wagon period. Rich in data, well and copiously written, it holds the interest fully as well for its authentic historical background as for its very acceptable narrative." F. H. Bullock

+ Books p8 J1 26 '42 650w

"Narrative carried mainly through conversation, terse and not always clear until well into story. Good word pictures of agonizing hardships. Would round out pioneer literature collection of large library." Margaret Winning

+ Library J 67:630 J1 '42 70w

"If Mr. Terrell's novel about the opening of the West were less burdened with literary aspiration it would be a better novel. The material is there, and Mr. Terrell seems to know it thoroughly. But nobody in this story asks a straight question or gets a straight answer, the complexity of the characters seems to spring from the author's ambitions for them and not from themselves, and the action is advanced with a kind of persistent indirection that is rather wearisome."

+ Nation 155:98 Ag 1 '42 120w

"A reader might wish that Mr. Terrell had placed a cast of characters at the beginning of his volume, for in the first chapters the people and their relationships are confusing, and it is hard to tell which are meant to be important and which are not. Mr. Terrell also has the bad habit of making his actors speak French phrases and then translating them. Ernest Hemingway could have shown him how to manage that difficulty. But Mr. Terrell's virtues far outweigh his defects. This is a true saga." R. L. Duffus

+ N Y Times p3 J1 26 '42 1200w

"Stubborn pioneer courage and endurance, a lot of complicated human cussedness, and a credible love story make it interesting. Good Americana, written in literate prose."

+ New Yorker 17:58 J1 25 '42 90w

"Despite limitations and an occasional lack of smoothness in bridging chapters that suggests considerable final cutting, the work stands up as a vivid revelation. The book is to be commended as a definite break with the traditional and more familiar heroic-glamour pattern for fiction based on epic-making periods of history." M. E. Wagner

+ Sat R of Lit 25:13 Ag 8 '42 450w

Wis Lib Bul 38:163 N '42

TERRY, WALTER. Invitation to dance. 180p il $2 Barnes, A.S.

793.3 Dancing 42-2728

A book for the general reader on the modern dance in America in its various aspects, ballet, theatre dancing, folk dancing, dancing in education and in therapeutics. The author is dance critic of the New York Herald Tribune. Bibliography. Index.

Booklist 38:248 Mr 15 '42

Reviewed by E. H. Burchenal
Books p15 F 22 '42 440w

Christian Century 59:83 Ja 21 '42 50w

"Invitation to dance is a genial, breezy and informing travelogue of the contemporary dance scene, generous in its many enthusiasms, sparing but by no means uncertain in its dislikes. It is knowing without descending to gossip; its evaluations are pat without scaling any critical heights. Dance can use a critic who has the ability to stay just one step in advance of the general dance audience. This will not be the last book from Walter Terry for he is peculiarly fitted to do for American dance what Arnold Haskell has done in England for ballet." George Belswanger

+ Theatre Arts 26:208 Mr '42 220w

THANE, ELSWYTH, pseud. See Beebe, E. T. R.

THANE, ERIC, pseud. See Henry, R. C.

THARP, MRS LOUISE HALL. Down to the sea; a young people's life of Nathaniel Bowditch, the great American navigator; il. by Woodi Ishmael. 242p $2 McBride

B or 92 Bowditch, Nathaniel—Juvenile literature (W) 42-23802

Biography of Nathaniel Bowditch, the American who wrote the book on navigation which is the seaman's bible even to the present day. Bowditch was mathematician, astronomer, business man, and master mariner, as well as author, and all these sides of his career are considered. For young readers.

Horn Bk 19:41 Ja '43 100w

Reviewed by P. D. Edie
Library J 67:891 O 15 '42 20w

"Recommended for children twelve to fourteen." Emily Hutson

+ Library J 67:958 N 1 '42 120w

New Yorker 18:114 D 12 '42 70w

THAYER, GORDON B. Plastics mold designing; drawings by the author. 64p $2.50; pa $2 Am. industrial pubs, Fairmount-Cedar bldg, Cleveland

668.4 Plastic materials (W) 41-13140

"An excellent handbook and guide for the practical worker in the laboratory and factory. Detailed methods of manufacturing are given, processes are carefully explained, and numerous diagrams supplement each chapter of the text. A glossary of plastics terms and a shrinkage table are also included." (N Y New Tech Bks) Index.

Booklist 38:30 O 1 '41

N Y New Tech Bks 27:11 Ja '42

Pratt p20 F '42

Wis Lib Bul 38:80 My '42

THAYER, HORACE RICHMOND. Blue print reading and sketching; prepared under the direction of the Division of engineering extension, the Pa. state college. 141p $2 McGraw

744 Blueprints. Mechanical drawing (W) 41-52833

"A complete course in the making of sketches, and on the interpretation of industrial drawings of various kinds." N Y New Tech Bks

Booklist 38:191 F 1 '42

N Y New Tech Bks 27:5 Ja '42

THAYER, LEE (MRS EMMA REDINGTON [LEE] THAYER). Murder is out. 270p $2 Dodd 42-2428

Detective story.

Reviewed by Will Cuppy
Books p13 F 15 '42 120w

"This is one of the best of the Peter Clancy stories." Isaac Anderson
+ N Y Times p20 F 8 '42 180w

"Carefully wrought story of blackmail and family skeletons, with good characterizations and able sleuthing—but rather slowly paced and overtalky. Fair."

+ — Sat R of Lit 25:18 Ja 31 '42 40w

THAYER, LEE (MRS EMMA REDINGTON [LEE] THAYER). Murder on location. 288p map $2 Dodd 42-19561

Detective story.

Reviewed by Will Cuppy
Books p10 Ag 30 '42 100w

Reviewed by Isaac Anderson
N Y Times p15 Ag 23 '42 160w

"Lives of horse-opera actors get thorough and colorful ventilating in picturesque, and slightly tiresome tale, with interesting cinematic climax. Passable."

+ Sat R of Lit 25:16 Ag 22 '42 40w

THERE were giants in the land; twenty-eight historic Americans as seen by twenty-eight contemporary Americans; with an introd. by Henry Morgenthau, jr; il. by Charles Child. 243p $2 Farrar

920 U.S.—Biography (W) 42-19887

"A book of collected essays, written at the suggestion of the Treasury Department, about twenty-eight historic Americans as seen by twenty-eight contemporary Americans. . . Various professions, faiths and callings are represented in the articles, but the men and women they describe all lived at the time of some great crisis in America, and their courage, ingenuity and sacrifice helped to meet their country's need." Christian Science Monitor

Booklist 39:32 O 1 '42

"If you please, you may call it propaganda. Be that as it may, it is an equable and honorable book, shrieking at no one, reviling no one, and making no preposterous and unmannerly boasts. It is thus distinctly different from most of the propaganda to which we are accustomed. It differs from most propaganda in yet another way, in that it is readable throughout and many of its pages are delightful reading. The effort was not in any case to present a biography, or even an outline of the career of the subject, but only to seize and portray that aspect of the man which the author considers significant for our times. Yet it is probable that few readers will go through the book without learning some facts of which they were ignorant before. 'There Were Giants in the Land' is an admirable lesson in Americanism—urbane, dignified, yet powerful in its restraint." G. W. Johnson

+ Books p5 S 13 '42 1600w

Cath World 156:382 D '42 120w

"This is an inspiring, informative and challenging book, brought out at a time when all of us need help to face these difficult days in our country's history and in the history of the world." F. B. Sloan

+ Christian Science Monitor p10 S 24 '42 120w

Reviewed by Dorothy Lawson
Library J 67:798 S 15 '42 70w

Reviewed by M. C. Scoggin
Library J 67:893 O 15 '42 30w

Reviewed by Thomas Lask
N Y Times p5 S 13 '42 550w

"A well-edited and stirring collection."
+ New Yorker 18:71 S 12 '42 70w
Pratt p6 D '42

"All Americans can read There Were Giants in the Land for inspiration and hope. Its clear, concise, and meaningful pages make it a valuable reference in the teaching of fundamental ideals in America's democratic heritage." H. T. Pinkett

+ Social Studies 34:45 Ja '43 480w
Wis Lib Bul 38:134 O '42

THESIGER, ERNEST. Adventures in embroidery; ed. by C. G. Holme. 104p il $4.50 (12s 6d) Studio

746 Embroidery 42-19770

"Mr. Ernest Thesiger, the actor, gives a résumé of the history of needlework in the past and shows the adaptation of fine needlework to the decoration of the home of to-day, with suggestions for designing in the future. There are many plates, some in colour, which should be full of inspiration to the wouldbe embroiderer." Times [London] Lit Sup

"This is a manual as practical as it is decorative."

+ Books p14 O 4 '42 130w

"This very beautifully produced book comes at an opportune moment; much that is beautiful has been destroyed and many men and women have, through various injuries, been pushed aside, if only for a while, from active life. Here, in this book by Mr. Ernest Thesiger, the actor, is a suggestion of something satisfying to hand and spirit."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p299 Je 13 '42 120w

THIELENS, MRS GERRIE (OLLIER). Moon lies fair. 284p $2.50 Harper

42-12311

Story of an Anglo-American marriage. Constance's role as mistress of the beautiful Tarrant estate, with its memories of a long past, her quiet undemonstrative husband, and her two small daughters, were all she wanted until she met Richard Leyden again. Richard was from her old home in America, and he promptly fell in love with Constance. That was on the eve of the World war; when war actually came Constance made her choice.

"This choice of a theme is going to cause disappointment to readers who expect to see a parable of the relations between America and England. There is little here of the conflict between either. The story is quite purely, the story of a marriage on the point of crisis. But even more of a disappointment, is the sketchiness of the book. Here is an author who observes with sensitivity and beauty. It seems too bad that her observations therefore are shallow. She has written a thread of a book, too slight to touch the depths, which lie beneath its outline." Anne Brooks

+ — Books p8 My 24 '42 450w

"A light but well-written story. . . As a story of a man and a woman it is excellent. . . The fact that Miss Thielens has used the war as such seems just a little pat. . . Her characters are real enough to have taken the initiative in relighting the fire in their domestic hearth, without the coming of what seems to be a romantically timely war." Jennette Dowling

+ — N Y Times p22 My 10 '42 440w
Wis Lib Bul 38:97 Je '42

THIELMANN, MARY CARNEY. Suzy goes to Mexico; phot. by Joseph Charles Thielmann. 64p $1.25 Whitman, A.

42-22694

Two little American girls went to Mexico for a visit, taking their Suzy doll with them. Suzy played an important part in breaking the ice, for little Mexican playmates were shy until they saw Suzy. Illustrated with photographs.

Reviewed by H. L. Binsse

Commonweal 37:120 N 20 '42 20w

"Text would have been more satisfactory had the doll remained inanimate, without reasoning ability. Includes list of Mexican words under heading 'Let's Say It Right.' . . Not an essential item." J. E. Stromdahl

Library J 67:1014 N 15 '42 80w

THIRKELL, MRS ANGELA (MACKAIL). Marling Hall. 319p $2.50 Knopf [8s 6d Hamilton, H]

(W) 42-22271

Chronicle of the life and pursuits of the English county families and their friends in modern Barchester during the months preceding Pearl Harbor. They are carrying on in traditional British fashion in the face of rationing and changed conditions of living, and the telling of the story is quiet and witty.

"The book is full of amusing episodes and clearly sketched characters, with just enough plot to ruffle the course of true love, without for a moment endangering a happy solution for everyone concerned." Elizabeth Drew

+ Atlantic 170:150 N 42 240w
Booklist 39:49 O 15 '42

"A book of rare entertainment. Like 'Northbridge Rectory' the brilliant war satire which preceded this novel, 'Marling Hall' is a mad and raffish and wholly delightful and inconsequential tale. . . One closes 'Marling Hall' with regret that the fun of reading the book is over." Rose Feld

+ Books p2 O 4 '42 1000w

"The book is a light-hearted but not remarkably witty picture of County Society in wartime, less sinister than Mr. Waugh's 'Put Out More Flags,' less sentimental than 'Mrs. Miniver.' The author reminds one in a minor fashion of Trollope and Jane Austen. Her great talent, like that of E. F. Benson in the exquisite Lucia series, is not for drama or romance, but for delineating people one would walk miles to avoid in real life, but who have a wonderful nuisance value in mere fiction." Cuthbert Wright

+ Commonweal 37:19 O 23 '42 280w
Library J 67:795 S 15 '42 30w

"The realism suffers at times from the author's too determined search for comedy, but it is, of course, like all Mrs Thirkell's novels, very readable." J. D. Beresford

+ — Manchester Guardian p3 S 11 '42 80w

Reviewed by Diana Trilling

Nation 155:655 D 12 '42 950w

"Mrs. Thirkell is easily the safest bet for oblivion. She writes untruthfully about unreal and uninteresting people. The book is a facetious Debrett in which the only passion which appears to spring, to gush from the heart is contempt for novelists whose sales are under two thousand." Philip Toynbee

— New Statesman & Nation 24:293 O 31 '42 140w

"Angela Thirkell is frank to say that English county families are a pretty dull lot. And then she proceeds to write about them in so delightful, humorous and well-bred a manner as to make them thoroughly enchanting. The reader may still feel that it would be very stuffy to live with them, but he cannot help giving a whoop of plebeian joy to find that Mrs. Thirkell has given him another chance to read about them. 'Marling Hall' is right in the groove of the best Thirkelliana, witty and bland, wise and nonsensical." Beatrice Sherman

+ N Y Times p14 O 4 '42 900w

"This is a book to read and re-read with joy and thankfulness. It is a sane book. Perhaps in 1950 when Lady Agnes Graham presents her girls at court, as she is absolutely sure of doing (see page 291), 'Marling Hall' will be not only hilarious reading but required reading for all social historians." Leo Lerman

+ Sat R of Lit 25:16 O 31 '42 650w

Reviewed by Kate O'Brien

Spec 169:320 O 2 '42 90w

THIRKELL, A. M.—Continued

Time 40:108 O 19 '42 400w

"One shadow only falls across the scene—and for this reason 'Marling Hall' cannot be reckoned with the best of Mrs. Thirkell's novels—and that is the shadow of Mrs. Thirkell herself. There is evidently a growing disinclination to remain behind the scenes, as a good humorist should. The temptation to state private prejudices is now, it seems, irresistible. Fortunately Mrs. Thirkell has no false shame and rather glories in her prejudices; but still they are a defect in a comedy."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p449 S 12 '42 480w

THIRKELL, MRS ANGELA (MACKAIL). Northbridge rectory. 316p $2.50 Knopf [8s 6d Hamilton, HJ.]

(W) 42-214

The time of this novel is the second year of the World war; the place, an English village where evacuees in flimsy finery jostle the original inhabitants with unrighteous aplomb. The scene is viewed thru the eyes of Mrs Villars, the rector's wife, whose home has become the center of the village social life. The officers billeted at the rectory; the village intellectuals; the lady who leads too many organizations; the jolly widow with two nieces who attract the officers; all pass in review before gentle humorous Mrs Villars.

Booklist 38:190 F 1 '42

Bookmark 3:18 Mr '42

"If ever a novel came out at the right moment it is this; cheerfulness has broken through in the nick of time. For the period of this comfortable novel is bang in the middle of the present war... Many people call Angela Thirkell a disciple of Jane Austen. She is not, of course, but no other writers can hold this war at bay in a blackout so briskly as Angela and Jane." M. L. Becker

+ Books p3 Ja 4 '42 750w

"'Northbridge Rectory' belongs in an unusual category in modern fiction for it leaves a friendly flavor. A nice book to read, lend or borrow." E. V. R. Wyatt

+ Commonweal 35:439 F 20 '42 650w

"The enthusiastic, if often fumbling, war efforts of the community and their effects on the lives of the people are intimately portrayed with understanding humor, and gentle malice." J. E. Cross

+ Library J 67:41 Ja 1 '42 60w

"The rector, an ex-schoolmaster, and his wife are living people, drawn without any attempt at caricature, and most of the other characters, with the possible exception of the egregious Mrs. Major Spender, are only sufficiently exaggerated to hold the attention. There is no developing story, but always interest enough to carry the reader on from one chapter to the next." J. D. Beresford

+ Manchester Guardian p3 S 12 '41 100w

"For those who prefer to take the war with a grain of salt and a dash of Angostura, Mrs. Thirkell dishes up another of her ambling, amiable caricatures of Britishers at work and play... Mrs. Thirkell is a combination of Puck and Anthony Trollope."

Nation 154:201 F 14 '42 90w

"Verena, the rector's wife, is one of Mrs. Thirkell's happiest creations... and in Mrs. Major Spender she has drawn a character who gives you goose flesh. Definitely up to standard."

+ New Repub 106:94 Ja 19 '42 70w

"Satirical, ironic, frankly farcical though it is at times, through all the book there glows a steady light; that beacon light of courage Great Britain holds on high in these the darkest hours the world has ever known." L. M. Field

+ N Y Times p6 Ja 11 '42 850w

"Mrs. Thirkell imparts a Jane Austen flavor now and then to her portrayal of bores and egoists, without Miss Austen's triumphant gift for narrative. She manages, though, some very sharp and witty moments in her comedies of manners."

+ New Yorker 17:59 Ja 10 '42 110w

"Mrs. Thirkell keeps it up—amazingly... Humour does not flag, but its range is limited and its eye is not really impartial. Still, even if you are among those crotchety few whom Mrs. Thirkell's cheerfulness does not seduce I doubt if you will get through without a few sudden, though grudging, giggles." Kate O'Brien

+ Spec 167:290 S 19 '41 90w

"Mrs Thirkell does this sort of thing about as well as it can be done and 'Northbridge Rectory' is just as good as its predecessors."

+ Springf'd Republican p7e Ja 4 '42 340w

Time 39:84 Ja 26 '42 170w

Times [London] Lit Sup p437 S 6 '41 390w

THOBURN, JEAN, ed. Away in a manger; Christmas verse; decorated by [the editor]. 94p $1 Oxford

808.81 Christmas poetry (W) 42-17108

Anthology of Christmas poetry, some familiar, some little known. Includes translations from the Gaelic, Czech, and old English.

Booklist 39:37 O 1 '42

"A book of this sort should be—must be—a work of love, and the first quality of true love being that it lasts, Miss Thoburn has chosen lasting poems." M. L. Becker

+ Books p7 D 27 '42 110w

Reviewed by F. B. Sloan

Christian Science Monitor p16 D 10 '42 70w

"An anthology of poetry—relief in a quieter-than-usual interpretation of Christmas."

+ Churchman 156:15 N 15 '42 10w

Reviewed by H. L. Binsse

Commonweal 37:116 N 20 '42 20w

"It will be a valued addition to any shelf of children's books, for this is real poetry, possessing the true Christmas spirit, not merely holiday verse." A. M. Jordan

+ Horn Bk 18:347 S '42 50w

"[It's] dainty format in light-covered boards makes it a better gift book than library item. Has about the same number of poems as Blanche Thompson's With Harp and Lute, of which it duplicates only one... Will be enjoyed by students of literature. Silhouettes by compiler in soft rose and blue." Maude Adams

+ Library J 67:849 O 1 '42 80w

"This anthology of Christmas poetry has been made with rare taste and a sensitive feeling for the deeper meaning of the Christmas season. Some old favorites are included, but many of the poems and carols will be new to most readers and some are not easily found elsewhere." A. T. Eaton

+ N Y Times p9 D 6 '42 120w

Wis Lib Bul 38:143 O '42

THOMAS, CHARLES ALLEN, and others. Anhydrous aluminum chloride in organic chemistry. (Am chemical soc. Monograph ser) 972p il $15 Reinhold

545.9 Chemistry, Organic. Aluminum chloride 42-1054

"In addition to chapters on the production and purification of aluminum chloride and its physical properties, the book discusses the mechanism and chemistry of the various reactions catalyzed by this chemical. Some of the titles are Alkylation and Arylation Reactions, Ketone Syntheses, Ring Closure, Addition Reactions, Aldehyde Syntheses, Rearrangements and Migrations, and Polymerizations." Chem & Eng N

"The enormous amount of information is concisely yet clearly presented and should be of great service to organic chemists whether interested in pure chemistry or in its applications." E. E. Reid

+ Am Chem Soc J 64:1743 J1 '42 270w

"The book is a timely and strategic contribution to our chemical literature. The present value of the work rests not only on its comprehensiveness and thoroughness, but also on its utility. During the present emergency, when our expanding chemical industry finds it necessary to build and man new plants, this work will expedite the review of the voluminous literature pertaining to the diverse and complex reactions catalyzed by aluminum chloride." P. H. Groggin

+ Chem & Eng N 20:349 Mr 10 '42 340w
Chem & Met Eng 49:167 Ap '42 250w
N Y New Tech Bks 27:5 Ja '42

THOMAS, CHARLES SWAIN. Your mastery of English. 6v il $17.50; 5 per cent discount to libraries, schools, etc. c1941 Collier

808 English language—Rhetoric 42-285

"This work consists of some sixty pamphlets, arranged in six 'imitation volumes' as follows: v.1, Your English and your personality; v.2, Your command of English; v.3, Your command of written English; v.4, Your reading and its value; v.5, Your language and your thinking; v.6, Your manuscript and your publisher, and index to volumes 1 to 6. . . The work is especially planned for those . . . adults whose schooling may have been inadequate and who wish to remedy their lack of formal training with home study courses." Subscription Bks Bul

"In general the material is interestingly presented. Several units may prove useful to beginning teachers of high school English. . . Your Mastery of English will have considerable value for individuals who wish a guided course of study. The illustrative material and examples will be useful to an inexperienced teacher. However, its inconvenient arrangement, its repetition of material easily found elsewhere, and its workbook characteristics, make it unsuitable for library use, and, therefore, it is not recommended for libraries."

+ Subscription Bks Bul 13:21 Ap '42 1150w

THOMAS, DOROTHY. Hi-Po the hippo; lithographs by Ruth Gannett. [48p] $3 Random house

(W) 42-19762

Story of a baby hippopotamus left in the yard of baby-hating Mr Hippo, who promptly took him to the police station. When it developed that all the policemen, and Mrs Hippo combined, could not quiet baby Hi-Po, but that Mr Hippo possessed the power, the baby had found a home.

Reviewed by M. L. Becker
Books p7 Ag 9 '42 340w

"Mr. and Mrs. Hippo's adventures with a founding baby hippo are not only tremendously amusing but there is a touch of sentiment in Miss Thomas's story which Miss Gannett somehow manages to transfer to the broad hippo faces."

+ Cath World 156:372 D '42 90w

"Probably the most amazing picture book of the year. Humor of whole thing, excellent craftsmanship of Ruth Gannett's lithographs on outside pages, the amusing simplicity of the story, the gay nineties flavor—all make for an outstanding small-child's book. But many grownups and some children will not be able to love anything as repulsive as a hippopotamus. The very contrast of treatment and subject which makes appeal of the book also sets up a counter-balancing revulsion." S. J. Johnson

+ Library J 67:741 S 1 '42 70w

"The story is but a slight vehicle for the pictures, and although these are full of action and detail, cunningly designed and beautifully drawn, the whole just does not measure up to the expected height of hilarity. There is humor, but the whimsicality has an air of contrivance rather than the spontaneity and the essential simplicity of spirit which endear a picture book to generations of readers." E. L. Buell

+ N Y Times p10 Ja 10 '43 240w
New Yorker 18:105 D 12 '42 50w
Sat R of Lit 25:28 N 14 '42 40w

THOMAS, ELBERT DUNCAN. Thomas Jefferson, world citizen. 280p $2.75 Modern age

B or 92 Jefferson, Thomas 42-13212

"Because democracy is today on trial as never before in world history, Mr. Thomas believes the occasion appropriate for reviewing the career of the 'foremost democrat' of the young nation. The Senator's book is not a biography, though it touches upon most of the important phases of the career of this many-sided man, especially those of his writings which speak in terms of all mankind." Christian Science Monitor

"This book is an interpretation of Jefferson's words and spirit by a thoughtful public servant, who has found in them hope for a confused and war-torn world. Scholars may or may not need it but some other people, doubtless, still do." Dumas Malone

Am Hist R 48:414 Ja '43 210w

Christian Science Monitor p18 Ap 24 '42 270w

Reviewed by James Orrick

Nation 154:692 Je 13 '42 400w

"It is a timely book, expounding a phase of Jefferson too often neglected." Allan Nevins
+ Sat R of Lit 25:6 Ag 8 '42 360w

THOMAS, ELEANOR. Hemisphere camp; il. by Gertrude Howe. 176p $2 Scribner

42-24594

In the summer of 1941 a "good neighbor" gathering of girl scouts from Latin America, Canada, and the United States, was held at Camp Bonnie Brae in the Berkshires. The central character of this story is a girl scout from Ohio, and her adventures at the two weeks' session tell the story of the international meeting. For older girls.

Reviewed by F. B. Sloan

Christian Science Monitor p10 N 30 '42 110w

"High ideals and aims of Girl Scouts are well presented in this story for all Scouts." D. M. MacDonald

+ Library J 68:38 Ja 1 '43 70w

Springf'd Republican p7e D 13 '42 170w

THOMAS, MRS ELISABETH (FINLEY), ed. and tr. The Paris we remember; with an introd. by Elliot Paul. 478p $3 Appleton-Century

914.436 Paris—Social life and customs

(W) 42-51086

An anthology on the history and evolution of Paris, from the time of the Romans to the present. The material is selected from chronicles, poets, novelists, historians, and other writers. The articles are arranged under the following headings: The structure of Paris; The pageant of history; Manners and customs in Paris; The men of Paris; Some letters; Paris nights and delights; The eternal feminine; The tellers of tales; The rhythm of Paris. Index of authors' names.

"Every single piece attests to the editor's high standard of taste with possibly one exception. We regret to find the name of Friedrich Sieburg here, knowing how efficiently this long-time Paris correspondent of 'The Frankfurter Zeitung' has collaborated with the German propaganda machine. But what an ably conducted Paris tour this book is! How the moods of the different eras become visible! Mrs. Thomas has not only contributed many an excellent translation but prefaced each phase of her anthology by a short introduction. These essays of hers solidify and clarify the purpose of the book which wants to recreate the history and spiritual aroma of Paris." Felizia Seyd

+ Books p20 D 13 '42 700w

"Paris, the most beloved city in the world, has been many things to many men and there is ample evidence of it in this compilation. . . Part of the success of Mrs. Thomas's anthology (and it is a success) is due to the fact that she seems to have made her selections with the purpose, possibly indirect, of arousing an acute nostalgia in old residents. Or herself, perhaps, for she was a long-time resident of the city by the Seine. Her anthology, which will entertain and reward those readers who have never seen Paris just as happily as it will set free a thousand memories in the minds of those who have seen it, is, in a way, a reminder and a warning. By the suggestion implicit in its many excerpts and poems, its pictures old and new, its evoked sensations and its capture of place, it gives wordless advice. This was Paris." Herbert Gorman

THOMAS, E. F.—Continued

+ N Y Times p6 D 20 '42 1300w

"Mrs. Thomas' range of familiarity with French literature is astounding. It goes from very old writers like Eustache Deschamps and François Villon to very modern ones like Cocteau and Aragon. . . . She also borrows much, and quite rightly, from the English writers who loved Paris, from Dickens to Arnold Bennett, from Thackeray to Le Gallienne. The composition of the book is ingenious." André Maurois
+ Sat R of Lit 26:15 Ja 2 '43 700w

THOMAS, HENRY, pseud. See Schnittkind, H. T.

THOMAS, MRS JEANNETTE (BELL). Blue Ridge country. (American folkways ser) 338p maps $3 Duell

917.5 Blue Ridge mountains. Mountain whites (South) (W) 42-36174

Folklore and customs of the people of the southern Alleghenies; eastern Kentucky and West Virginia. Contains chapters on the Hatfield-McCoy feud, religious customs, superstitions, singing schools, and mountain ballads. Map on end papers. Index.

Booklist 38:329 My 1 '42

Reviewed by R. Y. Williams
Books p5 Ap 5 '42 1100w

"Recommended for adult readers." H. P. Bolman

+ Library J 67:130 F 1 '42 90w

New Repub 106:614 My 4 '42 70w

"This is a pleasant, uncritical, unintegrated, grab-baggy sort of book. . . . The title is misleading. Miss Thomas uses the words Blue Ridge country to include all the Southern Appalachian country, the Alleghenies and Cumberland as well as the Blue Ridge proper; but her excursions out of the Big Sandy and Guyan River country are rare and brief. She stays at home writing again of the people she has written of in her previous books." Horace Reynolds

N Y Times p5 Mr 29 '42 1100w

"A well-written and ingratiating volume in the American Folkways series."

+ New Yorker 18:79 Mr 28 '42 50w

Scientific Bk Club R 13:4 Ap '42 420w

Wis Lib Bul 38:86 My '42

THOMAS, LOWELL JACKSON. Pageant of life. 278p $2.50 Funk, W.

818 Anecdotes 41-26968

"For consecutive reading that does not involve consecutive thinking, Lowell Thomas has assembled a companion volume to his 'Pageant of Adventure.' Grouped under such subheads as Rulers of Nations, Personalities in Art, Misdeed and Retribution and The Wonder and The Marvel, he presents a grab bag of human-interest stories, in length from one paragraph to several pages, in range from Calvin Coolidge and Charlie Chaplin to an intoxicated goat." Books

Books p10 Ja 4 '42 80w

"This is a book to enjoy at odd moments, and a source book for after-dinner speakers who will presumably confess their indebtedness to Mr Thomas."

Springf'd Republican p7e Ja 11 '42 190w

THOMAS, WILLIAM STEPHEN. Amateur scientist; science as a hobby. 291p il $3 Norton

500 Scientific recreations. Hobbies (W) 42-24396

"The author describes the characteristics of amateur scientists, discovers their motives for pursuing their hobby, and finds that their occupations vary from professional men in law and medicine to brick masons, postmen, printers, and office workers. He [also] explores what organizations are already available for the promotion of amateur science. . . . The author is Executive Secretary of the Committee on Education and participation in Science, American Philosophical Society." (Publisher's note) Index.

Booklist 39:117 D 1 '42

"The nocturnal frog-tagging expeditions described in the book have been understandably popular; but the truth is that for the most part the great amateur work has been done without benefit of organization, by individual devotees who may have sought the society of a few colleagues for relaxation now and then but who would have shuddered at the very thought of an executive secretary. Adult education is one thing; genuine amateur science is quite another. The author conveys little or nothing of the passionate devotion, the inner illumination that mark the true amateur." H. M. Parsley

Books p11 D 27 '42 300w

Chem & Eng N 20:1541 N 25 '42 180w

"To the amateur scientist and to anyone who wants a first-hand knowledge of the historical development and trends in science as it concerns the amateur, this book is both helpful and suggestive." C. B. M.

+ Springf'd Republican p6 O 19 '42 850w

THOMPSON, CHARLES MINER. Independent Vermont. 574p il $4.50 Houghton

974.3 Vermont—History 42-4912

History of the development of the state of Vermont, from Champlain's discoveries in 1609, to the admission of the state into the Union in 1791. Along with its history the book studies the character idiosyncracies of the inhabitants themselves, and discusses the rise of the sturdy individualism which marks the true Vermonter. The author is the grandson of the writer of the Vermont classic The Green Mountain Boys. Bibliography. Index.

"'Independent Vermont,' because of its completeness, is indubitably an event of the first importance in the literature about that state, the best study yet made of the period with which it deals. It is likely to stand as long as the classic work of fiction, 'The Green Mountain Boys' written by the author's grandfather and which has kept generations of youngsters awake nights." Stewart Holbrook
+ Books p3 F 1 '42 1050w

"Mr. Thompson's history is sure, substantial, and impartial." W. K. R.

+ Christian Science Monitor p18 Ja 30 '42 500w

"Scholarly and well-written, historically accurate and thorough, though too long and detailed. Quite similar in treatment to Van de Water's Reluctant Republic, which is more concise. Not recommended for smaller libraries." L. R. Etzkorn

+ Library J 67:86 Ja 15 '42 90w

"Mr. Thompson is interesting, reasonable, and a good Vermonter. He understands and approves the Vermonter's objection to being 'run' by anybody and especially by agents of the federal government. But he is a bit ungenerous. After all, if it is unlikely that ever again the Winooski will flow through the lobby of the Pavilion Hotel in Montpelier, flood control dams on the Jail Branch and the North Branch built not without benefit of C.C.C. must be given the credit. And the 'attractive recreation park' with diamond, grandstand and swimming pool, which Mr. Thompson admits makes Montpelier a pleasanter spot, owes its existence in part to an agency even less palatable to good Vermonters, the W. P. A." Crane Brinton

+ — New Eng Q 15:378 Je '42 800w

"Mr. Thompson is careful and convincing. With respect to his major theme—the qualities of the Allens and their contribution to the future State—one can agree or disagree; and one's agreement or disagreement will probably be temperamental. The controversy will never be settled. The general reader may find the discussion tedious at times, but if he truly wants to understand modern Vermonters he ought not to miss this book." R. L. Duffus

+ — N Y Times p5 F 1 '42 1450w

"A turbulent and involved record, handled with humor and broad comprehension."

+ New Yorker 17:68 Ja 24 '42 40w

"This book is an event of the first importance in the literature of the Vermont Republic. . . Serious students of Vermont who knew the late Mr. Thompson have been awaiting this his last book with interest. They will not be disappointed." H. Stewart

+ Sat R of Lit 25:14 F 21 '42 550w

"Mr Thompson writes with much humor and with a real understanding of Vermonters, or as real an understanding as is possible. He has included several details overlooked or discarded by other writers, which makes a book of considerable bulk, but it is all good reading and provides an excellent source for reference. An appended chapter on 'The Vermonters,' although entertaining enough, could just as well have been left out."

+ Spring'd Republican p7e F 1 '42 700w

Wis Lib Bul 38:45 Mr '42

THOMPSON, DOROTHY. Listen, Hans. 292p $2.50 Houghton

943.086 National characteristics, German. World war, 1939—Germany. Germany—Nazi movement. Germany—Social conditions (W) 42-50070

This new book by a noted American journalist and radio commentator is in two parts. The first, in the nature of a lengthy introduction, is an analysis of the German "mind," what the real Germany wants and what place it should have in the post-war world. Part two contains Miss Thompson's radio broadcasts addressed personally to a non-Nazi German friend still living in Germany.

"Listen, Hans is one of the most remarkable books that have come out of the war thus far. It is a document which every thoughtful American will want to read and ponder. It is 'written with blood.'" C. J. Friedrich

+ Atlantic 17:138 Ja '43 700w

Booklist 39:136 D 15 '42

"There is an almost uncanny insight into many things German in these pages. One finds also generous purpose, the outline of a society both realistic and Christian, and a rare ability to see this America of ours in all its strength and weakness. . . But I wonder if Miss Thompson has taken sufficiently into account the ruins that will survive this war. The bleak stretches of rubble in and out of which crawl the people who live in cellars. The moral desolation of irreparably broken friendships and firesides. The despair of the hungry and the aged, the absence of all youth. If she has, one can only admire her courage." G. N. Shuster

+ Books p7 N 29 '42 1350w

"There are inaccuracies to be found in the book. But we need not bother about them, since most of them refer to the past. What matters is the future. And on that score every friend of mankind must agree with the author." E. S. P.

+ Christian Science Monitor p18 D 23 '42 500w

Current Hist 3:454 Ja '43 270w

"Miss Thompson's short-wave addresses to her friend Hans, and indirectly to the German people, seem less significant than her introduction. In challenging her foreign public she has a good many aces up her sleeve, but she speaks the language of a liberal world to which the majority of her hearers are no longer attuned. Incidentally, the presentation of her twenty-four broadcasts in book form drives home the fact that the American people live in ignorance of what purports, on short wave, to represent them. They know that official statements are broadcast, but very little else of what or who is on the air in their name." Felizia Seyd

+ — Nation 155:690 D 19 '42 600w

Reviewed by Malcolm Cowley

New Repub 107:861 D 28 '42 1400w

"Listen, Hans!" is a brilliant textbook of timely propaganda." Hans Habe

+ N Y Times p3 N 29 '42 1300w

Reviewed by Clifton Fadiman

New Yorker 18:98 N 28 '42 300w

"As always, Dorothy Thompson is dramatic and breathless. Her style is extremely readable and her essay is fascinating and exciting as it voices hope for a true commonwealth of mankind. Whether we agree with her prospectus or not the stimulus of her book is a good tonic for sluggish readers." Jessica Potter

+ Spring'd Republican p7e Ja 3 '43 480w

"There is nothing to be said against it except that it is dull reading."

Theatre Arts 27:131 F '43 120w

Time 40:118 D 14 '42 600w

THOMPSON, EDWARD. Listen for the laughter. 328p $2.50 Macrae Smith co.

"This is the story of Jonathan Slocum, a high-minded medical quack of the deep Mississippi South—river boat 'doctor,' druggist putting out his own elixirs and nostrums, peripatetic peddler and side-show hawk of Dr. Slocum's Golden Discovery Vermifuge and Dr. Slocum's Medical Miracle Chill Tonic, medications consisting of alcohol and mildly unpleasant taste which win high favor, especially after prohibition comes along, among others than those suffering from worms or malaria. Merging into Jonathan's story, gradually, is the story of his motherless daughter Roxanna." N Y Times

"The outline of the story shows it to be one of the picaresque kind with bootleggers and medicine peddlers on every side. What it doesn't show is the well drawn character of Jonathan Slocum, who, with his booming voice, his eloquence, his kindness and his wanderlust, resembles Edna Ferber's Cimmarron." Milton Hindus

+ Books p7 Mr 15 '42 550w

"Mr. Thompson's writing moves along pleasantly enough, although in a kind of monotone, lacking emphasis and any trace of original quality. Somehow, and for no particular reason, it has a melancholy cast. . . The spirit of the story is gentle and pleasant; but there is not even a trace of the story-teller's moral responsibility to the moral universe which his whole scheme of sentiment accepts without understanding." F. T. Marsh

+ — N Y Times p22 Mr 22 '42 360w

"An amusing book, observant, sensible, easy to read."

New Yorker 18:70 Mr 21 '42 60w

"If Mr. Thompson had a real story to tell and real people to write about, he might do it well for he has the manners of literature, and imagination too. But not once in this first novel is he able to make you believe in anything or anybody he pictures. You have the effect of a by-no-means unskilled artisan exercising on dummies." J. T. Graves

— + Sat R of Lit 25:14 Je 27 '42 360w

THOMPSON, JAMES EDGAR, and CAMP-BELL, RODNEY B. Manual for aircraft hydraulics. 202p il $5; spir pa $4 Aviation 629.135 Airplanes—Apparatus and supplies. Hydraulics 42-36195

"Authentic, up-to-the-minute information on the operation, design, and maintenance of hydraulic equipment and systems." Profusely illustrated with charts and photographs." Booklist

Booklist 38:326 My 1 '42

N Y New Tech Bks 27:37 Jl '42

THOMPSON, JAMES MYERS. Now and on earth. 306p $2.50 Modern age

42-12603

"An outspoken hard-luck story laid in San Diego. Pop is crazy, Mom has varicose veins, the two girls are loose but good-natured, and Jim, the son, has to support all of them and his own wife and kids too. By profession a writer, he gets a job in an airplane factory (some very nice technical scenes here) and tries to work things out, but the cards are stacked against him." New Yorker

"This is a topical story. At the end there is a feeling that the situation so vividly described is not seen as deeply as it deserves to be seen. With that reservation, Jim Thompson is a writer with virtues, which deserve encouragement." Milton Hindus

+ — Books p10 Ap 12 '42 600w

"Too many assembly-line details are included for readers not in the know, and the author's style—tough, economical and effective—occasionally runs away with itself. In general, though, there is an understanding of human character both penetrating and sympathetic, and a sharp contemporary flavor that mark the author as a writer worth watching."

+ — New Repub 106:742 My 25 '42 120w

"First-rate character study, and some family quarrels right out of James Farrell."

New Yorker 18:78 Mr 28 '42 80w

THOMPSON, JAMES WESTFALL, and HOLM, BERNARD J. History of historical writing. 2v 676;674p $14 Macmillan

907 History—Historiography 42-21876

"A monumental work on historical writing from the earliest times to the present. Includes copious bibliographies." Social Studies

"The most distressing feature of Thompson's book is the large number of minor errors it contains. . . Nevertheless, Professor Thompson's book is an interesting and valuable piece of work. It is based upon extraordinarily wide reading, and it is filled with that contagious enthusiasm for learning for which he was famous." J. W. Swain

+ — Am Hist R 48:291 Ja '43 1150w

"This history of historiography is the first successful attempt of its kind known to the reviewer. It is encyclopedic in scope and treatment. Living historians are excluded, which is entirely justifiable; but many readers will regret that American writers have not been included, because it would be most helpful to view them against the general background of historiography, a background mastered by few men as Professor Thompson apparently mastered it. Yet with this one omission, the wealth of material and the breadth of treatment are beyond reproach." Hans Kohn

+ Ann Am Acad 225:262 Ja '43 700w

"Not only by its cut-and-dried informativeness but by its neglect—both total and partial—of significant figures, the work falls between the two purposes of a reference book and of a true history. One notes with regret and wonder the absence of any American historian and of such Europeans as Bossuet and Gobineau. . . The treatment of figures like Leibniz, Hume, Hegel and Marx is inadequate. . . The best of Professor Thompson's pages deal with the medieval period which was his specialty." Jacques Barzun

+ — New Repub 107:768 D 7 '42 900w

Reviewed by D. C. Knowlton

N Y Times p33 Ja 24 '43 800w

Social Studies 33:379 D '42 20w

Reviewed by H. E. Barnes

Survey G 32:56 F '43 500w

THOMPSON, LAURA MAUD. Guam and its people; a study of culture change and colonial education. 308p il maps pa $2.50 Inst. of Pacific relations. Am council

919.67 Guam. Chamorros 42-36122

"The author, already known for her Fijian Frontier, was given the opportunity to work in Guam as a result of a conviction by the U. S. naval government that the educational system would benefit by fuller scientific study of the island people, the so-called 'Chamorros.' . . Using as its main focus modern problems of education broadly conceived, the book ranges over the island setting, past and present: pre-white society, the later complex patterning of racial and cultural elements, population trends, the successive Spanish and American systems of administration, economic conditions, religion old and new, the impact of democratic ideas, and the shaping influences of childhood and adolescence that mold the Chamorro of today." Pacific Affairs

"This work is a model study, thoroughly documented, and covering all phases of the culture of the modern inhabitants of Guam." E. W. Gifford

+ Am Anthropol 44:709 O '42 450w

Booklist 38:273 Ap 1 '42

"Miss Thompson's study is based on a six-month visit to Guam in 1939. Because she is a trained observer she presents a thorough and sympathetic account of the manner of life among the Chamorros, natives of the island."

+ Books p22 S 27 '42 100w

"Pretty well everything that one might want to know about how the people of Guam live is described—their ways of earning a livelihood, their beliefs and morals, their social institutions, and what progress they are making toward civilization. One thing it is good to learn is that under the American administration the democratic ideas taught in the public schools have begun to clash with the traditions developed during the long pre-American period." Alvin Adey

+ Current Hist 3:357 D '42 390w

"This excellent account of little known Guam went to press just before the island was attacked by Japan. As such, it offers a definite study of conditions and problems up to the time of Japanese occupation, and an invaluable basis of planning for those who have to deal with Guam in the war's aftermath. More widely, it represents an important contribution to the growing literature of 'applied anthropology' within the colonial sphere." F. M. Keesing

+ Pacific Affairs 15:235 Je '42 350w

THOMPSON, LAWRENCE ROGER. Fire and ice; the art and thought of Robert Frost. 241p $2.50 Holt

811 Frost, Robert

42-20529

Study of the ideas and poetry of Robert Frost. It begins with an outline background of poetic theory from Plato to Eliot, and continues with chapters on Frost's theory of poetry; the function of metaphor in his poetry; his use of meter and rhyme; an analysis of the different types of poetry he has written. Index.

"This is a straightforward, clearly written account. . . The book is well planned and it makes us turn back to Frost's poetry with a fresh appreciation." Theodore Spencer

+ Atlantic 170:142 O '42 150w

Booklist 39:66 N 1 '42

"Here for about the first time in a full-length book we have Frost for the sake of Frost rather than for the sake of some pet notion or theory on the part of his critic. Mr. Thompson has relatively few prejudices that matter, and he has made an unremitting effort to get between two covers all the considerations that bear on Frost's technical theories, on his achievement as a poet, and on his general sizing up of the human situation. Consequently he has given us a study of Frost's work that in intimacy of understanding and in completeness and balance is incomparably the best we have. But the very fact that he has no critical ax to grind seems to have had the curious effect of delivering the commentator, hog-tied, to the demon of literary analysis and classification." G. F. Whicher

+ — Books p18 O 18 '42 750w

"Excellent scholarly study. . . Decidedly for the English major who has had course in poetics. Recommended for larger public and college libraries." H. A. Carpenter
+ Library J 67:682 Ag '42 80w

"An interesting though rather over-meticulous study."

New Repub 107:422 O 5 '42 120w

Reviewed by Haniel Long
Survey G 31:602 D '42 190w

Wis Lib Bul 38:159 N '42

THOMPSON, MRS MARY (WOLFE). Blueberry Muffin; decorations by Erick Berry. 248p $2 Longmans

(W) 42-24043

Vocational story for older girls. A New York city girl, after graduation from high school, finds she must earn the larger part of her college expenses. She joins her godmother in a Connecticut tearoom and discovers her aptitude for the work. A slight mystery is solved at the end of the story.

Booklist 39:144 D 15 '42

"Special knack is needed for writing stories whose chief interest is in some way of making a living; this, used with first-hand information and a gift for writing, here produces so good a book on running a tearoom that chances are no one who opens it will skip a word. I did not, somewhat to my own surprise, for I have read other stories based on the same business, not at all compelling, because they lugged in too much extra stuff. . . This story has real people, their problems are strictly human, but they all bear on that little matter of keeping the business out of the red." M. L. Becker

+ Books p10 D 13 '42 380w

"There is reality in this well-told tale as well as good characterization, and girls will learn, as they read, that success comes only after preparation and hard work. Prigs had happy times, however, as well as struggles." F. B. Sloan

+ Christian Science Monitor p16 D 10 '42 80w

"Information on starting and running a tearoom seems sound. Slight mystery. If library needs vocational stories for girls from eleven to fifteen, this is acceptable." Evelyn Turpin
+ Library J 67:1070 D 1 '42 70w

"A well-told story by the author of Highway Past her Door."

+ Wis Lib Bul 38:168 N '42

THOMPSON, NEWTON WAYLAND, and STOCK, RAYMOND. Concordance to the Bible. 1255p $7.50 Herder

220.2 Bible. Whole—Concordances 42-7607

"The first English concordance to the Bible based on Catholic translations and specifically intended for Catholic use." Commonweal

Cath World 156:251 N '42 180w

"Every layman and priest who has occasion to cite passages from Holy Writ, certainly every library of any importance, should find this literary tool indispensable."

+ Commonweal 36:212 Je 19 '42 140w

THOMPSON, PAUL WILLIAMS. Modern battle. 221p maps $2.75 Norton

940.542 World war, 1939—Campaigns and battles 42-4866

Fifteen chapters, originally published in the Infantry Journal during the past two years. They deal with various episodes in the recent campaigns in Western Europe, the Balkans, and Poland. Partial contents: What happened at Sedan; A Panzer division crosses the Meuse; Breakthrough on the Somme; Tanks; Arras to Dunkirk; The capture of Eben-Emael; Trouble at Ilza; Tank action south of Kutno; The affair at Przerwa Creek. Maps. Glossary.

"The average reader knows that France collapsed, that Crete fell to German airborne infantry, but he simply cannot gain an intelligent concept of just how these great military decisions were attained. This is precisely where Major Thompson's book performs its greatest service. It enables the reader to trace the step-by-step progress of decisive military operations."

The text is accompanied by numerous excellent maps drawn by William H. Brown."

H. A. DeWeerd

+ Books p10 Mr 15 '42 350w

Eng N 128:95 Ap 9 '42 100w

Reviewed by R. G. Woolbert

Foreign Affairs 20:776 Jl '42 30w

"Despite its distinct virtues, this volume has a number of the shortcomings common to war books. Comparatively few military men possess the knack of writing interestingly, and Major Thompson is not one. Moreover, only battles on land are treated, and in these air power is viewed as a purely auxiliary force. Finally, though the book is newly off the press, all events touched on are at least a year in the past, and some of the most interesting and vital campaigns of the war receive no mention."

Nation 154:348 Mr 21 '42 240w

"Notwithstanding its title, which suggests a study in military tactics, this is a book that reads almost as vividly as good fiction, and it will be of special interest to those who at the present moment have every reason for following and learning what they can from military operations." A. M. Nikolaieff

+ N Y Times p3 Mr 8 '42 650w

THOMPSON, PAUL WILLIAMS. What the citizen should know about the army engineers; il. by André Jandot. 210p $2.50 Norton

358.2 U.S.—Army—Corps of engineers

(W) 42-11420

History of the United States army corps of engineers and a survey of the varied duties of engineers in modern warfare. Index.

Booklist 38:342 My 15 '42

Bookmark 3:5 My '42

"The Army engineers are primarily soldiers, and to this aspect of their work the major part of the book is devoted. The author, as those who have read his more technical essays can testify, is a competent authority on the part they have played in the present war." P. J. Searles

+ Books p11 My 17 '42 450w

Eng N 128:95 My 7 '42 120w

Reviewed by H. W. Baldwin

N Y Times p13 My 17 '42 60w

New Yorker 18:71 My 2 '42 20w

Reviewed by J. I. Greene

Sat R of Lit 25:11 Jl 4 '42 160w

THOMPSON, VIRGINIA MCLEAN. Thailand, the new Siam. (Inst. of Pacific relations. Int. research ser) 865p map $5 Macmillan

915.93 Thailand

(W) 41-21625

For descriptive note see Annual for 1941.

"Miss Thompson admits a paucity of material on contemporary Siam. This factual study should encourage others to delve more deeply into the innumerable subjects presented here only in a general way." T. E. Ennis

Am Hist R 47:609 Ap '42 650w

"It must be said that the information on any specific topic or instance is generally inadequate, so that the serious student of Thailand will find it necessary to pass on to original sources." K. P. Landon

— Ann Am Acad 220:228 Mr '42 850w

Bookmark 3:14 Mr '42

"Whatever the future may hold for Thailand or the people of southeastern Asia, the author of this book has rendered an inestimable service in presenting at the end of an era this careful study of the life of a people so vitally related to both India and China." H. E. Fey
+ Christian Century 59:1354 N 4 '42 700w

"It is the most nearly complete single-volume treatment of Siam available in any language, and it has the great advantage of competent writing by one who has established a reputation as an authority on Southeast Asia. . . A

THOMPSON, V. M.—Continued
few errors, almost inevitable in a work of this expanse, do not detract seriously from the value of the book." J. L. Christian
+ Geog R 32:332 Ap '42 410w

Reviewed by M. S. Stewart
Nation 154:199 F 14 '42 550w
Pratt p22 F '42

THORNE, SAMUEL EDMUND, ed. See Discourse upon the exposition and understanding of statutes

THREE famous spy novels; complete and un-abridged in one volume; selected, and with an introd. by Bennett A. Cerf. 569p $1.98
Random house

(W) 42-18722

Contents: The Great Impersonation, by E. P.
Oppenheim; Journey Into Fear, by Eric Ambler; and The Confidential Agent, by Graham Greene (Book Review Digest, 1920; 1940; and 1939).

Booklist 39:51 O 15 '42

"Here's a generous and well chosen lot of spy stuff by an expert judge of same. Worth double the money." Will Cuppy
+ Books p12 J1 26 '42 150w

"Bennett Cerf has written a foreword that in itself serves as an excellent review of the three thrillers in this bargain compilation. He maintains that despite its superfluity of lords and ladies 'The Great Impersonation' is Oppenheim suspense at its very peak. And he is equally just to Eric Ambler and Graham Greene. Both are modern stylists, masters of the art of suspense and devastating creators of a world of terror and intrigue where the only human encouragement is at long last to find someone who can be trusted."

+ Commonweal 36:356 J1 31 '42 280w

"Good value."

+ Sat R of Lit 25:17 Ag 1 '42 30w

THREE Southwest plays. 326p il $2.50 Dallas,
Texas: The Southwest Review

812.08

42-7218

"[This volume] includes 'We Are Besieged'
by Sam Acheson (a play about the Alamo);
'Jute' by Kathleen Witherspoon; and 'Where the Dear Antelope Play,' by John William Rogers. All have been produced in Texas little theaters, and represent the creative side of the amateur regional theater." Books

Booklist 38:306 Ap 15 '42

Reviewed by W. P. Eaton

Books p29 Mr 1 '42 120w

"Recommended."

+ Library J 67:630 J1 '42 40w

"These works evince the professional stature of the Dallas Little Theater." A. N. Williams
+ Sat R of Lit 25:35 My 16 '42 650w

"We Are Besieged [is] a high-minded if not theatre-wise story of the defense of the Alamo... Mr. Rogers [author of Where the Dear Antelope Play] has had far more experience with the professional theatre than the other two playwrights, and his play is more secure technically, has several rewarding scenes, and some amusing characters that were well enough written to be recognized in Dallas and welcomed with high laughter by large audiences there and elsewhere. The third play, Jute, by Kathleen Witherspoon... is good enough for the best theatre anywhere and that would make the script worth the attention of a professional director with enough insight and skill to lead it on to its own right end." E. J.
R. Isaacs

+ Theatre Arts 26:416 Je '42 600w

THREE star mystery book. 269,258,286p $2.50
Harper

(W) 42-16050

Contents: The Old Dark House, by J. B.
Priestley; Was It Murder? by James Hilton;
The Wheel Spins, by E. L. White.

"Sound value."

+ Sat R of Lit 25:39 My 16 '42 40w

Wis Lib Bul 38:138 O '42

THURBER, JAMES. My world—and welcome to it. 310p il $2.50 Harcourt
817 (W) 42-36358

Collection of humorous essays, stories, and sketches, many of which have appeared in the New Yorker.

Booklist 39:99 N 15 '42

"There is much humor here, and some satire, and some straight journalism, and some fiction, and some of what is known in the literary trade as 'casuals.' Thurber is a funny man, no doubt of it; he is also one of the most discerningly and disturbingly bitter.
He has a peculiar brand of wisdom not untouched with madness. Long may he flourish." Stanley Walker

+ Books p2 N 1 '42 500w

Reviewed by Margaret Marshall

Nation 155:515 N 14 '42 210w

"A sinking feeling accompanies the laughter of anyone engaged in reading Thurber; the jokes have all been salvaged from dreams.
Bump!—it is oneself that has slipped on the banana skin. Whether the word for this suffering and awareness of catastrophe is humour,
I don't know. Thurber does make me laugh, but I become engulfed, I am less and less sure of myself as I read on." G. W. Stonier

+ New Statesman & Nation 24:414 D 19
'42 500w

"These are all brilliant sketches, not muddy photographs. They have the crisp flavor of things recorded as they happened." Meyer
Berger

+ N Y Times p5 N 1 '42 1150w

New Yorker 18:84 O 31 '42 30w

Reviewed by Thomas Sugrue

Sat R of Lit 26:15 Ja 2 '43 330w

Spring'd Republican p7e N 1 '42 220w

Time 40:100 N 2 '42 1150w

Wis Lib Bul 38:183 D '42

THURSTON, HENRY WINFRED. Concerning juvenile delinquency; progressive changes in our perspectives. 236p $2.75 Columbia univ.
press

364 Juvenile delinquency 42-21851

"Juvenile delinquency ranges from mischief to murder. It is one of the basic problems of democracy. One hundred years or so ago English boys, 11 and 13 years of age, were hanged for stealing seventeen shillings—that was the low in social attitude. Since 1840 the United States has been increasingly aware of the problem and has gradually evolved a lumbering machinery for preventing and treating it. This study presents juvenile delinquency from every angle: the court, the detention home, the jail, the probation officer, the community, the social settlement, and of course, the delinquent himself." School & Society

"Mr. Thurston writes not simply as a professional social worker, but from a deeply religious concern for the boys and girls who fail to realize their true destinies. This is a book which the parish minister might well have at hand." Gordon Poteat

+ Crozier Q 20:86 Ja '43 170w

School & Society 56:308 O 3 '42 120w

"While ripe in understanding and thorough in scholarship, presenting its thesis convincingly, the book is rambling and disorganized.
It is probably most useful as a textbook for serious students, although certain chapters might profitably and enjoyably be read by interested, public-spirited citizens. The material in this volume ought to be reworked so that it could be used more widely. It is good stuff."
C. D. Kean

+ Spring'd Republican p8 N 20 '42 600w

TIBBOTT, FREDERICK MERRILL. Simon Hastings; a novel of Maine's north country. 381p $2.50 Bobbs

(W) 42-19354

A novel of northern Maine in the Civil War years and the twenty-five years following. The first Simon Hastings had been a lumberman, and had died in an accident only a few days after his wedding. His son Simon grew up like his father in appearance and in his love for the woods. After his mother's death, Simon's two step-brothers had him turned out of their father's farm home, and the young Simon went into the woods to earn his living. The bitter hatred of one of his brothers and his ruthless revenge brings about the climax.

"This is a big book. . . Mr. Tibbott knows the Maine North Country, and he knows its people. Sometimes, as we read these pages, we can almost hear their voices." Milton Hindus

+ Books p3 Ag 9 '42 600w

"To anyone who has lived in one of New England's green and white towns, F. M. Tibbott's 'Simon Hastings' will make good reading." J. W. Riley

+ Boston Globe p17 Ag 5 '42 400w

"Competently written but rather conventional first novel. . . Situation and characters are stereotyped, but story is warm and human. Recommended for readers of adventure and outdoor fiction." E. H. Crowell

+ Library J 67:630 Jl '42 70w

Reviewed by L. M. Field

+ N Y Times p13 Ag 2 '42 480w

"Mr. Tibbott could learn something from a Maine novelist of another generation, Sara Orne Jewett. If he can reproduce the quiet inevitability of her tales and keep his delight in the Maine country, he will be worth watching." C. D. Abbott

Sat R of Lit 25:5 Ag 15 '42 430w

TIEMANN, HARRY DONALD. Wood technology; constitution, properties and uses. 316p il $3.50 Pitman

620.12 Wood

42-2705

"The author of this book, senior wood physicist of the United States Forest Products Laboratory and lecturer in forest products at the University of Wisconsin, presents a complete perspective of the subject of wood technology. This is the only comprehensive publication of the entire field, except for an encyclopedic German book, and even this does not fulfill the necessary requirements. . . The kinds of animal and plant life responsible for the decay of wood and preservative measures to use against them are discussed. A long and detailed classification of the distinguishing features of American woods is original with the author and was 'gradually evolved through a long-time teaching experience in wood identification.' There are five appendices, including an excellent evaluation of the fuel value of wood." (Scientific Bk Club R) Index.

Booklist 38:248 Mr 15 '42

"Mr. Tiemann has prepared the text for the use of the student in wood technology and the wood worker. He has endeavored to present the material in an accurate but not particularly technical manner in order that it may be understood by both technical and non-technical groups. Some of the information presented is new and will not be found in other books. It is profusely illustrated with photographs and photomicrographs."

+ Chem & Met Eng 49:210 My '42 180w

N Y New Tech Bks 27:14 Ja '42

Pratt p22 'D '42

"Accurate and not too technical [in] manner."

+ Scientific Bk Club R 13:3 Ja '42 420w

T'EN CHUN, pseud. See Hsiao, C.

TIGNER, HUGH STEVENSON. No sign shall be given. 198p $1.75 Macmillan

261 Christianity

42-5292

"Beginning in the prologue with a description of an abandoned church in northern New York state as symptomatic of the condition ministers face, the author outlines the Hebrew-Christian heritage as it relates to American history and to our pressing problem of social unity. A chapter on 'Saving the Values of Democracy' is followed by one on 'Why Our Colleges Can't Educate.' There is a chapter entitled 'They don't go to church,' which is an excellent discussion of Channing Pollock's article which appeared in the Reader's Digest: 'Why I don't go to church.'" Crozer Q

Reviewed by J. H. Holmes

Books p17 Ag 23 '42 240w

"This book has something to say and says it, analytically, kindly, discriminatingly, and with fine rhetorical art. The thought moves deftly and decisively to origins, which are also ends." O. P. Warford

+ Christian Century 59:838 Jl 1 '42 600w

"My first impulse upon finishing this book was to urge all my friends to read it. This is what I am doing in this review. It is a book for our times, especially for the men who must preach in these times. It is tonic and vital in every sense. Though not a book of sermons, it is preeminently a book for preachers whose spirits may be dragging a bit with the weight of the war upon them. . . It will do any man good to read it." Gordon Poteat

+ Crozer Q 19:256 Jl '42 200w

TILLEY, JOHN SHIPLEY. Lincoln takes command. 334p $3.50 Univ. of N.C. press [21s 6d Oxford]

973.7311 Pickens, Fort. Sumter, Fort. U.S.— Politics and government. Lincoln, Abraham 41-6587

"In this forthright and provocative little volume Mr. Tilley, an Alabama lawyer, undertakes to show just how war came about between the United States and the Confederacy in 1861 and to fix the responsibility therefor. He gives particular attention to the situation at Forts Sumter and Pickens from December to April and to the policies and measures of Presidents Buchanan and Lincoln, on the one side, and of the Confederate officials, on the other." (Am Hist R) Index.

"Many readers who may be impressed by the evidence Mr. Tilley has uncovered will be critical of the manner in which he has presented it. The merits of the book are its incisive and challenging analysis of a much-disputed problem and its pungent style; its faults are that it is based on too narrow a concept of the problem, it is too partisan, and it contains too many questionable deductions. It will not settle the controversy over Lincoln's responsibility for the tragedy of Sumter, but it may stimulate renewed interest in the question." C. W. Ramsdell

+ Am Hist R 47:637 Ap '42 650w

"The author has used only printed materials, particularly the Official Records, all of which he has subjected to a minute and careful examination and comparison. The result is a valuable contribution to the history of this critical period in American history." T. R. Hay

+ N Y Times p19 Ap 6 '41 750w

"This is an interesting, acute and readable tract. It is not a work of historical research, in the modern sense. Mr. Tilley is, one gathers from Professor Craven's 'Foreword', a lawyer and the merits and defects of the legal mind are manifest here. Documents are construed with a lawyer's acuteness and readers are impaled on the horns of carefully constructed dilemmas. . . But Mr. Tilley is worth reading and historians will take account of the real and serious merits of this brief."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p107 F 28 '42 300w

TILLOTSON, GEOFFREY. Essays in criticism and research. 216p $3.75 Macmillan [15s Cambridge]

820.9 English literature—History and criticism [42-14041]

"A varied group of essays. . . The preface gives a clue to the several aims of these scholarly studies that range from Elizabethan literature to the comic poems of A. E. Housman. A considerable part of the volume is concerned with the 'face of literature,' or its embodiment in words, illustrated with Elizabethan decoration, John Lyly's prose comedies, epithets in English poetry, and pre-eminently with the two fine chapters on eighteenth-century poetic diction and another pair on Alexander Pope." Cath World

"The prose of this volume is truly light-giving and strewn with witty characterizations." Margaret Meagher

+ Cath World 155:503 J1 '42 600w

"Though the research in these essays is exact and extensive, the criticism is very disappointing. Mr. Tillotson is a man who has a great deal more to tell about literature than he has to say. He is a scholarly man with a delicate literary sense—he would once have been described as a bookish man—and with a minor turn for style. He is drawn to the past by a very strong pull of temperament, and perhaps by a very weak sense of life; in any case, it strikes me that he merely rationalizes when he makes the traditional plea that a knowledge of the past adds to one's understanding of the present." Louis Kronenberger

— + Nation 155:157 Ag 22 '42 600w

Reviewed by E. E. Kellett

New Statesman & Nation 23:212 Mr 28 '42 700w

Times [London] Lit Sup p174 Ap 4 '42 2700w

TILTON, ALICE, pseud. See Taylor, P. A.

TIMASHEFF, NICHOLAS SERGEYEVITCH. Religion in Soviet Russia, 1917-1942. 171p $2 Sheed

274.7 Russia—Religion 42-36332

A report on the status of religion in Soviet Russia, by a Russian-born sociologist, now teaching at Fordham university, New York city. Index.

Reviewed by W. H. Chamberlin
Atlantic 170:170 D '42 200w

Reviewed by Joseph McSorley
Cath World 156:365 D '42 900w

Reviewed by J. H. Titus
Churchman 156:14 N 15 '42 180w

"A highly informative, thoroughly documented and rigorously honest book. . . A must for all those interested in Russia. The chief sources used are Soviet publications." + New Repub 107:554 O 26 '42 120w

Reviewed by R. K. Washburn
Springf'd Republican p7e N 8 '42 1150w

Discussion by the author
Springf'd Republican p7e D 20 '42 1050w

TIMPERLEY, HAROLD JOHN. Japan: a world problem. 150p $1.75 Day

951 Japan—Foreign policy. World war, 1939—Japan 42-8662

Taking as his starting point the Japanese obsession about world dominion, the author probes the reasons for this, and its similarity to the German idea. He points out that the Japanese explanation of economic necessity is not true; the basis is psychological and many centuries old. The problem of world security after the war is discussed in a concluding chapter. Index.

Reviewed by W. H. Chamberlin
Atlantic J1 '42 230w

Booklist 38:307 Ap 15 '42

"Here is a scholarly little book about the early history of Japan that serves to throw a good deal of light on the processes of thought and the motives and objectives of the Japanese even nowadays." Wilfred Fleisher
+ Books p10 Je 7 '42 900w

"Mr. Timperley reviews the history and emergence of Japan as a world problem, answers such alibis as over-population justified provocation and Russian bogey, tells what must be done to defeat Japan and how Japan must be disciplined and assisted after her defeat. This book is as authentic as timely." A. L. Murray

+ Churchman 156:14 My 15 '42 180w

Manchester Guardian p3 S 11 '42 50w

Reviewed by M. S. Stewart
Nation 154:548 My 9 '42 260w

Reviewed by G. E. Taylor
New Repub 106:738 My 25 '42 150w

Reviewed by Dorothy Woodman
New Statesman & Nation 24:46 J1 18 '42 500w

Reviewed by W. H. Chamberlin
N Y Times p1 My 17 '42 300w

Reviewed by W. L. Holland
Pacific Affairs 15:233 Je '42 280w

"In almost startling contrast to his earlier 'Japanese Terror in China,' his present book proves that Timperley can, as some were inclined to doubt, present a well-integrated, carefully documented work, as well as one journalistically brilliant." M. E. Kersey

+ Sat R of Lit 25:11 My 30 '42 850w

Time 39:90 My 25 '42 20w

TINLEY, JAMES MADDISON. Native labor problem of South Africa. 281p maps $3 Univ. of N.C. press

331.0968 Labor and laboring classes—South Africa. South Africa—Native races 42-21949

This study was first planned to cover only the farm labor question of South Africa, but certain considerations led the author to widen its scope to cover the whole native labor question in its wider economic and social setting. The author was born in South Africa and was engaged for several years in South African government service, but now teaches agricultural economics at the University of California in Berkeley. Bibliography. Glossary. Index.

Reviewed by D. W. Bittinger
Ann Am Acad 225:243 Ja '43 550w

Reviewed by George Streater
Commonweal 37:208 D 11 '42 1700w

TITTLE, ERNEST FREMONT. Lord's prayer. 127p $1 Abingdon-Cokesbury

226.9 Lord's prayer (W) 42-36078

The eight parts of the Lord's prayer are interpreted and applied to problems of our times and daily life. The author is pastor of the First Methodist Church, Evanston, Illinois

Booklist 38:225 Mr 1 '42

Reviewed by J. H. Holmes
Books p10 My 17 '42 120w

"Reading these sermons, after listening to them, I am impressed again by Dr. Tittle's indifference to rhetorical ornamentation. He uses plenty of illustrative material, and his illustrations really illustrate. But there are no purple patches, no attempts to dazzle. . . You can read this whole collection of eight sermons in an hour and five minutes—at least, that's what it took me—but I doubt whether you can forget them in a lifetime." Paul Hutchinson

+ Christian Century 59:286 Mr 4 '42 550w

"The problems and perplexities of life today are known to us all; only fools—and they in rapidly diminishing numbers—expect to live in a paradise (at least on this earth) for a long, long while. This able Methodist pastor, whose pen and voice have long been widely known and appreciated, has fairly stated fundamental problems which we all know only too well; and he has done it effectively in the form of eight short chapters—they might well be sermons or addresses—each based on one of the several familiar phrases of this prayer which we never tire of repeating and rarely dream of attempting to practice—perhaps because we think of it as the Lord's prayer." M. S. Enslin

+ Crozer Q 19:166 Ap '42 200w

TOBIAS, J. CARROLL. Manual of airbrush technique. 164p il $3 Am. photographic pub.
751 Airbrush 42-7456

"Describes construction and care, types and accessories, modeling, show cards, portraiture backgrounds, novelty effects, creative industrial design, fashion illustrations, architectural drawings, coloring photographs, and materials and colors." N Y New Tech Bks

N Y New Tech Bks 27:20 Ap '42
School Arts 41:8a My '42 180w

TODD, JOHN EDWARD. Social norms and the behavior of college students. 190p $2.10 Teachers college

371.8 Students. U.S.—Civilization 42-1259

"[An] investigation of the relation between the American culture and students in transition from high school to college, based on the case studies and questionnaires of the study of the transition from school to college. The ideals, attitudes, and behavior of the six boys who scored highest on each one of the six scales of the Allport-Vernon Study of Values are considered in relation to their environment, and to the influence exerted on them by the first year of college. Their close relationship to the American pattern is shown in detail, with a discussion of the implication of these and some other findings." (Social Studies) Bibliography.

School & Society 54:396 N 1 '41 50w

"The material is well organized, although the style and manner of presentation are, if anything, too careful. The data is intensive and reliable, and there is a careful presentation of the method used. There is ample documentation and a detailed appendix. All concepts are carefully defined and the frame of reference, namely the pattern of American culture, is given a pertinent summary." Marjorie Pfaelzer

+ Social Studies 33:142 Mr '42 210w

TODES, CHARLOTTE. William H. Sylvis and the National labor union. 128p 75c Int. pubs.

B or 92 Sylvis, William H. National labor union. Trade unions—U.S. 42-14577

Brief biography of William Sylvis, an outstanding labor leader of the Civil war period, with some material on the history of the National labor union. Index.

"While the book is interestingly written and contains, on the whole, a good account of the important events in the career of Sylvis, it is Sylvis as a forerunner of labor and political radicalism who is portrayed. . . Nevertheless her study is a fair and interesting description of many of the high spots and opinions of a pioneer labor figure." Philip Taft

+ Am Econ R 32:639 S '42 370w

"If Sylvis's story, in this remarkably condensed and lucidly written little volume, is presented to readers as an 'inspiring example' of militant idealism in the American labor movement, it also fills a niche in the wide and deep gap left by academic historians who have so largely neglected the history of labor leadership in this country." M. R. Beard

+ Am Hist R 48:416 Ja '43 170w

Reviewed by Malcolm Keir

Ann Am Acad 223:248 S '42 300w

TOLMAN, HILDEGARDE. Hero by proxy; a kaleidoscopic misadventure. 282p $2 Little

(W) 42-16137

Adventure, international intrigue, politics and romance in a Central American country shortly after Pearl Harbor. The hero is a San Francisco business man who is visiting Santa Rosa, partly on business, partly because his brother, a war correspondent, is "resting" there after several busy years in Europe.

Booklist 38:443 Jl 15 '42

"This will serve well enough for the Southern adventure tale you should read every so often. Written more carefully in some stretches than in others." Will Cuppy

+ — Books p9 Je 28 '42 180w

"An unusual setting, a grim and businesslike hero, an ingenious plot and a light touch with the love story make this thriller very satisfactory reading. It is told with cool detachment, even in the midst of hair-raising dangers and fiendish schemings, with excellent effect." Charlotte Dean

+ N Y Times p23 Je 28 '42 240w

"Overlong and sometimes confusing tale of current Nazi plots in Latin America redeemed by lively action and whale of a wind-up. Passable."

+ — Sat R of Lit 25:16 Je 20 '42 40w

TOMLINSON, HENRY MAJOR. Wind is rising. (Atlantic monthly press bk) 271p $2.50 Little [5s Hodder]

940.5342 World war, 1939—Great Britain (W) 42-36104

This volume contains a dozen articles on the war by a noted English writer. They are dated from August 1939 to August 1941.

Booklist 38:249 Mr 15 '42

Reviewed by Iris Barry

Books p5 Mr 15 '42 750w

Manchester Guardian p3 Ja 13 '42 240w

New Repub 106:550 Ap 20 '42 60w

Reviewed by John Mair

New Statesman & Nation 23:166 Mr 7 '42 250w

"The language of homily and exhortation very rarely survives the moment which called it forth; and while we respect its intentions we lament its results. There are long, fantastic, fruitless passages in this book where nothing but an occasional happy paragraph rewards us for our efforts in wading through them. Fortunately, Mr. Tomlinson sometimes stops trying to be a prophet and becomes simply a thoughtful man or an emotional man. In either case, his prose takes on life and stature." George Dangerfield

+ — N Y Times p4 My 31 '42 550w

"Sensitive and freshly turned, but the urgencies of the crisis today unfortunately make what the author has to say seem a trifle irrelevant. His famous style, however, has suffered no deterioration."

+ New Yorker 18:79 Mr 14 '42 70w

"A month-by-month record that future readers will assuredly value as the product of a curiously seeing eye. A seeing eye, and a style that is altogether individual, Tomlinson would be the last to affirm that his wrist for English prose, as a journalist-craftsman of his group in London would have called it, came by nature. His is a carefully devised manner of writing. I have watched it grow, seen it wrought through years of cunning labor until it can command all the difficulties of subject-matter. It is a style of curious dignity, with many a happy little drop into the vernacular; always entirely lucid and with its own undeniable rhythm (there is no synonym for this over-driven word)—a continual refreshment for the reader in this epoch of strange and ugly sound." S. K. Ratcliffe

+ Sat R of Lit 25:7 Mr 21 '42 700w

Time 39:96 Mr 16 '42 500w

Times [London] Lit Sup p627 D 13 '41 1550w

TOMLINSON, LAURENCE ELLIOTT. Library science glossary. 132p pa $1.40 The author, Baylor univ. lib, Waco, Tex.

020.3 Library science—Dictionaries, vocabularies, etc. 42-15943

Definitions of technical words, phrases, and abbreviations used in profession of librarianship.

"Since Mr. Tomlinson gives no indication that his volume is not a completely original contribution, since he mentions no sources or authorities, it is a little disconcerting to discover, without being too statistically minded, that of the first seventy-four definitions in The Library Science Glossary, twelve definitely stem from those in John A. Holden's The Bookman's Glossary (New York, 1931), two harken back to Axel Moth's Technical Terms (Boston, 1915), and eleven are taken straight out of James Westfall Thompson's Ancient Libraries (Berkeley, 1940). One could wish that Mr. Tomlinson had been more circumspect. As to individual definitions, certainly 'vacation privilege' means, in most libraries, something other than 'the privilege of having a vacation with pay.'" R. E. Kingery

— Library J 67:743 S 1 '42 750w

"The Library science glossary shows deficiencies on several counts. It omits terms which a librarian may expect to find in a glossary concerned with librarianship (e.g., circulating library, public library, county library, regional library, rental collection, library trustee, library board, larger unit). It includes terms which seem unnecessary in a library-science glossary (e.g., bi-monthly, dissertation, thesis, Americana). It contains numerous definitions which are incorrect, incomplete, or unclearly phrased. . . This book obviously does not fill the need for a reliable, comprehensive, up-to-date glossary of terms in the field of librarianship. The accurate and succinct definitions in Axel Moth's Glossary of library terms (Boston: Boston Book Co., 1915) remain useful for older concepts, and The Librarian's glossary by L. Montague Harrod (London: Grafton & Co., 1938) will serve those who are mainly interested in the British scene."

— Library Q 12:879 O '42 180w

TOMPKINS, JANE F. (MRS BURT MORTON MCCONNELL). Raccoon twins; il. by Kurt Wiese. 127p $1.60 Stokes

(W) 42-19441

Story of the growth and training of twin raccoons, Ricky and Racky. For grades four to six.

Booklist 39:109 N 15 '42

"Interesting presentation of animal life to fourth graders, though not as well done as Ringtail by Gall and Crew. Good print; well made; many illustrations in black and white in Kurt Wiese's usual style." Marian Herr

+ Library J 67:957 N 1 '42 50w

School & Society 56:136 Ag 15 '42 20w

TONER, JEROME LEO. Closed shop. 213p $3.25; pa $2.75 Am. council on public affairs 331.889 Trade unions

"Rev. Toner provides a complete history of the closed shop, together with the arguments advanced for and against it by partisans and students. . . To familiar grounds of defense he adds an important and interesting consideration, namely, that the leaders of the Catholic Church have nowhere condemned the closed shop, and that Papal statements and those of the Bishops 'lend substantial although not specific endorsement' to it." Ann Am Acad

Reviewed by J. R. Walsh

Ann Am Acad 224:198 N '42 140w

Reviewed by J. H. Fichter

Cath World 155:756 S '42 360w

TORRES, HENRY. Campaign of treachery; a dramatic review and a brilliant analysis of fifth column warfare in Europe. 256p $3 Dodd

944.08 France—Politics and government. World war, 1939—France. Propaganda, German. Propaganda, Italian (W) 42-19536

An account of the means Hitler used to demoralize certain French politicians and journalists before the war and during the early months up to the fall of France. The author is a French lawyer who had studied the facts before events drove him into exile.

Reviewed by Albert Guérard

Ann Am Acad 224:205 N '42 500w

Booklist 39:67 N 1 '42

"'Campaign of Treachery' is packed with detailed facts massed with the care of an able lawyer preparing a brief for an all-important case. The facts are not marshaled like the cold, dispassionate findings of a court. On the contrary, they are presented in the manner of a sincerely wrathful prosecutor." W. R. Deuel

+ Books p5 Ag 16 '42 1050w

Reviewed by G. E. Brown

Library J 67:682 Ag '42 80w

"As a case history it is a fascinating, appalling and important record, worthy of the pen of one of France's most brilliant lawyers, who was also a politician, but one, as this book shows, whose eyes were open to the terrible danger. As a story it will make difficult reading for all but those who were most intimately acquainted with pre-war France and the game of politics as it was played there." Percival Knauth

+ — N Y Times p8 Ag 30 '42 1200w

TORRES-RIOSECO, ARTURO. Epic of Latin American literature. 279p $3; college ed $2.25 Oxford

860.9 Spanish American literature. Brazilian literature (W) 42-24517

"Detailed and illustrated summary of Latin American literature from sixteenth century to the present. Author traces historical causes and writings from heroic epics of early colonial period, through baroque seventeenth century, the romanticism of the eighteenth and the modernism of the nineteenth centuries; then the gaucho novels, the realistic ones of city life, psychological and philosophical novels, contemporary novels that partake of the lyric poem and the drama. Poetry is included. Some writings are briefly commented upon; from others, there are more or less lengthy quotations." (Library J) Notes and bibliography. Index.

Booklist 39:134 D 15 '42

"Reservations as to the present work come from standards of perfection applied in a field that has been little treated in English, and seldom, if ever, as well as here. Against them we must place these real and major virtues: skillful compression of a great mass of material and the elimination of all mere pedantic detail; an always excellent and sensitive choice of representative passages to quote (not in Spanish or Portuguese but in good English translation); the use of illuminating comparisons with our own and European literatures; solid scholarship; an enthusiasm for the works treated which is frequently contagious; and, above all, a grasp of major currents, figures and individual works which gives some justification to the title, 'The Epic of Latin-American Literature.'" B. D. Wolfe

+ Books p38 N 15 '42 900w

"This timely volume really excels because it warmly presents so many figures of whom its readers will want to read much and know more. . . Whatever political significance the volume has is only implicit. The author has succeeded in writing of violence and revolution, injustice and misery, world-weariness and idealism, without indulging in a single political remark. Such an achievement these days should indicate again the author's genuine love for literature—and Latin American literature specifically—for its own sake." Edward Skillin, Jr.

+ Commonweal 36:620 O 16 '42 750w

"A most valuable book for college and large libraries." Lena Ruppert

+ Library J 67:795 S 15 '42 110w

Reviewed by E. S. Morby

Nation 155:724 D 26 '42 480w

Reviewed by B. D. Wolfe

New Repub 107:832 D 21 '42 700w

"An important and distinguished contribution to our intrahemispherical understanding. The very marrow of a nation's racial inheritance, its creative powers, and its spiritual and intellectual life are preserved in its literature, so his book, 'The Epic of Latin-American Literature,' that gives so clear and complete a history of its growth, significance, and the influences which molded it, becomes an instrument of international rapprochement." E. L. Tinker

+ N Y Times p50 N 29 '42 550w

School & Society 56:364 O 17 '42 20w

"This book is a beautifully written literary history and should prove an excellent guide to anyone attempting to acquaint himself with the really representative landmarks in Latin American literary production. But it is far more than that—it is an epic poetically, imaginatively yet realistically written, a historical interpretation of the attitudes, ideals and strivings that have culminated in such rich fruit. It is better history than most histories, deserving to be read as such even though the reader never intends to read a single word of literature. And he might change his mind, anyhow." S. M. Gross

+ Springfield Republican p7e D 20 '42 500w

Theatre Arts 27:63 Ja '43 1200w

TORREY, CHARLES CUTLER. Documents of the primitive church. 309p $3.50 Harper

226 Bible. New Testament—Gospels 42-772

"This volume is welcome as a further statement of some aspects of the historical basis of Professor Torrey's now familiar theory that the New Testament Gospels, the first half of Acts, and the Revelation of John were originally written in Aramaic. For the most part the chapters of the book are enlargements of papers which Professor Torrey has read at meetings of the Society of Biblical Literature. They are not entirely new to specialists, but the detailed studies in this amplified form are of value to scholars and laymen." (Christian Century) Indexes.

"Professor Torrey has been anticipated by many scholars, from Eichhorn to Marshall, and in every case the arguments advanced have proved to be unacceptable. A like fate may be predicted for these. A second general point to which attention may be called is Professor Torrey's irritating practice of treating his own statements as proofs and demonstrations. . . . It is to be hoped that the readers of this book will balance the broad generalizations and the sweeping and dogmatic assertions of its author by bringing to bear the historical findings of scholars who, while they use linguistics, use them as only part of the several approaches to the discovery of the origin and growth of early Christianity and the history of early Christian literature." D. W. Riddle

Christian Century 59:282 Mr 4 '42 850w

"The book will hardly intrigue the lay reader unless perchance he has become especially interested in basic problems of the origin of the New Testament. Many believe that the question is insolvable from any extant evidence. What may be uncovered regarding the subject remains open only to conjecture. Professor Torrey is a profound scholar and a valiant promoter and defender of his avowed convictions." A. F. G.

Christian Science Monitor p11 F 21 '42 1000w

"This volume contains much that will be a permanent contribution to New Testament studies. Nevertheless, as I read it, I was confirmed in my belief that the time has come to call a halt to the hostilities that prevail over the Aramaic-Greek controversy. The labors of Torrey, Montgomery, Olmstead, W. R. Taylor, and other Aramaic scholars have produced some results bearing upon the New Testament that cannot be dismissed. On the other hand, the scholars of the Aramaic school must make themselves sympathetically conversant with the permanent contributions to New Testament study arrived at on the basis of the Greek. What is needed greatly is an approach to the manifest problems that fraternally pools the results and resources of both fields in the larger interest of New Testament science." G. B. King

+ — Crozer Q 19:151 Ap '42 900w

TORREY, WARE (LEE CROSBY, pseud). Midsummer night's murder. 229p $2 Dutton

42-7634

Detective story.

"The author has a knack with natural dialogue and a comforting light touch in her narrative throughout. There's nothing really terrific about this little number, but it's a Grade A light yarn for all that. The author is said to be a well known newspaper woman in disguise." Will Cuppy

+ Books 2p2 Ap 5 '42 150w

"The denouement leaves much to the reader's imagination, although it is not particularly difficult to supply the omissions. Love complications add to the interest of the tale and suggest a possible motive." Isaac Anderson

N Y Times p14 Ap 19 '42 240w

Sat R of Lit 25:16 Ap 18 '42 30w

TOTHEROH, DAN. Deep valley. 312p $2.50 Fischer, L.B.

42-36266

An isolated valley near the sea in California is the scene. A lonely, frustrated woman, living in a house where only hate flourishes, and an escaped convict who becomes her lover are the chief characters. The story is of their flight from the law, their love, and the great forest fire which ends their idyll.

Booklist 38:443 Jl 15 '42

"At his best, Mr. Totheroh projects the beautiful intangibles of his story like a soap bubble blown and tossed lightly in the air and kept there for a space. At his worst, he labors his material till it falls of its own weight. Oddly enough, the more successful sections in the novel occur in the first half; later, the necessity for the denouement of the plot and an outward act that shall give evidence of Barry's inner glory cause the author considerable difficulty and weaken the final effect." F. H. Bullock

+ — Books p2 Jl 19 '42 750w

"A short novel, pretentious in its poetic simplicity."

+ Nation 155:57 Jl 18 '42 30w

"There is powerful drama in the details of the flight, the drama of fear and pursuit, of the welding of suspicion and ruthlessness on the man's part and dignity and tenderness on the woman's into a strong bond of love, of the growing mutual realization that freedom and happiness are things they cannot wrest from the world without paying for them with imprisonment and unhappiness. Totheroh is too fine an artist to bring the tale to a happy conclusion in the conventional sense. What happens at the end is completely right both for Barry and for Libby." Rose Feld

+ N Y Times p6 Jl 12 '42 750w

"Mr. Totheroh has written much for Hollywood lately, and his novel shows, to both debit and credit, some of the Hollywood markings. That almost all his characters are psychologically warped, is perhaps the result of the Big Sur literary tradition. The novel is conceived almost entirely in scene, with a minimum of dull connective detail, and a maximum of action both physical and emotional. The writing is frequently vivid, sometimes beautiful." G. R. Stewart

+ — Sat R of Lit 25:5 Jl 25 '42 500w

TOWNSEND, MARY EVELYN; PEAKE, CYRUS HENDERSON, and LANGSAM, WALTER CONSUELO. European colonial expansion since 1871. 629p $4 Lippincott

325.3 Colonization. Colonies. Imperialism
41-19488

"This book, designed for a college text, presents a detailed account of European colonial expansion since 1871 in all parts of the world. An excellent feature is that it deals not only with Africa (about a third of the entire contents) but also gives due space to important fields which have been undeservedly slighted in other general treatments: the Near East, the Middle East, and the Far East." Am Hist R

"As a textbook this fills a real need, though the exhaustive wealth of the details and their somewhat mechanical arrangement may hamper its usefulness for teaching purposes." W. O. Aydelotte

+ — Am Hist R 47:660 Ap '42 250w

Reviewed by R. E. Park

Am J Soc 48:516 Ja '43 700w

"This is a well-organized text on modern imperialism, with an emphasis on factual presentation and short, but useful, interpretative summaries. The first two chapters form a very good summary of the nature of imperialism." W. C. Johnstone

+ Am Pol Sci R 36:157 F '42 400w

"Part V, which covers China, Japan, the Philippines, and southeastern Asia is by Professor Peake, while the rest has been written by Professor Townsend. Professor Peake has given a careful and well-balanced history, and has achieved a remarkable feat in compressing a vast amount of information into 150 pages. This is the best part of the book, and provides a useful and impartial account of this particular field of expansion. Professor Townsend's chapters are strongly colored by her view that the world is divided into the have and the have-not powers (Germany, Japan, and Italy), and that the fundamental cause of the present war, as of its predecessor, is the struggle for colonies." L. A. Mills

+ — Ann Am Acad 220:236 Mr '42 450w

Reviewed by Alvin Adey

Current Hist 1:276 N '41 600w

TOWNSEND, THERESA. Gabriel and the angels. 330p $2 Winston

42-11452

Gabriel was a minister's son with the face of an angel, and these drawbacks were accentuated when his father left a country parish and moved to the city where Gabriel entered an industrial high school. But Gabriel's good nature, his cleverness, and his wit won him a place in the boys' affections, and made him a favorite with one teacher particularly who in time came into a closer relationship with him.

"Miss Townsend leans toward the sentimental, but the novel has genuine feeling." Lisle Bell

Books p16 Je 7 '42 130w

Christian Century 59:665 My 20 '42 30w

Churchman 156:31 S 1 '42 70w

TRACHTENBERG, ALEXANDER. History of legislation for the protection of coal miners in Pennsylvania, 1824-1915; introd. by Henry W. Farnam. 239p $2.75 Int. pubs.

331.7622 Coal miners. Coal mines and mining—Pennsylvania. Labor laws and legislation—Pennsylvania
42-12459

Materials for the study were obtained chiefly from visits to a good many mines, talks with miners and operators, union publications, reports of mine inspectors, Pennsylvania legislative journals, statutes, and court decisions. After a chapter in which the author describes early English mining laws, some of which were brought to Pennsylvania by English immigrants, the author traces a long and bitter fight in the chief coal-producing state of the Union for the regulation of child labor, safe and healthful working conditions, shorter hours, honest weighing, cash payment of wages, accident insurance, and improved conditions generally." (Am Pol Sci R) Bibliography. Index.

Am Hist R 48:198 O '42 20w

"Like most retrospective studies of the Industrial Revolution, this one demonstrates this inhumanity of a laissez-faire economy and incites admiration for those who suffered and those who fought for the welfare of the common man. Every page shows painstaking research and, though the careful, almost tedious, recital of details precludes wide popular appeal, the book will prove valuable for reference. Readers will hope that someone will soon trace the history of mining legislation from 1915, where the author leaves off, down to the present time." J. H. Ferguson

+ Am Pol Sci R 36:784 Ag '42 220w

"As a historical catalogue of names and dates of Pennsylvania laws dealing with the inspection of gases in the mines, the control of company stores, the appointment of checkers at the pit heads, and limitations upon the age and hours of work of minors—as such a catalogue, Trachtenberg's book is useful. But it has great shortcomings as a study in social change, for the author fails to treat of the underlying forces which set the stage for the legislative struggles, or of the way in which these forces clashed and were resolved. This book gives every evidence of having been a first study by a graduate student." Eli Ginzberg

+ — Ann Am Acad 223:249 S '42 410w

TRACY, EDWARD B. Paddles; the story of a sea lion; drawings by Ralph Nelson. 113p $2 Putnam

Seals (animals)—Legends and stories

42-8281

Paddles was a sea lion, born in a colony of sea lions off the California coast. He later was trained for the circus and became a great pet of his trainer. When the ship on which he was traveling caught fire Paddles and his wife and baby swam to land, and established themselves once more in Paddles' native colony. For grades four to seven.

Booklist 38:349 My 15 '42

Reviewed by M. L. Becker

Books p7 Mr 29 '42 300w

"Considerable information about sea lions is unobtrusively included, and those who are already convinced that a sea lion has a sense of humor will find nothing to shake their belief. The pictures have the lively, authentic quality of the text. A book that boys and girls from 9 on will find good reading." A. T. Eaton

+ N Y Times p10 Jl 5 '42 390w

TREASE, GEOFFREY. Cue for treason; il. by L. F. Grant. 281p $2 Vanguard [5s; school ed 2s 3d Blackwell]

42-16180

The adventures of one Peter Brownrigg, the young son of a Cumberland farmer, who incurred the wrath of an English lord and was forced to flee from home. He managed to reach London in company with another fugitive, and the two joined Richard Burbage's company of actors, became friends of Shakespeare, and helped to foil a plot against the life of the aging Queen Elizabeth. For high school age.

"A hearty yarn, without gadzooks language but with excellent characterization. It makes Shakespeare entirely plausible, Burbage convincing, and the glimpse of Elizabeth quite authentic. It follows closely the accepted conventions of historical stories for boys, but girl readers are provided for by a device in disguises that has been popular ever since Shakespeare used it." M. L. Becker

+ Books p8 Ap 26 '42 400w

Reviewed by P. D. Edie

Library J 67:890 O 15 '42 20w

"Should prove good background reading in connection with English classes."

+ Wis Lib Bul 38:71 Ap '42

TREASURY STAR PARADE (radio program).
See Bacher, W. A., ed. Treasury star parade

TREAT, LAWRENCE. H as in hangman.
282p $2 Duell

42-22722

Detective story.

Reviewed by Will Cuppy
Books p25 S 27 '42 160w

"There is plenty of puzzlement here—perhaps just a wee bit too much for the critical reader."
Isaac Anderson

N Y Times p10 S 27 '42 360w

"Good entertainment."

+ Sat R of Lit 25:20 O 10 '42 30w

TREGARTHEN, ENYS. Doll who came alive;
ed. by Elizabeth Yates; and il. by Nora S. Unwin. 76p $2 Day

(W) 42-21440

Imaginative story of Cornwall for girls from eight to ten. Little Jyd was unhappy and neglected until a sailor man gave her a little Dutch doll. With a doll to love Jyd was completely happy. Later when the doll came to life the two escaped from Jyd's dreary home and went to live in fairy land.

Booklist 39:75 N 1 '42

Reviewed by M. L. Becker
Books p8 Ja 17 '43 400w

"A charming story with delightful pictures."
A. M. Jordan

+ Horn Bk 18:422 N '42 100w

"The illustrations by Nora S. Unwin are in complete harmony with the story. It is a charming, satisfying book." R. A. Hill
+ Library J 67:884 O 15 '42 50w

"Children will be absorbed by this story, and book has a feeling of Cornwall and old-time flavor. Edited by Elizabeth Yates. Attractive make-up with Nora Unwin's charming fitting illustrations." Sonja Wennerblad
+ Library J 67:911 O 15 '42 70w

"The story is told with freshness and dramatic simplicity, the background of Cornish folklore adds distinction and Nora Unwin's drawings have vigor and imagination." A. T. Eaton
+ N Y Times p9 O 11 '42 240w

TREND, JOHN BRANDE. South America, with Mexico and Central America. (World to-day) 128p il maps $1.25 (3s 6d) Oxford
918 Latin America (W) A42-2104

A survey of the general history, social and economic conditions and politics of Mexico and the South and Central American countries. The author is professor of Spanish in the University of Cambridge. Index.

"The author, professor of Spanish in the University of Cambridge, has written primarily to inform his countrymen, but American readers will profit by his concise sketch of the Latin-American world—its history, its culture and its politics."
+ Books p18 Jl 19 '42 80w

Manchester Guardian p3 F 10 '42 100w

"It is among the merits of this book of 128 pages that it can be carried without inconvenience in a coat pocket. But, though small, it contains much matter. Moreover, though much of the information thus provided may be found in one or other of the many books with a South American country for subject, the treatment combines them in a perspective which to the English reader will probably be novel."
+ Times [London] Lit Sup p515 O 18 '41 500w

TREVELYAN, HUMPHRY. Goethe and the Greeks. 322p $3.75 Macmillan [18s Cambridge]
831 Goethe, Johann Wolfgang von. Hellenism [A42-1375]

"In 'Goethe and the Greeks' Humphry Trevelyan outlines Goethe's attempts at grafting Greek clarity and simplicity of expression and Greek perfection of form on German poetry." Springfield Republican

Nation 155:245 S 19 '42 180w

"Had Mr. Trevelyan divided the sheep from the goats in his book on Goethe and the Greeks, separating Interpretation from Information, the great intellectual pleasure to be found in its pages would have been doubled. Useful though the informative portions are, and however convenient it may be to have the evidence of Goethe's knowledge of Greek things collected together between the covers of one book, much of it is already so well known that it stales the freshness of the author's interpretative approach by its continual irruption." E. M. Butler

+ New Statesman & Nation 23:44 Ja 17 '42 1050w

Reviewed by Herbert Read

Spec 167:581 D 19 '41 850w

Spring'd Republican p8 My 5 '42 650w

"Mr. Trevelyan's work was worth doing, and he has done it with great care and particularity."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p57 Ja 31 '42 600w

TREXLER, SAMUEL GEISS. A pastor wings over South America. 113p $1.25 United Lutheran pub.

278 Lutheran church in South America. South America—Description and travel

42-8522

"This distinguished president of the Board of Foreign Missions of the United Lutheran Church, here sets forth, in narrative style, his adventures in visiting various countries of South America by airplane. His final chapter answers the question as to whether or not the Protestant Church is needed in this 'Roman Catholic' territory. He argues that if it be wrong for Protestantism to missionize in that land, it was just as wrong for the Roman church to missionize in the Protestant United States." Churchman

Christian Century 59:153 F 4 '42 60w

Churchman 156:31 Mr 1 '42 120w

TRIGAULT, NICOLAS. China that was; China as discovered by the Jesuits at the close of the sixteenth century [tr by] L. J. Gallagher, from the Latin. 199p il map $2.25 Bruce pub.

915.1 China—Description and travel 42-16263

"[This volume] is a translation of an early seventeenth-century report on China and the Chinese, [which formed] the long preface by Father Nicholas Trigault to the four-volume diary of his fellow Jesuit, the famous missionary, Father Matthew Ricci. The work as a whole bears the title of 'The Expedition to China Undertaken by the Society of Jesus.' The book now published in translation explains itself satisfactorily in its subtitle, 'China as Discovered by the Jesuits at the Close of the Sixteenth Century.' Interesting as the Jesuit mission was, the present volume is primarily concerned not with telling the story of that activity but with introducing the Chinese people." N Y Times

"The volume before us possesses enduring value, as the first work on the Orient to attract the attention of European intellectuals to Chinese culture. An intimate and reliable report on ethnological and sociological data, it has become a source book that helps to the understanding of a people not less interesting to the scholar than to the missionary."
+ Cath World 156:124 O '42 240w

"Under a title that is so general as to be almost completely uninformative this book opens up a fascinating and entirely specific field."

+ N Y Times p6 Jl 19 '42 600w

TRIMBLE, NEIL. Variety shows and how to produce them; foreword by Oscar W. Anderson. 141p il $1 Beckley-Cardy

792 Amateur theatricals. Vaudeville 42-1454

"A handbook containing directions for the organizing, developing, publicizing and staging of the variety show." School & Society

Booklist 38:270 Ap 1 '42

School & Society 55:168 F 7 '42 20w

Wis Lib Bul 38:134 O '42

TRIVAS, N. S. See Hals, F. Paintings

TROLLOPE, ANTHONY. Tireless traveler; twenty letters to the Liverpool Mercury, 1875; ed, with an introd, by Bradford Allen Booth. 221p $2 Univ. of Calif. [12s Cambridge]

919 Voyages and travels 41-17183

Twenty letters written to the Liverpool Mercury by Anthony Trollope, describing a trip to Ceylon and Australia which he took in 1875. "For Trollope's biographers these articles fill out the pattern of an eight months' trip to Australia about which virtually nothing was known. For the social historian they preserve faithfully and in minutest detail a picture of Ceylon and Australia in transition. For the economist they describe, in a concrete manner that is denied mere statistical surveys, under what circumstances of poverty and prosperity British colonists actually lived. For all lovers of literature they add a not insignificant book to the bibliography of Anthony Trollope." (Introd)

Christian Science Monitor p10 Ag 30 '41 470w

"Like most newly discovered writings of famous authors, this sixty-eighth book by Anthony Trollope is a disappointment. There is no question that such works ought to be published; they afford easy gratification to the collectors of first editions, and help to satisfy the scholar's craving for completeness. But if the twenty travel letters had possessed outstanding interest or merit—if there had been any public for them at the time—he himself would never have neglected their republication. [But] even 'The Tireless Traveler' is redeemed by flashes of insight which compensate the reader for many dull pages, and Mr. Booth deserves all praise for its discovery." R. P. Stebbins

N Y Times p22 F 8 '42 650w

TRUEBLOOD, DAVID ELTON. Logic of belief; an introd. to the philosophy of religion. 327p $2.75 Harper

201 Religion—Philosophy. Belief and doubt 42-13750

"Introduction to the philosophy of religion written from the angle of logic rather than of metaphysics, or doctrine, or comparative religion, or history of religion. . . Dr. Trueblood's book fills a long standing need for a careful, critical, sympathetic scrutiny of the actual logical apparatus or procedure of religion. He does not ignore the usefulness of other approaches. In fact, he is continually relying on them both for information about religion and for evidence as to the process of thought in religion." (Christian Century) Indexes.

Booklist 38:379 Je 15 '42

"Despite many excellent qualities, 'The Logic of Belief' is open to two major criticisms. In the first place, the author identifies naturalism so exclusively with mechanical determinism and behaviorism that he is really attacking a straw man. . . In the second, he pays little attention to the lively debate which is now going on in theological circles concerning the relationship between philosophy and revelation. . . The sections which outline the evidence for theistic belief and discuss the intellectual difficulties confronting it are admirably lucid and concise. The volume is intended to be an introduction to the subject, and it serves this function well by expounding all of the considerations essential to an up-to-date defense of philosophical theism." D. E. Roberts

+ Books p20 N 8 '42 550w

"[The author] has set his hand to a task that could easily have been exacting and dull. That the result is both exacting and exciting is as much a tribute to the author as to the perennially interesting subject matter of religion." Harold Bosley

+ Christian Century 59:729 Je 3 '42 950w

"The simplicity, clarity, and sincerity of this book will commend it to readers of all degrees of ability." R. C. Miller

+ Churchman 156:31 Je 1 '42 270w

"This book is an acceptable addition to the growing literature in the field of the philosophy of religion. It deserves the careful consideration of all those whose business it is, in part, to establish the intellectual validity of theistic religion." G. W. Davis

+ Crozer Q 19:243 Jl '42 1200w

Reviewed by E. S. Brightman

J Religion 22:442 O '42 900w

TRUMBULL, ROBERT. The raft. 205p il $2.50 Holt

940.548173 Aeronautics—Accidents. Pacific ocean. World war, 1939—Personal narratives, American (W) 42-19178

The day-by-day account of the experiences of three American navy fliers whose plane was wrecked in the Pacific. For thirty-four days the three drifted—or sailed as they proudly put it—in an eight by four foot rubber raft, without food, equipment, or even clothes for a time. They covered a distance of some thousand miles before they reached an inhabited atoll, and were rescued by the Navy. The story is told in the first person as Dixon, the leader of the three, told it to the author, a Honolulu newspaper man.

Appeared on Best Seller list in: ALA (1) Books (10) B & T (1) N Y Times (9) RB (1) W (1)

"A true story worth remembering. But the mere record is not what Hakluyt would have given us. Trumbull catches the details. What he misses is the rough flavor of speech and the sharp edge of individuality as it shows under stress." Edward Weeks

+ Atlantic 170:132 S '42 130w

Booklist 39:9 S '42

Bookmark 4:12 N '42

"'The Raft' was written by the city editor of 'The Honolulu Advertiser' after conversations with Chief Machinist's Mate Dixon. He has done a fine job of reporting, has kept the tone of his story at a restrained level and has let the facts speak for themselves rather than succumb to the temptation of enlarging upon them. One feels with conviction the sober truth of the things that are told. Perhaps if Dixon had written the story himself a few aspects would have been different; the officer-and-seaman attitude is kept alive too constantly when every one knows that three men cast adrift in such a pass are apt temporarily to forget their rank. And there are a few serious lapses, due perhaps to hasty preparation." Lincoln Colcord

+ Books p1 Ag 23 '42 1750w

"Trumbull writes in the clear, crisp and dramatic English that is the hall-mark of a good reporter. Since Pilot Dixon was the senior officer, he, of necessity, took command and this makes an iteration of the first person pronoun that may annoy some readers. But this is a small matter where the adventure and not the dress is what makes this a memorable experience for the reader." L. L. Marchand

+ Boston Globe p19 Ag 10 '42 500w

"The only thing that keeps this from being a great piece of deep-sea fiction, in the Conrad tradition (as to substance, not as to style), is that it is not fiction at all but history. Perhaps this means that the author deserves less praise and the actors more. . . It is a heroic saga of 'men against the sea.'"

+ Christian Century 59:1121 S 16 '42 100w

"One of the most gripping and in some ways the most inspiring story the war has produced thus far is contained in The Raft. . . It's a great story. On the whole, it is a pleasant story, though naturally, it has its grisly moments. Vice-President Wallace put it neatly and accurately when he remarked during his 'Free World Victory Speech' that it is 'the story which Americans will be telling their children for generations to illustrate man's ability to master any fate.'" R. R. M.

+ Christian Science Monitor p18 Ag 31 '42 300w

Cleveland Open Shelf p22 N '42

"This story—though 'dramatized' by its editor... is told in an honest and sober way, without any pep-talk, but sprinkled with a dry, matter-of-fact humor." Max Fischer

+ Commonweal 36:569 O 2 '42 210w

"Will appeal particularly to men. Recommended." M. E. Clark

+ Library J 67:682 Ag '42 70w

Reviewed by M. C. Scoggin

Library J 67:895 O 15 '42 10w

Reviewed by Manny Farber

New Repub 107:293 S 7 '42 700w

"An astounding chapter, well told, has been added to the annals of the war and of the sea." H. A. Stevens

+ N Y Times p3 Ag 23 '42 1200w

"This is a far greater epic than Bligh's voyage, as the three Americans who performed this feat are better men than Bligh. Told in plain prose by a journalist who gets everything out of the tale there is to get and puts nothing in."

+ New Yorker 18:59 Ag 22 '42 90w

Pratt p23 D '42

"The book, written in the first person by Robert Trumbull, of Honolulu, after spending a week end with Dixon, is curiously unworthy of the feat which it relates. Obviously prepared in a great hurry, it suffers from redundancy and repetition, but more than that, it lacks quality. The author, though he feels his subject strongly enough, has strangely missed the flavor of the navy and the sea, nor does he get inside the personalities and vocabularies of men like Dixon, Pastula, and Aldrich. The whole story is here, but it is blunted." Paul Schubert

+ Sat R of Lit 25:6 Ag 22 '42 650w

"The special quality of this book is that it restores and documents by deed something that has long been lacking from men's books and minds—a sense of the therapeutic goodness of the unflinching will to live."

+ Time 40:103 Ag 31 '42 800w

Wis Lib Bul 38:162 N '42

TSANOFF, RADOSLAV ANDREA. Moral ideals of our civilization. 636p $5 Dutton

170 Ethics—History 42-24909

"To this author (born in Bulgaria, educated in Oberlin College and Cornell University, now professor of philosophy at Rice Institute, Houston, Texas) society seems confused about its spiritual heritage; people need a more thorough and critical understanding of moral values and principles. To the serious student of the history of ideas, therefore, he presents a history of philosophy that emphasizes problems of conduct, moral and social values, and alternatives." (Library J) Index.

"For concise and lucid exposition, this book has not many equals, and even the author's reticences and restraints imply a kind of criticism. He speaks of Thomas Aquinas, for example, appreciatively but with a brevity which evidently means that he does not rate his contribution as having the tremendous significance that is sometimes ascribed to it. He writes with admirable accuracy of the Renaissance. . . He gives full weight to those movements of dissent which, at an earlier period, had broken the lock-step solidity of the medieval system and preserved the tradition of moral freedom. It is a limitation, if not a defect, of the method of treatment here employed that the development of moral ideals is made to appear as if it had been chiefly determined by the processes of reflective thought, apart from those economic and social facts which loom so large in the experience of individuals and in the history of the race." W. E. Garrison

+ — Christian Century 59:1624 D 30 '42 1000w

"From vast resources, he has made wise selection and has interpreted critically but tolerantly. He is to be commended for calling last section of book 'crossroads' instead of 'Conclusion.' He thus admits that the survey, although reaching the present moment, comes short of completion." O. G. Lawson

+ Library J 67:951 N 1 '42 130w

Reviewed by Clifford Barrett

N Y Times p26 Ja 24 '43 1600w

TSANOFF, RADOSLAV ANDREA. Religious crossroads. 384p $3.75 Dutton

201 Religion—Philosophy 42-12946

"The purpose of this book is to deal critically but also constructively with problems which religious experience presents to reflective thought (p.vii). The method pursued was to study the history of religions in order to gain an understanding of religion in its universal and essential aspects. The chapter headings are what one would expect in a historical survey of this sort and include the nature and definition of religion, beginnings of religion, religion and morality, nature and the supernatural, belief in God, idea of divine unity, grounds for belief in God, God's character and attributes, sin, salvation and atonement, religious conversion, prayer, mysticism, immortality, the problem of evil, and the ideal of divine perfection. The writer includes in his consideration various oriental philosophies, particularly in the chapters on religion and morality, the idea of divine unity, and mysticism." (J Philos) Index.

"The author is professor of philosophy at the Rice Institute. Like certain other good books, this one on the philosophy and history of religion is not exciting. Its value lies neither in the penetrating illumination of critical analysis nor in the heat produced by partisan affiliation and emphasis, but rather in a studied presentation of the subject, twilit in historical perspective by sympathetic understanding. . . The author's own views are modestly set aside in the shadow of the monumental achievements in that field of the historic past. The reader who wants information about such subject matter will not need to part company with Professor Tsanoff at the Religious Crossroads." V. C. Aldrich

+ — Christian Century 59:1120 S 16 '42 1100w

"This is the kind of book Churchman readers will like, for it is clear, straightforward, and dynamic in its demands on the Christian believer." R. C. Miller

+ Churchman 156:16 Ag 1 '42 150w

Reviewed by H. W. Schneider

Ethics 53:149 Ja '43 550w

"The character and arrangement of the book make it very usable for classroom work." K. P. L.

+ J Philos 39:501 Ag 27 '42 240w

"This book should prove useful in college upper-class courses on the problems of religious thought. The tone is critical, though never arid, and at the same time appreciative, though never sentimental. The major historical alternatives are presented, connections between related problems are pointed out, and the more crucial problems are kept in perspective. . . In a book intended to be critical and suggestive rather than systematic, it is almost inevitable that there should be loose threads in the pattern of the author's thought. . . Perhaps these loose threads of thought should remind us that systematizing is not everything. For this book has a vitality which many systems have not, and in it there is a maturity of wisdom which must have been distilled from persistent and prolonged reflection." W. A. Christian, Jr.

+ — J Religion 22:433 O '42 700w

TUBBS, ESTON VALENTINE. Living together.
3v il $1.28 Davis
917.3 U.S.—Social conditions 42-5147

"The underlying purpose of this series is to acquaint children of the middle and the upper grades with the actual living conditions which prevail in our country—on the farm, in the village, in the small cities, and in the large cities. . . The information concerning each of the communities 'visited' is presented in such a way that the reader does not realize that he is carrying on a completely integrated study of transportation, civics, history, geography, science, and industrial arts. Each chapter contains several pictures of interesting places to be seen in the cities visited." El School J

"Careful investigation of this series of books will reveal that due consideration has been given to subject matter that is closely related to the cardinal principles of education. The materials of history, civics, and geography and the elements of sociology and economics are integrated into a unified whole." N. L. Gill
+ El School J 43:59 S '42 180w
School & Society 56:72 JI 18 '42 130w

TUCKER, AUGUSTA. Man Miss Susie loved.
510p $2.75 Harper

(W) 42-36359

The author of Miss Susie Slagle's (Book Review Digest, 1939) has gone back in time to 1866 to tell the story of Miss Susie's romance with Christopher Beverly who had served under Stonewall Jackson. After Christopher's death Miss Susie devoted herself to her father and mother, and to the dream of Johns Hopkins, which hospital Christopher had aided in its early stages. When Miss Susie's father and mother had died leaving their daughter almost penniless the great Doctor Welch suggested the boarding house for Johns Hopkins students only, and Miss Susie welcomed even this nebulous tie with her beloved Christopher. Bibliography.

Appeared on Best Seller list in: Books (1)
N Y Times (10) RB (1)

Booklist 39:103 N 15 '42

"I could wish that Miss Tucker had held her hand a bit in underscoring the vanity, egotism and pettiness of the particular type of Victorian lady represented by Miss Susie's mamma and her friends. Also that there was less philosophizing on what Negroes, as such, know and think—as exemplified in the very lovable persons of Mattie and Hizer. But the occasional tinge of didacticism which creeps into these two areas of the book is a minor trait quickly lost in the warmth and richness of the story as a whole." Mary Ross

+ — Books p16 N 8 '42 800w

"There is much that is commendable in Miss Tucker's book, mainly her knowledge of medical history, of Baltimore and of Southern manners and prejudices. But it is not entirely successful as a novel. Miss Susie's romance is too slight to carry the weight of the many uneventful pages that follow after the death of Major Beverly is recorded; the portraits of Johns Hopkins, George Peabody and of Dr. Weir Mitchell, who is briefly introduced, too sentimental. The best things in the book are the portrayals of Miss Susie's parents and of Hizer and his Aunt Mattie." Rose Feld

+ — N Y Times p22 N 1 '42 750w

"The book is crammed full of nostalgic details of life in Baltimore a couple of generations ago, and there are sympathetic pictures of such great doctors as Halsted and Welch and Osler." + New Yorker 18:81 N 7 '42 90w

"It is the many little touches, the meticulous detail that makes 'The Man Miss Susie Loved' a warm and tender book that is quietly readable." L. S. Munn

+ Springf'd Republican p7e N 15 '42 550w
Wis Lib Bul 38:187 D '42

TUCKER, HARRY, and LEAGER, MARC CARL. Highway economics. 454p il maps $4
Int. textbook

388.1 Roads. Highway engineering 42-36082

"The book has been written both for the student of highway engineering and for other readers who may desire general information on a rather wide variety of subjects pertaining to the economics of highways. That fact accounts in part for the inclusion of a somewhat elementary treatment of certain subjects as well as for the selection of a somewhat diversified group of subjects." (Pref) Bibliography. Index.

Eng N 128:80 F 26 '42 80w

N Y New Tech Bks 27:43 JI '42

TUDOR, TASHA (MRS THOMAS LEIGHTON MCCREADY). Dorcas Porkus. [35p] col il 75c Oxford

42-17473

Tiny picture-story book, describing the adventures of a pet pig at a quilting party. For the very young.

Reviewed by A. M. Jordan

Horn Bk 18:332 S '42 50w

"Charming text and illustrations. Libraries that have found ways of using these dainty calico books will wish to add this title, but their size makes them impractical for general circulation." E. G. Mullan

+ Library J 67:848 O 1 '42 70w

"As always in Tasha Tudor's books the story is simplicity itself, yet it has lively action and eventfulness in line with a little child's interests. The drawings on every page add distinction and atmosphere and make the setting very convincing. . . These little stories are never dull nor perfunctory, for the artist-author has touched them with the magic of the changing seasons of Spring meadows and falling snow, of firelight and candlelight, cozy kitchens and shady orchards, all homely delights which belong by right to childhood and contribute to its joy." A. T. Eaton

+ N Y Times p10 O 25 '42 360w

TULLY, JIM. Biddy Brogan's boy. 300p $2.50
Scribner

42-9125

A boy of the lower classes, born on an Ohio farm, is the central figure. The son of a poverty-stricken day laborer, Biddy grew up the hard way. He wasted his money when he earned any, he drank when he grew older, he tried prize fighting; but underneath all his outward show of brutality there lingered the dream of the writer he would one day become. His sister Virginia, who ran a boarding house in Chicago, fostered his hopes and gave him his only real home. The book closes with Virginia's death.

"Mr. Tully has put down his materials in rather haphazard continuity, order not being one of the narrative virtues he cherishes. But it is a robust yarn, suited to his free-swinging style." Lisle Bell

Books p12 Ap 5 '42 550w

"In 'Biddy Brogan's Boy'—[Tully's] first novel after several years' silence—we have something approaching the fulfillment of his original promise. It is a strong and steady book, rich in both its tragedy and its humor, and the narrative flows along with a direct and natural simplicity unmarred by any of his early writing flaws. . . It is doubtful whether any other author could have made more exciting use of this material than Tully has. It is completely his story, and he is a master storyteller." T. Q. Curtiss

+ N Y Times p6 Ap 5 '42 700w

Reviewed by S. L. Phillips

Sat R of Lit 25:18 Ap 11 '42 230w

Reviewed by Ralph (O') Loewy

Springf'd Republican p7e Ap 19 '42

550w

TUNIS, JOHN ROBERTS. All-American; il. by Hans Walleen. 245p $2 Harcourt

(W) 42-36301

An up-to-date school story for older boys and adults which uses the race and color questions as a background. During the course of the story an American boy of the upper classes, takes the part of some of his less fortunate classmates, and leads the way to a truer democratic understanding in the town.

"Not only a fast-paced football story but also an account of how a young athlete and his fellow high school students reacted when a neighboring school refused to play their team unless the star end, a Negro, was left behind. No punches are pulled in the handling of race prejudice and commercialism in sport; here are some specific problems of democracy in terms young people can understand. Mr. Tunis has done much to kill the curse of namby-pamby, milk-and-water writing for boys." M. C. Scoggin

+ Atlantic 170:149 D '42 220w
Booklist 39:37 O 1 '42

"Each time I read this, and I have done so three times since it reached me in galleys, my conviction strengthens that it is the best story offered to boys not only this year but for a long time. It is even one of the very few that jump the bars of the 'juvenile'—in this case the barbed wire entanglement of the 'school-sport story'—and insist on being discussed by adults. It will be eagerly, sharply discussed by men; it may be a book one must have read this year to go among people who discuss books. For it goes to the center of certain vital matters with which we must deal, not only in this time of war but in the harder days of post-war reconstruction, if America is to build foursquare." M. L. Becker

+ Books p9 S 20 '42 600w
Cath World 156:383 D '42 50w
Christian Century 59:1187 S 30 '42 80w

"Here's an excellent sport story and here, too, is an instance where young people courageously stand out for democratic principles in handling a problem common to many communities in the United States today." F. B. Sloan

+ Christian Science Monitor p16 D 10 '42 100w
Churchman 156:15 N 15 '42 20w

"A most unusual junior novel. It combines a good story which will appeal to boys in their teens with an admirable moral of racial justice—a combination certainly almost unheard of." H. L. Binsse

+ Commonweal 37:116 N 20 '42 30w

"Mr. Tunis's name is guarantee both for the vigor and accuracy of the sport sections and for the high note of character and citizenship. Boys and girls will find it an exciting story and a timely one, firmly grounded in a liberal conception of the meaning of democracy." A. M. Jordan

+ Horn Bk 18:425 N '42 70w

"John Tunis has really put the specific problems of democracy in terms young people can understand. His All-American... is unsentimental in treatment but stirring." M. C. Scoggin

+ Library J 67:897 O 15 '42 60w

"Significant book dealing in forthright manner with controversial subject: Is democracy an alive thing in our schools and in inter-school sports today?... Because final incident involves racial prejudice in the South, librarians may wish to read before buying. Otherwise, highly recommended." E. A. Groves

+ Library J 67:958 N 1 '42 100w

"No one writing for boys today can describe a touch-down or a home run with more photographic clarity than John Tunis, but the author of The Iron Duke always has a good deal more to say than just sports talk. This is his sixth and certainly his most penetrating book on sport in American life, for in Ronald Perry's career on the gridiron and in the classroom we see an exercise, a tough one, in democracy in that most formative of periods, the high-school age." E. L. Buell

+ N Y Times p9 N 1 '42 440w

"A boy who had just read this sports story through twice at top speed summarized it thus: 'It sounded a little fishy and it's certainly not well written, but the point's awfully good.' He had it about right." K. S. W.

New Yorker 18:111 D 12 '42 100w

"This book does not hesitate to discuss problems usually barred in books for young people. It should be read not only by the boys and girls for whom it was written, but by all adult Americans."

+ Sat R of Lit 25:26 N 14 '42 110w

"Outstanding young people's novel of 1942."

+ Sat R of Lit 25:60 D 5 '42 30w

Wis Lib Bul 38:168 N '42

TUNIS, JOHN ROBERTS. Million-miler; the story of an air pilot. 253p il $2.50 Messner

B or 92 Zimmerman, Harry Johnson. Aeronautics, Commercial 42-36226

Story of commercial aviation, as evidenced in the life of Jack Zimmerman, chief pilot of TWA. Contains brief biographical material on some prominent aviators, a chronology of important dates in aviation, and descriptive material on modern commercial aircraft. Index.

Booklist 38:373 Je 1 '42

"While this is primarily a work of information, it will be read, by a special audience, with close attention. The style is breezy, the photographs large and carefully chosen."

+ Books p12 My 10 '42 300w

"Breezy, informational style suited to teenage and adult readers." Maude Adams

+ Library J 67:583 Je 15 '42 50w

"This account is a fascinating picture of commercial flying in its early days and now, with a great deal of information on its present organization." E. L. Buell

+ N Y Times p8 Je 21 '42 90w

TURNBULL, MRS AGNES (SLIGH). Day must dawn. 483p $2.75 Macmillan

(W) 42-22723

A tale of Revolutionary days in a small western-Pennsylvania town. The chief characters are Sam Murray and his wife, Martha; their adopted son, Hugh McConnell; and their daughter, Violet. Thru their experiences and thoughts are depicted the pastimes and labors of a frontier community, over-shadowed by the constant fear of Indian attacks.

Appeared on Best Seller list in: Books (10) B & T (1) N Y Times (10) RB (1)

"A good book for everybody, and especially for young people, to read." R. M. Gay

+ Atlantic 170:166 D '42 180w

Booklist 39:103 N 15 '42

"Miss Turnbull brings to the historical novel the quiet significance of homely, every-day things. This novel moves with the slow pace of daily living, and in the movement it unfolds a world of details that has escaped most period novelists. Yet there are other things, too. There is the tragic bewilderment of armed men split between two duties. . . And there is one of the most sensitive, understanding stories of young love, that of Violet and Hugh, in historical fiction. But, above all, there is Miss Turnbull's peculiar gift of re-creation through the masterly employment of detail." A. B. Tourtellot

+ Books p12 N 8 '42 900w

"The Day Must Dawn is a very good historical novel, both in its conception of character and its conception of history. The author avoids the mistake of trying to make history do the work of fiction." N. E. Monroe

+ Cath World 156:367 D '42 250w

Christian Science Monitor p11 D 26 '42 550w

Cleveland Open Shelf p24 N '42

Reviewed by Kathleen Craig
Commonweal 37:100 N 13 '42 390w

Reviewed by J. S. Cleavinger
Library J 67:739 S 1 '42 70w

TURNBULL, A. S.—Continued

"The novel is long, but never long-winded. It is full of movement, of incident and adventure, rich in color, written in a flexible style which shifts easily from such pure poetry as the race over the snow to the hard-bitten talk of the men at the tavern. More important still, the book is deeply American, both in matter and in spirit." L. M. Field

+ N Y Times p6 O 25 '42 1150w

New Yorker 18:83 O 24 '42 90w

"Mrs. Turnbull's artistry in fashioning this chronicle deserves the highest praise. She has not lavished her attention upon the central figure at the expense of the other characters; each is so firmly drawn as to be impressively real. She has thoroughly mastered the background and has made sharp and vivid every detail of that primitive life, from the plain drudgery of candle-dipping to the festive frivolity of a kissing-party. And, most important of all, she never drops into pathos. She has kept the touch so light, the tone so cheerful, that there is no place for permanent gloom in the lives of her brave and solid people." C. D. Abbott

+ Sat R of Lit 25:16 O 17 '42 550w

Reviewed by Alden Stevens

Survey G 31:602 D '42 160w

Wis Lib Bul 38:163 N '42

Reviewed by Robert Littell

Yale R n s 32:xii winter '43 50w

TURNER, RALPH EDMUND. Great cultural traditions; the foundations of civilization. 2v il maps ea $1 McGraw

901 Civilization—History. History, Ancient 41-19597

"A picture of the continuous cultural development of the Ancient Near East, Iran, India, China, and the Mediterranean lands, interpreted by historical and archaeological discoveries of the various social sciences. It discusses the interplay of geographical, technological, economic, social and intellectual factors in the 'great cultural traditions' at the base of civilization: (1) their beginnings among prehistoric man, the formation of traditions embodying primitive achievements and their transmission to early literate peoples, especially the organization of traditional structures of behavior or 'urban culture'; (2) such early cultures in their imperial phase, i.e. that of decline, their interactions and reorientations caused by successive displacements of the carrying populations." (Ann Am Acad) Bibliographical notes at foot of pages. Index at end of each volume.

Reviewed by C. H. Peake

Am Hist R 47:810 J1 '42 850w

"As a text in a somewhat half-elementary course of history of cultures, the work is good and can be recommended. A good bibliography and many illustrations and diagrams increase its usefulness. It cannot, however, be taken as a serious treatise in social and cultural change, as a systematic history of culture, or as a philosophy of history. Except for a mechanical and eclectic scheme for ordering the concrete material, the work does not have any unified and real conceptual framework or any systematic theory so that it might be a real contribution to these fields as well as to social science generally." P. A. Sorokin

+ Am J Soc 48:515 Ja '43 260w

"The maps and illustrations are excellent, and the reviewer congratulates the author for returning to the time-honored custom of placing bibliographical material at the foot of the pages concerned. There are capital indexes totaling fifty-six pages in the two volumes. Professor Turner's work is a fine attempt to explain ancient culture from many viewpoints, including that of political history, and should be of service to every historian who has been 'socially trained.'" W. W. Hyde

+ Ann Am Acad 219:209 Ja '42 1400w

"An important and excellent two-volume text. . . . Use has been made of the techniques and concepts of the social studies. Highly recommended."

+ Social Studies 32:379 D '41 40w

"All in all, one may safely describe the work, thus far, as the most original and promising synthesis of historical materials yet written in the United States. When finished it will be our outstanding monument to the 'new history.' The author stands as far above the copyist and recording clerk, who currently passes for the reputable historian, as a great designing engineer stands above a plumber's assistant." H. E. Barnes

+ Survey G 31:216 Ap '42 500w

TURNER, ANNETTE. Canyon of no sunset; il. by William B. Hamaker. 256p $2 Nelson

(W) 42-5128

"Mystery story, with Western setting, for and about teen-age people." Library J

"Unusually well written of its kind, with mystery sustained until very last." S. J. Johnson

+ Library J 67:369 Ap 15 '42 70w

"This deft mystery story aims at nothing more than diverting light reading for young people and succeeds admirably." E. L. Buell

+ N Y Times p10 Mr 15 '42 180w

TURPIN, EDNA HENRY LEE. Zickle's puppy dog; il. by Arne Lundborg. 125p-1.50 Grey-stone

42-36242

A lost puppy adopted Zickle, who lived with his parents in a backwoods section of Virginia. For a time the little boy was blissfully happy with his dog, and then his former owner traced him to Zickle's home. The outcome was quite satisfactory to all concerned. For boys of nine and ten.

Booklist 38:386 Je 15 '42

"The appeal of the story to small children is bound to be strong, and I am glad that the type is large and clear for their eyes."

+ Books p21 My 10 '42 200w

Reviewed by F. B. Sloan

Christian Science Monitor p7 Ag 31 '42 110w

"Scene is backwoods of Virginia, and dialogue contains colloquialisms, which enhance local color and nowise detract from simplicity of story." Marguerite Nahigian

+ Library J 67:583 Je 15 '42 50w

"This is more than just a boy-and-dog story for it couches a problem in ethics in terms which any child of the 7 to 10 year-old-group will understand with heart-felt emotion, and Zickle is all the more appealing because he so nearly doesn't make the grade. Unassuming but so right in mood and detail the story deserves more adequate illustration than has been given it." E. L. Buell

+ N Y Times p8 Je 7 '42 280w

TUTTLE, WILBUR C. Mystery of the red triangle. 248p $2 Houghton

42-11045

Detective story which has a western United States locale.

Reviewed by Will Cuppy

Books p18 F 22 '42 60w

"There is more gunplay than literary quality in this book, but you can't have everything." Isaac Anderson

N Y Times p14 F 22 '42 150w

Wis Lib Bul 38:69 Ap '42

TUTTLE, WILBUR C. Valley of vanishing herds; a Hashknife Hartley story. 248p $2 Houghton

42-19560

Western story.

Booklist 39:34 O 1 '42

Reviewed by Will Cuppy

Books p9 S 6 '42 60w

Wis Lib Bul 38:163 N '42

TWENTIETH CENTURY FUND, INC. Labor committee. How collective bargaining works; a survey of experience in leading American industries; research director, Harry A. Millis; contributing authors: Donald Anthony [and others]. 986p $4 The fund

331.88 Trade unions. Labor contract. Labor and laboring classes—U.S. 42-20162

"This volume contains full-length sketches of the actual workings of collective bargaining in sixteen United States trades and industries and thumbnail summaries covering thirteen other fields. Each of the broader pictures covers both the growth of organized dealings between employers and labor unions in the industry, and the situation at the time of writing. Although most of the field work was done in 1939, almost all the chapters include developments in 1940 and about half of them cover events in 1941." (Foreword) Index.

Reviewed by Z. C. Dickinson
Ann Am Acad 224:198 N '42 650w
Booklist 39:116 D 1 '42
New Repub 107:262 Ag 31 '42 60w

TWISS, BENJAMIN ROLLINS. Lawyers and the Constitution; how laissez faire came to the Supreme court; with a foreword by Edward S. Corwin. 271p $3 Princeton univ. press

342.73 U.S.—Constitutional law. U.S. Supreme court. Laissez-faire. Industry and state—U.S. 42-19388

"It is the author's thesis that the doctrine of laissez faire and freedom of private enterprise was introduced into American constitutional theory by a group of able lawyers, 'the necessary intermediates between capitalists and the court,' in the 1870's and 1880's. They persuaded the judges to that point of view in the interests of their clients who wanted protection from restrictive legislation." Christian Century

"The ideas and work of these lawyers and authors are well discussed. I find less satisfactory the discussion of the times in which they labored, of the climate of opinion out of which their own ideas came. The book is, that is to say, an account of the ideas expressed by those members of the bar who embraced the philosophy of laissez faire; it is not a comprehensive study of economic or intellectual history in an era in which this particular doctrine rose, flourished, and declined. The material here presented will, however, be of very real assistance to anyone who seeks to understand or to write about that important process in our national development." B. F. Wright

+ — Ann Am Acad 224:215 N '42 450w

"The majority of distinguished lawyers, Mr. Twiss feels, have revealed little social consciousness. . . . Perhaps some qualifications should be made in this sweeping indictment. Throughout our history able lawyers have regarded themselves as counsel for the people and have taken the lead in presenting the popular position and in formulating a liberal interpretation of the Constitution. And in more recent years some of our best law schools have recognized the problem which Mr. Twiss here presents and have trained a new generation of lawyers to a more intelligent recognition of the responsibility of the bar to society." H. S. Commager

Books p28 N 8 '42 950w

Reviewed by G. H. McNeil
Christian Century 59:1354 N 4 '42 800w

TWOMEY, ARTHUR CORNELIUS, and HER-RICK, NIGEL. Needle to the North; the story of an expedition to Ungava and the Belcher Islands. 360p il $3.50 Houghton

917.28 Ungava. Belcher Islands. Scientific expeditions (W) 42-11987

"Just east of the Bay, on the Labrador Peninsula, lies the great unorganized District of Ungava—bigger than Texas and as stormy as Cape Horn; while out in the Bay, only sixty miles offshore, rise the rocks and tundra of the Belcher Islands." (p.3) This is an account of an expedition to Ungava and the Belcher islands, by two scientists from the staff of the Carnegie Museum of Pittsburgh, made in search of fresh-water seals, primarily. Mr Twomey is an ornithologist, so the descriptions of birds figure largely.

Booklist 38:345 My 15 '42

"The book is well written, and only here and there does its professionally handled suspense seem to promise more drama than it succeeds in delivering. In some ways it is one of the best books of its kind that I have seen for a long time." E. P. Hanson

+ Books p12 Je 7 '42 1500w

"Account is spirited and entertaining, not merely a monograph intended for fellow scientists. Recommended for readers interested in adventure and exploration." A. R. Eaton

+ Library J 67:368 Ap 15 '42 70w

N Y Times p6 My 3 '42 400w

"There are three groups of numerous fine photographs that in themselves tell the story of this very successful expedition."

+ Scientific Bk Club R 13:3 My '42 360w
Wis Lib Bul 38:87 My '42

TWYMAN, FRANK. Spectrochemical analysis of metals and alloys. 355p il $8.50 Chemical pub co. [21s Griffin]

544.6 Spectrum analysis. Metals. Alloys 41-50980

"Technical treatise on the determination of impurities in ferrous and non-ferrous metals and alloys by use of the spectroscope. The author intended the work for teachers, students, metallurgists, and others engaged in this type of analysis. Chapter I traces the development of spectrochemical analysis from Newton to Hartley and Gramont. Well documented by a bibliography of source material." N Y New Tech Bks

"The style of the book is very simple and readable. References are to paragraph numbers throughout the book, and literature references are made by the authors' names followed by the year in which the paper appeared. . . . It is a 'must own' book for the library of every analyst who has anything to do with spectrochemical analysis. . . . The paper quality in the American edition is worse than that in the British. The American publisher did not even see fit to print the spectrum plates, such as the frontispiece, on glazed paper." Louis Waldbauer

+ — Am Chem Soc J 64:1745 Jl '42 700w

"This book will be welcomed by all workers in the field of spectrochemical analysis. As the title indicates, it is written primarily with a view to the metallurgical applications. In the preface the author states that the book is designed for three classes of readers: teachers and students of metallurgy, industrial metallurgists who may wish to use spectrochemical analysis, and those already engaged in it. Still the book will prove to be of considerable interest also to non-metallurgical analysts. . . . The book is well written and remarkably free from errors. Only a few misprints, none of which should cause confusion, were noted." E. J. Meehan

+ J Phys Chem 46:338 F '42 400w

"All those engaged on spectrochemical analysis and especially metallurgists will be stimulated by reading Mr. Twyman's up-to-date account of other workers' methods, and they could usefully retain the book for permanent reference. There must also be many responsible for industrial processes who would discover in the method valuable applications to their own problems." L. A. Thomas

+ Nature 148:68 Jl 19 '41 900w

N Y New Tech Bks 26:58 O '41

TYLER, MRS ALICE JAYNES. I who should command all. new ed 77p il $1.50 Putnam
B or 92 Audubon, John James 42-5733

Records supporting testimony to the theory that John James Audubon was in reality the lost dauphin of France, the son of Louis XVI

TYLER, A. J.—Continued
and Marie Antoinette. The book was privately published in 1937 (Book Review Digest, 1937) and is now slightly enlarged.

Booklist 38:333 My 1 '42

Reviewed by E. L. Tinker
N Y Times p18 S 13 '42 360w

U

ULLMAN, SAMUEL S. Plays of America's explorers and founders. 243p $2 Dodd
812 (W) 42-4799

"Eighteen short plays concerning well-known personalities of America's early history. Suitable for assembly programs, as they take fifteen minutes to give. Contents: Leif Ericsson, Columbus, Ponce de Leon, Balboa, Cortez, Magellan, De Soto, Coronado, Father Junipero Serra, Marquette and Joliet, La Salle, Captain John Smith, the Pilgrims, the Puritans, Roger Williams, Lord Baltimore, Peter Stuyvesant, and William Penn. Companion volume to Plays of America's Growth and Plays of America's Achievement." Library J

Booklist 38:271 Ap 1 '42

Reviewed by E. A. Groves
Library J 67:270 Mr 15 '42 70w
Wis Lib Bul 38:66 Ap '42

UNCLE GUS, pseud. See Rey, H. A.

UNDSET, SIGRID. Happy times in Norway [tr. by Joran Birkeland]. 225p $2 Knopf 914.81 Norway—Social life and customs.

Children in Norway (W) 42-19694

Reconstruction of the childhood of the author's own three children in their happy home in Norway, long before the days of the Nazi occupation. Gives an excellent picture of Norwegian life and customs thruout the whole of a year. For grade seven and higher grades.

Booklist 39:75 N 1 '42

Reviewed by M. L. Becker
Books p10 N 15 '42 500w
Cath World 156:374 D '42 90w

"Madam Undset has made for all time a record of those vanished days when her beloved country was a land 'where human dignity and integrity were cherished, where friendliness, happiness and charity were considered the best things in life.' There is no bitterness expressed in her book but there is confidence in the future." F. B. Sloan
+ Christian Science Monitor p16 D 10 '42 230w

"Ageless and timeless; a rare book for the whole family." A. C. Moore
+ Horn Bk 18:407 N '42 30w

Reviewed by A. M. Jordan
Horn Bk 18:426 N '42 100w

Reviewed by M. C. Scoggin
Library J 67:895 O 15 '42 50w

"One of the most beautiful books of the year is Sigrid Undset's Happy Times in Norway. It is for the mature reader and will be considered by many to belong to the adult collection, but the children should have a chance to read this great author's remembrances of a happy family life." P. D. Edie

+ Library J 67:889 O 15 '42 40w

"This quiet but vivid writing makes plain the integrity and strength of the Norwegians who 'know for certain that we shall have our country back again, free and swept clear of the forces of evil.' . . . Limited appeal. For thoughtful young people." M. N. Miller
+ Library J 67:958 N 1 '42 100w

"In this record of a close-knit, loving family is Norway itself, proud and free, cherishing its heritage in simple dignity. Reading it we know that times, in essence like those lost days, shall come again to another generation of Norway's children in spite of the blackest act of treachery and ingratitude which the world has known since Judas." E. L. Buell

+ N Y Times p7 N 15 '42 400w

New Yorker 18:110 D 12 '42 100w

"Classic which must be read by everyone."
+ Sat R of Lit 25:60 D 5 '42 40w

"From the pen of a great writer, Sigrid Undset, comes a splendid Christmas book for the young, say from 10 to 12 years of age, and for older people who love the charm of childhood. . . . The beauty of the Norwegian mountains and valleys breathes through these stories of summer time, festivals, the Christmas season. They are brimming with color and life." S. V. Gustafson

+ Spring'd Republican p7e N 22 '42 160w
Wis Lib Bul 38:165 N '42

UNDSET, SIGRID. Return to the future; tr. from the Norwegian by Henriette C. K. Naeseth. 251p $2.50 Knopf

B or 92 World war, 1939-. Authors—Correspondence, reminiscences, etc.

(W) 42-1520

In the first chapter this famous Norwegian writer describes the beauty of spring in her native land and then tells how that beauty was trampled upon by brutal invasion in 1940. Following this she tells the story of her own retreat to Sweden, of her trip across Russia and Siberia to Japan and finally across the Pacific to the United States. In conclusion she ponders on the possible future of the free peoples of this world.

Booklist 38:231 Mr 1 '42

"This is a book inspired by Norway and written by its most distinguished woman, but I have read nothing of late which seems to me so well worth an American's time." G. N. Shuster

+ Books p1 F 1 '42 950w

"Mme. Undset, one of the most distinguished novelists of our day, has written a vivid story of the Nazi invasion of her beloved Norway, and given the world a just though bitter indictment of Nazi treachery and brutality." B. L. Conway

+ Cath World 154:757 Mr '42 650w

Cleveland Open Shelf p6 Mr '42

"'Return to the Future' serves the excellent function of a monument, revealing little that is novel, but crystallizing and commemorating a great and powerful idea well known." T. O. Sloane III.

+ Commonweal 35:538 Mr 20 '42 550w

Reviewed by R. G. Woolbert
Foreign Affairs 20:776 J1 '42 20w

Reviewed by S. E. Sherman
+ Library J 67:40 Ja 1 '42 80w

"Sigrid Undset saw it happen, and it is good to have in forthright language the living testimony of a human being who is a woman and a mother before she is a writer or thinker about what that evil thing, Nazi aggression, means on the spot. In this country such awareness is all too far away as yet." Bjarne Braatoy

+ Nation 154:234 F 21 '42 480w

"The strength of Sigrid Undset and the effectiveness of her book lie in the fact that hers is not the voice of an isolated high-minded individual, but that of her country." Sybille Bedford

+ New Repub 106:304 Mr 2 '42 500w

"The chapter on Sweden, and even more the one on the fourteen days in Russia, are not satisfying. Naturally, it would be difficult to write of other countries as Mme. Undset writes, incomparably, of her own. . . . Arriving in Japan, Madame Undset is open to the same error. . . . In this chapter begins the writing of the philosopher and moralist. Here we find anew the great writer, impregnated with the finest traditions of the culture and civilization of the world. . . . 'Return to the Future' is a book of great worth. It ends in the harmonious accord of a generous and philanthropic soul who looks only for the good of all humanity without distinction of peoples." Milos Safranek

+ — N Y Times p1 F 1 '42 1000w
New Yorker 17:62 F 7 '42 80w

"In the literature of the war, the first chapter of Sigrid Undset's new book must surely remain a classic. 'Norway, Spring 1940' it is called, and it is the Nobel Prize winner's eyewitness account of the Nazi invasion of her fatherland. It is a terrible and poignant story, terrible in its simplicity, poignant in what it leaves unsaid. . . 'Return to the Future' is a memorable and significant book." A. F. Wolfe

+ Sat R of Lit 25:7 F 14 '42 900w
Spring'd Republican p7e F 8 '42 450w

UNITED STATES. NATIONAL PARK SERVICE. Fading trails; the story of endangered American wildlife; ill. by Walter A. Weber; ed. by Charles Elliott. 279p $3 Macmillan

799 Game protection. Zoology—North America (W)

Study of American wild life, from the days of discovery to the exploitation period, up to the present. Partial contents: The grizzly bear; The bighorn; The sea otter; The manatee; The wolf; The mountain lion; The nene; The trumpeter swan; The pinnated grouse; The Florida crane; The roseate spoonbill; The white hawk; The Puerto Rican parrot; The Great Lakes whitefish; The Atlantic salmon; The lobster; The green turtle; The American crocodile. Selected bibliography. Index.

Booklist 39:45 O 15 '42

"[This] is not, for all this thoroughness and useful documentation, a merely factual book. It is a book, also, prepared in high passion, and with a glow of spirit in it. It is a book to arouse and awaken. It is a book of which the widest possible distribution in schools and libraries would be a patriotic service, in the deepest meaning of those words, to the cause of a better and richer and happier-landed America." Alan Devoe

+ Books p5 S 27 '42 750w

Reviewed by A. E. Brown
Library J 67:913 O 15 '42 110w

"A succinct and stirring book."

+ N Y Times p28 S 13 '42 550w
Wis Lib Bul 38:183 D '42

UNITED STATES. PRESIDENT, 1933. (F. D. ROOSEVELT). Public papers and addresses [second administration]; comp. and collated by Samuel I. Rosenman, with special introductions and explanatory notes by President Roosevelt. 4v 659,686,635,741p ill $30 (£6 6s) Macmillan

308.1 U.S.—Politics and government. U.S.—Foreign relations. U.S.—Economic policy (W)

For descriptive note see Annual for 1941.

Reviewed by J. W. Dafee
Am Hist R 47:907 J1 '42 1200w

Reviewed by R. G. Woolbert
Foreign Affairs 20:574 Ap '42 70w

"For the British reader, the most fascinating pages in these volumes are those in which, from 1937 onwards, we watch the President massively educating his people to a grasp of what Hitlerism implies. It was an effort as sustained and as comprehensive as Mr. Churchill's campaign against 'appeasement' in this country. It is not unlikely to take rank with the two or three supreme achievements in American history." H. J. Laski

+ New Statesman & Nation 23:179 Mr 14 '42 950w

Reviewed by Wilson Harris
Spec 168:160 F 13 '42 950w

"The Roosevelt papers provide a thrilling record of a successful democracy in a world in which democracy fights for its very existence. The papers will be of fundamental value from the documentary point of view in giving to historians a definitive record of a critical period in American history. They are more valuable in 1942, however, as a war document, building as a war aim the picture of the democratic system which is worth defending. Could they be approached by all Americans in a spirit of fair-mindedness and without the pettiness which has marked the opposition to the New Deal, they would provide an objective in national unity by giving to Americans an account of what their land is and should be." Francis Williamson

+ Survey G 31:363 Ag '42 1300w

"The plan of the series is admirably designed to make the volumes available to the common reader, the student and the publicist. It is not merely a matter of making easy the 'index lore that turns no student pale.' Cross-references, classified lists, elaborate annotations make all readers in debt to Judge Rosenman, who compiled and arranged the material."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p78 F 14 '42 4250w

"For an authentic portrait of a patient, tolerant, democratic man, we do not have to go beyond these volumes. They speak eloquently as to what kind of a man Mr. Roosevelt is. I believe they answer Mr. Johnson's question. The answer they give me is that Mr. Roosevelt, though he may be a dictator now by force of temporary circumstances, is a democrat by instinct." Raymond Clapper

+ — Yale R n s 31:603 spring '42 1550w

UNITED STATES. WAR DEPARTMENT.

Bureau of public relations. Orientation course. Background of our war; lectures. 279p maps $2 Farrar

940.53 World war, 1939- (W)

This book contains "lectures prepared for the Army's Orientation Course by the War Department's Bureau of Public Relations. These are orientation talks [giving] clear, relatively non-controversial synopses of the events that led to the war, our problems at home and in South America, and the ten major campaigns since the Japanese took Mukden in 1931." (New Yorker)

"There are some (usually weak) attempts at explanation, and there is a slight appeal, particularly in the concluding chapter, to patriotic emotion; some glossing is evident, as in the treatment of the results of the attack on Pearl Harbor. The biggest defect of the book however, is the absence of an adequate treatment of the issues involved in the war and the reasons for American participation. The book is recommended for a summary treatment of military development. Numerous maps and an up-to-date list of 'suggested readings' add to its value." Vernon Van Dyke

Am Pol Sci R 36:1000 O '42 210w

Reviewed by J. S. Roucek
Ann Am Acad 223:205 S '42 350w

Booklist 39:9 S '42

"The book is a plain recitation of unvarnished facts, written in plain non-technical language, easily understood by any one. The simplicity of style of 'The Background of Our War' is so genuine that some readers have erroneously considered it elementary." P. C. Raborg

+ Books p3 Je 28 '42 850w

New Yorker 18:68 Je 20 '42 90w

"'The Background of our War' suggests a policy that deserves a place in the foreground of attention in the months ahead. Here is further evidence that books have a place in our arsenal. The way in which the War Department has discharged this unique educational program warrants confidence in any further work along these lines. Civilian lecturers coöperated with army officers. Maps and pamphlets were used to good effect. Commanding officers noted that this type of instruction improved the attitude of many men toward their duties." Pendleton Herring

+ Sat R of Lit 25:10 Ag 29 '42 750w

UNITED STATES. WORK PROJECTS ADMINISTRATION, NEW MEXICO. Spanish-American song and game book. 87p il $2 Barnes, A.S.

796 Games. Folk songs (W) 42-37007

"This book is designed for use by children, although directions are given in Spanish and English for parents, school teachers and folk-festival directors." Divided into three age groups, these traditional singing games are described in Spanish and English on opposite pages. While piano accompaniments are given, the games are meant to be sung, as they have been for generations, without other accompaniment than fiddle or guitar. Amusing line drawings, in the Mexican tradition, enliven the pages." Horn Bk

Booklist 38:444 Jl 15 '42

Reviewed by M. L. Becker

Books p7 Je 14 '42 300w

"Contains materials at once authentic and interesting. Teachers of Spanish can give their students a lot of fun with these texts, and recreation directors will find many of the games useful. Clever illustrations add to the book's attractiveness."

+ Christian Century 59:862 Jl 8 '42 70w

Reviewed by H. L. Binsse

Commonweal 37:120 N 20 '42 20w

Reviewed by A. M. Jordan

Horn Bk 18:258 Jl '42 80w

"An attractive as well as a useful book." P. D. Edie

+ Library J 67:890 O 15 '42 40w

School & Society 55:652 Je 6 '42 40w

"In learning the charming songs and games (the music is included, too) children and the grown-ups who join with them, will at the same time discover a rich vein of American folklore little known beyond New Mexico."

+ Survey 79:32 Ja '43 100w

UNTERMAYER, LOUIS, ed. Treasury of great poems, English and American. 1288p $3.75 Simon & Schuster

821.08 English poetry—Collections, American poetry—Collections (W) 42-22424

Anthology of poems from English and American literature, beginning with selections from the King James version of the Bible and ending with contemporary literature. Includes running commentary of biographical, historical, and sometimes critical material. Index of authors and of first lines.

"The editing is informed but not scholarly. Mr. Untermeyer has rashly rewritten a famous line by Milton to suit his own ear, he has quoted as Donne's a stanza assigned by Professor Grierson probably to John Dowland, and he has used a snatch from Ben Jonson without indicating that it is taken from a longer poem. But these and the like are venial errors in a book that is not intended for trained readers but welcomes one and all to picnic on the slopes of Parnassus. Its 'stylish stout' format expresses its easy geniality." G. F. Whicher

Atlantic 170:176 D '42 240w

Booklist 39:66 N 1 '42

"When all lapses and small flaws of judgment are allowed for, Mr. Untermeyer's 'Treasury' is an achievement, as its many predecessors have invariably been. The editor, though he does not claim any intention of making a book for advanced scholars, has not taken his duties perfunctorily. His 'Treasury' is well calculated to convey to general readers the excitement that he himself unfailingly experiences in the presence of 'rapt creativeness and firm craftsmanship.' His comments manifest a ripe and seasoned taste and an uncanny faculty for choosing exactly the right epithet or descriptive phrase for the work under discussion. Whatever else Mr. Untermeyer may be he is never boring." C. F. Whicher

+ Books p6 O 25 '42 700w

Reviewed by Pearl Strachan

Christian Science Monitor p12 N 7 '42

500w

"The compiling of such an anthology with what he calls the 'integration' demands more labor, more careful judgment, and more scholarship than Louis Untermeyer has put into it. The omissions and commitments in the last section are so curious that one has a feeling that he put the names and works of modern poets in a grab-bag and drew out a certain number at random. . . . Louis Untermeyer in the past has had a deserved success as an anthologist, but the present volume does not repeat the achievement of the others." M. M. Colum

— N Y Times p8 N 1 '42 1250w

"Mr. Untermeyer is not without taste and learning, but the pervasive tone of the book is that of a Cook's tour, with the editor as tourist-herder-in-chief."

New Yorker 18:92 O 17 '42 70w

"The book is not for the scholar, but for the layman. . . . With Mr. Untermeyer's general judgments I am mostly in accord, and it would be idle to quibble concerning a few selections. In consideration of the magnitude of the task set him, he has done as well as I expected, which was very well. He has even managed the inclusion of some light and nonsense verse, American folk songs, and certain Negro spirituals." W. R. Benét

+ Sat R of Lit 25:40 O 24 '42 800w

Wis Lib Bul 38:184 D '42

UPDEGRAFF, FLORENCE MAULE. Traveler's candle; il. by Eva A. Watson. 237p $2 Harcourt

(W) 42-36302

The traveler's candle was placed in the one glass window which the Mapes family possessed. There it stood every night to guide the traveler thru the darkness and bring him to shelter in the home of the trusting Quaker chandler, living in colonial Providence in 1680. The story is of one lost lad who was guided by the candle, and found a permanent refuge. For grades seven to nine.

Booklist 39:37 O 1 '42

Churchman 156:16 N 15 '42 10w

"While at times the story moves slowly, it gives an unusual picture of an early industry, besides making real the history of the period." A. M. Jordan

+ Horn Bk 18:432 N '42 80w

Reviewed by P. D. Edie

Library J 67:891 O 15 '42 30w

"The quite detailed account of candlemaking is clear and far from dull; characters are real and delightful. . . . Recommended heartily for both boys and girls of ten to fourteen. Dignified make-up." Sonja Wennerblad

+ Library J 67:911 O 15 '42 110w

V

VALTIN, JAN, originally RICHARD JULIUS HERMAN KREBS. Bend in the river, and other stories; introd. by Pat Gil Rankin. 281p $2.50 Alliance bk.

42-8735

Short stories and sketches written while the author was a prisoner in San Quentin, where he wrote for the prison Bulletin. The sketches antedate his best seller Out of the Night (Book Review Digest, 1940, 1941).

"Any teacher, reviewer or editor worth his salt—and Valtin seems to have been lucky—would recognize the potentialities of the writer behind this stuff. It is surprisingly sensitive and perceptive. Each little piece has its germ, its theme, its point. That's the thing that makes story tellers and poets story tellers and poets. But more than a decade separates these stories from 'Out of the Night.' Probably the man who wrote these sketches, the Skipper Krebs of San Quentin, will not write in this fashion ever again, rather in the manner of his running commentaries." F. T. Marsh

+ Books p12 Ap 26 '42 950w

"These stories are good reading. They are also more than that. They are important and timely as the record of a writer's mastery of his medium, and of a man's struggle out of violence to a new beginning as an American." Dorothy Hillier

+ Boston Globe p19 My 6 '42 600w

"As a book of short stories, trivial and ephemeral; but as a personal record, courageous and challenging."

+ Cath World 155:379 Je '42 270w

Nation 154:497 Ap 25 '42 150w

"Students of writing will find much of interest in these pages, as will those who have already become interested in the author's personality, remembering 'Out of the Night.' While not glossing over serious defects in California's penal system, Valtin makes it abundantly clear in his comments why, after his release and deportation, he should have found life in Germany unendurable." Drake De Kay

+ N Y Times p22 My 10 '42 500w

"The stories, though based on varied and interesting experiences are derivative and awkward, obviously written by a man with a talent which has not yet developed."

New Yorker 18:75 Ap 18 '42 70w

"The sketches and impressions which make up most of the book are, as the author says, learner's pieces, and do not pretend to the structure and content of completed forms of writing. 'Juanita,' at the end of the book, was one of the author's first attempts at plot. . . It suggests that Mr. Valtin will have a great deal of good writing left in him when he finishes his unperfumed memoirs." Paul Starrett

Sat R of Lit 25:17 Ap 11 '42 400w

VAN BOECOP, BARONESS. See Boecop-Malye, M. T. C., barones van

VANCE, ETHEL, pseud. See Stone, G. Z.

VANDEGRIFT, GEORGE WONSON. Castor oil and quinine; once a doctor, always a doctor. 252p $3 Dutton

B or 92 Vandegrift, George Munson 42-20737

Biography of the author's father, a doctor who began his practice in the Corlears Hook district of lower New York in 1879. He was a virile person, with great faith in the ingredients of the book's title, and his patients all attested their faith in him by accepting any and all of his oddities. Even when he was over seventy and living in Maryland his former patients would flock to him on his infrequent returns to New York city. His son's portrait of him abounds in anecdotes, but is singularly lacking in dates.

"Another 'father book' as this classification has come to be known. The elder Dr. Vandegrift was a generous, fascinating character, and we glean from the pages of the book that the current Dr. Vandegrift has led a life as full, useful and exciting as his father's. Unfortunately it is necessary to have more than a father to write a good 'father book.' Dr. Vandegrift fails to breathe life into the people and times he writes about, and there is much of his book that is static, for all its interesting material. Perhaps the trouble is that the author admired his father too greatly." H. C. Lewis

+ Books p18 O 4 '42 450w

"This is the biography of a real doctor, but somehow it seems more like a portrait drawn for Hollywood." Meyer Berger

N Y Times p8 O 4 '42 1300w

"Dr Vandegrift has formidable material in his father, the 'corner doctor' who ministered to New York's 7th ward in the eighties, nineties and turn of the century, but the writer never manages to bring his father's personality into sharp focus or to achieve any sustained continuity in presenting biographical material."

+ Spring'd Republican p8 O 7 '42 500w

VAN DEN BROEK, JOHN ABRAHAM. Elastic energy theory. 2d ed 298p il $4.50 Wiley

624.171 Structures, Theory of. Elasticity 42-6664

Revised edition of a text first published in 1931. This edition contains an "increase of thirty-eight pages over the first, with an important change in the revision of notation." (N Y New Tech Bks) Index.

N Y New Tech Bks 27:39 J1 '42

"This is undoubtedly an excellent book for engineers. Beginning from clearly stated principles a logical, unified treatment is given the problems considered. Also, it deserves consideration from physicists interested in mechanics. However, the book is not easily readable for one not familiar with engineering terminology and procedure. For example, the author has such a dislike of integral calculus that he prefers to replace integrations of simple algebraic functions by graphical methods of calculation requiring the knowledge of particular formulas familiar to engineers. Consequently, details of many calculations are quite difficult to follow." J. B. Sampson

+ R of Scientific Instruments 13:453 O '42 420w

VAN DERSAL, WILLIAM RICHARD. Ornamental American shrubs. 288p pl $4 Oxford

582.17 Shrubs (W) 42-20647

Experienced gardeners in all parts of the United States were called on to choose about 200 from the 1300 shrubs native to America. This study is on where and how to grow the shrubs selected. Partial contents: The case for native shrubs; Where shrubs can be grown; How to grow shrubs; Rhododendrons, azaleas, mountain-laurel; Ceanothus and manzanita; Viburnums, elders, honeysuckles, and snowberry; Sumacs and their relatives; Plums, cherries, and their relatives; Hollies and hollygrapes; Dogwoods, silktassels, buckeyes, and maples; Saxifrage family; The rose family; The family of legumes. Index.

Booklist 39:98 N 15 '42

Bookmark 4:8 N '42

"Dr. Van Dersal, as a biologist in the United States Department of Agriculture, has traveled widely through this country and enjoyed unusual opportunities to study the plant life of the various regions. From this background he has written what is probably the most complete, non-technical and broad-gauge volume on the subject that has yet appeared. One might wish that it had been possible for the author to have gone more specifically into the cultural side of the material and the landscaping uses of the numerous species prescribed, even though the reader will find many hints and sound general principles in the text. That is a minor criticism, however." R. S. Lemmon

+ Books p30 N 22 '42 230w

"The author writes clearly and well—indeed the book can be read all the way through rather than be used merely for reference, and it has an excellent index. The endpapers—showing the plant growth regions of the United States—are invaluable."

+ Commonweal 36:547 S 25 '42 140w

VAN DE WATER, FREDERIC FRANKLYN. Members of the family; il. by William Arthur Smith. 190p $2.50 Day

818 Country life. Animals, Legends and stories of (W) 42-21570

Informal essays on the animals belonging to the Van de Water family—the four dogs, two horses, and the cow. A final chapter is devoted to the birds—"the sole members of our family on whom the corrupting influence of [our] race is wholly wasted. Birds are still wholly free."

Booklist 39:66 N 1 '42

Reviewed by Ellis Tinkham
Books p20 O 18 '42 750w

Reviewed by Anita Moffett
N Y Times p24 O 25 '42 600w

VAN DOREN, DOROTHY (GRAFFE) (MRS MARK VAN DOREN). Dacey Hamilton. 303p $2.50 Harper

(W) 42-21692

Character study of a beautiful young woman, the widow of a famous American painter. In 1918 Dacey found that her funds were getting too low to support her five children, herself, and her mother, so took a position on a liberal newspaper. The man who found the work for her was a newspaper man on a New York paper. The story traces the gradual awakening to understanding and love of these two hampered people—the one a woman emotionally lame, despite her marriage and motherhood; the other a man who had sworn never to marry because of his physical lameness.

Booklist 39:34 O 1 '42

"'Dacey Hamilton' has thoughtful, if oblique, comment on our life and times—and plenty of it. All is accurately observed and skillfully set down. 'Dacey Hamilton' comes close to being a reportorial novel—interesting, moderately informative, worth reading most as an intelligent woman's reflections upon a world which she knows well." F. H. Bullock

+ Books p4 S 6 '42 750w

"There is a good deal of talk about what is going on in a world at war. It is good talk and should help us to understand what is going on in a world at war today."

+ Nation 155:245 S 13 '42 120w

"A romantic, just slightly incredible novel. . . The writing is sharp and intelligent; the history is unpretentious, ironic, and excellently done; and the author throws in what is probably the most villainous grandmother in recent American fiction."

+ New Repub 107:326 S 14 '42 80w

"The story moves with excellent pace, with suburface emotional intensity that is more effective for things intimated than things expressed. If Dacey's mother seems somewhat exaggerated in her coldness and calculated strategy, that is the intention of the author. . . The secondary characters of the book, several newspaper men and women, a Hawaiian nurse, the children of Dacey, are excellently drawn. They contribute their color to the pattern of the tale, enriching but never blurring or crowding the main design. The story is Dacey's and Mrs Van Doren has kept it that." Rose Feld

+ N Y Times p7 S 6 '42 650w

"'Dacey Hamilton' will not influence other novelists or be fought over by editorial writers. It is merely a maturely meditated work of fiction in which good sense and fine feeling blend to produce a story that you begin with a start of interest and end with a sigh of satisfaction. Of how many current novels can this be said?" Clifton Fadiman

+ New Yorker 18:57 S 5 '42 800w

"The chief excellence of the novel is its fine portraiture. The dead husband, artist first and human being second, is still vividly present. The five children, spared a modern, scientific bringing up, are not brats but lovable and real. The expatriate uncle who returns from France near the end of the book completes the exposition and brings with him an authentic whiff of Montparnasse. The tumultuous background is suggested by occasional matter-of-fact news paragraphs. Time, place, and characters are expertly integrated." R. A. Cordell

+ Sat R of Lit p7 S 5 '42 400w

Wis Lib Bul 38:164 N '42

VAN DOREN, MARK, ed. New Invitation to learning. 436p $3 Random house

804 Literature. Books and reading. Radio entertainments (W) 42-36308

"The dialogues contained in this second volume of Invitation to Learning, like those contained in its predecessor [Cairns, H. and others. Invitation to Learning, Book Review Digest, 1941], are printed from transcripts of direct recordings of unrehearsed conversations broadcast weekly by the Columbia Broadcasting System. . . The present series of broadcasts ran from November 16, 1941, through May 31, 1942." (Pref) Index.

Booklist 39:27 O 1 '42

"Although this is a second collection, it is a rich one, and no less vital than the first. A book which takes up Aeschylus, the Bible, 'Hamlet' and 'Faust' cannot be accused of dealing with the second-best." Albert Guerard

+ Books p24 D 6 '42 1250w

"'The New Invitation to Learning' offers countless suggestions to schools and clubs for points of discussion and is just the sort of book to pop into a pocket or bag as it defies continuous reading and is perfect for promoting week-end arguments, but unhappily the publishers have clothed it in the cumbersome, heavy form of a reference book. They also neglect to give biographical notices of the guests at the symposia whose reputations may very easily not be known to every reader." E. V. R. Wyatt

+ Commonweal 37:75 N 6 '42 700w

Library J 67:740 S 1 '42 30w

New Repub 107:357 S 21 '42 70w

"In several ways these printed broadcasts must be declared superior to the actual originating radio program. . . The critical listener might ask of the program, as he hears an intellectually interesting talk tumble out into the air, how large a degree of plain fascination there may be in hearing a clever play of good minds, how many follow without comprehending, or, to put it more baldly, how intriguing is the passive participation in 'learning'? Mr. Van Doren mentions in the introduction the listeners who plead that more time be devoted to summaries of the books themselves. What does this indicate? Whatever the answers, in book form these are interesting, searching and sharp examinations. They should be most valuable when read in conjunction with the works." Austin Stevens

+ N Y Times p14 S 27 '42 1050w

New Yorker 18:71 S 12 '42 30w

VAN DOREN, MARK. Our lady peace and other war poems. unp $1 New directions 811 42-20300

"Mark Van Doren gives us here a group of finely made and deeply felt poems on themes of the war. He is not, of course, the poet in the firing line, but, this war being what it is, a total war and a psychological one, his perspective—that of a sensitive, troubled citizen, man of good will—is really more central, more meaningful to his readers." Publisher's note

"Mr. Van Doren's small group, 'Our Lady Peace,' are mature, controlled comments reflecting a search for meaning beneath war terms and phenomena. The comment may swing from the factual in one poem to the mystical or metaphysical in another; it may be simple, or compressed and cryptic. But the neat, careful workmanship is possibly at its best in the sharply set lines on rain in 'Invisible.'" Ruth Lechlitner

+ Books p16 S 27 '42 430w

Reviewed by Northrop Frye

Canadian Forum 22:220 O '42 350w

Reviewed by Pearl Strachan

Christian Science Monitor p10 O 3 '42 90w

VAN DOREN, MARK. Private reader; selected articles and reviews. 416p $2.75 Holt

804 Books—Reviews. Literature—History and criticism. Moving pictures (W) 42-6988

A selection from the author's literary articles and reviews, covering a period of twenty years. The volume has three sections: a collection of thirteen literary papers; book reviews written during 1921 to 1938; and a series on moving pictures, index.

Booklist 38:271 Ap 1 '42

"This is a book of criticism, often an extraordinarily good criticism, as produced over a period of twenty years by a quiet and luminous intelligence. Yet it is also a book that renounces criticism as we know it now in America, and to see how a mind like Mark Van Doren's can give that renunciation the character of an affirmation is to find a new joy in criticism and a fresh understanding of what it can give us in this hour." Alfred Kazin

+ Books p2 Mr 29 '42 1400w

Reviewed by Louis Kronenberger
Nation 154:575 My 16 '42 850w

"The great range of Mr. Van Doren's literary and human interests as they are exhibited in this volume may come as a surprise to casual readers of his previous books; but the ease and lucidity of his style will surprise no one, nor will the general air of mastery with which he shifts from one field of interest to another. The style is everywhere both personal and remote, like that of the subject of his first book, John Dryden; but whether this be an influence or an affinity I will not undertake to decide." Allen Tate

+ New Repub 106:506 Ap 13 '42 1000w

"Mr. Van Doren challenges us to read; we might challenge him to go on writing, in his normally sensible and sensitive way that we should not be without. This book of essays is so good that there should be others to follow." P. M. Jack

+ N Y Times p19 Mr 29 '42 850w

"Mr. Van Doren neither thinks nor writes like a hardened book reviewer. He is always himself, 'the private reader.'"

+ New Yorker 18:60 F 28 '42 40w

Pratt p18 O '42

"Mr. Van Doren's book on Shakespeare really made the reader want to read Shakespeare. Mr. Van Doren's essays on literary criticism in this collection really make one want to meditate on literary criticism. . . The volume suggests, however, that Mr. Van Doren owes us a series of critical essays rather than a collection of writing mainly ephemeral; it suggests that such a volume might display that quality of balance, that quality of historic insight, wanting in most living critics; it suggests that Mr. Van Doren's criticism, the criticism of good sense, deserves a larger range than he has here given it." H. M. Jones

+ Sat R of Lit 25:9 Mr 14 '42 700w

Wis Lib Bul 38:66 Ap '42

VAN KEUREN, FLOYD. Open door. 112p $1.25
Harper

42-25807

A religious novel tracing the steps in the spiritual rejuvenation of Paul, whom the reader first sees as a crippled beggar selling pencils on the steps of a cathedral.

Books p38 D 6 '42 180w

"In its study of the psychology of overcoming physical pain this novel offers a great deal of interest, but the author does not allow his treatment of his problem to obscure the inspirational value of his story."

+ Christian Century 59:1496 D 2 '42 70w

Reviewed by John Cournos

N Y Times p19 Ja 10 '43 240w

VAN KIRK, WALTER WILLIAM. Religion and the world of tomorrow. 150p $1.50 Willett

940.531 World war, 1939—Peace. World war, 1939—Religious aspects 42-3596

"Everywhere thoughtful people are raising questions about the World of Tomorrow. Planning for the post-war world is under way in government circles. Private bodies, such as the Commission to Study the Organization of Peace, and 'Union Now,' are actively at work. . . The National Conference of Christians and Jews is majoring in the problem of post-war reconstruction. . . The Catholic Association for International Peace has issued a report on 'America's Peace Aims.' In England, religious and secular agencies are looking beyond the war to the World of Tomorrow. . . In the pages that follow I have sought to analyze the present situation in the light of the Christian ethic. I have ventured to outline the steps that might well be taken by the United States and other countries looking toward the establishment of a lasting peace." Foreword

Booklist 38:366 Je 1 '42

"Dr. Van Kirk's book is remarkable at once for its idealism and its practicality. . . This is a religious handbook of true spiritual power. It is as well a manual of statesmanship which challenges the heads of states." J. H. Holmes

+ Books p12 Mr 8 '42 600w

"I think that Van Kirk's book is a very good book and I think it should be widely circulated and widely studied as well as read. But I cannot help wishing that the last chapter had contained a little less of the element which was of least value in Christian liberalism, and a great deal more of what has been pouring into Christian theology and ethics from the amazing mind and soul of the long dead but once more risen Danish seer, Kierkegaard. This said, however, I want to say that Walter Van Kirk's book deserves to be one of the most widely used basic source-studies of the practical aspects of Christian social action in the international field." D. J. Bradley

+ Christian Century 59:287 Mr 4 '42 1050w

"It is impossible in a brief review to indicate fairly the unusual value of this book, which is all the more valuable because it is so frank and so largely factual in its contents. It is not just an ordinary preaching. As secretary of the Department of International Justice and Goodwill of the Federal Council of Churches, Dr. VanKirk is especially well-qualified to speak on those religious conditions which will affect the world of tomorrow." J. H. Franklin

+ Crozer Q 19:154 Ap '42 600w

VAN LEUVEN, EDWIN PERRY. General trade mathematics. (Whittlesey house publication) 575p il $3.50 McGraw

510 Mathematics

42-13937

"Written to meet the need for a course of instruction for students who later specialize in some branch of shopwork. . . The text is designed to permit each student to proceed at his own level of achievement. Each topic is presented in a way that is self-explanatory. . . There are more than 150 practical topics explained with boxed examples for easy reference. Supplementing this great diversity of topics there are over 3,000 exercises and problems selected from shop situations." Pref.

Booklist 38:437 Jl 15 '42

N Y New Tech Bks 27:41 Jl '42

VAN LOON, HENDRIK WILLEM. Van Loon's lives. 888p il $3.95 Simon & Schuster

920

(W) 42-20249

"Whole fabric of history comes vividly alive through intimate, even gossip, association with forty historical personages, from Confucius to Jefferson and from Queen Elizabeth to Emily Dickinson. Two or three important guests from Heaven (or Hell) are entertained at dinner each Saturday. Preparations for the meal and the music, plus political and religious gossip that the author explains to unlettered Frits, create the background. When the guests appear in person, they and their conversations have substance and life." Library J

Appeared on Best Seller list in: Books (17) B & T (1) N Y Times (16) PW (3) RB (2) W (1)

"To readers familiar with Mr. Van Loon's previous profitable ventures in the dilution of history no comment on this volume is necessary. This contribution is perhaps more Van Loony than any previous one. The tip-off is the title. As a delicate compliment the author and publisher recall the fact that Plutarch once did something along the same line. The mise en scene is simple and clever." G. S. F.

Am Hist R 48:300 Ja '43 490w

VAN LOON, H. W.—Continued

"Mr. van Loon, in these twenty-one chapters ranging from two pages to seventy-odd, gets at the miscellany in his mind exactly as a small boy gets at the contents of his pocket: that is, by turning it inside out. The result is not so much a book as a biographical-historical-philosophical-literary vaudeville entertainment, with room in it for all manner of generosity and wisdom, occasional touches of cheap-jackery, some downright silliness, the warmest devotion to a native land and to an adoptive one, a passion for the spirit of liberty, and a sometimes eloquent insistence on matters that are timely today because they are universal in their appeal." Wilson Follett

+ Atlantic 170:144 N '42 350w

Booklist 39:47 O 15 '42

"This is the unusual kind of book that is perfectly described by its title. Here the learned, the earnest, the jocose Dr. Van Loon is presented in no less than 144 aspects, 100 of them graphic and forty-four literary, but all of them interesting and many of them charming. Not content with writing, Van Loon has adorned the volume with characteristic illustrations, each of which throws some light upon the artist. A dozen of them, including the captivating end papers, are in color, and these alone would make the volume worth possessing. Taken as a whole, this fat volume is rich, refreshing and rewarding." G. W. Johnson

+ Books p1 S 20 '42 1700w

"Van Loon again dips into the treasury of the past and takes out handfuls of treasure which, however, in his hands often becomes very debased currency. . . . A diligent reading of the encyclopedias and a chastened and dignified imagination could have made a contribution to popular culture which would have been very considerable. Mr. Van Loon has undoubtedly despoiled the encyclopedias but his imagination is unfortunately not chastened by any real scholarship and not dignified by any high and generous attitudes of his own. Instead of this, it is characterized by the usual 'liberal' hand-me-downs of thought and the usual proletarian claptrap." J. K. Cartwright

— Cath World 156:361 D '42 1000w

"Mr. Van Loon writes easily and gracefully. His brief biographies have gaiety. . . . The book, as a whole, is unified by a point of view and a manner. The book has behind it the character of a man; it is the projection of the mind. That mind is a bit conventional in both prejudice and praise, but it is a liberal and critical mind and, above all, civilized." Horace Reynolds

+ Christian Science Monitor p11 D 19 '42 550w

"It is little wonder that this volume leaped overnight into the best seller group. The author's rollicking humor lightens most of the pages he writes, and in this volume his humor is at its best." Eliot Brown

+ Churchman 156:19 D 15 '42 150w

"As fine a piece of history writing as one can find. Illustrated by author. Highly recommended for young and old." Katherine Shorey

+ Library J 67:629 J1 '42 100w

Nation 156:129 Ja 23 '43 100w

"The biographical narratives which naturally fill a large part of each chapter are exceedingly good reading and serve their purpose sufficiently well. Mr. van Loon disarmingly forswears any title of historian. And it would be foolish to complain that his bright, loquacious writing is opinionated and sometimes carelessly glib. The object here is not to be erudite and unbiased, but entertaining and alive—and, in being that, to sound the humanist's clarion call again in this present inhuman world. This object, with enormous gusto, 'Van Loon's Lives' achieves. It is a considerable achievement. And good fun." Katherine Woods

+ N Y Times p7 S 20 '42 1350w

"Most literary men have at one time or other in their lives played with this fancy, but van Loon has the easy erudition, the humor, the wide tolerance, and dramatic instinct to take the fancy and make a fine, hearty book of it. And he has illustrated it, too, with dozens of his own pictures in black and white and in gay, solid color. It makes heartening reading in these days, for every casual, free-flowing page is filled with that quality the radio and the newspaper have almost destroyed for us—the quality of glimpsing the odd and sometimes frightening activities of man in the non-distorting mirror of historical perspective." Clifton Fadiman

+ New Yorker 18:69 S 12 '42 350w

Pratt p6 D '42

"As a mood Dr. van Loon's book is of great value. It creates a way of feeling and a way of thinking. Thanks to an expression of grief, pity and disgust, it presents an ethical variety. It imparts to the reader a certain cynical tolerance and a certain restfulness amid the storm and stress of the times." Pierre van Paassen

+ Sat R of Lit 25:11 S 26 '42 950w

Wis Lib Bul 38:160 N '42

VAN STOCKUM, HILDA (MRS ERVIN MARLIN). Andries; il. by [the author]. 192p $2 Viking

Children in the Netherlands (W) 42-23225

"Full of loving memories of Holland in happier days, this warm-hearted book about a lonely boy in a Big House, who found friends in a Little House across the road, depends upon its characters, rather than its plot, for interest." Horn Bk

Booklist 39:187 Ja 1 '43

Reviewed by M. L. Becker

Books p16 N 15 '42 400w

"A good book to read aloud."

+ Cath World 156:377 D '42 110w

"Children will not fail to find amusement in the innocent mischief and brisk conversation of the Dykstra family, nor to sympathize with Andries, the stranger, unwelcome in his uncle's house. The Dutch village, with its flower-loving people, its green fields and great old trees, shines brightly through pictures and text of the charming story." A. M. Jordan

+ Horn Bk 18:340 S '42 90w

Reviewed by P. D. Edle

Library J 67:889 O 15 '42 20w

"There is fun as well as pathos and adventure, and the author's lovely illustrations make it an unusually attractive book. Recommended for all libraries." J. E. Stromdahl

+ Library J 68:38 Ja 1 '43 100w

"It has freshness and worth, chiefly because of its endearing scenes from Dutch home life and its characterizations of the amiable mother and her four mischievous children who are the bad boy's friendly neighbors." K. S. W.

+ New Yorker 18:110 D 12 '42 60w

VARGA, MARGIT. Waldo Peirce [ed. by André Gloeckner]. (Modern masters monographs) 74p il $3.50 Harper; Hyperion

B or 92 Peirce, Waldo 41-52027

Biographical sketch of the American artist who has been called "the Rabelaisian New Englander who painted lusty pictures and wrote bawdy verse." In addition to the biographical sketch the author sketches development of Peirce as a painter. Illustrated with reproductions, some in color, some in sepia, and in black and white.

Commonweal 35:226 D 19 '41 130w

Reviewed by E. A. Jewell

N Y Times p21 My 10 '42 240w

Wis Lib Bul 38:183 D '42

VAUGHAN, FLOYD LAMAR. Marketing: functions, mediums, practices, variations, and appraisal. 639p $3.50 Farrar

658.83 Marketing 42-1975

"This treatise emphasizes principles rather than technique and seeks to analyze reasons for the higher cost of marketing. The final chapters tell what Professor Vaughan thinks should be done about it." (J Home Econ) Index.

"Like any freshly printed text in a field that is changing so rapidly as that of marketing, the book has the added merit of presenting the most recent advances in technique. . . The final chapters of the book are by far the most significant." J. S. Robinson

+ Am Econ R 32:397 Je '42 600w

Reviewed by H. T. Hovde

Ann Am Acad 222:227 J1 '42 450w

J Home Econ 34:193 Mr '42 30w

VAUGHAN, HILDA (MRS CHARLES MORGAN). Fair woman. 294p $2.50 Duell

42-5690

An old Welsh harpist relates the story of Owain, the singer, a man of former days who threw aside his harp to become a farmer, and thereby lost the wife he had won from among the Fair People.

"Miss Vaughan, who is the wife of Charles Morgan, the novelist, is a Welshwoman and has, she says, 'a passion . . . for lakes, rivers, sailing and rowboats.' She has harp-music and water and Welsh speech in her blood. Owain's songs are probably her own, fashioned on typical ones of that early time. Her prose is almost too heavy with poetic cadence. There is at times a slowness, a repetitiousness, which has an almost paralysing effect upon the story, holding it powerless rather than releasing it. The book is thick with the glamour of its locale, but as fiction it fails, through lack of crystallized conception, to satisfy." L. T. Nicholl

+ — Books p11 Ja 11 '42 400w

"Although well written, it is not probable that this will enjoy much popularity." E. P. Potter

Library J 67:41 Ja 1 '42 70w

"The whole novel has a ballad sense about it. The poetry of love is mixed with the ordinary quality of living. One is as good as the other. The Welsh dialect, so fresh and common to our ears, holds the realism of folk speech and more simple ways of speaking. The fairy story with its legends and poetry is done with the affection of a person devoted to a traditional Welsh childhood. It is a good novel, written in a country that makes its own style." P. M. Jack

+ N Y Times p6 Ja 11 '42 500w

"Capably written but rather remote."

+ New Yorker 17:59 Ja 10 '42 80w

VELTMAN, JAN. Syrup can; told from the Dutch by Frances Jenkins Olcott; il. by Eleanor Hubbard Wilson. 62p $1.50 Wilde

42-24239

A tale of Holland, told partly in verse, partly in prose, for third graders. It is the story of a small girl who went to the store for a pitcher of syrup, and the dire consequences which befell the whole village because of just one taste of syrup.

"Decidedly foreign flavor throughout may make for comprehension difficulties with third graders for whom book seems most suited." M. C. Gray

Library J 67:1069 D 1 '42 100w

Springf'd Republican p7e N 8 '42 140w

VENNING, MICHAEL, pseud. Man who slept all day. 259p $2 Coward-McCann

42-21897

Mystery story.

"Any way you take this offering, it's amusing and full of suspense. Michael Venning is said to be the pseudonym of a big mystery writer who intends to contribute at least two Venning stories per year, until further notice." Will Cuppy

+ Books p12 J1 19 '42 200w

"Ordinarily when a mystery writer poses a problem as difficult as this one he is compelled to resort to a lame or illogical solution. Not so with Michael Venning. His solution is all that could be desired. The name of this author is new to us, but we feel sure that it will soon become familiar to all lovers of good mystery stories." Isaac Anderson

+ N Y Times p15 J1 26 '42 200w

"Interesting tour de force."

+ Sat R of Lit 25:16 J1 25 '42 40w

VENTURI, LIONELLO. Art criticism now; lectures delivered Mar. 12-14, 19-20, 1941, at the Johns Hopkins university. 63p il $2 Johns Hopkins press

701 Art criticism. Art

41-20840

"The book is the result of five short lectures on what the title implies, delivered by Professor Venturi at Johns Hopkins University, March [1941]. . . What Professor Venturi chiefly reveals in his tour of contemporary esthetics and critical writings is that what seems to be the matter with serious art criticism today is too many theories, too much loose thinking, and not enough feeling for the concrete work of art itself." N Y Times

"In this study of contemporary art criticism Signor Lionello Venturi writes with a brilliance that is almost deceptive. So interesting are his illustrations, so succinct his arguments, and so engaging his language, that one is apt to be distracted from a full realization of the scope of his critique and the depth of its philosophical foundation." J. S.

+ J Philos 39:54 Ja 15 '42 480w

Reviewed by Jerome Mellquist

New Repub 106:867 Je 22 '42 180w

"Once in a blue moon a book like the present one is published, a book which affords the reviewer both a fresh intellectual experience and an esthetic pleasure. Given the nature of the book, this is a large statement to make of a little volume no longer than sixty-odd pages—hardly twenty thousand words in all. But from the first page of the introduction to the last in the book one's mind becomes so deeply absorbed—I was about to say enthralled—by the force of its logic and the clarity of its language that (at least to this reviewer) it became a real intellectual adventure and a refreshing esthetic experience." Dino Ferrari

+ N Y Times p23 Mr 29 '42 900w

VERDI, GIUSEPPE. Verdi, the man in his letters; as ed. and sel. by Franz Werfel and Paul Stefan; tr. by Edward Downes. 469p il $3.50 L. B. Fischer pub. corp. 381 4th av. N.Y.

B or 92 Musicians—Correspondence, reminiscences, etc. (W) 42-13403

Following a long biographical preface, written by Franz Werfel, there are letters or excerpts from letters of Verdi; a copy of Verdi's will, a complete list of his works, a list of the recipients, and an index.

Booklist 38:425 J1 1 '42

"It is regrettable that this volume represents a selection only, and it is even more regrettable that it is preceded by an introductory essay which is the work of an amateur musical scholar albeit a well known man of letters. The streamlined biography of Verdi and the peanutshell history of opera are Victorian in tone, bristling with superlatives, exclamation marks and rhetorical questions. Mr. Werfel . . . in his eagerness to demolish the Wagnerian orbit and prove the supremacy of the Italian type of opera goes to absurd lengths. To quote some grotesque examples, we discover that 'Rossini was the only creator of truly comic music who ever lived'; the 'Magic Flute' is dismissed as an 'operetta'. However, it is the Verdi letters that matter. They permit the reviewer to end sincerely with the stock phrase that the book 'should be on every music lover's shelf.'" P. H. Lang

+ Books p25 S 13 '42 550w

"One might write a score of essays on the material in this absorbing volume, which presents an altogether fascinating portrait of that rarest sort of man, the normal genius." Ralph Bates

+ Nation 154:606 My 23 '42 900w

New Repub 107:94 J1 20 '42 70w

"The publication of this collection of his letters is a major event. It is also an exciting voyage of discovery of a great composer and a great and simple man. It is difficult to understand why they have not been made available in English before, but let us give credit to this new publishing house for seeing their richness and timeliness." Howard Taubman

VERDI, GIUSEPPE—Continued

+ N Y Times p4 My 17 '42 1100w

"No one who is seriously interested in opera can afford to overlook these letters, now made available in English for the first time. Admirably translated and arranged, with helpful but not burdensome notes, fortified with a list of Verdi's works and two indexes, the correspondence is a welcome addition to a steadily growing literature—and one which is bound to increase, even though it may always lag several inches behind the inordinate Wagnerian output!" Gilbert Chase

+ Sat R of Lit 25:9 Ap 18 '42 700w

VERNEUIL, LOUIS. Fabulous life of Sarah Bernhardt; tr. from the French by Ernest Boyd. 312p il $3.50 Harper

B or 92 Bernhardt, Sarah (W) 42-23248

Biography of Sarah Bernhardt written by the husband of her younger granddaughter. "Louis Verneuil was still a young man when he met Bernhardt, then an old woman with one leg. He wrote for her the last two original plays she acted, devised one she did not have to move. He married one of her granddaughters, and in her final years he was her daily companion, constantly seeking information about her life. He seems to have verified his facts when necessary, and his story inspires confidence." (Books) List of Bernhardt's roles. Chronology. Index.

Booklist 39:183 Ja 1 '43

"She belongs to an age which is completely gone, an age that seems fabulous in a sense which Louis Verneuil does not mean by his title. Yet his book about her life (translated smoothly by Ernest Boyd) is by far the best which has appeared, at any rate in English. It is adoring yet free of rhetorical embellishment, it is sympathetic yet frank, it appears to be written from intimate and accurate information, it is extremely well organized, and it has narrative pace." W. P. Eaton

+ Books p5 N 8 '42 800w

"Excellently translated by Ernest Boyd, this is a brilliant biography of an amazing woman. . . . More accurate and inclusive than any biography of the 'Divine Sarah' yet published. Recommended for general purchase." George Freedy

+ Library J 67:844 O 1 '42 100w

"A book which, for all the author's adoration of his subject, is clearly the most authentic biography of the great actress. It is a fascinating volume, very ably translated by Ernest Boyd." G. S. Hellman

+ N Y Times p37 N 22 '42 1050w

"M. Verneuil, who is so sternly limited by his grandfilial duty and who is also a little blinded by looking so adoringly at the sun, does not really tell a great deal about her—about the kind of person she was, about her relation to the times of which she was a part; he does not so much explain as, in the role of victim, exemplify, the almost incredible charm she must have had. Again, the reader must seek between the lines, since this is not really a very good book about a person who was, whatever else she may have been, one of the very special people of the theater—and of more than the theater." Richard Lockridge

Sat R of Lit 25:22 D 12 '42 700w

"Mr. Verneuil's book throws no particular new light on the art of Sarah Bernhardt; this was not the author's intention. As he points out, there have been innumerable contemporary critical evaluations and appraisals of Bernhardt's genius by competent writers who have seen her performances. Here, on the other hand, is something new—a detailed account of her immensely long and laborious life, given with affection and reverence, and with telling effect."

+ Theatre Arts 27:130 F '43 1200w

Time 40:114 N 23 '42 600w

VERNON, RAYMOND. Regulation of stock exchange members. 152p $2 Columbia univ. press [10s Oxford]

332.61 Stock exchange. Brokers 41-13976

"Study which treats of . . . the regulation of the members of American stock exchanges. . . The study discusses the aims of regulation in this field and analyzes some of the difficulties involved in reconciling these aims. It takes up the circumstances in which the goals of Federal regulation of stock exchange members have developed and the means by which Federal regulation has sought to attain these goals. It concludes with some proposals for restating certain of the purposes of regulation of stock exchange members." (Pref) Bibliography. Index.

"The scope of this concise treatment of the regulations of stock exchange members is limited to the various aspects of broker-dealer-specialist transactions. Despite this limitation the area remains large, and it is surprising to find the material covered so adequately in a small monograph. The author has done an excellent job of balancing the discussion of the many topics covered and of stating the essential points clearly." F. P. Smith

+ Am Econ R 32:170 Mr '42 600w

"It is in the statistics set forth and the suggestions for further research that the chief value of this book lies."

+ Harvard Law R 55:711 F '42 300w

"A study which has balance and clarity as well as keen analysis. . . We can accept gratefully the contribution which Mr. Vernon has made to a difficult subject, and can recognize that his study is one which, at least when our democratic society renews its introspective processes, should stimulate fruitful inquiry, and which in the meantime may further the intelligent and careful regulation of a delicate portion of our economic machine." A. E. Throop

+ Yale Law J 51:884 Mr '42 1850w

VESTAL, STANLEY, pseud. See Campbell, W. S.

VETTER, ERNEST G. Visibility unlimited; an introd. to the science of weather and the art of practical flying; with an introd. by George Russell Harrison; il. by the author and Earle C. Wenner. 352p $4 Morrow

629.1324 Meteorology in aeronautics, Navigation (aeronautics) (W) 42-25536

"Elements of weather and air navigation for pilots. Use of navigation instruments and interpretation of airway weather reports simply explained. Many practical examples. Suitable for preflight aeronautics course." (Library J) Index.

Booklist 39:196 Ja 15 '43

Library J 68:37 Ja 1 '43 30w

"Any one will find this presentation of meteorology and navigation worth while if only from the entertainment point of view. However, those who seek a serious understanding, particularly from the flight angle, of these subjects should follow it up with a more substantial text." C. E. Buell

+ N Y Times p18 Ja 17 '43 400w

"Looks like a 'natural' for private fliers, for those entering civilian pilot training, and as extra reading and reference for young men training for service with our air forces."

+ Scientific Bk Club R 14:3 Ja '43 420w

VILLA, JOSE GARCIA. Have come, am here; poems. 152p $2 Viking

811

42-21209

Mr Villa is a native of the Philippines, educated in the United States, who has been connected with Columbia University Library and the Philippine Government in Washington. "His verse is meteoric and original notwithstanding some occasional indebtedness to William Blake and Father Hopkins, e.e. cummings and Wallace Stevens. We have not had a lyric poet in many a year and ought to be grateful for this one, the oddest in all probability since the Dickinson girl." (Sat R of Lit)

"I join a distinguished list more qualified than I am in welcoming this new voice in American literature. I hope everybody reads him and very few will understand him, and the whole mob will talk about him, and that his book will be found in every home, and on dentists' waiting room tables, and barber-shops, and religious reading rooms, subways, itinerant hotels, and batik tearooms. Mr. Villa deserves a large, hilarious and non-appreciative audience, and if the public muffs his gifts and laughs harder than they did at Blake, Gertrude Stein, T. S. Eliot, E. E. Cummings, Eugene Jolas, and so many others, I am sure Mr. Villa will take it all philosophically." Elliot Paul

+ Books p28. O 4 '42 1000w

Reviewed by Pearl Strachan

Christian Science Monitor p10 N 14 '42 70w

Reviewed by Marianne Moore

Nation 155:394 O 17 '42 1050w

"The fact that Villa is a native of the Philippines who comes to the English language as a stranger may have helped him to his unusual syntax. But no accident of birth can account for his performance save the ancient 'poeta nascitur, non fit.' Even then the adage must be qualified, for though he was undoubtedly born a poet, he has obviously and wisely labored at his art. The result is a group of poems that, for all their obscurity, which is sometimes witty, sometimes profound, are luminous and vibrant with the quality of crystal." Babette Deutsch

+ New Repub 107:512 O 19 '42 1150w

"The book is dedicated to Mark Van Doren and E. E. Cummings, and will be sponsored by every one who takes a vital interest in poetry. To put it briefly and bravely, Jose Villa is that rare and delightful occurrence, a born poet." P. M. Jack

+ N Y Times p12'S 27 '42 1000w

"I do not wish to be parochial about the worth of mysticism expressed by English-speaking poets, but I was struck, as I read Mr. Villa, by the fact that his method was directly opposed to that of Blake, Thoreau, Dickinson, and Donne, all of whom, supreme mystics that they were, built up visions from a particular object, as distinguished from starting at the empyrean and working down. Mr. Villa does not examine reality with a searching eye. . . . He is at once too impractical and too debonair. Most true mystics are oddly practical people, with, usually, a sense of humor behind their intensely expressed capacity for ecstasy and suffering." Louise Bogan

New Yorker 18:81 O 31 '42 230w

"There is no describing the ecstasy in this volume and the boldness of imagery and revolutionary style. For the poet not only takes liberties with an everyday syntax and grammar but invents his own syntax and grammar and invents his own words, like Emily Dickinson before him. And the results are always convincing, the overtones clear." Alfred Kreymsborg

+ Sat R of Lit 25:18 O 10 '42 290w

"The strangest and most vivid book by any newcomer is Villa's 'Have Come, Am Here.' It is surprising not only in spite of its derivations but even because of them. The influences are obviously, almost ostentatiously, there: the lean epigrammatic incisiveness of Emily Dickinson, the kaleidoscopic montages (and over-used roses) of E. E. Cummings, the breathless images of Gerard Manley Hopkins. But the fusion is Villa's own. If it is sometimes undisciplined, it is because the key is one of ecstasy, even of exaltation." Louis Untermeyer

+ Yale R n s 32:366 winter '43 450w

VON BERGEN, WERNER, and KRAUSS, WALTER. Textile fiber atlas; a coll. of photomicrographs of common textile fibers. 38p il spir pa $3 Am. wool handbook co, 303 5th av, N.Y.

677 Textile fibers

42-25031

"The purpose of this book is to present a set of photomicrographs of all important textile fibers. It is divided into the following four sections: Natural Animal Fibers; Natural Vegetable Fibers; Artificial and Synthetic Fibers; Mineral Fibers." Chem & Eng N

Reviewed by G. J. Esselen

Chem & Eng N 20:1594 D 10 '42 370w

"As a guide for the identification of fibers this book will no doubt prove useful to textile students and research workers." M. S. Furry

+ J Home Econ 34:744 D '42 150w

VON BORCHERS, CHARLES, and CIFFRIN, ASSAF. Aircraft torch welding. 167p il $1.50 Pitman

671 Welding. Airplanes—Design and construction 41-28086

"Outlines a training course for aircraft welders based on well-established principles. The appendix includes graphs of strength of welded seams, and tables; also the answers to questions in the text are found at the end of each chapter." (N Y New Tech Bks) Index.

Booklist 38:174 Ja 15 '42

N Y New Tech Bks 27:14 Ja '42

VON HAGEN, CHRISTINE (BROWN) (MRS VICTOR WOLFGANG VON HAGEN). Pablo of Flower mountain; il. by Zhenya Gay. 161p $2 Nelson

(W) 42-36165

"Pablo, eleven-year-old mountain boy of Honduras, outgrows home duties and longs for a horse of his own, so that he may become a man. [The] theme, that one works to become a man, rather than simply growing into manhood, is well presented in Pablo's handling of responsibilities, overcoming of fear, and resourcefulness in face of danger and disaster." Library J

Booklist 38:312 Ap 15 '42

"The information the book conveys—more than most children get in geography lessons—is carried by the interest a young reader takes in what happens to Pablo. The talk is natural and easy, the pictures authentic. The author, wife of an explorer, has often accompanied him through these regions, while the illustrator also knows the country well."

+ Books p18 My. 10 '42 300w

Reviewed by A. M. Jordan

Horn Bk 18:256 Jl '42 100w

"Excellent addition to Central and South American material." A. L. Shea

+ Library J 67:321 Ap 1 '42 70w

VON LOESECKE, HARRY WILLARD. Outlines of food technology. 505p il $7; college ed $5 Reinhold

664 Food

42-11898

"Practically all available foods and food products are discussed both from the point of view of production, and methods of handling before purchase by the consumer. Special chapters are devoted to storage and marketing of fruits and vegetables and preservation of foods by freezing. No attempt is made to give the nutritive value of the different foods or the effect of processing on the degree of retention of the more important nutrients." Am J Pub Health

"Since the author had the advice of some of the leading authorities in food technology during the preparation of this book, the information can be accepted with confidence. This book will be a very handy reference to public health workers." C. A. Elvehjem

+ Am J Pub Health 32:1053 S '42 180w

"Much of the technology of this book is sketchy. This is inevitable in the attempt to cover such a wide field in such a limited space. Use of the book, however, along with suggested

VON LOESECKE, H. W.—Continued
 readings may serve well for outlining some of the fundamental principles of food technology."
 F. L. Dunlap
 + — Chem & Eng N 20:1592 D 10 '42 750w
 Chem & Met Eng 49:171 Je '42 250w
 N Y New Tech Bks 27:40 Jl '42
 Pratt p15 D '42

VON STEIN, PAUL. Organic reagents in inorganic analysis. 242p $4.50 Chemical pub. co.
 544.11 Chemical tests and reagents. Chemistry, Analytic—Qualitative. Chemistry, Inorganic 42-14618
 "Dictionary reference book of organic compounds which yield indicative reactions with inorganic materials." N Y New Tech Bks

"Although a majority of the more useful of the methods given can be found in brief form in the larger reference books of qualitative analysis and in Lange's 'Handbook of Chemistry,' such a compilation as the one under consideration should be useful to the analytical chemist. Unfortunately, the book is so replete with errors of omission and commission that its value is considerably lowered. Certainly in a book that the author states is intended to be 'a complete reference work of organic compounds which yield indicative reactions with inorganic materials, the omission of dimethylglyoxime as a precipitant for nickel is surprising, to say the least. The scantiness of the bibliography is also disappointing." S. G.
 Simpson

— + Am Chem Soc J 64:1984 Ag '42 300w
 Chem & Met Eng 49:184 O '42 100w
 N Y New Tech Bks 27:38 Jl '42

VORONOFF, SERGE. From cretin to genius.
 281p $2.75 Alliance bk.

151.1 Genius. Creation (literary, artistic, etc) 41-25923

A study of the nature of genius illustrated by authenticated case-histories of cretins who have shown mathematical, musical or poetic genius. The author also writes of his work in transplanting glands.

"Dr. Serge Voronoff, whose fame rests upon the debated and debatable efficacy of gland grafts, turns now to a wider field and presents an astonishing mixture of fact and fiction.
 'From Cretin to Genius' has some of the defects of Dr. Carrel's 'Man, the Unknown' which was some years ago far more popular than it deserved to be. In addition, Voronoff seems to be writing in a remarkable scientific vacuum."
 Lorine Pruette

— Books p17 Ja 25 '42 450w

"In a book that is filled with repetitions Dr.
 Voronoff seeks to establish theories as to the hereditary transmission of genius... In fact the evidence is twisted to suit the theory in many instances. A considerable portion of the book is taken up with establishing Dr. Voronoff's own claim to be a genius. In fact, it might be thought that it was written for this purpose." T. F. Nicholson

— Canadian Forum 22:287 D '42 100w

"The title of the book is both misleading and sensational... Nor are the ideas embodied in the book either novel or deep. Actually it consists of a superficial analysis of genius, with illustrations from the lives of great men. Unfortunately the author, although a scientist, is not too familiar, either with the structure or the function of the brain, or with much of modern neurophysiology and psychology." I. S. Wechsler

— Sat R of Lit 24:16 D 13 '41 340w

VORSE, MRS MARY MARVIN (HEATON).
 Time and the town; a Provincetown chronicle. 372p map $3 Dial press

917.449 Provincetown, Massachusetts

(W) 42-18815

Combines autobiography with a descriptive history of Provincetown, Massachusetts, its charm and changing life, from 1907 to 1941.

 Provincetown as a fishing village, as an artists' colony, as vacation spot, but especially as the beloved home of the author is pictured, and many anecdotes of the great or near-great enliven the book's pages.

Reviewed by R. M. Gay
 Atlantic 170:102 Ag '42 150w
 Booklist 39:31 O 1 '42
 Bookmark 4:13 N '42

"Mary Vorse has done a worthy successor to a long line of good books about Cape Cod, which has begotten good writing since the days of the first settler who knew how to wield a pen. It will be a best seller for years in all the little book stores on the New England shore." B. D. Wolfe

+ Books p4 Jl 12 '42 550w

"When Mrs. Vorse recounts Provincetown history, she is good; when she reaches the Rabelaisian 20's she is unbeatable. The hysteria that swept the town when a rum runner tossed its cargo into the harbor, and the ensuing weeks found the natives keeping constant shore watch for the prized flotsam and jetsam, may not be typical, but it is certainly more fun to read about than the no doubt praiseworthy efforts of the local ladies aid society. Mrs.
 Vorse's chief merit is her gift for story-telling.
 And she is equally good with the horse laugh and the chuckle." William Abrahams

+ Boston Globe p19 Jl 8 '42 600w

Christian Science Monitor p11 S 19 '42
 800w

"Almost any and every attitude can be taken toward the town except indifference.
 People either love it passionately or hate it with equal fervor. Mary Heaton Vorse belongs to the first school, and her story of 'P'town' is tender and understanding, with many deep insights born of an intuitive 'feel' for things that cannot easily be explained. The mellow light of wisdom and sparkling flash of wit play over these pages, which are rich with amusing and revealing anecdote, illuminating more with a phrase than ten pages of ponderous analysis." George Willison

+ Nation 155:76 Jl 25 '42 900w

Reviewed by Charles Weir, Jr.
 New Eng Q 15:755 D '42 80w

Reviewed by Malcolm Cowley
 New Repub 107:59 Jl 13 '42 950w

"Time and the Town' is just what its name suggests: a book, through the years into today, of the place and people that are Provincetown.
 To both place and people Mrs. Vorse gives a mellow and sensitive responsiveness, lusty or delicate as the need may be. The genius loci, in every sense, has companioned her years in Provincetown. And an all-embracing sense of life fills a very fine book... With something of the quality preeminently shown in 'Cross
 Creek,' the place itself, in its living wholeness, has been made the hero of a full-charged and beautiful book." Katherine Woods

+ N Y Times. p5 Jl 12 '42 1450w

"Salty and easygoing."

+ New Yorker 16:60 Jl 18 '42 90w

"Miss Vorse has retained her perspective consistently throughout the book, and nowhere is she unable to separate the genuine from the spurious, the lasting from the transitory.
 You will find here in this volume, parts of which are quite beautifully written, choppy and fragmentary sections dealing with the outsiders who came to Provincetown to paint; and,
 though you may well wish that these sections were more smoothly integrated with the book as a whole, you will find that those few genuine artists who loved the place and accomplished much there were ample compensation for all the less gifted who invaded the town merely because it was the popular thing to do. Indeed, during its height as an art colony, Provincetown produced much that was worthwhile and sheltered many, artists, writers, and actors, whose talents have been of a high order... Reading this book gives you a sense of permanency in a swiftly changing world." A. B. Tourtellot

+ Sat R of Lit 25:10 Ag 8 '42 700w
 Time 40:79 Jl 20 '42 450w

VOTAW, CLARENCE ELY. Patriotism; a story of the Civil war in America. 265p $2
Dorrance

42-2020

"This novel, if it can be called one, is strung on a thread of extracts from McGuffey's readers and other choice bits from the schoolroom literature of the period." Christian Century

Christian Century 59:22 Ja 7 '42 30w
Springf'd Republican p7e F 1 '42 280w

W

WACE, ALAN JOHN BAYARD, and others. Studies in civilization. See Pennsylvania. University. Bicentennial conference

WADE, IRA OWEN. Voltaire and Madame Du Châtelet; an essay on the intellectual activity at Cirey. 241p $3 Princeton univ. press [18s 6d Oxford]

848 Voltaire, François Marie Arouet de. Du Châtelet-Lomont, Gabrielle Emilie (Le Tonnelier de Breteuil) marquise 41-8096

"The first chapter reveals that in the intellectual collaborations of Voltaire with his blue-stocking mistress, Mme. du Châtelet, during the years 1733-49, the latter's role was much more important than has been hitherto admitted. . . The collaboration was especially intimate in metaphysics, ethics, physics, and critical deism. With the aid of unpublished manuscript materials Mr. Wade has shown that Voltaire's Traité de Métaphysique was probably only a mutilated copy of a much larger work to which both contributed. . . The three remaining chapters of the book contain a summary and critical analysis of a long manuscript by Mme. du Châtelet entitled Examen de la Genèse, unearthed at the Municipal Library of Troyes." Am Hist R

"Painstaking, cautious, and modest scholarly monographs such as this by Mr. Wade are necessary before historical generalizations will have any appreciable validity." N. L. Torrey

+ Am Hist R 47:584 Ap '42 650w

"Mr. Wade's work is readable in style but is full of scholarly substance well digested."

+ Christian Century 59:432 Ap 1 '42 200w

WADE, MASON. Francis Parkman, heroic historian. 466p $4.50 Viking

B or 92 Parkman, Francis (W) 42-25856

This biography of one of America's greatest historians is divided into two parts. The earlier section is devoted to his years of travel and exploration on the Grand Tour and the Oregon trail. His later years, when he was hampered by ill health and near blindness, were the years when he was writing his histories, and are discussed in the latter part of the book. Bibliographical note. Index.

Booklist 39:183 Ja 1 '43

"Mr. Wade, already known for his life of Margaret Fuller, has seen the opportunity presented by Parkman, as other writers will doubtless soon see the opportunity presented by Motley and Prescott; and in this interesting and skillfully executed volume he has closed a glaring gap. His book does not wholly supersede Mr. Sedgwick's, which contains some materials (notably letters) nowhere else available; but it supplements and completes that work, it brings to light a great body of first-hand material heretofore neglected, and it offers a more satisfying critical view of Parkman and his work than we have previously had." Allan Nevins

+ Books p5 N 8 '42 1500w

"We strongly recommend this outstanding biography of the year. It is critical; it is impartial; it is delightfully written; it holds one's interest from the first page to the last. The author's Margaret Fuller was a first class bit of work. His Parkman will certainly add fresh laurels to Mason Wade's reputation for careful scholarship." B. L. Conway

+ Cath World 156:496 Ja '43 1350w

"The author, a Roman Catholic, has interesting material on Parkman's description of the Jesuits, the Roman Catholic question in general, and friends in French Canada and Boston. A worthwhile account of a great American." R. C. Batchelder

+ Churchman 157:16 Ja 1 '43 190w

Reviewed by R. J. Purcell

Commonweal 37:281 Ja 1 '43 720w

"Pleasure of continuous reading is not marred by evidences of documentation, though bibliography and acknowledgments indicate extensive research and access to new sources. Suggests comparison with Van Wyck Brooks and should have wide appeal among literate readers." J. S. Cleaver

+ Library J 67:1012 N 15 '42 110w

"A lavishly varied and entertaining biography of a figure that might have puzzled Whitman—a plainsman who despised the common people, and a Boston Brahmin who didn't care for Puritans."

+ New Yorker 18:82 N 7 '42 90w

"The book is not only very interesting and easy to read, but obviously of first-rate importance for the understanding of one of our greatest literary figures and of his period. . . Altogether I can heartily recommend the book, even though I wish that the reader who may be learning from it for the first time about Parkman could have dished to him somewhat more of the mature hero and less of the Beacon Hill-Harvard boy." J. T. Adams

+ N Y Times p8 N 22 '42 1250w

"There is so much that is admirable about this book that it seems best to speak at once of its defects and get them out of the way. The first of these is quite understandable. When a biographer finds a mass of fresh material relating to his subject . . . the temptation to make extensive use of it is almost irresistible. Unfortunately Mr. Wade did not put up a sufficient resistance. The result is that more than one-half of the book is devoted to the first twenty-three of Parkman's seventy years. . . Mr. Wade's book, in spite of the reservations I have suggested, fulfils with high success its purpose of bringing to life one of the really great figures in American letters, equally great in production and in character." M. A. D. Howe

+ Sat R of Lit 25:9 D 19 '42 1100w

"The life of a historian—even of the greatest American historian, as Mason Wade describes his subject—would not seem to offer great interest to the general public. But 'Francis Parkman, Heroic Historian' proves otherwise. . . This biography, particularly from the pen of such a sound scholar and brilliant stylist as Mason Wade, provides a continuously fascinating volume." R. J. Conklin

+ Springf'd Republican p7e D 13 '42 1150w

WADSWORTH, LEDA A. Disappearance of Kit Shane. 307p $2 Farrar

42-18465

Mystery story for young readers.

"Whenever L. A. Wadsworth sees fit to write an adult detective story, it will be a mighty good one. I rather hope it may be far in the future. For this is the best of a succession of teen-age mysteries so good they set a peg to pull to in this sort of writing." M. L. Becker

+ Books p28 N 15 '42 400w

"Juvenile mystery employing same technique as adult mystery story. Especially good for a juvenile mystery story. . . Recommended." M. R. Lucas

+ Library J 67:798 S 15 '42 70w

WADSWORTH, L. A.—Continued

"This is, not only a mystery story, but also a newspaper career story and will prove very popular with both boys and girls. Not recommended, however, as it is not particularly well written and is highly improbable. Decidedly second rate." J. E. Stromdahl
— Library J 67:798 S 15 '42 60w

"Although the mystery doesn't add up to the excitement promised by the excellent build-up the characterizations give it substance and interest." E. L. Buell
+ — N Y Times p10 D 13 '42 160w

WADSWORTH, LEDA A. Shadow bird mystery. 303p $2 Farrar

(W) 41-14060

Mystery story for high school boys.

"There are all the ingredients of a real mystery thriller in The Shadow Bird Mystery." E. V. Wyatt

+ Cath World 154:379 D '41 50w

"L. A. Wadsworth could easily give pointers to many a writer for adults on the construction of a mystery which is baffling as it is sound, yet this author always has something to say, too, in the matter of convincing character and of the problems of youth, making these books something more than mere time-killers. This new story is one of conflicting loyalties and ambitions in which three boys work out the question of their futures as they struggle with attempted murder." E. L. Buell
+ N Y Times p10 Ja 13 '42 320w

Wis Lib Bul 37:181 N '41

WAGENER, ALBERT M., and ARTHUR, HARLAN R. Machine shop theory and practice. 306p il $2.28; pa $1.60 Van Nostrand

621.9 Machine tools. Machine shop practice (W) 41-25858

"Written for the beginner and the apprentice engaged in the study of tool and die making, the machinist, and allied trades. Numerous excellent photographs and sketches of tools and methods of operation are included." (N Y New Tech Bks) Index.

Booklist 38:186 F 1 '42

N Y New Tech Bks 27:8 Ja '42

Wis Lib Bul 38:79 My '42

WAGMAN, FREDERICK HERBERT. Magic and natural science in German baroque literature; a study in the prose forms of the later seventeenth century. 178p $2.25 Columbia Univ. press [11s 6d Oxford]

833.09 German fiction—History and criticism. Magic in literature. Science in literature

42-9041

"This monograph is a contribution to the history of the natural sciences and epistemology in the 17th century as reflected in the representative prose of the period 1640-1710. The method of treatment is based on what has been called 'internal analysis': that is, the reconstruction of the ideological content of a text in terms of its inherent logic. The author traces, through literary documents of the period, the retreat of the theistic element from the interpretation of terrestrial phenomena and the decreasing reliance on miraculous intervention in the natural order. He follows up the developing concepts of an autonomous nature and of natural causation, and the growing interest in the empirical and experimental approach. A chapter on 'Panosophic Ideas' deals with literary views which reflect a relationship to Paracelsus, the mystic philosopher of the occult world. The study lucidly demonstrates the comparative lag of the state of sciences in the German Baroque period compared to the corresponding aspects of the English and French Enlightenment. The survival of magical motives in the contemporary speculation on medical and physico-chemical phenomena is amply illustrated." (Am Soc R) Bibliography. Index.

Reviewed by Ernest Manheim

Am Soc R 7:889 D '42 400w

"This is a strictly limited piece of work which refrains from seeking the causes of [the seventeenth century] cultural lag. But it is of the utmost importance for specialists, and the amateur will find it rewarding to study the summarizing chapters and to browse through the rest for a second-hand acquaintance with books he will never read."

+ Christian Century 59:1358 N '42 210w

WAGNER, LUDWIG. Hitler, man of strife; a biography. 331p il $3.50 Norton

B or 92 Hitler, Adolph (W) 42-51948

A biography of Hitler by an Austrian journalist. The theme of the book is "strife," Hitler is the embodiment of war; the author's conclusion is that: "The day will come on which no people will curse Hitler's name more violently than the Germans. Hitler willed and created war, and in the end war will devour him." (p 324) Index.

Booklist 39:222 F 1 '43

Reviewed by W. R. Deuel

Books p14 Ja 17 '43 900w

"No new sensational revelations, but, written with thorough knowledge of man and country, gives sound and illuminating picture of most remarkable figure of our time. Recommended for public libraries." H. H. A. Bernt

+ Library J 67:951 N 1 '42 80w

"Mr. Wagner's book is sometimes biased, occasionally too agilely clever in leaping over a difficult point, and often colored with his own political preoccupations. And, of course, our national horror of monographs and pamphlets requires everybody who would write on a given topic to cover the distance already traversed by many predecessors in order to tell the story as a whole. Even so, the book has some new things to say and a fresh point of view to offer. Possibly Mr. Wagner's principal reason for meriting approval is, however, that he has taken the time to write his story well, to keep the parts of his narrative together and so to make what is in every sense of the term a book." G. N. Shuster

+ — N Y Times p3 D 20 '42 1000w

"Conrad Heiden's Hitler biography, published in 1936, is a far more searching, penetrating, and illuminating book than this new biography. But any work dealing with the Fuehrer makes interesting and provocative reading." H. B. Kranz

+ — Sat R of Lit 25:11 D 26 '42 500w

"Wagner's work is at times biased and colored by personal political considerations; and he has a way, at times, of dodging a difficult point in his otherwise smooth narrative. But the book is readable. A dozen or so interesting illustrations have been included." C. B. M.

+ — Springf'd Republican p6 F 1 '43 1200w

WAHL, MRS ALBERTA ELIZABETH (HUGHES). Handsome, but dead. 320p $2 Howell, Soskin

42-21090

Detective story.

"Nice warm weather going by a newcomer to the mystery shambles." Will Cuppy

Books p17 Ag 23 '42 150w

Reviewed by Isaac Anderson

N Y Times p18 Ag 30 '42 200w

"Average."

Sat R of Lit 25:14 S 5 '42 40w

WAISMAN, HARRY AARON, and ELVEHJEM, CONRAD ARNOLD. Vitamin content of meat. 210p pa $3 Burgess

641.12 Meat. Vitamins. Food—Analysis

41-14847

"A summary of the reliable information now available on the nutritive values of meat and meat products, with special emphasis on the vitamins. The authors have for some years been conducting research on vitamins in meat at the Wisconsin Agricultural Experiment Station, but this compilation includes much other material on the general nutritive value of meat and its place in the diet." J Home Econ

"This monograph will be a great convenience to investigators in the field of nutrition and to those engaged in such diverse fields as the vitamin assay of foods and the calculation of the vitamin content of human and animal dietaries. However, the scope of the book is too restricted and its presentation too technical to be of much value to the physician, the general reader, or the elementary student. On the other hand, it is an excellent monograph for advanced students of nutrition." Henry Borsook, M. D.

Am J Pub Health 32:102 Ja '42 300w
J Home Econ 33:746 D '41 100w

WALDECK, ALDEN HARRY. Gas warfare; the chemical weapon, its use, and protection against it. 327p il $2.75 Duell

623.452 Chemical warfare (W) 42-21111

"Inclusive, evidently authoritative manual describing the various gases and smokes and their use in battle, plus methods of protection and first aid for troops and civilians. An excellent job. The author is attached to the Army's Chemical Warfare Service." (New Yorker) Index.

Booklist 39:28 O 1 '42

"This book by Colonel Waitt of the Chemical Warfare Service is timely and important. There have been many technical books on the subject and a few popular books. But the latter have been propagandist and emotional. Colonel Waitt's discussion is clear, authoritative, factual and well illustrated with both photographs and very helpful diagrams. It is easy to read and understandable for the civilian without chemical training." Gerald Wendt

+ Books p12 S 6 '42 380w

Cleveland Open Shelf p22 N '42

Reviewed by E. F. Allen
N Y Times p3 S 6 '42 400w

New Yorker 18:59 Ag 29 '42 40w

"Colonel Waitt's book can either be regarded as a literary curiosity, or as required reading for all those who bear any direct relationship to the conduct of the war. I prefer to accept the latter estimate, and if I had my way, every isolationist, every politician, military leader, and air raid warden would be compelled to use it for required homework. . . The book is sufficiently technical to serve as a handbook for officers in the field, but can be read with interest and profit by anyone." W. B. Ziff

+ Sat R of Lit 25:6 S 12 '42 700w

WAKEFIELD, LUCINA S. 101 home furnishings and how to make them. 99p il $2.50 Harper

745 Handicraft. House decoration 42-15838

How to make tea tables, ottomans, hanging shelves, dressing tables, and many other useful or amusing things for the home out of such materials as empty spools, tin cans, plywood, packing boxes, etc.

"Here are the very things we once tried to make, from directions in Harper's Young People or even old volumes of Godey's Lady's Book, for the decoration of the parlor. Here is the very footstool based on tin cans filled with sand, the very whatnot whose shelves were supported by strings of spools, the very ottoman from a packing box, with which ingenious women brightened the Victorian home. Their absence has made our hearts grow fonder."

Books p14 My 24 '42 150w

"The title is misleading, as the book deals with home accessories rather than what is generally considered home furnishings. Most of the construction ideas are interesting, but the decorative designs are not of the highest standards. Some of the structural ideas could be used for making inexpensive things about the house." D. W. Erway

+ J Home Econ 36:485 S '42 80w

Pratt p15 D '42

Wis Lib Bul 38:84 My '42

WALDECK, MRS JOBESSE MCELVEEN. Little lost monkey; pictures by Kurt Wiese. 96p $1.50 Viking

Monkeys—Legends and stories (W) 42-25503

The adventures of a little lost Sakiwinki, the smallest of all the South American monkeys. It describes his flight thru the jungles of British Guiana, and his eventual return. For grades three to five.

Booklist 39:187 Ja 1 '43

Churchman 156:16 N 15 '42 20w

Reviewed by H. L. Binsse

Commonweal 37:118 N 20 '42 20w

WALDECK, ROSIE (GOLDSCHMIDT). See Graefenberg, R. G.

WALDECK, THEODORE J. Jamba the elephant; il. by Kurt Wiese. 224p $2 Viking

Elephants—Legends and stories (W) 42-18469

Jamba was a vicious elephant of the African Congo, considered unmanageable until Bomi, son of a skilled mahout, succeeded in gaining his affection. After a time as a carrier of ivory, Jamba ran away, but the tie between him and Bomi proved too strong, and the elephant returned to the boy who had trained him.

Booklist 39:109 N 15 '42

Reviewed by M. L. Becker

Books p8 Ja 31 '43 350w

Reviewed by A. M. Jordan

Horn Bk 18:334 S '42 70w

Reviewed by Evelyn Turpin

Library J 67:1069 D 1 '42 80w

"A story full of interest and excitement and one which in all its details is true and accurate. . . Mr. Waldeck writes of elephants as he has written of lions and panthers, with respect and admiration. His style is graphic and vivid and Kurt Wiese's fine drawings are perfectly in the spirit of the book. 'Jamba' will be enjoyed by lovers of animal stories and adventure tales both young and old." A. T. Eaton

+ N Y Times p10 O 25 '42 420w

New Yorker 18:112 D 12 '42 50w

WALDECK, THEODORE J. Lions on the hunt; il. by Kurt Wiese. 251p $2 Viking

Lions—Legends and stories (W) 42-36166

Sur-Dah, a lion cub, was left alone when his mother was killed in a hunt. Little by little he learned for himself things his mother had no time to teach him: why the dull appearing baboons must never be attacked; why an ostrich sitting on its egg is an object to be respected; why the springbok in flight are dangerous. The struggle for existence strengthened Sur-Dah until he became leader of the pack. Grades five to eight.

Booklist 38:312 Ap 15 '42

Reviewed by M. L. Becker

Books p7 Mr 29 '42 370w

Reviewed by F. B. Sloan

Christian Science Monitor p11 My 28 '42 150w

"It takes imagination, as well as sound knowledge of a country and its fauna, to interpret the feelings of a great wild beast, as Theodore Waldeck does. . . The story is full of drama and suspense and the feel of the South African veldt with its myriad inhabitants is gripping." A. M. Jordan

+ Horn Bk M 18:174 My '42 130w

"Few books written about the African veldt describe so vividly the animal life teeming upon it, the lush vegetation in the rainy season, the powdery, choking dust of the dry. . . The lessons of survival will prove of particular interest to boys and men of all ages." Miriam Snow

+ Library J 67:416 My 1 '42 70w

WALDECK, T. J.—Continued

"This splendid tale is made still more dramatic and vivid by Kurt Wiese's spirited drawings. For boys and girls from 10 on and for readers of any age who enjoy stories of wild animals and wild country." A. T. Eaton

+ N Y Times p8 Ap 19 '42 500w

"Good stuff."

+ New Yorker 18:76 My 23 '42 70w

WALDEN, DAVID. Season. 378p $2.50 Grey-stone

42-15039

"Summer in the Catskills is the theme... It's a bad season, and Sam Barsky, proprietor of Pinecrest, isn't a very good business man. To make matters worse, he has a new wife to cope with. The only way he can wrest a profit from his hotel is to exploit his assorted 'helps,' which he does unscrupulously." Nation

"Some years ago Ford Madox Ford gave high praise to an unpublished manuscript by David Walden. This, Mr. Walden's novel, justifies Mr. Ford's prophecy. It is written with humor, economy and a vivid sense of character." Page Cooper

+ Books p4 My 24 '42 800w

"A first novel of real if homely talent... Mr. Walden deals with characters of the Weidman-Kober sort, but he has neither Weidman's bitterness nor Kober's mocking humor. Perhaps his novel lacks bite just because of his simple kindness, but he has written a pleasant book, refreshing in its unpretentiousness."

+ — Nation 154:664 Je 6 '42 150w

New Repub 106:902 Je 29 '42 60w

"As a character study of Sam Barsky 'The Season' could hardly be better. There are other respects in which it is less successful. Mr. Walden lacks Arthur Kober's marvelous ear for the inflections of dialect and suffers somewhat by the inevitable comparison. He has not yet acquired the trick, which usually comes with practice, of defining his minor characters quickly and clearly." Margaret Wallace

+ — N Y Times p6 Je 7 '42 800w

"Mr. Walden's book is interesting chiefly for its first hand realism... It is well done if—if you want a good pictorial representation. But, in the writer's sense of making, fashioning, Walden made nothing of his material." N. L. Rothman

+ — Sat R of Lit 25:8 Je 6 '42 250w

WALES, MARGUERITE. Public health nurse in action; foreword by Lillian Wald. 437p $2.75 Macmillan

614.073 Nurses and nursing, Public health 41-20348

"This very readable book is intended primarily for undergraduate nursing students preparing to specialize in public health work. Case histories show how nurses have applied in the field the general principles of public health nursing and how knowledge of mental hygiene has helped solve problems." J Home Econ

"Here is a book that was needed, for it makes interesting reading of what public health nurses do in the city and in the country." E. G. Sargent

+ Am J Pub Health 32:210 F '42 330w

+ J Home Econ 33:746 D '41 70w

Reviewed by Naomi Deutsch

Survey 78:223 Ag '42 330w

WALES, NYM, pseud. See Snow, H. F.

WALKER, JAMES BRADFORD RICHMOND. Comprehensive concordance to the Holy Scriptures. 957p $2 Macmillan

220.2 Bible. Whole—Concordances

"A new low-cost edition of a standard Concordance based on the authorized version.

Containing all essential words, it is compact and printed in clear type." Churchman

Cath World 156:252 N '42 50w

Churchman 156:14 My 15 '42 40w

WALKER, MARGARET. For my people; with a foreword by Stephen Vincent Benét. (Ser. of younger poets) 58p $2 Yale univ. press

811

A42-4935

"The latest volume in the Yale Series of Younger Poets, [is] by a young Negro girl. The poetry is curiously diverse, and the book is divided into three sharply contrasting sections: a series of 'public poems,' speaking directly for the Negro people with an inclusive 'we,' stylistically almost formless, in the tradition of modern urban poetry but almost Biblical in language; a series of what Stephen Vincent Benét's foreword calls 'blues,' but which are actually folk ballads, crudely and effectively written in Negro dialect, drawing heavily on folklore and outlawry for subject matter; and a final series of sonnets, mostly personal and in the tradition of the English sonnet." New Repub

"This is a first volume of poetry by a Negro author. It will appeal to anyone interested in the technique of poetry, because of Miss Walker's experiments in rhythmical language, but it will appeal on other grounds too." Elizabeth Drew

+ Atlantic 170:166 D '42 240w

Booklist 39:180 Ja 1 '43

"The ballads and sonnets of the second and third sections of this book show that preoccupation with the greater problems of her 'playmates in the clay and dust' have in no wise detracted from Margaret Walker's understanding of their folk ways. She has a genuine sympathy for low-down folks like 'Molly Means,' 'Poppa Chicken' and 'Kissie Lee.' One must agree with Stephen Vincent Benét, who introduces Miss Walker's work in 'For My People' that 'this is part of our nation speaking.'" Arna Bontemps

+ Books p3 Ja 3 '43 500w

Christian Century 59:1495 D 2 '42 70w

"While the ballads in dialect are not above the average, the serious poems in the book are of superior quality. There is a Whitman-like sympathy with the universe." Pearl Strachan

+ — Christian Science Monitor p10 N 14 '42 230w

"The sonnets are the weakest feature of the book, the public poems are spotty but frequently deeply moving, and the folk ballads are far and away the best."

New Repub 107:690 N 23 '42 120w

Reviewed by Leon Whipple

Survey G 31:599 D '42 390w

"Margaret Walker's 'For My People' has a double distinction: it is this year's selection in the Yale Series of Younger Poets, and it is the first volume by a Negro to win the competitive honor. The title is not only apt but more than ordinarily expressive. These are poems which reflect the individual and a race, poems in which the body and spirit of a great group of people are revealed with vigor and undeviating integrity. The book is by no means flawless. The sonnets in the third section are loosely rhetorical and, for the most part, commonplace. The dialect verses which compose the second section are faltering imitations of gutter blues, swaggering ballads, and hearty folk-stuff; they read like nothing so much as Langston Hughes turned soft or Paul Laurence Dunbar turned sour." Louis Untermeyer

+ — Yale R n s 32:370 winter '43 250w

WALLACE, ARCHER. Leaves of healing. 168p $1.50 Harper

242

42-21861

A book of brief, informal essays, intended for devotional reading, and each followed by a prayer.

Christian Century 59:1186 S 30 '42 50w

"The material is not specially 'new'—nor is the treatment particularly arresting or brilliant. Still, the book is helpful to a degree and is a good addition to any man's religious library." T. F. O.

Churchman 156:31 N 1 '42 60w

WALLACE, HENRY AGARD. Price of free world victory; with some comments by Raymond Clapper [and others]. 32p 75c Fischer, L.B.

940.531 World war, 1939-. (Library) 42-16560

Text of the speech made by Vice President Wallace at the dinner of the Free World association on May 8th, 1942. Its thesis is that the twentieth century must not be exclusively the "American century," but the "century of the common man."

"To the appraisal of the booklet's message, two comments might be added. The first is that the essence of Americanism consists of a noble aspiration for a better world, such as Mr. Wallace has expressed. The second is that mere aspirations, however exalted, may become dangerous, unless supported by practicable plans. The Vice-President's beautiful ideals may do harm, unless he or someone else works out a project which can be accepted as offering a road toward their realization. Mr. Wallace extols common men and women, but if he is merely dangling dreams before them, he may deprive them of both will and faith."

+ Christian Science Monitor p10 O 3 '42 500w

"Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Churchill are not alone among contemporary statesmen in the ability to strike off sentences that are bold enough to look the future in the eye. Recently, Vice-President Henry A. Wallace made a speech. He called it 'The Price of Free World Victory.' That speech, although sketchily reported or overlooked entirely by the bulk of the nation's press, has already been acclaimed in various quarters as the most significant American statement on war since we became an active member of the United Nations." Norman Cousins

+ Sat R of Lit 25:4 Je 13 '42 2100w

Wis Lib Bul 38:136 O '42

Reviewed by Carl Becker

Yale R n s 32:161 autumn '42 210w

WALLING, ROBERT ALFRED JOHN. Corpse with the eerie eye. 278p $2 Morrow

Detective story. 42-12645

Booklist 38:369 Je 1 '42

"Here's a godsend for top-drawer mystery fans, a new Walling story completely up to the British master's usual standard—which is going some." Will Cuppy

+ Books p26 My 10 '42 300w

"Mr. Walling has built up a beautiful structure of mystery and bafflement, but his solution leaves something to be desired. None of the persons concerned seems to care much whether or not it is the correct one so long as the case is considered closed." Isaac Anderson

+ N Y Times p17 My 10 '42 200w

"Excellent story, with a solution which is above average."

+ New Yorker 18:79 My 9 '42 40w

Sat R of Lit 25:17 My 23 '42 40w

WALLIS, JAMES HAROLD. Once off guard. 341p $2.50 Dutton

42-3957

Richard Wanley, a middle-aged professor with an unimpeachable record, is caught "off guard" for an instant as he looks at a painting in a Fifth Avenue window. That minute changes the whole course of Wanley's life and leads to his tragic end.

"'Once Off Guard' is no routine tracking down of crime, but the study of a man pursued by his own imagination—a neat psychological novel." Lisle Bell

+ Books p17 F 22 '42 320w

"Interesting psychological study. Nice, but much too long."

+ New Yorker 17:72 F 14 '42 60w

"There are fresh surprises in every chapter, and the biggest one at the very end. The author has written with unusual insight into the strange concealed ways of various human minds."

+ Springf'd Republican p7e Ja 17 '43 240w

WALLIS, LOUIS. The Bible is human; a study in secular history. 330p $2.50 Columbia univ. press

933 Jews—History. Bible. Old Testament—History of biblical events 42-20637

"Ever since Louis Wallis published his 'Sociological Study of the Bible' thirty years ago he has been a persistent advocate of the idea that Hebrew history can be correctly understood only as the story of a conflict between two rival theories about the tenure of land in ancient Palestine. One theory supported the right of a small proprietary class to a commercialized monopoly of natural resources, while the rival theory maintained the injustice of commercialism and demanded that the primitive clan as a community should hold title to all the open country outside of the walled cities. . . . Thus our author seeks to understand Hebrew history by reading it as a concrete embodiment of the social teachings of Henry George's 'Progress and Poverty' published more than fifty years ago." (Books) Bibliographical note. Index.

"Its sociological outlook is the most valuable feature of this book. We are indebted to the writer for many a keen insight and much light shed upon obscure matters by his highly developed social vision as he traces the evolution of the Hebrew race from its early days down to the period of the captivity in Babylon." S. J. Case

+ Books p46 D 6 '42 800w

"This volume is a distinct contribution, not only to an understanding of the functional origin and nature of the literature of the Old Testament, but to its more realistic and fruitful use in contemporary religious experiences." W. C. Bower

+ Christian Century 60:138 F 3 '43 850w

"Mr. Wallis leaves many unanswered questions, to be sure; but whether he wins the complete support of the scholars or not, he has, at any rate, put new life into the study of the Old Testament." F. J. Moore

+ Churchman 157:17 Ja 1 '43 500w

"An interesting and irritating volume. . . . Theoretically we enjoy the irritations, for they are the stimuli to further, careful study. Not all the problems of biblical history and religion are yet settled. This volume is helpful." I. G. Matthews

+ Crozer Q 20:66 Ja '43 1300w

WALMSLEY, RUTH GARRETSON. Little songs of the big city; stories and melodies by [the author] lyrics by L. Young Corretters; pictures by Mary F. Mullen. [24p] $1 McKay

Children's songs 42-1269

A story and song, with simple melody, for each of the friends of two little city children. The stories are about the barber, the elevator man, the soda clerk, the mailman, the janitor, etc. For ages five to seven.

"Appealing little song-book. These brief ditties, with piano accompaniments and a couple of brightly colored pictures for each, present city characters as they take part in the lives of Nip and Tuck, boy-and-girl twins who like singing and are popular in the neighborhood." M. L. Becker

+ Books p6 Mr 15 '42 100w

WALMSLEY, R. G.—Continued

"Children will enjoy reading the story and then singing the easy rhymes set to simple little tunes." D. M. MacDonald
+ Library J 67:132 F 1 '42 80w

WALPOLE, SIR HUGH. The killer and the slain; a strange story. 300p $2.50 Doubleday
(W) 42-13389

A psychological horror tale. Two boys at school together realize a strange affinity, tho they are exact opposites in character. Later in their middle thirties, they live in the same town for a time, until one of them, the narrator, rebels and kills his "other half." But the murder does not solve his problem, only accentuates it, as he sees himself going to pieces with fear and loathing of the evil spirit that takes gradual possession over him.

Booklist 38:385 Je 15 '42

"Even in the more forthright of Mr. Walpole's novels a touch of the macabre has seldom been lacking. That strain emerged in purer culture in 'Portrait of a Man With Red Hair,' and, to my mind, more subtly and even more forcefully in the provincial setting of 'The Old Ladies.' The present novel, which bears the subtitle 'A Strange Story' and is dedicated with affection and admiration to the author of 'The Turn of the Screw,' leads you through rising suspense to horror unadulterated. . . The mounting suspense of this story lies in the skill of the telling." Mary Ross

Books p5 Je 7 '42 850w

Reviewed by J. D. Beresford

Manchester Guardian p3 S 11 '42 200w

"There is no doubt that this book was a desperate attempt to be in earnest; the earnest intention is [shouted] from every page. The theme is Good and Evil, God and the Devil, yet the only result is a loud noise, as empty as the bursting of a paper bag." Philip Toynbee

— + New Statesman & Nation 24:245 O 10 '42 450w

"Taken from what angle you will, the book is a curious and often very moving one, a study of antagonism and fascination and terror, of the disintegration and degradation of a human spirit strong enough to resist but not strong enough successfully to repel the evil force and dominance by which it is threatened. The book is interesting, striking, unusual. In Mr. Walpole's skillful hands the extraordinary plot has color and reality." L. M. Field

+ N Y Times p20 My 17 '42 650w

"Though the shiver value is not equal to that of his 'Portrait of a Man with Red Hair,' the book is in the same general mood, even to the curious obsession with the more refined forms of sadism. Someday somebody who knew Walpole well will explain the Jekyll-and-Hyde literary personality that enabled him to shuttle with ease from the healthy mediocrity of the 'Rogue Herries' sort of thing to the definitely unhealthy murkiness of books like 'The Killer and the Slain.'" Clifton Fadiman

New Yorker 18:70 My 2 '42 180w

Reviewed by Kate O'Brien

Spec 169:274 S 13 '42 130w

Times [London] Lit Sup p437 S 5 '42 1000w

WALSH, GERALD GROVELAND. Medieval humanism. 103p $1 Macmillan

144 Humanism, Civilization, Medieval 42-6936

"This little book contains the substance of a series of lectures on the Tradition of Christian Humanism, which were given in 1939-40, as a Fordham University extension course, at the College of New Rochelle." (Pref.) Humanism as used here, indicates medieval conception of life as reflected in Christian literature from earliest times to the thirteenth century. As representative of medieval humanism the author gives special attention to St Thomas Aquinas and Dante. Annotated bibliography.

"Experienced teacher that he is, Father Walsh has put within the covers of his small book, a series of lessons on medieval culture which will richly reward the careful reader." Joseph McSorley

+ Cath World 155:762 S '42 320w

Reviewed by M. J. Adler

Commonweal 35:650 Ap 17 '42 490w

"A delightful little book." R. E. E. Harkness

+ Crozer Q 19:251 J1 '42 400w

J Philos 39:164 Mr 12 '42 360w

WAPLES, DOUGLAS, ed. Print, radio, and film in a democracy. (Studies in lib. science) 197p $2 Univ. of Chicago press

301.15 Communication and traffic. Propaganda. Public opinion—U.S. Radio broadcasting. Moving pictures. Journalism

42-5967

"Ten papers on the administration of mass communications in the public interest, read before the sixth Annual Institute of the Graduate Library School, the University of Chicago, August 4-9, 1941, topically divided into 'Government Policy,' 'Effects on Public Opinion,' 'Implications for School Sciences,' 'Implications for Institutions.'" School & Society

Reviewed by C. W. Hart

Am J Soc 48:428 N '42 850w

"The book is a welcome statement of some of the ideas of pioneers in the field. Moreover, its thumbnail sketches of a score of techniques should inspire further studies." H. A. Bone

+ Am Pol Sci R 36:560 Je '42 700w

Reviewed by H. S. Hettinger

Ann Am Acad 222:241 J1 '42 750w

Booklist 38:301 Ap 15 '42

"No single volume throws more light on the subject of propaganda or on the delicate question of maintaining a balance between democratic liberty of expression and efficient national unity. The key word is 'the public interest.'" + Christian Century 59:322 Mr 11 '42 130w

"Occasionally lawyers should read a non-legal book for enlightenment and not for entertainment only. The 'Ten papers on the administration of mass communications in the public interest', read before the Sixth Institute of the Graduate Library School of Chicago University in August, 1941, deserve the interest of the profession as valuable material for eventual legislative action." Karl Loewenstein

+ Columbia Law R 42:1072 Je '42 1350w

Ethics 53:154 Ja '43 170w

"The most timely and important book on any current list of librarians' reading." Pelham Barr

+ Library Q 12:862 O '42 2250w

Pratt p20 D '42

School & Society 55:224 F 21 '42 30w

WARD, BARBARA. Turkey. (World today) 121p il maps $1.25 (3s 6d) Oxford

949.6 Turkey (W) 42-21548

Brief, objective discussion of the history and development of Turkey. Contents: The land; The people; The Ottoman empire; The problem of westernization; The beginnings of reform; Mustafa Kemal; The war of independence; The political system; The social revolution; The village; Building an industrial system; Turkey in the modern world. Short bibliography. Index. Maps.

Commonweal 36:380 Ag 7 '42 350w

"Miss Ward has travelled about in the country and can give us a real insight into what the social changes of the past twenty years have meant. She is no less interesting and authoritative on the political side." W. H. C.

+ Manchester Guardian p3 My 22 '42 230w

"A small useful background book, marred by some political naïveté and a rather idealized view of Kemal Atatürk."

+ — New Yorker 18:56 Ag 1 '42 30w

"Miss Barbara Ward has written a good book on Turkey. It is lively in style, timely in appearance, and commendably short—there is little time in which to read long books nowadays—and because it is short it is necessarily superficial, in the literal sense of the term. Miss Ward touches the surface only, but with discernment calls attention to the main features." Wyndham Deedes

+ Spec 163:562 Je 12 '42 300w

"In this small compact volume Miss Ward has given the public an excellent account of the New Turkey and a useful précis of its historical background. It is a well-balanced picture to which a personal acquaintance with the Republic and its setting gives a glow of reality which more ambitious or academic studies of contemporary nations often lack."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p266 My 30 '42 550w

WARD, LEO RICHARD. Nova Scotia; the land of co-operation; maps by Leroy Appleton. 207p $2.50 Sheed

334 Cooperation—Nova Scotia. Nova Scotia—Description and travel 42-25878

Account of the cooperative movement in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick, and the people who were responsible for it.

Booklist 39:218 F 1 '43

Cath World 156:637 F '43 270w

"The essential link between study club, credit union and cooperative store is almost entirely lacking here. Better literature would help. Father Coady's 'Masters of Their Own Destiny' is good, but we need material that fully explains the Antigonish aims, methods, results, and then goes on to show how these principles would operate in a big industrial city, in our farmlands of the West . . . in our sharecropper districts in the South. In the dislocation sure to follow the war nothing could be more invaluable than a good blueprint integrating education, labor, industry, resettlement on the land, credit unions and cooperatives." Edward Skillin, Jr.

+ — Commonweal 37:232 D 18 '42 2250w
"Folksy, and plainly written."

+ New Yorker 18:102 D 5 '42 30w

School & Society 57:28 Ja 2 '43 80w

Reviewed by H. W. Cross
Springf'd Republican p7e D 27 '42 1000w

Wis Lib Bul 38:182 D '42

WARFEL, HARRY REDCAY, and MAN-
WARING, ELIZABETH WHEELER, eds.
Of the people. 699p il $2.30 Oxford

810.8 American literature—Collections. U.S.—Civilization. Democracy in literature 42-15238

Book of readings—including prose and verse, fiction and political science—illustrative of America's history and democratic ideals. Indexes.

"There are some things to say in criticism. The editors are too Eastern. Their awareness of the Middle West extends only as far as Sherwood Anderson. . . . One misses the epic of the South in this compilation, too. . . . Finally, I surmise that the plan of the book will be more apparent to Mr. Warfel and Miss Manwaring than it will be to students. Nevertheless this is a first-rate collection of essays. It has substance, flavor and vitality. Education will profit immensely by its use." G. H. Shuster

+ — Sat R of Lit 25:21 Jl 4 '42 550w

"Of the People deserves widespread use in all the English departments throughout the land and may even be introduced into high-school classes of 'gifted' pupils. Certainly, as a work of reference it should have an honored place on the library shelf." W. W. Brickman

+ School & Society 57:23 Ja 2 '43 750w

Reviewed by T. L. Harris

School R 50:604 O '42 700w

"An inspiring collection of readings. . . . Notes help to unify the whole volume. Stimulating exercises are added. A valuable book for use in the classroom."

+ Social Studies 33:288 O '42 30w

WARFEL, HARRY REDCAY, and ORIANS,
GEORGE HARRISON, eds. American local-color stories; with an introduction. 846p $3.50 Am. bk.

Short stories—Collections 41-17552

Traces the development of local color stories in America thru the medium of over sixty regional stories, chronologically arranged. Table of contents arranged by regions. Some of the authors included are: Harriet Beecher Stowe, Bret Harte, George Washington Cable, Mary Noailles Murfree (Charles Egbert Craddock), Sarah Orne Jewett, Joel Chandler Harris, Thomas Nelson Page, Mary E. Wilkins Freeman, James Lane Allen, F. Hopkinson Smith, Hamlin Garland, Margaret Deland, William Allen White, Stephen Crane, Helen R. Martin, Zona Gale.

Booklist 38:443 Jl 15 '42

New Eng Q 14:781 D '41 140w

WARNER, FRANCES LESTER (MRS M. D. HERSEY). Inner springs; drawings by Mayo Dyer Hersey. 189p $2 Houghton

814 (W) 42-19543

Anecdotes of everyday happenings in the life of Mrs Gregory Brewster. Grandmother, adoring wife, occasional lecturer, and a good "imitative" cook, Mrs Brewster is always just passing "from one awkward age to another" and finds a "typical matron's hat" most unbecoming.

Booklist 39:29 O 1 '42

Bookmark 4:9 N '42

Reviewed by Page Cooper
Books p13 Ag 23 '42 600w

Cleveland Open Shelf p16 Jl '42

Wis Lib Bul 38:134 O '42

WARNER, WILLIAM LLOYD, and LUNT,
PAUL SANBORN. Social life of a modern community. (Yankee City ser) 460p $4 Yale univ. press

301.1523 Social surveys. Community life. United States—Social conditions 42-2549

"The 'Yankee City Series,' which is inaugurated by the present work, will be complete in six volumes. Each will deal with a significant aspect of the life of a modern community as it has been recorded and analyzed by the combined and co-operative labors of a group of social anthropologists. The same techniques and viewpoints applied by them to the study of societies of simpler peoples are here subjected to empirical testing in a concrete case study in modern American society. The town chosen was an old New England community. The present volume describes in detail the cultural life of the community, emphasizing particularly the way in which these people have been divided into superior and inferior classes. It also presents the reader with an interpretation of the systematic analysis of the techniques, methods, and conceptual framework used in the research, a summary of the findings, and a general orientation." (Pref) Index.

Reviewed by Nels Anderson

Am J Soc 48:431 N '42 1000w

Reviewed by C. W. Mills

Am Soc R 7:263 Ap '42 5350w

Reviewed by M. R. Davie

Ann Am Acad 221:234 My '42 800w

"Very thorough piece of sociological research."

+ Christian Century 59:114 Ja 28 '42 350w

Manchester Guardian p3 Jl 17 '42 450w

Reviewed by Oscar Handlin

New Eng Q 15:554 S '42 650w

WARNER, W. L., and LUNT, P. S.—Continued
Reviewed by A. W. Jones
New Repub 106:465 Ap 6 '42 1700w

"The zeal and the devotion that have gone into the inquiry are beyond all question; the reader is left almost breathless with admiration at the way in which everything capable of reduction to the card-index system is so reduced. Yet it must be frankly said that the result does not seem to justify the immensity of the labour involved." H. J. Laski

New Statesman & Nation 23:424 Je 27 '42 650w

Reviewed by Marshall Bragdon
Springf'd Republican p6 D 27 '41 950w

Reviewed by R. K. Merton
Survey G 31:438 O '42 1300w

WARNER, WILLIAM LLOYD, and LUNT, PAUL SANBORN. Status system of a modern community. (Yankee City ser) 246p $3 Yale univ. press

323.3 Cities and towns. Class distinction A42-3288

Second volume in a series of six, of which The Social Life of a Modern Community (Book Review Digest, August 1942) was the first. The present volume analyzes the social institutions of the community with reference to the so-called class system—upper upper, lower upper, upper middle, lower middle, upper lower, and lower lower. It does not analyze concrete behavior, but gives statistical descriptions of the parts of the system and their connections. Index.

"The authors insufficiently utilize extant sociological theory in interpreting their findings. One might think that all past research and thought concerned with these topics had been in vain. The difficulty does not lie entirely with the authors. They attempted to formulate their hypotheses and to test them in the field. If they failed to link their specific hypotheses with a larger system of sociological propositions, it was probably because there exists no shorthand method of signaling, synthesizing, and utilizing the main contributions of the past. . . These criticisms do not minimize the outstanding contribution the book makes in the techniques of handling data and the analysis of community organization. There are an awkward originality and a driving concentration in the book which more than counter balance the faults." Kingsley Davis

— + Am J Soc 48:511 Ja '43 1500w

Reviewed by M. E. Opler
Am Soc R 7:719 O '42 2100w

"Readers who shy at statistics would better pass the volume by, as they will be inclined to do when they see an 87-page table included in the text. On the other hand, readers who enjoy checking on statistical procedure and discovering other possible ways of treating the material will be disappointed because certain procedural steps are not clear and sufficient basic data are not given. Social relationships are admittedly complex and intricate and difficult to clarify. It does not help to bury them under an avalanche of statistics." M. R. Davie

Ann Am Acad 223:255 S '42 460w

Christian Century 59:732 Je 3 '42 70w
Nation 155:489 N 7 '42 360w

Reviewed by Oscar Handlin
New Eng Q 15:554 S '42 650w
Pratt p20 D '42

WARREN, CHARLES. Odd byways in American history. 269p $3 Harvard univ. press
973 U. S.—History A42-639

"[Some of these] tales are merely instructive, adding minor chapters to our political history. . . More often, Mr Warren's stories bring out what might be called facets of national character. Our self-consciousness in the early days of independence, for instance, appears amusingly in 'How Moroccan lions and Arabian horses annoyed Presidents'; and rather foolishly in 'How Congress got and lost the French royal portraits.' . . And 'How the President's speech to Congress was instituted and abandoned' is an excellent illustration of the contemporary aversion for anything that seemed symbolic of British royal practice." Springf'd Republican

"In each case Mr. Warren tells a good story, with all the appurtenances of scholarship which at once intrigue the historian and dismay the layman. Quotations, largely from the press, are long and numerous but highly informative. The whole book comprises an excellent series of case studies for the teacher of historical method. Mr. Warren's analysis of the sparse and conflicting documentation on the weather at Washington's inauguration, for example, could profitably be studied by a beginning graduate seminar. That sketch is one of several which may have been suggested by recent political developments. The book is published in a form corresponding to its quality, and the extensive explanatory footnotes are conveniently grouped together at the end." P. C. Brooks

+ Am Hist R 48:126 O '42 500w

Booklist 38:366 Je 1 '42

Reviewed by Lewis Gannett
Books p4 My 17 '42 440w

"It is refreshing to learn that so serious a historian as Charles Warren, when he wishes, can turn aside to pursue an intriguing story down some side-lane of the past for sheer entertainment. . . One hopes that Mr. Warren had as much fun compiling this volume as the reader has in perusing it." T. N.

+ Christian Science Monitor p18 F 24 '42 800w

"In general the author's tone is conservative, and his conclusions are sound. It is at least debatable to state, however, that no other presidential campaign in American history ever brought forth such vicious and scurrilous personal attacks upon a candidate as that of the year 1800 (127). In some cases the excessive use of newspaper quotations detracts from the author's style. Otherwise his stories are well told, and the reader is privileged to feel that he has taken part in an excursion over paths not less pleasant for the fact that they lie apart from the main road." J. C. Andrews

+ New Eng Q 15:743 D '42 420w

Reviewed by S. L. Jackson
+ Springf'd Republican p8 F 17 '42 1000w

WARREN, EDWARD HENRY. Rights of margin customers against wrongdoing stockbrokers and some other problems in the modern law of pledge. 464p il $4 Plimpton

347 Pledges (law). Torts. Speculation. Securities. Stock exchange. Brokers 41-7643

"The volume, as its full title suggests, is an examination of the rights of margin customers against their brokers and the relationship of those rights to the modern law of pledge. Those readers who are already familiar with classic legal controversies, with the problem of the nature of the rights of an assignee of a chose in action, with the history of the action of trover and its relationship to the law of conversion will find this new discussion refreshingly alive. The somber substance has not stultified the form; dialogues between learned antagonists, and persistent indignation liven pages which otherwise might seem dead." Books

"The task which Professor Warren set himself may, in a sense, be considered the excavation of the links of legal doctrine by which history has tied Littleton to Martin and the Stock Exchange to the Plantagenets. His book is an exciting justification of the historical method of legal thought—a method to which he has brought something much more valuable than antiquarian passion for history. Professor Warren never loses sight of the fact that today's law is for today's dealings, but he recognizes the importance for courts and for business men alike of yesterday's doctrine and yesterday's habits." M. D. Howe

+ Books p11 Je 22 '41 500w

"Professor Warren has taught property for many years and the book reflects the development of his thought and careful analysis of the subject. Though the manner of presentation is in many respects novel, the book is interesting reading for those who are willing to make the necessary effort." E. W. Debevoise
+ Harvard Law R 55:567 Ja '42 1150w

WARREN, JOHN RUSSELL. Magpie murder.
293p $2 Sheridan 42-4618
Detective story.

"The author spoils many of his pages by overworking the verb 'to stare' something awful. The main effect is rather messy." Will Cuppy

Books p10 Mr 15 '42 100w

"It is a puzzling problem with a satisfactory solution." Isaac Anderson
+ N Y Times p21 Ja 25 '42 140w

"Painstakingly worked out puzzle—very deliberate—told by sleuth and quick-witted friend of decedent. Average."

Sat R of Lit 25:18 Ja 31 '42 30w

"A detective story is not a novel and any deficiencies in character drawing will be speedily forgiven if the author produces a good plot. This Mr Warren has done. 'Magpie Murder' will not become a best seller, but it does afford a pleasant evening's relaxation. If not a great detective story, it is at least not below average." Galen Snow

+ Springf'd Republican p7e F 1 '42 220w

WARREN, ROBERT PENN. Eleven poems on the same theme [32p] $1; pa 50c New directions

811

42-15737

"Poems by one of the most expert poetic craftsmen in America, remarkable for their variety of emotion and range of effects. The theme is today's world." New Yorker

Reviewed by Ruth Lechlitner

Books p13 Jl 19 '42 160w

"This is by far the most distinguished collection of new poems yet issued in James Laughlin's 'Poet of the Month' series, and one of the most heartening utterances in poetry altogether for a long time." Frank Jones
+ Nation 155:277 S 26 '42 300w

"The total effect of this pamphlet is one of distinction." Oscar Williams

+ New Repub 107:28 Jl 6 '42 150w

"The book is a variation of poetry by a good poet who also likes other good poetry. His best and nearest to himself is, I think, in the last poem, on Terror. It is also filled with literary reference, for that is Mr. Warren's style; but he makes a new experience out of them, and that is his poetry." P. M. Jack

+ N Y Times p4 Ap 26 '42 550w

+ New Yorker 18:80 My 9 '42 30w

"Distinguished as Eleven Poems is, occasionally I found myself reading with some uneasiness. For each excellence it seemed there was a corresponding defect. Thought is at the heart of these poems, but objections might be made to the nature and employment of thought. At times it becomes unruly: the result is intellection or rationalization. It is rationalization of the most subtle and elegant kind, but it does sometimes result in a loss of immediacy—the debating toward the end of Picnic Remembered is an example." J. F. Nims

+ Poetry 61:505 D '42 900w

"Conviction and fantasy, nightmare and knowledge, fluctuate through these poems. They are paradoxes of mood, being both shadowy and brilliant, spontaneous and crafty, and always intense." Louis Untermeyer

Yale R n s 32:370 winter '43 70w

WASHBURN, RUTH WENDELL. Children have their reasons; with an introd. by Dorothy Canfield Fisher. 257p il $2 Appleton-Century

136.7 Child study

(W) 42-6970

A book of advice and suggestions for bringing up children. "The book was written to emphasize and reemphasize the fact that it is insight, not formulas or technics or ready-made methods, that makes for the successful training of children." (Foreword) Index.

Bookmark 4:4 N '42

Cleveland Open Shelf p15 Jl '42

"An unusually interesting book. . . Recommended for parents and for the public library." G. O. Kelley

+ Library J 67:131 F 1 '42 70w

"In spite of the author's genuine effort to make this a book for parents, there are times when the vocabulary limits its usefulness to persons with some background in psychology. In some chapters the introductory sections are theoretical and academic in tone while the rest of the chapter is alive with real life situations. There is perhaps too much verbiage as to the usefulness of the psychologist to parents. . . But these are minor criticisms of a book full of useful information and wise insight into the needs of young children." L. H. Meek

+ Survey 78:348 D '42 470w

Wis Lib Bul 38:93 Je '42

WASHINGTON, GEORGE. Rules of civility and decent behaviour in company and conversation; 110 don'ts; ed. with an introd. and conclusion by John Allen Murray; il. by Georg T. Hartmann. 37p $1.25 Putnam

395 Etiquet

42-25847

These maxims for polite behavior were copied down by the sixteen year old George Washington in an old copy-book, now kept among the national treasures. This edition is illustrated with half-humorous woodcuts and contains a brief explanatory preface. Sample facsimiles of Washington's handwriting on end papers.

Books p46 D 6 '42 200w

Time 40:120 N 23 '42 330w

WASHINGTON, GEORGE THOMAS. Corporate executives' compensation; legal and business aspects of salary and bonus plans, stock options, pensions, indemnity agreements, and related matters. 519p $7 Ronald

658.15 Wages—U.S. Bonus system. Corporation law 42-5250

"In his introductory chapter, the author describes his objective in the following language: 'The purpose of this book is to study, against the background of our law of corporations, with its emphasis on traditional economic patterns, the system of managerial rewards that has grown up in this country during the last three or four decades. We will also study the impact of the regulatory and tax policies of the federal government.'" Yale Law J

"Professor Washington has presented his views on an important, current issue in a well-planned, thoroughly-documented study. He deserves praise for his courage in attempting to justify various forms of executive compensation in vogue in the last decade and still more praise for the scholarly manner in which the work has been carried out." G. D. Hornstein
+ Columbia Law R 42:891 My '42 1050w

Reviewed by H. W. Ballantine

Harvard Law R 55:1401 Je '42 1650w

Reviewed by E. M. Dodd

Yale Law J 51:1044 Ap '42 1850w

WASHINGTON, JOHN E. They knew Lincoln; with an introd. by Carl Sandburg. 265p il $3.75 Dutton

B or 92 Lincoln, Abraham. Negroes—District of Columbia 42-3268

Collection of memories of Abraham Lincoln, gathered from the Negro men and women who knew him personally. Some of them were servants at the White House, others had seen him frequently in or around Washington. The author, who is a Negro himself, grew up in his grandmother's Washington boarding house close to the Ford theater where Lincoln was shot.

Am Hist R 48:191 O '42 80w

Booklist 38:233 Mr 1 '42

"These contributions are not weighty enough to give 'They Knew Lincoln' much distinction. The author writes with affection and sincerity, but the durable parts of his work are hardly of sufficient importance to make up for its general lack of substance." P. M. Angle

Books p27 Mr 1 '42 480w

"The book is illustrated with old pictures and facsimiles of letters and documents. Itself a labor of love, it is a record of tenderness which is more rather than less moving because it is also quaint and picturesque. As Carl Sandburg says in his introduction, 'There are character sketches, speech tones, wisdom of the humble set down. . . Quite aside from its special interest in Lincoln, it is an important human document.'"

+ N Y Times p17 F 1 '42 500w

"The success of the book is due not so much to its literary excellence as to the attitude and background of the author. Throughout the book it is plain that he, as well as the elders he quotes, both loved and venerated Lincoln. Yet the book is written with freshness, and a nostalgic delight in boyhood memories. Carl Sandburg writes an introduction to the volume, which is well illustrated." R. T. Heacock

+ Springfd Republican p7e F 1 '42 250w

Wis Lib Bul 38:30 F '42

WATERS, FRANK. Man who killed the deer. 311p $2.50 Farrar

(W) 42-10943

Story of the Pueblo Indians. The hero is the boy Martiniano, who had gone to a white school and in consequence was at odds with his tribal rituals. As he grew older he married the wrong girl, and to make matters worse he killed a deer on the government reservation. The story of his spiritual travail and return to his tribe follows.

Booklist 38:443 Jl 15 '42

Bookmark 3:17 My '42

"The modern American Indian, child of Reservations, victim of 'white man's burden,' of tourists and lurid dime novels, gets his due in 'The Man Who Killed the Deer.' He gets above all his spiritual due, with a strong accent on his soul, his yearnings, his tribal memories and dreams. The author is in fact so intent on making clear the mystic strains that affect the behavior of Martiniano, his central character, that sometimes the youth seems like a figment of Indian legendry. . . 'The Man Who Killed the Deer' [has] qualities worth remarking in any novel of contemporary Indian life; the ring of authenticity and a sympathy entirely without condescension." Milton Rugoff

+ Books p10 Je 14 '42 650w

"'The Man Who Killed The Deer' is a short and outwardly a simple novel—simple as the title itself is simple, in that it is stripped of ornamentation and reduced to its essential elements. Underneath it is no such matter. Frank Waters has told a story as naive as a folk tale, but one which, like many folk tales, is freighted with a burden of racial philosophy. And the philosophy belongs in this instance to a race which has remained inscrutable in spite of the best efforts of archaeologists and anthropologists, to the Pueblo Indians." Margaret Wallace

+ N Y Times p6 Je 14 '42 800w

New Yorker 18:71 Je 13 '42 60w

"This is by far the finest novel of American Indian life I have ever read, not excepting the notable 'Laughing Boy' by Oliver La Farge." Burton Rascoe

+ Sat R of Lit 25:9 Je 13 '42 1000w

WATKIN, EDWARD INGRAM. Praise of glory. 292p $3.50 Sheed

264 Roman Catholic church—Liturgy and ritual 42-12942

Devotional commentary on the lauds and vespers, two of the daily hours of the Roman Catholic church, by the author of the Catholic Center (Book Review Digest, 1939).

"It is a book which will assist any intelligent Christian to an understanding of what prayer really is, and—what is more important—it will help him to pray. One cannot refrain from the comment that the lack of a Table of Contents and even of a list of chapter headings, is especially unfortunate in case of a book thus unusual."

+ Cath World 155:633 Ag '42 250w

"There is a poetico-philosophical touch about this book which is very appealing. It should afford much joy and knowledge to those wishing to use the Breviary." Richard Flower

+ Commonweal 36:356 Jl 31 '42 450w

WATKIN, LAWRENCE EDWARD. Marty Markham; il. by Bob Kuhn. 166p $1.50 Holt 42-21068

Marty Markham was a spoiled Park avenue twelve year old, who was sent to a dude ranch in the Blue Ridge in Virginia. The coach thought he would have his hands full with Marty, but with the help of the mare, Skyrocket, the job proved easier than anticipated. For readers ten to twelve.

Cath World 156:376 D '42 50w

"The theme demands a fuller, more substantial treatment than Mr. Watkin has given it, for Marty's reform is accomplished speedily and with none of the backslidings into temper and selfishness to which spoiled brats are prone. The story has, however, a genuine appeal in its account of camp sports and pranks, its grasp of the essentials of boy-nature, presented in very good writing with an unobtrusive humor." E. L. Buell

+ N Y Times p11 O 4 '42 280w

WATSON, FLETCHER GUARD. Between the planets. (Harvard bks on astronomy) 222p il $2.50 Blakiston

523.5 Meteors. Meteorites. Comets 41-21330

"Dr. Watson devotes his book to a discussion of asteroids, comets and meteors, the 'millions of small bodies continually moving in and out among the planets.' His final pages titled 'Betwixt and Between' consider 'this vast assemblage of particles as a single great cloud of diffuse material stretching through the solar system.'" Scientific Bk Club R

"An excellently compacted astronomy for the general reader."

+ N Y New Tech Bks 26:52 O '41

Reviewed by H. M. Davis

N Y Times p9 Mr 8 '42 280w

Scientific Bk Club R 12:3 S '41 150w

WATSON, FLOYD ROWE. Acoustics of buildings; incl. acoustics of auditoriums and sound-proofing of rooms. 3d ed 171p il $3 Wiley

534.84 Architectural acoustics 41-26814

"The third edition of this book has involved a rewriting of the text to take account of the developments in architectural acoustics during the past ten years. New illustrations and examples are cited, with numerous references to investigational work. One important new feature is the introduction of problems to set forth the important elements of the subject, and to serve as an aid in teaching. The text material divides logically into three parts: general phenomena of sound that apply to buildings, acoustics of rooms, and sound insulation." (Pref) For first edition see Book Review Digest, 1924. Index.

Booklist 38:193 F 1 '42

Reviewed by V. L. Chrisler

R of Scientific Instruments 13:173 Ap '42 550w

WATSON, GOODWIN BARBOUR, ed. See Society for the psychological study of social issues. Civilian morale

WATSON, MRS HELEN (ORR). Top Kick, U.S. army horse; il. by Bernard Garbutt. 217p $2 Houghton

Horses—Legends and stories (W) 42-22863

Top Kick was an army horse, born at an army remount depot in the United States. Top Kick was an especially intelligent horse, and the years of his training are described in detail, up to the time when he is ready for active service in the Philippines. Grades six to eight.

Booklist 39:109 N 15 '42

Cath World 156:376 D '42 70w

"Mrs. Watson, the author, is the wife of an Army Colonel. Her thorough knowledge of army life and her own love of horses make her story a live and convincing one." F. B. Sloane
+ Christian Science Monitor p16 D 10 '42 160w

"This is the fascinating story of a United States Army horse. It is vivid, graphic, charming throughout." T. F. O.
+ Churchman 156:19 D 15 '42 90w

"Horse lovers are not the only readers who will enjoy this story of his training and his Army service, by a writer who knows Army posts and military life. The drawings are accurate as well as animated." A. M. Jordan
+ Horn Bk 18:426 N '42 70w

"Recommended for all libraries." J. E. Stromdahl

+ Library J 68:38 Ja 1 '43 70w

"Not only boys and girls who love horses but all those who are seeking a good adventure story will enjoy this timely book. Bernard Garbutt draws horses well and puts a fine sense of motion into his pictures." A. T. Eaton
+ N Y Times p7 Ja 3 '43 220w

WATSON, MRS KATHERINE (WILLIAMS), ed. Once upon a time; children's stories retold for broadcasting. 263p $2.25 Wilson, H.W. (W) 42-6008

A collection of folk tales, fairy stories, legends, etc. retold and adapted for radio broadcasting. The book originated in the work of the Denver Public Library in preparing a series of children's programs for station KOA.

Booklist 38:270 Ap 1 '42

Wis Lib Bul 38:83 My '42

WAUGH, MRS ELIZABETH DEY (JENKINSON). Simón Bolívar; a story of courage; il. by Flora Nash DeMuth. 326p map $2.50 Macmillan

B or 92 Bolívar, Simón—Juvenile literature (W) 41-27831

This biography of Simón Bolívar, which is at the same time the story of the struggle of South America to throw off Spanish control, is told for readers of junior and senior high schools. Bibliographies.

Booklist 38:178 Ja 15 '42

Reviewed by M. L. Becker

+ Books p8 Ja 25 '42 550w

"Young people of North America will feel him a living figure in the pages of Elizabeth Waugh's book." A. M. Jordan

+ Horn Bk M 18:33 Ja '42 90w

"So romantic a subject must necessarily tax the restraint of an admiring author, but less emphasis on his personal tragedy and greater attention to some of the weaknesses of his complex personality might perhaps have given more point to his historical significance. As a concise evaluation, the account in Men of Power by Carr remains adequate for libraries with limited funds, but large libraries will find this a readable addition to their biography collections. Extensive bibliography but no index." J. L. Sauer

Library J 67:87 Ja 15 '42 100w

"Miss Waugh writes with a touch of the hero worship that such a valiant, courageous and picturesque character readily inspires. She has read widely in Spanish sources, and there is a two-page bibliography of works in English. An index would have added to the usefulness of the book. Flora Demuth's drawings suggest the country and have the stirring quality of the text. For older boys and girls." A. T. Eaton

+ N Y Times p10 F 22 '42 550w

"The dramatic story of a patriot who loved the fandango almost as much as a battle is sympathetically recounted in narrative style. Miss Waugh has included conversational material and intimate details of Bolívar's everyday life in her book. That considerable research has gone into the work, however, is evidenced by the bibliography."

+ Springfield Republican p7e Ja 4 '42 250w

WAUGH, EVELYN. Put out more flags. 286p $2.50 Little [8s Chapman]

42-11453

A satirical story of the opening days of the World war as it affected certain members of the English upper classes. Basil Seal, the idol of three women—his mother, his sister, and his mistress—has his own way of meeting the responsibilities devolving upon him, which tends to become a kind of blackmail. Eventually his better self comes to the fore.

Reviewed by R. M. Gay

Atlantic 170:140 S '42 230w

"Put Out More Flags" was the March choice of the Book Society in England. Like the author's previous novels, it is probably too sophisticated and a little too British to attain the best seller lists in this country. The audience that appreciates this particular kind of writing, however, will rank it, with 'Decline and Fall' and 'Vile Bodies' as Evelyn Waugh's most important work, and that means it falls among the best satirical work done in our time." B. A. Cerf

+ Books p5 My 24 '42 1200w

"Put Out More Flags" remains an exceptional novel, but from a writer as talented as Mr. Waugh we have the right to expect something more than mere facility." William Abrahams

Boston Globe p15 My 20 '42 400w

Cath World 155:381 Je '42 230w

Reviewed by Cuthbert Wright

Commonweal 36:185 Je 12 '42 700w

"The story is amusing rather than convincing, and the impression left is that there is still room for a novel to deal faithfully with Chelsea and Bloomsbury." Charles Marriott
Manchester Guardian p3 Mr 25 '42 70w

Reviewed by Anthony Bower

Nation 154:658 Je 6 '42 550w

Reviewed by Dunstan Thompson

New Repub 107:60 Jl 13 '42 1000w

"Put Out More Flags is to be praised without any reserve so long as the author is at the attack, direct or implicit. The best of the book shows that his commando has little to teach him in the technique of the sharp destructive raid. The Connolly passages, for example, stand among the modern show-pieces of brilliance and economy of means; and each prim recital of military behaviour, from battalion exercise to death in action, emphasises again what we already knew: that Mr. Waugh has a unique gift for pinning down the occasionally memorable astonishment of plain truth." Alan Pryce-Jones

WAUGH, EVELYN—Continued

+ New Statesman & Nation 23:245 Ap 11 '42 850w

"It is very smart and snobbish. Mr. Waugh ranges freely from the noble snobbery of Thackeray to the ignoble snobbery of Michael Arlen. He has phrases that Saki would have envied, scenes that Noel Coward could make a play of, observations that Aldous Huxley might make an essay of. He is, in short, a little bit of everything that has decorated the high society novel, and his only intention, so far as one can see, in keeping it alive in a world of total war is that there is a cynical and comical sort of fun in it, that we should continue to treat the world and our friends and enemies with an amused contempt. . . . Written on a high level of intelligence, it is merely amusing. Mr. Waugh is much cleverer than Mr. Wodehouse, but he has a mind that seems to function nowadays much in the same way." P. M. Jack

+ N Y Times p7 Je 7 '42 650w

New Yorker 18:66 My 30 '42 50w

Pratt p13 O '42

"In 'Put Out More Flags,' the apparently heartless jesting reveals a bitter attack upon the society which made Basil Seal possible in the first place; upon false internationalism, official pomposity, selfishness, blindness, greed, betrayal. It is all very lightly done, but it should not be lightly construed. Just at the end, though, there is a false note. Mr. Waugh has Basil say: 'There's only one serious occupation for a chap now, that's killing Germans.' It is quite impossible for Basil to say this, because Basil is a state of mind not a human being; he is, as Mr. Waugh writes in his Dedictory Letter, a 'ghost.' By the end of the book Mr. Waugh has successfully consigned Basil to Limbo; and by snatching him back at the last moment, he ceases to be an artist and becomes a sentimentalist. But this is a transitory fault in a brilliant and telling book." George Dangerfield

+ — Sat R of Lit 25:7 My 30 '42 600w

Reviewed by Kate O'Brien

Spec 168:336 Ap 3 '42 430w

Time 39:90 My 25 '42 1250w

Times [London] Lit Sup p137 Mr 21 '42 430w

WAY, FREDERICK. Allegheny; il. by Henry Pitz. (Rivers of America) 280p $2.50 Farrar

917.48 Allegheny river (W) 42-15895

Enthusiastic account of a trip down the Allegheny river from Olean, New York, to Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, via an eighteen-foot yawl. The country thru which the river flows, the people who pioneered in that country, and those who live there now form part of the picture. Short bibliography. List of steamboats which have navigated the Allegheny. Index.

Booklist 38:439 Jl 15 '42

"The Allegheny' is perhaps the most river-minded book of the decade, certainly of the series of Rivers of America to which it belongs. In the midst of the throng of historians, poets, et al., suddenly a pilot appears and he knows how to write. Whenever he goes ashore—a new habit for him, and good—he brings back worth-while spoil, for the Allegheny has a big story to tell." C. B. Firestone

+ Books p3 Jl 19 '42 750w

"Very readable and entertaining. Recommended." H. P. Bolman

+ Library J 67:532 Je 1 '42 60w

"Rivermen concede that Mark Twain was a good storybook writer, but they make reservations about his knowledge of riverin'. Rivermen know that Fred Way is a good pilot, and they 'low he draws considerable water as a writer, too. To prove it they will pay him the enormous compliment of reading this book, and they, like us, will enjoy both his words and the realistic faces Mr. Pitz puts on his frontiersmen. I can hear them now chuckling away in pilothouses all the way down the Ohio from the 'Point' at Pittsburgh to the 'Point' at Cairo." Horace Reynolds

+ N Y Times p3 Je 21 '42 1450w

New Yorker 18:63 Je 27 '42 50w

"You have a feeling, reading his story of the Allegheny, that Way had a lot of fun writing it. Though he writes in a maturer style than formerly, there is a pleasing, enthusiastic nonchalance of manner in the recounting of this story. An undeniable whimsical quality runs throughout his yarn. And if, at times, that whimsicality does have a pronounced tendency to get out of hand, Way at once atones by recounting some valuable interest-holding incident, historical or otherwise; or some story of the 'tall tale' variety which he has picked up among the old river men of his vicinity." G. L. Eskew

+ Sat R of Lit 25:9 Jl 25 '42 900w

Wis Lib Bul 38:136 O '42

WAYMAN, MRS DOROTHY (GODFREY). Edward Sylvester Morse. 457p $4.50 Harvard univ. press

B or 92 Morse, Edward Sylvester

A42-4778

"Biography of the zoologist, author, ethnologist, and founder of the Peabody Museum in Salem and the Zoological Museum at the Imperial University in Tokio." Boston Globe

Booklist 39:120 D 1 '42

Boston Globe p19 S 23 '42 330w

New Repub 107:865 D 28 '42 200w

"Miss Wayman may have overrated the significance of his career. The great discoveries were not his. His drawings, which he could do ambidextrously, and his writings survive, but no doubt the best of him died when he could no longer lecture or converse. But he was a true Maine and American character, and as such worth remembering." R. L. Duffus

N Y Times p2 D 27 '42 1250w

"In American annals Morse is a unique figure and Miss Wayman tells his extraordinary story with sympathy untarnished by even a touch of adulation. If she sometimes condescends to the chronicle of trivialities, she makes up for it by excursions into the classification of the shell world quite sufficient to double the knowledge of this reviewer. Hers is a very human Morse. The warts are in the portrait." Ellery Sedgwick

+ Sat R of Lit 25:32 D 5 '42 1150w

"When one finishes this book he will wonder why he has not known more of Edward Sylvester Morse. 'Without formal education, influence, or wealth, solely by his resolution to perform the work in hand to the best of his capacity, this boy from Maine won distinction among his contemporaries as a zoologist, as a teacher of science, as an authority on ceramics, as a leader in the development of museums, and as a writer and illustrator.' . . . To a great extent, this account of Morse is based upon manuscript materials in the possession of Morse's family and friends. There are many quotations from his lively journal and letters, and a brief but penetrating foreword by Professor Barbour, of Harvard, who knew him rather well."

+ Scientific Bk Club R 13:3 O '42 360w

Springf'd Republican p7e Ja 3 '43 750w

WEAVER, JOHN DOWNING. Wind before rain. 345p $2.50 Macmillan

(W) 42-7972

"This is a story, with the Shenandoah Valley as a background, of a young couple faced with the problem of leaving their worthless farm and trying town life and work in a factory." New Yorker

"Here is a first novel of unusual power and promise. Tough-fibred and tightly written in a style which is concreteness and specificity made absolute, its plot is as free from waste as its diction. As the author grows older he will learn to loosen up his style so that it will not so often suggest a tour de force; but here it is appropriate to his material, which is homely and stark and ultimately grim." R. M. Gay

+ Atlantic Je '42 130w

Booklist 38:309 Ap 15 '42

"The plot of 'Wind before Rain' is skillfully woven into an intense, highly dramatic story. A direct, straightforward narrative moves swiftly toward an exciting climax, yet there is a satisfying amplex in this novel, a richness in characterization. 'Wind Before Rain' has an almost sagelike quality, stemming from its fullness and simplicity." Barbara Woolcott

+ Books p10 Ap 12 '42 480w

Christian Century 59:466 Ap 8 '42 130w

"Readable, though not outstanding; characterization and descriptions good, story thin. Conservative librarians may object to the frankness of the language; otherwise, suitable for any library collection." G. E. Brown

+ Library J 67:225 Mr 1 '42 50w

"'Wind Before Rain' is a simple story of simple folk which by virtue of the teller's art reaches the plane of classic tragedy." Rose Feld

+ N Y Times p6 Ap 12 '42 750w

"It seems impossible to write of the backwoods country without sounding like Elizabeth Madox Roberts, but at least Mr. Weaver's style is pleasantly strange and colloquial, and he makes you like his people."

+ New Yorker 18:86 Ap 11 '42 80w

WEBB, JEAN FRANCIS. No match for murder. 296p $2.50 Macmillan

42-2429

Detective story.

"Even if you are allergic to horses, as is this department, better put this smooth mixture of multiple killing, polo, and love on your list. Mr. Webb, a clever newcomer to the field, has geared his tale to everybody's taste." Will Cuppy

+ Books p13 F 15 '42 160w

Reviewed by Isaac Anderson
N Y Times p24 F 15 '42 240w

"Polo playing scenes well done and murder methods are interesting. Unravelling of plot somewhat confusing and long drawn out. Average."

+ Sat R of Lit 25:18 F 14 '42 40w

WEBB, RICHARD WILSON, and WHEELER, HUGH CALLINGHAM. (Q. PATRICK, PATRICK QUENTIN, JONATHAN STAGGE, pseud.). Yellow taxi. 275p $2 Doubleday

42-13385

Detective story.

Reviewed by Will Cuppy
Books p13 My 17 '42 150w

Reviewed by Isaac Anderson
N Y Times p21 My 24 '42 200w

"Nice story, made utterly delightful by one of the most enchanting children in fiction, Dr. Westlake's daughter Dawn, who has the clue to the mystery from the start."

+ New Yorker 18:68 My 30 '42 70w

WEBB, SIDNEY, and WEBB, MRS BEATRICE (POTTER). Truth about Soviet Russia. 128p $1.50 (pa 2s 6d) Longmans

947 Russia—Politics and government. Communism—Russia

"This summary of the conclusions reached by the Webbs on the internal organization of the Soviet Union (1941-1942) is reprinted with modifications and additions from the Introduction to the reissue (1941) of their book 'Soviet Communism: A New Civilization.'" Times [London] Lit Sup

"On the question of whether or not Russia is a political democracy, the approach is less than satisfactory. To show the extent and limits of political freedom, the Webbs do nothing more than quote liberally from the constitution of 1936. Whatever the merits of the issue, this is hardly a convincing method. One might just as well base a description of the present state of international relations on all the high-minded treatises of the last ten years, many of which are still theoretically in force."

R. H. Rovere
Books p40 D 6 '42 300w
Boston Globe p21 N 18 '42 320w

Reviewed by Joseph McSorley
Cath World 156:364 D '42 180w

Christian Century 59:1359 N 4 '42 100w

Reviewed by C. L. Willard, Jr.
Churchman 157:16 Ja 1 '43 450w

Reviewed by Leo Gershoy
Current Hist 3:354 D '42 350w

Reviewed by Ralph Bates
Nation 155:516 N 14 '42 500w

"The reeducation of thousands of people who have been carefully educated to see Russia as a menace is going to be difficult, but fortunately not impossible. 'The Truth About Soviet Russia,' while far from being adequate to the great task, is a good start toward this reeducation."

Springf'd Republican p7e N 16 '42 650w

Times [London] Lit Sup p323 Je 27 '42 40w

Reviewed by Michael Karpovich
Yale R n s 32:414 winter '43 420w

WEBSTER, BARBARA (MRS EDWARD SHENTON). Magic water. 398p $2.75 Scribner

42-13729

Story of life in a boarding house in eastern Pennsylvania. "The Waters" had once been an elaborate estate but its mistress, falling on hard times, had converted it into a tea house and country hotel. Many of the "guests" were old friends of Miss Peyton's, keeping up a tradition of old time manners, but there were a few newcomers and a very few young people. The love story of two of these furnishes the main thread of a tale mostly concerned with the doings and characters of aging spinsters and stuffy dowagers.

"Although it is undeniable that Miss Webster has found these people amusing and pathetic, and made them so to her readers, there are indications that she wavers in her creative ardor. Perhaps it is a bit difficult to maintain the momentum of a story in which so many of the characters are going downhill—and from no great past eminence, at that." George Conrad

Books p23 My 10 '42 500w

"This is a fat volume and it is full of meat. Without being drawn completely inside the life of any of the people at Miss Peyton's, the reader has telling, tantalizing glimpses of the inner springs—live and resilient, old and rusty, or sadly twisted—that make them go round. Not in a long time has there been assembled so fruitily a collection of old ladies." Beatrice Sherman

+ N Y Times p22 My 17 '42 800w

Wis Lib Bul 38:138 O '42

WEBSTER, CAROLINE (LE ROY) (MRS DANIEL WEBSTER). Mr W. & I. 264p pl $2.75 Washburn

B or 92 Great Britain—Description and travel. Webster, Daniel

42-50298

"Being the authentic diary of [the author] during a famous journey with Daniel Webster to Great Britain and the Continent in the year 1839; with an introd. by Claude M. Fuess." (Subtitle) The record, kept almost day by day, covers the period from May 18 to December, 1839, and describes their many social engagements with the great and near-great of the day. Notes and index, biographical.

Booklist 39:223 F 1 '43

"'Mr. W. & I' is not one of the world's great diaries—there wasn't enough in Caroline Webster to make it so. But it is a pleasant; agreeable, human account of how a vivacious lady, not lacking in spirit, saw the Britain and the Continent of her time—and a valuable little piece of Americana." S. V. Benét

WEBSTER, C. L.—Continued

+ — Books p2 D 13 '42 800w

"Between the lines, if the reader will use a little imagination (of which there is none in Mrs. Webster's entries), a faint glimpse of the savor and floridity of early Victorian and Louis-Philipian life may be perceived. It is like a far-away mirage, though. Indeed, the personal element is so lacking from this diary that one may well believe that it was intended for eyes outside the Webster family circle. Yet it is interesting as all recoveries, no matter how spare, of the past are interesting." Herbert Gorman

+ N Y Times p28 D 13 '42 950w

"The book has great charm, that freshness and outspokenness often found in the writing of the unaccustomed that reveals so much of the character of its author." E. E. Calkins

+ Sat R of Lit 25:16 D 26 '42 1650w

"The diary does not add to the formal history of the times, and neither does it reveal much about 'God-like Dan!' that wasn't known before, but it certainly brings a great American closer to his countrymen and thereby performs a sentimental service that in the long run is perhaps more satisfactory."

+ Spring'd Republican p7e D 27 '42 1100w

Time 40:115 D 7 '42 470w

WEBSTER, MARGARET. Shakespeare without tears; with an introd. by John Mason Brown. (Whitlsey house publication) 319p $2.75 McGraw

822.33 Shakespeare, William—Stage presentation. Shakespeare, William—Criticism and interpretation (W) 42-3676

The author of this volume is an English actress who has won no small measure of fame as a director of Shakespeare plays, particularly the productions starring Maurice Evans. Her book includes chapters on general principles of Shakespeare production, notes on Elizabethan stages and actors, and comments on the problems of individual plays.

Reviewed by Wilson Follett

Atlantic Mr '42 160w

Booklist 38:230 Mr 1 '42

Bookmark 3:9 My '42

"One of the best books written about Shakespeare in this century." Mark Van Doren

+ Books p5 F 8 '42 750w

Reviewed by M. C. Livingston

Cath World 155:369 Je '42 750w

"Her style is informative, quotable, chatty, and highly practical. Few of us have not been associated with a Shakespearean production; what Miss Webster has to say cuts away the intrusion of persiflage and false thinking. As good a book as can be found on the subject." George Freedley

+ Library J 67:40 Ja 1 '42 80w

Nation 154:348 Mr 21 '42 240w

"Miss Webster writes lightly, easily and with an abundant sense of humor. For the understanding playgoer there is not an obscure or otherwise dull page in the book. Yet she makes evident a very unusual equipment of scholarly knowledge, both as regards disputed texts and the even more disputable problems of the Elizabethan mood and taste—of the esthetics, often very different from our own, of the greatest drama ever produced on this distracted globe. . . . It is with regard to archaic, or rather unmodern, aspects of Shakespeare that one is most inclined to criticism—or, let us say, discussion." John Corbin

+ N Y Times p8 F 1 '42 1100w

Pratt p18 O '42

"Miss Webster's book has just the combination of traditional wisdom and scholarship and practical theatre sense that her direction has consistently exhibited. . . . It is with a fresh and honest mind, an invincible integrity, that Miss Webster has performed her newest Shakespearean task—that of presenting on the written page the unlimited adventure encompassed by the one word—Shakespeare." Rosamond Gilder

+ Theatre Arts 26:282 Ap '42 550w

WEBSTER, NOAH. Dictionary of synonyms. 907p $3.50; thumb indexed $4 Merriam

424 English language—Synonyms

(W) 42-22206

"A dictionary of discriminated synonyms with antonyms and analogous and contrasted words." An introductory survey of the history of English synonymy precedes a list of thousands of synonyms, with short articles explaining meanings and usage, and illustrative quotations. Authors quoted are listed with identifying notes at the end of the text." Booklist

Booklist 39:64 N 1 '42

Bookmark 4:3 N '42

"A more fascinating book, for one to whom words have any attraction, it would be hard to find. As the preface puts it, these lists are not for mere word-finding by those with but a vague notion of what they are looking for."

+ Books p18 D 13 '42 380w

Pratt p8 D '42

Special Libraries 33:307 O '42

WEBSTER'S Universities dictionary of the English language, being the Unabridged dictionary by Noah Webster; many supplementary vocabularies and articles, several thousand illustrations, atlas of the world; ed. under the supervision of Thomas H. Russell, A. C. Bean, and L. B. Vaughan; newly revised under the direction of Joseph Devlin, Elsie Wright, Josephine McCarter and a staff of eminent scholars, educators, and office editors. 2006,343p buckram $6.95; special art binding ed. with thumb index $8.95 c1940 World pub. co.

423 English language—Dictionaries 41-26411

"Contents: Map section: I. Maps in color (the Americas and Australia); II. Maps in black and white (Europe and the other continents); III. Biblical maps. Outline history of the English language; guide to pronunciation; dictionary of the English language (p.1-2006). Appendix: Population, presidents of the United States; digest and purposes of current federal agencies; dictionaries of biography, noted names in fiction and mythology, foreign words, phrases, etc., pronouncing dictionary of scripture proper names, and of Greek and Latin proper names, dictionary of abbreviations and contractions, signs and symbols, 5,000 words most often mispronounced, metric system, table of weights and measures, commercial and financial terms in eight languages, constitution of the United States, chronology of United States history, and of Canadian history, a world of facts, the World war, literature, painting and sculpture." Subscription Bks Bul

"New words seem well represented. Pronunciation or diacritical marks are on the main entry word with only an occasional word repelled. Etymology of the important words is given with the latest antecedent first, after the word defined. Many obsolete words are included. A complete set of new electroplates was made, according to a letter from the publisher. However, in the copy examined, the print is uneven in blackness. Many of the illustrations are indistinct with unnecessary background, some too simplified. The paper is of a poor quality. . . . Since there are other dictionaries in this price range which will prove more satisfactory Webster's Universities Dictionary of the English Language is not recommended."

— + Subscription Bks Bul 12:55 O '41 900w

WEIGERT, HANS WERNER. Generals and geographers. 273p $3 Oxford

320.1 Geopolitics

42-51068

"Subtitled: The Twilight of Geopolitics. Outlines plans of Dr. Karl Haushofer and presumable effects on Russia and United States particularly. Dr. Weigert, born in Berlin, holds chair for international relations at Trinity College, Hartford, Connecticut; formerly judge of Federal Court and member of Foreign Division of Prussian Ministry of Justice and member of Prussian Ministry of Economic Affairs, Oxford." (Library J) Index.

Reviewed by Hans Kohn
Ann Am Acad 225:230 Ja '43 900w
Booklist 39:194 Ja 15 '43

Reviewed by Paul Hagen
Books p36 D 6 '42 1550w

"Professor Weigert is another of Hitler's gifts to American colleges, and by no means the least important. . . Apparently what he had in view in writing this book was a popular study which should tell Americans what geopolitics is not, what it is, its importance for the future, and what the relations really are between Hitler and General Haushofer. All four aims have been accomplished in a way that will not only stick in the memory but will start almost any mind working its way along new trails." Paul Hutchinson.

+ Christian Century 60:16 Ja 6 '43 900w
Library J 67:1014 N 15 '42 70w

Reviewed by H. C. Hatfield
New Repub 108:156 F 1 '43 300w

"'Generals and Geographers' is a book where every chapter creates either admiration or strong objection. . . Here are highlights which no other writer has developed before. There is, for example, the approach to Nazi philosophy by way of Oswald Spengler, which constitutes an excellent essay all by itself. There is an interesting, though speculative, insight into army-party relations, and a very fine analysis of the pioneers of Haushoferism inside Germany. The only 'outsider' treated at length is Sir Halford Mackinder and his Heartland—and this treatment does not help the book." J. H. Haas

+ N Y Times p20 Ja 10 '43 470w

"I approached this book somewhat reluctantly; first of all, I did not like the title, for which the publishers are probably responsible, and second, I expected just another book on geopolitics. I liked Strausz Hupé's book on this topic and was afraid to find a mere repetition. Well, I was wrong. The book fascinated me so that I finished it without stopping and even after a period of several days I cannot put out of my mind the importance of its message. . . The value of the book is not only that of a mere analysis but a guide to victory. Only by knowing our opponents well will we be able to bring about more quickly the unavoidable outcome—that of their defeat. May many read this book. It deserves wide attention." S. Van Valkenburg

+ Sat R of Lit 25:10 D 12 '42 950w
Scientific Bk Club R 14:3 Ja '43 130w

Reviewed by Marshall Bragdon
Springf'd Republican p6 D 19 '42 800w

Reviewed by Derwent Whitlesey
Survey G 32:57 F '43 450w

WEIR, ELIGIUS. Criminology; a scientific study of the modern crime problem; introd. by Father Flanagan. 329p $3 Inst. for the scientific study of crime, 404 N. Hickory st, Joliet, Ill.

364 Crime and criminals 41-21312

"Father Weir has had a distinguished career as Roman Catholic Chaplain of Joliet Penitentiary and as a college teacher. His text is conspicuous for its intentional omission of any history of criminology, the absence of quotations from other criminologists, and the inclusion of statistics 'only when at variance with the state or federal figures'. . . This hard-hitting book says the things about crime, criminals, and politics that the insiders know but say only gently or not at all. It talks about prisons as the prisoners know them rather than as they appear in the published official reports." Am Soc R

"Some criticisms seem indicated; the book tries to cover too wide a field. . . From the point of view of the teacher in the lay college there are further objections; the book does not correspond to ordinary textbook organization; the author has no hesitation in saying what should and should not be done about the problems discussed; causation is explained and control discussed in terms of free will and other conceptions of the Church. . . This book will be widely used in Catholic schools; secular ones will find it a stimulating source of outside reading selections. It is certainly a 'must' for professional criminologists." C. C. Van Vechten

+ Am Soc R 7:299 Ap '42 450w
Christian Century 58:1514 D 3 '41 60w

WEISKOPF, FRANZ CARL. Dawn breaks; tr. by Heinz and Ruth Norden; with decorations by Kurt Werth. 291p $2.50 Duell

(W) 42-10944

Story of the German invasion of Slovakia, and of the brutal elite guard methods. The bulk of the book is given over to an account of the sabotage employed by the peasants to break up the German attack.

Booklist 38:427 Jl 1 '42

"Mr. Weiskopf tells his story graphically and with great conviction. He does not stick to facts, but with pre-dated optimism speaks readily of the deteriorating morale among Storm Troopers and party followers, giving a rosier picture in many different ways than the facts warrant and making us feel comfortable before we have a right to be. This does not seem so wise politically, nor does it help the book. But aside from this 'Dawn Breaks' is a fine thought-provoking novel." Marianne Hauser

+ Books p10 Mr 29 '42 700w

"Readable, well written, and, though fragmentary, recommended as an average good war novel." S. E. Sherman

+ Library J 67:268 Mr 15 '42 80w

"The book has a love story, conventional movie stuff . . . but it is never allowed to become obtrusive, and the overpat or grapes-of-wrath symbolism . . . is fortunately kept to a minimum. The real story, however, is the revolt itself and the preparations for it: careful, organized, endlessly heroic, mathematically planned and infinitely heartwarming. Nothing about the book could destroy that stirring climax, not even a translation by the generally competent Heinz and Ruth Norden that is stilted, uneasy, and fills some extraordinarily lovely Slovak folksongs with phrases like 'durance vile,' which this reviewer has not seen in print since Gilbert and Sullivan." S. E. Hyman

+ New Repub 106:468 Ap 6 '42 300w

"Here is a story of human survival in present-day Slovakia. It is fiction, to be sure, but fiction so convincingly based on such facts as have seeped out during the past three years that one sees no reason to doubt the realism of the picture." Drake De Kay

+ N Y Times p7 Ap 19 '42 550w

"Weiskopf is fully familiar with the people he describes so that he can place before the reader true men and women who, although of flesh and blood, with virtues and vices, are filled with an unquenchable thirst for independence. He has written a book optimistic in spirit, enchanting through its simple yet poetic language, through its vivid descriptions of the rough yet beautiful country, and by the many, often strange episodes characteristic of the indomitable Slav race. The translation, including the rendition of the poems, effectively conveys the poignancy of Wieskopf's style." W. A. Alfred

+ Sat R of Lit 25:12 Ap 4 '42 650w

Reviewed by Robert Littell
Yale R n s 31:viii summer '42 30w

WELCH, E. PARL. Philosophy of Edmund Husserl; the origin and development of his phenomenology. 337p $3.25 Columbia univ. press

142 Husserl, Edmund. Phenomenology 42-3046

"The purpose of this book is not only to trace the course of Edmund Husserl's philo-

WELCH, E. P.—Continued
sophic development from his Philosophie der Arithmetik (1891) to Méditations Cartésiennes (1931), but also to give as explicit a statement as possible of what [the author believes] to be the principal tenets of his fully developed 'phenomenology.' (introd) Bibliography. Index.

Am Soc R 7:460 Je '42 80w

"Welch writes lucidly and importantly. His chapter summaries are exemplary. His bibliography is remarkably complete. No one can read this book painstakingly without being immensely stimulated and intellectually enriched." N. F. S. Ferré

+ Crozer Q 19:155 Ap '42 650w

J Philos 39:389 JI 2 '42 600w

Reviewed by W. A. Christian, Jr.
J Religion 23:76 Ja '43 210w

WELCHER, FRANK JOHNSON. Chemical solutions; reagents useful to the chemist, biologist, and bacteriologist. 404p $4.75 Van Nostrand

544.11 Chemical tests and reagents. Solution (chemistry) 42-5727

"The purpose of this book is simply to collect in one place for convenient reference the methods for preparing those solutions most frequently required by the chemist. In order to increase its usefulness, however, much additional information has been included for each of the solutions to supplement the preparative methods. This includes (a) the uses of each solution; (b) the procedure for use of each in all cases where this is practicable; (c) a list of those substances which interfere in making special tests; (d) the sensitiveness of test reagents; and (e) general remarks regarding the keeping qualities, methods of storage, etc., of the various reagents. In addition to this practical information, one or more references has been included for each solution in all cases where a useful citation is available." (Pref) Index.

"Altogether, this dictionary is comprehensive, well organized and represents a good printing and binding job. For all researchers, laboratory technicians and others who frequently use test and special reagents, it should prove welcome. It will be valuable in reducing the man-hours often spent in wasteful, and sometimes futile, efforts to isolate, digest and condense some needed information from the growing vastness of the chemical literature."

+ Chem & Met Eng 49:170 Ap '42 250w
N Y New Tech Bks 27:22 Ap '42

WELD, JOHN. Sabbath has no end; a novel of Negro slavery. 329p $2.50 Scribner

42-5133

Life on a small South Carolina plantation in 1815 forms the background for this novel. A runaway Virginia Negro, Quash, bought from a speculator by a compassionate Southerner, is the central figure. Quash turns out to be a fine worker and repays the white man's trust in him, marries a plantation girl, and altho he is once more tempted to run away, he repents of his action.

"This may not be Weld's finest book; but it is his best story. A great deal of research (despite anachronisms) has gone into it; but it does not suffer from pride of research resulting in overcrowded detail as did his first and extraordinarily impressive novel of a covered wagon of the '50s (the Donner party), 'Don't You Cry for Me.' Here the tale's the thing and both as an interpretation and as a story it deserves commendation." F. T. Marsh

+ Books p4 Mr 8 '42 900w

New Repub 106:438 Mr 30 '42 40w

"Conventional as is the story, there is a good deal in this novel which commands respect. Weld catches the rhythmic locution and the color of Negro speech, the philosophy which guides their lives, the fears which haunt them. He is, indeed, much better in the portrayal of Negro character than he is of white. And in Quash, who is not a hero either in his own eyes or in those of his fellow-slaves, he creates a truly heroic figure, a man who is symbolic of his race." Rose Feld

+ N Y Times p24 Mr 1 '42 550w

Wis Lib Bul 38:69 Ap '42

WELLARD, JAMES HOWARD. Snake in the grass. 250p $2 Dodd

(W) 42-21303

Detective story.

Booklist 39:122 D 1 '42

Bookmark 4:18 N '42

Reviewed by Will Cuppy

Books p23 S 20 '42 200w

"Very good."

+ Boston Globe p19 S 9 '42 50w

"As a first novel, 'Snake in the Grass' shows originality, humor, and inventiveness. The unofficial sleuth is himself mysterious. The atmosphere and 'human interest' would be good if they were kept within closer bounds. This prize-winner can be read with real enjoyment, accompanied by the hope that there will be better structure in the author's next work."

Kay Irvin

+ N Y Times p10 S 13 '42 220w

"Admirable."

+ Sat R of Lit 25:16 S 12 '42 40w

"A profusion of red herrings delays the action slightly, but the learned sleuth's highly individual methods offset minor defects."

+ Time 40:104 O 5 '42 60w

WELLING, RICHARD WARD GREENE. As the twig is bent. 295p il $3 Putnam

B or 92 Lawyers—Correspondence, reminiscences, etc. 42-25852

The author has been a practising lawyer in New York for more than fifty years. At eighty-four he is still leading the National self government committee which he founded forty years ago in order to give young people a chance to understand democracy. This volume is his autobiography, and is an inspiration to all interested in democratic government. Index.

"This autobiography has the pride in achievement to which a successful life entitles an octogenarian, but it has also a fighting spirit in the face of failure which in most cases youth alone seems able to keep up. This gives the record its present lift and permanent value, for his failures, forming a good part of the story, are warnings set to keep other reformers from making the same mistake twice, while the ebullience with which they are set down robs them of gloom." M. L. Becker

+ Books p13 Ja 10 '43 600w

Reviewed by J. K. Paulding

Commonweal 37:146 N 27 '42 310w

Reviewed by H. P. Stokes

N Y Times p3 D 27 '42 800w

School & Society 56:392 O 24 '42 20w

"A stimulating book about Richard Welling, founder of the National Self-Government Committee. . . Readable and interesting."

+ Social Studies 34:47 Ja '43 70w

WELLMAN, FRANCIS LEWIS. Success in court [written] in collaboration with nine American trial lawyers. 404p $3.50 Macmillan

343.1 Trial practice, Lawyers—Correspondence, reminiscences, etc. 41-24017

"In forty years of experience as a trial lawyer Francis L. Wellman has been identified with numerous sensational cases, representing either prosecution or defense. From time to time he has written inspirational and instructive books which explain in detail to the young members of the profession the posture which must be struck, the apparel which must be worn, and the witticisms which must be related to win juries and influence judges. 'Success in Court' contains a selection of episodes from his own career and the careers of such giants of former days as Choate, Evarts, and Butler. Each story, of course, points some moral to the young practitioner. . . In addition to the 299 pages of Mr. Wellman's anecdotalage, there is a section of equal size to which nine ornaments of the bar have contributed brief memoirs of similar tenor." Nation

Reviewed by Isidor Blum
Books p11 Ja 4 '42 430w

"Time invested in the reading of Success in Court will pay handsome dividends to trial lawyers, present and prospective. It is highly recommended." J. T. Cahill

+ Columbia Law R 42:507 Mr '42 1350w

"While 'Success in Court' is not likely to make the mark of the author's earlier work on the art of cross-examination, it is well worth the time required to read it; but reading, not study, is all that it deserves." Peter Woodbury

+ Harvard Law R 55:1237 My '42 850w

"The book is valuable chiefly for the light it sheds upon the methods employed for the ascertainment of truth in judicial tribunals." J. H. Spingarn

+ Nation 154:237 F 21 '42 330w

"The author understands thoroughly what he is talking about and therefore he is able to write clearly and illustratively. . . This volume has the interest of an engaging autobiography, the drama of many detective stories, samples of the wit of many brilliant men. It achieves the expressed hope of its author by realizing the rare utility of combined instruction and entertainment to both the professional man and the layman." M. T. Quigg

+ N Y Times p8 F 15 '42 900w

"Any lawyer who wishes to improve his court appearances could scarcely do better than to assimilate this lively compendium, and then go out and put the trade secrets into practice. . . The treatment here is excellent. Each gentleman concerned sensibly uses a generous amount of example and incident. The result is a graphic and entertaining sermon." J. R. Parker

+ Sat R of Lit 25:21 Mr 14 '42 500w

WELLMAN, PAUL ISELIN. Angel with spurs. 508p $2.75 Lippincott

Shelby, Joseph Orville—Fiction

(W) 42-12034

Historical novel of post-Civil War days, based on the march of General Jo Shelby and a thousand Confederate soldiers and officers into Mexico. Shelby, the "angel with spurs," wanted to join Juarez; his men were for Maximilian, and theirs was the final decision. The love story of Merit Hampton, a young Southern girl, and Captain Clay Bennett, one of Shelby's men, shares the stage with the story of the harrowing experiences of the march.

"One has the impression that the author read up his subject and then sat down and manfully constructed a historical novel while his publishers called steadily for copy. The result is a good job, but one which lacks inspiration." R. E. Danielson

Atlantic J1 '42 220w

Booklist 38:385 Je 15 '42

"In 'Angel With Spurs' Mr. Wellman brings to life this picturesque bit out of the past, making it into a rousing, romantic tale of love and derring-do, tailored to just the right measure for readers who relish a proper blend of action, adventure and history centered about a lovely heroine and a hero with a dash of color to him." J. H. Jackson

+ Books p5 My 3 '42 800w

"Characters vivid, incidents well integrated. Some undiluted realism." Thelma Brackett

+ Library J 67:319 Ap 1 '42 70w

New Repub 106:646 My 11 '42 50w

"Not for nothing has Mr. Wellman made a study of desert warfare, where heat and thirst and exhaustion and disease are as much to be feared as the savage bandits of El Gato. Through his vividly factual account of Shelby's march there is woven like a scarlet thread the intensely romantic and imaginative chronicle of Clay Bennett and Merit Hampton. It is a combination mixed according to formula, but one which few lovers of historical fiction will be able to resist." Margaret Wallace

+ N Y Times p6 Ap 26 '42 850w

"This should have been Jo Shelby's book, the story of his mad and marvelous vision of a Mexico made strong by fifty thousand ex-Confederate fighting men, looking southward for power and glory and empire. He is a solid figure in a book where the central characters are hardly more than type." Paul Engle

+ Sat R of Lit 25:18 My 2 '42 550w

WELLS, ANNA MARY. Talent for murder. 238p $2 Knopf

42-15981

Detective story.

Booklist 39:34 O 1 '42

Bookmark 4:18 N '42

"The whole effect is pleasing enough, if you don't question every inch of the science, and the discovery of the villain is a decided shock." Will Cuppy

+ Books p12 J1 26 '42 150w

"While the story does not work out quite so well as the opening chapter promises, it is, nevertheless, distinctly worth while. This book is not to be confused with an earlier one bearing the almost identical title, 'Talent for Murder,' by John L. Benton. The similarity was, of course, purely accidental." Isaac Anderson

+ N Y Times p16 J1 19 '42 240w

"A psychological story with both frills and suspense."

+ New Yorker 17:60 J1 25 '42 50w

"Good stuff."

+ Sat R of Lit 25:16 J1 25 '42 40w

WELLS, CAROLYN (MRS HADWIN HOUGHTON). Murder will in. 312p $2 Lippincott

42-14743

Detective story.

"Carolyn Wells might have wished the long legend of her tale spinning to turn out in just this way. She left behind one of her best stories in many years, a mystery full of her special qualities and one that all her loyal fans will cherish. It is a Fleming Stone case, of course, and it's a model of Wellsian entertainment in every department—clever puzzle, wise suspicion-casting, elegant detection." Will Cuppy

+ Books p15 Je 7 '42 300w

Reviewed by Isaac Anderson

N Y Times p23 Je 7 '42 140w

"Likeable, if slightly nutty. Characters perform characteristic Wellsian evolutions until solution peeps 'round corner. Agreeable."

Sat R of Lit 25:19 Je 13 '42 30w

WELLS, CAROLYN (MRS HADWIN HOUGHTON). Who killed Caldwell? 282p $2 Lippincott

42-2430

Detective story.

Reviewed by Will Cuppy

Books p13 F 15 '42 130w

Reviewed by Isaac Anderson

N Y Times p20 F 8 '42 180w

"Typical Wells yarn, with logical detecting and lively dialogue—although practised eyes may guess guilty persons' identity rather early. For Stone fans."

+ Sat R of Lit 25:18 Ja 31 '42 40w

WELLS, HERBERT GEORGE. You can't be too careful. 301p il $2.50 Putnam [9s Secker & Warburg]

(W) 42-13386

"The story of Edward Albert Tewler, born [in London] in 1901 and for the time being still going strong. . . This is truly a record of Edward Albert's deeds and sayings from his birth in Camden Town until the abyss opened before his golf-stocking feet in a villa in Morningside Prospect." Times [London] Lit Sup

WELLS, H. G.—Continued

"As satire it would have been all right if Mr. Wells had had more faith in the reader's ability to see what he was driving at. When he throws Twelver aside and writes as impatient, ardent, idealistic H. G. Wells, we go along with him soberly but happily; and when he stays out of his story, as in the chapters about Doober's boardinghouse and especially about Harold Thump, the unappreciated humorist, he is very good indeed." R. M. Gay

+ Atlantic J1 '42 200w

Booklist 38:443 J1 15 '42

"Although he promises at every turn not to stray from 'strictly objective reporting,' Wells effervesces commentary, sarcasm and advice. Like clay pigeons he springs the successive scenes of his hero's career and then turns, gun in hand, to ask, Do you expect me to stand here and not take at least one crack at that? He does not pause for a reply." Milton Ruoff

Books p2 Je 21 '42 1050w

"It is a stimulating idiosyncratic book, and a bad time will be had by all readers who admire the English genius for compromise." Harold Brighouse

Manchester Guardian p3 Ja 9 '42 330w

"It is the thing, nowadays, to consider Wells old-hat, and 'You Can't Be Too Careful' certainly adds nothing new to what he has said in the past. . . But perhaps it is as much a comment on us as on him that we think Wells's 'modernity' so old-fashioned. Something other than sophistication may lie behind our present-day lack of concern with the still-dangerous fundamentalisms—a weariness of spirit, maybe, to which Wells's seventy-six-year-old energy is a rebuke." Diana Trilling

Nation 154:742 Je 27 '42 480w

"The best part of Mr. Wells's talent is his flair for seedy characters and dingy circumstances. He lacks Dickens's genius for the sublimely grotesque, and what is more serious he lacks the blended anger and tenderness which Dickens commanded: too many Wellsian characters are invented in order to be meanly belittled, for nothing but the greater glory of their creator in his other role of intellectual pundit. Pamphleteers are made that way, but not novelists. However, connoisseurs of the Wellsian tract will find You Can't be too Careful as sprightly as ever, and that at least is not to be sneezed at." Desmond Hawkins

+ New Statesman & Nation 23:61 Ja 24 '42 300w

"This novel is something of a surprise, for Mr. Wells has returned, in some measure, to the genre he made famous with the 'History of Mr. Polly.' If it is true, as has been suggested, that the author, reproached with having lost his way as a novelist, has staged a comeback, it must be admitted that the success is only partial, and not because of the author's inability but rather because of his downright stubbornness." John Cournos

+ N Y Times p6 Je 21 '42 1000w

Reviewed by Clifton Fadiman

New Yorker 18:65 Je 20 '42 360w

Pratt p12 D '42

"The honesty and the anger of this book will make themselves felt; they will make us think, if only because we will want to refute the author. And Mr. Wells is not an author to take lightly. He has left upon his time what very few writers leave—and that is, an impression. It is the impression of a fist. A hundred years from now it may well seem ludicrous and it will probably have grown faint: but I think it will still be there." George Dangerfield

+ Sat R of Lit 25:7 Je 27 '42 650w

"The sage is in a very bad temper indeed, and riding all his hobbyhorses, poor useful, faithful hacks, more savagely than of old. He finds very rude words for traditions and pronouncements which still persist in surviving his ukases. It seems a pity if all sweetness has been lost to this great novelist, all patience gone. For without them nothing effective will ever be done for poor homo sub-sapiens." Kate O'Brien

Spec 168:46 Ja 9 '42 130w

Time 39:88 Je 22 '42 1400w

"The record has the humour, the humanity, the unflinching youth and liveliness of the most endearing of the several literary personalities represented in Mr. Wells's opus. It contains some deliciously comic little sketches of character, a few gems of comic incident, a little extravagant fun and much honest and searching wisdom about sex, marriage, parents and children, and the intimacies of human existence generally."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p641 D 20 '41 1150w

WELLS, MRS MAIE LOUNSBURY, and FOX, DOROTHY. Boy of the woods; the story of John James Audubon; il. by Elinore Blaisdell. 142p $2 Dutton

B or 92 Audubon, John James—Juvenile literature 42-11752

Biography of John James Audubon, the great ornithologist, written for children from eight to twelve years of age. While it covers the whole span of his life, the book stresses the years of his childhood in France, and his difficult years of adjustment in America.

"No wonder so much has been written about Audubon for so many different kinds and ages of readers; the romantic appeal of his career never fails. This time he is presented to children at the age level known as 8-12: that is, the book is an introduction, to boys and girls not as yet reading adult or even adolescent literature, of the life and work of one whose acquaintance they may be trusted to carry further on the impetus thus received. . . The pictures are in keeping; large enough to give room for costumes and accessories of the period, and coming at high spots in the action. Junior Bird Clubs should own this." M. L. Becker

+ Books p7 My 17 '42 380w

"The story of John James Audubon is delightfully told in 'Boy of the Woods.' Elinore Blaisdell has made pictures for the book that carry the spirit of the story and the time."

F. B. Sloan

+ Christian Science Monitor p10 S 28 '42 140w

"Audubon's dreams and ambitions, his fearless spirit of adventure, his unflinching zeal to portray every American bird, all arouse a sympathetic response. So, too, does the unselfish devotion of his family, through many years of privation. Each of Elinore Blaisdell's exact and graceful drawings gives reality to place and period and lends charm to the book." A. M. Jordan

+ Horn Bk 18:262 J1 '42 100w

"Recommended for all libraries. For younger readers than Constance Rourke's Audubon." J. E. Wooster

+ Library J 67:416 My 1 '42 90w

"The authors write of their hero with vividness and sympathy, in a style animated and interesting, but always dignified and never condescending." A. T. Eaton

+ N Y Times p8 J1 19 '42 420w

New Yorker 18:79 My 23 '42 70w

Wis Lib Bul 38:191 D '42

WELLS, PETER. Mr Tootwhistle's invention [il. by the author]. [32p] $1 Winston

(W) 42-13308

Picture-story book about Mr Tootwhistle who owned a railroad, in the early days of railroads, and could not understand why the train was often late. One day he took the trip himself and after pushing cows and other livestock off the track all day he decided to invent something. That invention was a blessing from that day forth. For quite young children.

"If children laugh as loudly over this book as two secretaries and an editor did when it came into this office, parents will make them read it out in the yard. . . Mr. Wells enjoys himself so completely that any one else will do so too. He puts so much into every picture that one can laugh over it for minutes at a time, which is what small children love to do. If the comics were like this, there would be no trouble over them." M. L. Becker
+ Books p9 My 10 '42 300w

"Founding it on fact, author-illustrator has made most amusing story-picture book of scene from railroad beginnings. Pictures, somewhat in Bemelmans manner but better, are colorful and decidedly funny." D. M. MacDonald
+ Library J 67:477 My 15 '42 80w

"Train books of all kinds are inevitably fascinating to the young and when you add to that subject pictures which in abundance of lively detail and humor, put the comics to shame, you have a volume which will likely call for a continuous performance of readings." E. L. Buell
+ N Y Times p8 Je 7 '42 220w

WELLS, SUSAN. Death is my name. 232p $2
Scribner 42-4719
Detective story.

Booklist 38:331 My 1 '42

"Harmless and easy to read yarn with familiar gambits and stylish trimmings. And how do you like these gruesome titles? Neither do we." Will Cuppy
Books p21 Mr 8 '42 90w

"This one is full of action. It's well written, too." K. I.
+ N Y Times p22 Mr 29 '42 240w

"Shifting viewpoints of uninteresting collection of people further muddles an involved plot. On the short side."
— Sat R of Lit 25:21 F 21 '42 40w

WELTY, EUDORA. Robber bridegroom. 185p
$2 Doubleday (W) 42-23596

Combination of fairy tale and ballad story about a bandit chief and Rosamond, the beautiful daughter of a Mississippi planter. Among the characters is one named simply Goat, because he could butt his way into and out of anything. There is Mike Fink, too, the Paul Bunyan of the rivermen; and there are Little Harp and Big Harp, a weird pair of brothers.

Booklist 39:103 N 15 '42

"There is a lightheartedness in this book, an easy welling poetry of pleasure, that only a very young writer can know, a writer not too far from the myths of her childhood, but now in gleeful satiric command of them. Here, and not in the synthetic cuteness of the costume romance, is what so many have been trying to capture by dint of will and bibliography alone—the lost fabulous innocence of our departed frontier, the easy carelessness, the fond bragging and colossal buckskin strut. And Miss Welty can capture it only because she is not trying to produce historical chromos at all, only because she is writing out of a joy in the world she has restored, and with an eye toward the comedy and poetry embedded in it." Alfred Kazin

+ Books p19 O 25 '42 1200w

"Reproduces in an American setting the matter-of-fact naïveté of an old ballad in a tale of violent deeds and unreal situations. Delightful entertainment for reader who will enter into the spirit of make-believe. Some passages of beautiful writing." Emily Garnett
+ Library J 67:795 S 15 '42 80w

"This is prose whose eyes are a little too childishly wide; it is a little too conscious of doing something daring and difficult. Miss Welty is being playful and that is perfectly all right, but she is also aware of how playful she is and that is wearisome. . . In short, she has written one of those fabrications of fantasy which have so tempted two other gifted women of our time—Elinor Wylie with her 'The Venetian Glass Nephew' and her 'Mr. Hazard and Mr. Hodge,' and Virginia Woolf with her 'Orlando,' very artful and delicate works, very remote and aloof, though passionately connected, in secret ways, with the lives of the authors themselves, and very exasperating in their inevitably coy mystification." Lionel Trilling

Nation 155:686 D 19 '42 490w

Reviewed by J. P. Bishop

New Repub 107:646 N 16 '42 750w

"It is a modern fairy tale, where irony and humor, outright nonsense, deep wisdom and surrealist extravaganzas become a poetic unity through the power of a pure, exquisite style." Marianne Hauser

+ N Y Times p6 N 1 '42 800w

"If this is a dream, it is one of the gay, soaring kind, without a breath of nightmare and with humor as sly and irresistible as anything in 'Candide.' For all her wild, rich fancy, Miss Welty writes prose that is as disciplined as it is beautiful."

+ New Yorker 18:82 O 24 '42 100w

"The whole thing is a miracle of imagination, done with a prose forged especially, it seems, for this, in simple, singing sentences like struck notes of music. Perhaps you will not like it, since it really means nothing, tells nothing, is only an experience. Miss Welty will probably not do it again, having done it once. She seems a writer dedicated to experiment and imagination, with her subject matter unpredictable and fine writing her only constant." N. L. Rothman

+ Sat R of Lit 25:16 N 14 '42 340w

"A special kind of delightful airy madness. Miss Welty has brought the habiliments of fairyland and folklore to the Mississippi valley and made them indigenous. Certainly Rosamond's stepmother, 'who walked like a shadow across the sun' is straight out of Snow White, and the creatures in the book such as Little Harp and Big Harp, not to mention the amazing Goat, are imaginative figments close kin to the monsters and weird people of Scandinavian mythology. But there is more to the story than the transplanting of folk tales, for its first charm is the seductive prose style of the author. Miss Welty uses the magic of metaphor and simile like a lyric poet, and writes with a limpid purity, and exquisite sense of descriptive coloring that gives a warm glow of beauty to a fantastic and, unfortunately sometimes tiresome story." L. S. Munn

+ Springfd Republican p7e N 22 '42 550w

Reviewed by Robert Littell

Yale R n s 32:xii winter '43 20w

WENDT, GERALD. Chemistry. (Sciences: a survey course for colleges) 300p il $2.25; college ed $1.75 Wiley

540 Chemistry 42-4821

Introduction to some of the important aspects of chemistry. "It embodies a selection of the principles that are most important and far-reaching, of the topics that play the greatest part in modern life. It is intended for the student, whether in college or not, who will some day be a business man, a teacher, a banker, a journalist or statesman, a housewife or head of a family—in short for all citizens of a democracy in an age of science. It is not intended for the training of professional chemists, though undoubtedly many who study these pages will so come under the spell of the subject that they will turn to more technical books and courses." (Pref) Bibliography. Glossary. Index.

Booklist 38:326 My 1 '42

Reviewed by G. W. Gray

Books p17 Je 14 '42 150w

N Y New Tech Bks 27:38 Jl '42

"While this work does not contain the numerous laboratory exercises and experiments usually associated with traditional chemistry texts, it should, nevertheless, prove extremely beneficial in developing a good basic understanding and appreciation of the science in its main branches and problems. The book is well organized and is written so the average student can grasp its contents." C. B. M.

+ Springfd Republican p8 Ap 29 '42 170w

WENGER, HERMANN LESLIE, and SENSE, ELEANORA. First aid primer. 104p il $1 Barrows

614.8 First aid in illness and injury (W) 42-8958

Supplements the standard Red cross first aid with some more recent phases, and includes some instructions on civilian defense, emergency feeding, blackout instructions, and nutrition.

Bookmark 3:8 My '42

Reviewed by Emmet Crozier

Books p14 My 24 '42 30w

J Home Econ 34:685 N '42 20w

Wis Lib Bul 38:94 Je '42

WENNER, RALPH RICHTER. Thermochemical calculations. 384p $4 McGraw

536.7 Thermodynamics. Thermochemistry 41-16034

"The author, who specifies that this is not intended as a textbook, nor a comprehensive presentation of the principles of thermodynamics, has brought together such information required to make up for deficiencies by demonstrating methods for applying thermodynamic principles to a wide variety of practical laboratory and technological problems. However, the book contains sufficient thermodynamic material of primary interest to chemists and chemical engineers engaged in academic or industrial work." N Y New Tech Bks

"We believe the book will serve a very useful purpose for those whose primary object is to get the answer to some problem even though they do not have time to become interested in many of the basic principles involved. At the same time the presentation of the practical applications should prove interesting and useful to all investigators in this field." W. F. Giauque

+ Am Chem Soc J 64:1237 My '42 550w

"This book could well be used as a text for a graduate course in chemical engineering thermodynamics, and as a thorough treatment of applied thermodynamics it is a 'must' for the chemical engineer who needs a summary of the present state of the art." G. F. Kinney

+ Chem & Met Eng 48:181 N '41 330w

"The reviewer regards Thermochemical Calculations as a valuable contribution to the literature." Merle Randall

+ J Phys Chem 46:337 F '42 '250w

N Y New Tech Bks 27:13 Ja '42

WENSTROM, WILLIAM HOLMES. Weather and the ocean of air; il. with phot. by the author and others and with sketches by Richard W. Tritt. 484p $4.50 Houghton

551.5 Atmosphere. Weather forecasting. Meteorology (W) 42-36105

"This semi-popular discussion of the weather interprets the science for intelligent laymen and amateur aerologists. Chapters explore the great advances made recently in weather analysis and forecasting, the results of research, the role of the sun in weather variations, and weather in the air, on the water, in industry, and in agriculture. Some personal experiences in high altitude flying are recorded. Weather maps; many photographs." (Booklist) Index.

Booklist 38:248 Mr 15 '42

Bookmark 3:6 My '42

"Major Wenstrom's book, although a good introduction to a science, is more than that—it has a touch of the older school of autobiographical naturalists. The beauty of towering sun-struck cumulus and the terror born of its lightning—to the pure scientist, these are nothing. To Major Wenstrom they are admittedly a great deal. Not only does he omit mathematics from his book, but he boldly belittles and scorns it. Many of the most interesting parts of the book are autobiographical. Major Wenstrom has loved and followed weather, as an artist might love and follow beauty." G. R. Stewart

+ Books p8 Mr 15 '42 650w

Reviewed by Otto Zausmer

Boston Globe p19 My 27 '42 100w

Cleveland Open Shelf p7 Mr '42

N Y New Tech Bks 27:46 Jl '42

"It is an excellent book—one of the most readable, original and authoritative works on weather forecasting that this reviewer has seen. The writing is modest." H. M. Davis

+ N Y Times p17 My 17 '42 750w

"With weather forecasting restricted for the duration, it is particularly advantageous to have available, in a single volume, information that will help the individual to understand air strata and their effects on terrestrial weather, and make it possible for him to make his own weather predictions. Major Wenstrom is eminently qualified to present this information for among his other military activities he was meteorologist at Bolling Field for three years before his recent retirement. . . Illustrated by photographs by the author and others, and by sketches by Richard Tritt, this is an attractive as well as an essentially informative volume. Major Wenstrom has added more than his bit to our defense literature." A. H. Compton & others

+ Scientific Bk Club R 13:1 F '42 1250w

Wis Lib Bul 38:65 Ap '42

WENTWORTH, PATRICIA, pseud. (MRS G. O. TURNBULL). Pursuit of a parcel. 315p $2 Lippincott

42-12312

A tale of spies and international intrigue in Holland and England in the last months of 1940.

Booklist 38:385 Je 15 '42

"This is a 'must' for timely readers." Will Cuppy

+ Books p18 Ap 19 '42 230w

Reviewed by Elizabeth Hull

Boston Globe p15 My 20 '42 100w

"Not many of the numerous current spy stories have been so well integrated or so competently written as this one." Isaac Anderson

+ N Y Times p17 My 3 '42 200w

"Good thriller."

+ Sat R of Lit 25:20 My 2 '42 40w

WERFEL, FRANZ V. Song of Bernadette; tr. by Ludwig Lewisohn. 575p $3 Viking

Bernadette Soubirous, Saint—Fiction

(W) 42-10430

"On February 11, 1858, a poor, miserable, asthmatic, rather dull-witted, but imaginative fourteen-year-old girl, Bernadette Soubirous, had a vision of a 'beautiful lady,' a vision later declared by the Church to be a true evocation of the Holy Virgin. In the last days of June, 1940, the author Franz Werfel, in desperate flight from the Nazis, found himself at Lourdes. In the extremity of his distress he vowed that he would someday write the story of Bernadette so that he might magnify, even in our inhuman era, 'the divine mystery and the holiness of man.' 'The Song of Bernadette' is the fulfillment of that vow." New Yorker

Appeared on Best Seller list in: Books (34) BM (1) B & T (1) N Y Times (24) PW (13) RB (8) W (1)

Reviewed by R. M. Gay

Atlantic Je '42 250w

Booklist 38:347 My 15 '42

Bookmark 3:17 My '42

"Although we need not accept the miraculous events of the story to enjoy 'The Song of Bernadette,' Werfel, as philosopher or as poet, is sympathetic to them. His love for the saint transforms a historical novel into a prose lyric that he may justly call a 'song,' one in which the religious tone seems authentic. The beauty and 'poetry' of Werfel's prose are apparent in the simple colloquial translation of Ludwig Lewisohn." W. A. S. Dollard

+ Books p5 My 10 '42 1250w

"Franz Werfel has made a truly remarkable book. Instead of piecing together his tale from shadowy legend, he has struck sparks of life from the hardened substance of fact. 'The Song of Bernadette' is a work of uncanny creative skill." Ruth Boorstin

+ Boston Globe p19 My 13 '42 400w

"Judged simply as a novel, the result is highly satisfactory. The style is pleasant and varied, and it is very easy to forget that the English version is a translation from the German. Most of the characters are vital individuals, even where they have been introduced to typify groups and classes of French society. The plot is fascinating, and the author's development of it is a dramatic triumph. Unquestionably Franz Werfel has given us a novel of great distinction." R. N. Beattie

+ Canadian Forum 22:124 J1 '42 450w

"The Song of Bernadette is calculated to do an immense amount of good. For though Franz Werfel tells us that he is a Jew and not a Catholic, so far as I can see his novel is as thoroughly Catholic in general tone as anything can be, despite errors in detail, natural enough to one not perfectly familiar with Catholic usage. But this is a small matter; the more important fact is the beautiful religious spirit that has given us what is, in my estimation, a really great work of art." Theodore Maynard

+ Cath World 155:368 Je '42 500w

Christian Century 59:1089 S 9 '42 200w
Cleveland Open Shelf p12 My '42

"Franz Werfel has written not merely an extraordinary book but one that is, so far as I know, unique. Now and then it has happened that the life of a saint has been told in the form of a novel, usually without notable success. . . . Instead of arguing at all, Franz Werfel has reconstructed the whole scene with such wonderful art that it seems to me impossible for anybody to read his book without being completely convinced of the reality of the series of apparitions of Our Lady seen by the fourteen-year-old girl in 1858. To make it all the more remarkable, he says that he is a Jew and not a Catholic, and that his work has been performed in fulfillment of a vow." Theodore Maynard

+ Commonweal 36:114 My 23 '42 900w

"Reverent approach to universals deeply needed today. Highly recommended." L. M. Kinloch

+ Library J 67:414 My 1 '42 70w

Reviewed by J. D. Beresford

Manchester Guardian p3 N 6 '42 150w

"Werfel has handled the personal story of Bernadette with grace and simplicity. Her character is tellingly rendered, not only in its effect upon others but in direct terms, and her conflict with the world is treated with great narrative skill. In fact, the suspense maintained by Werfel up to the point where Napoleon intervenes to open the cavern is a technical achievement of a high order. In his treatment of the larger story the novelist has perhaps been a shade less successful, if one applies the ordinary standards of fiction. It is only natural that the characters should tend to become somewhat schematic, too much like figures representing certain social forces. But this tendency has been held in check for the most part, and two of the most moving scenes in the book, that of old Lafite in the church and that of Peyramale at the death of Bernadette, involve such characters and suddenly vivify them." R. P. Warren

+ Nation 154:635 My 30 '42 850w

Reviewed by Marianne Hauser

New Repub 106:900 Je 29 '42 800w

Reviewed by Philip Toynbee

New Statesman & Nation 24:412 D 19 '42 700w

"This is a novel of magnificent completeness. Unfortunately the translation is not wholly good. Clumsy phrases ('love-filled consolingness,' 'cognition of mystical coherences') may jostle modern colloquialisms in the narrative ('had a hunch,' 'put on an act,' 'drapes' as noun). But the book's beauty is from within. In it is the fulfillment not only of a single vow but of an earlier consecration. It is the immanent and undying beauty that can face the world's cruelty and evil and still see the triumphant glory of the 'holiness of man.'" Katherine Woods

+ N Y Times p3 My 10 '42 1550w

"It is extremely difficult to judge this book. Its heart is a miracle, and that heart does not beat for all ears. Werfel, a Jew with a profound sympathy for Catholic emotion and Catholic doctrine, never quite admits a strict belief in the reality of Bernadette's vision, but to all intents and purposes he accepts it. He might deny this interpretation. Perhaps he would say that for him Bernadette's whole-souled attachment to her 'beautiful lady' is so supernal that it is a miracle in itself and capable of engendering other miracles, of the sort the dogmatic rationalists call faith cures. For him, he might declare, the miracle is not Bernadette's vision, it is Bernadette." Clifton Fadiman

New Yorker 18:72 My 16 '42 650w

Pratt p12 D '42

"'The Song of Bernadette' is written in a matchless prose that ranks equally with 'The Forty Days of Musa Dagh.' It is less monumental a task. But while the 'Forty Days' were a fully orchestrated symphony, apt to overwhelm the listener, 'The Song of Bernadette' enchants us with the magic of children's voices, raised in a medieval hymn." R. R. Plant

+ Sat R of Lit 25:5 My 9 '42 1150w

Reviewed by Kate O'Brien

Spec 169:464 N 13 '42 170w

Time 39:90 Je 8 '42 1050w

"Herr Werfel is not a Roman Catholic, and as a novelist his imagination dwells upon the peasant girl who saw visions in the rock cavern, not upon the sanctified name of later years. But nobody could show more scrupulous delicacy where religious susceptibilities other than his own are concerned, or indeed explore with greater sympathy the verities of spirit beneath the appearances of sense."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p545 N 7 '42 1000w

Wis Lib Bul 38:98 Je '42

WERNER, MAX, pseud. The great offensive; the strategy of coalition warfare; tr. by Heinz and Ruth Norden. 360p $3 Viking

940.5401 World war, 1939—Campaigns and battles. Strategy (W) 42-22935

A summary of World War II from June 21, 1941 to midsummer of 1942, in which three quarters of the space is devoted to the German-Soviet war. Part one deals with the campaigns and battles of the Eastern front in considerable detail; part two takes up the problems of the German-Soviet war; and parts three and four discuss, respectively, the war in the Atlantic and the Pacific, and the strategy of the war of coalition.

Booklist 39:68 N 1 '42

"With all its excellence, this book has certain limitations. Mr. Werner is pre-eminently a student of European land warfare. He approves the bombing of industrial objectives, but seems to have little confidence of achieving major strategic results thereby. . . . Air assault on enemy industry and transport is already a major strategic factor in disrupting the production and movement of material. In certain war theaters it may yet prove to be the decisive factor. Similar criticism might be made of the author's under-valuation of sea power. With this cautionary word the book is strongly recommended. It will certainly contribute much to a clearer understanding both of the war to date and of the task ahead." Harold Sprout

+ — Books p5 O 4 '42 1050w

Reviewed by H. W. Harris

Boston Globe p19 O 28 '42 600w

Christian Science Monitor p18 D 30 '42

440w

WERNER, MAX—Continued

"Mr. Werner grows in strength with every book he writes. . . In the present work there is so much that it is not merely good but positively brilliant that it is useless to seize upon more than the central excellence from which all its other good qualities derive. . . This reviewer does not accept certain essentials in the author's exposition. Mr. Werner, for instance, makes an incorrect use of Von Loeb's masterly article on defense, and he does not realize to quite what extent the conception of the so-called Archangel-Astrakhan line was fundamental to the original German war plan. But if Mr. Werner is correct in his main points, and I am certain he is, Hitler's intention, lucidly described in Alvarez del Vayo's article in The Nation, Fortress Europe, has already been frustrated." Ralph Bates

+ — Nation 156:101 Ja 16 '43 650w
New Repub 107:450 O 12 '42 1900w

Reviewed by J. R. Newman
New Repub 107:583 N 2 '42 1400w

"The appearance of Max Werner's long-awaited sequel to his 'Military Strength of the Powers' (1939) and his 'Battle for the World' (1940) must be regarded as an event of some importance. He alone has been consistently right in his analysis of the Russo-German War. . . Werner's skill in analyzing the Russo-German military operations does not, however, extend equally to the field of war industry, communications and supply. Here, of course, the essential facts are not available. Nor does he appear to equal advantage in outlining the great offensive which the United Nations must launch in order to exploit the weaknesses in the Axis military position created by the tenacious resistance of the Red Army."

+ — N Y Times p3 O 4 '42 1400w
New Yorker 18:75 O 10 '42 70w

Reviewed by R. E. Dupuy
Pol Sci Q 57:628 D '42 250w

"The value of Mr. Werner's book resides in his accurate presentation of the course of the Russo-German war in 1941. It is certainly the most complete and best documented we have yet seen, and many useful lessons can be drawn from his detailed description of the operations on the Eastern Front. . . Careful editing after translation from the original German would have vastly improved this book, which is throughout prolix and reiterative in the approved and traditional German style. As a historical document it will find its place, but it offers little guidance on strategic thinking." Murray Harris

+ — Sat R of Lit 25:9 O 17 '42 1950w
Springf'd Republican p7e N 8 '42 440w

WERTENBAKER, THOMAS JEFFERSON.
Golden age of colonial culture, 171p $3 N.Y. univ. press

973.2 U.S.—Civilization. U.S.—Social life and customs 42-19965

"The mid-eighteenth century was the 'golden age' of American Colonial culture. . . In a series of urbane essays Mr. Wertenbaker has described the social and cultural life of six Colonial towns: Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Annapolis, Williamsburg and Charleston. In all of these towns he finds indications of sophistication that contrasted oddly with the simple life of the back country, in all of them refinement, taste, intellectual activity, in most of them an intense interest in education, a delight in literature and drama, and important contributions to science." Books

"The chief virtue of this book lies in the skillful way Professor Wertenbaker has synthesized a wide range of monographic and source material and the care he has taken to formulate his conclusions. Attractive both in format and in style, this is a charming volume." S. I. Pomerantz

+ Am Hist R 48:422 Ja '43 450w

Booklist 39:199 Ja 15 '43
Reviewed by H. S. Commager
Books p24 N 1 '42 1400w

Christian Science Monitor p12 O 31 '42 750w

"Thoughtful reading; well written and interesting. Recommended." M. A. Gray
+ Library J 67:533 Je 1 '42 110w

Reviewed by K. B. Murdock
New Eng Q 15:732 D '42 750w
Social Studies 33:336 N '42 20w

WERTENBAKER, THOMAS JEFFERSON. Old South. (Founding of American civilization, v2) 364p il $3.50 Scribner

917.5 South—Civilization (W) 42-12383

"This book discusses and studies the origins of the people who came to the Southern colonies, the characters of the civilizations they brought with them, the influence of the South itself upon them, the way one culture affected another, the emergence of new civilizations in the fertile plains of Maryland, Virginia, the Carolinas and the great Appalachian region. It gives the mould into which the various colonizing nationalities—not only English, but also German, Scotch-Irish, Swiss, Scotch Highlander and many others—were poured, emerging as the culture of the Old South." (Publisher's note) Index.

"Here is a delightfully interesting book in which the author has combined the talents of artist and social historian. . . A distinct virtue of this book is that it confutes many of the widely accepted but erroneous conceptions of social life in the old South and adds no new ones. . . Whether or not one agrees with the author's contention that the South of today can be understood only if there is a real comprehension and appreciation of southern colonial life, one has to commend the skill with which this study of the old South is constructed. The material is carefully selected, meticulously authenticated, and interestingly presented." E. W. Gregory, Jr.

+ Am Soc R 7:894 D '42 700w

Booklist 38:383 Je 15 '42

Bookmark 3:13 My '42

"This volume is fully as good as its predecessor, as interesting, as original and as provocative. Let us hope that Professor Wertenbaker will now turn his talents to a similar study of colonial New England." H. S. Commager

+ Books p10 Ag 9 '42 1550w

"Dr. Wertenbaker's 'Old South' is one of a sequence in the Founding of American Civilization. It is sound. It is balanced. It is a mine of wealth for specialists and it is convincing." W. F. Sands

+ Commonweal 36:139 My 29 '42 500w

"Scholarly, very instructive work, with abundance of facts. Many good plates and drawings showing Southern architecture and everyday life. Recommended." H. H. A. Bernt

+ Library J 67:319 Ap 1 '42 70w

Nation 156:31 Ja 2 '43 120w

Reviewed by H. I. Brock
N Y Times p1 My 10 '42 1200w

Reviewed by H. W. Odum
Sat R of Lit 26:26 Ja 23 '43 700w
Wis Lib Bul 38:96 Je '42

Reviewed by R. H. Gabriel
Yale R n s 32:406 winter '43 490w

WERTH, ALEXANDER. Moscow war diary [Eng title: Moscow '41]. 297p $3 Knopf [10s 6d Hamilton, H]

940.5347 World war, 1939—Russia

(W) 42-11891

An eye-witness account of the early stages of the Russian-German war from July thru the autumn of 1941. The author is an English-Russian journalist who knows Russian thoroly, and so was able to penetrate beneath the surface of events during Moscow's blackest time. The book is written in diary form in order to give it "a more direct impression of Moscow." The author says: "For obvious reasons, I omitted all private conversations with public men in high authority, whether Russian or British, notably with Sir Stafford Cripps. This I regret, for Sir Stafford's constant faith in Russia, even at dark moments, and his proper appreciation of her great role in this war, rendered his conversations stimulating and encouraging." (Introd)

Booklist 38:344 My 15 '42

Bookmark 3:11 My '42

"Of the many war books that are rolling off the printing presses now, there are few that are as illuminating and as heartening as this diary by a Russian-born Englishman. The writer is no Communist, displays neither fervor nor approval of Communist doctrine. His father was a well-to-do engineer and business man in the days of the Czar. Possessions which he might have inherited the Soviets have confiscated. But he is not bitter over the loss of the family property. He sees a new spirit and a new heroism in Russia and salutes them with an unabashed British enthusiasm." Maurice Hindus

+ Books p5 Ap 26 '42 1000w

Reviewed by J. H. Powers

Boston Globe p19 My 13 '42 380w

Cleveland Open Shelf p13 Jl '42

Reviewed by Max Fischer

Commonweal 36:116 My 22 '42 400w

Reviewed by M. C. Scoggin

Library J 67:895 O 15 '42 20w

Manchester Guardian p3 Mr 6 '42 350w

Reviewed by Ralph Bates

Nation 154:631 My 30 '42 1150w

"There are interesting new lights in Mr. Werth's picture. The toughness, the efficiency and enthusiasm of the Russians, one knew or had taken for granted already. Less expected was the gay side to grimness. It was not merely Mr. Werth's temperament that led him to visit the theatres, parks, cinemas and concert-halls of Moscow. All these places of entertainment were crammed with soldiers and workpeople enjoying themselves, and the artistic standards were high." G. W. Stonier

+ New Statesman & Nation 23:180 Mr 14 '42 1100w

"Excellent as the book is, it suffers inevitably from the limitations under which the foreign correspondent in Moscow was obliged to work. There was no access to Stalin or to any other high Soviet official. . . Mr. Werth displays good judgment in not indulging in overmuch speculation about the things which he could not know and making his book a record of what he saw and experienced. . . It is also questionable whether there is such a close psychological kinship between Russians and Englishmen as Mr. Werth suggests. . . But Werth is always stimulating and thought-provoking, even when he does not compel agreement." W. H. Chamberlin

+ N Y Times p4 Ap 19 '42 1500w

"Moscow War Diary" lacks the sweep, the detail, and the excitement of 'Berlin Diary' but is otherwise comparable to it in many respects. Like Shirer, Mr. Werth brings us news that has hitherto been unavailable. He has no sensational revelations to offer, but everything he reports is fresh and warm and vital. Moscow, beleaguered and supremely confident, comes alive in these pages, as it does not, for example, in the cautious, official sentences of Mr. Davies' best-seller." Clifton Fadiman

+ New Yorker 18:74 Ap 25 '42 430w

"Werth's diary is warmly recommended. It will endow the events of yesterday, today, and tomorrow with a new and fuller meaning." Mark Gayn

+ Sat R of Lit 25:13 My 23 '42 950w

"This must be one of the most human books written about Soviet Russia. It does not set out to grind an axe, it tells a story." Godfrey Wilkinson

+ Spec 168:208 F 27 '42 650w

"The main contribution of the book is its vivid and convincing portrait of a people who are fighting hard and know what they are fighting for. In this respect no other recent book can touch it." Marshall Bragdon

+ Springfield Republican p6 My 2 '42 750w

Times [London] Lit Sup p99 F 28 '42 1150w

"Mr. Werth's advantage, and a very important one, is that of a man who was born and raised in the country, who knows the language and is well-versed in Russian literature and history. Consequently, one does not find in his book any of those superficial and erroneous statements about Russia's past and the Russian national character which unfortunately mar Mr. Ingersoll's narrative here and there. On the whole, Mr. Werth's book leaves a deeper impression, and his comment is more penetrating." Michael Karpovich

+ Yale R ns 31:850 summer '42 250w

WERTH, ALEXANDER. Twilight of France, 1933-1940; ed. with an introd. by D. W. Brogan, 368p $3.50 Harper [12s 6d Hamilton, H.]

944.08 France—Politics and government.
France—Foreign relations. World war, 1939—France (W) 42-25077

Omnibus volume containing parts of the author's Which Way France and France and Munich (Book Review Digest, 1937, 1939) the original stocks of which were destroyed in the London bombings, together with a long introductory chapter by the editor. The epilog is based on a book published in England in 1940, with the title The Last Days of Paris. Index.

Booklist 39:204 Ja 15 '43

"Alexander Werth in 'The Twilight of France' has given a vivid picture of what Professor Brogan calls 'the most critical and depressing' period in modern French history. There are many brilliant pen portraits of political leaders such as Leon Blum and Edouard Daladier, but Mr. Werth does not limit his interest to the politicians. He listened to what the people on the boulevards and in the cafes were saying and the remarks of the concierge and the grocer, as quoted by the author, often throw a revealing light on how the French people reacted to the stupendous crisis. Those who want to understand how Vichy came about cannot do better than turn to Mr. Werth's study of the decline of the Third Republic." John Elliott

+ Books p3 N 8 '42 1550w

Christian Science Monitor p22 N 5 '42 450w

Current Hist 3:358 D '42 280w

"Few pieces of contemporary journalism stand re-reading so well, and, as Mr. Brogan says, time has revealed Mr. Werth's 'extraordinary journalistic flair' in spotting the villains of to-day before the rest of the world knew them."

+ Manchester Guardian p3 Jl 29 '42 100w

Reviewed by Albert Guérard

New Repub 107:686 N 23 '42 1300w

"I know of no one who reports better than Alexander Werth. He has an artist's eye for significant detail. His descriptions are never slow, and though he is always direct and personal, he does not make the events turn round the activities of Mr. Werth. There is much art that conceals itself in this easily read, constantly interesting and accurate writing. . . When Mr. Werth moves from the sphere of direct reporting, he becomes very much less interesting. His summary of the reasons for the fall of France is aH, it seems to me, on a somewhat superficial plane." Kingsley Martin

+ New Statesman & Nation 24:130 Ag 22 '42 650w

"The shortcomings of the book are traceable to the author's journalistic background. A correspondent, even of such a highly intelligent newspaper as The Manchester Guardian, must always think in terms of his daily story. As a consequence, although there are some excellent sketches of personalities and observations on a short tour of provincial France, there is rather less thoughtful generalization and intimate depiction of French everyday life than the reader might have obtained if Werth had been engaged in some less exacting profession. As a reference record of contemporary French history, however, the book stands unrivaled. And, unlike most reference works, it is written in a lively, attractive, witty style, full of human touches and worthy of the great country which he describes in a period of temporary weakness and eclipse."

WERTH, ALEXANDER—Continued
W. H. Chamberlin

+ — N Y Times p14 N 22 '42 1100w
"On some men and events, I do not agree with Mr. Werth; but the originality and importance of the book is not there. It is in the details, in the thousand anecdotes, portraits, short scenes, which for anyone who like myself lived through these fateful and deceitful years evokes with such truth and intensity his memories of men and things." André Maurois

+ Sat R of Lit 25:7 N 14 '42 1050w
"If the self-perpetuating capacity latent in Mr. Werth's works on France detracts a little from the freshness of some of the later ones, this will not in a forgetful world detract from either their immanent value or their interest. In the present case this has been enhanced by a 20-page introduction by Professor D. W. Brogan, whose views on France are scholarly and authoritative. Since Mr. Werth's books have been considered individually as they appeared it only remains for the present reviewer to remind other admirers of this author that they can now obtain two of their favorites in one volume with an excellent index."
Bernard Foley

+ Spec 169:90 J1 24 '42 210w
Springf'd Republican p6 D 8 '42 550w
Times [London] Lit Sup p383 Ag 1 '42 90w

WESSMAN, HAROLD EVERETT, and ROSE, WILLIAM ALLEN. Aerial bombardment protection. 372p il $4 Wiley

623.38 Building, Bombproof, Air raids—Protective measures. Civilian defense 42-4247
"The book is primarily devoted to a detailed discussion of those measures which can and should be undertaken to make building construction resistant to the effects of bombing at reasonable cost. Characteristics of bombs, design procedures, present construction practice and proposed modifications, evaluation of shelter zones in existing buildings, air raid shelters, camouflage—all these topics are considered. A brief statement of other engineering problems related to aerial bombardment is also included. Although the treatment is of a technical nature, the material has been presented in such a way that the greater part may readily be comprehended by the lay mind." (Pref) Index.

Booklist 38:229 Mr 1 '42
"The book is undoubtedly an excellent digest of present knowledge and experience and is the outstanding American contribution to the literature on the new and important science of structural protection from aerial bombardment."

+ Chem & Met Eng 49:164 Mr '42 850w
Cleveland Open Shelf p14 J1 '42
"Any engineer, and not a few laymen, will find this book to be interesting and profitable reading."

+ Eng N 128:79 F 26 '42 450w
N Y New Tech Bks 27:36 J1 '42
Pratt p9 O '42

WEST, JAMES EDWARD. Making the most of yourself; the Boy scout trail to the greatest of all adventures; with an introd. by Theodore Roosevelt, jr. 119p $1 Appleton-Century 369.43 Boy scouts. Conduct of life 41-16612
Simply written chapters dealing with the virtues and character traits the author hopes are being developed in the boys of the Boy scouts. The author is Chief Scout Executive, Boy scouts of America and Editor, Boys' Life.

Booklist 38:179 Ja 15 '42
Christian Century 58:1084 S 3 '41 30w
"This book reveals the man who, triumphant over bodily weakness and pain has carried a great work with great spirit; has made beautiful and very human the ordinary things of life; has been a statesman of a world of greater brotherhood." Howard Braucher

+ Survey 78:255 S '42 350w

WEST, REBECCA (MRS HENRY MAXWELL ANDREWS). Black lamb and grey falcon; a journey through Yugoslavia. 2v 629; 633-1181p il $7.50 Viking [42s Macmillan]
914.97 Yugoslavia (W) 41-51964
For descriptive note see Annual for 1941.

"Subtitled 'A Journey Through Yugoslavia,' this monumental work is that rare thing well done—a travel book that is also a history, plus a running commentary which weaves in and out of the pattern at interludes as naturally as a chorus in a Greek play. A political document? Yes, that too; but, above all, a piece of authentic literature, wrought with love, with patience, with the unflinching ardor of a craftsman devoted to a cause. There are no loose ends here; it is all of a piece, and strong." John Cournos

+ Atlantic Mr '42 320w
Bookmark 3:12 Ja '42
Reviewed by Pierre Crabites
Cath World 154:626 F '42 600w

"A book which, for accuracy and charm of observation, and for its insight into causes and people and the circumstances shaping both, is not easily to be matched in the literature of our time."

+ Economist 142:831 Je 13 '42 900w
"One of the most interesting and beautifully written books reviewed in these pages for some time." R. G. Woolbert

+ Foreign Affairs 20:579 Ap '42 90w
"Into the attractive description of a journey through all parts of that diversified country Yugo-Slavia Miss West has woven the results of five years of historical study, fortified by several later visits. Her poetic insight into the character, customs, and arts of the many races that make up the Southern Slavs is the strongest feature of the book, apart from the unflinching competence of the writing." R. H. F.
+ Manchester Guardian p3 Mr 10 '42 250w
Pratt p22 F '42
Times [London] Lit Sup p102 F 28 '42 2900w

WEST, WALLACE. Our good neighbors in Latin America. 388p $2 Noble
918 Latin America—Juvenile literature 42-22436

"A book based on the Good Neighbor programs broadcast over NBC. Adopts the device of an American family, parents and young daughter, who are traveling through Latin America, devoting a chapter each to the various countries. With many illustrations, makes good school material for about junior high level." Wis Lib Bul

"This is really more of a textbook than of a juvenile, but it is easy reading and contains a great deal of useful information." H. L. Binsse
+ Commonweal 37:119 N 20 '42 20w
Wis Lib Bul 38:167 N '42

WESTON, MRS CHRISTINE. Devil's foot. 359p $2.50 Scribner 42-10023

Character sketch of a wealthy American woman, an intelligent and perceptive woman, with a desire to rule other people thru sheer power of personality. After disillusioning experiments with marriage, and with a group of pseudo-intellectuals in Paris, Adrienne Hudson returned to her Maine home, and almost at once became involved with a lazy, young pianist, his village sweetheart, and the girl's father.

"Christine Weston possesses very real talent for injecting mood and atmosphere into background and character portrayal. While her work is intellectual in the sense that she probes deeply into motives and philosophies, she projects her thinking with a compelling drive of emotion. There are times, indeed, in her new book, 'The Devil's Foot,' where the drive and direction of emotion outstrip her objectives. The reader is kept in a state of anticipation which is never fully rewarded. Her main weakness lies in overbuilding the structure which houses her plot. The first dwarfs the second." Rose Feld

+ — Books p12 Ap 19 '42 700w

New Repub 107:30 J1 6 '42 50w

"In the book reviewing trade 'brilliant' is an overworked and possibly rather meaningless adjective. Yet there is no other which half so well fits this novel by Christine Weston, and it has here precise descriptive force." Margaret Wallace

+ N Y Times p6 Ap 12 '42 850w

Reviewed by R. P. Richards

Sat R of Lit 25:15 My 9 '42 600w

WESTPHAL, ALBERT CHARLES FREDERICK. House Committee on foreign affairs. 268p $3 Columbia univ. press

328.73 U.S. Congress. House of representatives. Committee on foreign affairs 42-14927

"To Dr. Westphal has been assigned the task of analyzing the functioning and significance of the House Committee on Foreign Affairs, so overshadowed, in public estimation and in the attention of scholars, by the more important Senate Committee on Foreign Relations. To this end he has utilized the mass of printed government documents and the unprinted minutes and records of the Committee itself, and has had numerous interviews with some of its experienced members. Although the work professes to be primarily a study of the Committee on Foreign Affairs rather than of the House of Representatives, it is apparent that the author cannot restrict his attention successfully to the Committee. . . . Frequently he finds himself dealing with the House of Representatives in a broad way, in relation to the Senate and to the Executive, notably when discussing the questions of embargo and neutrality legislation, used extensively to illustrate the work of the Committee." (Ann Am Acad) Index.

Reviewed by J. M. Mathews

Am Hist R 48:376 Ja '43 490w

Reviewed by E. S. Brown

Am Pol Sci R 36:779 Ag '42 450w

"The index is meager, mostly proper names and page numbers. There is no bibliography—the author says it is all familiar to every American student of government. Although some sections are unnecessarily involved with unwieldy detail, the dissertation is a contribution to the study of government, and, it is suggested, useful and instructive to legislators, particularly to those who suddenly find themselves members of the Committee." S. F. Bemis

+ — Ann Am Acad 223:238 S '42 400w

WEYGANDT, CORNELIUS. The plenty of Pennsylvania; samples of seven cultures persisting from colonial days. 319p il $3.50 Kinsey

917.48 Pennsylvania—Description and travel. Pennsylvania—Social life and customs

42-22055

Fourteen articles on different phases of the life, customs, and scenery peculiar to Pennsylvania. Among the chapters are: Seven old cultures of Pennsylvania; Dutch penmen, town and country; Pennsylvania in print; The spectacle of iron; Certain pieces of silver; Glass from Stiegel's day; and Barbers, bear oil and black art. Index.

"Cornelius Weygandt's latest Pennsylvania potpourri is compounded of pretty much the same ingredients as earlier books by this author. That they are excellent ingredients goes without saying. 'The Plenty of Pennsylvania,' with its varied and informative notes on the 'Samples of Seven Cultures persisting from Colonial Days' in the Keystone State, has something in it for almost every reader interested in history, industry, American antiques, farming, woodland lore and good things to eat." W. C. Weber

+ Books p18 O 4 '42 300w

Library J 67:795 S 15 '42 20w

"The most far-reaching of all the chapters is a delightful yet suggestively thoughtful essay on 'Richness,' not in Pennsylvania only but in all our American heritage. It is because the 'plenty of Pennsylvania' is an important part of that heritage that this charming book should be widely read." Katherine Woods

+ N Y Times p30 O 18 '42 850w

New Yorker 18:76 O 10 '42 30w

Reviewed by Struthers Burt

Sat R of Lit 25:11 N 28 '42 360w

Spring'd Republican p8 O 20 '42 280w

WHEATLEY, DENNIS. Black baroness. 446p $2.50 Macmillan

42-36267

The adventures of a British secret service agent, Gregory Sallust, working in Oslo, Brussels, Rotterdam, Paris, and Rome during those days in 1940 extending from the German invasion of Norway to the fall of France. The black baroness is a fanatical pro-Hitler French woman who is trailed by Gregory from one country to another, as he attempts to put an end to her career of crime.

Booklist 38:443 J1 15 '42

"Here's a necessity for every spy fan worthy of the name. If you met Gregory Sallust in 'The Scarlet Impostor,' or if you didn't, better drop everything and read of his adventures." Will Cuppy

+ Books p13 My 17 '42 470w

"No reader will harbor the illusion, even while under the pleasant spell of the story that this novel is an addition to the permanent literary treasures of the English-speaking peoples. But it is a rattling good tale, full of intrigue and nerve-racking adventure. . . . As a war story dealing with matters of diplomatic finesse and secret maneuvers rather than with hostilities in the open field, this is one of the liveliest and best."

+ Christian Century 59:698 My 27 '42 100w

"Mr. Wheatley's exceedingly fair presentation of the French defeat, as seen through the eyes of an Englishman in closest sympathy with France, could not well be bettered. The inside story of King Leopold's defection, as worked out here with the baroness greatly in evidence, must, no doubt, be added to the fictional side of the ledger; but the consequences are shown in strictly historic and somber fact." J. S. Southron

+ N Y Times p21 My 17 '42 650w

WHEATLEY, DENNIS. Scarlet impostor. 454p $2.50 Macmillan [10s 6d Hutchinson]

[A41-3318]

"A 'thriller' which centers in the historical episode of the attempt to bomb Hitler in a Munich beer hall, and pursues its intricate way across warring Europe through a maze of plots and counterplots, espionage and counter-espionage, sabotage and counter-sabotage." Christian Century

Booklist 38:210 F 15 '42

"It is highly to Dennis Wheatley's credit that 'The Scarlet Impostor' remains a taut and engrossing narrative of the early months of the war, despite the fact that its premise has been time-bombed into shreds." Lisle Bell

+ Books p14 Ja 11 '42 500w

Christian Century 59:22 Ja 7 '42 50w

Reviewed by Rupert Hart-Davis

Spec 164:340 Mr 8 '40 140w

"Exciting reading." G. F. P.

Spring'd Republican p7e Ja 4 '42 210w

WHEATLEY, DENNIS—Continued

"A hero loses neither in charm nor in excitement by being unlucky, and Gregory Sallust may thank his creator for an inventiveness, a fertility of imagination, a sustained power of thrilling narrative and a capacity to make the wildly improbable credible at any rate for so long as the chapter is running, which stamp him as to-day's grand master of mysteries."

Times [London] Lit Sup p113 Mr 2 '40
260w

WHEATLEY, DENNIS. V for vengeance.
394p $2.50 Macmillan [10s 6d Hutchinson]

42-21517

Continues the adventures of the secret service hero, Gregory Sallust. The scene is occupied France, and the time from the fall of France to Hitler's move against Russia. Gregory's friend Kuporovitch and the French girl Madeleine are among the chief characters.

Booklist 39:103 N 15 '42

Reviewed by Lisle Bell

Books p20 S 20 '42 350w

"Dennis Wheatley has written 'The Scarlet Pimpernel' of World War II. His 'V for Vengeance,' with Gregory Sallust as an English agent without portfolio working for the French underground movement, is a fair companion to that similar tale of the French Revolution. It also is a humdinger of a spy thriller."

J. W. Riley

+ Boston Globe p21 N 18 '42 280w

"Being a story of wartime action, it is about 90 per cent male in effective personnel. As a spy thriller with wide-stretching appeal (Nazi and pro-Nazis excepted) it has a spiritedly active French heroine, to whom must be accredited the germ of the plot. Her lover, the Russian Kuporovitch, is Sallust's second in command and unbeatable aide in fighting and undercover diplomacy. Each of the dozens of their anti-Nazi exploits is packed with excitement and suspense. . . . Without a doubt, Mr. Wheatley's best espionage yarn to date."

+ N Y Times p22 S 13 '42 600w

Times [London] Lit Sup p261 My 23
'42 120w

WHEELER, OPAL (MRS JOHN MACRAE).

Ludwig Beethoven and the chiming tower bells; il. by Mary Greenwalt. 144p $2 Dutton

B or 92 Beethoven, Ludwig van—Juvenile literature (W) 43-116

Biography of Beethoven for young readers. It stresses the formative years of his life, describing his great love for chiming bells, his struggles to learn music, his great responsibilities, and skims lightly over his later years, with its discouragements and his deafness. Includes music. For children eight to twelve.

"Nothing quite corresponds in the literature of American childhood to the series of which this is the seventh, and let us say at once, the best. . . . One reason why this is the best of the series is that it had by far the hardest problem to meet: faced with tragedy so stark, blows of fate so staggering, how to present such a career without leaving on the impressionable mind of childhood, a scar sensitive as a wound? The answer is again selection."

M. L. Becker

+ Books p10 N 29 '42 450w

Horn Bk 19:32 Ja '43 80w

"Indispensable as the only life of Beethoven well adapted for preadolescent readers. Fine, understanding." Maude Adams

+ Library J 68:84 Ja 15 '43 70w

"There is an abundance of pictures and, as in the other music biographies, many of the musician's compositions are included. A book that the child who is studying music will find very satisfying and one that will encourage musical interest and appreciation in all young readers."

A. T. E.

+ N Y Times p32 N 15 '42 180w

"Perhaps the best yet in this delightful series of story lives of the composers, and a 'must' for musical children of ten or under. Here again are many examples of the composer's music suitable for the beginning pianist, charming illustrations, and the great spirit of Beethoven rising above poverty and deafness."

K. S. W.

+ New Yorker 18:113 D 12 '42 50w

Springf'd Republican p7e D 20 '42
140w

WHEELWRIGHT, PHILIP ELLIS, and others. Language of poetry. See Tate, A., ed.

WHELAN, RUSSELL. Flying Tigers; the story of the American volunteer group. 224p il $2.50 Viking

358.4 China—Air force—American volunteer group (W) 42-36363

An account of the achievements of the American Volunteer Group who flew and fought for China from December, 1941 to July 1942. In that time their force of seventy to eighty pilots brought down 286 Japanese planes certainly, probably as many more, and killed fifteen hundred Japanese fliers. They protected the Burma Road for more than two months' precious time and gave hope and encouragement not only to China but to their own countrymen as well.

Reviewed by J. G. Bright

Atlantic 170:168 D '42 180w

Booklist 39:100 N 15 '42

"I believe that this book will be the greatest tonic to American self-confidence that has yet been put on the market. It is possible to have too much of that of course; but the book will at any rate have one lasting value. No reader of it can ever again be persuaded, when things go wrong, that the Jap won an advantage because he was a better man. He will know beyond cavil that the decided advantages that we have in the quality of our manpower were forfeited through bad management."

Rodney Gilbert

+ Books p1 N 8 '42 2250w

"Mr. Whelan, radio director of United China Relief, is a one-man encyclopedia on the subject of the Tigers. But he has made it a point not to thrust himself between his men and his readers; this is no over-the-correspondent's-shoulder book on the war. It is exciting, swift in movement, as compact as a pilot's folded parachute and full of as many adventures."

+ Boston Globe p21 N 18 '42 220w

Christian Science Monitor p18 N 14
'42 500w

"The United Nations were fortunate to have this tiny group in Rangoon when the Japanese hit Pearl Harbor, and the A. V. G. itself can count itself fortunate to have Mr. Whelan for Boswell."

F. P. Graham

+ N Y Times p4 N 1 '42 1250w

"Capably and plainly told."

+ New Yorker 18:83 O 31 '42 50w

Springf'd Republican p7e N 8 '42 800w

WHIPPLE, FRED LAWRENCE. Earth, moon and planets. (Harvard bks. on astronomy) 293p il $2.50 Blakiston

523 Planets. Earth. Moon 41-22115

"In a broad way, origin and evolution are discussed, with emphasis upon the origin of lunar craters and the evolution of the planets. Explanations are given of planetary motions and Newton's law of gravitation." Scientific Bk Club R

Cleveland Open Shelf p10 My '42

N Y New Tech Bks 27:5 Ja '42

"Earth, Moon and Planets' is especially well written and covers a subject-matter closest to home."

H. M. Davis

+ N Y Times p9 Mr 8 '42 280w

"An outstanding feature of the book is the superb photographs of the planets made by E. C. Slipher of Lowell Observatory, who has made the best planetary photography ever made. As might be expected, all the planets are included, even some of the photographs of Mars made in 1939 by Slipher in South Africa. A unique feature of the book is The Planet Finder, which enables one to locate all the naked-eye Planets in the sky from 1940-1970." Clyde Fisher

+ R of Scientific Instruments 13:183 Ap '42 170w

Scientific Bk Club R 12:4 O '41 60w

WHIPPLE, LEONIDAS RUTLEDGE. How to understand current events; a guide to an appraisal of the news. 241p $2.50 Harper

909 Current events. Newspapers

(W) 41-52053

For descriptive note see Annual for 1941.

Bookmark 3:3 Mr '42

"This may be a good book (it has its points and it certainly isn't evil propaganda) but it seems primarily a handbook for dolts. If our population of dolts is large enough, and if a reasonable number of them read this book, and if they can understand it, and if they are not dead of boredom by the time they finish, then Professor Whipple will not have striven in vain." Stanley Walker

— + Sat R of Lit 25:25 Mr 7 '42 500w

"How to Understand Current Events" should prove of help in the discovery and appraisal of what is important in the news; how to use the newspaper, radio and movies effectively; and how to avoid the acceptance of false views derived from irrational prejudice."

+ Springf'd Republican p8 F 5 '42 650w

Wis Lib Bul 38:10 Ja '42

WHITAKER, ARTHUR PRESTON, ed. Latin America and the enlightenment; essays by Arthur P. Whitaker [and others] introd. by Federico de Onís. 130p $1.25 Appleton-Century

918 Latin America—Intellectual life. Enlightenment 42-8424

"This little volume is an outgrowth of the discussion of 'Latin America and the Eighteenth-Century Enlightenment' in one of the sessions of the annual meeting of the American Historical Association at New York City in December 1940. Of the essays in this volume, the first four were presented at that time, and are now published with only minor alterations. . . . These essays make some contributions to knowledge, but their main function is one of interpretation of generally familiar facts and their main purpose is to stimulate further discussion by focusing attention on those aspects of their common theme that seem to have a special interest for the present generation of scholars." (Prefatory note) Short bibliography.

"A timely book of stimulating information and a step in the Enlightenment of the United States." John Rydjord

+ Am Hist R 48:206 O '42 300w

Christian Century 59:433 Ap 1 '42 90w

"A small book like this, made up of short papers by experts, all bearing on a particular subject, is a good answer to our Latin American needs." Elizabeth Wilder

+ Social Studies 33:280 O '42 420w

WHITAKER, ARTHUR PRESTON. United States and the independence of Latin America, 1800-1830. 632p $3.75 Johns Hopkins press [22s 6d Oxford]

327.73 U.S.—Foreign relations—Latin America. Latin America—Foreign relations—U.S. Latin America—History. Monroe doctrine 41-18981

For descriptive note see Annual for 1941.

"The author has made an exhaustive study of the monographs relating to the subject, including Latin-American publications often neglected, and his fair and stimulating critique of his predecessors in the field is especially valuable because he has re-examined the principal sources and has made effective use of new manuscript material drawn from South American archives and from this country. . . . The term definitive, once a favorite of reviewers, has become outmoded, but it is not too much to say that Professor Whitaker has done more than any one previous author to clarify our Latin-American relations during the critical period that was in so many ways similar to our own." C. C. Griffin

+ Am Hist R 47:626 Ap '42 700w

"This readable volume is the most comprehensive study yet made of the early diplomatic relations of the United States with her Southern neighbors." W. S. Robertson

+ Am Pol Sci R 36:177 F '42 270w

"Whitaker's book is a valuable complement to Dexter Perkins' work; taken together, the two studies constitute virtually a definitive analysis of the origins of Monroe's famous message." A. H. Kelly

+ Ann Am Acad 220:254 Mr '42 650w

Reviewed by Joseph McSorley

Cath World 154:764 Mr '42 700w

Reviewed by Harry Bernstein

Pol Sci Q 57:312 Je '42 390w

Reviewed by D. W. Brogan

Spec 168:203 F 27 '42 950w

WHITE, MRS ANNE TERRY. Men before Adam. 305p il $2.50 Random house

575.8 Man—Origin. Man, Prehistoric

42-50278

A popularly written account, first of how Darwin developed his theory of evolution, and then of the searchings of his followers, the anthropologists, for the truth concerning man's ancestors. Index.

Booklist 39:220 F 1 '43

"Mrs. White succeeds in making the reader share the discouragements and the triumphs of the men who actually put the story together out of bones and stones and hard thinking. But she does more. She builds up the piecemeal evidence into a good over-all account of the prehistoric evolution both of man's physical form and of his culture. She has omitted technical matter, some of it important and some of it exciting, but she tells the main story. She does not fall into the error of the technical archeologist or anthropologist who often seems to imagine that his readers want to become experts in flint chipping or in anatomical variations." Ruth Benedict

+ Books p5 D 27 '42 750w

"Fascinating study, simply enough done to be recommended generally. Excellent chronology and reading lists." L. M. Kinloch

+ Library J 67:1012 N 15 '42 110w

"The story of the new discoveries that were made and of the skepticism with which they were received is here recorded in such a way that even the least scientifically minded reader can scarcely fail to be interested."

+ N Y Times p3 D 20 '42 500w

WHITE, MRS ANNIE LUCILE (WHITE). Tomorrow is another day. 268p $2.50 Dorrance 42-2018

"When Louise chose the honorable way to escape the eternal triangle she didn't expect happiness, but hoped for peace of mind. So she fled to the Canadian northwest; for though Danny loved her, he had a son he worshipped and a wife who was ill. In the wilderness she found an Indian girl who felt the same way about a 'Mountie.' When the Mountie takes them both along on a man-hunt the arm of coincidence happily iron's out all complications." Springf'd Republican

"Told in simple and amateurish fashion."

Cath World 154:636 F '42 140w

Christian Century 58:1546 D 10 '41 20w

"[This] is 'Ceil White's first novel, and though handled unskillfully at times, it shows some promise."

Springf'd Republican p7e D 28 '41 90w

WHITE, ELIZA ORNE. Training Sylvia; il. by Dorothy Bayley. 133p $2 Houghton

(W) 42-20282

Sylvia, aged nine, came from England, before the war started, to live with her New England relatives. There was a grandmother, two aunts, and a crippled cousin. Before the advent of Sylvia they talked about her training; after she came it was a question as to who did the training—lively, loving little Sylvia, or her older relatives.

"Whenever anything by Eliza Orne White comes in, I read it straightway, and I have been doing this long enough one might think, to know the secret, the formula of her charm. But this one, true to the charm, still keeps the secret. What is there about these little girls of hers—honest, opinionated, warmhearted creatures—that makes them so different from one another and from the girls in any other stories for eight-year-olds? . . . It is a cheerful, spicy family story to do any one good—and, in its own way, as New England as Swansea clam chowder." M. L. Becker

+ Books p9 S 13 '42 350w

"Miss White has been writing for children for nearly fifty years and has the rare gift of understanding them and what they like. She still has a keen delight in children, in their associations with grown ups, in happy family life and has again given us another model—a story set in a typical New England scene, with real people, made so life-like in her book, that we feel well acquainted with them and all their doings." F. B. Sloan

+ Christian Science Monitor p10 N 30 '42 310w

"With her unfailing gift of characterization and keen sense of humor, Miss White has drawn another family circle of grown-ups and children in happy companionship. Dorothy Bayley's understanding drawings are well suited to the text." A. M. Jordan

+ Horn Bk 18:341 S '42 110w

Reviewed by Sonja Wennerblad
Library J 67:797 S 15 '42 80w

Reviewed by P. D. Edie
Library J 67:891 O 15 '42 10w

"Miss White has much too genuine an understanding of human nature and much too keen a sense of humor to make Sylvia anything but a natural, impulsive and very human little girl, whose own happy nature reacted happily on a somewhat staid household where the adults were, however, intelligent and comprehending. A book that girls from 9 to 12 will thoroughly enjoy." A. T. Eaton

+ N Y Times p39 O 25 '42 360w

New Yorker 18:111 D 12 '42 50w

WHITE, ELWYN BROOKS. One man's meat. 346p $2.50 Harper

814 (W) 42-16753

Forty-five thoughtful, witty essays, on a variety of themes, in which the author's memories of his life in New York blend perfectly with the everyday life on his salt water farm in Maine. Many of the articles have appeared in Harpers, or the New Yorker.

"I must say that I find Mr. White's mind a pleasant one to explore. It is as casual as it is friendly, full of odd contrasts and jackdaw fancies. . . Mr. White is very happy in his bucolic beatitude, but I find it hard to believe that his house and his life are always as valuable as he says. There is monotony in One Man's Meat—and a limitation which I wish Mr. White would break through. Rage in print is one of the finest things a man can write—doesn't Mr. White ever get mad?" Edward Weeks

+ Atlantic J1 '42 220w

Booklist 38:438 J1 15 '42

Bookmark 4:9 N '42

"It is important to point out that these little essays are not stray pieces that seem, as so many essays do, warmed over, when they are served in a book. They are extraordinarily fresh and permanent pieces, and they turn out to be pieces of a whole, a book whose unity lies not in the fact that the pages are held together in one binding, but that they reveal facets of one man's spirit." Irwin Edman

+ Books p2 Je 14 '42 1250w

"A highly sophisticated mind has gone bucolic in Mr. White's dry and charming essays. They remind one of fine etchings; or of vignettes in verse; especially do some of the rural sketches in their gaunt, spare, powerful imagery remind one of certain poems of Robert Frost. But the viewpoint is straight E. B. White throughout—and to the readers of the New Yorker and of Harper's Magazine this recommendation is all the bush needed to set off the volume's heady wine." Margaret Davis

+ Cath World 155:627 Ag '42 500w

Reviewed by Diana Trilling

+ Nation 155:118 Ag 8 '42 700w

Reviewed by S. E. Hyman

New Repub 107:91 J1 20 '42 300w

"By very virtue of his individual response to the things that are his meat, E. B. White creates something which another man can put his teeth into with pleasure. He intimates at one place in his book that he is a little fearful of being considered an author who is writing little essays of contentment. He needn't be, for it is clear that beneath the deceptively gentle tenor of his writing lies a deep awareness of the dreadful things that are happening in the world and a stinging irritation with man's reaction to them, his own, perhaps, included." Rose Feld

+ N Y Times p8 Je 14 '42 850w

New Yorker 18:72 Je 13 '42 40w

"I read, whenever I find them, Mr. White's narrative essays with their peculiar effect of casual conversation from a cracker barrel that leaves you scratching your head, and saying 'that fellow has really said something.' And then because they are so definitely American, so peculiarly our humor, and our half-sad, half-buoyant philosophy, the itch to place him in the American strain diverts me from my natural enjoyment of what I have read." H. S. Canby

+ Sat R of Lit 25:7 Je 13 '42 750w

Time 39:91 Je 22 '42 750w

Wis Lib Bul 38:118 J1 '42

"Good writing. It has the awareness and perspective of poetry, and the supple movement and fullness of excellent prose. . . Only a generous reading of these letters from the country will discover the shaping spirit of imagination and the cunning art which put the author among the best writers of the familiar essay in English." W. C. DeVane

+ Yale R n s 32:163 autumn '42 750w

WHITE, ETHEL LINA. Fear stalks the village. 319p $2 Harper [7s 6d; 3s 6d; 2s 6d Ward, Lock]

42-36220

Detective story.

Booklist 38:347 My 15 '42

"Half a dozen of Miss White's characters are the real thing, in or out of puzzle literature. At the moment 'Fear stalks the Village' is well in front of the field. Chances are it will be one of the year's favorites." Will Cuppy

+ Books p18 Mr 22 '42 200w

Reviewed by Elizabeth Hull

Boston Globe p15 My 20 '42 100w

"She tells us over and over again that 'fear stalks the village,' but she fails to make us feel it. What has become of the uncanny skill in depicting horror and suspense that Ethel Lina White displayed in 'The Wheel Spins' and in one or two of her other stories?" Isaac Anderson

N Y Times p14 Mr 22 '42 160w

"A sly, odd tale with a superb background, written with great skill."

+ New Yorker 18:72 Mr 21 '42 50w

"Deadly effects of anonymous letters, and their tracing by acutely intelligent Ignatius Brown make up slightly forced but always interesting yarn. Absorbing."

+ Sat R of Lit 25:21 Mr 28 '42 40w

Time 39:88 Ap 6 '42 50w

Wis Lib Bul 38:69 Ap '42

WHITE, ETHEL LINA. Her heart in her throat [Eng title: Midnight house]. 298p $2 Harper [8s Collins]

42-20280

Mystery story.

Booklist 39:12 S '42

Bookmark 4:18 N '42

"Miss White has loaded her story with fright gambits, veteran romantic devices, a pretty assortment of minor and major problems, love and some plush wordage when excitement is highest. A grim and sufficiently speedy parlor game." Will Cuppy

Books p17 Ag 23 '42 170w

"Very good."

+ Boston Globe p19 Ag 10 '42 30w

"Miss White's style gets more and more staccato, but she never relaxes her strumming on the reader's nerves. She will blunt them in the end if she is not careful." Ralph Partridge

New Statesman & Nation 23:393 Je 13 '42 80w

"This is one of Miss White's more successful tales." Isaac Anderson

+ N Y Times p8 S 6 '42 220w

"A deserted house, a mysterious 'black man,' and a beautiful, evil ex-governess make grim reading. One of Miss White's most terrifying novels."

+ New Yorker 18:60 Ag 22 '42 50w

"Grade A thriller."

+ Sat R of Lit 25:15 Ag 29 '42 40w

"Another master thriller."

+ Time 40:116 S 7 '42 50w

"It is told simply and well except on the rare occasions when the author tries a figurative turn of phrase which hampers her speed."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p213 Ap 25 '42 150w

WHITE, MRS GEORGIA (ATWOOD) (DAS-COMB ATWOOD pseud). Free as the wind. 331p $2.50 Liveright

42-8902

Chronicle novel of a family of Hollanders who settled in Michigan during the middle of the nineteenth century. The story follows the family fortunes down to the first year of the second World war.

"It is a novel written with affection, and doubly interesting in view of the tragedy which has befallen the homeland." Lisle Bell

+ Books p21 Ap 5 '42 250w

Reviewed by Drake de Kay

N Y Times p22 Ap 26 '42 600w

"There are so many good things in the book that one wonders why the general impression is not more powerful and stirring. Perhaps it is too brisk. . . . But good things are here—the sharp portraiture, an accurate historical and geographic sense, and (the best parts of the book) the exquisite sketches of the Netherlands landscape and Vermeer-like interiors." R. A. Cordell

+ — Sat R of Lit 25:14 Mr 28 '42 400w

WHITE, JOHN W. Argentina; the life story of a nation. 366p il $3.75 Viking

982 Argentina—History (W) 42-20626

This social and political history of Argentina contains also a full-length study of her diplomatic policies. Appendices include: Area and population; Industrial control boards; New trade treaties; Public debt; Value of exports to the United States; Treaty of friendship, commerce, and navigation with the United States; Constitution of the Argentine nation; The residence of aliens law; Forms of government since the Revolution of 1810; Exchange agreement with Germany; Roca-Runciman trade treaty; Trade agreement with the United States; Balance of payments; Distribution of exchange sold by exchange control office. The author was for ten years a New York Times representative in South America. Bibliography. Index.

Reviewed by Alfred Manes

Ann Am Acad 225:225 Ja '43 450w

Reviewed by Hubert Herring

Atlantic 170:146 N '42 300w

Booklist 39:9 S '42

Bookmark 4:12 N '42

"Mr. White's recital of Argentine history is invigorating. He has caught his history on the wing; from odd books, from much conversation. The groomed historian will probably challenge him, but he has had the advantage of sources which the historian would not know how to use—the accumulated experience of the people. He does a satisfying job with the Indian and the Spaniard, with the peopling of the La Plata area. . . . Mr. White's book will be of solid use in arousing general readers as to the importance of Argentina." Hubert Herring

+ Books p5 Ag 23 '42 1100w

"All in all, this extensive, serious, well documented discussion of the political and industrial history of Argentina, with its reprint of the constitution and other valuable appendices on treaties, exports, and the like, is the best single book on Argentina, now available in English—despite the fact that the author takes sides in some open issues and therefore inevitably will provoke contradiction." Joseph McSorley

+ Cath World 156:238 N '42 850w

Cleveland Open Shelf p22 N '42

"Genuine enthusiasm and love for his subject should be a prerequisite for any author. This is particularly true when writing about a foreign land and people. History or biography must be truly impartial, and since we all approach the other fellow's point of view with some preconceived notions, we need that offsetting dose of sympathy to even things up. Perhaps it is unfair to say that Mr. White, who has lived in Argentina for so many years does not have this approach but unfortunately, if he has it, he fails to convey it to the reader. . . . 'Argentina,' however, can be very valuable for the student as a reference book, although certain biases should be analyzed if it is to serve as a guide to the mentality and culture of the country it seeks to portray. . . . My quarrel is not so much with the statements themselves, for we are all entitled to our own opinions, but to the manner in which they are expressed, much as if there was no appeal from Mr. White's dictum. It seems too bad that so many valuable facts should not be more objectively and attractively presented." L. V. Vila

+ Commonweal 36:544 S 25 '42 700w

"A must book for larger libraries, but too much detail for average reader." S. E. Sherman

+ Library J 67:682 Ag '42 110w

"A chatty, superficial but extremely informative survey of Argentina, telling everything from how the poinsettia got its name to why Argentina is pro-Fascist. The author, a Latin American newspaper correspondent for twenty-five years, writes engagingly, but his knowledge is broad rather than deep."

+ New Repub 107:294 S 7 '42 50w

"The best-informed book in its field." Ernesto Montenegro

+ N Y Times p1 Ag 23 '42 1800w

"The very full treatment of recent events tends to create some foreshortening, but in spite of that this is an admirable job, substantial, balanced, and quietly vivid."

+ New Yorker 18:59 Ag 22 '42 90w

"The appearance of a book of outstanding merit and lasting value among the avalanche of very ephemeral volumes on Latin America is a pleasant surprise for a student of Latin American affairs. . . . Argentina needs watching, and therefore this book about this agricultural country, seventy percent of whose population live in the cities, should be in the hands of everyone interested in world affairs." Stephen Naft

+ Sat R of Lit 25:5 Ag 29 '42 750w

Wis Lib Bul 38:137 O '42

WHITE, JOSEPH LOWELL. Transportation and national defense. 91p maps $1.50 Univ. of Pa. press

385 Transportation—U.S. U.S.—Defenses 42-356

This volume contains four lectures delivered at Lafayette college in 1941. The author is transportation consultant to the National Resources Planning Board. Contents: Railroad regulation and the national defense program; The growth of highway transportation since 1920; Inland transportation by waterway, pipe line, and airway; The St Lawrence waterway.

Booklist 38:247 Mr 15 '42
Eng N 128:96 Je 4 '42 120w

WHITE, LEONARD DUPEE, ed. Future of government in the United States; essays in honor of Charles E. Merriam. ltd ed 274p $3.50 Univ. of Chicago press

320.4 U.S.—Politics and government. Merriam, Charles Edward 42-16094

Eleven essays on politics and government in the United States by as many former pupils of Professor Charles E. Merriam of the University of Chicago. Contents: The education of Charles E. Merriam, by C. E. Merriam; The developing science of democracy, by H. D. Lasswell; The future of urbanism, by Albert Lepawsky; Developments in governmental planning, by J. A. Vieg; Political leadership and the press, by L. C. Rosten; The future of the American party system, by H. F. Gosnell; Trends in party campaign funds, by Louise Overacker; Politics and administration, by V. O. Key, Jr.; The future of administrative management, by J. P. Harris; The public service of the future, by L. D. White; Sovereignty, by H. E. Cohen; World-politics and America's destiny, by F. L. Schuman. Bibliography.

"The reviewer would congratulate him to whom this volume is dedicated and those who contributed to it on these challenging views of the things that may become, if not the things to come." W. E. Mosher

+ Ann Am Acad 225:241 Ja '43 500w

Booklist 39:27 O 1 '42

"Readers of these essays will find much to challenge thought. Since the views are so largely speculative, who can dispute them? And 'the future' is a long time. But one might generalize to say that the more valuable essays seem in the main to be the ones which depend on the most careful analysis of existing institutions as a basis for prophecy." S. G. Lowrie

+ Ethics 53:144 Ja '43 600w

Reviewed by Phillips Bradley
Survey G 32:26 Ja '43 180w

WHITE, MARGARET BOURKE (MRS ER-SKINE CALDWELL). Shooting the Russian war; phot. by [the author]. 298p $2.75 Simon & Schuster

940.5347 World war, 1939—Russia. World war, 1939—Personal narratives, American. World war, 1939—Pictorial works (W) 42-17504

In May, 1941, the author arrived in Moscow with five cameras and six hundred pounds of photographic equipment in all. Two months later the Germans attacked and the order was given that anyone possessing a camera was to be shot. But Mrs Caldwell obtained the only photographer's passport given a non-Russian and this book, illustrated with almost a hundred of her pictures showing the effects of the war on Russia, is the result. Glossary.

Booklist 39:9 S '42

Bookmark 4:12 N '42

"Shooting the Russian War" is a tremendously contemporary book—not just because it was made possible because of female emancipation plus modern transportation by air, not just because it so vividly depicts a globe at war on so highly personal a note, not just because it gratifies the modern passion for visual documentation and first-hand experience. To the ordinary stay-at-home citizen as well as to the future historian it furnishes unaffectedly and effectively its own particular modest but brilliant illumination." Iris Barry

+ Books p3 Jl 12 '42 750w

"Miss Bourke-White's photographs of Stalin are a masterly combination of candid and portrait photography. She thought he had the strongest face she had ever seen, and he laughed when she crept about on all fours looking for 'angles.' The text, also by Bourke-White, is as personal and dynamic as her camera." Dorothy Hillier

+ Boston Globe p17 Jl 15 '42 180w

Reviewed by Margaret Davis
Cath World 155:760 S '42 360w
Cleveland Open Shelf p13 Jl '42

"Prose and pictures alike are simple, clear, vivid and rich in color, humor and detail." W. R. Deuel

+ N Y Times p3 Jl 19 '42 650w

Pratt p23 D '42

"Shooting the Russian War" is chatty, gay, witty, and, withal, informative." Mark Gayn
+ Sat R of Lit 25:10 Ag 22 '42 600w

"Miss Bourke-White's volume is charmingly written, and contains many excellent photographs of which those of the air raids over Moscow are particularly striking. She is at her best when she describes what she has seen with the keen eyes of an experienced and talented photographer." Michael Karpovich
+ Yale R n s 32:415 winter '43 250w

WHITE, MARION (MRS WILLIAM T. MOHR-MAN). If we should fail. 189p $1.50 Mill

42-50917

Stories of what might happen in Salem, in Portsmouth, in Seattle, in other American towns and cities if the Germans and Japanese win the war. The stories are true, only the locale is changed from Poland, Holland, Java, where such incidents are not fantastic nightmares but historical facts.

Booklist 39:202 Ja 15 '43

"Even though the warning they convey is no longer questioned, they pack a propaganda punch." Lisle Bell

Books p30 N 22 '42 60w

"A collection of horrible—but substantially true and easily documentable—stories of German occupation."

Christian Century 59:1495 D 2 '42 70w

WHITE, MARION (MRS WILLIAM T. MOHR-MAN). Sweets without sugar. 103p $1.25 Mill
641.5 Desserts (W) 42-36227

Recipes for making cakes, pies, puddings, sauces, and candies without sugar using as substitutes corn syrup, maple syrup, or honey. Index.

Booklist 38:364 Je 1 '42

Bookmark 3:8 My '42

Christian Science Monitor p6 Jl 7 '42 90w

Pratt p15 D '42

Wis Lib Bul 39:94 Je '42

WHITE, MRS NELIA (GARDNER). Daughter of time. 272p $2.50 Macmillan
Mansfield, Katherine—Fiction 42-9126

"A novel about Katherine Mansfield, from her childhood in New Zealand to her death at Fontainebleau." Library J

Booklist 38:331 My 1 '42

"The people in 'Daughter of Time' become characters in their own right: one could have read profitably and eagerly this portrait of an artist without knowing that a Katherine Mansfield had lived, though to know Katherine Mansfield's work, of course, enriches this story of her life. Mrs. White has used deftly a dif-fault literary form, and through it she shows, as a living person, as distinctive and appealing an artist as our time has known." Mary Ross

+ Books p8 Mr 29 '42 800w

"The affair between K. M. and Murry, in particular, comes off right. She portrays Murry as a second rater, a poseur, a hypersensitive, overly intellectual weakling. And Katharine too: hopelessly romantic, hopelessly introspective. . . The secondary characters are equally well done. There is a superb picture of Lawrence in Cornwall with Frieda. It is a picture that will displease his most ardent admirers, but that is hardly reason not to believe it. . . 'Daughter of Time' cannot fail to interest any of Mansfield's readers. As a novel on its own, it is certainly superior to the commonplaces that are passed off nowadays as top rank fiction." William Abrahams

+ Boston Globe p17 Mr 25 '42 550w

"It is unusual to write a novel which is in effect a biography of a person so recently among the living. . . But Katherine Mansfield was unusual. In herself, as in her writing, there was a subtlety and strength, elfin imagination and a power that her delicacy belied but could not conceal. The novel skillfully and sensitively reflects these qualities."

+ Christian Century 59:433 Ap 1 '42 70w

Reviewed by Katharine Shorey

Library J 67:225 Mr 1 '42 60w

"Nella Gardner White has taken the story [of] Katherine Mansfield and woven it into a compelling novel. She has caught the spirit and the mood of the artist who for rare moments escaped her dark world of pain and isolation. With great devotion to her subject she has re-created the writer of the famous Journals, the woman who poured out her fears and her disappointments in the notes she always kept. Mrs. White is less successful with the men in Katherine Mansfield's life, the friends and lovers." Rose Feld

+ N Y Times p7 Mr 29 '42 700w

Wis Lib Bul 38:88 My '42

WHITE, OWEN PAYNE. Autobiography of a durable sinner. 344p $3 Putnam

B or 92

42-12270

Autobiography of an American writer, who was born in an adobe hut in El Paso in 1879 and spent his first eight years along the Mexican border in Texas, New Mexico, and Arizona. He has tried many things in his life, from banking to writing for The American Mercury and Collier's, and describes them all in this unvarnished record of robust life. Index.

"This ancient product of the desert has an excellent story to tell, and he hauls off and tells it in prose that is tough, windy, and altogether rather admirable. He is anything but a polished writer, as H. L. Mencken told him many years ago, but he has the knack of getting his ideas across. The old boy has zip and a crusty sense of humor. Maybe he's a sinner, but he's also 100 per cent American, a born frontiersman." Stanley Walker

+ Books p11 My 24 '42 1100w

Reviewed by E. F. Allen

N Y Times p15 My 31 '42 500w

"In the drab plain of autobiographical writing, this book is refreshing for its lustiness and unblushingness and for the unerring way in which the author writes himself down a harder customer than he probably is. There is not a dull page in the thirty-nine chapters of the book." Herbert Gambrell

+ Sat R of Lit 25:31 My 16 '42 650w

WHITE, STEWART EDWARD. Road I know. 253p $2.50 Dutton

133.93 Spiritualism

42-9994

"Another of Mr. White's 'Betty books' and, in a sense, a sequel to The Unobstructed Universe which, he tells us, was 'dictated by her through another psychic after her death.' The present volume is built around selections from writings which Betty left, telling of the methods and experiences by which she gained acquaintance with 'the invisibles.' Betty was Mr. White's wife." Christian Century

"To the student of psychic phenomena and especially to those interested in developing a technique of communication with the unseen, the most interesting chapters will be those in which Betty learned this technique, described by Mr. White as eye-witness and collaborator, and giving results in her own words as noted at the time. The dramatic effect of practically reproducing these settings comes nearer than any other such report to letting an outsider take part."

+ Books p10 Ap 12 '42 400w

Christian Century 59:466 Ap 8 '42 70w

"No more sincere nor spiritually 'thrilling' books, dealing with 'communication' with planes above the physical-mental, have been published than this series of amazing disclosures of the Unseen." T. F. Opie

+ Churchman 156:17 Je 1 '42 180w

WHITE, STEWART EDWARD. Stampede. 275p $2 Doubleday

(W) 42-216

The fourth in the series of the author's novels about Andy Burnett, the earlier ones being: The Long Rifle; Ranchero; and Folded Hills (Book Review Digest, 1932, 1933, 1934). This story is of the threat to the ranch at Folded Hills which arose when the squatters invaded California. Stampede was first serialized in the Saturday Evening Post in 1935.

Booklist 38:210 F 15 '42

"'Stampede' is colorful and as swiftly paced as the title suggests, and Mr. White mixes story and history adroitly." Lisle Bell

+ Books p14 Ja 11 '42 200w

"For western story or White fans." R. D. Minnich

Library J 67:41 Ja 1 '42 70w

WHITE, WILLIAM ANTHONY PARKER (ANTHONY BOUCHER, H. H. HOLMES, pseud.). Case of the seven sneezes. 370p $2 Simon & Schuster

42-13268

Detective story.

Reviewed by Will Cuppy

Books p26 My 10 '42 200w

"There are so many complications, so many suspects and so many alibis, that O'Brien's solution, even with the help of T. S. Elliot, is little short of miraculous." Isaac Anderson

N Y Times p14 My 17 '42 240w

"Super-tense affair with cast of high-strung characters, allergic sleuth and some startling abnormal behavior on distaff side. Pungent."

Sat R of Lit 25:17 My 23 '42 40w

WHITE, WILLIAM ANTHONY PARKER (ANTHONY BOUCHER, H. H. HOLMES, pseud.). Rocket to the morgue. 279p $2 Duell

42-51486

Detective story.

Reviewed by Will Cuppy

Books p28 N 29 '42 350w

Cath World 156:508 Ja '43 230w

"The puzzle is a baffling one and the solution leaves but little to be desired, but the most amusing feature of the book is the shop talk of the scientificfictioneers, as wacky a group as you will meet anywhere." Isaac Anderson

+ N Y Times p34 N 29 '42 240w

"Well-done puzzle of the locked-room school, with homey touches that are not always in the best taste."

+ — New Yorker 18:100 N 28 '42 80w

WHITE, WILLIAM LINDSAY. They were expendable. 209p $2 Harcourt
940.542 World war, 1939—Personal narratives, American. World war, 1939—Philippine Islands (W) 42-36303

The story of the part played by MTB Squadron 3 in the Philippine campaign, as told to the author by four of its young officers: Bulkeley, Kelly, Akers, and Cox. These men were responsible for transporting General MacArthur safely to Australia. This and their many other exploits from the time when the first Japanese planes came over Manila Bay until the end of their brave little flotilla, has as its background "the whole tragic panorama of the Philippine campaign—America's little Dunkirk."

Appeared on Best Seller list in: ALA (1) Books (16) B & T (1) N Y Times (17) PW (3) RB (4) W (1)

Reviewed by Edward Weeks
Atlantic 170:132 O '42 250w
Booklist 39:30 O 1 '42

"Here we have it—the story of Bataan straight from the shoulder, and it needs to be attended to, and it will be read far and wide. It will be read by a nation that understands the situation far better than our publicity authorities have any conception of; by a nation that has been waiting for a word of truth in an ocean of silly propaganda and a sillier void where facts have been withheld. It will be seen at once as an honest and reasonable picture of something we haven't been permitted to know about until now, for no apparent reason except stupidity. . . Mr. White has done a really extraordinary job in writing this book; it will stand up in the ranks of literature for a long time. Not for a moment is the author to the fore; he has let the boys speak for themselves without interruption." Lincoln Colcord

+ Books p1 S 13 '42 1400w

Christian Century 59:1121 S 16 '42 230w

"Here is a call to arms, an adventure story, a romance, and a field day for hero worshippers. It's a top-notch book. . . Every American will want to read it. . . Mr. White has done a masterly job in bringing the mood, the lift and youthfulness of these four to the written page. He accomplished it through interchanging, narrative interviews, a pleasant, rounded style." R. R. M.

+ Christian Science Monitor p20 S 16 '42 350w

Cleveland Open Shelf p22 N '42

"With its sober realism this book gives a fine picture of the qualities of America's young generation under stress and pressure—an attitude very different from the high-toned pep-talk of some of our radio commentators. These young men on the battle-front have the courage to face the truth, even if it is hard and grim." Max Fischer

+ Commonweal 36:568 O 2 '42 500w

Reviewed by M. C. Scoggin
Library J 67:895 O 15 '42 10w

Reviewed by Marcus Duffield
Nation 155:272 S 26 '42 480w

"Mr. White has produced a really thrilling story of heroic achievement by Americans in this war, the first such account to be published, so far as I know. His story is true. It is an unusual literary form, a book-length interview, quoting verbatim from four young naval officers, who constituted a majority of the survivors of a Motor Torpedo Squadron that saw service in the Philippines." Bruce Bliven

+ New Repub 107:356 S 21 '42 550w

"An account of America's disastrous Philippine campaign that is almost unbearably painful at times, yet so engrossing that few who begin it will be able to put it down until they have finished its adventure-packed pages. . . Inextricably intermingled with it is the living, flesh-and-blood picture of what went on in those terrible months when the Japanese tide kept flowing ever southward. So too are many scattered bits of previously unwritten history." F. S. Adams

+ N Y Times p1 S 13 '42 1250w

"A short, grim, glorious book." Clifton Fadiman

+ New Yorker 18:78 S 26 '42 360w
Pratt p23 D '42

"They Were Expendable' is a tale of gallantry, hardship, action, ingenuity. Simply and forcefully told, it ranks with the great tales of war. These were the men and this what they did." S. V. Benét

+ Sat R of Lit 25:5 S 12 '42 1000w

Reviewed by Roger Shaw
Survey G 31:436 O '42 500w
Time 40:95 S 28 '42 700w
Wis Lib Bul 38:162 N '42

WHITEHORNE, EARL, ed. Electrical wiring specifications; with the collaboration of the editorial staff of Electrical contracting. 181p il $2.50 McGraw

621.3282 Electric wiring, Interior 41-24447

"A working guide for all concerned with designing wiring installations, laying out wiring systems, and developing specifications for any given job—in either industrial, commercial or residential buildings." (Publisher's note) Index.

Booklist 38:206 F 15 '42

N Y New Tech Bks 27:6 Ja '42

WHITING, JOHN WESLEY MAYHEW. Becoming a Kwoma; teaching and learning in a New Guinea tribe; with a foreword by John Dollard. 226p il $2.75 Yale univ. press [12s 6d Oxford]

572.995 Kwoma tribe 42-14232

"The Kwoma are a New Guinea tribe that has had a very minimum of contact with white men. This is a thorough anthropological study of the processes of teaching and learning by which the young are instructed in the ways of the tribe and brought to adulthood. More than that, as a study of the educational principles and methods involved it goes far beyond merely satisfying scientific curiosity about a strange people." (Christian Century) Index.

"Dr. Whiting's book is a notable contribution both to anthropology and to social psychology and proves, among many other things, a point which we would do well to think about in these parlous times: That even irrational and unreasonable things can be studied and understood logically, without making irrational facts rational thereby." George Devereux

+ Am Anthropol 44:497 J1 '42 1450w

Reviewed by H. S. Mekeel
Am Soc R 7:873 D '42 650w

Christian Century 58:1579 D 17 '41 100w
Reviewed by G. B. Johnson
Social Forces 21:108 O '42 300w

WHITMAN, ROGER BRADBURY. First aid for the ailing house. (Whittlesey house publication) 3d rev ed 359p il $2.50 McGraw
643.7 Dwellings. Repairing 42-24162

Third edition of a book which appeared earlier in the Book Review Digest in 1934 and 1938. The present edition "includes information on substitutes for the building materials that are now on the priority lists and no longer available to the home owner. There are also instructions for extending the life of parts of houses that are likely to wear; sheet metal parts, such as gutters and flashings; plumbing and heating systems, etc. There are also suggestions for the conserving of materials, such as paints and other finishes, paint brushes." (Pref. to the 3d ed) Index.

Booklist 39:106 N 15 '42

Library J 67:953 N 1 '42 20w

WHITNEY, JANET PAYNE (MRS G. G. WHITNEY). John Woolman, American Quaker; with il. by George Gillett Whitney. (Atlantic monthly press bk) 490p $3.75 Little B or 92 Woolman, John Friends, Society of (W) 42-13313

Biography of an eighteenth century American Quaker, based to a large extent on his Journals which he kept from his thirty-sixth year on. Index.

Booklist 38:367 Je 1 '42

"Mrs. Whitney has written a book of perfect understanding and quiet charm. She knows in her own right the Quaker tradition, and she has steeped herself in Woolman manuscripts and the letters and journals of his friends which afford her constant illumination. She has carefully traced his journeys in the flesh, and she has followed with intuitive rightness his more difficult spiritual travels. Above all she has done well to recognize the flowering of Woolman's nature as a product of American colonial culture, 'new birth of our new soil'. . . Mrs. Whitney's husband has enriched the book with black-and-white chapter headings that delightfully recall the eighteenth-century world, both of forest and town, in which Woolman moved. In all its details this is a book lovingly and worthily executed." G. F. Whicher

+ Books p5 My 17 '42 1050w

Reviewed by W. E. Garrison

Christian Century 53:757 Je 10 '42 550w

"Mrs. Whitney has given us an excellent and well-written biography of the illustrious Quaker. Though written in a readable and facile style, the book satisfies the demands of the scholar." E. L. Pennington

+ Churchman 156:17 Jl 1 '42 180w

Reviewed by H. P. Bolman

Library J 67:319 Ap 1 '42 70w

"To the knowledge of the man that we have hitherto been able to deduce from his own writings Mrs. Whitney has now added a great wealth of detail, drawing upon sources of information that are not easily accessible. Her account of Woolman is marred by occasional lapses into sentimentality and by a tendency to underestimate the intelligence of her probable readers, but these minor flaws do not seriously detract from her success in painting a solid and authentic portrait." Odell Shepard

+ Nation 155:153 Ag 22 '42 240w

"One could wish for accuracy's sake that Mrs. Whitney had less of what she calls Woolman's 'endearing inaccuracy' in details, that she had not put Jonathan Edwards's parish in 'Naragansett', and that she had not been taken in by the oft-repeated 'Cotton Mather Letter' hoax. . . More frequent citations for the location of sources in the text and appendices would be helpful. But on the whole, scholars have gained from Mrs. Whitney's new discoveries in delving in the Woolman manuscripts. Others will gain as well, in these times that search the heart, if through her book they may discover, with Woolman, something of 'Pure Wisdom' and the 'True Harmony of Mankind.'" T. E. Drake

+ New Eng Q 15:565 S '42 500w

"John Woolman, as he said, had 'no cause to promote but the cause of pure universal love.' In these days, when indignation is so necessary and hate so tempting, he ought to be a healing medicine for sore and weary souls. His present biographer may be too wordy and too leisurely for us, but if we can reconcile ourselves to the gentle flow of her narrative it may do us good." R. L. Duffus

N Y Times p5 My 10 '42 1500w

New Yorker 18:74 My 16 '42 40w

"It would be difficult to imagine a more satisfactory biography of this eighteenth century saint than the one Janet Whitney has produced. She has refound the man himself; she has recovered the setting in which he lived; she has felt from within the spiritual atmosphere in which he lived and breathed and she has interpreted him so vividly and with such reality that he comes to life in her book." R. M. Jones

+ Sat R of Lit 25:16 Ag 29 '42 400w

Wis Lib Bul 38:96 Je '42

WHITNEY, PHYLLIS AYAME. Star for Ginny; il. by Hilda Frommholz. 238p $2 Houghton

(W) 42-20281

Ginny Somerset, one of the girls in A Place for Ann (Book Review Digest, 1941) takes a job in the book department of a Chicago store, as the first step toward her goal as illustrator of children's books. Vocational story for older girls.

Booklist 39:37 O 1 '42

"The working out of a well sustained plot and a romance provides plenty of suspense and interest for older girl readers." F. B. Sloan

+ Christian Science Monitor p16 D 10 '42 90w

"[Ginny's] many struggles and a slight romance sustain a true-to-life plot. Will appeal to junior high school girls." E. T. Dobbins

+ Library J 67:913 O 15 '42 50w

WHITTLESEY, DERWENT STAINTHORPE; COLBY, CHARLES CARLYLE, and HARTSHORNE, RICHARD. German strategy of world conquest. 293p maps $2.50; text ed $1.90 Farrar

327.43 Germany—Foreign relations. Germany—Politics and government. Geopolitics 42-51774

"In this book, Dr. Whittlesey, Associate Professor of Geography in Harvard University, 'shows conclusively that theories of geopolitics, "racism," the ambitions of Hitler, and the entire Nazi doctrine, with its initial successes, are parts of a gigantic, carefully designed scheme of world conquest, worked out with ruthless precision, and that its roots, far from being shallow, find the sources of their nourishment deep in the soil of Germany's past'. . . Much of the book's content is drawn directly from the writings of Haushofer and his satellites, and most of its illustrations are reproductions of maps published in the Zeitschrift für Geopolitik." (Scientific Bk Club R) Bibliography. Index.

Reviewed by Paul Hagen

Books p18 Ja 24 '43 650w

"Mr. Whittlesey's book is not devoted to geopolitics alone but includes a rather brief discussion of the roots of the Nazi program. This is of course a logical approach, but the results in this case are unfortunate. . . This Hun-baiting is particularly regrettable, for the bulk of the work is concerned with Haushofer and his school and contains a great deal of useful material, with many quotations from geopolitical literature. There is an impressive bibliography, and the discussion of geopolitical maps is the best I have seen anywhere. . . To the extent that Whittlesey and his collaborators confine themselves to geopolitics their contribution is valuable." H. C. Hatfield

+ New Repub 108:156 F 1 '43 600w

"There are inconsistencies in translation of some German words and a few misprints, but these are minor matters which cast no shadow on the otherwise precise and conscientious handling of an overwhelming amount of largely unused material." J. H. Hass

+ N Y Times p20 Ja 10 '43 750w

"The book is much more than a carefully documented collection of source materials. It is also a completely realistic and unemotional polemic for Americans, written with zest and skill, to be read and pondered by all who hope and work and fight for a Free World."

+ Scientific Bk Club R 14:2 Ja '43 360w

Time, 41:92 Ja 11 '43 440w

WHO'S who in California; ed. by Russell Holmes Fletcher. v 1. 1942-43 1026p $15 c1941 Who's who publications co, Los Angeles 920 California—Biography

"A biographical reference work of notable living men and women of California. . . This is the first edition of what promises to be a biennial publication. The 4,245 individuals whose names appear in the volume . . . were WHO'S who in California—Continued. either accepted for inclusion by a 'Committee of Ten or were nominated for that distinction by one or more whose names had already been accepted.' The editor makes it clear that 'no one has paid, or can pay, for inclusion in Who's Who in California.'" Subscription Bks Bul

"As is to be expected in a first volume of this kind, many prominent names are missing. Strangely enough a goodly number of these are among the motion picture stars. Conspicuously absent also, however, are biographies of Carrie Jacobs Bond, Myron Hunt, Judge Ben Lindsey, Alma Whitaker, and California's state Librarian Mabel R. Gillis. . . Who's Who in California is printed, double column in small but clear and readable type on unglazed paper of good quality. The book is well bound in dark-blue library buckram. Who's Who in California should be useful to libraries needing to supplement their California biographical materials. It is recommended."

+ Subscription Bks Bul 13:19 Ap '42 600w

WHYTE, ROBERT BISSET. Personalities behind the Psalms; sermons on twelve Psalms and their authors. 191p $1.50 Abingdon-Cokesbury

223.2 Bible. Old Testament—Psalms. Sermons 42-12089

Twelve sermons by the minister of the Old Stone (Presbyterian) church, Cleveland, Ohio. In them he discusses twelve psalms, with special emphasis on the personalities of their authors.

Christian Century 59:219 F 18 '42 100w

"The author calls these 'sermons on twelve psalms and their authors,' and they are excellent expositions of the spiritual messages of these psalms, but since he accepts naively the authorship traditionally attributed to them . . . they may best be read as devotional meditations on the psalms without attempting to identify their writers." W. L. C.

+ Churchman 156:31 Ag 1 '42 90w

Cleveland Open Shelf p11 My '42

WICKER, MRS IRENE (SEATON). Little hunchback horse; il. by Frank Lieberman. 155p $2 Putnam

42-51186

An adaptation of a poem by a nineteenth century Russian poet, Ershov (or Yershov). The poem was based on a Russian folk tale over a thousand years old. It is the story of the Russian peasant boy Ivan, and his faithful friend, the little hunchback horse, Konyok Gorboonyok, who helped him out of all his difficulties.

Reviewed by M. L. Becker

Books p7 D 20 '42 260w

Reviewed by D. M. MacDonald

Library J 68:38 Ja 1 '43 70w

WICKIZER, VERNON DALE, and BENNETT, MERRILL KELLEY. Rice economy of monsoon Asia; pub. in cooperation with the Int. secretariat, Inst. of Pacific relations. 358p maps $3.50 Food research inst.

338.1 Rice and rice culture, Agriculture—East (Far East) 42-355

"As used in this book, 'Monsoon Asia' is a convenient designation for a specific group of countries in which monsoonal climatic conditions profoundly influence both agriculture and economic life. . . The primary objective [of this work] is to present a comprehensive picture of rice in its general habitat—Monsoon Asia as a whole—and to explain why rice occupies the important economic position that it does. . . The attempt is made to illuminate the general situation by examining the rice economy from successive points of view—production, trade, consumption, prices, and the like; and by emphasizing contrasts that emerge from study of the several parts of the whole region." (Intro) Index.

Reviewed by P. H. Clyde

Am Pol Sci R 36:384 Ap '42 300w

"Errors in interpretation are the main failings of this book, perhaps largely because of lack of knowledge of production and consumption habits and the changes brought about by trade and Western influence. . . The same errors of interpretation may be found in the authors' appraisal of the trends in the rice economy of Monsoon Asia. . . In spite of the above shortcomings, which are but sketchily presented, the book will find a warm welcome among those sincerely interested in Far Eastern affairs and in the future of the Asiatic peoples." A. M. Dalisay

+ Ann Am Acad 222:215 Jl '42 900w

Reviewed by R. G. Woolbert

Foreign Affairs 20:785 Jl '42 20w

"An excellent analysis of possible future trends terminates this excellent and ferociously documented study. A complementary work examining the social aspects of the rice situation, which are only indicated in this primarily economic analysis, would be a desirable and most profitable undertaking." Virginia Thompson

+ Pacific Affairs 15:248 Je '42 650w

Reviewed by M. T. Price

Social Forces 21:244 D '42 370w

WIDDEMER, MARGARET. Angela comes home. 278p $2 Farrar

42-21516

At twenty Angela Haldane came back from seven years' residence in France, a spoiled young person, thanks to a decidedly lightweight mother. But Angela's grandfather was John Haldane, one of America's wealthiest men, and a man of principle besides. John Haldane wanted his only grandchild to amount to something, and Angela had enough Haldane in her veins to live up to his expectations.

"All neatly disposed of in Miss Widdemer's accustomed style." Lisle Bell

Books p14 O 11 '42 250w

"Miss Widdemer's new novel should satisfy, even delight, her readers, for it fits easily into the shelf with her other stories of young love." Charlotte Dean

N Y Times p35 O 4 '42 200w

WIENER, WILLARD. Morning in America; decorated by William Sharp. 303p $2.50 Farrar

Lee, Charles—Fiction (W) 42-23671

A story of the American Revolution, which is, in the words of the author: "a character study of Charles Lee, an early American fascist, told in terms of fiction." The tale is told in the first person by a young American soldier who served under Lee and for a long time was hoodwinked into thinking Lee an honorable, high-minded fighter in the American cause.

"Mr. Wiener admits to tampering with facts if not with the truth, although how they are separated, I don't know. The facts aside, I wish I could recommend this book as an exciting tale of adventure, pure, and simple: I don't think I can." Howard Fast

Books p10 N 1 '42 800w

Reviewed by M. P. McKay

Library J 67:952 N 1 '42 80w

"'Morning in America' is a notable addition to our historical rogues' gallery. It is also a welcome antidote for all those who disliked 'Oliver Wiswell.'" William Du Bois

+ N Y Times p18 N 1 '42 850w

WIESE, KURT. Little boy lost in Brazil; il. by [the author]. [56p] $2 Dodd

(W) 42-23597

The little boy is Carlito, who gets lost in the Brazilian forest when he goes to hunt for Sacies, the one-legged creatures living in bamboo shoots. Carlito goes to sleep far from his frantic family, but the forest animals and birds do not disturb him, and his grandfather finally traces him. For ages five to eight.

"It is a little child's Brazil, which means a good Brazil to offer to little children." M. L. Becker

+ Books p8 N 1 '42 280w

Cath World 156:373 D '42 90w

"This very attractive picture-story book may be read aloud to five- to eight-year-olds. However, author-artist has included enough information on rural life in Brazil, near Rio de Janeiro, to make book useful for lower grades studying South America." Claire Nolte

+ Library J 67:1014 N 15 '42 90w

Wis Lib Bul 38:189 D '42

WILDE, PERCIVAL. Tinsley's bones. 281p $2
Random house

(W) 42-19431

Detective story.

"If you are one of those who found 'Inquest' a whale of a mystery, you would be mad to miss 'Tinsley's Bones' also featuring Lee Slocum, that eccentric coroner up at Taunton, Conn. . . Much of the story takes place at Slocum's headquarters, where the cash customer will run into plenty of New England portraiture, winding up with as startling a solution as we recall in recent fiction. You know Slocum—part of the time he's only kidding, and the conclusion of this lively tale may be one of the times." Will Cuppy

+ Books p11 Ag 2 '42 250w

"Almost 4-star. Author of 'Inquest' writes another country mystery featuring Coroner Lee Slocum—fine humor and good literature."

+ Boston Globe p17 Ag 5 '42 20w

"Well worked out and hilarious."

+ New Repub 107:206 Ag 17 '42 60w

"Those of you who read Mr. Wilde's 'Inquest' will want to read this new story. Those who did not have two treats coming to them." Isaac Anderson

+ N Y Times p15 Ag 9 '42 200w

"Mr. Tinsley's past, present, and future, as discussed by the members of the jury, the coroner, and the witnesses, make pleasant reading. Witty, but precious at times."

+ New Yorker 18:56 Ag 1 '42 50w

"Translucent as mystery but uproariously funny, gorgeously characterized and a joy from start to finish. Yes sir!"

+ Sat R of Lit 25:21 Jl 18 '42 30w

"The year's most intelligently hilarious mystery yarn."

+ Time 40:80 Ag 3 '42 50w

WILDE, REGINALD WILLIAM. Beginning the day; a little book of meditation and prayer; with notes on prayer and self-examination [Eng title: Vision, work, service]. 94p $1.25 Harper [3s 6d Allen, G]

248 Devotional exercises [A40-3222]

A book of meditations and prayers designed for daily reading. For each of thirty-one days the compiler has collected excerpts from religious writings dealing with one key thought; these are given on the left-hand page. On the opposite page is printed an original prayer.

Christian Century 59:153 F 4 '42 50w

Churchman 156:31 F 15 '42 60w

"All the prayers have been compiled by the author, and are on the whole free from the banality and lusciousness characteristic of some modern devotions. Occasionally the obviously right word is overlooked, and the less pleasant one preferred."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p415 Ag 24 '40 180w

WILDER, ROBERT. Flamingo road. 342p $2.50
Putnam

42-11046

Florida state and local politics provide the background for this story of the girl, Lane

Ballou, left stranded in Truro when a traveling circus went bankrupt. Lane's attraction for men brought her to the attention of Truro's fat sheriff, a manipulator of men and votes, and only the intervention of a wiser man than the sheriff saved the girl.

"A smartly plotted, well characterized, visually convincing novel." F. H. Bullock

+ Books p4 My 17 '42 900w

"A sincerely written though somewhat feebly motivated novel."

+ New Repub 106:742 My 25 '42 50w

"Here is a rattling good yarn of local and State politics. . . The story is not offensive to popular taste despite the unconventionality of some of the subject matter. It is on the romantic side, full of masculine appeal and sentiment, however, rather than feminine emotionalism. It is a story without a moral, a picture story holding the mirror up to a slice of American life as it was in that time and place. It's passing entertainment, but of a superior order." F. T. Marsh

+ N Y Times p20 My 17 '42 900w

"Skillfully put together, with plenty of dramatic suspense and a forthright honesty not commonly found in novels of this sort."

+ New Yorker 18:70 My 2 '42 60w

"Mr. Wilder's plot becomes almost an extravaganza before he finishes, and he greatly overworks the credibility of the heart-of-gold theme in his heroine, but in Lute-Mae and the monstrous Sample, he has realized two characters completely and he can create a strong sense of place and physical qualities. Followers of the genteel tradition, however, may find him very shocking." Bess Jones

+ Sat R of Lit 25:13 Je 20 '42 400w

WILDER, THORNTON NIVEN. Skin of our teeth; play in three acts. 142p $2 Harper

812 (W) 42-36421

An allegorical play of man thru the ages, told as the adventures of the Antrobus family, from the time the great wall of ice creeps over the world to the end of the war—any war.

Booklist 39:197 Ja 15 '43

Discussion by Edmund Wilson

Nation 156:167 Ja 30 '43 1600w

"Bantering and poking theatre conventions in the ribs and casting the general mode of 'The Skin of Our Teeth' into a kind of cosmic variety show, as Mr. Wilder does, is all very well. The fact remains, notwithstanding, that the underlying theme, that of man's struggle and survival, climbing, falling, destroying himself, being destroyed, surviving by the skin of his teeth but passionately and stubbornly and touchingly alive, is a profound and ancient theme. From it arrive passages in the play that are moving and elevated. The conception of the Cain motif, rash figure of blood and destruction but kept yet in his human family, is a notable piece of imaginative creation. . . The particular limitations of this play as a whole, taken seriously, have their source in one thing, which is the insistent effort to make the will do the work of the imagination." Stark Young

+ New Repub 107:714 N 30 '42 600w
(Dramatic criticism)

"It is a strange performance that Mr. Wilder has turned in. Is he hoaxing us? On the one hand, he gives no credit to his source, masking it with an Olsen and Johnson technique. On the other hand, he makes no attempt to conceal his borrowings, emphasizing them rather, sometimes even stressing details which with a minimum of ingenuity he could have suppressed or altered. But if puzzlement strikes us here, it grows when we consider the critics—those literary advisors who four years ago dismissed 'Finnegan's Wake' as a literary abortion not worth the modern reader's time, yet today hail with rave-notices its Broadway reaction. . . Writes Alexander Woolcott, 'Thornton Wilder's dauntless and heartening comedy stands head and shoulders above anything ever written for our stage.' And why not, since in inception and detail the work springs from that 'dauntless and heartening' genius, James Joyce!" Joseph Campbell

Sat R of Lit 25:3 D 19 '42 1400w
(Dramatic criticism)

WILDER, T. N.—Continued

"Here [is] a morality play, its theme as ancient as time—a morality play without that moral ardor which could have captured the imagination of the audience with its recital of mankind's long agony, its indomitable hope. . . . But the heart of the problem lies in Mr. Wilder's bosom. Does he take his play seriously himself or did it merely entertain him to dip into 'Finnegans Wake,' spread it over three acts, and sit back and see what would happen?" H. S.

Sat R of Lit 25:12 D 26 '42 800w

"Thornton Wilder's The Skin of Our Teeth is not only a tribute to the indestructibility of the human race as its author indicates; it is also a giddy proof of the theatre's own imperishable vitality. After months of mediocrity and of a 'fair to good' rating at best, Mr. Wilder's cosmic fooleries came flapping and rocketing into town, setting a new high in theatre unconfined. For Mr. Wilder has been as unconventional in his stage technique as in his subject matter. Just as he skips lightly to and fro through the adventures of mankind during some five thousand odd years, so he juggles with theatre conventions, laughingly exhibiting the wrong side of canvas walls, actors behind characters—the reality beyond the appearance of things." Kosamond Gilder

Theatre Arts 27:9 Ja '43 1100w (Dramatic criticism)

WILGUS, ALVA CURTIS, ed. Hispanic American essays; a memorial to James Alexander Robertson. 391p $5 Univ. of N.C. press

980 Latin America. Robertson, James Alexander 42-19322

"Posthumous tribute to James Alexander Robertson. He was a prominent member of a group of American scholars who did important pioneering work in Latin American history and inter-American cultural relations long before the Good Neighbor Policy made it popular and profitable to cultivate this field. . . . He was probably most widely known as editor of the Hispanic American Historical Review from its founding in 1916 to his death in 1939. . . . In an introductory section the editor discusses Robertson's life and published writings. . . . The rest of the book consists of eighteen articles, which are equally divided into two sections, 'The Colonial Era' and 'The Independent Era' [of Latin America]." (Ann Am Acad) Index.

"Through most of his career Robertson was archivist or librarian, and did little teaching. Consequently this volume, unlike the usual academic Festschrift, is made up of the contributions not of his former students but of his friends and associates. Partly for the same reason, no doubt, the volume contains a more heterogeneous collection of articles than is usual in such cases; but at least they all relate to Latin America. . . . Lack of space forbids individual mention of the other articles, but all of them make useful contributions, each in its own way, and the whole volume compares favorably with others of its kind." A. P. Whitaker

+ Ann Am Acad 224:214 N '42 450w

"Like all such volumes, it is necessarily uneven: the essays range from the most specialized and detailed items to studies that distill years of investigation and thought." B. D. Wolfe

Books p16 S 27 '42 500w

WILGUS, ASA. Tad Potter. 269p $2.50 Duell

42-19132

Tad Potter is a New England farm boy who leaves home in a fit of rage but returns after a year of wandering glad to get back. The story recounts the life of the farm during the next two years, Tad's development, his love affairs, and the varied fortunes of the others in the family.

Booklist 39:34 O 1 '42

"Mr. Wilgus, by devoting himself to writing, will learn the craftsmanship that goes into building character and plot, but this first novel is as wobbly as a chair built by a man who thinks that practice with a saw, hammer and nails will succeed in building a salable piece of furniture." Rose Feld

+ Books p8 Ag 9 '42 450w

"The novel does a fine job of portraying Tad's struggle with his conflicting loves for Inez and for the farm. . . . The novel is told by Tad, and as the story progresses, its style subtly and effectively changes with Tad's development. This rounds out the growth of the violent youth into a strong man, true to his own deep loyalties. Aside from this there is other keen character drawing, particularly of the older people." Beatrice Sherman

+ N Y Times p6 Ag 2 '42 800w

"Friendly family atmosphere, good homespun background, not much action, but what there is manages to fit together nicely."

+ New Yorker 18:55 Ag 8 '42 50w

"The trick of feigned naivete is carried off reasonably well, but when it goes rhapsodic it occasionally goes funny; a difficulty which Wordsworth also encountered frequently." Phil Stong

Sat R of Lit 25:11 Ag 15 '42 180w

WILKINS, SIR GEORGE HUBERT, and SHERMAN, HAROLD MORROW. Thoughts through space; a remarkable adventure in the realm of mind. 421p il $4.50 Creative age

133.82 Thought transference. Arctic regions 42-8034

Before he departed on a trip to the Arctic regions to hunt for some lost aviators, Sir Hubert Wilkins arranged with his friend, Harold Sherman, the means by which he could communicate with him by mental telepathy—messages were to be sent during definite periods and using certain simple codes. This book tells, first in Sir Hubert's words, then in Mr Sherman's, and finally in a section of parallel notes, the results of their experiment.

"Neither experimenter claims too much for the experiment. 'We may not have proved,' says the explorer, 'that telepathy between two people at some distance apart is beyond doubt and by arrangement possible, but I feel that we have proved that the subject is entirely worthy of future attention.' Such modesty like that is the book's best quality—and if telepathy is possible anywhere, the silence and concentration of an explorer's Arctic is the best place to start it."

+ Books p18 My 17 '42 500w

Cath World 155:766 S '42 270w

"This book tells a story in which all details—personality, scene, physical event, mental exploration, painstaking control—combine in a fascinating and provocative interest. It is to be welcomed now in its entirety." Katherine Woods

+ N Y Times p6 J1 19 '42 1500w

WILKINS, WILLIAM VAUGHAN. Seven Tempest. 458p $2.75 Macmillan [9s 6d Cape, J1 (W) 42-2413

Seven Tempest was the illegitimate son of an unscrupulous British financier, all of whose children were born of different mothers. Seven was the only one who thrived on his father's ruthless training. The time is from the early days of the nineteenth century to about 1840, and in painting the romance of Seven and Anne Louise, niece of King Leopold of Belgium, the author has also provided a picture of those robust times.

"The entertainment is, in its escapist kind, unflaging and superb." Wilson Follett

Atlantic Ap '42 150w

Booklist 38:276 Ap 1 '42

"Mr. Wilkins presents a whole era, its political chicanery, its industrial squalor, and superimposes on it the adventurous tale of a princess in flight, and of a young man who had been hardened (not broken) on the wheel." F. H. Bullock

Books p10 F 15 '42 700w

"Much fine writing interspersed with passages tedious and shocking. For larger libraries only." L. R. Etzkorn

Library J 67:131 F 1 '42 50w

"Mr. Wilkins has produced a brilliantly written and absorbingly thrilling tale . . . a tale that alternates between sordid realism and romantic fantasy with a seeming inconsequence which is actually the evidence of a masterly virtuosity. Both the historical characters and those which, presumably, Mr. Wilkins has evolved from his own prolific imagination are realised with a convincing verisimilitude, and an unfailing fertility of invention supplies a succession of exciting episodes, related with an unflagging bravura and a graphic power which frequently attain to a poetic intensity." Wilfrid Gibson

+ Manchester Guardian p3 Ja 16 '42 300w

"It is apparent that the author enjoyed writing it quite as much as a great many readers of light popular fiction will enjoy reading it. There is no pretense of fine writing, no fretting over any problems other than those of heart and hand; it is a bright and colorful picture of high adventure."

+ Nation 154:201 F 14 '42 120w

"The writer has taken a leaf out of the book of the earlier school of large-scale adventure story-tellers by using a period full of historical thrills not only as background but as fictional stage for the working out of a spirited yarn built around invented characters. . . If his hero is also whole cloth invention, necessitating an attendant world of purely fictitious people, nobody who enjoys a good spanking story is going to object. For it is a good story. An elaborate plot that never breaks down, even in a minor detail. A mettlesome heroine. A wholly original hero." J. S. Southron

+ N Y Times p26 F 15 '42 800w

"A fast, readable costume piece that does not pretend to be anything more."

New Yorker 17:70 F 14 '42 70w

"Mr. Wilkins will not satisfy those critics who look to every novel for an advancement of the form or for a contribution to the crisis of our time. The Victorians are as much in his bones as they are in his books. He owes a great deal to Dickens in his lavishness, his relish for low characters and strong language, his black-and-white characterizations, even his names and his use of epithet to fix a quality or a peculiarity. But a really robust writer is not to be despised these days, and a man who can give a reader some fun and story for his money can be innocently enjoyed in any period." Bess Jones

+ Sat R of Lit 25:7 F 7 '42 400w

Reviewed by Kate O'Brien

Spec 168:90 Ja 23 '42 380w

"It is quick-moving, breathlessly varied, ingenious, demi-semi-historical and legitimately incredible stuff, which is set forth with conspicuous skill and relish."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p41 Ja 24 '42 600w

Wis Lib Bul 38:88 My '42

WILLEY, BASIL. Seventeenth century background; studies in the thought of the age in relation to poetry and religion. 315p $3.75 Columbia Univ. press [12s 6d Chatto]

192 Philosophy, Modern. Seventeenth century. Religious thought. English poetry—History and criticism [34-21849]

"These studies in the thought of the seventeenth century in relation to religion and poetry were first published in England in 1934. . . Mr. Willey's work, which is already well and favorably known to scholars, is not an antiquarian investigation nor a sketch of the social background of the age, but is concerned with the 'climate of opinion' in the period which saw the transition from the medieval to the modern view of the universe, with the substitution of 'rational' inquiry into the nature of things in place of the old scholasticism." Books

"Inevitably, in a series of studies concerned with a few figures who fit into the pattern of thought which Mr. Willey has conceived, the effect imparted is of an abstraction from reality. . . Much more might be said by way of comment upon this learned book, but it is already familiar to students of the history of ideas in this crucial period, and all that is necessary today is to welcome its publication in this country and to recommend it to lovers of 'the most philosophical of centuries' who may not have known it hitherto."

+ Books p38 N 22 '42 380w

Reviewed by W. E. Garrison

+ Christian Century 59:1489 D 2 '42 800w

"Mr. Willey carries his exposition from Bacon to Locke, dealing admirably with Sir Thomas Browne, Descartes, Hobbes, and the rational theologians. His chapter on Milton is a fine investigation of the influence of the new thought upon heroic poetry, and his postscript on Wordsworth is one of the best available discussions of the romantic attempt to animate the discouraging universe which had been Locke's legacy to the eighteenth century."

+ Nation 156:67 Ja 9 '43 300w

Reviewed by Garrett Mattingly

Sat R of Lit 25:16 N 28 '42 850w

WILLIAMS, BEN AMES, 1889-. Time of peace, September 26, 1930-December 7, 1941. 750p $2.75 Houghton

(W) 42-36338

Long historical novel dealing with American life in the period from 1930 to Pearl Harbor. Mark Worth, an American of the upper middle classes; his motherless son Tony; Robin, who became Mark's second wife; and the lovely Norwegian girl whom Tony married, occupy the center of the stage. The scene is Boston, and the people are mainly anti-Roosevelt, but their changes of opinion as to foreign policy and war, are a major part of the story.

Appeared on Best Seller list in: Books (8) N Y Times (7) PW (1) RB (1)

Booklist 39:72 N 1 '42

Reviewed by Page Cooper

Books p14 N 22 '42 800w

Christian Science Monitor p10 Ja 2 '43 550w

"Will be in demand." M. E. Clark
Library J 67:952 N 1 '42 50w

"The book is more than a story about the lives of a representative group of prosperous and intelligent Americans. It is a clever analysis of the change of heart and mind we have had in recent years. It is a profession of faith, the more moving because it asks charity for our blunder in not preparing in time of peace; and hope for the future." W. A. S. Dollard

+ N Y Times p12 N 15 '42 750w

New Yorker 18:98 N 21 '42 100w

"Although it is frankly a propaganda novel, Williams bends over backwards in his Galsworthian impartiality. The German side through seven-eighths of the book is presented in a way satisfactory to the most rabid German apologist. Surely the average intelligent American did not so coolly justify Hitler's attacks on Austria, Czecho-Slovakia, and Poland, and Mussolini's occupation of Albania. The faults of Britain and France are italicized, and the relatively mild Versailles Treaty is denounced with Hitlerian vehemence. There is in the book, however, a valuable record of American opinion during those years—ranging from the sensible to the fatuous." R. A. Cordell

+ Sat R of Lit 25:8 N 21 '42 600w

"Nothing in all this is new. It is what every public-minded person has been reading, considering and pondering for the past 10 years, and, as the old questions are asked again and again, the old doubts arising constantly, one becomes very weary of it all. Nothing is solved, nothing offers much hope of anything but a steady slogging day by day to the end of the conflict and victory. . . If one wishes to live over again all the doubts, the disillusion-

WILLIAMS, B. A.—Continued
ment, the controversies of the past 10 years—with all kinds of people advancing all kinds of views—the novel may be found enjoyable."
M. D.

Springf'd Republican p7e N 22 '42 330w

WILLIAMS, DANIEL DAY. Andover liberals;
a study in American theology. 203p $2 Columbia univ. press

207.7445 Andover theological seminary,
Newton Center, Massachusetts. Liberalism
(religion) 42-480

"In this book [the author has] tried to add something to our knowledge of Christian thought in America in the last century by presenting the thought of the faculty at Andover Seminary in Andover, Massachusetts. During the years 1880 to 1895 these men were developing a Christian theology related to the insights of the historic faith but also aware of the new facts and perspectives which the modern world had secured. At first they called their thought 'progressive orthodoxy.' Later they moved far enough from orthodoxy so that they might be characterized as 'evangelical liberals.'" (Pref) Bibliography. Index.

Cath World 156:636 F '43 180w

"It does not require a special interest in Andover to make this book worth reading. Its real theme is the origin and development of liberal thought in America."

+ Christian Century 59:21 Ja 7 '42 360w

"Dr. Williams has performed a very useful service for students of American thought. Few readers now would have the interest and patience to dig through the long files of the Andover Review as he has done, since most of its literature now seems antiquated or commonplace. But to be able to see the Review as a whole and to have presented the dominant ideas of its contributors, makes the polemic come to life and recaptures some of the excitement which the periodical aroused in its generation." H. W. S.

+ J Philos 39:83 Ja 29 '42 270w

Reviewed by A. C. McGiffert, Jr.

J Religion 22:210 Ap '42 750w

Reviewed by W. W. Sweet

New Eng Q 15:361 Je '42 700w

WILLIAMS, EDWARD IRWIN FRANKLIN.
Actual and potential use of laboratory schools in state normal schools and teachers colleges. 259p $2.65 Teachers college

370.733 Teachers, Training of 42-14770

"Aims to provide an analysis of the function and purpose of campus and off-campus laboratory schools in state normal schools and teachers colleges in the United States. Data are presented concerning enrollments, functions, organizations of laboratory courses, correlation with the rest of the teacher-education program, sources and tuition of pupils, salaries of critics and problems of transportation for student teachers." (School & Society) Bibliography.

"Although the Table of Contents is reasonably complete, the reviewer missed an index. To be maximally useful, any book, dissertation or not, that is over 250 pages long and is crammed full of facts, names, and research summaries should be indexed." S. M. Corey

El School J 42:711 My '42 650w

School & Society 55:336 Mr 21 '42 80w

WILLIAMS, HENRY LIONEL. Kimbi, jungle
Indian; il. by Harry Daugherty. (Children of the Americas) 63p $1 Random house

42-21962

Kimbi was a Jivaro Indian boy, living in the jungle of eastern Ecuador. Because he had no playmate Kimbi made a pet of a young monkey, and thus found an ally who warned of the approach of dangerous animals. When Kimbi killed a jaguar and saved the women of his tribe he was declared a hunter and given a man's hunting weapons.

"Recommended." Katheryn Kohberger
+ Library J 67:912 O 15 '42 140w

"A swiftly moving tale with just the right amount of suspense. . . . So much accurate and unusual information is given in a simple, interesting way that the book will be useful for remedial reading. The author writes for children as though he enjoys it, and while this book is one of a series on children of the Americas, it can stand on its own as a spirited and satisfying story." A. T. Eaton

+ N Y Times p10 Ja 17 '43 400w

WILLIAMS, JOEL, pseud. Coasts of folly. 274p
$2 Reynal

42-3176

"In the early 1800's the Latin-American peoples from the Rio Grande to Cape Horn, fired by the example of the young United States, were planning and plotting and fighting to throw off the yoke of their European overlords. Mr. Williams' stirring story has to do with a filibustering expedition that set out from New York to help establish the Republic of Colombia and especially to liberate Venezuela, then a mere Spanish province in the New World." Publisher's note

Booklist 38:276 Ap 1 '42

"The action of this story is fast, and the backgrounds against which it is set are bizarre. Joel Williams shows himself to have a facile pen for romantic fiction." D. C. Tilden

Books p10 F 8 '42 350w

"Although the narrative will doubtless please readers who ask only for a pleasant romantic tale making no demands for originality of fiction characters and plot, it is regrettable that the author did not give some serious thought to his treatment of the one important historical character, Miranda, whose genius as soldier and statesman receives no recognition." Drake De Kay

+ — N Y Times p28 F 15 '42 600w

Wis Lib Bul 38:48 Mr '42

WILLIAMS, MOTHER MARGARET ANNE.
Second sowing; the life of Mary Aloysia Har-dey; il. by Anne Pracny. 495p $3.50 Sheed

B or 92 Hardey, Mary Aloysia 42-25063

"A very complete picture of a great American woman, who entered the Society of the Sacred Heart in Louisiana at the age of fifteen, became Mother Superior at twenty-six, founded twenty convents of her Order in North America, and after countless trips across the Atlantic and thousands of miles of travel throughout the United States in connection with her foundations, finally became Assistant General for America in the Mother House in Paris, where she died in 1886. Her most important single achievement was Manhattanville, in New York City." (Cath World) Index.

"The book is admirably co-ordinated. Mother Hardey's life is the brilliant central thread, and alongside it and through it in just proportion are woven events in the history of the Church on which Aloysia Hardey's activity depended, phases of American life and manners with which she coped so competently, charming and valuable excursions into the past life of the historic spots on which the convents were founded, the course of American letters and education with which the foundress of schools kept pace, and notably the progress of the Society of the Sacred Heart in America." C. C. Craigie

+ Cath World 156:499 Ja '43 700w

Reviewed by D. H. Moseley

Commonweal 37:258 D 25 '42 180w

"This biography is filled with interesting sidelights of American history, and every chapter makes for interesting reading. In addition, Miss Williams has been painstaking in bringing out statistics concerning the development of the Catholic church in America." R. J. R.

+ Springf'd Republican p6 F 2 '43 390w

WILLIAMS, OSCAR, ed. New poems; 1942; an anthology of British and American verse. 286p il $3 Peter Pauper

821.08 English poetry—Collections. American poetry—Collections

An anthology of current poetry, containing 107 poems, twenty-six of which have not been previously published. Thirty-five of the poets are English, the rest American. Brief biographical notes of authors. No index, but table of contents groups poems alphabetically by author. Includes portraits of thirty of the contributors.

"Not all the verse in this book is good, or even good enough to be in it; much of it is the price we've had to pay for Auden's best, which, imitated, sounds like his worst." Allen Tate

+ — Nation 154:688 Je 13 '42 800w

"My perceptions are doubtless opaque, but the book induced a crushing sense of monotony, a hallucination of reading the same poem over and over again. One formula persistently recurs. The poet exhibits a series of objects or events rousing his delicate or violent distaste; proclaims, or implies, his separateness from them; and ends with a curt 'I have spoken' in a mood of resignation, evasion or revolt to Higher Things. . . Much of the mediocrity in this otherwise excellent collection could have been cleared away for stronger work from the year's publication." Frank Jones

+ — New Repub 106:676 My 18 '42 1150w

"The compiler of this anthology tells us that he likes the poems here printed better than 'I have liked the poems of the year I have left out.' This is to give an undue importance to chronology. In the end he does not do justice to the poets he selects: one gets the impression he has got together a sort of collective utterance. Then there is a certain contempt for the reader shown, and the editor is mistaken when he tells us 'there is an indifference to poetry in a society badly in need of it.' . . . We sincerely hope that the next anthology that comes to our desk will be from a reader of poetry and not from a practitioner of it." M. M. Colum

N Y Times p5 My 3 '42 750w

Reviewed by Marion Strobel
Poetry 60:288 Ag '42 800w

WILLIAMS, MRS. REBECCA (YANCEY). Carry me back. 320p $3 Dutton
B or 92 (W) 42-21571

Gaily written reminiscences of a young girl's life in Lynchburg, Virginia in 1913-1914. By the author of The Vanishing Virginian (Book Review Digest, 1940).

Booklist 39:101 N 15 '42

"It is true that the book is as redolent of the charm of old Virginia as a frosted julep, but Captain Bob, Miss Rosa, Lucille and Rebecca would be captivating in any state in the Union." Page Cooper

+ Books p5 O 11 '42 1350w

"The matter is attenuated, the writing careless, but the author retains the gift for amusing narrative, and the story will doubtless lighten hours that might be darkened by thought of today." D. H. Moseley

+ — Commonweal 39:51 O 30 '42 110w

"Good light reading, but not of current importance." A. G. Higgins

+ — Library J 67:844 O 1 '42 50w

"As before, Mrs. Williams contrives with assumed artlessness to recall nostalgically the remembered flavor of the time and the region and to strew through her pages lively images of the people, white and black, who expressed that flavor. This time she has given her chronicle the form of the diary of a 15-year-old girl and let the young diarist get no farther with it than the middle of her sixteenth year. Some pains have been taken to preserve in this diary—in spite of editing—the appropriate note of undaunted innocence." H. I. B.

N Y Times p8 O 18 '42 480w

New Yorker 18:91 O 17 '42 30w

Wis Lib Bul 38:184 D '42

WILLIAMS, THOMAS HARRY. Lincoln and the radicals. 413p il $3 Univ. of Wis. press
973.71 Lincoln, Abraham. U.S.—History—Civil war, U.S.—Politics and government—Civil war 41-53088

For descriptive note see Annual for 1941.

Reviewed by G. F. Milton

Am Hist R 47:890 Jl '42 420w

"This study is more particularly an analysis of the radicals than of Lincoln. The volume is ably and interestingly written and carefully documented. There is an excellent seven-page bibliography at the end. The study should be of special interest to political scientists who are concerned with the war-time relationships of the executive and legislative branches and with party and factional politics in periods of crisis." E. A. Helms

+ Am Pol Sci R 36:167 F '42 300w

"Dr. Williams has focused his interest not merely on the Radicals, but on a special segment among them. He has, in consequence, pushed into the background the purposes, the tactics, and the accomplishments of the President, and represented them out of their proper proportions. So far as this book is concerned, Lincoln appears to be the ineffectual, gauche individual so many of his contemporaries regarded him. . . The result is a picture without proportion." A. B. Miller

Ann Am Acad 220:243 Mr '42 500w

Booklist 38:207 F 15 '42

Christian Science Monitor p20 Je 25 '42 700w

"This well-written volume presents a provocative and challenging thesis." Oscar Handlin

+ New Eng Q 15:381 Je '42 950w

Reviewed by T. R. Hay

N Y Times p25 Ap 5 '42 550w

Reviewed by R. H. Luthin

Pol Sci Q 57:639 D '42 390w

Wis Lib Bul 38:31 F '42

"If the pages of this volume crackle with sensational rhetoric, the authentic historical basis is abundantly given; the sensation (rather the high tragedy) is inherent in the theme. Posing as defenders of human rights, though allied with exploitive groups, these hard-driving vindictives made the noise and imposed their will; the moderate liberals, as so often happens, were defeated by their very tolerance." J. G. Randall

+ Yale R n s 31:640 spring '42 850w

WILLIAMSON, JAMES ALEXANDER. Ocean in English history. 208p $3 (10s) Oxford
942 Great Britain—History 42-9295

"There are chapters in this book on English enterprise in the Atlantic, on the Tudor Propagandists, the Hakluyts, Gilbert, Dr. Dee, Raleigh, on the opening of the Eastern seas, the development of trade in the Indian Ocean and the China sea, the discovery of the Pacific, in which our country [England] had so large a part from Grenville and Drake to those wonderful years in the eighteenth century in which Cook solved all the major remaining mysteries of the Pacific. In his last chapter Dr. Williamson estimates the importance of the oceanic factor in the shaping of modern England." New Statesman & Nation

"Lovers of romanticized history will prefer 'Westward Ho!' and the 'Bounty' novels. But the imagination which can feed even on footnotes will not find these lectures dull. A brass plate, picked up near San Francisco, which may have been left by Drake in 1579; Roman pottery fished up near Iceland; the Solomon Islands, so named because early explorers thought them the mythical Ophir of King Solomon's day—such details cannot fail to enliven pages intended primarily to instruct."

+ Books p36 N 15 '42 220w

"This is a fascinating book, well fitted to delight the general reader as well as to stimulate the learned." J. L. Hammond

+ Manchester Guardian p3 Ja 27 '42 430w

WILLIAMSON, J. A.—Continued

"Dr. Williamson's special quality is a gift for communicating a sense of excitement with a plain statement of fact, of appealing in a way few historians do to the historical imagination. I know one or two members of the great public, with no particular knowledge of history, who have already found this book thrilling. So they all ought, for Dr. Williamson writes with the vigour and freshness and clarity that somehow go with those who love the sea." A. L. Rowse

+ New Statesman & Nation 23:197 Mr 21 '42 1000w

Reviewed by Geoffrey Grigson
Spec 168:42 Ja 9 '42 550w

Times [London] Lit Sup p22 Ja 10 '42 1100w

WILLIAMSON, W. M., ed. Cornell's sea packet, 1942; with a foreword by Gordon Grant. 148p il maps $2 Cornell maritime

910.4 Seafaring life. Ships

This is the first of a projected series of annual volumes dealing with ships and seamen. Partial contents: Foreword, by Gordon Grant; The wild ship of the Atlantic, by W. M. Williamson; The evolution of navigational instruments, by S. G. Mellor; The Atlantic ocean before Columbus, by F. J. Pohl; Miniature square-rigged ships, by Carl M. J. von Zielinski; An old California shipbuilder, by John Lyman; Some songs of the sea, by Victor Slocum; Joseph Conrad: master mariner, by W. C. Hahn.

Booklist 38:232 Mr 1 '42

"An attractive and entertaining collection of miscellaneous sea pieces, a fine little book to have at hand in the watch below, or on a cruise, or before the fire of a winter evening, for that matter. The salty editor of 'Fair Winds,' W. M. Williamson, edits the volume, and many of the articles in it appeared originally in that faithful sea-magazine." Lincoln Colcord

+ Books p10 F 1 '42 400w

Springf'd Republican p7e F 1 '42 100w

WILLIAMSTOWN INSTITUTE OF HUMAN RELATIONS. World we want to live in. See Clinchy, E. R., ed.

WILLOUGHBY, HAROLD RIDEOUT. First authorized English Bible, and the Cranmer preface. 49p pa $1 Univ. of Chicago press

220.5 Bible. Whole—Versions. Cranmer, Thomas, abp 42-17893

"In the fascinating story of the birth and growth of the English Bible the chapter devoted to the rightly styled Great Bible has an important place. During the years 1539-1541 no less than seven editions of it appeared with at least 20,000 copies. Professor Willoughby . . . after briefly retelling the interesting story of the difficulties incident to its production, discusses critically its superb typography, its title page commonly (but mistakenly) attributed to Hans Holbein the Younger, and the preface or prologue by Archbishop Cranmer, which served as introduction to all save the first printing. The title page and this prologue (the latter for the first time) are reproduced in facsimile at the end of the monograph, while the text of this important and strangely neglected document, slightly modernized is printed in full." Crozer Q

Christian Century 59:1030 Ag 26 '42 100w

"Admirable monograph. . . Those who know the punctiliously careful work of Professor Willoughby, a recognized authority on iconography and bookmaking, will not need to be assured that the monograph is copiously annotated and equipped with a full bibliography. Both author and publisher are to be congratulated on this choice little study." M. S. Enslin

+ Crozer Q 13:337 O '42 200w

WILLSON, DIXIE. Hollywood starlet; il. with genuine Hollywood photographs. 342p $2 Dodd 42-13737

Story of the careers of two girls who want to get into the movies. One of them goes to Hollywood as a winner in a beauty contest, and having every advantage, gets into the Hollywood swing without much trouble. The other, who tries to accomplish the same thing on her own, has a heart-breaking time. For high school girls.

Reviewed by M. L. Becker

Books p7 Je 14 '42 250w

"Recommended as stepping stone for adolescents, if it can be included without omitting more valuable material." A. L. Shea

+ Library J 67:632 Jl '42 80w

"The descriptions of the movie industry are unoriginal but informative and there is a good hard common sense attitude about the difficulties of getting into the movies." E. L. Buell

N Y Times p8 Je 21 '42 80w

WILSON, CHARLES MORROW. Ambassadors in white; the story of Am. tropical medicine. 372p il maps $3.50 Holt

610.9 Medicine—History. Tropics—Diseases and hygiene (W) 42-14397

"Authors of several books on the Americas presents well-documented report on Latin America's situation regarding health and prospects for future improvement, especially in the light of the coming importance of Central and South America as world purveyors of rubber, quinine, foodstuffs, and countless other necessities of life. Biographical chapters on such eminent sanitarians as Carlos Finlay, Walter Reed, William Gorgas, William Deeks, and Hideyo Noguchi. Reports on yellow fever, malaria, and other scourges. Notes, tables, bibliography, and index." Library J

Booklist 38:381 Je 15 '42

Bookmark 4:8 N '42

Reviewed by Mary Ross

Books p3 Jl 5 '42 1150w

"This is not a book of complicated medical theories—it is an amazing account of the life stories of those who made medical history, told with the help of many letters, diary quotations and transcriptions of discussions with them. The most thrilling part of it is that Mr. Wilson himself proved that he has no right to be angry at his people. He splendidly describes the magnificent record of 100 years of war against diseases in this hemisphere. . . The reader will be glad to forgive the author his 'anger' because he has atoned for it by writing this excellent book." Otto Zausmer

+ Boston Globe p19 Jl 8 '42 800w

Reviewed by E. V. R. Wyatt

Cath World 156:247 N '42 750w

Reviewed by L. V. Vila

Commonweal 36:452 Ag 28 '42 550w

"Important for reference and research." L. R. Etzkorn

+ Library J 67:533 Je 1 '42 80w

"'Ambassadors in White' is packed with facts and figures which grip the imagination and nourish thought. Charles Morrow Wilson's style of writing sometimes tends toward the grandiloquent in his comparisons—no force is added by repeated assertions that tropical diseases are as deadly as 'Axis dictators.' But his stories are well and sharply told, his spirit is irresistible, and his material and his theme are magnificent in their reach and their challenge." Katherine Woods

+ N Y Times p5 Je 28 '42 1600w

"Mr. Wilson is one of our more enterprising social reporters, and this is a broad, readable book on an important subject. Even so, you may feel that there's a little of De Kruif's medical romanticism in his account, or that he doesn't make enough of the virus diseases per se, or perhaps that in general the research is a good deal better than the writing."

+ New Yorker 18:62 Je 27 '42 150w

Reviewed by H. F. Grady

Sat R of Lit 25:9 Jl 11 '42 1200w

Reviewed by A. H. Compton & others
Scientific Bk Club R 13:1 Je '42 1550w

"The purpose of the book is excellent and it measurably achieves the author's aim to rouse the norteamericano to the obligation of sharing his science and his sanitation with his Latin American neighbors." Haven Emerson, M.D.

+ Survey 78:255 S '42 550w

Wis Lib Bul 38:94 Je '42

WILSON, EDMUND. Note-books of night. 113p $2.50 Colt

811

42-50903

"The book, as its title suggests, is a miscellany, the literary asides and diversions, as it were, of a man whose central preoccupation is criticism, literary and social. We find here serious verse, satirical pieces in both verse and prose, parodies, two items which seem to be excerpts from a journal of travel, two others which are memories of the author's childhood, and one rather short prose piece, The Moon in a Dream, which is difficult to classify." Nation

"Criticism is very much alive in America today. Though there are various schools of thought, all of which attack each other with great zest, it is that zest which gives vigor and liveliness to the criticism itself and marks its vitality. Among the critics Edmund Wilson is perhaps the most comprehensive. He blends scholarship and sensitivity, width of social vision and depth of individual insight, and an unappeasable intellectual and human curiosity. Unlike most of the moderns, he is historian as well as analyst, psychologist as well as connoisseur. This book is a collection of his non-critical writing in poetry and prose, but the same qualities which make his criticism so substantial give it its marrow. I do not myself find the lyrics especially successful." Elizabeth Drew

+ — Books p50 D 6 '42 900w

"The serious verse is of uneven quality. In pieces like Provincetown, 1936, we find a sober, meticulous descriptive poetry which in The Crows of March achieves a considerable degree of vividness. In the pieces which are more subjective, such as The Voice or Home to Town, there are patches of very conventional and sentimental writing. . . All of the pieces in the prose section are expert, though now and then the expertness is a little too self-conscious, verging toward preciousness." R. P. Warren

+ — Nation 155:625 D 5 '42 750w

Reviewed by Rolfe Humphries

New Repub 108:26 Ja 4 '43 1350w

"Practically every poem in Edmund Wilson's Note Books of the Night is interesting, though more intensity could be reached if the author had, in certain parts, compressed his ideas and emotions into briefer compass and omitted some irrelevant lines. A few of the pieces are outstandingly good, and if they had been written by any of our highly publicized young modernists would have been greeted with widespread enthusiasm." M. M. Colum

+ N Y Times p12 N 29 '42 1100w

"Along with these successes are some badly gauged productions that seem to be juvenilia, but the verse written for fun is uniformly amusing, and the composite parody on Joyce's style and liberal literati, The Three Limping Cripples, is one of the best things of its kind ever done. It is a fine thought that one of America's most capable critics is not, at his creative lightest, a buffoon, or, at his most serious, a pendant." Louise Bogan

+ — New Yorker 18:50 Ja 9 '43 400w

Time 41:92 Ja 4 '43 330w

WILSON, FORREST. Crusader in crinoline; the life of Harriet Beecher Stowe. 706p il $4.50 Lippincott [18s Hutchinsons]

B or 92 Stowe, Mrs Harriet Elizabeth (Beecher) (W) 41-51642

For descriptive note see Annual for 1941.

"This new life of Harriet Beecher Stowe is to be welcomed for the reinterpretation of known material and for the presentation of new evidence. . . The book is needlessly long, and the part on Mrs. Stowe's declining years could well have been shortened. Sharp epigrammatic sentences and clear-cut paragraphs strangely alternate with pages which the reader is tempted to edit to half their length. Thirty fine illustrations add much to the attractiveness of the work." F. J. Klingberg

+ — Am Hist R 47:636 Ap '42 750w

"Mr. Wilson's method is unblinking but not debunking. He approaches an old scene and personages whose way of thought is often barbaric with civilised calm. The result is good. You may not like the Beechers, but you can contemplate them with lively interest as a human phenomenon."

+ Manchester Guardian p3 Ap 24 '42 230w

Reviewed by I. R. Wechsler

New Eng Q 15:161 Mr '42 900w

"Mr. Wilson provides an exceedingly entertaining and, if not very well-written, uncommonly well-balanced account of Mrs. Stowe's personality and achievements. . . Only less entertaining than the picture of Mrs. Stowe herself are the portraits of various subsidiary personages." Peter Quennell

+ — New Statesman & Nation 23:291 My 2 '42 950w

"This is a fascinating book. It is in a sense, too long. The setting or background is sketched too generously; and the person who moves against the background is too much accompanied by the whole of the Beecher family to which she belonged. At times, and especially in the first half, the book seems to be a biography of the Beechers rather than of Harriet Beecher Stowe. But in another, and perhaps a truer, sense there is nothing in the book that can be spared." Ernest Barker

+ Spec 168:489 My 22 '42 850w

Times [London] Lit Sup p222 My 2 '42 2150w

WILSON, GEORGE ARTHUR. Reckoning with life. 31p $2.75 Yale univ. press 191 Life

"This is a philosophic last will and testament of the late professor of philosophy at Syracuse University. It covers all the topics of philosophy as related to life in a scholarly manner which at the same time will interest the philosophic amateur. He begins with nature as experienced by the senses, discusses the nature of man and his activities in the central portion of the book, and concludes with such basic enigmas as evil, immortality, and ultimate reality. 'The constant coöperation of the ultimate Power with human selves in the production of the sense world and in the adaptation of the cosmic process to human volition seems clear evidence of a deep and abiding interest.' 'The supreme values are assuredly real only as they are shared . . . for the essence of the spiritual is the social.'" (Churchman) Index.

Reviewed by R. C. Miller

Churchman 157:17 Ja 1 '43 150w

J Philos 39:720 D 17 '42 420w

WILSON, JOHN ARTHUR. Modern practice in leather manufacture. 744p il $9.50 Reinhold 675 Tanning, Leather 41-6123

"Full use has been made of the writer's earlier volumes of The Chemistry of Leather Manufacture in selection of material of practical value, simplifying the language and bringing it up to date. This book also contains much new material that has never before appeared in print. In addition, such other material has been included from many sources as to make up the minimum that a tanner should know on all phases of the business of making leather. In following this plan, it has been the hope of the writer that the book will prove interesting and instructive to everyone with any curiosity about leather and animal skin." Pref.

"This book should be in the hands of every tanner and should find ready every day usage by his technical as well as administrative personnel. It is recommended for any one who is anxious to learn about leather and its manufacture." Fred O'Flaherty

WILSON, J. A.—Continued
+ Chem & Met Eng 48:163 Je '41 650w
N Y New Tech Bks 26:57 O '41
Pratt p19 My '42

WILSON, LAWRENCE. Fernando Cortez; il.
by Clifton Line. 111p $1.25 Nelson
B or 92 Cortés, Hernando—Juvenile literature 42-36145

"Historical biography for ten-year-olds. . .
In presenting to this age a character he has already presented to grown-ups, Mr. Wilson has cut down a long and tumultuous story by concentrating on the tumults, which keeps it full of action. He evidently admires Cortez for what he was, with reservations on some deeds he does not admire, and he makes both plain in a narrative that gives the Mexicans their full share of the limelight." Books

Booklist 38:279 Ap 1 '42

"The book can be read in so short a time that a child gets Cortez practically all at once rather than by installments, a method fair enough for a conquistador whose character was never subtle. The civilization of the place and time, the traits that put the Mexicans at a disadvantage with the Spaniards—traits a nation cannot afford in the face of invasion—are rapidly indicated. The story fits well with hemispheric reading-projects, the pictures are enlightening, and the print large and well spaced." M. L. Becker

Books p8 Mr 22 '42 200w

"Good biography for children ten to fourteen and useful as remedial reading in high schools."
Emily Hutson

+ Library J 67:269 Mr 15 '42 70w

WILSON, LOGAN. Academic man; a study in the sociology of a profession. 248p $3 Oxford 371.1 Teachers, College professors and instructors 42-10217

"Designed as a comprehensive description and analysis of the American university professor in his institutional setting. Although the work is written in nontechnical language, sociological rather than 'merely common-sense concepts' are used to explain patterns of behavior. Attention is primarily directed toward typical personnel problems." (School & Society) Index.

"The book will, of course, be a regular among the literature assigned to progressive sociology classes. I hope it will not merely be so used, that its level of attention and its topic will be a factor in the selection of future research." C. W. Mills

+ Am Soc R 7:444 Je '42 1200w

"This is a difficult book to discuss in limited space, for it does raise many interesting and important questions; and yet, in this reviewer's judgment, it never achieves the fundamental type of analysis it purports to undertake. Sociological analysis is much more than a grouping of discussions around selected terms or concepts, and this book does not go far beyond that stage. Basic in a study of the professor in relation to his cultural setting there must be detailed outlining of the interplay of the various factors that operate within the cultural setting. This book does not really come to grips with the interplay of these factors, though many of them are mentioned. . .
Perhaps this is asking too much of the author, yet this is the kind of book about the kind of problem that makes one wish that the analysis had cut much deeper than it does.
As it is, one puts down the volume at the end, stimulated but disappointed." M. M.
Willey

+ Ann Am Acad 223:264 S '42 450w
Reviewed by H. M. Parshley
Books p22 Jl 12 '42 360w

Reviewed by Rubin Gotesky
Sat R of Lit 25:14 Je 20 '42 650w
School & Society 55:456 Ap 18 '42 50w
"A 'must' book for every member of this species and anyone mildly interested in the homo academicus."
+ Social Studies 33:287 O '42 40w

WILSON, MARGERY. Woman you want to be; complete book of charm. 423p il $2.95
Lippincott

395 Etiquet. Conduct of life (W) 42-13943

These lessons in charm contain instructions on how to walk and sit, how to keep well groomed, how to act in embarrassing situations, how to talk and how to 'make conversation,' how to entertain and how to attract men and women.

Booklist 38:420 Jl 1 '42

"The surprising feature of the book is that its effect will be good. It will help some girls who are bumptious because they are bashful and show others that a sentence may be constructed without six perpendicular pronouns.
It will mitigate self-pity and be a comfort to many a lonely woman—and many women are lonely at heart. Above all, its exercises will give something to do, this minute, to women who are no more satisfied with themselves than with their faces, and must be forever tinkering with both."

Books p10 My 24 '42 300w

Wis Lib Bul 38:93 Je '42

WILSON, MARY BADGER. Canon Brett. 342p
$2.50 Greystone

42-7207

The scene is an American city, called here
Midcity, where the building of a cathedral has called forth unsuspected characteristics in some of the townspeople, both churchmen and laymen. The central figure is a kindly minor canon, whose faith in human integrity is sorely tried, as he goes about his share of the high pressure begging which is required of him as his part in the building of the cathedral.

Booklist 38:276 Ap 1 '42

"'Canon Brett' is a readable, well told tale in a thoroughly conventional tradition. It adds little that most novel readers have not met before in its portrayals of churchmen, small-city mores and conflicts in ideals. The competence and straightforwardness of the telling insure, however, an evening's pleasant reading." Mary Ross

+ Books p8 F 1 '42 320w

"This novel with a church setting shows a good deal of familiarity with ecclesiastical operations, the minds of vestrymen and parishioners, and the peculiar temptations which may assail bishops and other clergy and the congregations committed to their charge to prefer respectability and worldly prestige for the church to the weightier matters of the law. There is plenty of merciless revealing of clerical wire-pulling and lay stupidity, but no cynicism about religion or even about the church."

Christian Century 59:219 F 18 '42 80w

Churchman 156:31 My 1 '42 60w

"This is emphatically a distinguished book.
Distinguished in its thought, in its uncon-promising integrity both as to material and artistic rightness, particularly distinguished in its unusual central theme and in its central character." J. S. Southron

+ N Y Times p24 F 1 '42 900w

"The author has succeeded well in her attempt to make of the central character a wholly admirable and sympathetic agent of her thesis, and the story which she unfolds is interesting to any who have been part of church activities, even in a small way."

+ Spring'd Republican p7e Ja 25 '42
220w

Wis Lib Bul 38:48 Mr '42

WILSON, MITCHELL. Footsteps behind her.
314p $2 Simon & Schuster

42-2918

Mystery story.

Booklist 38:252 Mr 15 '42

Bookmark 3:18 My '42

Reviewed by Will Cuppy

Books p16 Ja 25 '42 180w

"The story is tense with excitement and mystery from the first page to the last." Isaac Anderson

+ N Y Times p18 Ja 18 '42 200w

"Not too mysterious, but exciting enough."

+ New Yorker 17:68 Ja 24 '42 90w

"Dexterously handled, engagingly written, and consistently chilling cat-and-mouse yarn, bulging with action and sinister characters. Tip-top."

+ Sat R of Lit 25:19 Ja 24 '42 40w

Springf'd Republican p7e Ja 18 '42 100w

Time 38:76 F 2 '42 30w

WILSON, MRS NETTA (WHITE), and WEISMAN, SAMUEL ARTHUR. Modern medicine; its progress and opportunities. 218p il $2 Stewart

610.9 Medicine—History (W) 42-13109

"The great discoveries, the cures and the personalities that have advanced the practice of medicine; problems that modern medicine has solved and is trying to solve; recent developments in medicine and opportunities for careers." School & Society

"This book should stimulate the interest of senior high school or junior college students in medicine and its allied subjects. . . Not all of the anecdotes seem to the reviewer to be in good taste. . . In the broad field covered by this book inaccuracies are inevitable. Despite these criticisms, it should be very useful in high school and junior college libraries for reference and even assigned reading. However, the school physician or school nurse should first edit it with appropriate marginal notations. A few words with the classroom teacher would also be helpful." C. E. Smith

+ — Am J Pub Health 38:877 Ag '42 550w

School & Society 55:512 My 2 '42 30w

WILSON, RUFUS ROCKWELL, ed. Lincoln among his friends; a sheaf of intimate memories. 506p $5 Caxton printers

B or 92 Lincoln, Abraham 42-16830

A collection of magazine articles, addresses, etc. which have appeared during the more than seventy-five years since Lincoln's death and which contain the intimate memories of those who knew him. The compiler has arranged the material in accordance with the chronology of Lincoln's life—beginning with three articles on "ancestry and youth" and concluding with a section: "The verdict of the years." Index.

Booklist 39:101 N 15 '42

"These reprints are both handy and illuminating. They have been tapped for their important nuggets by Carl Sandburg in his monumental six-volume life of Lincoln, but their full contexts deserve the preservation Mr. Wilson has given them. His annotations are over-meager; he has not weighed the accuracy of the various recollections, and they are, with one exception, written from the bias of friendship." Lloyd Lewis

+ — Books p5 Ag 30 '42 1250w

"There is not much here for the scholar, who will already be familiar with more than this book holds. Even a general reader will conclude that a bit of editing might have helped. . . For such reasons as these this volume is far from satisfactory. Yet one cannot doubt that any one making a small collection of books about Lincoln will wish to have this one."

+ — N Y Times p14 Jl 12 '42 1050w

"As a result of a lack of editorial co-ordination, 'Lincoln Among His Friends,' while quite entertaining, will add as much confusion as it adds information to the field of Lincolniana. . . What historical merit Mr. Wilson's book possesses lies in items picked from lesser known sources, such as the Sacramento Union of 1871, or addresses before various bodies made many years ago. To the historically untrained the book furnishes pleasing, if dangerous reading; for historians, a thorough revision along the lines indicated seems highly desirable." Otto Eisenschiml

— + Sat R of Lit 25:12 Jl 18 '42 900w

Wis Lib Bul 38:135 O '42

WILSON, STEPHEN. Food and drug regulation; introd. by Walton H. Hamilton. 177p $3.25; pa $2.50 Am. council on public affairs
614.3 Food law and legislation. Drugs—
Laws and legislation 42-13501

"This book is replete with important facts, incidents, and excerpts of debates leading up to and through the passing of both Federal Food and Drug Acts of 1906 and 1938. One chapter is devoted to the history of food and drug legislation from the days of the Athenians and Romans to the passage of the Pure Food and Drug Act of 1906. Then follow three chapters of the history of this latter Act, its difficulty in administration, and its weaknesses. The campaign for a new federal food, drug and cosmetic law with its ultimate passage in 1938 and its causes and consequences are discussed in the last three chapters." Am J Pub Health

Reviewed by F. A. Korff

Am J Pub Health 32:765 Jl '42 230w

"Despite its limited scope, this is an informative, interesting survey of governmental policy in a matter of concern to every individual." J. E. Kallenbach

+ Am Pol Sci R 36:732 Ag '42 260w

WILSON, WILLIAM EDWARD. Shooting Star; the story of Tecumseh; il. by Edward Shenton. 245p $2 Farrar

970.2 Tecumseh, Shawnee chief—Juvenile literature (W) 42-7977

Story of the Shawnee Indian chief, Tecumseh, describing in detail his dream of a confederacy of Indian tribes and its failure. For grades seven to nine. Selected bibliography.

Booklist 38:335 My 1 '42

"Well sustained biography for older boys."

+ Books p12 My 10 '42 500w

Reviewed by F. B. Sloan

Christian Science Monitor p11 Je 25 '42 180w

Cleveland Open Shelf p16 Jl '42

"A rounded picture of Tecumseh, not only as a warrior, but as a man. . . Shooting Star's story, well told as it is here, deserves to be known to each generation of young Americans." A. M. Jordan

+ Horn Bk M 18:175 My '42 140w

"Simply written, vivid and clear, book has vitality and is very human. Recommended." Sonja Wennerblad

+ Library J 67:369 My '42 60w

Reviewed by P. D. Edie

Library J 67:891 O 15 '42 10w

"For all its account of battles and bravery this is a book of substance for the thoughtful reader rather than for those who want unadulterated adventure. As such it gives a fuller understanding of this phase of American history and of our relations with the Indians, but chiefly it is a portrait of an enemy who was, paradoxically, a true American patriot." E. L. Buell

+ N Y Times p8 Je 7 '42 400w

"Mr. Wilson tells the facts without sentimentality yet with so much insight that his young readers can better appreciate some of the reasons for the gap in understanding between the red man and his conquerors. The book is good, too, on Tecumseh's times and terrain."

+ New Yorker 18:79 My 23 '42 70w

Wis Lib Bul 38:100 Je '42

WINDSOR, WALLIS (WARFIELD) duchess of. Some favorite southern recipes; with a foreword by the Duchess of Windsor and an introd. by Mrs Franklin Delano Roosevelt. 180p $2 Scribner

641.5 Cookery

42-5001

A collection of tested Southern recipes. The royalties from the sale of the book are to go to the British war relief society. Contains ten pages of favorite foreign recipes of the Duchess. Index.

J Home Econ 34:254 Ap '42 80w

Wis Lib Bul 38:117 Jl '42

WINFIELD, PERCY HENRY. The foundations and the future of international law. (Current problems ser) 125p $1.25 Macmillan [3s 6d Cambridge]

341 International law and relations

[41-24058]

"A good summary, written primarily for the layman, on the present state of international law, with a concluding chapter on its future. The author is professor of law at Cambridge University." Foreign Affairs

"Recognizing the urgent need for explaining international law to the layman, this reviewer reluctantly admits that the task is not adequately met by this little book; nevertheless, it provides a brief summary that should be very useful in classes in contemporary history or current events." H. D. Reid

Ann Am Acad 222:206 Jl '42 550w

Reviewed by R. G. Woolbert
Foreign Affairs 30:570 Ap '42 30w

Reviewed by A. L. Goodhart
Spec 167:429 O 31 '41 480w

WINGATE, ISABEL BARNUM. Textile fabrics and their selection, rev ed 624p il $5.35; to schools $4 Prentice-Hall

677 Textile fabrics, Buying, Retail trade

42-5517

"A comprehensive treatment of textiles, from the consumer point of view, which covers both construction and merchandising of fabrics. In textbook form, with chapter questions; many illustrations. First published in 1935 [Book Review Digest, 1936]; no statement about revision." (Booklist) Bibliography, Index.

Booklist 38:333 My 1 '42

J Home Econ 34:319 My '42 100w

N Y New Tech Bks 27:45 Jl '42

WINKELMAN, BARNIE FRANK. John G. Johnson; lawyer and art collector, 1841-1917. 327p il $3.50 Univ. of Pa. press

B or 92 Johnson, John Graver

42-5552

Biography of a Pennsylvania blacksmith's son who became a successful lawyer and art collector, founder of the Johnson collection in the Pennsylvania Museum of art in Philadelphia. Johnson took an important part in the antitrust suits of the early twentieth century, when he fought for Standard oil, American tobacco, and U. S. steel. Bibliography, Index.

"It is regrettable that the readability of Mr. Winkelman's book is marred somewhat by his jumpy style, and that some errors hard to explain have crept into it. But these are minor matters and we should be grateful to Mr. Winkelman for his labors in preserving for us the memory of John G. Johnson, Lawyer and Art Collector." Rudolf Sobernheim

+ — Columbia Law R 42:719 Ap '42 1800w

"Winkelman's life of Johnson is probably the best biography ever written of an American lawyer. The tone of the volume is comfortable, suggesting an income of $25,000, but none of the anecdotes are unduly sober." Wayne Andrews

+ Commonweal 36:306 Jl 17 '42 420w

"As for the technical aspects of the book, it cannot be called a good biography. The author's style is too halting and jerky for smooth reading, and his viewpoint is much too objective. The book represents a compilation of facts about the life of a great man rather than an artistically written reproduction of his life. . . It is difficult to tell whether one is reading about John G. Johnson or about the law as developed by him. But perhaps there is some excuse for this treatment, for Johnson's life was the law. The book is well worth reading as a detailed account of the life of a man who some twenty years after his death was characterized by Time as 'tops among United States lawyers and trust practitioners of his time.'"

+ — Harvard Law R 56:510 N '42 500w

WINKLER, ERNST, pseud. Four years of Nazi torture. 200p il $2.50 Appleton-Century

943.085 Concentration camps

42-7905

An ex-officer in the German army, a Roman Catholic, now a refugee with his wife and child in this country, writes this record of his years of horror from the time he left the German army until he arrived in America. During that time he became a leader in Catholic youth organizations, spent several years in concentration camps, escaped, and lived in Switzerland.

Booklist 38:439 Jl 15 '42

Reviewed by F. T. Marsh

Books p22 Ap 26 '42 500w

Christian Century 59:434 Ap 1 '42 70w

Reviewed by M. C. Scoggin

Library J 67:894 O 15 '42 20w

Reviewed by Betsey Hutchison

Nation 155:135 Ag 15 '42 200w

WINKLER, JOHN KENNEDY. Tobacco tycoon; the story of James Buchanan Duke. 337p $3 Random house

B or 92 Duke, James Buchanan

42-36360

Biography of James Buchanan Duke, founder of the tobacco trust in America, and benefactor of Duke university. In tracing this life story from Duke's first peddling of home-grown tobacco, to his ultimate great success and wealth, the author has stressed the personal background of his subject's career. Indexed.

Booklist 39:101 N 15 '42

"John Winkler, with his well known pre-occupation for the doings of the rich and the powerful, has picked for his new book one of the most fascinating of the lot. . . In tackling the life and times of old Buck Duke, Mr. Winkler has a subject which allows full play for his talents of romantic wonderment at the didoes of the exceedingly wealthy. It is not that Mr. Winkler treats his rich subjects with any undue reverence; indeed, he gives us some rather unlovely details, and he is not for a minute fooled by them. It is simply that he likes to study the rich and to discover, if possible, why they did the odd things they did." Stanley Walker

Books p16 O 25 '42 1150w

"Recommended for purchase, as it would seem the book is sure to be popular." R. B. Rankin

+ Library J 67:909 O 15 '42 120w

"Mr. Winkler writes about the slew-footed, red-headed tobacco tycoon in his usual racy style, but because the central theme—that of the building of the monopoly—is an old American story, even if told with different names, he has not given us a book that measures up to his earlier portraits of Hearst, Morgan, Rockefeller and the du Ponts. James Buchanan Duke lumbers through the pages as he did through life, a dull man. Occasionally we get flashes of his temper, and sometimes his father and brothers almost come to life. One has a feeling that it is more the fault of James Buchanan Duke than of Mr. Winkler that one leaves the book with a sense of disappointment." Karl Schriftgiesser

— N Y Times p22 O 25 '42 1350w

Spring'd Republican p7e Ja 10 '43 110w

WINN-SMITH, ALICE B. pseud. See Smith, A. E. B.

WINSLOW, LEON LOYAL. Art in elementary education. 294p il $2.75 McGraw

707 Art—Study and teaching (W) 42-19255

"The book suggests a plan of procedure that should be found adaptable to particular needs in any school system. It aims to present art in the elementary school as well as an active agent in curriculum integration. It helps to enrich the elementary school course of study by suggesting procedure that may be carried on in connection with the other school subjects as well as promoting art as an important phase of life in a democracy." (School Arts) Index.

Booklist 39:194 Ja 15 '43

"As a job analysis of the work of an art director who has in his hand the training of teachers, this book is written with great precision and completeness in its physical detail, but it denies, by omission, the spiritual values to be gained through art expression. These should come first from one who has in his charge the art-training of children and youth." M. F. Williams

EI School J 43:248 D '42 750w

School Arts 42:9a Ja '43 70w

WINSTON, ROBERT ALEXANDER. Aces wild [il. by Grant Powers]. 320p $2.50 Holiday

940.548173 World war, 1939—Personal narratives, American. Russo-Finnish war, 1939-1940 42-36046

Personal narrative of an American test pilot in Europe during the spring and summer of 1940. Much of the book is devoted to his experiences teaching Finnish aviators.

Booklist 38:207 F 15 '42

Reviewed by Beach Conger

Books p13 F 1 '42 480w

Cath World 155:637 Ag '42 250w

New Repub 106:278 F 23 '42 50w

Wis Lib Bul 38:119 J1 '42

WINSTON, ROBERT ALEXANDER. Aircraft carrier; il. with official U.S. navy photographs. 88p $2 Harper

359.32 Airplane carriers. World war, 1939—Aerial operations (W) 42-25712

Account of the part now being played by the United States aircraft carriers in the Pacific. All details which will be a help to the enemy are omitted, but all of the several departments which make up the unit are described. The author is a lieutenant in the United States navy. For grade six and up.

Booklist 39:187 Ja 1 '43

"Equally interesting to readers young and old."

+ Horn BK 19:42 Ja '43 90w

"The hundred odd photographs, the majority of which are official United States Navy pictures, make book interesting to boys too young to read text. Book will attract masculine readers of all ages in every library." Miriam Snow

+ Library J 68:39 Ja 1 '43 80w

"Because he has served aboard carriers and knows what they are for and how life goes on for 'flattop' crews, Lieutenant Winston is able to give a clear and complete picture of the Navy's 'longest arm.'" F. P. Graham

+ N Y Times p24 N 15 '42 480w

"This slender book deals with the aircraft carrier—deals chiefly in description by the use of United States Navy photographs, some of which are excellent. It also carries a message in text, and it is disappointing to find much of that text used to echo old peace-time wrangles and the debates of the early war days as to the value of aircraft carriers." Paul Schubert

Sat R of Lit 26:8 Ja 9 '43 550w

WINTER, WILLIAM JOHN. Model aircraft handbook; il. by Paul Plecan and H. A. Thomas. 292p $2 Crowell

629.13 Airplane models (W) 42-36079

"The organization of this book embraces the three main phases of the model-aircraft field: design, construction, and flying technique. And each of these categories is further organized to cover the problems of the average hobbyist, the beginner, and the expert. An effort was made to foresee all questions that might be asked by any enthusiast, regardless of age or experience. With these objectives in mind, the author planned the text and illustrations as a complete course in model aeronautics. The author has drawn on his experience with the hobby as an editor of Air Trails, a national model-airplane magazine." (Pref) Glossary. Index.

Booklist 38:229 Mr 1 '42

Reviewed by F. B. Sloan

Christian Science Monitor p12 Mr 26 '42 110w

"Recommended for all boys interested in the subject, especially for sixth grade and over." E. T. Dobbins

+ Library J 67:183 F 15 '42 70w

Wis Lib Bul 38:65 Ap '42

WIRTSCHAFTER, ZOLTON TILLSON. Minerals in nutrition. 175p il $1.75 Reinhold

612.3926 Nutrition. Minerals in the body 42-11020

"This book gives a popular presentation of the role that minerals play in the human body. There are numerous references to original work and several X-ray photographs contrasting normal conditions with the effects of a mineral deficiency." J Home Econ

Cleveland Open Shelf p10 My '42

"The book contains interesting information, but it is doubtful if much of it will be helpful to the lay reader as many paragraphs tend either to oversimplify the facts or assume the reader to have considerable scientific background." B. L. Kunerth

J Home Econ 36:486 S '42 80w

Pratt p15 D '42

WISCONSIN RESEARCH PROJECT IN SCHOOL BROADCASTING. Radio in the classroom. 203p $2 Univ. of Wis. press

371.333 Radio in education 42-37051

"Experimental studies in the production and classroom use of lessons broadcast by radio." (Subtitle) It "summarizes the work of the Wisconsin Research Project in School Broadcasting in which controlled experimentation was carried on to determine the usefulness of radio programs in teaching." (School R) Chapter summaries. No index.

"Few of the findings of this survey are likely to be directly applicable to other regions, but the technique may be suggestive to other educators contemplating the use of newer educational materials." A. W. VanderMeer

School R 50:539 S '42 700w

Reviewed by W. H. Hartley

Social Educ 7:47 Ja '43 900w

WISE, CARROLL A. Religion in illness and health. 279p $2.50 Harper

201 Medicine and religion. Personality. Psychology, Pathological (W) 42-15924

The author is chaplain of the Worcester state hospital, and has had opportunity to study many types of mental illness. His book shows the relationship between illness, religion, and health, and stresses the advisability of preventing illness, thru religion. Contains a chapter for the minister, suggesting what to do and what not to do. Chapter bibliographies. Index.

Booklist 38:419 J1 1 '42

WISE, C. A.—Continued

"The author's views on religion are sound. As a layman in the medical field he probably feels a need to support his position by reference to recognized authorities, while in the field of religion he does not consider himself to be under the same necessity. Altogether the book constitutes a useful contribution to the discussion of this important subject." C. T. Holman

+ Christian Century 59:839 J1 1 '42 800w

"A fine hand-book for clergy and physicians and psychiatrists and Mr. Average Citizen." T. F. Opie

+ Churchman 156:16 Ag 1 '42 210w

Reviewed by A. T. Boisen

Crozer Q 19:330 O '42 700w

WISSMAN, ERNEST E. Aircraft inspection. (Whittlesey house publication) 268p il $3 McGraw

629.1345 Airplanes—Inspection (W) 42-15900

Manual for aircraft inspectors and mechanics. Covers each step in inspection routine, as used in the Douglas aircraft company factories. Design and technical details are omitted as they vary in different factories. Index.

Booklist 38:438 J1 15 '42

Reviewed by Wolfgang Langewiesche

Books p22 S 27 '42 400w

Cleveland Open Shelf p14 J1 '42

N Y New Tech Bks 27:37 J1 '42

Pratt p3 D '42

WITHAM, GEORGE STRONG. Modern pulp and paper making; a practical treatise. 2d ed 705p il $6.75 Reinhold

676 Wood pulp. Paper making and trade 42-4998

"Second edition of a standard book, with chapters completely rearranged, and the omission of the appendix of tables which appeared in the first (or 1920) edition [Book Review Digest 1920]." N Y New Tech Bks

Booklist 38:371 Je 1 '42

Chem & Met Eng 49:211 My '42 250w

N Y New Tech Bks 27:10 Ja '42

WITTMANN, KONRAD F., and others. Industrial camouflage manual; prepared for the Industrial camouflage program at Pratt Inst, Brooklyn, New York. 128p il spir $4 Reinhold

355.43 Camouflage (military science) 42-17970

"Chiefly by diagrams and offset reproductions of photographs, this book sets forth the basic principles that must be applied to the camouflage of industrial plants. It is the outgrowth of the work of the staff of the Art School at Pratt Institute to develop a course in industrial camouflage." Eng N

Booklist 39:3 S '42

Cleveland Open Shelf p14 J1 '42

"Like most texts on camouflage, this manual has the defect of assuming that effects that can be produced with models can be reproduced in real life, thus giving an indication that much more can be accomplished in actual camouflage operations than will be found to be the case. Despite this weakness, it is by far the most complete and useful text on camouflage yet published."

+ — Eng N 129:11 Ag 13 '42 160w

Pratt p6 D '42

WIXON, BESSIE. Be proud of women. See Poole, G. M.

WODEHOUSE, PELHAM GRENVILLE. Money in the bank. 300p $2 Doubleday

(W) 42-36025

Lord Uffeham had converted all his wealth into diamonds for safe keeping, and then absent-mindedly forgot where he put them.

Unfortunately the unsuspecting Englishman confided his loss to a member in good standing of the Chicago underworld, with results almost too complicated to follow.

Booklist 38:190 F 1 '42

Bookmark 3:18 Mr '42

Reviewed by Isabel Paterson

Books p2 Ja 11 '42 700w

"'Money in the Bank' is very good Wodehouse—the happiest and battiest kind of escape literature. It doesn't belong to the most howlingly funny of the Wodehouse classics, stopping just this side of being side-splitting. But it specializes in rapid, fantastic and terrifically complicated plot. The intrigue is knitted up and raveled out again—like knitting in the hands of a novice—with such dizzying rhythm that it is a wonder it ever reaches a happy conclusion." Beatrice Sherman

+ N Y Times p7 Ja 18 '42 550w

Spring'd Republican p7e Ja 25 '42 170w

WOLF, MRS ANNA W. M. Our children face war. 214p $2 Houghton

940.53161 World war, 1939—Children. Parent and child (W) 42-50491

Counsel for parents and teachers on the business of adjusting children and young people to wartime environment. The author is senior staff member of the Child study association of America. Reading lists. No Index.

"Author's fine treatment of an important subject and her helpful reading lists for parents, teachers and children make her book indispensable for individual parents and teachers, parents' clubs, and parent-teacher associations." O. G. Lawson

+ Library J 67:1012 N 15 '42 120w

"A boon for worried parents."

+ New Yorker 18:60 D 26 '42 30w

"Mrs Wolf's book is a satisfactory combination of experience with children and psycho-analytical theory which should appeal to the intelligence of all those who wonder how best to help our children through these trying years." Margaret Gifford

+ Spring'd Republican p7e Ja 17 '43 850w

WOLFE, ALFRED. In Alaskan waters. 196p il $3 Caxton printers

639.22 Fishing—Alaska 42-14314

A narrative account of the author's experiences in salmon and halibut fishing in north-western waters from Puget Sound to Alaska.

Booklist 38:438 J1 15 '42

"Mr. Wolfe disclaims any attempt at literary excellence and says that accuracy in reporting is his chief aim. There is no reason to doubt that he gives the genuine low-down on the industry as viewed by an oldtimer in it, and the detailed manner in which he describes the work makes this almost a textbook."

+ Books p17 Ag 16 '42 200w

"His narrative is factual and specific, covering the technique of the craft, its economic aspects and the experiences encountered in that adventurous life. The author does not go out of his way to attain literary effect, but his story has the appeal of perfect sincerity and authenticity."

+ Christian Century 59:698 My 27 '42 70w

Wis Lib Bul 38:94 Je '42

WOLFENDEN, HUGH HERBERT. Fundamental principles of mathematical statistics, with special reference to the requirements of actuaries and vital statisticians and An outline of a course in graduation; pub. for the Actuarial soc. of America. 379p $5 Macmillan (Toronto) [Canadian publication]

311 Statistics 42-16575

"It briefly expounds the classical approach to statistical problems, and then explains the essentials of the modern theory of random sampling, curve fitting, and tests of goodness of fit; the reader may rapidly acquire some familiarity with such matters as the method of maximum likelihood, the Chi-square test, and the theory of estimation and the testing of statistical hypotheses. One device employed by the author is that of placing extended mathematical analyses, philosophical interpretations of such analyses, and applications to specific problems into what is essentially an appendix, thus making the main text a more succinct account of the chief theoretical principles involved. Another feature of the book is the stress placed on the historical development of statistical theory; for as Mr. Wolfenden explains, 'it is essential to the proper understanding of any subject to absorb the history of the mental processes which have guided its development.' J Philos

"This book should be an exceedingly useful reference manual to the vital statistician, since many of his special tools are given more adequate treatment here than in most works on mathematical statistics." J. W. Fertig
+ Am J Pub Health 32:1175 O '42 650w

"Although designed explicitly for use by actuaries and vital statisticians, the present manual should prove to be useful to other students of modern statistical methods; for it brings together in fairly readable form the results of much recent theoretical investigation." E. N.

+ J Philos 39:305 My 21 '42 180w
"The text by Wolfenden is especially appropriate for the increasing number of sociologists who are engaging in research in the field of population. Unlike the book on factor analysis, this book may be sampled at will by the reader if he has the level of facility with mathematical symbols usually attained in a first course in calculus. . . The excellent bibliography is functionally divided into a list of publications of historical significance and one of present value, the first arranged chronologically, the second, alphabetically by authors." M. J. Hagood
+ Social Forces 21:118 O '42 160w

WOLFF, MARITTA MARTIN. Night shift. 662p $2.75 Random house

(W) 42-50434

Chronicles of an American family living in a Michigan industrial town. Sally Otis, a waitress, is the indomitable member of the family. While her husband is in a mental institution, Sally struggles to support her children, and bolster up the morale of the rest of the family and that of the neighbors. Her sister Petey, a night club entertainer, attempts to help, but really complicates things for gallant Sally. By the author of Whistle Stop (Book Review Digest, 1941).

Booklist 39:185 Ja 1 '43

"Miss Wolff's people are as real and as plentiful as bread. They live in a world where the printed word does not impinge. Their clash, so far as they understand it, is not with ideas but with life itself—its fundamental problems. . . The six hundred odd pages of 'Night Shift' could have been trimmed, I imagine, to four hundred without serious loss. But I give you my word that I never thought of that while I was reading it!" F. H. Bullock

+ Books p2 N 22 '42 850w

"Though lengthy, interest is held. Language and many of the instances bring out sordidness of 'how the other half lives.' Characters well drawn. Sally expresses spirit of wholesome neighborliness and clean living, while her sister leads a definitely questionable life. Love, pathos, humor. Not recommended for small libraries." E. F. Kelly

+ Library J 67:952 N 1 '42 70w

"If 'Night Shift' is new proof of Miss Wolff's fictional energy, unfortunately it is even stronger proof of the harm the movies are doing our young writers. All of Miss Wolff's values are the black and white sentimentalized values of Hollywood; her characters are typed in a casting office. . . And this is particularly to be lamented because Miss Wolff has such an unmistakable vocation for fiction. She is lavish with plot and incident; she has a quite remarkable gift for visualizing scene, and her novel contains at least two memorable passages of description. . . But our young writers have to get their values somewhere, and it is as much the responsibility of contemporary fiction and criticism as it is of Hollywood that the movies have been able to do this kind of damage."

— + Nation 155:692 D 19 '42 360w

"To say that 'Night Shift' is an undisciplined kind of book, full of faults and excesses, is in no whit to detract from its superb vigor and warmth, its liveness, its raciness, its vitality. Miss Wolff is, I should say, a writer incapable of dullness. She can give tang and flavor to the simplest kind episode. . . It can all be summed up, I suppose, by saying that Miss Wolff has almost every requisite of the really first-rate novelist and that all she needs is a sense of form, direction, fitness and proportion." E. H. Walton

+ — N Y Times p7 N 22 '42 1150w

"The acclaim that Maritta Wolff won from the critics with her first novel was clearly deserved. She is everything they said of her: vigorous, talented, a brilliant observer, a ruthless realist—naturalist would be the better word—and, best of all, master of a wealth of knowledge and material that she has only begun to turn over. In 'Night Shift' all of these qualities are displayed with marvelous ease. . . There is no point in quarreling with Miss Wolff's defined world. . . It is certainly not a false picture, any more than it is a complete one. . . On the other hand, there is only an approximation of introspection. We lose sight of these people just below the skin. . . But she is getting the effects she wants. Yet if she should move toward greater penetration of the individual her work would, I think, deepen appreciably, and her world too. What ever she does, she is already one of the most interesting of our young writers." N. L. Rothman

+ — Sat R of Lit 25:9 N 21 '42 600w

Spring'd Republican p7e N 29 '42 440w

WOLFF, WERNER. Anton Bruckner, rustic genius; with music and il; introd. by Walter Damrosch. 283p $3.75 Dutton

B or 92 Bruckner, Anton 42-4463

Biography of the Austrian composer, containing an analysis of his symphonies and other works. Bruckner, whose idol was Wagner, suffered considerably from the critics and followers of Brahms, but after the European war his works received acclaim. The book contains studies of Bruckner's style; his place in musical history; and a chronology. Bibliography. Index.

"As a work of reference Mr. Wolff gives all his carefully sifted and accumulated knowledge of the composer's life." Margaret Byard
+ Commonweal 36:138 My 29 '42 350w

"Old-fashioned, dully written biography." Ralph Bates

Nation 154:375 Mr 28 '42 550w

Pratt p5 D '42

WOLFFE, KATHERINE. Attic room. 250p $2 Morrow

42-25363

Detective story.

"This recommended offering has a pretty puzzle and the climax is nothing short of grand." Will Cuppy

+ Books p48 D 6 '42 260w

"This appears to be Katherine Wolffe's first mystery story. It is fairly well done except for a too flowery style." Isaac Anderson

+ — N Y Times p20 D 13 '42 200w

WOLO, pseud. Secret of the ancient oak [il. by the author]. 41p $2 Morrow

(W) 42-22695

Picture story book for the very young. Seven families of animals lived in an old oak tree in the forest. They were all busy and happy and did not pay much attention to the neighbors, until a destructive beaver started to gnaw down their composite home. Then cooperation saved them all.

WOLO, pseud.—Continued

"They say Wolo has no other name, even signing checks with this alone, and I do not know his country of origin, but from this book I know he understands what this war means to the world of men of good will, and is able to convey it, without a word about airplanes and tanks, to little children in a many-colored animal-picture book. Pleasantly exciting to a little person, leading to a happy ending, an older one finds it strangely touching and altogether appropriate." M. L. Becker

+ Books p12 N 15 '42 300w

"Children will find here a good story with a wicked villain, but many parents will find in it an answer to just how to explain the war to their young children." R. A. Hill

+ Library J 67:885 O 15 '42 80w

"Modern fable with obvious implications. Gay illustrations by author in bright, attractive colors. Page decorations in soft green. Large print. For picture book age." M. N. Miller

Library J 67:957 N 1 '42 90w

"The Secret of the Ancient Oak' deserves special recommendation. It is the best book we have yet found to teach the principles of democracy. There is no direct propaganda about it, not even in the blurb on the jacket. Outwardly it appears to be just another unusually charming story of imaginary wood creatures. There is no mention of or comparison with our threatened actual world, but the whole present situation in which the world finds itself is, nevertheless, actually there." Marjorie Flack

+ Sat R of Lit 25:25 N 14 '42 140w

WOMEN of achievement; biographies and portraits of outstanding American women [ed. by Donald S. Rockwell] il. by G. Maillard Kesslere. 213p $12.50 House of Field

920 Woman—Biography. U.S.—Biography

"A book of 213 pages giving biographical information on 760 women. Of these, 437 are included in American Women and 85 in Career Women of America. Sketches of some outstanding women in a great variety of fields are included—law, medicine, dentistry, architecture, engineering, journalism, advertising, education, painting, sculpture, the theater, music, science, industry, finance, business, philanthropy, social service, organization and club activities, politics and civic undertakings. A number of prominent names, however, are missing, such as Ethel Barrymore, Anne Lindbergh, Florence Allen, Linda Eastman, Edna St. Vincent Millay, Willa Cather, Marian Anderson, Ellen Glasgow. Scarcely any librarians are mentioned, and many well-known writers are conspicuous by their absence. According to the editors the basis of selection is 'Women who through their own energy and peculiar genius have gained eminence in their selected work.'" Subscription Bks Bul

"The lack of factual data, such as dates and addresses, and of a classified list by occupation, minimizes the value of this book for speakers' bureaus or libraries. Because it gives some information about 323 women not readily found elsewhere, the book will have some usefulness. Women of Achievement is not recommended for general purchase."

+ Subscription Bks Bul 13:7 Ja '42 500w

WONSETLER, MRS ADELAIDE (HILL), and WONSETLER, JOHN C. Me and the general; il. by [the authors]. 299p $2 Knopf

(W) 41-10471

Story of a red-haired American boy, captured by Indian scouts during the War of 1812, and taken to the British headquarters at Amherstburg. Partly because of his hair, which his Indian captors thought "good medicine," the boy was treated well by the Indians and British alike. But when taken to Canada to be taught by a kindly priest the boy became conscious of his country's cause, and was able to aid the Americans. For ages ten to thirteen.

"Here is a vivid historical tale, well told with sparkling humor, with fine colorful pictures by the author-illustrators, excellent for reading aloud." F. B. Sloan

+ Christian Science Monitor p10 Ag 27 '42 200w

"Written with kindly humor, sound in its historical background and interpretation of conflicting customs and ideas, this appealing story well bears reading aloud. Striking illustrations give added distinction to a finely made book." A. M. Jordan

+ Horn Bk 18:257 J1 '42 120w

"Although the writing and build-up of the plot are uneven, due perhaps to the joint authorship, the book has real story interest, nice character development, and gives a good picture of the period. Illustrations and chapter headings by John C. Wonsetler are worthy of commendation." Claire Nolte

+ Library J 66:679 Ag '41 150w

WOOD, ESTHER (MRS GEORGE W. BRADY). Silver Widgeon; il. by Theresa Kalab. 227p $2 Longmans

42-23865

Two small modern boys, Peter, ten, and Pudge, eight, taken on an airplane trip to Canada, prove their resourcefulness when the plane has to make a forced landing in the wilderness. Charlie May, a colored maid who had taken the trip under protest, proves a source of humor. For children eight to ten.

Booklist 39:206 Ja 15 '43

"Small boys will praise this book; they'd better lend it to parents who may be wondering whether children nowadays have lost the use of their legs for walking, on account of transit facilities, or the use of the ingenuity their pioneer forefathers left them, on account of modern conveniences. For nothing could be more modern than the Silver Widgeon or these two boys, Peter and Pudge, yet one gets the other into a situation where primitive conditions must be overcome at first hand." M. L. Becker

+ Books p10 N 8 '42 350w

Christian Century 59:1360 N 4 '42 30w

Reviewed by H. L. Binsse

Commonweal 37:118 N 20 '42 10w

Reviewed by R. A. Hill

Library J 67:886 O 15 '42 30w

"An answer to a librarian's and a small boy's prayer. A story about airplanes and adventure for the middle fry: boys too big for airplane picture books and too young for aviation career stories." S. J. Johnson

+ Library J 67:1069 D 1 '42 70w

"The little boys have their picture books of airplanes and the big ones have their mystery and adventure tales of aviation, but a good story in this field for the in-between has been as hard to find as a hen's tooth until Esther Wood wrote 'Silver Widgeon'. . . This is a story of man-sized adventure which small boys meet gamely and plausibly, told with a bubbling humor and a graphic sense of flight and all that it means to an air-minded generation." E. L. Buell

+ N Y Times p9 N 1 '42 280w

Spring'd Republican p7e Ja 3 '43 80w

WOOD, MRS MARNI. Parties on a shoestring. 96p il $1.50 Stewart

793 Entertaining, Menus

42-2221

Plans, menus and necessary accessories are given for thirty-six parties of all kinds and for all ages from four year olds to grandfathers. Includes a few recipes and directions for games in a separate section. Index.

Booklist 38:206 F 15 '42

Cleveland Open Shelf p7 Mr '42

Wis Lib Bul 38:28 F '42

WOOD, RALPH, ed. Pennsylvania Germans. 307p $3 Princeton univ. press
325.243 Germans in Pennsylvania 42-36243
"The interpretation of the Pennsylvania Germans, a staunch old American stock, to their fellow Americans through nine scholarly essays which discuss origin, religious sects, achievements in journalism, farming, education, and literature, and their place in history. Appendix: The Pennsylvania German dialect. Bibliography." Booklist

Reviewed by A. E. Zucker
Am Hist R 48:364 Ja '43 500w
Booklist 38:380 Je 15 '42

Reviewed by W. C. Weber
Books p18 O 4 '42 200w

"This book would be worth reading and pondering upon if only for its demonstration that race has no necessary—and in this case no actual—correlation with political and social perversity. . . It is in all respects a very delightful book, as well as a thoroughly scholarly one." W. E. Garrison
+ Christian Century 59:1059 S 2 '42 900w

Reviewed by H. A. Wooster
Library J 67:319 Ap 1 '42 100w
New Repub 106:902 Je 29 '42 90w
N Y Times p4 J1 5 '42 420w

WOOD, WILLIAM PLATT, and CORK, JAMES MURLE. Pyrometry. 2d ed 263p il $3 McGraw
536.52 Pyrometers and pyrometry 41-15620
New edition of an elementary college text first published in 1927 (Book Review Digest, 1927). "Exactly the same field is covered in the second edition, although many new instruments have been described and considerable supplementary text has been added to clarify earlier points. In the main the illustrations have been revised, and both text and illustrations have been materially increased. While the teacher and research man will find the work a valuable one, the user too will discover that no significant industrial instrument for temperature measurement has been omitted." (Chem & Met Eng) Indexes.

Booklist 38:98 N 15 '41

+ Chem & Met Eng 49:187 F '42 220w

WOODBURY, DAVID OAKES. What the citizen should know about submarine warfare; drawings by Louis H. Ruyf; diagrams by the author. 231p $2.50 Norton

359 Submarine warfare (W) 42-20590
"The object of this book is to give the reader a sound background of nontechnical information on the submarine and its uses and of the measures developed against it. This includes the history of the submarine and the torpedo; how they operate today; life beneath the sea and how crews are trained for it; together with an analysis of submarine warfare from 1914 to the present." (Publisher's note) Bibliography. Index.

Booklist 39:5 S '42

"Necessarily only the high lights of actual combat are given, for the full story would fill many volumes. None the less the author, who served in the Navy during World War I and is now connected with Navy Public Relations, tells what is needful in a book which should be widely read." P. J. Searles
+ Books p7 S 13 '42 380w

"A splendid addition to the excellent 'Citizen's Series.'" R. G. Doyle
+ N Y Times p4 Ag 30 '42 750w

"This book about submarine warfare is a thoroughly practical, fully trustworthy, effectively illustrated handbook, crowded with information that every citizen ought surely to have."

+ Scientific Bk Club R 13:3 O '42 300w

WOODCOCK, MRS LOUISE (PHINNEY). Tommy Tippet's toys; a cardboard book for twos and threes; il. by Elizabeth Logan. unspiral $1 Scott, W.R.

"Here is a story the 2 and 3 year olds will enjoy, for it is so simple that they can grasp all the incidents and recognize them as familiar experiences. Climbing up the stairs, Tommy Tippet finds his toys all along the way, from the red fire engine at the bottom, to the wiggly fish on the top step. When he decides to go downstairs, he slides down with a bump, bump, bump, and as a climax, which to any 2-year-old will seem entirely adequate, he finds a cookie waiting for him in the kitchen." N Y Times

Reviewed by M. L. Becker
Books p32 N 15 '42 150w

"This picture-story book will be useful not only with the pre-school age, but as a first reading book. Its cardboard pages are durably put together and the drawings have action and simplicity, though the colors seem crude and garish." A. T. E.

+ N Y Times p8 N 15 '42 120w

"Small children will love the sounds Tommy makes as he climbs the stairs and finds one toy after another. The most satisfactory feature of the book is that even a two-year-old can look at it alone and follow every page of the story without help." Rosemary Dawson
+ Sat R of Lit 25:28 N 14 '42 50w

WOODLOCK, THOMAS FRANCIS. Catholic pattern. 201p $2 Simon & Schuster
230.2 Roman Catholic church—Doctrinal and controversial works (W) 42-13227

The statement of a Catholic layman, written for readers of any faith, as to what a Catholic believes, and a demonstration of the way in which the "Catholic pattern" fits the world of today.

"Only a newspaper man would have the audacity to discuss the profound theme with which his book deals, in the tone here employed. We may add that none but a newspaper man would be able to air his ideas so realistically yet inoffensively; and it would be a rare newspaper man who could bring to his task the intellectual background and long, perfectly integrated experience which distinguish this newspaperman. That is one reason why his book gives so satisfying an answer to a problem which has been vexing a large proportion of intelligent Americans." Joseph McSorley
+ Cath World 155:631 Ag '42 500w

Reviewed by F. C. Kelley
+ Commonweal 36:184 Je 12 '42 700w

"Mr. Woodlock's book seems to me important and greatly needed." G. N. Shuster
+ N Y Times p14 Je 7 '42 750w

"Lively, short, and argued on a reasonably high level."

+ New Yorker 18:75 My 16 '42 60w

"Brilliantly, Mr. Woodlock joins issue with higher education and the 'instrumentalist' teachings. Less forceful seems what he has to say about the Catholic pattern's relationship to democracy. He restricts himself to demonstrating its consistency with the American political system. . . Whatever our objections may be, it is a great experience to watch, in our skeptical modern world, such uncompromising thinking and believing. This is why this book is so valuable." Robert Pick
+ Sat R of Lit 25:18 J1 18 '42 900w

WOODRUFF, DOUGLAS, ed. For Hilaire Belloc; essays in honor of his 71st birthday. 218p $2.75 Sheed

824.08 Belloc, Hilaire. Roman Catholic literature. Religious thought. History 42-10264

"These essays are the work of a group of younger writers, some of them his disciples, all his friends, and all fellow-members with him in the same ancient Church. Only one is about Mr. Belloc himself; in this Mr. Douglas Jerrold writes of his influence in gaining a hearing for ideas which in his youth were considered obsolete in England. . . In some of the other essays, Mr. Arnold Lunn, writing on Alpine Mysticism, finds in the aesthetic sense the unanswerable objection to materialism; Mr. Douglas Woodruff shows how the native pessimism of Newman and the native optimism of Chesterton meet and are transcended in a theocentric 'exorbitance'; Monsignor Knox contributes an ironic study of the early Victorian canon of Durham who went to Rome to convert the Pope; another ironist, Mr. J. B. Morton, sketches the life of André Chenier, with special reference to the strange accident by which a cold and promiscuous worldling became through his verse immortalized among the Romantics as a sort of virgin martyr, 'La Jeune Captive.' " Times [London] Lit Sup

WOODRUFF, DOUGLAS—Continued

"The genial custom of dedicating a collection of monographs on related subjects to a man whom the respective authors consider their master in the field is here exemplified in a volume of interesting notes, both historical and critical. Mr. Belloc richly deserves some sort of tribute from the world of letters and the Catholic scholars and critics herein represented are Belloc's spiritual sons and sealed of his tribe as manifestly as were ever the sons of Ben Jonson. . . There may be more important work in this volume, but the piece that is most delightful is a prim-mouthed, open-eyed study by Ronald Knox, entitled, 'The Man Who Tried to Convert the Pope.' It is witty and suave as always and brings up the inevitable lament that Monsignor Knox does not write oftener." J. G. E. Hopkins

+ Commonweal 36:68 My 8 '42 450w

Manchester Guardian p3 N 11 '42 100w

"What is most interesting about this collection is that, various as the essays are, they are all indisputably linked with the works of Mr. Belloc in his fifty years of literary activity."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p538 O 31 '42 550w

WOODS, WILLIAM HOWARD. Edge of darkness. 334p $2.50 Lippincott

(W) 42-36167

A novel of occupied Norway, and of the struggle of the people to free themselves from the tyranny of the Nazis. A Norwegian girl, young and impressionable, falls in love with one of the soldiers, and their earnest young love comes to a tragic close. The final scene is the battle which takes place between the Nazis and the Norwegians, the latter fighting with arms smuggled in from England.

"Characters and incidents are all subdued to the main stream of a story of indomitable courage and resourcefulness which in spite of its sadness is powerfully exciting and, notwithstanding the failure of the revolt, very heartening." R. M. Gay

+ Atlantic Je '42 130w

Booklist 38:310 Ap 15 '42

Bookmark 3:18 My '42

"The great strength of William Woods as a novelist is that he realizes the humanity of all of his characters, no matter what uniforms they wear. I, for one, find it astonishing that in the very midst of this war a writer could rise to such objectivity. This book reads as if events that have been taking place right under our eyes were seen in an unlimited perspective. . . There will not be many first novels published this year more distinguished than this one." Milton Hindus

+ Books p5 Ap 12 '42 850w

"It is a gripping story, and important because it is both contemporary and objective—the author consistently condemns the forces that motivate the actions of his characters without condemning the characters themselves; he condemns the system of National Socialism, not the petty agent through which it works." Gloria Amoury

+ Commonweal 36:42 My 1 '42 380w

"Recommended." Katherine Shorey

+ Library J 67:319 Ap 1 '42 70w

New Repub 106:742 My 25 '42 60w

"Woods' tale about a far-off Norwegian village and the determined fight of its people is written in simple, powerful prose, and one would like to describe its literary merits at greater length. However, there are a few points in it decidedly misleading. . . Mr. Woods's book, though thoroughly honorable in its intentions, is not too helpful either. For it gives us the impression one can be both a loyal Nazi and a decent human being." Marianne Hauser

+ — N Y Times p6 Ap 12 '42 900w

"The usual clichés are present, but on the whole the book is real and honest. . . No masterpiece, but a sound, stirring job of narration." Clifton Fadiman

+ — New Yorker 18:85 Ap 11 '42 150w

"Mr. Woods has drawn his characters very simply. He has a talent for bringing them to life with only a few strokes of his pen. Consequently, one wishes he had drawn them in greater detail. Because of this treatment, their number, and the rapid change of scene, there is at times a confusion to the story. But out of it, as sharp and clear as his picture of the little Norwegian town, rises the truth of his theme, that no amount of suffering and hardship will keep free men passive under the yoke of a conqueror. It is this that gives his title significance." B. P. Schoyer

+ — Sat R of Lit 25:6 Ap 11 '42 500w

"Mr. Woods' characters, even the refractory ones, are forced into line by the compulsion of events, which proves too much for them as individuals; but the book can be read for its objective narrative of a nation's struggle against oppression." John Hampson

Spec 169:158 Ag 14 '42 210w

Times [London] Lit Sup p341 Jl 11 '42 1100w

Reviewed by Robert Littell

Yale R n s 31:x summer '42 180w

WOODWARD, HILDEGARD. Jared's Blessing; pictures by [the author]. [64p] $1.75 Scribner

(W) 42-21773

Story of a boy and a dog in pre-Revolutionary Connecticut. Jared, small son of the minister, just arrived from England, was unhappy and lonely until he rescued a little lost dog. After that life became an exciting adventure as Jared followed his misnamed Blessing from one bit of mischief to another. But Blessing was not entirely destructive, and he succeeded in earning a welcome in the little town.

Reviewed by M. L. Becker

Books p30 N 15 '42 280w

Cath World 156:375 D '42 90w

Reviewed by A. M. Jordan

Horn Bk 18:421 N '42 60w

"Good for grades three and four." J. E. Wooster

+ Library J 67:957 N 1 '42 70w

"Children who, if they do not have a dog, are always hoping to have one, will thoroughly enjoy the account. . . Miss Woodward writes with gentle humor and imaginative understanding of both dogs and children. Her pictures have charm and genuine atmosphere and convey a real feeling of life in colonial New England." A. T. Eaton

+ N Y Times p9 O 11 '42 240w

"A delightful story."

+ Spring'd Republican p7e D 13 '42 80w

Wis Lib Bul 38:189 D '42

WOODWARD, SHERMAN MELVILLE, and POSEY, CHESLEY JOHNSTON. Hydraulics of steady flow in open channels. 151p $2.75 Wiley

532.54 Hydraulics

41-27644

"The purpose of this book is to present the theory of the steady flow of water in open channels in concise form, suitable for use in senior and first-year graduate courses, and for home study by young engineers who wish to improve their knowledge of this branch of hydraulics. . . The tables are so arranged that they can be used with a minimum of reference to the text. A knowledge of elementary hydraulics is presupposed." (Pref) Index.

Reviewed by F. C. Scobey
Eng N 128:95 Ap 9 '42 550w
N Y New Tech Bks 27:25 Ap '42

WOODWORTH, ROBERT SESSIONS. Heredity and environment. 95p pa 90c Social science research council

136.2 Heredity. Man—Influence of environment. Twins 41-23993

"This is a report prepared for the Committee on Social Adjustment of the Council, E. W. Burgess, chairman. Its purpose is to disclose the results of research in the fields indicated, the roles of heredity and environment in producing individual differences, the merits of the methods used, and promising lines for further study. . . The study is divided into 30 pages on twins, 38 pages on foster children, 17 pages on institutional homes for children, 5 pages of 'Conclusions and Suggestions,' and 4 pages of bibliography." Am Soc R

Reviewed by E. B. Reuter
Am J Soc 47:780 Mr '42 460w

"The job has been remarkably well done. It will not please the extremists, especially those of the environmentalist camp, but it will abundantly repay repeated scrutiny by everyone interested in this fascinating and profoundly important field of research." F. H. Hankins

+ Am Soc R 7:273 Ap '42 600w

Reviewed by F. N. Freeman
Ann Am Acad 219:205 Ja '42 410w

WOOLF, VIRGINIA (STEPHEN) (MRS LEONARD SIDNEY WOOLF). Death of the moth, and other essays. 248p $3 Harcourt [9s Hogarth]

824 (W) 42-22528

Selections from the essays, sketches and short stories, which were left by the author on her death. Some of them were unpublished, others had appeared in various English or American periodicals. Contents: The death of the moth; Evening over Sussex; Reflections in a motor car; Three pictures; Old Mrs Grey; Street haunting; Jones and Wilkinson; 'Twelfth Night' at the Old Vic; Madame De Sévigné; The humane art; Two antiquaries; Walpole and Cole; The Rev. William Cole: A letter; The historian and 'The Gibbon'; Reflections at Sheffield Place; The man at the gate; Sara Coleridge; 'Not one of us'; Henry James: (1) Within the rim (2) The old order (3) The letters of Henry James; George Moore; The novels of E. M. Forster; Middlebrow; The art of biography; Craftsmanship; A letter to a young poet; Why? Professions for women; Thoughts on peace in an air raid.

"Mrs. Woolf's sentences are luminous; they are alight with feeling, with eager curiosity, and with that sensitive identification which enables her to speak of Gibbon and Walpole and Shelley as if she had lived next door to them when she was a girl. Her writing is a fabric of detail. When the detail is perceptive and plentiful, as it is in the essay which establishes the mood and title of this new book, writing is transcendental." Edward Weeks

+ Atlantic 170:142 N '42 200w

Booklist 39:29 O 1 '42

Bookmark 4:9 N '42

Reviewed by M. M. Colum
Books p3 O 4 '42 950w

Reviewed by Margaret Meagher
Cath World 156:240 N '42 550w

"The riches of the book are both overwhelming and companionable." Harold Hobson
+ Christian Science Monitor p10 S 5 '42 340w

Reviewed by Dorothy Karr
Churchman 156:17 D 1 '42 120w

Reviewed by David Burnham
Commonweal 36:567 O 2 '42 400w

Reviewed by K. T. Willis
Library J 67:682 Ag '42 90w

"There are readers who find Virginia Woolf's novels difficult and one wonders how to coax and float them on an adventure which yields to the courageous a richness of buoyant experience unmatched in the literature of our time. Her essays surely are the answer. There is poetry in every line of them, or anyhow in every other line; and their beautiful quick perceptions are thrown on objects that everyone can recognise." B. S.

+ Manchester Guardian p3 Je 24 '42 250w

Reviewed by Louis Kronenberger
Nation 155:382 O 17 '42 500w

Reviewed by O. H. Dunbar
New Repub 107:471 O 12 '42 950w

Reviewed by Raymond Mortimer
New Statesman & Nation 23:390 Je 13 '42 850w

Reviewed by Horace Gregory
N Y Times p2 S 27 '42 600w

"Exquisitely written, if at times too rarefied."

New Yorker 18:80 S 26 '42 40w

"'The Death of the Moth' will take its place with the two volumes of 'The Common Reader.' Here, in the essays on Madame de Sévigné, on Horace Walpole, on Walpole's friend Cole, on Gibbon, in the delightful piece 'Jones and Wilkinson,' Virginia Woolf displays her genius, second only in our time to Max Beerbohm's, for the interpretative presentation of men and women. There is warmth and wit in her writing, and at moments, as in the shorter papers on Shelley and Coleridge, a rare, wondering tenderness towards great men of whom she could not quite approve, whom she did not altogether understand." R. E. Roberts

+ Sat R of Lit 25:9 O 5 '42 550w

"Only can Virginia Woolf convey with extraordinary intensity a particular act of sensual perception; she is also one of the very rare prose writers whose general statements immediately and intensely recreate in the mind of the reader the feeling stated. . . The fascination of these last short essays lies in seeing her pose problems as if she had not in some sense solved them; and one wishes passionately that there were more of this and more of the statements, which are poems, of 'the fine mistlike substance of countless lives.' But possibly she was too much a prose writer for these to be poems detached from their context, and, anyway, one would presumably have missed other admirable things, wit, feminism and plain nonsense." Carol Stewart

+ Spec 168:584 Je 19 '42 850w

"Those who have read Mr. E. M. Forster's recent appreciation of Virginia Woolf now have an admirable opportunity of testing their agreement, or disagreement, with his judgments by reading this new book of essays, most of which are up to the author's highest standard in a literary form that was most congenial to her. Mr. Woolf has selected them from matter enough to fill three or four volumes, and his only hesitation about publishing them was due to his knowledge that the author would have made large alterations and revisions in them all before allowing them to appear in a book."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p296 Je 13 '42 1000w

Wis Lib Bul 38:159 N '42

Reviewed by Mark Schorer
Yale R n s 32:377 winter '43 1050w

WOOLRICH, CORNELL (WILLIAM IRISH, pseud). Black alibi. 377p $2 Simon & Schuster 42-10431

Detective story.

Booklist 38:369 Je 1 '42

Reviewed by Will Cuppy
Books p18 Ap 12 '42 160w

WOOLRICH, CORNELL—Continued

"This is the best Inner Sanctum mystery for a long time." Elizabeth Hull
+ Boston Globe p15 My 20 '42 80w

"The author has succeeded well enough in depicting the horror of the murders and the terror of the victims, but the ending of his story is more than a trifle weak. Arm-chair sleuths will find the book disappointing because the author gives them no chance whatever to beat the amateur detective to the solution." Isaac Anderson

+ N Y Times p14 Ap 19 '42 150w

"Grisly and gruesome chronicle, with super-melodramatic climax. Not quite believable but good fare for those who like their horrors neat."

Sat R of Lit 25:30 Ap 11 '42 40w

WOOLRICH, CORNELL (WILLIAM IRISH, pseud). Phantom lady. (Story press bk) 291p $2 Lippincott

(W) 42-21645

Detective story.

Reviewed by Will Cuppy

Books p10 Ag 30 '42 180w

"Real mystery, swell plot, fast moving."

+ Boston Globe p19 Ag 10 '42 20w

Reviewed by Isaac Anderson

N Y Times p18 Ag 30 '42 220w

"Despite occasional improbabilities, yarn is highly original and ending packs real wallop. Very good."

+ Sat R of Lit 25:16 Ag 15 '42 40w

Time 40:116 S 7 '42 40w

WORDSWORTH, DOROTHY. Journals; ed. by Ernest de Selincourt. 2v 443;419p $10 (36s) Macmillan

B or 92

A42-3963

"[These] volumes contain all Dorothy's extant journals, as well as her accounts of tours in Scotland and on the Continent. The latter, being written up for publication, are sensibly less interesting than the Grasmere and Alfoxden journals; and they are much too long-winded. The journals contain the essence of her genius." New Statesman & Nation

"The 800 pages and more that make up these volumes, with their pedantic if not always useful notes, their maps, indices and appendices, confirm one's estimate of the characters rather than of the gifts of the humorless, self-centered William and the sensitive, passionately devoted Dorothy. . . The result is of unquestionable value not only to students of Wordsworth and his circle, but also to those interested in that period of English life. It offers, indirectly, glimpses of the sources of some of William's poems, and in its clear evocations of little scenes at home and abroad testifies to the truth of his well known tribute to his sister." Babette Deutsch

+ Books p2 Ag 9 '42 1550w

"No book could be a more effective antidote to a war of machines than these two handsome volumes in which Professor E. de Selincourt has re-edited Dorothy Wordsworth's Journals. . . Professor de Selincourt prints the best. His judgment in such matters and his precision as an editor are unrivalled." H. I.A. F.

+ Manchester Guardian p3 My 6 '42 300w

Reviewed by Lionel Trilling

New Repub 107:235 Ag 24 '42 1400w

"One is glad to have it all at last, and to be given, besides, a rather sharper picture of Dorothy's preoccupation with Coleridge than the old edition permitted to appear." E. S. West

+ New Statesman & Nation 23:324 My 16 '42 700w

"These journals certainly [contain] the portrait of a soul and in no poem or novel could she have expressed the portrait of that unique soul so well as in these journals." M. A. Zaturenska

+ N Y Times p4 Jl 12 '42 1600w

"A must for Wordsworth scholars." Christopher Morley

+ Sat R of Lit 25:7 Je 13 '42 260w

"All these Journals have the warmth of the lovely heart from which they came. And our debt to Professor de Selincourt for giving us that undying company is profound." Edith Sitwell

+ Spec 168:445 My 8 '42 950w

Times [London] Lit Sup p322 Je 27 '42 300w

Reviewed by Horace Gregory

Yale R n s 32:185 autumn '42 1400w

WORKS, GEORGE ALAN, and LESSER, SIMON O. Rural America today; its schools and community life. 450p il maps $3.75 Univ. of Chicago press

379.173 Rural schools. Sociology, Rural (W) 42-17997

" "Many children—few dollars" sums up the nation's number one educational problem—the teaching of rural youth,' according to the publisher's announcement. Not a minority, but a full half of the nation's children are being deprived of that equality of educational opportunity 'which should be their birthright as Americans.' The problem of rural education in its many aspects is discussed. The authors have felt that it has its roots in economic, demographic, and community conditions, and that, particularly so far as rural America is concerned, it is useless to discuss education as though it pertained to the schools alone. School problems receive intensive consideration but, in addition, there are chapters on rural health, recreation, social welfare, the problems of rural youth and of rural Negroes, and community planning." (School & Society) Index.

Reviewed by J. E. Briggs

Am Pol Sci R 36:988 O '42 310w

"This is our best analysis of 'the Nation's number-one educational problem—rural education.' It is the first full-length study of this problem which recognizes that the schools are community agencies. And the book can be read by ordinarily literate citizens." C. A. Anderson

+ Ann Am Acad 224:227 N '42 180w

Booklist 39:3 S '42

"This is a book for laymen, crammed full of facts. It presents the best thinking on what the rural school should be in reference to itself and its community. . . Nothing is said about spiritual motivation and little about the church. The drift seems to be toward a secularized, state-directed educational system with complete community education as its goal. This raises the question, Can a secular institution train pupils for complete living? The reviewer thinks not. He wishes that this book would have come to grips with the questions of the church and the public school, and religion and education." Mark Rich

+ Christian Century 59:1057 S 2 '42 650w

"The reviewer would say that this book ought to be required reading, not only for all the rank and file of workers in rural education, but for all educational leaders in the United States, rural and urban. For educational leaders whose experiences have been confined to the good city schools of the United States and whose social contacts are limited to the upper middle class, the reading of this book ought to be a most disillusioning and disturbing experience. When this war is over, rural education and social welfare will be two areas in which progress is long overdue. This book presents the problems and points the way to the great work that needs to be done." Roscoe Pulliam

+ El School J 43:186 N '42 600w

School & Society 56:56 Jl 11 '42 110w

"Rural education is on 'its way up,' but much remains to be done if education in America is to be made available to all on reasonably equal terms. No volume in recent years has so clearly stated the problems nor more succinctly pointed out useful modes of approach." J. E. Butterworth

+ School R 50:664 N '42 1100w

WORLD CITIZENS ASSOCIATION. World's destiny and the United States. 309p $1; pa 50c The association, 84 E. Randolph st, Chicago

321.041 International cooperation. League of nations, U.S.—Foreign relations 41-24542

"The contributions of thirty men and women to a 'conference of experts' held at the Onwent-sia Club, Lake Forest, Illinois, in April 1941, were edited and compiled by Henri Bonnet so as to constitute a permanent record, in book form, of their conclusions concerning some of the more important aspects of some of the problems which will confront the 'democratic countries' during and after the war." (Ann Am Acad) Index.

Reviewed by W. L. Godshall
Ann Am Acad 220:211 Mr '42 600w
Social Studies 33:46 Ja '42 20w

WORTH, KATHRYN (MRS W. C. CURRY). They loved to laugh; il. by Marguerite de Angeli. 269p $2 Doubleday

(W) 42-9472

North Carolina in the 1830's is the scene of this story of Martitia, a sixteen-year old orphan girl brought to live in the home of a Quaker doctor. The five sturdy sons of the house "loved to laugh," and the shy, gently reared little girl, who seldom laughed, became the center of many of their practical jokes. As the years went on Martitia learned to laugh and to accept the ways of the frontier. For junior and senior high school.

"Although the characters are overdrawn and contrasts are too sharp, this unusual story of North Carolina in the early 1830's has some fine qualities. More adult in treatment than most stories for older girls."

Booklist 38:335 My 1 '42

"It is not usual to find a story for the teens with so definite a purpose and so frank a spiritual message that succeeds also in being a good story."

+ Books p10 My 10 '42 500w

Reviewed by F. B. Sloan
Christian Science Monitor p10 Ag 13 '42 110w

Cleveland Open Shelf p24 N '42

"This warm-hearted, generous book with its vital characters and its sense of true values is unreservedly recommended for older girls."

A. M. Jordan

+ Horn Bk M 18:180 My '42 100w

"Characters are well drawn and story is told with charm. Marguerite de Angeli illustrates book with delicate line drawings." A. M. Wetherell

+ Library J 67:416 My 1 '42 90w

"This portrait of a family, set against a richly detailed background of the period, which put loyalty and kindness above thought of its own needs, is one to impress the 'teen-aged girl with the values of our heritage.'" E. L. Buell

+ N Y Times p8 Ap 12 '42 400w

"The author of 'The Middle Button' has written another fine tale of family life which should appeal to Louisa M. Alcott enthusiasts."

+ New Yorker 18:76 My 23 '42 90w

Wis Lib Bul 38:100 Je '42

WOYTINSKY, WLADIMIR S. Three aspects of labor dynamics; a report prepared for the Com. on social security. 249p $2.50 Social science research council. Com. on social security

331.137 Unemployment—U.S. Labor and laboring classes—U.S. Labor turnover 42-11139

"The period from 1910 to 1919 was one of extensive demand for labor. The period from 1919 to 1929 may be characterized as one of increasing labor market rigidity. The 1930-40 decade saw a greatly diminished demand for labor and a consequently large amount of unemployment. Since 1940 the defense and war program has reversed again to a large extent the conditions of the labor market. In this book there has been a marshaling and reworking of available statistical data on the movements of labor into and out of the market during the first three of the four periods mentioned above. . . The 'three aspects of labor dynamics' which are studied . . . are the turnover of labor in industrial establishments, the turnover of the unemployed, and the movement of 'additional workers' into the labor market during depression times." (Ann Am Acad) Index.

"The author's refinement and improvement of the technique of measurement in this area of research will be welcomed by students concerned primarily with problems of labor turnover and unemployment. In sponsoring such studies as the present one, the Committee on Social Security of the Social Science Research Council is doing a notable work for the advancement of genuine scholarship in the social sciences." G. S. Watkins

+ Am Econ R 32:632 S '42 1600w

"Students of labor-market phenomena will find the material very useful." C. R. Daugherty

+ Ann Am Acad 224:196 N '42 400w

"The volume outlines a field of investigation that will doubtless be subjected to further analysis and possible verification of present findings. In doing so, it makes a valuable contribution to the literature of labor economics."

Dale Yoder

+ J Pol Econ 50:773 O '42 950w

WREN, HAROLD ALOYSIUS. Vocational aspiration levels of adults. 150p $1.85 Teachers college

371.425 Ability—Testing. Occupations 42-21451

"This investigation seeks identification of the characteristics of workers on various occupational levels in relation to their vocational ambitions." School & Society

School & Society 55:736 Je 27 '42 20w

"Vocational counselors will be particularly interested in this study." J. M. O'Rourke

School R 50:730 D '42 700w

WREN, PERCIVAL CHRISTOPHER. Odd—but even so; stories stranger than fiction. 337p $2.50 Macrae Smith co. [7s 6d Murray, J]

(W) 42-12035

Collection of fifteen stories, most of them verging on the "queer" or the supernatural. The localities are: India and the Far East, including Manchuria, eight; Africa has three; England, two; Central America one; and one unspecified.

"They are good stories of a departed world."

Lisle Bell

+ Books p16 Ag 23 '42 90w

Boston Globe p19 S 9 '42 150w

"All in all 'Odd—but Even So' is as good a collection as Wren admirers could well ask for; even if it does smack too much of the conventional Eastern and Colonial world of yesterday's fiction for every one's—including this reviewer's—taste." J. S. Southron

+ N Y Times p7 Ag 16 '42 700w

Times [London] Lit Sup p589 N 20 '41 390w

Wis Lib Bul 38:139 O '42

WRENN, CHARLES GILBERT, and BELL, REGINALD. Student personnel problems; a study of new students and personnel services. 235p $2 Farrar

371.42 Personnel service in education 42-2105

"A comprehensive analysis of the adjustment problems of new students in college; an outline in simple language of what both institutions and faculty advisers can do to meet these problems, and a statement of the importance of a more careful articulation of the guidance given in high school with that given in college." School & Society

School & Society 55:84 Ja 17 '42 60w

WRENN, C. G., and BELL, R.—Continued
Reviewed by J. I. Hartstein
School & Society 56:246 S 19 '42 750w

"The volume should be of practical interest to counselors and administrators in colleges and in high schools. It may be found an appropriate textbook for courses in the personnel field. Its contribution to the field of personnel literature lies in the clearness with which it brings out (1) the peculiar adjustment problems faced by the new student in college and (2) the role that the high school and the college may play in developing an articulated educational program designed to eliminate many of these adjustment problems." D. M. MacKenzie

+ School R 50:311 Ap '42 900w

WRIGHT, AUSTIN TAPPAN. Islandia. 1013p
$3 Farrar

(W) 42-7208

Long novel describing in detail the life on an imaginary continent, called Islandia, situated in the South Pacific. Three million inhabitants, white, intelligent, and highly emotional, live on the island continent, separated by a high range of mountains from the savage black natives of the rest of the continent. Into this ideal country John Lang goes as American consul, and falls in love with its culture and its ways, and finally receives permission to spend the rest of his life there. This book, as well as a detailed history of Islandia was written by an American professor of law, who died in 1931. The condensed version here published was put into order for publication by the author's wife and daughter.

Appeared on Best Seller list in: Books (22)
N Y Times (1) PW (7) RB (2) W (1)

"It is a fine novel, for all its changes of pace over the passage of years. In it Islandia holds the mirror up to America and Europe. It is a gentle, philosophical novel, but peopled with men and women and children who grow on you, come to life eventually. There are wooden figures, especially in the beginning, and some of the love scenes—especially in the early sections—are a bit painful. There is, it seems to me, a good deal of oversimplification in the fields of thought. But there is also a fine simplicity. 'Islandia' is unique. There is nothing quite like it under the sun. It is faulty, but ever so much bigger than its faults." F. T. Marsh

+ Books p4 Ap 12 '42 1050w
Cleveland Open Shelf p12 My '42

Reviewed by E. L. Keyes
Commonweal 36:184 Je 12 '42 280w

"Recommended for small library purchase."
F. A. Boyle

+ Library J 67:320 Ap 1 '42 70w

"If you are a moderately attentive reader and a practitioner of the eight-hour day, it will take you approximately two and a half working days to read 'Islandia.' Add the cat-naps it induces and make it an even three. Obviously, therefore, the publishers aren't kidding in those ads that read: Spend your spring vacation in 'Islandia.' And neither is this reviewer kidding when he advises you to stay at home. . . . It is hard to say which is worse, 'Islandia' the novel or Islandia as Utopia, but each helps to explain the other. Utopias are almost never products of pure make-believe, even in childhood." Max Gissen

— New Repub 106:612 My 4 '42 550w

"For me a superb novel ends with Lang's decision to return to Islandia. But the book goes on for 150 pages and much of the excessive length is ascribable to the fretting of an abnormally puritan conscience over erotic contretemps which a modern would take in stride. Essentially, it is in the comparison of a simple, agrarian way of life with our stormy, complex civilization that this novel finds its great power and distinction. . . . The cards are stacked against the American way of life by the very origin of the book as a dream-compensation for personal lacks. But none the less it is a unique, brilliantly conceived and brilliantly executed book which one reads with avid excitement despite its great length." Harold Strauss

+ N Y Times p1 Ap 12 '42 1350w

"The book is assuredly one of the most remarkable examples of ingenuity in the history of literary invention. The detail is fabulous yet logical. . . . Once you have accustomed yourself, however, to the novelty of the book, you find yourself judging it by conventional aesthetic standards, and then it hardly stands up. Its hero is a prig, its heroines are tedious, the pace is languorous, the principal theme—the opposition between two Islandia political parties—is hardly absorbing. Geographically, Islandia is related to Erewhon and Lilliput. Spiritually, it is millions of miles from them, despite Wright's learning, taste, and inventiveness. But as a literary curiosity, his semi-Utopia is undoubtedly worth your examination. There has never been anything like it before. The probability is that it will never have a successor." Clifton Fadiman

+ — New Yorker 18:83 Ap 11 '42 500w

"The novel is one of the most unique creations in all literature." Norman Cousins

+ Sat R of Lit 25:7 Ap 11 '42 1100w

Time 39:86 My 18 '42 900w

Reviewed by Robert Littell

Yale R n s 31:viii summer '42 270w

WRIGHT, BAILEY AYERS; DYER, W. E., and MARTIN, REX. Flight; meteorology and aircraft instruments; a general survey of fundamentals of aviation. 348p il $3.25 Am. tech. soc.

629.13 Aeronautics. Meteorology in aeronautics. Aeronautical instruments 41-22196

"A companion volume, following the two entered in [Book Review Digest, 1941] and based on lesson material published earlier by the Junior air service of America. The material has been revised and amplified." Booklist

Booklist 38:134 D 15 '41

N Y New Tech Bks 27:3 Ja '42

Pratt p11 My '42

WRIGHT, BENJAMIN FLETCHER. Growth of American constitutional law. 276p $2.25 Reynal

342.73 U.S.—Constitutional law. U.S. Supreme court 42-12972

"Surveys the vast literature of the constitutional policy of the Supreme Court, really under great rubrics of political theory—popular government and the rule of law; the nature of authority, property, and liberty; the separation of powers; and federalism. No summa theologica of constitutional law, the discussion proceeds by historical periods. The effect of growth produced is powerfully cumulative, and recent controversies fall naturally into place in the grand drama of everlasting problems." (Am Pol Sci R) Index.

"This concise and important book should earn the gratitude of every student of American constitutional law and political theory." Llewellyn Pfankuchen

+ Am Pol Sci R 36:756 Ag '42 700w

"Within its self-imposed limitations this survey is the best review of the course of our constitutional development that we have. Learned, judicious, lucid, critical and penetrating, it illuminates the whole process and the significance of the institution of judicial review. But we must add that the self-imposed limitations are serious—and regrettable. This is not the story of American constitutional law, but merely one important chapter in that story. We still await a history of our constitutional or legal development which will explain the varied roles of English inheritance, American democratic environment, the Congress, the Executive, the state experiments, the influence of commentators, and of counsel and a dozen other factors. On the basis of his previous studies of the contract clause, the natural-rights theory and of this survey it would seem that Mr. Wright is the logical person to do that more ambitious book." H. S. Commager

+ — Books p12 Ag 23 '42 1150w

Reviewed by E. S. Corwin

Harvard Law R 56:484 N '42 1350w

WRIGHT, CHESTER WHITNEY, ed. Economic problems of war and its aftermath. 197p $2 Univ. of Chicago press

330.19355 War—Economic aspects. World war, 1939—Economic aspects 42-21720

"Each chapter in this volume is based on a lecture in a series delivered under the Charles R. Walgreen Foundation at the University of Chicago early in 1942. . . The series, which was planned early in the autumn of 1941 before the United States entered the war, was addressed to the general public rather than to specialists and was designed to promote the formulation of a more intelligent public opinion on the problems dealt with." (Pref) Contents: War and the early industrial revolution, by J. U. Nef; Economic lessons from previous wars, by C. W. Wright; Next steps in financing the war, by S. E. Leland; Price controls, by T. O. Yntema; The war state, by W. F. Ogburn; The war and the crisis of individualism, by F. H. Knight; The structure of future society, by M. J. Bonn. Index.

Reviewed by N. L. Silverstein
Am Pol Sci R 36:1191 D '42 370w

Reviewed by H. W. Spiegel
Ann Am Acad 224:221 N '42 500w

"Largely factual and reasonably informative, though too sketchy for ground covered. Last two lectures, on crisis of individualism and structure of future society are thin, prejudicial, and loosely argued. Not recommended." J. E. Cross

+ Library J 67:738 S 1 '42 70w

"An interesting and useful, if not too brilliant, series of lectures."

+ New Repub 107:801 D 14 '42 120w

WRIGHT, ETHEL B. Saturday ride [il. by] Richard Rose. spir $1 Scott, W.R.

Picture story book for the very young, describing a little girl's trip on a Pullman.

Cath World 156:371 D '42 40w

"The book is made up with heavy, stiff pages which will resist wear and tear, and the text is very simple and large, features which will make it a good book for children who are learning to read, as well as small ones who like to handle pictures." Rosemary Dawson

+ Sat R of Lit 25:28 N 14 '42 110w

WRIGHT, HAROLD BELL. Man who went away. 309p $2 Harper

42-20651

The setting for this novel is Hempsted Forest, a beautiful privately owned tract on the California coast. To the forest comes a middle-aged man, supposedly representing the interests of the owner. During his stay the fate of two young people who had lived there all their lives is decided, an old mystery is solved, and the FBI does some good work.

Booklist 39:49 O 15 '42

"The suspense is built up ingeniously, and the final unmasking a neat surprise." Lisle Bell

+ Books p18 S 13 '42 180w

Reviewed by Charlotte Dean
N Y Times p20 Ag 23 '42 240w

WRIGHT, MARTHA ELLEN. Begun in laughter. 274p $2 Doubleday

42-21560

Romance of a wealthy Park Avenue girl and a magnetic young Irishman, part owner of a night club. Gambling, racketeering and murder are a part of entanglements into which the girl is plunged by her marriage to the man she loved.

Reviewed by Lisle Bell
Books p20 S 20 '42 130w

N Y Times p27 S 20 '42 180w

WRIGHT, QUINCY. Study of war. 2v 678; 681-1552p maps $15 Univ. of Chicago press

355 War. Military art and science 42-21867

"These volumes are the product of a fifteen-year collective research project carried on by Professor Wright and his colleagues at the University of Chicago. . . The project grew to include all phases of war, and twenty-five research assistants and many graduate students participated. Professor Wright . . . has worked this and other material into an exhaustive analysis of war. Under many supplementary headings he examines the causes for war; its relation to capitalism, socialism, and international law; its functions in society, its frequency and intensity in periods of history. The whole field of the relations of peoples and states is studied and an effort is made to assess the difficulties involved in all attempts to limit or eliminate war from the world of the twentieth century." (Books) Indexes at end of volume two.

Reviewed by C. J. Friedrich

Am J Soc 48:508 Ja '43 3250w

"Wright has done a magnificent job, and the greatness of his product lies not only in the systematization of the material but also in the author's ability to condense his information into a swift and readable narrative in a form which certifies to his insight into what the American mentality finds most puzzling about the phenomenon of war. The amazing thing about the book is its completeness and remarkably sound scholarship." J. S. Roucek

+ Ann Am Acad 225:227 Ja '43 650w

Reviewed by W. H. Chamberlin

Atlantic 171:142 Ja '43 270w

Booklist 39:96 N 15 '42

"Though it scarcely measures up to the claims of the publisher as being 'the most comprehensive investigation of the subject of war' . . . its massive bulk and elaborate documentation will make it a very valuable reference book for the student of military and international affairs." H. A. De Weerd

+ Books p29 O 25 '42 850w

Commonweal 39:51 O 30 '42 50w

"Hastier readers may not devote to the 'Study of War' as much time and thankful application as this leisurely reviewer did. But many will give it a place of honor among reference books, in so far as it is a book of science. Many more, in so far as it is a book of hope, will find in it an outstanding testimonial to the faith of an age which—not ironically at all—is fighting a planetary war for a planetary peace." G. A. Borgese

+ Nation 156:28 Ja 2 '43 1350w

"It would be too much to expect this weighty study to be very widely read. The education of public opinion, the chief task ahead if we are to organize a better world, must contrive more popular instruments. But teachers, writers, editors, every one seriously interested in the future of world peace, will find its argument stimulating and its excellent separate indices of topics and proper names a valuable short cut to an arsenal of facts." Garrett Mattingly

+ N Y Times p5 O 18 '42 1200w

"Only a few people are likely to read the book thoroughly, for there is nothing of the milk-for-babes quality about it. Thoughtful students, however, the kind whose voices ought to prevail in the post-war reorganization, will have to read it if they want to be well informed, and it is sure to have a marked effect upon their thinking." Ellsworth Huntington

+ Sat R of Lit 25:3 N 7 '42 2550w

Reviewed by Hans Kohn

Survey G 32:57 F '43 230w

WRIGHTSTONE, JACOB WAYNE, and CAMP-BELL, DOAK SHERIDAN. Social studies and the American way of life. 292p il $2 Row

307 Social sciences—Study and teaching. Democracy 42-6331

"Designed to be a guide in the day-by-day planning in which the social-studies teachers and pupils of the elementary and secondary schools may engage, this book aims to interpret the teaching and learning of the social studies so that pupil growth through social experiences will emphasize the fundamental aims and ideals of the American way of life."

WRIGHTSTONE, J. W.—Continued
School & Society

School & Society 55:428 Ap 11 '42 60w

Reviewed by D. F. Thomann
School R 50:389 My '42 700w

WRINKLE, WILLIAM LAWRENCE, and GIL-CHRIST, ROBERT S. Secondary education for American democracy; principles and practices for Am. secondary schools. 554p $2.75 Farrar

373.73 Education, Secondary. Education—U.S. 42-14769

"Discussing what it takes to be a successful secondary-school teacher; how American secondary education happens to be what it is; what the secondary school is supposed to do and how it is to be done; how the school can tell how well it is doing its work, and how to be a successful teacher." (School & Society) Index.

"To this reviewer the extreme informality, the sometimes trivial story-telling, the frequent use of the imperative mood which characterize this book result in many lines which seem hardly to justify the permanency represented by cold print. . . . Despite these derogations, much that is favorable may be said for this book. Parts I and VI constitute excellent practical orientation of the prospective teacher to his profession. They are well calculated to build desirable professional attitudes. The section on historical background and present trends in American secondary education presents pertinent facts succinctly and with an interpretation that should really affect the school practice of its readers." P. W. Hutson
+ — School R 50:602 O '42 1500w
School & Society 55:568 My 16 '42 60w

WRISTON, MRS HILDRETH (TYLER). Open water; il. by Dorothy Bayley. 274p $2 Double-day

(W) 42-9903

Four children, whose father is an immigration inspector on the Vermont-Canadian border, discover a boat serving as flower bed, and determine to have it for their own. After a good many difficulties, and a lot of hard work, they are able to launch the Nancy Lee on Lake Champlain. Then things begin to happen.

Booklist 38:335 My 1 '42

"The happiest feature of the book is its family spirit, and the way in which the four young people laugh, talk, camp, sail and work together, with just enough and not too much co-operation from the parents. Good clean lake breezes sweep through the story." M. L. Becker
+ Books p6 Ap 12 '42 200w

"The lively plot is strengthened by the invigorating Vermont atmosphere and truthfully drawn characters. A good story for the 'middle-age' group of readers." A. M. Jordan
+ Horn BK M 18:181 My '42 100w

Reviewed by Miriam Snow

Library J 67:416 My 1 '42 50w

"There is a breezy pine-scented tang of the outdoors, unmistakably of Vermont, in this story of fun and work as lived by four children, each of whom, as we come to know them, has his and her own individual traits. It is an invigorating one which 8 to 12 year olds can enjoy wholly." E. L. Buell

+ N Y Times p8 Ap 12 '42 320w

WRITERS' PROGRAM, DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA. Washington, D. C.; a guide to the nation's capital; sponsored by the George Washington university. (Am. guide ser) 528p $3.50 Hastings house

917.53 Washington, D.C.—Description

(W) 42-19931

A revision and condensation of Washington: City and Capital, compiled by the Federal Writers' Project in 1937. For earlier edition see Book Review Digest, 1937. Chronology. Bibliography. Index.

Booklist 39:13 S '42

Books p47 N 15 '42 190w

"It's never too late to learn and if there's still a reading American who isn't familiar with that extraordinary series of State, city and sectional guidebooks produced by the WPA Writers' Program, he can do no better than to begin with Washington, D. C., A Guide to the Nation's Capital. This book is fully up to the high standards of its predecessors."

J. G. H.
+ Christian Science Monitor p18 S 4 '42 310w

"Besides its superior portability, its arrangement is enormously superior [to the 1937 edition] for practical purposes; its general background chapters are in the main improved, particularly the realistic survey of Washington's architecture; considerable new information has been added and inaccuracies corrected. Debits are the necessary contraction of the loose map supplement and the unaccountable omission of any clue to the reference numbers on the new volume's general map."

+ — Commonweal 36:547 S 25 '42 140w

Reviewed by J. S. Gurley

Current Hist 3:260 N '42 60w

Spring'd Republican p8 D 18 '42 700w

WRITERS' PROGRAM, MASSACHUSETTS.

Boston looks seaward; the story of the port, 1630-1940; sponsored by Boston port authority. (Am. guide ser) 316p il maps $2.75 Humphries

387.1 Boston—Harbor

42-9007

History of the port of Boston covering three hundred and ten years, from 1639 to 1940. Contents: Explorers, fishermen, traders; Provincial period, 1700-1783; Between the wars; Port of the world; The romance of the clippers; The triumph of steam; A twentieth century port; Through prosperity and depression; The contemporary port; The port attacks its problems. Maps. Index.

Booklist 39:13 S '42

"A book which is a real pleasure to read. . . . Considering the little Baltimore clippers and the versatility of the East River yards, one might question the enthusiastic remark that 'Boston vessels were usually better built than those found anywhere else in the world.' A few pages could have been well utilized in listing pertinent books for those who might want to follow particular subjects further. Nevertheless, this is a piece of able and honest craftsmanship of which its anonymous authors may well be proud; it is the kind of book which, after the first enjoyable reading, one will keep close at hand for frequent future reference." R. G. Albion

+ — Books p17 F 22 '42 650w

WRITER'S PROGRAM, MINNESOTA. Minnesota Arrowhead country; sponsored by the Minnesota Arrowhead association, inc. (Am. guide ser) 231p il maps $2.50 Whitman, A.

917.76 Minnesota—Description and travel
(W) 41-52030

Margaret Culkin Banning in her Introduction to this guidebook says: "This guidebook is published to ask people to come to the Minnesota Arrowhead Country, to tell them how to come, when to come, what they will find when they get here, and how best to enrich their experience. Its publication is a great satisfaction to those of us who call the Minnesota Arrowhead Country home, who knew it when it was less accessible and less comfortable than it is today, and whose fathers and grandfathers have told us of previous times when to visit this region was an adventure which had real peril in it." Chronology. Bibliography. Index.

Booklist 38:133 D 15 '41

Wis Lib Bul 38:30 F '42

WRITERS' PROGRAM, NEW MEXICO. Spanish-American song and game book. See United States. Work projects administration, New Mexico

WRITER'S PROGRAM, OKLAHOMA. Oklahoma; a guide to the Sooner state; sponsored by the Univ. of Oklahoma. (Am. guide ser) 442p il maps $2.50 Univ. of Okla. press 917.66 Oklahoma—Description and travel (W) 41-46185

As in other volumes in this series, guidebook material is grouped in three main divisions (I) The general background giving history, economic, social and cultural conditions, (II) Principal cities, and (III) Tours. Appendices contain a chronology, reading list and index.

Booklist 38:191 F 1 '42

Reviewed by P. I. Wellman

Books p12 My 17 '42 180w

Christian Science Monitor p11 Ag 22 '42 250w

Reviewed by Albert Horlings

New Repub 106:501 Ap 13 '42 1750w

"This is the final volume of the American Guide Series and the most exciting and hilarious of the lot. . . . Nearly every page of this book contains material for a novel by a writer with sense and imagination." Burton Rascoe + Sat R of Lit 25:16 F 14 '42 1500w

WRITERS' PROGRAM, PENNSYLVANIA. Motion pictures. 47p il 50c Whitman, A. 791.4 Moving pictures—Juvenile literature 42-15669

"Motion Pictures tells the story of how men improved the camera and invented new devices so that they could produce the illusion of motion on a screen. It explains in simple terms the operation of the movie camera for black-and-white pictures, as well as the color camera. Finally it describes the making of a motion picture, and of an animated cartoon." (Publisher's note) For readers of ten or older.

Reviewed by M. L. Becker

Books p7 Je 14 '42 60w

Reviewed by Dorothea Dawson

+ Library J 67:631 J1 '42 10w

WRITERS' PROGRAM, PENNSYLVANIA. Pennsylvania. cavalcade; co-sponsored by the Pa. federation of hist. societies. (Am. guide ser) 462p il $3 Univ. of Pa. press

974.8 Pennsylvania—History (W) 42-13207

Series of articles on Pennsylvania history. The book "is divided into four main sections: Historic Places, Historic Highlights, Experimental Settlements, and Transportation. The historic places range chronologically from Tinicum, the first Swedish settlement, to Wheatland the residence of James Buchanan; geographically from Tinicum on the Delaware to Presque Isle on Lake Erie. The discussion of each place is not confined solely to the time when events about it made it important or interesting; its subsequent history and modern aspect are also sketched. The historic high lights embrace not only events of military importance, such as the Battle of Bushy Run and 'The Third Day at Gettysburg', but also matters of social or economic importance, such as the yellow fever epidemic in Philadelphia, the oil borings at Titusville, the Johnstown flood, and the Homestead strike. . . . The book contains an index and a twenty-four-page bibliography, with a section for each chapter title." Am Hist R

"A series of readable and interesting panoramic views from Pennsylvania history." E. H. Buck

+ Am Hist R 48:198 O '42 250w

Booklist 38:428 J1 1 '42

"It is popularly written, a little scraggly at times, and well filled with interesting details on historical figures and events that are too 'local' to merit a place in more ambitious his-stories. The chapters on Pennsylvania in Colonial and Revolutionary days are exceptionally good." W. C. Weber

+ Books p18 O 4 '42 130w

Times [London] Lit Sup p503 O 10 '42 210w

WRITERS' PROGRAM, PENNSYLVANIA. Radio. 47p il 50c Whitman, A.

621.384 Radio—Juvenile literature 42-15670

"Here is the story of the discovery of radio waves, and a discussion of how they act; an explanation of the devices invented to make these waves and to catch them; and a description of a modern broadcasting studio and a transmitting station. Vocabulary has been carefully checked against standard lists, and the text and illustrations have been reviewed by authorities to prevent error." (Publisher's note) For readers of ten or older.

Reviewed by M. L. Becker

Books p7 Je 14 '42 60w

Reviewed by Dorothea Dawson

+ Library J 67:631 J1 '42 10w

WRITERS' PROGRAM, PENNSYLVANIA. Television. 48p il 50c Whitman, A.

621.388 Television—Juvenile literature 42-15671

An introduction to television prepared for young readers of ten or older.

Reviewed by M. L. Becker

+ Books p7 Je 14 '42 60w

"Simple factual material written in a straightforward style." Dorothea Dawson + Library J 67:631 J1 '42 10w

WRITERS' PROGRAM, TEXAS. Randolph field; a history and guide; sponsored by the commanding officer, Randolph field. 156p il $2 Devin-Adair

358.4 U.S. Air corps basic flying school, Randolph field, Texas 42-37050

Official guide to the government flying school at Randolph Field, Texas, known as the West Point of the air. Contains a description of the training methods and the life and training of army cadet flyers. Illustrated with photographs. Index.

Booklist 38:428 J1 1 '42

Reviewed by Wolfgang Langewiesche

Books p22 S 27 '42 100w

"Will be useful to boys of all ages. Amusing sections on 'Flying School Slangage,' 'Maxims and Proverbs,' and 'Cadet Writings.' Excellent photographs." M. C. Scoggin + Library J 67:633 J1 '42 50w

Reviewed by M. C. Scoggin

Library J 67:894 O 15 '42 10w

WYLIE, CHARLES CLAYTON. Astronomy, maps, and weather. 449p il $3 Harper

520 Astronomy. Weather forecasting. Navigation (aeronautics) 42-22514

Textbook prepared at the request of the Flying training command, to be used in a college course for men studying for service in the army air corps. The main part of the book is a text on astronomy, with three chapters on the weather, and one on maps. Exercises at ends of chapters. Index.

Booklist 39:65 N 1 '42

"As a text in astronomy, it compares favorably with the best now in print, with the distinction that more emphasis is placed on the subjects of measurement of time and celestial navigation and other more practical aspects of astronomy. However, as far as maps and weather are concerned, a more detailed treatment of these most important subjects for military operations is greatly to be desired, unless elsewhere provided for in a specialized course in them." C. E. Buell

+ — N Y Times p18 Ja 17 '43 180w

WYLIE, IDA ALEXA ROSS. Keeper of the flame. 272p $2 Random house

42-14048

Story of a man who rose from poverty to be the governor of a New England state, and the revered leader of an idealistic movement, all of which vanished when he met his death on the night which was to have marked his greatest triumph. A well-known newspaper man who came to the hero's widow for the real story of Robert Forrest's life stayed to learn the facts of his tragic death.

Booklist 38:385 Je 15 '42

"It's a romantic tale of idealism and death and swift-flowering love that Miss Wylie tells and not improbable. At the moment of his death Robert Forrest was still a leader with a great vision. If he had crossed the bridge the night of his death—but that is Miss Wylie's story. One thing bothers this reviewer—the story that O'Malley turned in to Pender, the story that would keep alive a country's faith in a lost leader. Was the truth O'Malley wrote justified by its end?" Rose Feld

+ Books p8 My 3 '42 650w

"A timely story of real suspense and audacity—a 'thriller' if you like, certainly a book one picks up because it 'looks interesting,' but finds one cannot lay down until the last page is finished. . . Perhaps too fantastic or imaginary a book to be a 'great' novel from a literary standpoint, but excellent holiday fare." E. G. K.

+ Canadian Forum 22:155 Ag '42 330w

"A readable book. Not remarkable in any way, but recommended." E. S. Brown

+ Library J 67:368 Ap 15 '42 60w

"A production on the grand scale' in the movies is promised this ambitious story. . . In the book the stress on O'Malley's toughness gets to be a bore. Christine makes more of a mystery of the Governor's death than circumstances seem to warrant, apparently wanting to call some one's attention to suspicions of herself and the sob sister and her admirer, though it is true they are only minor characters, are so lightly sketched that the reader is hardly aware of them. Yet a clever pair of performers can easily make good parts for themselves from no more indication than is given. The type of part is clear enough, and a bright player will know how to give it detail." Charlotte Dean

N Y Times p23 My 10 '42 300w

WYLIE, PHILIP. Generation of vipers. 318p $2.75 Farrar

917.3 U.S.—Civilization 43-79

Survey of American habits, customs, beliefs, and methods of behavior, all of which comes to the conclusion that these faults of ours got us into the World war, and, if we do not indulge in some right thinking, will lose us the peace.

"Mr. Wylie trots out the old weaknesses again, and puts them through their paces. He is a good showman, and he cracks his prose over his opinions like a bull whip. His chapters on the common man and the common woman, sex, science, professors, 'mom,' Cinderella and education are tumultuous reading. Each reader will find a place where he will wince, but that will be made up for by the places where he can laugh at his neighbor and read passages aloud to his wife. . . A helter-skelter book that is as full of things that provoke laughter as it is packed with pages that induce thought. Mr. Wylie wrote the whole thing at the top of his voice." Thomas Sugrue

+ Books p8 Ja 10 '43 1350w

"The publishers say that it will shock nine out of ten people. What they should have said is that it is meant to shock nine out of ten people."

New Yorker 18:52 Ja 2 '43 70w

"His religious perceptions, useful as far as they go, are rudimentary. His prose ranges between brilliant neo-Mecklenism and embarrassing vulgarity. Too often, when he intends to insult the reader's stupidity, he insults his intelligence instead. But Author Wylie's book might be of far greater importance than its own intrinsic worth if readers in any appreciable numbers would act seriously on his old and central recommendation—'know thyself'—as well as on a thing he fails to recommend—the study of those quieter, subtler, maturer diagnosticians who are casing the same field."

+ Time 41:100 Ja 18 '43 1000w

WYLIE, PHILIP. Other horseman. 279p $2 Farrar

42-2249

In Apocalyptic legendary lore, the "Other Horseman" rode before the other four giving warning of what was to come. He not listened to and afterwards was re . . . In this book, written before Pearl Harbor, the part of the Other Horseman is played by a young Rhodes scholar returning to America after six years in England, the last year under the Blitzkrieg.

"It is common knowledge by now that a great many Americans clung to isolationism while Europe was being torn to pieces with a stubbornness of will which, in the light of events, reflects rather unhappily on their discernment or their motives. . . But that such views were ever argued as asininely, and paraded as childishly, as in Philip Wylie's fictitious town of Muskogewan, in the Middle West, is beyond belief. No doubt the novel is seriously intended, but it defeats itself by its excesses. To show that certain characters are smug and benighted, he makes them grotesque." Lisle Bell

+ Books p8 J1 5 '42 350w

"Characters are types rather than individuals. A poor novel—but a convincing argument." J. M. Flexner

+ Library J 67:630 J1 '42 60w

"When written it was propaganda, but six months after Pearl Harbor Mr. Wylie's novel reads like history; it is published in the hope that like all history it has a lesson for the present. Mr. Wylie's anger produces a well-intentioned anatomy of reaction rather than good fiction."

+ Nation 155:18 J1 4 '42 80w

"As a novel, 'The Other Horseman' is palatably written in Mr. Wylie's popular slick style—knowing and sharp. As a parable, the timing of its publication has dulled the edge of its emphasis. Probably a good many people will enjoy reading it for the sugar-coating of romance and family dramatics round the bitter pill of the urgency of the fight for freedom." Beatrice Sherman

N Y Times p16 J1 5 '42 700w

Time 40:91 J1 13 '42 180w

WYNKOOP, MARGARET L. Mac goes to school; phot. by Robert Yarnall Richie. [40p] $1 Doubleday

Photographi . . . by the
It describes t . . . maps $2.50 Whitman, A. who actually . . . Description and travel garden in Nev . . . (W) 41-52030

Book

Reviewed by
Books p7 My 11 '42 150w

"Pictures are excellent. Text is made up of short sentences with simple vocabulary. In fact, so colloquial that author allows children to say 'He better watch out.' For children seven and eight." Gertrude Andrus

Library J 67:534 Je 1 '42 50w

Wis Lib Bul 38:140 O '42

WYNNE, PAMELA, pseud. See Scott., W. M. W.

Y

YALE REVIEW (periodical). Yale review anthology; ed. with an introd. by Wilbur Cross and Helen MacAfee. 405p $2.75 Yale univ. press

810.8 American literature—Collections

"A collection of critical essays, sketches and short stories from the very dignified but not too academic Yale Review. . . The editors have chosen wisely here: the satire of H. L. Mencken set off by a delightful love story by Clarence Day; the realism of Ivan Bunin contrasted with the frothy play of Thornton Wilder; the authoritative tone of Cardozo and the earnestness of Virginia Woolf's critical writing. Archibald MacLeish is represented with an article on American writers much less truculent and controversial than his previous remarks on the subject." New Repub

Booklist 39:181 Ja 1 '43

Reviewed by G. F. Whicher
Books p20 N 29 '42 800w

Christian Century 59:1394 N 11 '42 200w

"A good book of readings, and particularly good to have now."

+ New Repub 107:802 D 14 '42 150w

Reviewed by H. M. Jones

Sat R of Lit 25:36 D 5 '42 800w

YATES, ELIZABETH (MRS WILLIAM MCGREAL). Under the little fir, and other stories; il. by Nora S. Unwin. 96p $2 Coward-McCann

42-23224

Six imaginative stories first written for the children in a London school and told in the story-telling hour. The title story is a retelling of the legend of peace among all animals on Christmas eve.

Reviewed by M. L. Becker
+ Books p7 D 27 '42 200w

Reviewed by F. B. Sloan
Christian Science Monitor p10 D 14 '42 180w

"The stories all have an ethical value which fits them for occasional telling." A. M. Jordan
+ Horn Bk 18:256 Jl '42 70w

Reviewed by Maria Dalphin
Horn Bk sup 6 N '42 40w

"Illustrations in soft colors, by Nora Unwin, emphasize beauty and detail in perfect keeping with the spirit of stories. Title story, of Christmas Eve, might please quite young children, but others, as 'The Marriage Tapestries,' will appeal more to older girls. A very attractive book that will be most appreciated by unusual reader from ten to fourteen." Alice Martin

+ Library J 67:687 Ag '42 80w

Reviewed by R. A. Hill

Library J 67:887 O 15 '42 40w

of each when events about it are interesting; its subsequent aspect are also sketched. (YLER). Mur-lights embrace not only eve portance, such as the Bai (W) 42-50214 and "The Third Day at" in Honolulu in Dec

Booklist 39:225 F 1 '43

Reviewed by Will Cuppy
Books p28 N 29 '42 350w

"One of the most exciting spy thrillers that have come out of this war." Isaac Anderson
+ N Y Times p34 N 29 '42 180w

"Wildly exciting adventure story about little brown men and a blond Nordic who are outwitted by a prying woman. Written with gusto and humor. Recommended."

+ New Yorker 18:106 D 5 '42 70w

"Extra good."

+ Sat R of Lit 25:21 D 12 '42 40w

"While some of her faithful readers may feel that 'Murder by the Yard' is not quite so good as Mrs Yates's earlier novels, none will deny that it is well above the average for this kind of fiction, and excellent entertainment in its own right." R. J. C.

+ Springf'd Republican p7e D 27 '42 240w

YATES, RAYMOND FRANCIS. Boys' book of communications; il. with phot. and charts. 144p $2 Harper

621.38 Radio—Juvenile literature. Telegraph—Juvenile literature. Telephone—Juvenile literature (W) 42-36309

After a brief outline of the history of communication, the author explains how present devices came into use, and describes the making from inexpensive materials of telephones, telegraph instruments, radio, picture transmitters, and blinkers. Illustrated with photographs and diagrams. For junior and senior high schools.

Booklist 39:37 O 1 '42

"Any boy old enough to be interested in electricity will find book fascinating and useful. Recommended." J. E. Wooster

+ Library J 67:957 N 1 '42 100w

YATES, RAYMOND FRANCIS. Super-electricity; what you can do in electronics. 165p il $2 Appleton-Century

621.384132 Electronics (W) 42-21101

History and description of the science of electrons, the tiny particles which make up the atom. Contains a survey of its applications in the fields of industry, music, motion pictures, medicine, etc. Includes instructions for finding a job in electronic engineering, or for starting a business of one's own. Illustrated with photographs and diagrams. Index.

Booklist 39:65 N 1 '42

"The book tells the young person seeking a career of the opportunities to be found in electronics and even outlines typical courses that might be taken in preparing to enter this field. Also, an older man or woman might well find in its pages suggestions for a more interesting, and perhaps more lucrative, profession. The illustrations are well chosen and the diagrams help in making clear the more technical points." James Stokley
+ Books p10 D 27 '42 160w

"Yates's story of de Forest's work is most interesting for it reveals how radio tubes came into being. One needs no scientific background to appreciate the description. The book is helpful in another way. It surveys the entire electronics fields and puts special emphasis on the possibilities of making it one's life work."

+ Springf'd Republican p10 O 15 '42 300w

YBARRA, THOMAS RUSSELL. Young man of the world. 316p il $3 Washburn

B or 92 Journalists—Correspondence, reminiscences, etc. (W) 42-36382

The "Young Man of Caracas" (Book Review Digest, 1941) continues the story of his life in another gay volume. He describes the family flittings from Boston to South America or Europe and back during the years of his growing up, and the resultant educational difficulties. He describes his years at Harvard, his later experiences as a European correspondent, and ends with his life in New York, where he has settled, at least temporarily.

Booklist 39:137 D 15 '42

Reviewed by F. T. Marsh
Books p36 D 6 '42 700w

"Mr. Ybarra has done it again. His new book makes delightful reading." Neil MacNeil
+ Commonweal 37:181 D 4 '42 390w

"'Young Man of the World' is the gayest and most unusual version of the avalanche of personal history and foreign correspondent books. . . He packs into one chapter as much concentrated and penetrating sense as may be found in a pundit's book—or in a quatrain of his light-verse-writing days." S. T. Williamson

YBARRA, T. R.—Continued

+ N Y Times p6 N 22 '42 1100w

"Often humorous—though not as often as the author intended—and now and then wise."

+ — New Yorker 18:79 N 14 '42 90w

"All the qualities of 'Young Man of Caracas' are again present in this book, and foremost, Mr. Ybarra's unique sense of humor. . . It may be that the average reader will be rather overwhelmed by the abundance of Mr. Ybarra's memories of Harvard Yard, especially by his quotations of the poetical output of that time. But, even in these chapters, any lengthiness is fairly outbalanced by his brilliant gift as a raconteur." Robert Pick

+ Sat R of Lit 25:18 N 21 '42 800w

Springfd Republican p8 N 26 '42 850w

YEATS-BROWN, FRANCIS CHARLES CLAYPON. Pageant of India [Eng title: Indian pageant]. 304p $2.50 Macrae Smith co. [8s 6d Eyre]

954 India—History (W) 42-22042

Brief, popular history of India from pre-historic times to 1942, by the author of Lives of a Bengal Lancer. Index.

Booklist 39:199 Ja 15 '43

"Yeats-Brown, who knows the Hindus as well as any foreigner can, is not burdened with the idea of being comprehensive. His plan is to select the significant tributaries to the stream of India's destiny, and survey the land and the peoples through which they flowed. In this he is eminently successful, and his book gives the modern reader, trying to fit India into the puzzle of global war, just the information he wants." Thomas Sugrue

+ Books p20 O 25 '42 550w

Cleveland Open Shelf p22 N '42

"Recommended as popular treatment of time-lay subject." A. G. Higgins

+ Library J 67:738 S 1 '42 100w

Reviewed by P. W. Wilson

N Y Times p5 O 4 '42 80w

"The reviewer is not familiar with Major Yeats-Brown's army record, but he is convinced that the ex-soldier wields a facile pen. He writes racy and at spots brilliantly. Those fortunate readers who can still find time for entertaining non-fiction books have a store of amusement in this work. The author of 'The Lives of a Bengal Lancer' will virtually take them for a ride, not through the Khyber Pass this time, but through the hoary canyons of India's past centuries. That is all right for the Lancer. But what about India? The question still remains. Does this book contribute, as it sets out to do, anything substantial toward the understanding of India—India wherein we may win or lose this war? The answer is in the negative." Shridharani

+ — Sat R of Lit 26:7 Ja 16 '43 750w

Times [London] Lit Sup p544 N 7 '42 700w

Wis Lib Bul 38:186 D '42

YENNI, JULIA TRUITT (MRS C. R. HIKES). House for the sparrow. 295p il $2.50 Reynal (W) 42-2432

Portrays the members of a lovable, unusual family, the Larbells. From Miss Letty, the children's grandmother, to six-year-old Weston, the Larbells were different, but Clara, the seventeen-year-old was the only one who minded. She wanted to forget that tiny Miss Letty in her wheelchair had once been a famous beauty and a newspaper woman in the eighteen eighties when women did not go around the world in seventy-one days and then write about it! Clara wanted to forget that the Larbells moved once a year, too, and was delighted when her father bought a house. The few years they lived in that house brought Clara her wish; she married an ordinary man and even when the Larbells moved once more, Clara stayed put.

Booklist 38:210 F 15 '42

"A book that is outstanding for its fresh charm and its tender and humorous understanding of the things that make up the world of childhood and adolescence. . . 'House for the Sparrow' has little plot outside of Clara's romance in the conventional world, but plot is of secondary importance to this book. It reaches its stature of worth by virtue of its joyous characterization of a group of people who meet life on their own terms and never lose their integrity. Those who have missed Miss Yenni's earlier book, 'This Is Me, Kathie,' can catch up with her fine talent in this one." Rose Feld

+ Books p5 F 1 '42 600w

Cleveland Open Shelf p8 Mr '42

"A charming and amusing book which can be recommended to all." L. M. Kinloch

+ Library J 67:86 Je 15 '42 50w

"Captivating tale of a happy-go-lucky family." M. C. Scoggin

+ Library J 67:897 O 15 '42 30w

"A family chronicle—original, lively and vastly entertaining. . . This novel should make the Larbells an outstanding fiction family." Beatrice Sherman

+ N Y Times p7 F 1 '42 900w

"Amusing, complicated, fresh, and alive."

+ New Yorker 17:62 F 7 '42 70w

"It is a charming book, full of good scenes and good characters. The Edgecombes and Norths are perhaps a little bit standardized small town snobs, but they are only foils for a remarkable family." Phil Stong

+ Sat R of Lit 25:8 F 7 '42 500w

+ Springfd Republican p7e F 8 '42 340w
Wis Lib Bul 38:48 Mr '42

YERSHOV, PETR PAVLOVICH. Little hunchback horse. See Wicker, I. S.

YOE, JOHN HOWE, and SARVER, LANDON ARNDALE. Organic analytical reagents. 339p $4 Wiley

544.11 Chemical tests and reagents. Chemistry, Organic 41-25159

"This book has been written with a four-fold purpose: (1) to assemble the literature on organic analytical reagents, (2) to discuss the theoretical aspects of the subject, (3) to furnish an up-to-date and reasonably complete bibliography on organic analytical reagents, and (4) to suggest further research in this important field of analytical chemistry. . . The book is divided into two parts. The first deals with descriptive and theoretical material, and includes chapters on the classification of organic analytical reagents, organic solvents and wash liquids, organic acids and bases, oxidizing and reducing agents, indicators, primary standards in volumetric analysis, valence and complex compounds, salinogenic (salt-forming) reagents, photometric aids, and miscellaneous organic reagents. The second part contains an extensive chapter in which is listed (alphabetically under each element) organic compounds employed for the detection or determination of various elements, a glossary of about 750 organic reagents, and a bibliography of more than 2400 references." (Pref) Index.

"The book contains a great deal of information. For the analytical chemist it is convenient to have available all the literature on the application of organic reagents in inorganic analysis. The appearance and print of the book are excellent." I. M. Kolthoff

+ J Phys Chem 46:535 Ap '42 400w

N Y New Tech Bks 27:5 Ja '42

YOUNG, FRANCIS BRETT. A man about the house; an old wives' tale. 304p $2.50 Reynal [9s 6d Heinemann]

(W) 42-18464

Two middle-aged English spinsters, struggling with poverty in the ancient family home in North Bromwich, suddenly receive word that an almost unknown uncle has died in Italy leaving them his villa and a substantial fortune. They go to visit their new possession and during the course of a few months, life becomes increasingly different: the younger sister becomes enthralled with the beauty of the countryside, the elder falls a victim to the wiles of a handsome rascal.

"One is unsure if the novel as a whole is meant to be caricature or romance. Perhaps it would have seemed at once more tragic and more moving were it not set in a period so remote (without being actually distant) as to seem quite unreal—the early part of this century before the old earlier war broke out." Iris Barry

Books p2 Ag 2 '42 700w

"Mr. Brett Young is enchanted by the scenery of Capri, and some of this enchantment gets into his book. Nevertheless, I like the earlier chapters, set in the drabber, duskier surroundings of an English industrial city, better than the later ones." Harold Hobson

+ Christian Science Monitor p10 S 5 '42 140w

Reviewed by Harold Brighthouse

Manchester Guardian p3 J1 24 '42 140w

"Dr. Brett Young has a vivid and at times a brilliant gift of luxuriant description; a rich justification for a short story. A Man About the House will be read because its author has artfully captured the literary conscience of the multitude. To read a Brett Young is absolutism for fifty Oppenheims and Dells." Philip Toynbee

+ New Statesman & Nation 24:130 Ag 22 '42 160w

"Mr. Young's new novel is light. The most delicate of satire, the most tolerant of moods, see to that. It is nourishing, for it is built up on the solid foundation of an understanding of human nature acquired throughout a more varied career than falls to the lot of most literary men. And with every course of it there is the appropriate wine, suited to just such an occasion—the light wine of a prose that carries its subject along with ease and infectious gaiety." J. S. Southron

+ N Y Times p7 Ag 2 '42 750w

"Here is a novel which can be enjoyed for its background and its marginal notes; a slight enough affair, it is as easy to read as it must have been easy to write." R. E. Roberts

Sat R of Lit 25:12 Ag 8 '42 400w

"A Man about the House" is good storytelling, not at all urgent in impulse or deeply considered in imaginative implication, but lively, sympathetic, adroit and always immensely readable. Perhaps it slips a little too smoothly now and then into extravagances of doubtfully comic behaviour, but on the other hand Mr. Brett Young maintains both comedy and suspense by keeping a tighter rein on sentiment than in some other recent novels of his."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p365 J1 25 '42 1300w

Wis Lib Bul 38:164 N '42

YOUNG, SIR GEORGE, 4th bart. Federalism and freedom; or, Plan the peace to win the war. 204p $2.50 (12s 6d) Oxford

321.021 International federation. Reconstruction (1939-). Economic policy 42-8696

"Choosing European Federation as the best solution to the problems of peace, the author makes an attempt to tackle its technical problems and tactical procedures. The peoples of Europe cannot be federated unless its Great Powers are federalized in such a way that no member States exceed a certain limit of strength. The present war socialisms and pre-war experiments offer a hope that the Continent may still be integrated as an economic entity." (Publisher's note) Index.

"Besides hinting at an eventual union of continental federations, the author draws heavily on personal experience, recent history, and a keen sense of humor." J. Van der Zee

+ Am Pol Sci R 36:1190 D '42 350w

"This might have been a more understandable volume if the author had not striven so persistently to be witty. . . . Occasional good ideas can be found in the flow of words, but the book could have been written in a fourth of the pages used, and the reader could have thereby been saved three-fourths of the energy required of him to search out the ideas." Clyde Eagleton

+ Ann Am Acad 225:234 Ja '43 450w

Reviewed by Hiram Motherwell

Books p20 O 4 '42 300w

"Sir George Young's book is full of ideas, many of them interesting and some of them important. Unfortunately he seems constitutionally incapable of attacking a subject directly and straightforwardly. The result is that it is far from easy to be sure that one has ever clearly got hold of the point he wants to make." H. J. L.

+ Manchester Guardian p3 N 18 '41 150w

Reviewed by Harold Strauss

Nation 155:356 O 10 '42 100w

Reviewed by Irwin Edman

New Repub 107:504 O 19 '42 600w

"The apprehensive need not be alarmed; this is not 'just another book on federal union.' The usual commonplaces are absent; the usual parallels appear in novel form. But while it is easy to assure the timid or the bored that this is not another dose from the same medicine bottle, it is difficult to state in a short review what Sir George Young's main thesis is. This seems to be due to two remarkable aspects of his literary method. In the first place, if he has ever heard of the maxim that bids us sow with the hand and not with the sack, he has scornfully rejected the advice. . . . It is all done in the spirit of a fine old English tradition of gentlemanly eccentricity, but it does not make it much easier to grasp the main themes of the book. To the difficulties caused by this rich disorder Sir George Young has added one of style. He finds it hard to resist a jingle. . . . All one can say of this attempt is that it is of great interest." D. W. Brogan

Spec 167:362 O 10 '41 750w

"A little perseverance with Sir George's epigrammatic but rather exhausting prose shows that he claims Humpty-Dumpty's authority over words; they are to mean what he wants them to mean. He chooses them mainly for their sound, to balance his elaborate phonetic antitheses. In this case 'internecine' balances 'international'; 'interprovincial,' which we eventually discover is what Sir George means, would sacrifice an alliteration. When the reader has become accustomed to this literary foible, and can apply the right principles of exegesis to the epigrams, he finds that Sir George has a new idea to contribute to the federal debate."

Times [London] Lit Sup p502 O 11 '41 1350w

YOUNG, GORDON RAY. Iron rainbow. 271p $2 Doubleday

42-19559

Story of the railroad building era in the western United States, following the Civil war.

Booklist 39:103 N 15 '42

"The plot is ingenious and the background of gambling joints and construction camps is colorfully handled. Sometimes one wonders how the West ever did get built up; everybody spends so much time lined up at a bar or throwing money away in crooked card games." Lisle Bell

Books p16 Ag 23 '42 250w

YOUNG, GORDON RAY. Iron rainbow. 271p $2 nursing; Eleanor Lee, editor. 609p il $3 Putnam

610.73 Nurses and nursing (W) 42-17266

"A textbook on hospital nursing procedures with explanations of special therapies and first aid advice prepared by members of the active nursing staff of the Presbyterian hospital of the city of New York. Selected references, p.527-538. Charts and tables appended." Booklist

"While written for teachers of nursing arts and their students, the book will be of equal or greater value to the graduate nurse as a reference book. The illustrations are numerous and excellent, and technics are in sequence and logically described. . . For the student nurse it would have been desirable to have given more attention to principles underlying procedures, but for the graduate it is entirely adequate." E. E. Thomson

YOUNG, HELEN—Continued
+ Am J Pub Health 32:1172 O '42 270w
Booklist 38:438 JI 15 '42

YUGOW, ARON. See Yugov, A.

Z

ZABRISKIE, GEORGE. The mind's geography.
106p $2 Knopf
811 41-16745
For descriptive note see Annual for 1941.

Booklist 38:207 F 15 '42

"Mr. Zabriskie's poems impress me as not quite coming clear of Whitman and MacLeish, though there are many individual lines and passages. The tone of some reminds me of the interludes in John Dos Passos' books. Often a dead level of intensity defeats them. But he has very definite powers, which will grow as they clarify and come more completely under his control." Lloyd Frankenberg
+ — Books p21 F 1 '42 700w

"His book is well arranged: the power and interest increase as one goes on; the finest poems (I would cite in particular 'Watching Children' and 'Minor Theme') are toward the end. 'He has not only seen what he writes about, but he has felt it, and one does not feel that he is exploiting it.' I think that Leonard Bacon is right and just in saying so; and that Mr. Zabriskie's publishers are dead wrong when they bracket his work with Paul Engle's." Rolfe Humphries
+ New Repub 106:156 F 2 '42 260w

"You cannot dispute a poet's philosophy, for his urge to say what he feels and believes is his reason for being a poet, but after reading George Zabriskie's book I wondered if the viewpoint he expressed in it would last through his development as a poet. . . If the period in which Zabriskie wrote this book was imbued with tragedy, it will be interesting to see his next volume, for he may find that although despair is common to everyone, it is not constant. Whatever he writes, it will be worth looking for, because he truly has the essence of a poet." Ruth Stephan
+ Poetry 61:452 N '42 360w

"My only criticism would be that, read right through, Mr. Zabriskie's handling of loose pentameter becomes monotonous. He covers a great deal of America; but there is, after all, more variety to it than that. Still, this is admirable work, well seen, well written. It is less self-absorbed than the work of most young men, more foxterrier-curious about life and his own country. If it does not paint a portrait like that of the advertising slogans, that is, after all, so much to the good." W. R. Benét
+ — Sat R of Lit 25:21 Ap 25 '42 450w

ZACHAROFF, LUCIEN, ed. Voice of fighting Russia; pref. by Hewlett Johnson. 336p il $3 Alliance bk.

940.5347 World war, 1939—Russia. 42-7696

"This book has a collective author. It was written by correspondents in advance positions with the Red Army, Navy, and Air Force, by novelists and poets who abandoned their peaceful studies to write from the front. . . Here is . . . [an] account of every phase of the opening weeks of the war between the Soviet Union and Nazi Germany. The editor deemed it advisable to include three speeches by Premier Stalin. . . Also included is the exchange of letters between the Soviet Premier and the President of the United States." Editor's foreword

"The instances of courage, resourcefulness, just plain fight, are numerous, the speeches simple and to the point, the lesson clear—attack! attack! attack! Get the Nazi out of his tank away from his superior guns, and he too runs backwards rather than face a bayonet in the hands of a desperately brave man. As such a record it deserves to stand alongside the other reports of endurance and indomitable courage, adding its share of weight unto the scale of victory for our side." B. E. Nelson
+ Ann Am Acad 221:205 My '42 450w

"I began to read this volume with deep interest, almost with fervor. At last, I thought, we shall have genuine tales of what is happening in Russia. Alas, 'The Voice of Fighting Russia' is little more than propaganda, the kind of tiresome, exalted propaganda which fills the newspapers and books published in dictatorship countries. . . But for us, in this country, such tales are not convincing and the reader becomes skeptical of them. . . Yet, in spite of all the jingoism and the propaganda effort of Soviet writers, one can read a great story between the lines of 'The Voice of Fighting Russia.'" Sonia Tomara
+ — Books p23 Mr 1 '42 550w

Reviewed by J. J. Knights
Canadian Forum 22:93 Je '42 250w

Reviewed by R. G. Woolbert
Foreign Affairs 20:777 JI '42 20w

"'The Voice of Fighting Russia' is an anonymous anthology. There is a list of contributors, but the reports are unsigned. I could easily sort the stories into those written by professional writers and journalists, and those written or told by Red Army men, peasants, guerrilla fighters, women and children. Among the authors of the first group are men who for years have with the same eloquence hailed abortions, modern art, smart clothes, nationalism, free school lunches, folk music, Bolshevik leaders, democracy, or family ties, or condemned them when the line demanded it. I do not doubt their sincerity at the present moment, but I feel happier to have more than their high-flown language to tell me what is going on in Russia today." Markoosha Fischer
Nation 154:315 Mr 14 '42 500w
N Y Times p3 Mr 1 '42 600w

"A striking collection, but rather heavily dosed with naive inspirationalism."
New Yorker 18:60 F 23 '42 80w

"The book could have been immeasurably more valuable—and readable—had lush passages been weeded out, scores of almost identical incidents eliminated, and the soap-box atmosphere cleared. Lucien Zacharoff has completely ignored the differences between the Russian and American temperaments, environments and susceptibility to various types of appeals. In its present form, the book, at best, is a case study of Soviet war propaganda. It could have been a powerful and moving document." Mark Gayn
Sat R of Lit 25:14 My 23 '42 250w
Time 39:79 Mr 23 '42 100w

ZACHAROFF, LUCIEN. We made a mistake—Hitler; Russia's surprising defense against Germany. 213p $2 Appleton-Century [6s Lane] 940.542 World war, 1939—Russia. Russia—Defenses 41-21427

An analysis of the first few months of Germany's war against Russia, giving reasons for the failure of the blitzkrieg there. Partial contents: The Red air force; Russia's mechanized forces; Parachute troops; The world's most literate army; What, no fifth column? Poison gas and microbe mobilization; Industrial potential; The Ukraine; If Japan strikes; Stalin as a military leader; Three Soviet marshals; Winter warfare.

Booklist 38:208 F 15 '42

"A corrective to those disparaging ideas about the Soviet Army which were so commonly entertained prior to last June 22 was badly needed, but I am not sure that Mr. Zacharoff has not rather overdone the dose. In his account of the organization, equipment, doctrine, tactics and achievements . . . of the Soviet military power there is a great deal of value as well as of interest. . . Unfortunately, limned as it is in that peculiar combination of passionately lofty enthusiasm, presumably scientific statistics and a total inability to see any flaws whatever in the subject which characterizes so many works on the accomplishments of Soviet Russia, it loses some of the conviction which it might otherwise have had." Walter Mills

+ — Books p25 Ap 5 '42 650w

Reviewed by R. G. Woolbert

Foreign Affairs 20:733 Jl '42 20w

"Little of the information is novel; the author is enthusiastic but is inclined to be superficial. . . The analysis of Soviet economic development is just and pointed; we are reminded that Russia set out to achieve in a single generation what had elsewhere taken centuries and brought with it profound social schisms and disturbances. The political analysis is similarly acute but follows more controversial lines."

Times [London] Lit Sup p148 Mr 28 '42 550w

ZAHLER, HELENE SARA. Eastern workingmen and national land policy, 1829-1862. (Studies in the hist. of Am. agriculture) 246p $2.25 Columbia univ. press

333.0973 U.S.—Public lands. Land tenure—U.S. Labor and laboring classes—U.S. 41-7194

"Commons, Stephenson, and others have previously shown that during the 1830's and 1840's labor and other reform groups were favorable to drastic changes in Federal land policy. Miss Zahler has used a wider variety of sources connected with the labor movement and has brought together numerous references indicating the growth of reform sentiment. She traces the philosophical background of the reform movement and shows how the land or National Reform ideas of George Henry Evans permeated the labor movement. She then attempts to link up the land reform program of Eastern utopians and labor leaders with the Western demand for pre-emption, graduation, and homestead." (Am Hist R) Bibliography. Index.

"This book makes but a slight contribution to American history. . . There are a number of features of Miss Zahler's study which more careful thought might have substantially improved. . . The typographical errors and bibliographical omissions are too numerous." P. W. Gates

Am Hist R 47:363 Ja '42 650w

"In spite of rather obvious faults, and especially in spite of what seems to be an exaggerated view of the influence of Mr Evans and his National Reform Association, Dr. Zahler faces the facts on several occasions and all but admits that the interest of the worker in the western lands, or his influence in changing the system, are both in doubt. . . Perhaps we do not need to know just what part organized labor played in determining our public land policies; after the appearance of this volume, the knowledge is still inferential and doubtful." B. H. Hibbard

J Pol Econ 49:612 Ag '41 1250w

New Eng Q 14:598 S '41 240w

Social Studies 32:288 O '41 10w

ZECHMEISTER, LASZLO, and CHOLNOKY, LASZLO. Principles and practice of chromatography; tr. from the 2d and enl. German ed. by A. L. Echarach and F. A. Robinson; with a foreword by I. M. Heilbron. 362p il $5 Wiley [25s Chapman]

544.9 Chromatographic analysis. Pigments. Adsorption Agr42-109

"Intended as a guide to the latest specialized laboratory procedure for making possible spatial separation of the components of a mixture. Invented by a Russian botanist, M. Tswett, the method is a simple one for the investigator and offers unusual possibilities for future development. It is particularly adaptable in the field of pure and applied organic chemistry." (N Y New Tech Bks) Index of names and general index.

"Each topic is dealt with in its proper setting, so that many fields of research are reviewed in an interesting way which adds greatly to the value of the work." R. A. Morton

+ Nature 148:8 Jl 5 '41 900w

N Y New Tech Bks 27:23 Ap '42

ZIFF, WILLIAM BERNARD. Coming battle of Germany; with an introd. by William E. Gillmore. 280p $2.50 Duell

940.54 World war, 1939-. Strategy

(W) 42-19023

The author, a "noted civilian authority on aviation, has at last put down for the permanent and public record the things he has been telling the experts, both military and civilian, during all these extraordinary and world-shaking months of World War II." (Introd) In his realistic book he makes concrete suggestions for the carrying on of the war by the United Nations. He shows that if we carry the battle into Germany now, fighting an offensive war upon or over German territory, there will never be a battle of America. Bibliography.

Appeared on Best Seller list in: ALA (1) Books (15) NY Times (16) PW (1) RB (2) W (1)

Booklist 39:10 S '42

Bookmark 4:13 N '42

"One of the best informed, most mercilessly logical, angriest and hardest-hitting books that have come out of the war. Often almost clairvoyant in its insight into things that have happened since it was written, this is both a heartening and a terrifying book. . . There will be disagreement among both lay and expert readers of this book as to the merit of some of what Mr. Ziff says. So formidable are the author's facts, though, so remorseless is his logic and so distinguished the company of those who agree with his basic argument that any one who rejects his thesis will be obliged to show good cause for doing so." W. R. Deuel

+ — Books p3 Ag 2 '42 1550w

Reviewed by Francis McCullagh

— Cath World 156:114 O '42 800w

"It is all delusively simple, the more so since Mr. Ziff does not trouble to meet any moderating arguments on the other side."

+ Manchester Guardian p3 O 14 '42 180w

Reviewed by Ralph Bates

Nation 155:175 Ag 29 '42 850w

"The potentialities of the airplane, both as an offensive weapon and as a cargo-carrier designed to beat the U-boat menace, are discussed in a thorough, convincing and thought-provoking way. Even though many persons may not agree with Mr. Ziff that the airplane alone can beat the Nazis, it is undeniable that 'The Coming Battle of Germany' is an important contribution to popular, and perhaps official, thinking regarding efforts to check the almost unbroken Allied retreat. . . It is impossible to give unqualified approval to Mr. Ziff's book, since he tries to cover too much ground, even going so far as to argue that General Charles de Gaulle be appointed leader of all the United Nations forces. But it is not impossible to claim that when Mr. Ziff deals strictly with questions with which he is familiar, such as air transport and all-out bombing, his book is one of the best and most valuable to have appeared since September 1, 1939. It may provide the answer to victory in the coming Battle of Germany." J. G. Harrison

+ — New Repub 107:148 Ag 3 '42 1150w

"The present volume bears somewhat the same relation to de Seversky's that astrology does to astronomy. . . The consideration of the prospects for that famous second front is in a similar realistic atmosphere and should probably be read by all editorial writers who want the United States Army landed on the coast of Norway day after tomorrow; and when he discusses the effects that really massive bombings of Germany could have, it is hard to disagree with him. But the whole book is hastily written, without checking facts, and even with a disregard for them when they interfere with an ingenious and well-phrased generalization. . . Mr. Ziff, like so many amateur strategists, confuses what with how, and assumes that there is a method of making war from the factory, to which military technique will be unable to find a reply. He fails to realize that weapons are never half as important as the men who use them."

ZIFF, W. B.—Continued

Fletcher Pratt

+ — N Y Times p6 Ag 16 '42 1050w

"An exciting, courageous, possibly somewhat wrongheaded book that nevertheless, to the lay mind, seems to make considerable hard sense." Clifton Fadiman

+ — New Yorker 18:57 J1 18 '42 750w

"This is a hard book but it is a good one. Hard, because the author's thinking is as coldblooded and realistic as the enemy's; good, because our people are hungry for the bitter truth. They get it here—in earnest. . . This book is solid fare. I's are dotted and T's are crossed. It is stuffed with information and backed up by authoritative reference." H. E. Hartney

+ Sat R of Lit 25:9 Ag 1 '42 800w

Times [London] Lit Sup p507 O 17 '42 850w

ZIGROSSER, CARL. Artist in America;
twenty-four close-ups of contemporary printmakers. 213p pl $5 Knopf

927.6 Engravers, American. Etchers, American. Lithographers (W) 42-25527

"Author, curator of prints at Philadelphia Museum of Art, has written twenty-four short biographical studies of contemporary American print makers who, he says, represent a cross section of art produced in this country between two world wars. Each artist is presented as a contributor of something significant and unique to national culture." (Library J) Index.

Booklist 39:223 F 1 '43

"Mr. Zigrosser's attitude is one of friendliness, tolerance, and good will toward all men striving for recognition in the arts. He is a man of catholic tastes, with no strong preferences for one type of artist above another. . . He is incapable of harsh or destructive criticism, and if anything, is a little too lenient with printmakers whose works appeal to him because of their tidiness and manual precision, but who, in my opinion, cannot be called American. Hence I find it difficult to accept in a book of this nature several artists who, though biographically interesting, have done nothing more than impose borrowed European styles on native subject matter. Surely they cannot be called American workmen. But these are minor complaints. The Artist in America' is beautifully designed and printed—the reproductions are excellent, the text fascinating. It is an extremely valuable book and should go a long way in bringing before the public the aims and attainments of our printmakers." Thomas Craven

+ — Books p5 D 20 '42 800w

"Dignified and intelligent in treatment, 'with emphasis on interpretation and human values.' Solid addition in its field. All who love the graphic arts will rejoice in beauty of format. More than seventy-five prints excellently reproduced." Rice Estes

+ Library J 67:1066 D 1 '42 90w

"These 'close-ups' of American printmakers are very personal, with a seasoning of friendly gossip. . . The author's own preferences in art, fairly evident, appear to be repressed a bit in the obvious aim to exercise catholicity—a catholicity strained just a little. . . Even if you object to this or that, the book (designed by W. A. Dwiggins, with easily read type and unbled plates, thanks be!) is well worth reading and well worth keeping at hand for reference." Frank Weitenkamp

+ — N Y Times p7 D 13 '42 900w

"In sum, 'The Artist in America' is an engrossing group biography. It is an informal, illuminating exposition of the esthetics and the personalities governing today's print output. It is alive and entertaining, as well as instructive." Frank Caspers

+ Sat R of Lit 25:56 D 5 '42 650w

ZILBOORG, GREGORY, and HENRY, GEORGE WILLIAM. A history of medical psychology.
606p il $5 Norton

616.8 Psychology. Pathological 41-24603

For descriptive note see Annual for 1941.

"Should be in the library of every medical school and hospital as a valuable source of reference and collateral reading." E. L. Richards

+ Am J Pub Health 32:659 Je '42 270w

Reviewed by R. F. Creegan

Christian Century 59:427 Ap 1 '42 500w

"A History of Medical Psychology is an impressive book. Not only is it unique in its content, but it records in the most skillful and scholarly manner the medical interest which finally matured in modern psychiatry. . . Those interested in mental hygiene, domestic counseling, and the study of personality will find it a valuable source book." E. R. Groves

+ Social Forces 20:505 My '42 80w

Spring'd Republican p6 F 12 '42 250w

"We can overlook the few inaccuracies that are bound to creep into a work so monumental. Dr. Zilboorg makes it easy to disagree with some of his interpretations because it is fairly evident when he is expressing his own conclusions. Since humanity over the ages is the backdrop of all history, this glimpse of the personality of twenty-five hundred years of our culture should serve to illuminate historical expeditions into every other field of human interest." G. S. Stevenson, M. D.

+ — Survey G 31:218 Ap '42 370w

"Dr. Zilboorg has written a very readable book which will appeal to medical students and general readers alike. . . The book is written in a pleasant style and combines exactitude with a popular approach to the most intricate problems of medical psychology, enabling the layman to form a comprehensive picture of this vast and quickly developing sphere of medical research."

+ Times [London] Lit Sup p359 J1 18 '42 180w

"One familiar with the peculiar difficulties of the presentation of the medical psychology cannot help admiring the smoothly flowing factualness and the general atmosphere of the book. Dr. Zilboorg's memories of travels and personal associations, the skill of his co-ordination, and throughout, the nearness to life, have produced a book that will open a wide world to many readers." Adolf Meyer

+ Yale R n s 31:621 spring '42 700w

ZIM, HERBERT SPENCER. Mice, men, and elephants; a book about the mammals; il. with drawings by James MacDonald and with photographs. 215p $2 Harcourt

599 Mammals (W) 42-36123

"This book was written to answer the questions most frequently asked by children between eight and fourteen concerning themselves and animals. In a straightforward manner, Mr. Zim simply describes animal life from the lowest forms to the human being. Anatomy and functions of various parts of the body are explained sufficiently, with emphasis on heart, lungs, brain, and reproductive organs. Book closes with a brief chapter on anthropology and explanatory text on the main groups of mammals." (Library J) Index.

Booklist 38:280 Ap 1 '42

"Alluring, rewarding book. Any one who takes an interest in animals—including among them the human race—is likely to find it interesting, but as an introduction to the subject for boys and girls at that inquiring age, the early teens, it can scarcely fail in attraction."

+ Books p20 My 10 '42 330w

"Recommended for all libraries." E. T. Dobbins

+ Library J 67:226 Mr 1 '42 70w

"A good book for zoologists of grade-school and junior-high-school age. Though not presented as a book on sex education, it will answer many questions on that score."

+ New Yorker 18:78 My 23 '42 50w

"This is a book about mammals, written for young people, presumably from twelve to fourteen years of age. Its author is a teacher of broad experience, whose major work has been in the fields of science education and adolescent psychology. He has taught not only from books but has taken groups of boys, aged twelve to sixteen, on motor field trips to many parts of the United States. His latest effort, this present volume, in its chatty, informal way, combines the best of the lecturing and field trip methods of imparting knowledge to eager young minds."

+ Scientific Bk Club R 13:4 Ag '42 450w

ZIM, HERBERT SPENCER. Parachutes; il. with drawings by James MacDonald and with photographs. 252p $2.50 Harcourt
629.134386 Parachutes (W) 42-36288

"This nontechnical book on the parachute appears to be a satisfactory answer to the need for material on this subject. It covers the history and development of the parachute, the scientific principles affecting it, paratroop training, the use of parachutes in the present war, and their value for nonmilitary purposes. Older boys and men." (Booklist) Index.

Booklist 39:18 S '42

"A fascinating book is Herbert S. Zim's discussion of that most fascinating theme the parachute. The author is not an airman, but a science teacher at a progressive school. 'Parachutes' is written clearly and simply in a style that young people can easily follow and adults will not resent." Wolfgang Langewiesche
+ Books p22 S 27 '42 950w

"Here is a timely and an intensely interesting book. The chapter on parachute progress is especially enlightening." F. B. Sloan
+ Christian Science Monitor p10 S 24 '42 130w

"Straightforward writing and dramatic illustrations make this book interesting to adults and young people." A. M. Jordan
+ Horn Bk 18:343 S '42 80w

Reviewed by M. C. Scoggin
Library J 67:894 O 15 '42 20w

Reviewed by Elizabeth Beal
Library J 67:913 O 15 '42 140w

Reviewed by E. F. Allen
N Y Times p12 S 6 '42 490w
New Yorker 18:115 D 12 '42 20w
Wis Lib Bul 38:159 N '42

ZIM, HERBERT SPENCER. Submarine; the story of undersea boats; il. with drawings by James MacDonald and with photographs. 306p $3 Harcourt

359 Submarine boats (W) 42-19801

Traces the historical development of the submarine, explains the mechanism of the modern types, and discusses the training for undersea service. Partial contents: U.S. submarines since World War I; British and Russian submarines; German, Italian, and Japanese submarines; Principles of the submarine; Practice of diving; Power for the submarine; Electric power and compressed air; Navigation; The periscope; Communication; Fresh air; The torpedo; Other weapons; The Squalus and the Thetis. For use in either adult or juvenile collections. Index.

Booklist 39:18 S '42

Reviewed by A. M. Jordan
Horn Bk 18:344 S '42 70w

"Men and boys will particularly enjoy this well-written book. . . Recommended." Emily Hutson

+ Library J 67:688 Ag '42 70w

Reviewed by M. C. Scoggin
Library J 67:894 O 15 '42 10w

Reviewed by R. G. Doyle
N Y Times p14 Ag 16 '42 600w

ZIMPFER, GEORGE. Fear not, little flock. 259p $2.75 Bruce pub.

271.9 Sisterhoods 41-13247
Essays on religious life for nuns.

"Father Zimpfer's conferences to religious women, designed 'to simplify the understanding of the religious and spiritual life, and to correct some common misunderstandings,' is the work of an ideal retreat master, with a perfect understanding of the religious life, a frank, common sense way of pointing out the every-day obstacles to true spirituality and a fresh, original approach that brings to life age-old truths." B. L. Conway

+ Cath World 154:247 N '41 400w

Cleveland Open Shelf p11 My '42

ZINK, HAROLD. Government and politics in the United States. 1091p $4 Macmillan
342.73 U.S.—Politics and government 42-15709

Textbook on the "human element" in government. The book contains a discussion of the formal aspects of the American political system, with emphasis upon the rôles of political parties, pressure groups, public opinion, etc. Chapter bibliographies, Index.

"By a clear and easy style, coupled with a generous resort to apt and vivid illustrations, the writer contributes worthily to disabusing students of the notion which they hold quite generally that American government is a 'dry' subject." G. W. Rutherford

+ Am Pol Sci R 36:989 O '42 190w

"The easy style and interesting illustrative material should not only minimize student resistance to the assigned 'task,' but also provide a stimulus to obtaining a realistic picture of the dynamic, political atmosphere of these United States." H. G. Hodges

+ Ann Am Acad 224:218 N '42 550w

"A competent and comprehensive text."

+ Social Studies 33:336 N '42 10w

ZINSSER, HANS (R. S. pseud). Spring, summer, and autumn; poems. 96p $2 Knopf
811 (W) 42-19843

Selection from the poems written by a well-known scientist, author of Rats, Lice, and History, and As I Remember Him. The poems were published first in the Atlantic Monthly, signed "R. S."

Booklist 39:118 D 1 '42

"Though Hans Zinsser was most widely known for the 'noble courage' of his scientific research; the 'warm heart' of the poet speaks eloquently as well and demands a good hearing." Robert Hillyer

+ Boston Globe p19 S 23 '42 380w

ZOFF, OTTO. The Huguenots; fighters for God and human freedom [tr. by E. B. Ashton and Jo Mayo]. 340p il $3.50 L. B. Fischer pub. corp. 381 4th av. N.Y.

284.5 Huguenots 42-13312

Popular history of the Huguenots, called "the fighters for God and human freedom." It covers some hundred years of the struggle of the Protestants for freedom of worship in France, and describes their settlement in America where they spread out thru most of the thirteen colonies. Bibliography. No index.

"The reviewer enjoyed reading the acceptable translation of the work. It is true that the book is not the result of intensive investigations in the archives of France. It is based on a rather limited selection of printed volumes on various aspects of the subject, and, in the opinion of the reviewer, does not do justice to the economic and social aspects of the subject. Moreover, there are a few minor errors of fact. Despite these limitations, the work gives us a striking picture of a period of intolerance and cruelty that resembles in many ways the age in which we live. In doing this, the author has contributed something worth while." F. C. Palm

ZOFF, OTTO—Continued

+ — Am Hist R 48:296 Ja '43 550w

Booklist 38:420 J1 1 '42

"From the philosophical point of view the book is weak. . . . As narrative history, the tale suffers from the monotony of confusion and horror; the fault is inherent in the subject. As a chronicle, the work is brilliantly successful. . . . The style has something of Michelet's intensity and color without his fatiguing feverishness; and the translation is remarkable." Albert Guerard

+ — Books p10 J1 5 '42 1250w

Reviewed by E. L. Pennington
Churchman 156:17 Je 15 '42 240w

"Told in a concise, highly readable manner by the gifted Czecho-Slovakian author. Excellent full-page reproductions of portraits and drawings, and a fine jacket by Salter."

+ New Repub 106:742 My 25 '42 40w

"The story of the Huguenots . . . is brought out in English by what is locally a 'new' publishing firm, as the famous European house of Fischer initiates its American publications. And this volume is so dignified and attractive that it must be welcomed on the score of admirable book-making, even before we turn to its content. This is also excellent, as we find at once. . . . The book's interest rewards the diligent reading which it demands."

+ N Y Times p3 Ap 5 '42 650w

"This is an interesting and arresting book—well worth reading in these days when political absolutism and armed tyranny are again stalking the earth and pretending to be a 'new order.'" L. A. Weigle

+ Survey G 31:332 J1 '42 430w

Wis Lib Bul 38:82 My '42

ZUKOFSKY, LOUIS. 55 poems. 126p $2 Press of James A. Decker

811 41-21500

"The book is like sitting in on a smoker at which Cummings, Williams, Crane, the editors of Transition, G. M. Hopkins, Marianne Moore, and Zukofsky toss ideas at each other. Zukofsky considerably abetted by Cummings, supplies the style—thin, wiry as nerve-writ—ing—the format and numbering of the poems." New Repub

"Here there are some pieces that can be read with pleasure, but for the most part they are eccentric expressions of some not very significant reactions of the author, several are neither more nor less than blague." M. M. Culum

+ — N Y Times p5 Ja 11 '42 850w

Reviewed by Lloyd Frankenberg
New Repub 106:371 Mr 16 '42 120w

"The poems are uneven. They try a difficult approach to the reader's attention, a very difficult approach, so that there are many factors involved in their failure—even though their successes are of a superlative quality when achieved. Such a poem, for instance, as 10 of the 29 Poems (1923-1931) is a success. Both the writer and the reader cannot vary a hairline from the purpose. But we are all variable, in mood, in ability—morning and evening make us different men—very seldom are we at a peak of interest in anything, let alone poetry and difficult poetry at that."

W. C. Williams

Poetry 60:338 S '42 650w

ZWEIG, STEFAN. Amerigo; a comedy of errors in history; tr. by Andrew St James. 128p il $2 Viking

973.16 Vespucci, Amerigo. America—Discovery and exploration (W) 42-6238

This historical and biographical study attempts to discover why America was named for Amerigo Vespucci and not for Columbus. The author concludes: "And perhaps the name of so undistinguished a person, of one of the anonymous crowd of the brave, is more fitting for a democratic country than that of a king or a conquistador, and certainly more just than if America had been called West India, New England, New Spain, or Holy Cross Land. It was not the will of a person that has carried this mortal name into immortality; rather it was the will of fate which remains always right, even when it seems to do wrong."

Reviewed by W. J. Wilson
Am Hist R 48:86 O '42 370w

Booklist 38:328 My 1 '42

Reviewed by H. S. Commager
Books p19 Ap 5 '42 750w

"Stefan Zweig has written an interesting little book about all this, marked with humor and urbanity." Max Fischer

+ Commonweal 35:628 Ap 10 '42 170w

Reviewed by G. E. Brown
Library J 67:131 F 1 '42 50w

"A writer with the language equipment and literary gifts of Stefan Zweig might have done a better job on Amerigo, even within this modest compass. . . . As for Vespucci, his fame is based on pleasantly written narratives of voyages, at least one of which was fictitious and none of which he commanded. He still remains after all the explanations and apologetics, the Dr. Cook of the great age of discovery." S. E. Morison

+ — Nation 154:230 F 21 '42 1150w

"Professional bibliographers may find the author's bibliographical citations less than accurate in some instances; but, all the same, the author has caught and has set down the essential facts of this astonishing 'Comedy of Errors' as a result of which we are Americans and not Columbans, Holycrosslanders, Parrotlanders or something else. . . . Mr. Zweig has told the amazing story with rare skill. He tells it hindsided foremost. . . . But he does it with new vividness and witty poignancy. It is an enthralling book." P. A. Means

+ — N Y Times p9 Mr 8 '42 1000w

"A historical mystery story, told with a painless and graceful scholarship. Fine translation."

+ New Yorker 18:60 F 28 '42 60w

Wis Lib Bul 38:68 Ap '42

Subject and Title Index

To Author Entries, March, 1942—February, 1943

Owing to the fact that the Book Review Digest year does not correspond to the calendar year, running instead from March to March, index entries for January and February of each year refer to the volume dated the previous year; i.e., January and February 1943 will be found in the 1942 Annual. These entries are thus indicated in the index: (Ja '43) (1942 Annual); (F '43) (1942 Annual).

- A B C of America's wines. Mabon, M. F. (S '42)
- ABC of aviation. Pagé, V. W. (Ap '42)
- A B C of inflation. Kemmerer, E. W. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Abe Lincoln's other mother. Bailey, B. F. (Ap '42)
- Ability
- Testing
- Wren, H. A. Vocational aspiration levels of adults. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Above all liberties. Craig, A. (O '42)
- Abraham Lincoln and the fifth column. Milton, G. F. (N '42)
- Absorption
- Zechmeister, L., and Choinoky, L. Principles and practice of chromatography. (S '42)
- Academic man. Wilson, L. (Ag '42)
- Accidents
- Prevention
- Bacon, F. L. Outwitting the hazards. (Ag '42)
- Hammond, H. F., and Sorenson, L. J., eds. Traffic engineering handbook. (Ag '42)
- Heinrich, H. W. Industrial accident prevention. (Je '42)
- Resnick, L. Eye hazards in industry. (Je '42)
- Accidents, Industrial
- Heinrich, H. W. Industrial accident prevention. (Je '42)
- Accounting
- Paton, W. A. Advanced accounting. (Je '42)
- Specthrie, S. W. Industrial accounting. (Ag '42)
- Acculturation
- Locke, A. Le R., ed. When peoples meet. (My '42)
- Accustomed as I am. Brown, J. M. (Mr '42)
- Aces wild. Winston, R. A. (Ap '42)
- Acid-base catalysis. Bell, R. P. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Acoustics of buildings. Watson, F. R. (Je '42)
- Across a world. Considine, J. J., and Kernan, T. D. (N '42)
- Acting
- Irvine, H. Actor's art and job. (Ag '42)
- Morosco, S. P., and Lounsbury, A. Stage technique made easy. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Action against the enemy's mind. Bornstein, J., and Milton, P. R. (D '42)
- Action at sea. Johnston, G. H. (Mr '42)
- Action in diamonds. Cooper, C. R. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Action in the East. Gallagher, O' D. (S '42)
- Action on all fronts. Ingersoll, R. M. (Ap '42)
- Actors and actresses
- Correspondence, reminiscences, etc.
- Chase, I. Past imperfect. (Ap '42)
- Petrova, O. Butter with my bread. (N '42)
- Actor's art and job. Irvine, H. (Ag '42)
- Actual and potential use of laboratory schools in state normal schools and teachers colleges. Williams, E. I. F. (Je '42)
- Adam of the road. Gray, E. J. (Je '42)
- Addison, Joseph
- Addison, J. Letters. (N '42)
- Adler, Cyrus
- Neuman, A. A. Cyrus Adler. (My '42)
- Administrative law
- Chamberlain, J. P., and others. Judicial function in federal administrative agencies. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Frank, J. If men were angels. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Griffith, E. S. Modern government in action. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Leiserson, A. Administrative regulation. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Administrative procedure. Glaser, C. (My '42)
- Administrative regulation. Leiserson, A. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Admiral of the ocean sea. Morison, S. E. (Mr '42)
- Admiral Sims and the modern American navy. Morison, E. E. (O '42)
- Adolescence
- Cole, L. W. Psychology of adolescence. (S '42)
- Richmond, W. V. Making the most of your personality. (Ap '42)
- Advance agent. De Voto, B. A. (Mr '42)
- Advanced accounting. Paton, W. A. (Je '42)
- Advances in colloid science, v 1. Kraemer, E. O., and others, eds. (D '42)
- Advances in enzymology and related subjects, v 1. (Ap '42)
- Adventure for Alison. Howard, E. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Adventure was the compass. Heflin, A. (Je '42)
- Adventurers all. Buchan, J. (O '42)
- Adventures in embroidery. Thesiger, E. (N '42)
- Advertising
- Borden, N. H. Economic effects of advertising. (My '42)
- Schools
- Harral, S. Public relations for higher education. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Aerial bombardment protection. Wessman, H. E., and Rose, W. A. (Ap '42)
- Aeronautical instruments
- Irvin, G. E. Aircraft instruments. (Ap '42)
- Wright, B. A. and others. Flight. (Je '42)
- Aeronautics
- Kuns, R. F. Flight; aircraft engines. (Je '42)
- Pagé, V. W. ABC of aviation. (Ap '42)
- Pope, F., and Otis, A. S. Elements of aeronautics. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Shields, B. A. Air pilot training. (My '42)
- Wright, B. A. and others. Flight. (Je '42)
- Accidents
- Trumbull, R. The raft. (S '42)
- Dictionaries
- Shenton, E. New alphabet of aviation. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Flights
- Hager, A. R. Frontier by air. (D '42)
- Heflin, A. Adventure was the compass. (Je '42)
- Markham, B. West with the night. (Ag '42)
- History
- Cook, H. K., ed. Birth of flight. (S '42)
- Juvenile literature
- Anderson, L. Bag of smoke. (N '42)
- Keliher, A. V., ed. Air workers today. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Shenton, E. New alphabet of aviation. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Aeronautics—Continued

Laws and regulations

Puffer, C. E. Air transportation. (Je '42)

Aeronautics, Commercial

Frederick, J. H. Commercial air transportation. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Knowlton, H. Air transportation in the United States. (Ag '42)

Lissitzyn, O. J. International air transport and national policy. (N '42)

Puffer, C. E. Air transportation. (Je '42)

Smith, H. L. Airways. (Mr '42)

Spencer, F. A. Air mail payment and the government. (Je '42)

Tunis, J. R. Million-miler. (Ag '42)

Aeronautics, Military

Arnold, H. H., and Eaker, I. C. Army flyer. (Je '42)

De Seversky, A. P. Victory through air power. (My '42)

Douhet, G. Command of the air. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Gauvreau, E. H., and Cohen, L. Billy Mitchell. (O '42)

Hartney, H. E. What the citizen should know about the air forces. (Je '42)

Huie, W. B. Fight for air power. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Jane's All the world's aircraft, 1941. (O '42)

Johnston, S. P. Flying squadrons. (S '42)

Law, B. A. Fighting planes of the world. (D '42)

Lent, H. B. Aviation cadet. (Ap '42)

Leonard, R. I flew for China. (D '42)

Leyson, B. W. Wings of defense. (S '42)

Miller, H. B. Navy wings. (D '42)

Sagendorph, K. Thunder aloft. (Ag '42)

Aerophotography and aerosurveying. Bagley, J. W. (Je '42)

Aesthetic sentiment. Lundholm, H. (My '42)

Affair of the splintered heart. Knight, C. (N '42)

Africa, British East

Markham, E. West with the night. (Ag '42)

Against all odds. Lansing, M. F. (D '42)

Age of enterprise. Cochran, T. C., and Miller, W. (N '42)

Ageless Indies. Kennedy, R. (S '42)

Agenda for a postwar world. Condliffe, J. B. (O '42)

Agent extraordinary. Bayne, S. (S '42)

Agent in Italy. K., S. (My '42)

Ages of the world. Schelling, F. W. J. von (N '42)

Agricultural administration

United States

Black, J. D. Parity, parity, parity. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Agricultural labor

McWilliams, C. Ill fares the land. (Ap '42)

Agriculture

Haystead, L. Farm for fortune and vice versa. (Ap '42)

Teller, W. M. Farm primer. (S '42)

Economic aspects

McWilliams, C. Ill fares the land. (Ap '42)

Juvenile literature

Greenhill, M., and Dunbar, E. M. Book of farmcraft. (Ag '42)

East (Far East)

Wickizer, V. D., and Bennett, M. K. Rice economy of monsoon Asia. (Ag '42)

Great Britain

Harland, E. M. Farmer's girl. (S '42)

Nebraska

Diller, R. Farm ownership, tenancy, and land use in a Nebraska community. (Ap '42)

Tennessee

Clark, B. H. Tennessee yeomen. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

United States

Peterson, E. T. Forward to the land. (Ag '42)

Ainos

James, N. Petticoat vagabond in Ainu land and up and down eastern Asia. (My '42)

Air conditioning metal layout. Kaberlein, J. J. (S '42)

Air defenses

De Seversky, A. P. Victory through air power. (My '42)

Air force girl. Shann, R. (Je '42)

Air mail payment and the government. Spencer, F. A. (Je '42)

Air mail service

United States

Spencer, F. A. Air mail payment and the government. (Je '42)

Air ministry, room 28. Frankau, G. (Mr '42)

Air patrol. Lent, H. B. (D '42)

Air pilot training. Shields, B. A. (My '42)

Air raid safety manual. Leyson, B. W. (Je '42)

Air raid warden in America. Lambert, J. W. (Je '42)

Air raids

Protective measures

Lambert, J. W. Air raid warden in America. (Je '42)

Leyson, B. W. Air raid safety manual. (Je '42)

Wessman, H. E., and Rose, W. A. Aerial bombardment protection. (Ap '42)

Air transportation. Puffer, C. E. (Je '42)

Air transportation in the United States. Knowlton, H. (Ag '42)

Air workers today. Keliher, A. V., ed. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Airbrush

Tobias, J. C. Manual of airbrush technique. (S '42)

Aircraft apprentice. MacGregor, L. (S '42)

Aircraft carrier. Winston, R. A. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Aircraft engine and metal finishes. Coler, M. A. (D '42)

Aircraft engine design. Liston, J. (D '42)

Aircraft engines. Judge, A. W. (Je '42)

Aircraft handbook. Colvin, F. H. (D '42)

Aircraft inspection. Wissman, E. E. (O '42)

Aircraft instruments. Irvin, G. E. (Ap '42)

Aircraft riveting. Lear, E. B., and Dillon, J. E. (O '42)

Aircraft riveting. Nisita, A. H. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Aircraft spot and seam welding. Kuntz, G. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Aircraft spotter. Ott, L. (Ap '42)

Aircraft torch welding. Von Borchers, C., and Ciffrin, A. (Je '42)

Aircraft welding. Elzea, L. S. (S '42)

Airlanes to English. Roberts, H. De W., and others. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Airmen of the Amazon. Litten, F. N. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Airplane and its components. Sears, W. R. (D '42)

Airplane carriers

Winston, R. A. Aircraft carrier. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Airplane drawing. Giachino, J. W., and Son-smith, H. A. (Ap '42)

Airplane engines

Judge, A. W. Aircraft engines. (Je '42)

Kuns, R. F. Flight; aircraft engines. (Je '42)

Liston, J. Aircraft engine design. (D '42)

Airplane industry and trade

Gann, E. K. Getting them into the blue. (S '42)

Nolan, R. R. Machine tools in aircraft production. (Ap '42)

Airplane lofting. Nelson, W. (Ag '42)

Airplane models

Gilmore, H. H. Model planes for beginners. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Winter, W. J. Model aircraft handbook. (Ap '42)

Airplanes

Colvin, F. H. Aircraft handbook. (D '42)

Jane's All the world's aircraft, 1941. (O '42)

Law, B. A. Fighting planes of the world. (D '42)

Ott, L. Aircraft spotter. (Ap '42)

Page, V. W. ABC of aviation. (Ap '42)

Sears, W. R. Airplane and its components. (D '42)

Apparatus and supplies

Thompson, J. E., and Campbell, R. B. Manual for aircraft hydraulics. (D '42)

Design and construction

- Elzea, L. S. Aircraft welding. (S '42)
 Faulconer, T. P. Introduction to aircraft design. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Frazer, R. H., and Berthiaume, O. Practical aircraft sheet-metal work. (S '42)
 Gann, E. K. Getting them into the blue. (S '42)
 Giachino, J. W., and Sonsmith, H. A. Airplane drawing. (Ap '42)
 Kuntz, G. Aircraft spot and seam welding. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Lear, E. B., and Dillon, J. E. Aircraft riveting. (O '42)
 MacGregor, L. Aircraft apprentice. (S '42)
 Naidich, J. Mathematics for the aviation trades. (S '42)
 Nelson, W. Airplane lofting. (Ag '42)
 Nisita, A. H. Aircraft riveting. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Norcross, C., and Quinn, J. D. How to do aircraft sheetmetal work. (S '42)
 Von Borchers, C., and Cliffrin, A. Aircraft torch welding. (Je '42)

Inspection

- Wissman, E. E. Aircraft inspection. (O '42)

Materials

- Coler, M. A. Aircraft engine and metal finishes. (D '42)
Airplanes, Military
 Booth, H. H. Book of modern war planes. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Cooke, D. C. War planes of the Axis. (Ag '42)

Airships

- Allen, H. Story of the airship. (S '42)
 Airways. Smith, H. L. (Mr '42)

Aishah

- Abbott, N. Aishah, the beloved of Mohammed. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Alabama

- Kennedy, S. Palmetto country. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Alarm of the black cat. Olsen, D. B. (Mr '42)Alaska

- DeVighne, H. C. Time of my life. (N '42)
 Potter, J. C. Alaska under arms. (O '42)

Description and travel

- Brower, C. D., and others. Fifty years below zero. (N '42)
 Heflin, A. Adventure was the compass. (Je '42)

History

- Chevigny, H. Lord of Alaska. (N '42)
 Alaska under arms. Potter, J. C. (O '42)

Albania

- Robinson, V. Albania's road to freedom. (S '42)

Albania's road to freedom. Robinson, V. (S '42)Albatross murders. Jones, I. (Ap '42)Alcohol*Physiological effect

- Haggard, H. W., and Jellinek, E. M. Alcohol explored. (S '42)
 Alcohol explored. Haggard, H. W., and Jellinek, E. M. (S '42)

Alcoholism

- Clapp, C. Drunks are square pegs. (S '42)
 Haggard, H. W., and Jellinek, E. M. Alcohol explored. (S '42)
 Alder Gulch. Haycox, E. (My '42)
 Alert. Gibson, W. W. (My '42)

Algebra

- Albert, A. A. Introduction to algebraic theories. (Ap '42)

All aboard the Whale! Hatch, R. W. (F '43) (1942 Annual)All about broadcasting. Peet, C. (O '42)All-American. Tunis, J. R. (O '42)All children listen. Gordon, D. L. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)All in our day. Komroff, M. (N '42)All my born days. Gade, J. A. (Ap '42)All night long. Caldwell, E. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)All-out on the road to Smolensk. Caldwell, E. (Ap '42)All sails set. Holton, E. A. (Je '42)

- All sons must say goodbye. Amrine, M. (O '42)
 All the day long. Sargent, D. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)

All the trumpets sounded. Hardy, W. G. (S '42)All things are yours. Hough, H. B. (O '42)Allanayr. Eng title of: Full score. Baker, F. (My '42)Allegheny river*Way, F. Allegheny. (Ag '42)Alloys*Twyman, F. Spectrochemical analysis of metals and alloys. (My '42)Along our coast. Miller, M. R. (O '42)Along these streets. Burt, M. S. (Mr '42)Alphabet*Goudy, F. W. Alphabet, and elements of lettering. (Ag '42)Alphabet, and elements of lettering. Goudy, F. W. (Ag '42)Alstead, New Hampshire*Rawson, M. N. New Hampshire borns a town. (My '42)Aluminum*Juvenile literature*Strack, L. H. Aluminum, a magic mineral. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)Aluminum, a magic mineral. Strack, L. H. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)Aluminum bronze*Meigh, C. H. Practical application of aluminum bronze. (Ag '42)Aluminum chloride*Thomas, C. A. Anhydrous aluminum chloride in organic chemistry. (Je '42)Amateur scientist. Thomas, W. S. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)Amateur theatricals*Smith, B., comp. 25 non-royalty one-act plays for all-girl casts. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)Trimble, N. Variety shows and how to produce them. (My '42)Amazing Amazon. Brown, R. J. and R. C. (S '42)Amazing Roosevelt family. Schriftgiesser, K. (Je '42)Amazon river*Brown, R. J. and R. C. Amazing Amazon. (S '42)Ambassadors in white. Wilson, C. M. (Ag '42)Ambrose Kangaroo. Macintyre, E. (S '42)America*Defenses*Laves, W. H. C., ed. Inter-American solidarity. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)Description and travel*Sondergaard, A. My first geography of the Americas. (O '42)Discovery and exploration*Goodwin, W. B. The truth about Lelf Ericson. (Ap '42)Haugen, E. I., ed. and tr. Voyages to Vinland. (F '43) (1942 Annual)Zweig, S. Amerigo. (Ap '42)America and the axis war. Smith, D. H. H. (D '42)America and world mastery. MacCormac, J. (Ap '42)America in a world at war. Brown, W. B., and others. (O '42)America in action. (My '42)America in fiction. Coan, O. W., and Lillard, R. G. (Ap '42)America in the new Pacific. Taylor, G. E. (My '42)America in world affairs. Nevins, A. (Mr '42)America is Americans. Borland, H. G. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)America organizes to win the war. (My '42)America sings. Carmer, C. L. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)America speaks. Gibbs, P. H. (Ag '42)America, the story of a free people. Nevins, A., and Commager, H. S. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)American agencies interested in international affairs. Savord, R., comp. (F '43) (1942 Annual)American Alpine club's handbook of American mountaineering. Henderson, K. A., ed. (Ag '42)

American ballot. Albright, S. D. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
 American butterflies and moths. Matschat, C. H. (Ag '42)
 American civil liberties union
 Bunting, D. E. Liberty and learning. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
 American cotton handbook. Merrill, G. R., and others. (Je '42)
 American cowboy. James, W. (Ap '42)
 American dairy cattle. Prentice, E. P. (O '42)
 American destiny. Davies, A. P. (Ag '42)
 American dolls in uniform. Jordan, N. R. (O '42)

American drama

Collections

America in action. (My '42)
 Drummond, A. M., and Gard, R. E., eds. Lake guns of Seneca and Cayuga. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Mantle, B., ed. Best plays of 1941-42. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 American economic problems. Patterson, S. H., and others. (Ag '42)
 American family behavior. Bernard, J. S. (S '42)

American fiction

Geismar, M. D. Writers in crisis. (S '42)
 Taylor, W. F. Economic novel in America. (Ag '42)

Bibliography

Coan, O. W., and Lillard, R. G. America in fiction. (Ap '42)
 American frontier in Hawaii. Bradley, H. W. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
 American harvest. Tate, A., and Bishop, J. P., eds. (N '42)
 American highway policy. Dearing, C. L. (Je '42)
 American highway practice. Hewes, L. I. (My '42)
 American idea. Adams, E. T., and others. (Je '42)
 American in search of a way. Morris, W. R. (D '42)
 American industry in the war. Baruch, B. M. (Ap '42)
 American Jew. Janowsky, O. I., ed. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 American job trends. Anderson, H. D., and Davidson, P. E. (My '42)

American literature

Bibliography

Logasa, H., comp. Regional United States. (S '42)

Collections

Brown, S. A., and others, eds. Negro caravan. (My '42)
 Burnett, W., ed. This is my best. (D '42)
 Tate, A., and Bishop, J. P., eds. American harvest. (N '42)
 Warfel, H. R., and Manwaring, E. W., eds. Of the people. (S '42)
 Yale Review (periodical). Yale review anthology. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Dictionaries, indexes, etc.

Hart, J. D. Oxford companion to American literature. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)

History and criticism

Cargill, O. Intellectual America. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
 Kazin, A. On native grounds. (D '42)
 Reilly, J. J. Of books and men. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Russell, F. A. American pilgrimage. (Je '42)
 American local-color stories. Warfel, H. R., and Orians, G. H., eds. (S '42)
 American maritime industries and public policy. Hutchins, J. G. B. (My '42)
 American mottoes and slogans. Shankle, G. E. (Ap '42)
 American Negroes. Embree, E. R. (O '42)
 American opinion of Soviet Russia. Lovenstein, M. (Je '42)
 American pilgrimage. Russell, F. A. (Je '42)
 American poetry

Collections

Adams, F. P., ed. Innocent merriment. (N '42)
 Anthology of magazine verse for 1938-1942. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Clark, T. C., comp. Poems for life. (Ap '42)
 Five young American poets; second ser. (Ap '42)

Hayes, J. M., ed. In praise of nuns. (D '42)
 Kieran, J., comp. Poems I remember. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Moult, T., ed. Best poems of 1941. (S '42)
 Russell, F. A., ed. Pack up your troubles. (N '42)

Tate, A., ed. Princeton verse between two wars. (S '42)

Untermeyer, L., ed. Treasury of great poems, English and American. (N '42)

Williams, O., ed. New poems: 1942. (Je '42)
 American Polynesia. Bryan, E. H. (My '42)

American primitive painting. Lipman, J. H. (Ag '42)

American Red cross textbook on Red cross home nursing. Red cross. United States. American national Red cross. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

American regulation of arms exports. Atwater, E. (N '42)

American republics
 Humphrey, J. T. P. Inter-American system, a Canadian view. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Laves, W. H. C., ed. Inter-American solidarity. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)

Spykman, N. J. America's strategy in world politics. (My '42)

American reveille. Morehouse, W. (S '42)

American rolling mill company
 Borth, C. True steel. (Je '42)

American schools in transition. Mort, P. R., and Cornell, F. G. (D '42)

American society and the changing world. Peggs, C. H., and others. (Ag '42)

American society for the prevention of cruelty to animals
 Steele, Z. Angel in top hat. (D '42)

American speeches. Lothian, P. H. K. (Ap '42)

American spirit. Beard, C. A. and M. R. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

American taxation. Ratner, S. (Ag '42)

American thesaurus of slang. Berrey, L. V., and Van den Bark, M. (Ap '42)

American trees. Limbach, R. T. (N '42)

American unity and Asia. Buck, P. S. (S '42)

American university in Beirut
 Penrose, S. B. L. That they may have life. (Ap '42)

American way of life. Barnes, H. E., and Ruedi, O. M. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

American wine cook book. Hatch, E. W. (My '42)

Americanisms
 Berrey, L. V., and Van den Bark, M. American thesaurus of slang. (Ap '42)

Americans all. National education association of the United States. Department of supervisors and directors of instruction. (Ag '42)

Americans and their songs. Luther, F. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Americans every one. Davis, L. R. (Je '42)

Americans, 1942. New York. Museum of modern art. (Ag '42)

America's first crusade. Hoover, H. C. (Mr '42)

America's own refugees. Collins, H. H. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)

America's strategy in world politics. Spykman, N. J. (My '42)

America's struggle for free schools. Jackson, S. L. (My '42)

America's trade equality policy. Davis, H. O. (N '42)

Amigo. Zweig, S. (Ap '42)

Amigo. Chambers, W. (Mr '42)

Amish moving day. Seyfert, E. M. (S '42)

Amusements

Breen, M. J. The children's party book. (Ap '42)

Cleveland, R. Fun for boys and girls. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Duggins, G. H., and Eastwood, F. R. Planning industrial recreation. (Je '42)

Fisher, H. S. Good time at your picnic. (D '42)

Fite, K., and Paine, G. C. The Cokesbury shower book. (Ap '42)

Fredrikson, C. L. Picnic book. (S '42)

Gray, M., and Urban, R. C. Bright idea book. (S '42)

Harris, F. L., and Ridler, D. A. Food 'n' fun for the invalid. (O '42)

Jacobs, F. E. Out of a handkerchief. (S '42)

Analogy (religion)

- Phelan, G. B. Saint Thomas and analogy. (Je '42)
 Analysis of economic time series. Davis, H. T. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 And down the days. Bonn, J. L. (My '42)
 And green grass grows all around. Lyon, M. (N '42)
 And keep your powder dry. Mead, M. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 And let the coffin pass. Abbey, K. (My '42)
 And never yield. Pryor, E. (Je '42)
 And not for love. Mechem, P. (D '42)
 And now tomorrow. Field, R. L. (Je '42)
 And there were men. Blankenship, R. (S '42)

Andersen, Hans ChristianJuvenile literature

- David, J. Three Hanses. (D '42)

Anderson, Louie B.

- Anderson, N. M. Swede homestead. (D '42)

Anderson, Sherwood

- Anderson, S. Memoirs. (My '42)
 Andover liberals. Williams, D. D. (Ap '42)
 Andover theological seminary, Newton Center, Massachusetts
 Williams, D. D. Andover liberals. (Ap '42)

André, JohnFiction

- Pleasants, H. Mars' butterfly. (Ap '42)
 Andries. Van Stockum, H. (D '42)
 Andy Jackson, boy soldier. Stevenson, A. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Anecdotes

- Prochnow, H. V. Public speaker's treasure chest. (S '42)
 Thomas, L. J. Pageant of life. (Ap '42)
 Angel in top hat. Steele, Z. (D '42)
 Angel Mo' and her son, Roland Hayes. Helm, M. (D '42)
 Angel with spurs. Wellman, P. I. (Je '42)
 Angela comes home. Widdemer, M. (N '42)
 Angeworms on toast. Kantor, M. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Anhydrous aluminum chloride in organic chemistry. Thomas, C. A. (Je '42)
 Animal book. Hogner, D. C. (Je '42)

Animals, Habits and behavior of

- Devoe, A. Lives around us. (O '42)
 Lintz, G. D. Animals are my hobby. (Ag '42)
 Rush, W. M. Wild animals of the Rockies. (N '42)

Animals, Legends and stories of

- Atwell, R. Blue and the jungle. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
 Van de Water, F. F. Members of the family. (N '42)

- Animals are my hobby. Lintz, G. D. (Ag '42)
 Animals for me. Lenski, L. (Ap '42)

Animism

- Langton, E. Good and evil spirits. (D '42)
 Ann Batchelder's own cook book. Batchelder, A. (Je '42)
 Anna. Eng title of: Quiet lady. Collins, N. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Annals of the New York stage, v 13. Odell, G. C. D. (N '42)
 Arnapolis: gangway to the quarterdeck. Puleston, W. D. (Je '42)
 Annie and the wooden skates. Friskey, M. (Je '42)
 The Annie Moran. Hurd, E. T. (Je '42)
 Answer is . . . your nerves. Jackson, A. S. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Anthology of magazine verse for 1938-1942. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual) Anthology of Norwegian lyrics. Stork, C. W., tr. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Anthropology

- Chapple, E. D. and Coon, C. S. Principles of anthropology. (Je '42)
 Anti-dictator. La Boétie, E. de. (D '42)
 Anybody at home? Rey, H. A. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
 Anything for a quiet life. Avery, A. A. (Je '42)

- Apache days and after. Cruse, T. (Mr '42)

Apache Indians

- Cruse, T. Apache days and after. (Mr '42)
 Goodwin, G. Social organization of the Western Apache. (N '42)
 Opler, M. E. Apache life-way. (Je '42)
 Apache life-way. Opler, M. E. (Je '42)

Apes

- Benchley, B. J. My friends, the apes. (S '42)
 Apologetics. See Christianity—Evidences
 Appeasement: before, during and after the war. Einzig, P. (Ag '42)

Appellate procedure

- Pound, R. Appellate procedure in civil cases. (Ag '42)
 Appellate procedure in civil cases. Pound, R. (Ag '42)

- Apple for Eve. Norris, K. T. (N '42)

- Apple in the attic. Jordan, M. A. (O '42)

- Apple Pie inn. Donahey, M. A. D. (N '42)

- Appraisal of the Negro in colonial South Carolina. Klingberg, F. J. (Je '42)
 Appraisal of the Protocols of Zion. Curtiss, J. S. (S '42)

- Appraising guidance in secondary schools. Kefauver, G. N., and Hand, H. C. (Ap '42)

- Apprehensive dog. Bailey, H. C. (Ap '42)

ArabiaDescription and travel

- Raswan, C. R. Drinkers of the wind. (D '42)

Arabian horse

- Raswan, C. R. Drinkers of the wind. (D '42)

Arbitration, Industrial

- Bowman, D. O. Public control of labor relations. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
 Kellor, F. A. Arbitration in action. (Ap '42)
 McNaughton, W. L. Development of labor relations law. (My '42)
 Robbins, J. J. Government of labor relations in Sweden. (O '42)

Arbitration and award

- Kellor, F. A. Arbitration in action. (Ap '42)

- Arbitration in action. Kellor, F. A. (Ap '42)

- Archer Pilgrim. Jackson, D. D. (Je '42)

Architectural acoustics

- Watson, F. R. Acoustics of buildings. (Je '42)

Architecture

- Lescaze, W. H. On being an architect. (Ag '42)
 Sert, J. L. Can our cities survive? (F '43) (1942 Annual)

History

- Robb, D. M., and Garrison, J. J. Art in the western world. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Massachusetts

- Coolidge, J. P. Mill and mansion. (N '42)

United States

- Newton, R. H. Town & Davis, architects. (S '42)

Architecture, Domestic

- Farnham, D. T. Be it ever so humble. (S '42)

Designs and plans

- Ford, J. and K. M. Design of modern interiors. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Architecture as a profession

- Lescaze, W. H. On being an architect. (Ag '42)

Arctic regions

- Wilkins, G. H., and Sherman, H. M. Thoughts through space. (S '42)

Juvenile literature

- Hanson, E. P. Stefansson, (Mr '42)

Argentina

- Haring, C. H. Argentina and the United States. (Je '42)

Commerce

- Salera, V. Exchange control and the Argentine market. (My '42)

Foreign relationsUnited States

- Haring, C. H. Argentina and the United States. (Je '42)

History

- White, J. W. Argentina. (S '42)

Politics and government

- Macdonald, A. F. Government of the Argentine republic. (S '42)

- Argentina and the United States. Haring, C. H. (Je '42)

- Arise from sleep. Delehanty, E. (My '42)

- Arise to conquer. Gleed, I. R. (S '42)
 Armadillo and the monkey. Jardim, L. (Je '42)
Armaments
 Sloutzki, N. M. World armaments race. (Je '42)
Arms and the aftermath. Stryker, P. (Mr '42)
 Arms and the girl. Marshall, M. M. (Je '42)
 Arms and the people. Stevens, A. (Je '42)
 Army doctor. Seifert, E. (Ap '42)
 Army flyer. Arnold, H. H., and Eaker, I. C. (Je '42)
 Army guide for women. Dilts, M. M. (N '42)
 Army life. Kahn, E. J. (D '42)
 Army means business. Corey, H. (N '42)
 Army posts and towns. Sullivan, C. J., comp. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual) Army woman's handbook. Collins, C. R. (N '42)
 Arnold, Benedict
 Drama
 Stokes, R. L. Benedict Arnold. (Ap. '42)
Ars moriendi
 O'Connor, M. C. Art of dying well. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
Art
 Focillon, H. Life of forms in art. (O '42)
 Venturi, L. Art criticism now. (My '42)
 History
 Cheney, S. W. Story of modern art. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
 Robb, D. M., and Garrison, J. J. Art in the western world. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Study and teaching
 Gregg, H. Art for the schools of America. (Je '42)
 Winslow, L. L. Art in elementary education. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Canada
 Shoolman, R. L., and Slatkin, C. E. Enjoyment of art in America. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 United States
 Shoolman, R. L., and Slatkin, C. E. Enjoyment of art in America. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
Art, American
 Mellquist, J. Emergence of an American art. (Je '42)
Art criticism
 Venturi, L. Art criticism now. (My '42)
 Art criticism now. Venturi, L. (My '42)
 Art for the schools of America. Gregg, H. (Je '42)
 Art in elementary education. Winslow, L. L. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual) Art in the western world. Robb, D. M., and Garrison, J. J. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Art of dying well. O'Connor, M. C. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Art of Jacob Epstein. Black, R. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Art of reading poetry. Daniels, E. R. K. (Ag '42)
 Art of seeing. Huxley, A. L. (D '42)
 Art of Walt Disney. Feild, R. D. (Ag '42)
 Arthur, king of Britain
 Drama
 MacLiesh, A. F. Destroyers. (N '42)
 Artist in America. Zigrosser, C. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
Artists
 Correspondence, reminiscences, etc.
 Dali, S. Secret life of Salvador Dali. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
Artists, American
 New York. Museum of modern art. Americans, 1942. (Ag '42)
Arts of Orpheus. Linforth, I. M. (S '42)
 As the twig is bent. Welling, R. W. G. (D '42)
 As William James said. James, W. (S '42)
 Ashes in the wilderness. Schofield, W. G. (O '42)
 Ashes of gold. Botsford, H. V. (Je '42) Asia
 Biography
 Gunter, J. Inside Asia. (Je '42)
 Politics
 Gunter, J. Inside Asia. (Je '42)
 Shridharani, K. J. Warning to the West. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Taylor, G. E. America in the new Pacific. (My '42)
Asia, Eastern
 Description and travel
 James, N. Petticoat vagabond in Ainu land and up and down eastern Asia. (My '42)
 Assignment in Brittany. MacInnes, H. (S '42)
 Assignment in Guiana. Cox, G. H. (My '42)
 Assignment to Berlin. Flannery, H. W. (S '42)
 Associated press
 Cooper, K. Barriers down. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Association and associations
 Leiserson, A. Administrative regulation. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual) Astrographics. Debenham, F. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual) Astronomy
 Duncan, J. C. Essentials of astronomy. (N '42)
 Scott, O. E. Stars in myth and fact. (D '42)
 Wylie, C. C. Astronomy, maps and weather. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
 Juvenile literature
 Parker, B. M. Beyond the solar system. (Je '42)
 Astronomy, maps and weather. Wylie, C. C. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
 At the seashore. Robinson, W. W. (Je '42)
 Athene palace. Graefenberg, R. G. (Mr '42)
Athens
 Economic conditions
 Day, J. Economic history of Athens under Roman domination. (O '42)
 History
 Cousins, N. Good inheritance. (Ap '42)
Athletes
 Famous American athletes of today; eighth series. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
Atlantic declaration, August 14, 1941
 Johnsen, J. E., comp. Eight points of post-war world reorganization. (S '42)
 Atlantic ordeal. Huxley, E. J. (Ap '42)
 Atlantic system. Davis, F. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
 Atlas of Far Eastern politics. Hudson, G. F., and Rajchman, M. (Ag '42)
Atlases
 Commercial and library atlas of the world. (My '42)
Atmosphere
 Wenstrom, W. H. Weather and the ocean of air. (Ap '42)
Atmospheric transparency
 Middleton, W. E. K. Visibility in meteorology. (O '42)
 Atrocity propaganda, 1914-1919. Read, J. M. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
 Attack. Miksche, F. O. (S '42)
 Attack alarm. Innes, H. (Ap '42)
 Attack in the desert. Home, M. (Mr '42)
 Attic room. Wolfe, K. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual) Audubon, John James
 Tyler, A. J. I who should command all. (O '42)
 Juvenile literature
 Wells, M. L., and Fox, D. Boy of the woods. (Je '42)
 Augustus helps the navy. Henderson, Le G. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Aunt Auda's choir. Eng title of: Our Aunt Auda. Pakington, H. (Ap '42)
 Aunt Jessie. Holt, I. (Ap '42)
Australia
 Grattan, C. H. Introducing Australia. (Mr '42)
 Description and travel
 Hill, E. Australian frontier. (N '42)
 Macpherson, M. L. I heard the Anzacs singing. (Ag '42)
 Economic conditions
 Fitzpatrick, B. British empire in Australia. (S '42)
 Juvenile literature
 Busoni, R. Australia. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Australian frontier. Hill, E. (N '42)

Austria

Politics and government

Starhemberg, E. R. von. Between Hitler and Mussolini. (N '42)

Authors

Correspondence, reminiscences, etc.

Anderson, S. Memoirs. (My '42)
Green, J. Memories of happy days. (D '42)
Hurston, Z. N. Dust tracks on a road. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
Maurois, A. I remember, I remember. (N '42)
O'Casey, S. Pictures in the hallway. (Ap '42)
Oppenheim, E. P. The pool of memory. (Ap '42)
Rawlings, M. K. Cross Creek. (Ap '42)
Sassoon, S. Weald of youth. (D '42)
Sedgwick, H. D. Memoirs of an epicurean. (Je '42)
Undset, S. Return to the future. (Mr '42)

Authors, American

Kazin, A. On native grounds. (D '42)

Authorship

Elwood, M. Characters make your story. (O '42)

Autobiography of a durable sinner. White, O. P. (Je '42)

Automatic arms. Johnson, M. M., and Haven, C. T. (Ap '42)

Automobile touring

Lanks, H. C. By Pan American highway through South America. (S '42)

Automobiles

Bishop, H., and Evans, B. Your car is made to last. (S '42)

Accidents

De Silva, H. R. Why we have automobile accidents. (F '43) (1942 Annual) Hammond, H. F., and Sorenson, L. J., eds. Traffic engineering handbook. (Ag '42)

Driving

De Silva, H. R. Why we have automobile accidents. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Repairing

Riis, R. W., and Patric, J. Repairmen will get you if you don't watch out. (Ag '42)

Autumn glory. Carfrae, E. (S '42)

Aviation cadet. Lent, H. B. (Ap '42)

Aviators

Adams, J., and others. Heroines of the sky. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Kennington, E. Drawing the R.A.F. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Awake! Rodgers, W. R. (My '42)

Away in a manger. Thoburn, J., ed. (N '42)

Aweh on a windjammer. Denker, N. W. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Axis grand strategy. Farago, L., ed. (My '42)

Babylonian genesis. Heidel, A. (N '42)

Bach, Johann Sebastian

Juvenile literature

Bunn, H. F. Johann Sebastian Bach. (N '42)

Bach festival murders. Bloch, B. (Ap '42)

Background of our war. United States. War department. (S '42)

Baden-Powell of Gilwell, Robert Stephenson Smyth Baden-Powell, 1st baron

Juvenile literature

Fast, H. M. Lord Baden-Powell of the Boy scouts. (Mr '42)

Bag of smoke. Anderson, L. (N '42)

Bahia, Brazil

Pierson, D. Negroes in Brazil. (N '42)

Baker memorial. Emerson, H. (Je '42)

Baker memorial unit

Emerson, H. Baker memorial. (Je '42)

Balaban, Abe J.

Balaban, C. Continuous performance. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Balance sheet of the future. Bevin, E. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)

Balcony empire. Packard, R. and E. (D '42)

Balkan correspondent. Patmore, D. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)

Ballads, American

Loesser, A. Humor in American song. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Balloons

Anderson, L. Bag of smoke. (N '42)

Ballot

Albright, S. D. American ballot. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Baltimore

Hirschfeld, C. Baltimore, 1870-1900. (S '42)

Baltimore, 1870-1900. Hirschfeld, C. (S '42)

Bamboo, the grass tree. Sperry, A. (N '42)

Bangkok murder case. Cunningham, A. B. (N '42)

Bands (music)

Eberle, I. Bands play on. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Bands play on. Eberle, I. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Banking law

Peach, W. N. Security affiliates of national banks. (Je '42)

Banks and banking

Great Britain

Hargrave, J. Montagu Norman. (Ap '42)

Baranov, Aleksandr Andreovich

Chevigny, H. Lord of Alaska. (N '42)

Bard, Samuel

Langstaff, J. B. Doctor Bard of Hyde Park. (Ag '42)

Barker, Lewellys Franklin

Barker, L. F. Time and the physician. (My '42)

Barriers down. Cooper, K. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Barriers to youth employment. David, P. T. (S '42)

Bartolus de Saxoferrato

Sheedy, A. T. Bartolus on social conditions in the fourteenth century. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Bartolus on social conditions in the fourteenth century. Sheedy, A. T. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Basic book collection for high schools. Joint committee of the American library association, National education association and National council of teachers of English. (Ag '42)

Basic concepts in social case work. Aptekar, H. H. (Ap '42)

Basic English

Ogden, C. K., ed. General Basic English dictionary. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Texts

Plato. Republic. (Je '42)

Basic principles of economics and their significance for public policy. Brown, H. G. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Basic reference forms. Joughin, G. L. (Ap '42)

Basis for peace in the Far East. Pepper, N. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Basis for the peace to come. McConnell, F. J., and others. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Bass fishing

Bergman, R. Fresh-water bass. (S '42)

Bathsheba. Rogers, V. H. (Je '42)

Bats fly at dusk. Fair, A. A. (N '42)

Baxter Beaver. Chaffee, L. (S '42)

The bay. Strong, L. A. G. (Mr '42)

Be angry at the sun. Jeffers, R. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)

Be it ever so humble. Farnham, D. T. (S '42)

Be proud of women. Poole, G. M. (My '42)

Be your own music critic. Simon, R. E., ed. (Ag '42)

Bearing of archaeology on the Old Testament. Robinson, G. L. (Je '42)

Beasts of the earth. Karst, G. M. (Je '42)

Beauty, Personal

Larison, R. H. Those enduring young charms. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Beauty sleep. Darby, R. (My '42)

Beauty treatments for the home. Hardy, K. (S '42)

Beccaria, Cesare Bonesana, marchese di

Maestro, M. T. Voltaire and Beccaria as reformers of criminal law. (N '42)

Becoming a Kwoma. Whiting, J. W. M. (O '42)

Bedouins

Raswan, C. R. Drinkers of the wind. (D '42)
 Beethoven, Ludwig van

Juvenile literature

Wheeler, O. Ludwig Beethoven and the chiming tower bells. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Beginning the day. Wilde, R. W. (My '42)
 Begun in laughter. Wright, M. E. (O '42)
 Behemoth. Neumann, F. L. (Je '42)
 Behind both lines. Denny, H. N. (D '42)
 Behind the face of Japan. Hall, J. W. (D '42)
 Behind the mask of medicine. Atkinson, E. M. (Mr '42)
 Behind the Urals. Scott, J. (S '42)
 Behold the West Indies. Oakley, A. E. (Mr '42)
 Beissel, Johann Conrad
 Klein, W. C. Johann Conrad Beissel. (Ap '42)
 Belcher islands
 Twomey, A. C., and Herrick, N. Needle to the North. (Je '42)
 Belief and doubt
 Trueblood, D. E. Logic of belief. (Ag '42)
 Bell, Alexander Graham

Juvenile literature

Benz, F. E. Talking round the earth. (My '42)
 Belloc, Mme Bessie Rayner (Parkes)
 Lowndes, M. A. B. I, too, have lived in Arcadia. (Mr '42)
 Belloc, Hilaire
 Woodruff, D., ed. For Hilaire Belloc. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Bells and grass. De La Mare, W. J. (Je '42)
 Bells for the dead. Knight, K. M. (D '42)
 Below the Potomac. Dabney, V. (Ap '42)
 Belt conveyors and belt elevators. Hetzel, F. V., and Albright, R. K. (S '42)
 Belts and belting
 Hetzel, F. V., and Albright, R. K. Belt conveyors and belt elevators. (S '42)
 Bend in the river. Valtin, J. (My '42)
 Benefit Street. DeJong, D. C. (N '42)
 Bennett, James Gordon
 Carlson, O. Man who made news. (D '42)
 Bergh, Henry
 Steele, Z. Angel in top hat. (D '42)

Juvenile literature

Pace, M. M. Friend of animals. (Je '42)
 Berlin embassy. Russell, W. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual) Bernadette Soubirous, Saint

Fiction

Werfel, F. V. Song of Bernadette. (Je '42)
 Bernhardt, Sarah
 Verneuil, L. Fabulous life of Sarah Bernhardt. (D '42)
 Bertrand Russell case. Dewey, J., and Kallen, H. M., eds. (Ap '42)
 Best American short stories, 1942. Foley, M., ed. (O '42)
 Best games of chess, 1931-1940. Keres, P. (Ag '42)
 Best I know. Smith, E. B. (Ap '42)
 Best one-act plays of 1941. Mayorga, M. G., ed. (My '42)
 Best plays of 1941-42. Mantle, B., ed. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Best poems of 1941. Moulton, T., ed. (S '42)
 Betsy Yates: realtor. Slater, F. C. (Ag '42)
 Between God and man. Hadham, J. (O '42)
 Between Hitler and Mussolini. Starhemberg, E. R. von. (N '42)
 Between the planets. Watson, F. G. (Ap '42)
 Beulah Bunny tells all. Johnson, D. M. (O '42)
 Beyond surrender. Sims, M. M. (D '42)
 Beyond the solar system. Parker, B. M. (Je '42)
 Beyond this shore. Sapieha, V. P. R. (Ap '42)
 Beyond this wall. Quinn, J. R. (O '42)
 Bibi, the baker's horse. Stewart, A. B. (O '42)
 Bible. Whole

Selections

Shorter Moffatt Bible. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

About the Bible

Hebert, A. G. Throne of David. (My '42)
 Love, J. P. Missionary message of the Bible. (My '42)

Concordances

Thompson, N. W., and Stock, R. Concordance to the Bible. (D '42)
 Walker, J. B. R. Comprehensive concordance to the Holy Scriptures. (D '42)

Criticism, interpretation, etc.

Smalley, B. Study of the Bible in the middle ages. (D '42)

Versions

Willoughby, H. R. First authorized English Bible and the Cranmer preface. (N '42)
 Bible. Old Testament

About the Old Testament

Hebert, A. G. Throne of David. (My '42)

Antiquities

Robinson, G. L. Bearing of archaeology on the Old Testament. (Je '42)

History of biblical events

Wallis, L. Bible is human. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

History of contemporary events

Robinson, G. L. Bearing of archaeology on the Old Testament. (Je '42)

Single booksPsalms

Whyte, R. B. Personalities behind the Psalms. (S '42)

Bible. New TestamentSelections

Bible. New Testament. Jesus' story. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

About the New TestamentCriticism, interpretation, etc.,

Booth, E. P., ed. New Testament studies. (N '42)

Language, style

Lund, N. W. Chiasmus in the New Testament. (S '42)

Parts of the New TestamentGospels

Bradley, W. P. They made him Christ. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Torrey, C. C. Documents of the primitive church. (My '42)

Bible is human. Wallis, L. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Bibliography

Joughin, G. L. Basic reference forms. (Ap '42)

Best books

Graham, B. Bookman's manual. (Ag '42)
 Joint committee of the American Library association, National education association and National council of teachers of English. Basic book collection for high schools. (Ag '42)

Books in series

Orton, R. M., comp. Catalog of reprints in series, 1941. (N '42)

Bibliography of the Strawberry Hill press.

Hazen, A. T. (O '42)

Biddy Brogan's boy. Tully, J. (My '42)

Buffy Buffalo. Porter, J. (O '42)

Big Ben. Miers, E. S. (My '42)

Big Doc's girl. Medearis, M. (O '42)

Big midget murders. Rice, C. (Ag '42)

Big Spring, Texas

Philips, S. Big Spring. (O '42)

Bigfoot Wallace. Campbell, W. S. (S '42)

Billy King's Tombstone. Sonnichsen, C. L. (Ag '42)

Bindweed. De Sherbinin, B. (My '42)

Biography (individual)

Abbott, N. Aishah, the beloved of Mohammed. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Addison, J. Letters. (N '42)

Alderson, N. T. Bride goes west. (Ag '42)

Anderson, S. Memoirs. (My '42)

Arciniegas, G. Knight of El Dorado. (Je '42)

Bakeless, J. E. Tragical history of Christopher Marlowe. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Baker, H. C. John Philip Kemble. (Je '42)

- Balaban, C. Continuous performance. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Barker, L. F. Time and the physician. (My '42)
- Barres, P. Charles de Gaulle. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
- Barry, R. H. Mr Rutledge of South Carolina. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Bartlett, W. I. Jones Very, Emerson's brave saint. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Bate, D. Wang Ching Wei. (My '42)
- Bax, C., ed. Florence Farr, Bernard Shaw, W. B. Yeats; letters. (Ap '42)
- Beatty, R. C. James Russell Lowell. (O '42)
- Bengalee, M. R. Life of Muhammad. (N '42)
- Beuf, C. M. L. Cesare Borgia. (Ap '42)
- Biddle, F. B. Mr Justice Holmes. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Borth, C. True steel. (Je '42)
- Braisted, R. E. W. In this generation. (N '42)
- Brázdová, A. P. In the beginning was the light. (N '42)
- Brearely, H. Knotted string. (Ag '42)
- Brooks, W. E. Grant of Appomattox. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Brower, C. D., and others. Fifty years below zero. (N '42)
- Burke, J. C. My father in China. (N '42)
- Call, H. F. Golden fleece. (O '42)
- Campbell, W. S. Bigfoot Wallace. (S '42)
- Carbery, M. T. E. F. Happy world. (My '42)
- Carlson, O. Man who made news. (D '42)
- Chase, I. Past imperfect. (Ap '42)
- Chevigny, H. Lord of Alaska. (N '42)
- Chidsey, D. B. John the Great. (O '42)
- Clemens, C. Lytton Strachey. (N '42)
- Connolly, J. B. Canton captain. (Mr '42)
- Comfort, W. W. Stephen Grellet. (S '42)
- Cory, H. E. Emancipation of a freethinker. (My '42)
- Courtney, C. Unlocking adventure. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Cuningham, C. E. Timothy Dwight. (Ap '42)
- Daiches, D. Virginia Woolf. (S '42)
- Dali, S. Secret life of Salvador Dali. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Davis, H. J. Stella. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- DeVigne, H. C. Time of my life. (N '42)
- DeVoto, B. A. Mark Twain at work. (S '42)
- Dewey, J., and Kallen, H. M., eds. The Bertrand Russell case. (Ap '42)
- Eckenrode, H. J., and Conrad, B. George B. McCellan, the man who saved the union. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
- Eisenschiml, O. Without fame. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Ellis, E. Henry Moore Teller, defender of the West. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Ergang, R. R. Potsdam führer. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
- Evans, H. O. Iron pioneer. (D '42)
- Fairclough, H. R. Warming both hands. (N '42)
- Fausset, H. I'A. Walt Whitman: poet of democracy. (Ag '42)
- Fichter, J. H. Saint Cecil Cyprian, early defender of the faith. (O '42)
- Fischer, L. Week with Gandhi. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Forbes, E. Paul Revere and the world he lived in. (Ag '42)
- Forster, E. M. Virginia Woolf. (S '42)
- Gade, J. A. All my born days. (Ap '42)
- Gaisberg, F. W. Music goes round. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Gallagher, P. Paddy the Cope. (My '42)
- Gauvreau, E. H., and Cohen, L. Billy Mitchell. (O '42)
- Gaxotte, F. Frederick the Great. (My '42)
- Graham, F. Lou Gehrig, a quiet hero. (My '42)
- Green, J. Memories of happy days. (D '42)
- Grubbs, H. A. Jean-Baptiste Rousseau, his life and works. (S '42)
- Guedalla, P. Mr Churchill. (Mr '42)
- Hagedorn, H. Sunward I've climbed. (N '42)
- Han Suyin. Destination Chungking. (My '42)
- Hargrave, J. Montagu Norman. (Ap '42)
- Hart, H. H. Venetian adventurer. (My '42)
- Haskell, H. J. This was Cicero. (D '42)
- Hawthorne, H. Long adventure. (O '42)
- Hays, A. G. City lawyer. (S '42)
- Helm, M. Angel Mo' and her son, Roland Hayes. (D '42)
- Hereford, R. A. Old Man River. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Herrmann, L. Today we are brothers. (Je '42)
- Hersey, J. R. Men on Bataan. (Je '42)
- Hexter, J. H. Reign of King Pym. (My '42)
- Hinton, H. B. Cordell Hull. (Mr '42)
- Holland, C. F. Morgan and his raiders (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Holm, J. C. Sunday best. (Je '42)
- Hubbell, J. B., ed. Last years of Henry Timrod. (Je '42)
- Hunt, A. G. This is my life. (D '42)
- Hunt, M. L. Have you seen Tom Thumb? (D '42)
- Hurston, Z. N. Dust tracks on a road. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Irving, F. C. Safe deliverance. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Irwin, W. H. Making of a reporter. (D '42)
- Iswolsky, H. Light before dusk. (Je '42)
- Jacks, L. P. Confession of an octogenarian. (S '42)
- Jandy, E. C. Charles Horton Cooley, his life and his social theory. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Jefferson, T. Jefferson himself. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Josephson, M. Victor Hugo. (N '42)
- Judson, C. I. Soldier doctor. (N '42)
- Kirby, E. W. George Keith. (Je '42)
- Klein, W. C. Johann Conrad Beissel. (Ap '42)
- Koenigsberg, M. King news. (My '42)
- Koontz, L. K. Robert Dinwiddie. (S '42)
- Kuo, C. I've come a long way. (Je '42)
- Lane, W. J. Commodore Vanderbilt. (Ap '42)
- Langstaff, J. B. Doctor Bard of Hyde Park. (Ag '42)
- Lee, J. This great journey. (O '42)
- Lerman, L. Michelangelo. (D '42)
- Lewis, L. John S. Wright. (My '42)
- Lincoln, A. Mr Lincoln's funnybone. (Ap '42)
- Loewenstein, H. On borrowed peace. (D '42)
- Loomis, F. M. Bond between us. (Je '42)
- Lorant, S. Lincoln. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
- Lowenthal, M. Henrietta Szold. (My '42)
- Lowndes, M. A. B. I, too, have lived in Arcadia. (Mr '42)
- Ludwig, E. Bolivar. (Mr '42)
- Ludwig, E. Stalin. (O '42)
- McGrath, F. Father John Sullivan, S. J. (Ap '42)
- Madariaga, S. de. Hernán Cortés, conqueror of Mexico. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
- Maguire, W. A. Rig for church. (S '42)
- Mann, K. Turning point. (N '42)
- Maritain, R. We have been friends together. (Mr '42)
- Mason, A. E. W. Life of Francis Drake. (My '42)
- Mauoris, A. I remember, I remember. (N '42)
- Maynard, T. Reed and the rock. (S '42)
- Mazzel, P. Memoirs of the life and peregrinations of the Florentine, Philip Mazzel. (O '42)
- Melish, J. H. Paul Jones, minister of reconciliation. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Merrick, E. Northern nurse. (Ap '42)
- Miller, F. T. General Douglas MacArthur, fighter for freedom. (My '42)
- Moody, J. Fast by the road. (My '42)
- Morison, E. E. Admiral Sims and the modern American navy. (O '42)
- Morison, S. E. Admiral of the ocean sea. (Mr '42)
- Morris, W. R. American in search of a way. (D '42)
- Neuman, A. A. Cyrus Adler. (My '42)
- Nolan, J. C. Little giant. (O '42)
- O'Casey, S. Pictures in the hallway. (Ap '42)
- O'Faolain, S. Great O'Neill. (N '42)
- Ohnstad, K. World at my finger tips. (Ag '42)
- Oppenheim, E. P. The pool of memory. (Ap '42)
- Padover, S. K. Jefferson. (My '42)
- Pearson, H. G.B.S. (N '42)
- Pemberton, J. C. Pemberton, defender of Vicksburg. (My '42)
- Petrova, O. Butter with my bread. (N '42)
- Petry, K. C. Francis of Assisi, apostle of poverty. (Ag '42)
- Piozzi, H. L. S. T. Thraliana. (D '42)
- Pratt, J. B. Personal recollections. (Je '42)
- Prouty, C. T. George Gascoigne, Elizabethan courtier, soldier, and poet. (N '42)
- Putnam, G. P. Wide margins. (Je '42)
- Rawlings, M. K. Cross Creek. (Ap '42)
- Reynolds, Q. J. Convoy. (Mr '42)

Biography (individual)—Continued

- Rice, J. A. I came out of the eighteenth century. (D '42)
 Richards, G. Housman, 1897-1936. (My '42)
 Rimskii-Korsakov, N. A. My musical life. (Ap '42)
 Rodgers, A. D. John Torrey. (S '42)
 Roper, D. C., and Lovette, F. H. Fifty years of public life. (Ap '42)
 Rukeyser, M. Willard Gibbs. (D '42)
 Sandoz, M. Crazy Horse. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Sargent, D. All the day long. (Ag '42)
 Sassoon, S. Weald of youth. (D '42)
 Seabrook, W. B. No hiding place. (D '42)
 Sedgwick, H. D. Memoirs of an epicurean. (Je '42)
 Semler, I. P., and Underwood, P. Horatio Parker. (Ag '42)
 Sharpe, D. R. Walter Rauschenbusch. (Je '42)
 Skinner, C. R., and Cole, A. S. Hell's ramparts fell. (My '42)
 Smith, E. H. Charles Carroll of Carrollton. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
 Soby, J. T. Early Chirico. (Ap '42)
 Spence, H. Get thee behind me. (O '42)
 Spinka, M. John Hus and the Czech reform. (Ap '42)
 Steele, Z. Angel in top hat. (D '42)
 Stein, L. I was in hell with Niemoeller. (O '42)
 Stern, M. B. Life of Margaret Fuller. (Mr '42)
 Strauss, P. O. Cripps: advocate extraordinary. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Swenson, D. F. Something about Kierkegaard. (My '42)
 Taft, H. D. Memories and opinions. (Je '42)
 Tharp, L. H. Down to the sea. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Thomas, E. D. Thomas Jefferson, world citizen. (Ag '42)
 Todes, C. William H. Sylvis and the National labor union. (O '42)
 Tyler, A. J. I who should command all. (O '42)
 Undset, S. Return to the future. (Mr '42)
 Vandegrift, G. W. Castor oil and quinine. (N '42)
 Varga, M. Waldo Peirce. (Ag '42)
 Verdi, G. Verdi, the man in his letters. (Je '42)
 Verneuil, L. Fabulous life of Sarah Bernhardt. (D '42)
 Wade, M. Francis Parkman, heroic historian. (D '42)
 Wagner, L. Hitler, man of strife. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Washington, J. E. They knew Lincoln. (Mr '42)
 Wayman, D. G. Edward Sylvester Morse. (D '42)
 Webster, C. L. Mr W. & I. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Welling, R. W. G. As the twig is bent. (D '42)
 White, O. P. Autobiography of a durable sinner. (Je '42)
 Whitney, J. P. John Woolman. (Je '42)
 Williams, M. A. Second sowing. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Williams, R. Y. Carry me back. (N '42)
 Wilson, F. Crusader in crinoline. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
 Wilson, R. R., ed. Lincoln among his friends. (O '42)
 Winkelman, B. F. John G. Johnson. (S '42)
 Winkler, J. K. Tobacco tycoon. (N '42)
 Wolff, W. Anton Bruckner, rustic genius. (Je '42)
 Wordsworth, D. Journals. (Ag '42)
 Ybarra, T. R. Young man of the world. (D '42)

Juvenile literature

- Bailey, B. F. Abe Lincoln's other mother. (Ap '42)
 Baker, N. B. He wouldn't be king. (Mr '42)
 Baker, N. B. Juarez, hero of Mexico. (D '42)
 Braddy, N. Rudyard Kipling, son of empire. (Ag '42)
 Bunn, H. F. Johann Sebastian Bach. (N '42)
 Burch, G. Richard Wagner. (Ap '42)
 Carroll, M. T. Man who dared to care. (D '42)
 Cottler, J. Man with wings. (My '42)
 Daugherty, S. V. M. Way of an eagle. (Mr '42)

- Dean, S. W. Knight of the revolution. (Ap '42)
 Desmond, A. C. Martha Washington, our first lady. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Eberle, I. Radium treasure and the Curies. (Ap '42)
 Fast, H. M. Goethals and the Panama canal. (Ag '42)
 Fast, H. M. Lord Baden-Powell of the Boy scouts. (Mr '42)
 Fox, G. M. Sir Wilfred Grenfell. (D '42)
 Garst, D. S. Kit Carson, trail blazer and scout. (Je '42)
 Hanson, E. P. Stefansson. (Mr '42)
 Hogeboom, A., and Ware, J. F. One life to lose. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
 Lansing, E. C. H. Leonardo, master of the renaissance. (D '42)
 Malvern, G. Dancing star. (Ag '42)
 Mason, M. E. Mark Twain, boy of old Missouri. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Maurois, A. Frédéric Chopin. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
 Maynard, S. K. C. Princess Poverty. (Ap '42)
 Meadowcroft, E. L. Abraham Lincoln. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
 Mitchell, M. B. A. Hoosier boy, James Whitcomb Riley. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Monsell, H. A. Young Stonewall, Tom Jackson. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Nicolay, H. Decatur of the old navy. (Ag '42)
 Nicolay, H. MacArthur of Bataan. (D '42)
 Nott, S. C. Young Churchill. (Mr '42)
 Pace, M. M. Friend of animals. (Je '42)
 Stephenson, D. D. M. Patrick, son of thunder. (Ap '42)
 Stevens, W. O. David Glasgow Farragut. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Stevenson, A. Andy Jackson, boy soldier. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Stevenson, A. George Washington, boy leader. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Waugh, E. D. Simón Bolívar. (Mr '42)
 Wells, M. L., and Fox, D. Boy of the woods. (Je '42)
 Wheeler, O. Ludwig Beethoven and the chiming tower bells. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Wilson, L. Fernando Cortez. (My '42)

Biography (collective)

- Arnold, J. B. Giants in dressing gowns. (O '42)
 Career women of America. (My '42)
 Clapesattle, H. Doctors Mayo. (Ag '42)
 Dana, H. W. L. Dana saga. (O '42)
 DeFord, M. A. They were San Franciscans. (Ap '42)
 Eastman, M. Heroes I have known. (Je '42)
 Ewen, D., ed. Book of modern composers. (D '42)
 Farrow, J. Pageant of the popes. (D '42)
 Himber, C. Famous in their twenties. (S '42)
 Lansing, M. F. Liberators and heroes of Mexico and Central America. (Ap '42)
 Lieblich, A. J. The telephone booth Indian. (Mr '42)
 McConnell, F. J. Evangelicals, revolutionists and idealists. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
 Magner, J. A. Men of Mexico. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Maury, A. F. M., ed. Intimate Virginiana. (N '42)
 Mizwa, S. P., ed. Great men and women of Poland. (Ap '42)
 Regli, A. C. Mayos. (S '42)
 Saturday Evening Post (periodical). Post biographies of famous journalists. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Schnittkind, H. T. and D. A. Living biographies of American statesmen. (D '42)
 Schriffgiesser, K. Amazing Roosevelt family. (Je '42)
 Stewart, W., and Peterson, H. F. Builders of Latin America. (Ap '42)
 Van Loon, H. W. Van Loon's lives. (O '42)
 Who's who in California. (Ag '42)
 Women of achievement. (My '42)

Juvenile literature

- Burch, G. Modern composers for boys and girls. (Ap '42)
 Biography of a business. James, M. (F '43) (1942 Annual) Biological action of the vitamins. Symposium on the respiratory enzymes and the biological action of vitamins. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Biology

- Bayles, E. E. and Burnett, R. W. Biology for better living. (S '42)
 Biology for better living. Bayles, E. E. and Burnett, R. W. (S '42)
 Bird display. Armstrong, E. A. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Birds

- Armstrong, E. A. Bird display. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
 Jaques, F. P. Birds across the sky. (O '42)
 Ripley, S. D. Trail of the money bird. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Migration

- Heilner, V. Our American game birds. (Ap '42)
 Birds across the sky. Jaques, F. P. (O '42)
Birth certificates
 Davis, E. H. Birth certificates. (N '42)
 Birth of a nation's song. Bakeless, K. L. (Ap '42)
 Birth of flight. Cook, H. K., ed. (S '42)
 Bitter honey. Freeman, M. J. (Mr '42)
 Black alibi. Woolrich, C. (My '42)
 Black and white in the Sudan. Bittinger, D. W. (O '42)
 Black baroness. Wheatley, D. (Je '42)
 Black Borneo. Miller, C. C. (Je '42)
 Black bull. MacIntyre, C. F. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Black lamb and grey falcon. West, R. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
 Black Martinique, red Guiana. Smith, N. (My '42)
 Black orchids. Stout, R. (Je '42)
 Black-out in Gretley. Priestley, J. B. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
 Black thumb. Little, C. and G. (N '42)
Blackstone, Sir William
 Boorstin, D. J. Mysterious science of the law. (Ap '42)

Blind

- Hartwell, D. Dogs against darkness. (N '42)
 Ohnstad, K. World at my finger tips. (Ag '42)

Asylums and education

- Lende, H., ed. What of the blind? v 2. (Ap '42)
 Blitzkrieg. Eng title of: Attack. Miksche, F. O. (S '42)
 Blood and banquets. Fromm, B. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Blood for a stranger. Jarrell, R. (N '42)
 Blood on her shoe. Field, M. (Je '42)
 Bloody ground. Day, J. F. (Ap '42)
 Blue and the jungle. Atwell, R. (F '43) (1942 Annual) Blue-eyed lady. Molnár, F. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Blue hills. Goudge, E. (O '42)
 Blue Horizons. Baldwin, F. (Mr '42)
 Blue murder. Rutland, H. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Blue print reading and sketching. Thayer, H. R. (Je '42)
 Blue Ridge country. Thomas, J. B. (Ap '42)
Blue Ridge mountains
 Thomas, J. B. Blue Ridge country. (Ap '42)
 Blueberry Muffin. Thompson, M. W. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Bluenose. Duncan, D. (S '42)
 Blueprint reading. Dick, A. A. (D '42)

Blueprints

- Dick, A. A. Blueprint reading. (D '42)
 Heine, G. M., and Dunlap, C. H. How to read electrical blueprints. (S '42)
 Thayer, H. R. Blue print reading and sketching. (Je '42)

Boat building

- Chapelle, H. I. Boatbuilding. (Je '42)
 Bob's bike. Beebe, C. (Je '42)
 Body for Bill. Shriber, I. S. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Body goes round and round. DuBois, T. M. (My '42)
 Body in the barrage balloon. Curzon, C. (S '42)
 Body in the library. Christie, A. M. (Ap '42)

BohemiaChurch history

- Spinka, M. John Hus and the Czech reform. (Ap '42)
 Bolek. Gronowicz, A. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Bolivar, Simon

Ludwig, E. Bolivar. (Mr '42)

Juvenile literature

- Baker, N. He wouldn't be king. (Mr '42)
 Waugh, E. D. Simón Bolívar. (Mr '42)
 Bombs away. Steinbeck, J. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Bond between us. Loomis, F. M. (Je '42)
 Bonnie's baby brother and how he grew. Montgomery, E. R. (N '42)
Bonus system
 Washington, G. T. Corporate executives' compensation. (Ag '42)
 Boo. Eng title of: Magnificent idiot. De Polnay, P. (N '42)
 Book and library plays for elementary and high school use, v 2. Phelps, E. M., ed. (Ap '42)
Book collecting
 Starrett, V. Bookman's holiday. (Ap '42)
 Book of Ariel. (Je '42)
 Book of bays. Beebe, W. (Ap '42)
 Book of Catholic authors. Romig, W., ed. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
Book of common prayer
 Ladd, W. P. Prayer book interleaves. (Ap '42)
 Book of farmcraft. Greenhill, M., and Dunbar, E. M. (Ag '42)
 Book of hors d'oeuvre. Allen, L. G. (Ap '42)
 Book of little crafts. Powers, M. (D '42)
 Book of modern composers. Ewen, D., ed. (D '42)
 Book of modern war planes. Booth, H. H. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual) Book of myths. Bulfinch, T. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Book of prophecy. Cournos, J., ed. (Ap '42)
 Book of sauces. Owen, J. Le P. (Ap '42)
 Book of uncles. Coffin, R. P. T. (D '42)
 Book of wood carving. Sayers, C. M. (Je '42)

Bookbinding

- Johnson, W. H., and Newkirk, L. V. Graphic arts. (S '42)
 Bookmaking and kindred amenities. Miers, E. S., and Ellis, R., eds. (N '42)
 Bookman's holiday. Starrett, V. (Ap '42)
 Bookman's manual. Graham, B. (Ag '42)

Books

- Miers, E. S., and Ellis, R., eds. Bookmaking and kindred amenities. (N '42)

Reviews

- Macfarland, C. S. Digest of Christian thinking. (Ag '42)
 Van Doren, M. Private reader. (Ap '42)

Books and reading

- Meehan, F. Living upstairs. (S '42)
 Reilly, J. J. Of books and men. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Starrett, V. Bookman's holiday. (Ap '42)
 Van Doren, M., ed. New Invitation to learning. (O '42)

Booksellers and bookselling

- Graham, B. Bookman's manual. (Ag '42)
 Boomer. Bedwell, H. (S '42)
 Boomtown buccaneers. MacDonald, W. C. (D '42)

Border line. Gregory, J. (My '42)

Border range. Douglas, T. W. (Ap '42)

Borgia, Cesare

Beuf, C. M. L. Cesare Borgia. (Ap '42)

Borneo

Miller, C. C. Black Borneo. (Je '42)

BostonForeign population

- Handlin, O. Boston's immigrants, 1790-1865. (Ap '42)

Harbor

- Writers' program, Massachusetts. Boston looks seaward. (O '42)

Social conditions

- Handlin, O. Boston's immigrants, 1790-1865. (Ap '42)

Boston looks seaward. Writers' program, Massachusetts. (O '42)

Boston lying-in hospital

- Irving, F. C. Safe deliverance. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

- Boston's immigrants, 1790-1865. Handlin, O. (Ap '42)
- Botany
Platt, R. This green world. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Dictionaries
Bailey, L. H. and E. Z., comps. Hortus second. (Ag '42)
- North America
Rodgers, A. D. John Torrey. (S '42)
- Bothwell, James Hepburn, 4th earl of
Fiction
Irwin, M. E. F. Gay Galliard. (Mr '42)
- Bottle with the green wax seal. Keeler, H. S. (Ap '42)
- Boulanger, Georges Ernest Jean Marie
Fiction
Gorman, H. S. Brave general. (Mr '42)
- Bound in the bundle of life. Applegarth, M. T. (Ap '42)
- Bowditch, Nathaniel
Juvenile literature
Tharp, L. H. Down to the sea. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Bowen family
Bowen, E. Bowen's Court. (S '42)
Bowen's Court. Bowen, E. (S '42)
Boy from Maine. Brush, K. I. (Ag '42)
Boy of the woods. Wells, M. L., and Fox, D. (Je '42)
- Boy scouts
West, J. E. Making the most of yourself. (Ap '42)
- Boy scouts book of hobbies for fathers and sons. Mathews, F. K., ed. (Ag '42)
- Boy who could do anything. Brenner, A. (Ap '42)
- Boys' book of communications. Yates, R. F. (D '42)
- Brand new baby. Stanger, M. A. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Brave general. Gorman, H. S. (Mr '42)
- Brazil
Description and travel
Hager, A. R. Frontier by air. (D '42)
Kelsey, V. Brazil in capitals. (Mr '42)
- Politics and government
Loewenstein, K. Brazil under Vargas. (O '42)
Brazil in capitals. Kelsey, V. (Mr '42)
Brazil under Vargas. Loewenstein, K. (O '42)
- Brazilian literature
Torres-Rioseco, A. Epic of Latin American literature. (N '42)
- Bread
Sherman, H. C., and Pearson, C. S. Modern bread from the viewpoint of nutrition. (Ag '42)
- Bread and butter. Hall, M. (N '42)
- Breakfast with the Nikolides. Godden, R. (Mr '42)
- Brearley, Harry
Brearley, H. Knotted string. (Ag '42)
Breath of life. Baldwin, F. (Ag '42)
Breathe the air again. Moore, W. (Mr '42)
Brian's victory. Phillips, E. C. (D '42)
Bride goes west. Alderson, N. T. (Ag '42)
Bride of Bridal Hill. Chamberlain, G. A. (D '42)
- Bride of glory. Field, B. (Ap '42)
- Bridges, Robert
Guerard, A. J. Robert Bridges. (My '42)
- Bright idea book. Gray, M., and Urban, R. C. (S '42)
- Bright morning. Bianco, M. W. (N '42)
- Bright to the wanderer. Lancaster, B. (Je '42)
- Bring me another murder. Chambers, W. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Britain against Napoleon. Eng title of: Napoleon at the Channel. Lenanton, C. M. A. O. (S '42)
- British colonial empire. Simnett, W. E. (O '42)
- British empire before the American revolution. Gipson, L. H. (D '42)
- British empire, 1815-1939. Knaplund, P. (Ap '42)
- British empire in Australia. Fitzpatrick, B. (S '42)
- British life and thought. (Ap '42)
- British rule in eastern Asia. Mills, L. A. (S '42)
- British tariff movement. Lowe, M. E. (N '42)
- British unemployment programs, 1920-1938. Burns, E. M. R. (Ap '42)
- Broken melody. Kirkbride, R. de L. (N '42)
- Brokers
Vernon, R. Regulation of stock exchange members. (My '42)
Warren, E. H. Rights of margin customers. (My '42)
- Brother, the laugh is bitter. Lipton, L. (Je '42)
- Brothers of doom. Birney, H. (Je '42)
- Brower, Charles D.
Brower, C. D., and others. Fifty years below zero. (N '42)
- Brownstone eclogues. Aiken, C. P. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Bruckner, Anton
Wolff, W. Anton Bruckner, rustic genius. (Je '42)
- Bruté de Rémur, Simon Guillaume Gabriel, bp. Maynard, T. Reed and the rock. (S '42)
- Buckskin empire. Drago, H. S. (My '42)
- Budget
Naylor, E. E. Federal budget system in operation. (S '42)
- Buffalo box. Gruber, F. (O '42)
- Builders of Latin America. Stewart, W., and Peterson, H. F. (Ap '42)
- Building
Burbank, N. L., comp. House construction details. (Je '42)
- Building, Bombproof
Wessman, H. E., and Rose, W. A. Aerial bombardment protection. (Ap '42)
- Building a republic. Lamprey, L. (N '42)
- Building fittings
Kaberlein, J. J. Air conditioning metal layout. (S '42)
- Building insulation. Close, P. D. (Je '42)
- Building materials
Elberfeld, J. Strength and properties of materials. (D '42)
Leighou, R. B. Chemistry of engineering materials. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Building morale. Nash, J. B. (Je '42)
- Burke, William B.
Burke, J. C. My father in China. (N '42)
Burlington west. Overton, R. C. (Ag '42)
- Burma
Christian, J. L. Modern Burma. (S '42)
Burning wheel. Brown, S. (N '42)
- Burro that learned to dance. Levy, H. (Je '42)
- Business
Anshen, M. L. Introduction to business. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Conant, W. H. Outworn business idols. (Ap '42)
- Business cycles
Angell, J. W. Investment and business cycles. (Ap '42)
Haberler, G. Consumer instalment credit and economic fluctuations. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Business management
Follett, M. P. Dynamic administration. (My '42)
- But you'll be back. Steedman, M. (S '42)
- Butter with my bread. Petrova, O. (N '42)
- Butterflies
Juvenile literature
Matschat, C. H. American butterflies and moths. (Ag '42)
- Buying
Brindze, R. Stretching your dollar in wartime. (Je '42)
Bush, G. L. Science education in consumer buying. (N '42)
Wingate, I. B. Textile fabrics and their selection. (Je '42)
- By light of sun. Symington, E. H. J. (Ap '42)
- By Pan American highway through South America. Lanks, H. C. (S '42)
- By the neck. Mencken, A., ed. (Ag '42)
- By this sign conquer. Oxbam, G. B. (Je '42)
- Byways to adventure. Teale, E. W. (Ag '42)

Calamity town. Queen, E. (My '42)

Calendar

Archer, P. Christian calendar and the Gregorian reform. (S '42)

California

Biography

Who's who in California. (Ag '42)

Historic houses, etc.

Knowland, J. R. California, a landmark history. (Je '42)

History

Knowland, J. R. California, a landmark history. (Je '42)

Scherer, J. A. B. Thirty-first star. (O '42)

Politics and government

Anderson, D. California state government. (S '42)

Scherer, J. A. B. Thirty-first star. (O '42)

California, Southern

Cleland, R. G. Cattle on a thousand hills. (Je '42)

California, a landmark history. Knowland, J. R. (Je '42)

California state government. Anderson, D. (S '42)

Call, Mrs Hughie

Call, H. Golden fleece. (O '42)

Call her Rosie. Bruce, E. (N '42)

Callaway, Mrs Jemima (Boone)

Sutton, M. Jemima, daughter of Daniel Boone. (O '42)

Calling all Christians. Strodach, P. Z., ed. (Ap '42)

Calling all women. Ayling, K. (O '42)

Camouflage (military science)

Breckenridge, R. P. Modern camouflage. (D '42)

Root, R. R. Camouflage with planting. (O '42)

Wittmann, K. F., and others. Industrial camouflage manual. (O '42)

Camouflage with planting. Root, R. R. (O '42)

Campaign of treachery. Torrès, H. (O '42)

Camping

Martin, G. W. Come and get it! (Ag '42)

Can our cities survive? Sert, J. L. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Canada

Canadian pictorial library. (Ag '42)

Chamberlin, W. H. Canada today and tomorrow. (N '42)

Description and travel

Bosanquet, M. Saddlebags for suitcases. (O '42)

Hutchison, B. Unknown country. (Mr '42)

Foreign relations

United States

McInnis, E. W. Unguarded frontier. (D '42)

History

Burt, A. Le R. Short history of Canada for Americans. (Je '42)

Sandwell, B. K. Canadian peoples. (N '42)

Juvenile literature

Bonner, M. G. Canada and her story. (D '42)

Politics and government

King, W. L. M. Canada at Britain's side. (Ap '42)

Relations (general) with Latin America

Humphrey, J. T. P. Inter-American system, a Canadian view. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Relations (general) with United States

Landon, F. Western Ontario and the American frontier. (O '42)

Canada. Eng title of: Canadian peoples. Sandwell, B. K. (N '42)

Canada and her story. Bonner, M. G. (D '42)

Canada at Britain's side. King, W. L. M. (Ap '42)

Canada moves north. Finnie, R. (Je '42)

Canada today and tomorrow. Chamberlin, W. H. (N '42)

Canadian peoples. Sandwell, B. K. (N '42)

Canadian pictorial library. (Ag '42)

Canning and preserving

Pierce, A. L., ed. Home canning for victory. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Canon Brett, Wilson, M. B. (Mr '42)

Canton captain. Connolly, J. B. (Mr '42)

Canyon of no sunset. Tungren, A. (Je '42)

Capital

Hayek, F. A. von. Pure theory of capital. (My '42)

Capitalism

Sweezy, P. M. Theory of capitalist development. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Captured. Myers, B. (Mr '42)

Carbery, Mary (Toulmin) Evans-Freke, lady

Carbery, M. T. E-F. Happy world. (My '42)

Career women of America. (My '42)

Carey Brown. McIntire, M. P. (Je '42)

Caribbean conspiracy. Conrad, B. (O '42)

Caribbean sea

Orr, F. Freighter holiday. (S '42)

Caricatures and cartoons

Addams, C. Drawn and quartered. (D '42)

Arno, P. Cartoon revue. (Ap '42)

New Yorker (periodical). War album. (D '42)

Sheridan, M. Comics and their creators. (Ag '42)

Carol plays summer stock. Boylston, H. D. (N '42)

Carolina caravan. Govan, C. N. (My '42)

Carols

Bertall, I., ed. Child's book of Christmas carols. (D '42)

Carroll, Charles

Smith, E. H. Charles Carroll of Carrollton. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Carry me back. Williams, R. Y. (N '42)

Carson, Christopher

Juvenile literature

Garst, D. S. Kit Carson, trail blazer and scout. (Je '42)

Cartoon revue. Arno, P. (Ap '42)

Case of the careless kitten. Gardner, E. S. (O '42)

Case of the drowning duck. Gardner, E. S. (Je '42)

Case of the foster father. Perdue, V. (O '42)

Case of the seven sneezes. White, W. A. P. (Je '42)

Case of the shivering chorus girls. Phillips, J. A. (Je '42)

Case of the vanishing women. Archer, R. (O '42)

Castle on the hill. Goudge, E. (Je '42)

Castlemon, Harry, pseud (Charles Austin Fosdick)

Bibliography

Blanck, J., comp. Harry Castlemon, boys' own author. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Castor oil and quinine. Vandegrift, G. W. (N '42)

Catalog of reprints in series, 1941. Orton, R. M., comp. (N '42)

Catalogs, Union

Downs, R. B., ed. Union catalogs in the United States. (O '42)

Catalysis

Bell, R. P. Acid-base catalysis. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Catalyst. Reed, T. (D '42)

Catch a falling star. Robinson, G. (O '42)

Catholic foreign mission society of America, incorporated, Maryknoll, New York

Considine, J. J. March into tomorrow. (S '42)

Catholic movement in the American Episcopal church. DeMille, G. E. (Ap '42)

Catholic pattern. Woodlock, T. E. (Ag '42)

Catholic philosophy of education. Redden, J. D., and Ryan, F. A. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Catholic revival in England. O'Connor, J. J. (S '42)

Cats

Legends and stories

Coyle, K. Josephine. (Je '42)

Cattle

Prentice, E. P. American dairy cattle. (O '42)

Cattle on a thousand hills. Cleland, R. G. (Je '42)

Cattle trade

Cook, J. H., and Driggs, H. R. Longhorn cowboy. (Je '42)

Causation

- MacIver, R. M. Social causation. (O '42)
 Cavalcade of toys. Freeman, R. S. and G. L. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Cecily G. and the 9 monkeys. Rey, H. A. (N '42)

Censorship

- Craig, A. Above all liberties. (O '42)
 Mock, J. R. Censorship 1917. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
 Censorship 1917. Mock, J. R. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
 Center of the web. Roberts, K. (Je '42)
 Central America

Biography

- Lansing, M. F. Liberators and heroes of Mexico and Central America. (Ap '42)
 Cervantes Saavedra, Miguel de

Juvenile literature

- Newcomb, C. Vagabond in velvet. (N '42)
 Challenge of the Greek. Glover, T. R. (S '42)
 Chamorros
 Thompson, L. M. Guam and its people. (Ag '42)
 Changeable Charlie. Blumenthal, G. (N '42)
 Changing Indian. La Farge, O., ed. (O '42)
 Chapman, John

Juvenile literature

- Fast, H. M. Tall hunter. (D '42)
 Characters and characteristics
 Elwood, M. Characters make your story. (O '42)
 Characters make your story. Elwood, M. (O '42)

CharitiesIllinois

- Miles, A. P. Federal aid and public assistance in Illinois. (My '42)

New York (state)

- Schneider, D. M., and Deutsch, A. History of public welfare in New York state, v 2. (Ap '42)

Sweden

- Clark, E. H. Swedish unemployment policy—1914 to 1940. (Ag '42)
 Myrdal, A. R. Nation and family. (Ap '42)

United States

- Abbott, G. From relief to social security. (Ap '42)

Virginia

- James, A. W. State becomes a social worker. (N '42)

Charity laws and legislation

- Abbott, G. From relief to social security. (Ap '42)

Charity organization

- Miles, A. P. Federal aid and public assistance in Illinois. (My '42)
 Charred witness. Cox, G. H. (N '42)

Chase, Ilka

- Chase, I. Past imperfect. (Ap '42)
 Cheat. Capek, K. (Ag '42)

Chemical elementsJuvenile literature

- Nechaev, I. Chemical elements. (N '42)

Chemical engineering

- Pierce, D. E. Chemical engineering for production supervision. (My '42)
 Robinson, C. S. Recovery of vapors. (D '42)

Chemical reactions

- Pease, R. N. Equilibrium and kinetics of gas reactions. (D '42)

Chemical solutions, Welcher, F. J. (S '42)Chemical tests and reagents

- Von Stein, P. Organic reagents in inorganic analysis. (D '42)
 Welcher, F. J. Chemical solutions. (S '42)
 Yoe, J. H., and Sarver, L. A. Organic analytical reagents. (Ag '42)

Chemical warfare

- Waitt, A. H. Gas warfare. (O '42)

ChemicalsManufacture

- Badger, W. L., and Baker, E. M. Inorganic chemical technology. (Ap '42)

Chemistry

- Morgan, A. P. Getting acquainted with chemistry. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Wendt, G. Chemistry. (Je '42)

Dictionaries

- Condensed chemical dictionary. (Ag '42)

Chemistry, Analytic

- Benedetti-Pichler, A. A. Introduction to the microtechnique of inorganic analysis. (D '42)

Qualitative

- Von Stein, P. Organic reagents in inorganic analysis. (D '42)

Chemistry, Inorganic

- Badger, W. L., and Baker, E. M. Inorganic chemical technology. (Ap '42)
 Benedetti-Pichler, A. A. Introduction to the microtechnique of inorganic analysis. (D '42)
 Von Stein, P. Organic reagents in inorganic analysis. (D '42)

Chemistry, Organic

- Thomas, C. A. Anhydrous aluminum chloride in organic chemistry. (Je '42)
 Yoe, J. H., and Sarver, L. A. Organic analytical reagents. (Ag '42)

Chemistry, Physical and theoretical

- Gucker, F. T., and Meldrum, W. B. Physical chemistry. (D '42)
 Palmer, W. G. Experimental physical chemistry. (O '42)

Chemistry, Technical

- Badger, W. L., and Baker, E. M. Inorganic chemical technology. (Ap '42)
 Dutton, W. S. Du Pont. (S '42)
 Haynes, W. This chemical age. (Ap '42)
 Leighou, R. B. Chemistry of engineering materials. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Lewis, W. K., and others. Industrial chemistry of colloidal and amorphous materials. (S '42)
 Stokley, J. Science remakes our world. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Chemistry and physiology of the vitamins. Rosenberg, H. R. (D '42) Chemistry of engineering materials. Leighou, R. B. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Chemists

- Nechaev, I. Chemical elements. (N '42)

Correspondence, reminiscences, etc.

- Eisenschiml, O. Without fame. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Chess

- Du Mont, J. 200 miniature games of chess. (Ag '42)
 Keres, P. Best games of chess, 1931-1940. (Ag '42)

Cheyenne Indians

- Llewellyn, K. N., and Hoebel, E. A. Cheyenne way. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
 Cheyenne way. Llewellyn, K. N., and Hoebel, E. A. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)

Chiang Kai-shek

- Leonard, R. I flew for China. (D '42)
 Chiasmus in the New Testament. Lund, N. W. (S '42)

ChicagoCharities

- Brown, J. History of public assistance in Chicago, 1833 to 1893. (My '42)

History

- Hansen, H. The Chicago. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad
 Overton, R. C. Burlington west. (Ag '42)

Chicago river

- Hansen, H. The Chicago. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Child at home and school. Leonard, E. M., and others. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Child labor

- David, P. T. Barriers to youth employment. (S '42)

Child study

- Baruch, D. W. You, your children, and war. (D '42)
 Bruce, W. F., and Freeman, F. S. Development and learning. (Ag '42)
 Dearborn, W. F., and Rothney, J. W. M. Predicting the child's development. (O '42)

- Goodenough, F. L., and Maurer, K. M. Mental growth of children from two to fourteen years. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Heise, B. Effects of instruction in cooperation on the attitudes and conduct of children. (N '42)
- Leonard, E. M., and others. Child at home and school. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Luecke, E. L. Factors related to children's participation in certain types of home activity. (My '42)
- Preston, R. C. Children's reactions to a contemporary war situation. (Je '42)
- Shoobs, N. E. Corrective treatment for unadjusted children. (My '42)
- Street, R. F. Children in a world of conflict. (My '42)
- Washburn, R. W. Children have their reasons. (S '42)
- Children
- Care and hygiene
- Sauer, L. W. From infancy through childhood. (S '42)
- Diseases
- Raney, R. B., and Shands, A. R. Primer on the prevention of deformity in childhood. (O '42)
- Management
- Dixon, C. M. Keep them human. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Ellenwood, J. L. It runs in the family. (Ag '42)
- Nutrition
- Kugelmass, I. N. Superior children through modern nutrition. (Je '42)
- Scott, G. D. Heredity, food, and environment in the nutrition of infants and children. (N '42)
- Children, Abnormal and backward
- Shoobs, N. E. Corrective treatment for unadjusted children. (My '42)
- Children, Riasanovsky, A. F. P. (My '42)
- Children as authors
- Books by children
- Little pitchers with big ears. (D '42)
- Children have their reasons. Washburn, R. W. (S '42)
- Children in a world of conflict. Street, R. F. (My '42)
- Children in Australia
- Harris, L. G. and W. K. Lost hole of Bungalow. (D '42)
- Children in Iceland
- Arason, S. Smoky bay. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Children in Norway
- Undset, S. Happy times in Norway. (D '42)
- Children in South America
- Halladay, A. M. Up and down South America. (S '42)
- Children in the Netherlands
- Van Stockum, H. Andries. (D '42)
- Children of Abraham. Asch, S. (My '42)
- Children's garden. Hill, H., and Maxwell, V. (Ap '42)
- Children's literature (books about)
- Folmsbee, B. Little history of the horn-book. (D '42)
- Bibliography
- American library association. Committee on library work with children. Right book for the right child. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Children's literature (individual titles)
- Aldis, D. K. Cindy. (Je '42)
- Alger, L. Dougal's wish. (O '42)
- Alger, L. Golden summer. (Je '42)
- Allee, M. H. Winter's mischief. (O '42)
- Allen, A. Dynamo farm. (Je '42)
- Allen, M. P. Green cockade. (D '42)
- American Girl magazine. Lots of laughs. (O '42)
- Andersen, H. C. Snow queen. (N '42)
- Anderson, L. Bag of smoke. (N '42)
- Angelo, V. Hill of little miracles. (O '42)
- Arason, S. Smoky bay. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Armfield, C. S. Peter in Sweden. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Atwell, R. Blue and the jungle. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Austin, M. Effell. (Mr '42)
- Austin, M. Gabriel Churchkitten. (O '42)
- Bailey, B. F. Abe Lincoln's other mother. (Ap '42)
- Bailey, C. S. Country-stop. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Baity, E. C. Man is a weaver. (Ap '42)
- Bakeless, K. L. The birth of a nation's song. (Ap '42)
- Baker, C. Hope Hacienda. (Ag '42)
- Baker, M. Tinker tailor. (S '42)
- Baker, N. B. He wouldn't be king. (Mr '42)
- Baker, N. B. Juarez, hero of Mexico. (D '42)
- Balch, G. Indian paint. (N '42)
- Bannerman, H. Jumbo Sambo. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Barksdale, L. First Thanksgiving. (D '42)
- Barksdale, L. Milly and her dogs. (Je '42)
- Barne, K. May I keep dogs? (S '42)
- Barrows, M. Let's fly to Bermuda. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Barto, E. N. Piper's son. (O '42)
- Baruch, D. W. Four airplanes. (My '42)
- Bechdolt, J. E. Junior air raid wardens. (D '42)
- Becker, C. Happy birthday, Judy! (My '42)
- Becker, C. Merry Christmas, Judy! (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Beebe, C. Bob's bike. (Je '42)
- Beim, L. L., and J. Snow Hill. (My '42)
- Bemelmans, L. Rosebud. (D '42)
- Benz, F. E. Talking round the earth. (My '42)
- Bertall, I., ed. Child's book of Christmas carols. (D '42)
- Best, A. C. Hudson frontier. (N '42)
- Best, H. Gunsmith's boy. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Bianco, M. W. Bright morning. (N '42)
- Bianco, M. W., and Collison, M. Penny and the white horse. (D '42)
- Bible. New Testament. Jesus' story. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Bice, C. Jory's Cove. (Ap '42)
- Bishop, C. H. Man who lost his head. (D '42)
- Blackstock, J. Wings for Nikias. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Blumenthal, G. Changeable Charlie. (N '42)
- Bonner, M. G. Canada and her story. (D '42)
- Bontemps, A. W., and Conroy, J. Fast Sooner hound. (D '42)
- Boylston, H. D. Carol plays summer stock. (N '42)
- Brenner, A. The boy who could do anything. (Ap '42)
- Brier, H. M. Sky freighter. (N '42)
- Briggs, E. M. Friendly library. (S '42)
- Brock, E. L. Here comes Kristie. (O '42)
- Bronson, W. S. Horns and antlers. (My '42)
- Bronson, W. S. Stooping Hawk and Stranded Whale. (O '42)
- Brooks, W. R. Freddy and the perilous adventure. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Brown, E. Holidays and every days. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Brown, M. W. Indoor noisy book. (D '42)
- Brown, M. W. Night and day. (N '42)
- Brown, M. W. Runaway bunny. (My '42)
- Buck, P. S. Chinese children next door. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Buff, M. and C. Dash and Dart. (D '42)
- Bunce, W. H. Chula, son of the mound builders. (O '42)
- Bunn, H. F. Johann Sebastian Bach. (N '42)
- Burton, V. L. Little house. (D '42)
- Busoni, R. Australia. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Busoni, R. Mexico and the Inca lands. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Cave, H. B. Fishermen four. (N '42)
- Chaffee, L. Baxter Beaver. (S '42)
- Chalmers, A. Hundreds and hundreds of pancakes. (D '42)
- Chambers, M. C. M. Water-carrier's secrets. (D '42)
- Clark, D. Peter on the Min. (Je '42)
- Coatsworth, E. J. Houseboat summer. (Je '42)
- Coatsworth, E. J. White horse. (N '42)
- Coblentz, C. C. Falcon of Eric the Red. (N '42)
- Cooney, B. Kellyhorns. (S '42)
- Cooney, C. T. Green field for courage. (O '42)
- Cormack, M. Recruit for Abe Lincoln. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Cottler, J. Man with wings. (My '42)
- Courlander, H. Uncle Bouqui of Haiti. (O '42)
- Crane, A. Pepita Bonita. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Children's literature (individual titles)—Cont.

- Crawford, P. Last semester. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Cregan, M. Rathina. (D '42)
- Crownfield, G. Proud lady. (N '42)
- Dalglish, A. Gulliver joins the army. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Dalglish, A. They live in South America. (D '42)
- Darby, A. C. Jump lively, Jeff! (D '42)
- Darling, F. F. Seasons and the fisherman. (Je '42)
- Daugherty, C. M. Street of ships. (S '42)
- Daugherty, S. V. M. Way of an eagle. (Mr '42)
- David, J. Three Hanses. (D '42)
- Davis, L. R. Americans every one. (Je '42)
- Davis, L. R. Plow Penny mystery. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Davis, R. Hudson Bay express. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Dean, A. L. Let us be merry. (Je '42)
- Dean, L. W. Old Wolf. (D '42)
- Dean, S. W. Knight of the revolution. (Ap '42)
- De Angeli, M. L. Up the hill. (D '42)
- De Jong, D. Nikkernik, Nakkernak and Nokkernok. (D '42)
- De La Mare, W. J. Bells and grass. (Je '42)
- De La Mare, W. J. Mr Bumps and his monkey. (D '42)
- De Leeuw, A. L. Gay design. (D '42)
- Deming, D. Ginger Lee: war nurse. (Ap '42)
- Denison, M. G. Happy tramp. (S '42)
- Denker, N. W. Aweigh on a windjammer. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Dennis, W. Flip and the cows. (D '42)
- Desmond, A. C. Jorge's journey. (Je '42)
- Desmond, A. C. Martha Washington, our first lady. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Díaz del Castillo, B. Cortez and the conquest of Mexico by the Spaniards in 1521. (Je '42)
- Disney, W., and Williams, C. S. Victory march. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Donahay, M. A. D. Apple Pie inn. (N '42)
- Doyle, E. J. Tuffy. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Duplaix, G. Merry shipwreck. (Je '42)
- Eberle, I. Bands play on. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Eberle, I. Radium treasure and the Curies. (Ap '42)
- Edmonds, W. D. Tom Whipple. (D '42)
- Ellsberg, E. I have just begun to fight. (Je '42)
- Elms, F. R. Mountains of the world. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Enright, E. Four-Story Mistake. (D '42)
- Estes, E. Middle Moffat. (O '42)
- Evers, H. and A. Pokey bear. (Je '42)
- Eyre, K. W. Susan's safe harbor. (O '42)
- Fast, H. M. Lord Baden-Powell of the Boy scouts. (Mr '42)
- Fast, H. M. Tall hunter. (D '42)
- Felsen, G. Jungle highway. (Je '42)
- Felsen, G. Navy diver. (D '42)
- Ferris, E. E. Jerry Foster, salesman. (Ag '42)
- Flexner, H. Wishing window. (N '42)
- Forester, C. S. Poo-Poo and the dragons. (O '42)
- Forster-Knight, M. Return of Sandypaws. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Fox, G. M. Sir Wilfred Grenfell. (D '42)
- Fox, F. M. Legends of the Christ child. (Ag '42)
- Freund, G. P. Wonders of the sea. (Ap '42)
- Friskey, M. Annie and the wooden skates. (Je '42)
- Friskey, M. Goat afloat. (D '42)
- Friskey, M. Three smart squirrels and Squee. (D '42)
- Friskey, M. Today we fly. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Frost, F. M. Christmas in the woods. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Furbush, L. Circus parade. (Ag '42)
- Gale, E. Winged boat. (O '42)
- Gale, L. Hurdy-gurdy holiday. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Garrett, H. Jobie. (O '42)
- Gibson, K. Pictures to grow up with. (Je '42)
- Gibson, K., ed. Tenggren tell-it-again book. (N '42)
- Gilchrist, M. E. Story of the Great Lakes. (O '42)
- Gill, R. C. Flying death. (S '42)
- Gordon, P. Not-Mrs-Murphy. (D '42)
- Goudge, E. Blue hills. (O '42)
- Gould, D. Very first aid. (Je '42)
- Govan, C. N. Carolina caravan. (My '42)
- Gray, E. J. Adam of the road. (Je '42)
- Greenhill, M., and Dunbar, E. M. Book of farmcraft. (Ag '42)
- Gronowicz, A. Bolek. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Hader, B. H. and E. Story of Pancho and the bull with the crooked tail. (D '42)
- Haines, D. H. Shadow on the campus. (D '42)
- Hall, E. G. Sharon's career. (S '42)
- Hall, M. Bread and butter. (N '42)
- Hamlin, J. H. Flying horses. (N '42)
- Hanson, E. P. Stefansson. (Mr '42)
- Harper, W., comp. For love of country. (O '42)
- Harper, W. ed. Easter chimes. (My '42)
- Harris, L. G. and W. K. Lost hole of Binn-goola. (D '42)
- Hart, W. J. Stories of our national songs. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Hatch, R. W. All aboard the Whale! (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Hauser, H. Folding father. (Je '42)
- Hawkins, Q. Who wants an Apple. (D '42)
- Hawthorne, H. Ox-team miracle. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Haywood, C. Primrose day. (Ap '42)
- Henderson, Le G. Augustus helps the navy. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Hess, F. Handkerchief holiday. (N '42)
- Hess, F. Leather Pants. (Ap '42)
- Hewes, A. D. Jackhammer. (O '42)
- Heyliger, W. Gasoline jockey. (S '42)
- Heyliger, W. SOS radio patrol. (My '42)
- Hill, H., and Maxwell, V. The children's garden. (Ap '42)
- Hinkle, T. C. Mustang. (S '42)
- Hinkle, T. C. Old Nick and Bob. (Ap '42)
- Hogan, I. Nappy wanted a dog. (O '42)
- Hogan, I. Nicodemus runs away. (Ap '42)
- Hogeboom, A., and Ware, J. F. One life to lose. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Hogner, D. C. Animal book. (Je '42)
- Hoke, H. L., and Fox, N. Woolly lamb. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Holdridge, E. H. Island boy. (Ag '42)
- Holling, H. C. Tree in the trail. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Hooper, J. Johnny Jump Up. (Je '42)
- Howard, E. Adventure for Alison. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Hubbard, M. A. Hickory Limb. (N '42)
- Hunt, M. L. Peter Piper's pickled peppers. (Ap '42)
- Hunt, W. B. Indiancraft. (N '42)
- Huntington, H. E. Tune up. (Ag '42)
- Hurd, E. T. The Annie Moran. (Je '42)
- Hurd, E. T. Speedy, the hook and ladder truck. (N '42)
- Hurd, E. T. Wreck of the Wild Wave. (N '42)
- Hylander, C. J. Out of doors in spring. (Ag '42)
- Isasi, M., and Denny, M. B. White stars of freedom. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Jackson, K. and B. Rabbit who had four lucky feet. (D '42)
- Jackson, L. Petey. (N '42)
- Jardim, L. Armadillo and the monkey. (Je '42)
- Johnson, E. L. Log cabin children. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Johnson, M. Johnny Mouse of Corregidor. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Johnson, M. S. and H. L. Runaway puppy. (Ap '42)
- Johnson, M. S. and H. L. Stablemates. (O '42)
- Johnson, O. H. L. Snowball. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Johnson, S. J. New town in Texas. (N '42)
- Jones, L. A. Eli Terry, clockmaker of Connecticut. (N '42)
- Judson, C. I. People who work near our house. (S '42)
- Judson, C. I. Soldier doctor. (N '42)
- Judson, C. I. They came from Sweden. (N '42)
- Justus, M. Dixie decides. (N '42)
- Justus, M. Nancy of Apple Tree Hill. (D '42)
- Justus, M. Step Along and Jerry Jake. (O '42)
- Kalab, T. Watching for Winkie. (N '42)
- Kane, H. B. Tale of the promethea moth. (Je '42)

- Kantor, M. Anglemorms on toast. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Keeler, K. S. Children's zoo. (S '42)
- Kelher, A. V., ed. Air workers today. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Kelley, F. B. Circus holiday. (S '42)
- Kelsey, V. Maria Rosa. (Je '42)
- Key, F. S. Star spangled banner. (D '42)
- Krumgold, J. Sweeny's adventure. (D '42)
- Kummer, F. A. For flag and freedom. (O '42)
- Lacey, M. Picture book of musical instruments. (Ag '42)
- Lambert, J. Dreams of glory. (O '42)
- Lamprey, L. Building a republic. (N '42)
- Lang, A. Prince Frigio. (D '42)
- Langdale, H. L. R. Mark of Seneca Basin. (My '42)
- Lansing, E. C. H. Leonardo, master of the renaissance. (D '42)
- Lansing, E. H. Kate Russell, wartime nurse. (Ap '42)
- Lansing, E. H. Nancy Naylor, air pilot. (Ag '42)
- Larsen, P. Offshore gold. (Je '42)
- Lathrop, W. Juneau, the sleigh dog. (Je '42)
- Lattimore, E. F. Questions of Lifu. (O '42)
- Lattimore, E. F. Storm on the island. (Ap '42)
- Leighton, M. C. Twelve bright trumpets. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Lenski, L. Animals for me. (Ap '42)
- Lenski, L. Little farm. (O '42)
- Lent, H. B. Air patrol. (D '42)
- Levy, H. Burro that learned to dance. (Je '42)
- Lewis, E. F. When the typhoon blows. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- L'Hommedieu, D. K. Tinker, the little fox terrier. (D '42)
- Lida, Cuckoo. (Je '42)
- Lide, A. A., and Johansen, M. A. Mystery of the Maiteb. (D '42)
- Lips, J. E. Tents in the wilderness. (D '42)
- Litten, F. N. Airmen of the Amazon. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Little pitchers with big ears. (D '42)
- Locklin, A. L. Tidewater tales. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Lockwood, M. Free river. (O '42)
- Lovell, M. H. Over the Big Hill. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Lovell, M. H. and D. W. Golden wedge. (Ag '42)
- Lowrey, J. S. Tap-a-tan! (Je '42)
- Lucas, J. M. Fruits of the earth. (N '42)
- Lyons, J. H. Stories of our American patriotic songs. (D '42)
- McCracken, H. Last of the sea otters. (O '42)
- Macdonald, Z. K. Two on a tow. (My '42)
- MacIntyre, E. Ambrose Kangaroo. (S '42)
- McLean, R. N. Traded twins. (S '42)
- McMeekin, I. M. Journey cake. (D '42)
- MacNeil, M. G. Sailor Jack. (D '42)
- MacNeil, M. G. Soldier Sammy. (My '42)
- McSwigan, M. Snow treasure. (Ap '42)
- Magoon, M. A. W. Emperor's nephew. (My '42)
- Malkus, A. S. Citadel of a hundred stairways. (Mr '42)
- Mallette, G. E. Inside out. (D '42)
- Maloy, L. Swift Thunder of the prairie. (O '42)
- Malvern, G. Dancing star. (Ag '42)
- Mammen, E. W. Jim's the boy! (D '42)
- Marshall, D. Long white month. (S '42)
- Marshall, R. V. None but the brave. (Je '42)
- Martin, D. B. Wonder cat. (S '42)
- Martin, F. G. M. Knuckles down! (N '42)
- Mason, M. E. Mark Twain, boy of old Missouri. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Mason, M. E. Matilda and her family. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Maurolis, A. Frédéric Chopin. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Meador, S. W. Shadow in the pines. (O '42)
- Meadowcroft, E. L. Abraham Lincoln. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Meadowcroft, E. L. Ship boy with Columbus. (Je '42)
- Means, F. C. Shadow over Wide Ruin. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Means, P. A. Tupak of the Incas. (My '42)
- Mellen, I. M. Twenty little fishes. (Je '42)
- Merrill, M. Young Billings of Buckhorn. (O '42)
- Metzger, B. Picture tales from India. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Milhouse, K. Herodia, the lovely puppet. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Miller, M. R. Along our coast. (O '42)
- Mitchell, M. B. A. Hoosier boy, James Whitcomb Riley. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Molloy, A. G. Coast guard to Greenland. (My '42)
- Molnar, F. Blue-eyed lady. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Monsell, H. A. Paddy's Christmas. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Monsell, H. A. Young Stonewall, Tom Jackson. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Montgomery, E. R. Bonnie's baby brother and how he grew. (N '42)
- Montgomery, R. G. Ghost town adventure. (S '42)
- Moon, G. P. Daughter of Thunder. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Moore, C. C. Night before Christmas. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Morgan, A. P. First radio book for boys. (D '42)
- Morris, D. H. Truck that flew. (My '42)
- Mother Goose. Tall book of Mother Goose. (D '42)
- Myhre, E. Hawaiian yesterdays. (Je '42)
- Nechaev, I. Chemical elements. (N '42)
- Neilson, F. F. Donkey from Dorking. (My '42)
- Newberry, C. T. Marshmallow. (D '42)
- Newcomb, C. Vagabond in velvet. (N '42)
- Newell, H. H. Cinder Ike. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Newell, H. H. Steppin and family. (My '42)
- Nicolay, H. Decatur of the old navy. (Ag '42)
- Nicolay, H. MacArthur of Bataan. (D '42)
- O'Faolain, E. King of the cats. (O '42)
- Olds, H. D. Victoria clicks! (Je '42)
- O'Malley, P. Wider wings. (Ag '42)
- Orton, H. F. Little lost pigs in town. (D '42)
- Pace, M. M. Friend of animals. (Je '42)
- Parker, B. M. Beyond the solar system. (Je '42)
- Parks, E. W. Long hunter. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Pease, H. Night boat. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Pease, J. V. Happy book. (S '42)
- Peck, L. Don Coyote. (My '42)
- Peet, C. All about broadcasting. (O '42)
- Perkins, W. L. Fannie Farmer junior cook book. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Phelps, E. M., ed. Book and library plays for elementary and high school use, v.2. (Ap '42)
- Phillips, E. C. Brian's victory. (D '42)
- Pinkerton, K. S. G. Fox island. (N '42)
- Pollock, K. G. Sandalio goes to town. (My '42)
- Porter, J. Biffy Buffalo. (O '42)
- Proudfit, I. B. . . . Pantry family. (Ag '42)
- Proudfit, I. B. . . . The Sewing box family. (Ag '42)
- Pyne, M. M. Little geography of the United States. (Ap '42)
- Quigg, J. Polly Peters. (D '42)
- Ransome, A. Missee Lee. (My '42)
- Raymond, M. T., and Mohr, C. O. Prairie dog town. (Ag '42)
- Raymond, M. T., and Zylstra, F. Skylark. (Ag '42)
- Reck, F. M. Varsity letter. (Ag '42)
- Renick, J. L. and M. Steady; a baseball story. (My '42)
- Resnick, W. S. Dragonship. (O '42)
- Rey, H. A. Anybody at home? (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Rey, H. A. Cecily G. and the 9 monkeys. (N '42)
- Rey, H. A. Christmas manger. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Rey, H. A. Elizabite. (Je '42)
- Rey, H. A. How do you get there? (Ag '42)
- Riesenberg, F. Salvage. (N '42)
- Robinson, G. Catch a falling star. (O '42)
- Robinson, W. W. At the seashore. (Je '42)
- Rogers, F. Indigo treasure. (Ap '42)
- Rogers, F., and Beard, A. Old Liberty bell. (O '42)
- Ross, P. F. In Mexico they say. (Je '42)
- Rothery, A. E. Washington roundabout. (Je '42)
- Scholz, J. V. Soldiers at bat. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Sechrist, E. H., ed. Merry meet again. (My '42)

Children's literature (individual titles)—Cont.
 Sechrist, E. H., ed. Thirteen ghostly yarns. (S '42)
 Seybert, M., and Olson, L. M. Taffy and Tuffy. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
 Seyfert, E. M. Amish moving day. (S '42)
 Shapiro, I. How Old Stormalong captured Mocha Dick. (D '42)
 Sherman, E. B. Flying banners. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
 Sickels, E. R. School bell rings. (N '42)
 Simon, C. M. H. Lonnie's Landing. (Ap '42)
 Simon, C. M. H. Younger Brother. (O '42)
 Simon, S. Wandering beggar. (S '42)
 Singer, C., and Baldrige, C. Le E. Santa Claus comes to America. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Singh, R. L., and Lownsbey, E. Gift of the forest. (N '42)
 Skidmore, H. Hill lawyer. (N '42)
 Slater, F. C. Betsy Yates: realtor. (Ag '42)
 Sondergaard, A. They went exploring. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Sowers, P. A. Sons of the dragon. (Je '42)
 Sperry, A. Bamboo, the grass tree. (N '42)
 Sperry, A. Coconut, the wonder tree. (N '42)
 Stanger, M. A. Brand new baby. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Stevens, W. O. David Glasgow Farragut. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Stevenson, A. Andy Jackson, boy soldier. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Stevenson, A. George Washington, boy leader. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual) Stevenson, R. L. Child's garden of verses. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Stewart, A. B. Bibi, the baker's horse. (O '42)
 Still, D. S. Sue in Tibet. (S '42)
 Stolper, J. Hippo. (N '42)
 Stone, C. R. Inga of Porcupine mine. (D '42)
 Stone, W. S. Thunder island. (Je '42)
 Stong, P. D. Way down cellar. (Je '42)
 Strack, L. H. Aluminum, a magic mineral. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Sutton, M. Jemima, daughter of Daniel Boone. (O '42)
 Sutton, M. Tommy True. (D '42)
 Swift, H. H. Little red lighthouse and the great gray bridge. (O '42)
 Tarry, E. Hezekiah Horton. (N '42)
 Tarshis, E. K. Look at America. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Taylor, F. W. Owen of the Bluebird. (D '42)
 Tharp, L. H. Down to the sea. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Theilmann, M. C. Suzy goes to Mexico. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Thoburn, J., ed. Away in a manger. (N '42)
 Thomas, D. Hi-Po the hippo. (O '42)
 Thomas, E. Hemisphere camp. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Thompson, M. W. Blueberry Muffin. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Tompkins, J. F. Raccoon twins. (D '42)
 Tracy, E. B. Paddles. (Je '42)
 Trease, G. Cue for treason. (Je '42)
 Tregarthen, E. Doll who came alive. (N '42)
 Tudor, T. Dorcas Porkus. (N '42)
 Tunis, J. R. All-American. (O '42)
 Turpin, E. H. L. Zickle's puppy dog. (Ag '42)
 Undset, S. Happy times in Norway. (D '42)
 Updegraff, F. M. Traveler's candle. (N '42)
 Van Stockum, H. Andries. (D '42)
 Veltman, J. Syrup can. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Von Hagen, C. B. Pablo of Flower mountain. (Je '42)
 Waldeck, J. B. M. Little lost monkey. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
 Waldeck, T. J. Jamba the elephant. (N '42)
 Waldeck, T. J. Lions on the hunt. (My '42)
 Walmesley, R. G. Little songs of the big city. (My '42)
 Watkin, L. E. Marty Markham. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Watson, H. O. Top Kick, U.S. army horse. (D '42)
 Watson, K. W., ed. Once upon a time. (Ag '42)
 Wells, M. L., and Fox, D. Boy of the woods. (Je '42)
 Wells, P. Mr Tootwhistle's invention. (Je '42)
 Wheeler, O. Ludwig Beethoven and the chiming tower bells. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 White, E. O. Training Sylvia. (O '42)
 Whitney, P. A. Star for Ginny. (N '42)

Wicker, I. S. Little hunchback horse. (F '43) (1942 Annual) Wiese, K. Little boy lost in Brazil. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual) Williams, H. L. Kimbi, jungle Indian. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
 Willson, D. Hollywood starlet. (Ag '42)
 Willson, L. Fernando Cortez. (My '42)
 Wilson, W. E. Shooting Star. (Je '42)
 Winston, R. A. Aircraft carrier. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
 Wolo. Secret of the ancient oak. (D '42)
 Wonsetler, A. H. and J. C. Me and the general. (O '42)
 Wood, E. Silver Widgeon. (D '42)
 Woodcock, L. P. Tommy Tippet's toys. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Woodward, H. Jared's Blessing. (D '42)
 Worth, K. They loved to laugh. (Je '42)
 Wright, E. B. Saturday ride. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Wriston, H. T. Open water. (My '42)
 Writers' program, Pennsylvania. Motion pictures. (S '42)
 Writers' program, Pennsylvania. Radio. (S '42)
 Writers' program, Pennsylvania. Television. (S '42)
 Wynkoop, M. L. Mac goes to school. (Ag '42)
 Yates, E. Under the little fir, and other stories. (O '42)
 Yates, R. F. Boys' book of communications. (D '42)

Collections

Story parade. (My '42)

Mystery stories

Carson, J. M. H. Shadow Catcher. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
 Chapman, M. Mystery on the Mississippi. (F '43) (1942 Annual) Farley, W. Larry and the undersea raider. (Ag '42)
 Girvan, H. Felicity way. (Je '42)
 Lee, A. Ladder mystery. (S '42)
 Queen, E. Golden eagle mystery. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual) Richardson, M. R. Sophie of the Lazy B. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
 Turngren, A. Canyon of no sunset. (Je '42)
 Wadsworth, L. A. Disappearance of Kit Shane. (D '42)
 Wadsworth, L. A. Shadow bird mystery. (Ap '42)

Children's literature (collective)

Fenner, P. R., ed. Time to laugh. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Children's party book. Breen, M. J. (Ap '42)
Children's plays
 Jagendorf, M. A., comp. Twenty-five non-royalty plays for children. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Phelps, E. M., ed. Book and library plays for elementary and high school use, v 2. (Ap '42)
 Sloane, G. L. Fun with folk tales. (N '42)

Children's poetry

Dean, A. L. Let us be merry. (Je '42)
 De La Mare, W. J. Bells and grass. (Je '42)

Collections

Sechrist, E. H., ed. Merry meet again. (My '42)
 Children's reactions to a contemporary war situation. Preston, R. C. (Je '42)

Children's songs

Walmesley, R. G. Little songs of the big city. (My '42)
 Children's zoo. Keeler, K. S. (S '42)
 Child's book of Christmas carols. Bertail, I., ed. (D '42) Child's garden of verses. Stevenson, R. L. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Chile

Politics and government

Stevenson, J. R. Chilean popular front. (F '43) (1942 Annual) Chilean popular front. Stevenson, J. R. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

China

Chinese news service, inc. China after five years of war. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

- Air force
American volunteer group
 Whelan, R. Flying Tigers. (D '42)
- Description and travel
 Cressy-Marcks, V. O. R. Journey into China. (N '42)
 Trigault, N. China that was. (N '42)
- Economic conditions
 Fong, H. D. Post-war industrialization of China. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- History
 Hibbert, E. T. Jesuit adventure in China. (Ap '42)
 Michael, F. Origin of Manchu rule in China. (S '42)
- Politics and government
 Qugley, H. S. Far Eastern war, 1937-1941. (S '42)
 China, after five years of war. Chinese news service, inc. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 China builds for democracy. Snow, H. F. (S '42)
 China that was. Trigault, N. (N '42)
 Chinese children next door. Buck, P. S. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Chinese-Japanese war, 1931-
 Han Suyin. Destination Chungking. (My '42)
 Leonard, R. I flew for China. (D '42)
Chinese literature
Collections
 Lin, Y., ed. Wisdom of China and India. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
 Chinese Red. Burke, R. (O '42)
 Chinese room. Connell, V. (D '42)
 Chirico, Giorgio de
 Soby, J. T. Early Chirico. (Ap '42)
 Chopin, Frederic François
Juvenile literature
 Maurois, A. Frédéric Chopin. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
 Chorus for America. Bulosan, C., ed. (N '42)
 Christ and the Spirit. Bishop, W. S. (Ap '42)
 Christian and the war. Morrison, C. C. (N '42)
 Christian approach to the Moslem. Addison, J. T. (N '42)
Christian art and symbolism
 Morey, C. R. Early Christian art. (S '42)
 Christian basis for the post-war world. Baker, A. E., ed. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Christian calendar and the Gregorian reform. Archer, P. (S '42)
 Christian church and the Soviet state. Bolshakoff, S. (O '42)
 Christian crisis. De La Bedoyère, M. (My '42)
Christian ethics
 King, W. P. Motives for Christian living. (N '42)
 Smith, G. B. Principles of Christian living. (O '42)
 Christian Europe today. Keller, A. (O '42)
 Christian faith. Ferré, N. F. S. (Je '42)
 Christian has wings. Sangster, W. E. (Ap '42)
Christian life
 Eddy, G. S. Maker of men. (Ap '42)
 Fox, E. Sparks of truth. (Ap '42)
 Gilkey, J. G. How to be your best. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Glover, T. R. The disciple. (Je '42)
 Laubach, F. C. You are my friends. (N '42)
Christian literature, Early
 Goodspeed, E. J. History of early Christian literature. (Je '42)
 Christian missions in today's world. Carver, W. O. (N '42)
Christianity
 Battenhouse, H. M. This seed of faith. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
 De La Bedoyère, M. Christian crisis. (My '42)
 Gill, F. C. New horizons. (S '42)
 Hadham, J. Between God and man. (O '42)
 Hartill, P., ed. Into the way of peace. (O '42)
 Jones, P. K. Man shall know. (D '42)
 Langton, E. Good and evil spirits. (D '42)
 Miller, R. C. What we can believe. (Ap '42)
 Myers, A. J. W. Religion for today. (S '42)
 Osborn, A. R. Christianity in peril. (O '42)
 Raven, C. E. Lessons of the Prince of peace. (Je '42)
 Sockman, R. W. Highway of God. (My '42)
 Tigner, H. S. No sign shall be given. (S '42)
- Evidences
 Baillie, J. Invitation to pilgrimage. (N '42)
- Philosophy
 Buckham, J. W. The inner world. (Ap '42)
 Cailliet, E. Life of the mind. (D '42)
 Feibleman, J. Christianity, communism and the ideal society. (S '42)
 Ferré, N. F. S. Christian faith. (Je '42)
 Jefferson, H. B. Experience and the Christian faith. (Ap '42)
 Maritain, J. Ransoming the time. (Ap '42)
 Sayers, D. L. Mind of the Maker. (Mr '42)
Christianity and other religions
Mohammedanism
 Addison, J. T. Christian approach to the Moslem. (N '42)
Christianity and politics
 Dawson, C. H. Judgment of the nations. (D '42)
 Micklem, N. Theology of politics. (My '42)
 Christianity and the family. Groves, E. R. (Ag '42)
 Christianity, communism and the ideal society. Feibleman, J. (S '42)
 Christianity in peril. Osborn, A. R. (O '42)
 Christmas in the woods. Frost, F. M. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual) Christmas manger. Rey, H. A. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual) Christmas poetry
 Moore, C. C. Night before Christmas. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Thoburn, J., ed. Away in a manger. (N '42)
 Chromatographic adsorption analysis. Strain, H. H. (O '42)
Chromatographic analysis
 Strain, H. H. Chromatographic adsorption analysis. (O '42)
 Zechmeister, L., and Cholnoky, L. Principles and practice of chromatography. (S '42)
 Chula, son of the mound builders. Bunce, W. H. (O '42)
Church and labor
 Pope, L. Millhands and preachers. (S '42)
Church and state
 Keller, A. Christian Europe today. (O '42)
 Church and state in fascist Italy. Binchy, D. A. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual) Church and state in France
 Acomb, E. M. French laic laws. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
Church and state in Great Britain
 Gloyn, C. K. Church in the social order. (O '42)
Church and state in Italy
 Binchy, D. A. Church and state in fascist Italy. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual) Church and state in Russia
 Bolshakoff, S. Christian church and the Soviet state. (O '42)
Church and state in the United States
 Greene, E. B. Religion and the state. (Ap '42)
 Church and the new order. Paton, W. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
Church history
 Foster, J. Then and now. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Latourette, K. S. Unquenchable light. (My '42)
 Church in the social order. Gloyn, C. K. (O '42)
Church of England
 Curtis, W. R. Lambeth conferences. (Je '42)
Doctrinal and controversial works
 Coleman, M. E. Faith under fire. (S '42)
Government
 Simpson, W. J. S. Ministry and the eucharist. (D '42)
Church services
 Dolloff, E. D. It can happen between Sundays. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Church unity

- Broomfield, G. W. Revelation and reunion. (N '42)
 Foster, J. Then and now. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Simpson, W. J. S. Ministry and the eucharist. (D '42)

Churchill, Winston Leonard Spencer

- Guedalla, P. Mr Churchill. (Mr '42)
 Hawthorne, H. Long adventure. (O '42)
 Nott, S. C. Young Churchill. (Mr '42)

Cicero, Marcus Tullius

- Haskell, H. J. This was Cicero. (D '42)
 Cinder Ike. Newell, H. H. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Cindy. Aldis, D. K. (Je '42)

Circus

- Kelley, F. B. Circus holiday. (S '42)
 Circus holiday. Kelley, F. B. (S '42)
 Circus parade. Furbush, L. (Ag '42)
 Citadel of a hundred stairways. Malkus, A. S. (Mr '42)

Cities and towns

- Warner, W. L., and Lunt, P. S. Status system of a modern community. (O '42)

Brazil

- Kelsey, V. Brazil in capitals. (Mr '42)

Citizenship

- Burdette, F. L., ed. Education for citizen responsibilities. (O '42)
 Edmonson, J. B., and Dondineau, A. Civics in American life. (Ap '42)
 Lies, E. T. How you can make democracy work. (N '42)
 Smith, T. V. Discipline for democracy. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
 City-county consolidated. Rush, J. A. (My '42)
 City lawyer. Hays, A. G. (S '42)
 City of Benares (ship)
 Huxley, E. J. Atlantic ordeal. (Ap '42)

City planning

- Coolidge, J. P. Mill and mansion. (N '42)
 Sert, J. L. Can our cities survive? (F '43) (1942 Annual)
 Civics in American life. Edmonson, J. B., and Dondineau, A. (Ap '42)

Civil procedure

- Pound, R. Appellate procedure in civil cases. (Ag '42)

Civil rights

- Schiller, A. A. Military law and defense legislation. (Je '42)

Civil serviceGreat Britain

- Dale, H. E. Higher civil service of Great Britain. (S '42)

United States

- Chapelle, G. L. M. Needed—women in government service. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Civilian defense
 Binger, W. D., and Railey, H. H. What the citizen should know about civilian defense. (Je '42)
 Breckenridge, R. P. Modern camouflage. (D '42)
 Dupuy, R. E., and Carter, H. Civilian defense of the United States. (Ap '42)
 Leyson, B. W. Air raid safety manual. (Je '42)
 Lindsay, G. M. War on the civil and military fronts. (O '42)
 Logan, M. Home front digest. (S '42)
 Mayer-Daxlanden, H. Handbook for civilian defense. (Je '42)
 New York (city). City college. Civilian defense council. Handbook of civilian protection. (Ag '42)
 Root, R. R. Camouflage with planting. (O '42)
 Wessman, H. E., and Rose, W. A. Aerial bombardment protection. (Ap '42)

Juvenile literature

- Leaf, M. War-time handbook for young Americans. (S '42)
 Civilian defense of the United States. Dupuy, R. E., and Carter, H. (Ap '42)
 Civilian health in wartime. Dieuaide, F. R. (D '42)
 Civilian morale. Society for the psychological study of social issues. (N '42)

Civilization

- Alexander, F. Our age of unreason. (N '42)
 Bliven, B. Men who make the future. (Ap '42)
 Chamberlin, W. H. World's iron age. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
 Heard, G. Man the master. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
 Johnson, T. H., ed. Men of tomorrow. (N '42)
 Kilpatrick, W. H. Selfhood and civilization. (Ag '42)
 Kohn, H. World order in historical perspective. (S '42)
 Nef, J. U. United States and civilization. (Ap '42)
 Pennsylvania. University. Bicentennial conference. Studies in civilization. (S '42)
 Reiser, O. L. New earth and a new humanity. (Ap '42)
 Smith, T. V. Discipline for democracy. (F '43) (1942 Annual) Sorokin, P. A. Social and cultural dynamics, v 4. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)

History

- Browne, L. Something went wrong. (Mr '42)
 Nehru, J. Glimpses of world history. (Ag '42)
 Turner, R. E. Great cultural traditions. (Ap '42)

Philosophy

- Beard, C. A. and M. R. American spirit. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Hocking, W. E. What man can make of man. (S '42)
 Russell, L. M. R. Path to reconstruction. (D '42)

Civilization, Ancient

- Jones, T. B. Short history of ancient civilization. (S '42)

Civilization, Christian

- Krzesiński, A. J. Is modern culture doomed? (Je '42)
 Latourette, K. S. Unquenchable light. (My '42)
 Noyes, A. Edge of the abyss. (D '42)

Civilization, Greco-Roman

- Cary, M., and Haarhoff, T. J. Life and thought in the Greek and Roman world. (Ag '42)

Civilization, Greek

- Gittler, J. B. Social thought among the early Greeks. (Je '42)
 Glover, T. R. Challenge of the Greek. (S '42)

Civilization, Medieval

- Walsh, G. G. Medieval humanism. (My '42)
 Clara of Assisi, Saint

Juvenile literature

- Maynard, S. K. C. Princess Poverty. (Ap '42)
 Clark Gifford's body. Fearing, K. (S '42)
 Clash by night. Odets, C. (My '42)
 Class distinction
 Warner, W. L., and Lunt, P. S. Status system of a modern community. (O '42)

ClassificationBooks*Political science

- Glidden, S. H., and Marchus, D. G. Library classification for public administration materials. (N '42)
 Clemens, Samuel Langhorne (Mark Twain, pseud)
 DeVoto, B. A. Mark Twain at work. (S '42)

Juvenile literature

- Mason, M. E. Mark Twain, boy of old Missouri. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

ClergyUnited States

- Religious leaders of America. (Ag '42)
 Cleveland plain dealer. See Plain dealer, Cleveland
 Climate makes the man. Mills, C. A. (N '42)
 Climatology
 Landsberg, H. Physical climatology. (N '42)
 Climatology, Medical
 Mills, C. A. Climate makes the man. (N '42)
 Clocks and watches
 Chamberlain, P. M. It's about time. (My '42)
 Closed shop. Toner, J. L. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Clothing and dress

- Chambers, B. G. Color and design in apparel. (D '42)
 Hawes, E. Why is a dress? (Ap '42)
 Raushenbush, W. How to dress in wartime. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Clothing trade

- Seldman, J. I. Needle trades. (S '42)
 Cloud-walking. Campbell, M. (N '42)
 Clouds, air and wind. Sloane, E. (Ap '42)
 Club member's handbook. Milligan, L. R. and H. V. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Clubs

- Jones, L. C. Clubs of the Georgian rakes. (N '42)
 Milligan, L. R. and H. V. Club member's handbook. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Clubs of the Georgian rakes. Jones, L. C. (N '42)
 Clues to burn. Offord, L. G. (Ag '42)

Coal miners

- Trachtenberg, A. History of legislation for the protection of coal miners in Pennsylvania. (O '42)

Coal mines and miningPennsylvania

- Trachtenberg, A. History of legislation for the protection of coal miners in Pennsylvania. (O '42)

Coal tradeLaws and regulations

- Baker, R. H. National bituminous coal commission. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
 Coarse Gold. Corle, E. (N '42)
 Coast guard to Greenland. Molloy, A. G. (My '42)
 Coasts of folly. Williams, J. (Mr '42)
 Coconut, the wonder tree. Sperry, A. (N '42)
 Coffee cream. Overstreet, C. (N '42)
 Cokesbury shower book. Fite, K., and Paine, G. C. (Ap '42)
 Collective bargaining contracts. Bureau of national affairs, Washington, D.C. (Je '42)
 College and school drama
 Phelps, E. M., ed. Book and library plays for elementary and high school use, v 2. (Ap '42)

College education, Value of

- Evans, D. L. Essentials of liberal education. (S '42)

College professors and instructors

- Wilson, L. Academic man. (Ag '42)

Colleges and universitiesEntrance requirements

- Chamberlin, C. D., and others. Did they succeed in college? (N '42)

United States

- Harral, S. Public relations for higher education. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Ross, E. D. Democracy's college. (S '42)

Colloids

- Kraemer, E. O., and others, eds. Advances in colloid science, v 1. (D '42)
 Lewis, W. K., and others. Industrial chemistry of colloidal and amorphous materials. (S '42)

ColombiaDescription and travel

- Rainier, P. W. Green fire. (D '42)

History

- Arciniegas, G. Knight of El Dorado. (Je '42)

Colonies

- Holcombe, A. N. Dependent areas in the post-war world. (My '42)
 Townsend, M. E., and others. European colonial expansion since 1871. (Ag '42)

Colonization

- Townsend, M. E., and others. European colonial expansion since 1871. (Ag '42)

Color

- Chambers, B. G. Color and design in apparel. (D '42)
 Rood, R. Color and light in painting. (My '42)
 Color and design in apparel. Chambers, B. G. (D '42)
 Color and light in painting. Rood, R. (My '42)
 Color, class, and personality. Sutherland, R. L. (My '42)

ColoradoHistory

- Fritz, P. S. Colorado. (Ap '42)
 Columbus, Christopher
 Morison, S. E. Admiral of the ocean sea. (Mr '42)

Fiction

- Sabatini, R. Columbus. (Mr '42)
 Come and get it! Martin, G. W. (Ag '42)
 Come back to Wayne county. Fetzer, H. (D '42)
 Come gentle spring. Bolster, E. (Je '42)
 Come slowly. Eden. Benét, L. (O '42)
 Comets
 Watson, F. G. Between the planets. (Ap '42)
 Comics and their creators. Sheridan, M. (Ag '42)
 Coming age of world control. Doman, N. (Ag '42)
 Coming battle of Germany. Ziff, W. B. (S '42)
 Coming of the Civil war. Craven, A. O. (Je '42)
 Coming showdown. Dreher, C. (My '42)
 Command of the air. Douhet, G. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Commando attack. Holman, G. (O '42)
 Commandos. Arnold, E. (Je '42)
 Commercial air transportation. Frederick, J. H. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
 Commercial and library atlas of the world. (My '42)

Commercial correspondence

- Perry, S. Let's write good letters. (D '42)

Commercial products

- Holmes, H. N. Strategic materials and national strength. (S '42)
 Commodore Vanderbilt. Lane, W. J. (Ap '42)
 Common heart. Horgan, P. (D '42)

Communication and traffic

- Waples, D., ed. Print, radio, and film in a democracy. (My '42)

Communism

- Feibleman, J. Christianity, communism and the ideal society. (S '42)

Russia

- Webb, S. and B. P. Truth about Soviet Russia. (D '42)
 Community hygiene. Smiley, D. F., and Gould, A. G. (Je '42)

Community life

- Bingham, F. C., ed. Community life in a democracy. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
 Warner, W. L., and Lunt, P. S. Social life of a modern community. (Mr '42)
 Community life in a democracy. Bingham, F. C., ed. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
 Company she keeps. McCarthy, M. T. (Je '42)
 Complete Roman drama. (D '42)
 Comprehensive concordance to the Holy Scriptures. Walker, J. B. R. (D '42)

Concentration camps

- Karst, G. M. Beasts of the earth. (Je '42)
 Stein, L. I was in hell with Niemoeller. (O '42)
 Winkler, E. Four years of Nazi torture. (Je '42)

- Concerning juvenile delinquency. Thurston, H. W. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

- Concerning the education of a prince. Sophia Christina Charlotte, princess of Nassau-Saarbruck. (My '42)

- Concert life in New York. Aldrich, R. (Je '42)

- Concordance of the poetical works of Edgar Allan Poe. Booth, B. A., and Jones, C. E. (My '42)

- Concordance to the Bible. Thompson, N. W., and Stock, R. (D '42)

Concordat of 1929

- Binchy, D. A. Church and state in fascist Italy. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

- Condensed chemical dictionary. (Ag '42)

- Conditions of peace. Carr, E. H. (S '42)

Conduct of life

- Bartlett, R. M. Discovery. (Ap '42)
 Drury, S. S. Upward way. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
 Letter to my son by a soldier's mother. (Je '42)
 Pollock, C. Guide posts in chaos. (Ag '42)
 Rice, A. C. H. Happiness road. (S '42)
 West, J. E. Making the most of yourself. (Ap '42)
 Wilson, M. Woman you want to be. (S '42)

- Conduct of the Earl of Nottingham. Aiken, W. A., ed. (Je '42)
- Confederate states of America
- Biography
- Freeman, D. S. Lee's lieutenants, v 1. (N '42)
- Confession of an octogenarian. Jacks, L. P. (S '42)
- Confound the wise. Calas, N. (O '42)
- Confusion on the Potomac. Barger, C. (Ap '42)
- Connecticut
- Politics and government
- Lane, J. R. Political history of Connecticut during the Civil war. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Religious history
- Keller, C. R. Second great awakening in Connecticut. (S '42)
- Conquest of bacteria. Taylor, F. S. (My '42)
- Conquest of death. Lord, F. T. (Mr '42)
- Conrad argosy. Conrad, J. (D '42)
- Conservation of national resources. Renner, G. T. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Conservation of resources
- Carter, J. F. Remaking America. (Mr '42)
- Study and teaching
- Renner, G. T. Conservation of national resources. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Consolation
- Dicks, R. L. Who is my patient? (Mr '42)
- Consolidated encyclopaedia. (My '42)
- Constellations
- Scott, O. E. Stars in myth and fact. (D '42)
- Constitutional and legal history of England. Knappen, M. M. (N '42)
- Constitutional thought in sixteenth-century France. Church, W. F. (Je '42)
- Constructive income taxation. Fisher, I. and H. W. (D '42)
- Consumer instalment credit and economic fluctuations. Haberler, G. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Consumption (economics)
- Bush, G. L. Science education in consumer buying. (N '42)
- Floyd, O. R., and Kinney, L. B. Using dollars and sense. (Je '42)
- Norris, R. T. Theory of consumer's demand. (Ag '42)
- Contagious diseases. See Infection and infectious diseases
- Contemporary art. Frost, R. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Contemporary Christ. Smart, W. A. (N '42)
- Contemporary Europe. (S '42)
- Contemporary religious thought. Kepler, T. S., comp. (Ap '42)
- Continental congress. Burnett, E. C. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
- Continuous performance. Balaban, C. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Contracts
- Barclay, H. W., ed. How your business can help win the war. (My '42)
- Control exchange and the Argentine market. Salera, V. (My '42)
- Conversation in London. Laird, S., and Graebner, W. (Mr '42)
- Conversation pieces. Alajalov, C. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Conversion
- Daily, S. Release. (My '42)
- Conveying machinery
- Hetzel, F. V., and Albright, R. K. Belt conveyors and belt elevators. (S '42)
- Convoy. Reynolds, Q. J. (Mr '42)
- Cookery
- Batchelder, A. Ann Batchelder's own cook book. (Je '42)
- Case, F. Feeding the lions. (Ag '42)
- Flexner, M. K. W. Dixie dishes. (My '42)
- Good housekeeping institute, New York. Good housekeeping cook book. (Je '42)
- Hawkins, N. Let's cook. (N '42)
- Hester, H. H. 300 sugar saving recipes. (S '42)
- Kent, L. A. Mrs Appleyard's kitchen. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Murphy, M. Wartime meals. (O '42)
- Parrish, M. F. K. How to cook a wolf. (Ag '42)

- Rawlings, M. K. Cross Creek cookery. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Robertson, H., and others. What do we eat now? (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Smith, A. E. B. Thrifty cooking for wartime. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Windsor, W. W. Some favorite southern recipes. (S '42)

Juvenile literature

- Perkins, W. L. Fannie Farmer junior cook book. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Cookery (hors d'oeuvres)
- Allen, L. G. A book of hors d'oeuvre. (Ap '42)
- Cookery (wine)
- Hatch, E. W. American wine cook book. (My '42)
- Cookery, Outdoor
- Fredrikson, C. L. Picnic book. (S '42)
- Martin, G. W. Come and get it! (Ag '42)
- Cookery for the sick
- Harris, F. L., and Ridler, D. A. Food 'n' fun for the invalid. (O '42)
- Cooley, Charles Horton
- Jandy, E. C. Charles Horton Cooley, his life and his social theory. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Cooperation
- Gallagher, P. Paddy the Cope. (My '42)
- Heise, B. Effects of instruction in cooperation on the attitudes and conduct of children. (N '42)

China

- Snow, H. F. China builds for democracy. (S '42)

Nova Scotia

- Ward, L. R. Nova Scotia. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Cooperative societies

- Bolles, J. K. People's business. (Ag '42)

Copernicus, Nicolaus

- Reichenbach, H. From Copernicus to Einstein. (S '42)

Copper

Metallurgy

- Newton, J., and Wilson, C. L. L. Metallurgy of copper. (D '42)
- Copper pot. La Farge, O. (Ag '42)
- Coral reefs and islands
- Bryan, E. H. American Polynesia. (My '42)
- Coral sea, Battle of, 1942
- Johnston, S. Queen of the flat-tops. (N '42)
- Cornell's sea packet, 1942. Williamson, W. M., ed. (Ap '42)
- Cornerstones. Linklater, E. (Ag '42)
- Cornish, Mary
- Huxley, E. J. Atlantic ordeal. (Ap '42)
- Cornish tales. Lee, C. J. (S '42)
- Corporal punishment
- Falk, H. A. Corporal punishment. (My '42)
- Corporate executives' compensation. Washington, G. T. (Ag '42)
- Corporation law
- Cherrington, H. V. Investor and the Securities act. (Ag '42)
- Washington, G. T. Corporate executives' compensation. (Ag '42)

Corporations

- Leavitt, J. A. Voting trust. (Ap '42)

United States

- Holden, P. E., and others. Top-management organization and control. (My '42)
- Corpse came calling. Dresser, D. (S '42)
- Corpse with the eerie eye. Walling, R. A. J. (Je '42)
- Corrective treatment for unadjusted children. Shoobs, N. E. (My '42)
- Correlation (statistics)
- Ezekiel, M. J. B. Methods of correlation analysis. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Cortés, Hernando
- Díaz del Castillo, B. Cortez and the conquest of Mexico by the Spaniards in 1521. (Je '42)
- Madariaga, S. de. Hernán Cortés, conqueror of Mexico. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
- Juvenile literature
- Wilson, L. Fernando Cortez. (My '42)

- Cortez and the conquest of Mexico by the Spaniards in 1521. Díaz del Castillo, B. (Je '42)
- Cory, Herbert Ellsworth
Cory, H. E. Emancipation of a freethinker. (My '42)
- Cosmology
Laird, J. Theism and cosmology. (Ap '42)
- Cost and standard of living
Floyd, O. R., and Kinney, L. B. Using dollars and sense. (Je '42)
- Costume
Evans, M. How to make historic American costumes. (Ag '42)
- Costume design
Pepin, H. Modern pattern design. (D '42)
- Cotton goods industry
Merrill, G. R., and others. American cotton handbook. (Je '42)
- Cotton manufacture
Hoye, J. Staple cotton fabrics. (Ja, '43) (1942 Annual)
- Counterfeits and counterfeiters
Crump, I. Our United States secret service. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Country life
Baker, R. S. Under my elm. (D '42)
Brunner, E. de S. Working with rural youth. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
Rich, L. D. We took to the woods. (D '42)
Van de Water, F. F. Members of the family. (N '42)
- Country poems. Coatsworth, E. J. (N '42)
- Country school at home and abroad. Schatzmann, I. E. (Ap '42)
- Country-stop. Bailey, C. S. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- County government
Rush, J. A. City-county consolidated. (My '42)
- County library primer. Sandoe, M. W. (O '42)
- Courage and the glory. Floherty, J. J. (D '42)
- Courtney, Charles
Courtney, C. Unlocking adventure. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Courts
United States
Chamberlain, J. P., and others. Judicial function in federal administrative agencies. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Courts martial and courts of inquiry
Schiller, A. A. Military law and defense legislation. (Je '42)
- Cousin William. Lutes, D. T. (D '42)
- Covering all fronts. Eng title of: Action on all fronts. Ingersoll, R. M. (Ap '42)
- Covering the Mexican front. Kirk, B. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Cow country. Dale, E. E. (Ag '42)
- Cowboys
Cook, J. H., and Driggs, H. R. Longhorn cowboy. (Je '42)
- Coyotes
Legends and stories
Peck, L. Don Coyote. (My '42)
Cradled in fear. Boutell, A. (D '42)
- Cranmer, Thomas, abb.
Willoughby, H. R. First authorized English Bible and the Cranmer preface. (N '42)
- Crazy Horse (Oglala Sioux chief)
Sandoz, M. Crazy Horse. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Creation
Heidel, A. Babylonian genesis. (N '42)
Ley, W. Days of creation. (Ap '42)
- Creation (literary, artistic, etc)
Sayers, D. L. Mind of the Maker. (Mr '42)
Voronoff, S. From cretin to genius. (Ap '42)
- Creative crate craft. Champion, P. V. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Creative factors in scientific research. Porterfield, A. L. (Ag '42)
- Creative group work on the campus. Price, L. (Ap '42)
- Creed for free men. Brown, W. A. (Mr '42)
- Creeds
Moment, J. J. We believe. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Creek Indians
Debo, A. Road to disappearance. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Crescent carnival. Keyes, F. P. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Crime and criminals
Mencken, A., ed. By the neck. (Ag '42)
Taft, D. R. Criminology. (O '42)
Weir, E. Criminology. (Je '42)
- New England
Dempewolff, R. Famous old New England murders. (S '42)
- United States
Crump, I. Our United States secret service. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Crime club encore. Haycraft, H., ed. (D '42)
- Criminal law
Maestro, M. T. Voltaire and Beccaria as reformers of criminal law. (N '42)
- Criminology. Taft, D. R. (O '42)
- Criminology. Weir, E. (Je '42)
- Crimson quilt. MacDonald, W. C. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Crimson thread. Lauferty, L. (Ap '42)
- Cripps, Sir Stafford
Coupland, R. Cripps mission. (O '42)
Strauss, P. O. Cripps: advocate extraordinary. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Cripps mission. Coupland, R. (O '42)
- Crisis in the Philippines. Porter, C. L. (Ap '42)
- Crockett, David
Fiction
Brown, D. Wave high the banner. (Je '42)
- Crooked Adam. Stevenson, D. E. (D '42)
- Cross Creek. Rawlings, M. K. (Ap '42)
- Cross Creek cookery. Rawlings, M. K. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Crusader in crinoline. Wilson, F. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
- Crystallography
Buerger, M. J. X-ray crystallography. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Cuba
Church history
Davis, J. M. Cuban church in a sugar economy. (S '42)
- Cuban church in a sugar economy. Davis, J. M. (S '42)
- Cuckoo. Lida. (Je '42)
- Cue for murder. McCloy, H. (N '42)
- Cue for treason. Trease, G. (Je '42)
- Culture
Kilpatrick, W. H. Selfhood and civilization. (Ag '42)
- Krzesiński, A. J. Is modern culture doomed? (Je '42)
- Sorokin, P. A. Social and cultural dynamics, v 4. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
- Cup and the sword. Hobart, A. T. N. (O '42)
- Cupid on the stairs. Patch, H. R. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Curie, Marie (Skłodowska) (Mme Pierre Curie)
Juvenile literature
Eberle, I. Radium treasure and the Curies. (Ap '42)
- Curie, Pierre
Juvenile literature
Eberle, I. Radium treasure and the Curies. (Ap '42)
- Current events
Whipple, L. R. How to understand current events. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
- Curriculum of democratic education. Peters, C. C. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Currier & Ives
Peters, H. T. Currier & Ives. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Cyprian, Saint, bp of Carthage
Fichter, J. H. Saint Cecil Cyprian, early defender of the faith. (O '42)
- D.A. cooks a goose. Gardner, E. S. (Mr '42)
- Dacey Hamilton. Van Doren, D. G. (O '42)
- Dachau, Germany
Karst, G. M. Beasts of the earth. (Je '42)
- Daffodil affair. Stewart, J. I. M. (O '42)
- Dairying
Judkins, H. F. Principles of dairying. (Je '42)
- Dakota in the morning. Briggs, W. H. (O '42)

- Dali, Salvador
Dali, S. Secret life of Salvador Dali. (F '43)
(1942 Annual)
- Soby, J. T. Salvador Dali. (My '42)
- Damyank. Raine, W. M. (O '42)
- Dana family
Dana, H. W. L. Dana saga. (O '42)
- Dana saga. Dana, H. W. L. (O '42)
- Dancing
Hostetler, L. A. Walk your way to better dancing. (S '42)
- Terry, W. Invitation to dance. (Ap '42)
- Folk and national dances
Hughes, R. M. Gesture language of the Hindu dance. (Ap '42)
- Dancing star. Malvern, G. (Ag '42)
- Danube river
Macartney, C. A. Problems of the Danube basin. (N '42)
- Danzig
Leonhardt, H. L. Nazi conquest of Danzig. (O '42)
- Dark kingdom. Patchen, K. (Je '42)
- Dash and Dart. Buff, M. M. and C. (D '42)
- Daughter of Thunder. Moon, G. F. (Ja '43)
(1942 Annual)
- Daughter of time. White, N. G. (My '42)
- Davis, Alexander Jackson
Newton, R. H. Town & Davis, architects. (S '42)
- Dawn breaks. Weiskopf, F. C. (My '42)
- Dawn of victory. Fischer, L. (Ap '42)
- Day in Manhattan. Sullivan, A. M. (Ap '42)
- Day must dawn. Turnbull, A. S. (N '42)
- Days between. Foster, E. (Je '42)
- Days beyond recall. Osborn, M. E. (D '42)
- Days of creation. Ley, W. (Ap '42)
- Days of Ofelia. Diamant, G. (Ag '42)
- Dead center. Collins, M. G. (Ap '42)
- Dead men do tell tales. Khun de Prorok, B. (My '42)
- Dead of the night. Street, C. J. C. (O '42)
- Deadlier than the male. Gunn, J. E. (Je '42)
- Deadline. Lazareff, P. (Ap '42)
- Deadline for destruction. Heberden, M. V. (My '42)
- Dear to this heart. LeBlanc, D. K. (O '42)
- Dearest mother. Elbogen, F., ed. (Je '42)
- Dearly beloved. Sylvester, H. (Ap '42)
- Death
Schilder, P. Goals and desires of man. (O '42)
- Death among doctors. MacQueen, J. W. (Ag '42)
- Death and life. D'Arcy, M. C. (D '42)
- Death at Ash house. Burton, M. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Death at Dakar. O'Neil, K. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Death at the Bottoms. Cunningham, A. B. (Je '42)
- Death finds a target. Fitt, M. (My '42)
- Death in the inkwell. Farjeon, J. J. (Ap '42)
- Death is my name. Wells, S. (Ap '42)
- Death like thunder. Holman, H. (Ag '42)
- Death of the moth. Woolf, V. S. (S '42)
- Death on Heron's mere. Eng title of: Death finds a target. Fitt, M. (My '42)
- Death on the aisle. Lockridge, F. L. D. and R. (Je '42)
- Death rides tandem. McCully, W. (D '42)
- Death rings a bell. Fitzsimmons, C. (S '42)
- Death walks the Dry Tortugas. Rea, M. L. P. (S '42)
- Death wore roses. Saxby, C. (Mr '42)
- Debates and debating
Ewbank, H. L., and Auer, J. J. Discussion and debate. (My '42)
- Phelps, E. M. University debaters' annual. (My '42)
- Decatur, Stephen
Juvenile literature
Nicolay, H. Decatur of the old navy. (Ag '42)
- Decatur of the old navy. Nicolay, H. (Ag '42)
- December 7, the first thirty hours. (S '42)
- Decisive battles of the U.S.A. Fuller, J. F. C. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Decontamination (from gases, chemicals, etc.)
Jacobs, M. B. War gases. (N '42)
- Deed without a name. Phillpotts, E. (S '42)
- Deep lay the dead. Davis, F. C. (N '42)
- Deep South. Davis, A. and others. (Ag '42)
(1941 Annual)
- Deep valley. Totheroh, D. (S '42)
- Deer
Juvenile literature
Bronson, W. S. Horns and antlers. (My '42)
- Legends and stories
Buff, M. M. and C. Dash and Dart. (D '42)
- Defense of the western hemisphere. Kalp, E. S., and Morgan, R. M. (Ap '42)
- Defense rests. Pierson, E. M. (My '42)
- Defense will not win the war. Kernan, W. F. (Ap '42)
- Deformities
Raney, R. B., and Shands, A. R. Primer on the prevention of deformity in childhood. (O '42)
- Democracy
Adams, E. T., and others. American idea. (Je '42)
- Agar, H. Time for greatness. (N '42)
- Agard, W. R. What democracy meant to the Greeks. (S '42)
- Becker, C. L. New liberties for old. (Ag '42)
(1941 Annual)
- Bingham, A. M. Techniques of democracy. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Bogardus, E. S. Democracy by discussion. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Bolton, F. E., and Corbally, J. E. Educational sociology. (S '42)
- Brown, W. A. Creed for free men. (Mr '42)
- Coker, F. W., ed. Democracy, liberty, and property. (N '42)
- Conant, J. B. Our fighting faith. (Ja '43)
(1942 Annual)
- Conference on science, philosophy and religion. Science, philosophy and religion. (S '42)
- Corey, L. Unfinished task. (Je '42)
- Cousins, N. Good inheritance. (Ap '42)
- Cousins, N., ed. Treasury of democracy. (Mr '42)
- Friedrich, C. J. New belief in the common man. (S '42)
- Fromm, E. Escape from freedom. (Ag '42)
(1941 Annual)
- Griffith, E. S. Modern government in action. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Guérard, A. L. France of tomorrow. (Ag '42)
- Hutchinson, W. T., ed. Democracy and national unity. (Je '42)
- Kendall, W. John Locke and the doctrine of majority-rule. (My '42)
- Kohn, H. World order in historical perspective. (S '42)
- Kummer, F. A. Torch of liberty. (Ap '42)
- Lasswell, H. D. Democracy through public opinion. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
- Lennard, R. V. Democracy: the threatened foundations. (My '42)
- Lies, E. T. How you can make democracy work. (N '42)
- McKinley, S. B. Democracy and military power. (Je '42)
- Mann, T. Order of the day. (D '42)
- Merriam, C. E. On the agenda of democracy. (Ap '42)
- Millsbaugh, A. C. Democracy, efficiency, stability. (N '42)
- Nash, J. B. Building morale. (Je '42)
- Paulmier, H. C., and Schauffler, R. H. Democracy days. (My '42)
- Reves, E. Democratic manifesto. (N '42)
- Smith, T. V. Democratic tradition in America. (Ag '42)
- Smith, T. V. Discipline for democracy. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Stace, W. T. Destiny of western man. (Ap '42)
- Sterne, E. G. We live to be free. (D '42)
- Wrightstone, J. W., and Campbell, D. S. Social studies and the American way of life. (Je '42)
- Democracy and free enterprise. Arnold, T. W. (Je '42)
- Democracy and military power. McKinley, S. B. (Je '42)
- Democracy and national unity. Hutchinson, W. T., ed. (Je '42)
- Democracy by discussion. Bogardus, E. S. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Democracy days. Paulmier, H. C., and Schauffler, R. H. (My '42)
- Democracy, efficiency, stability. Millsbaugh, A. C. (N '42)

- Democracy in educational administration. Miller, W. I. (D '42)
- Democracy in literature
Warfel, H. R., and Manwaring, E. W., eds. Of the people. (S '42)
- Democracy, liberty, and property. Coker, F. W., ed. (N '42)
- Democracy through public opinion. Lasswell, H. D. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
- Democracy's college. Ross, E. D. (S '42)
- Democratic ideals and reality. Mackinder, H. J. (O '42)
- Democratic manifesto. Reves, E. (N '42)
- Democratic-Republican societies, 1790-1800. Link, E. P. (Ag '42)
- Democratic tradition in America. Smith, T. V. (Ag '42)
- Dentistry
Asgis, A. J. Professional dentistry in American society. (Ag '42)
- Dependent areas in the post-war world. Holcombe, A. N. (My '42)
- Descartes, René
Rosenfield, L. D. C. From beast-machine to man-machine. (Ap '42)
- Desert challenge. Lillard, R. G. (N '42)
- Desert saints. Anderson, N. (Je '42)
- Desert war. Hill, R. (S '42)
- Design for power. Schuman, F. L. (Mr '42)
- Design in evil. King, R. (Ag '42)
- Design of modern interiors. Ford, J. and K. M. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Design of modern steel structures. Grinter, L. E. (Ap '42)
- Desserts
White, M. Sweets without sugar. (S '42)
- Destination Chungking. Han Suyin. (My '42)
- Destiny of western man. Stace, W. T. (Ap '42)
- Destroyer from America. Fernald, J. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Destroyers. MacLiesh, A. F. (N '42)
- Detective short story. Queen, E. (Ja '42)
- Detective stories (books about)
Haycraft, H. Murder for pleasure. (1941, 1942 Annuals)
- Bibliography
- Queen, E. Detective short story. (Ja '42)
- Detective stories (individual titles). See Fiction—Mystery and detective stories
- Development and learning. Bruce, W. F., and Freeman, F. S. (Ag '42)
- Development of labor relations law. McNaughton, W. L. (My '42)
- Development of the labor movement in Great Britain, France and Germany. McConagha, W. A. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Developmental reading in the high school. Bond, G. L. and E. (Ap '42)
- De Vigne, Harry Carlos
DeVigne, H. C. Time of my life. (N '42)
- Devil builds a chapel. Marlett, M. (My '42)
- Devil loves me. Millar, M. (S '42)
- Devil mountain. Dennison, L. R. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Devil's behind you. Helseth, H. E. (Ag '42)
- Devil's foot. Weston, C. (My '42)
- Devotional exercises
Nygaard, N. E., ed. Strength for service to God and country. (D '42)
- Wilde, R. W. Beginning the day. (My '42)
- Dialectic
Marcuse, H. Reason and revolution. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
- Dialectic of morals. Adler, M. J. (Ap '42)
- Dialog mass. Ellard, G. (O '42)
- Dialogue in the desert. Heard, G. (Ag '42)
- Dialogue with death. Koestler, A. (S '42)
- Diamonds
McCarthy, J. R. Fire in the earth. (My '42)
- Diary of a Washington correspondent. Lawrence, D. (N '42)
- Dickens, Charles
House, A. H. Dickens world. (Mr '42)
- Dickens world. House, A. H. (Mr '42)
- Dickinson, Emily
Fiction
Benét, L. Come slowly, Eden. (O '42)
- Dictators
Neumann, S. Permanent revolution. (D '42)
- Dictionary of philosophy. Runes, D. D., ed. (Ag '42)
- Dictionary of synonyms. Webster, N. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Did they succeed in college? Chamberlin, C. D., and others. (N '42)
- Diderot, Denis
Le père de famille
Sophia Christina Charlotte, princess of Nassau-Saarbrück. Concerning the education of a prince. (My '42)
- Diesel engines, Marine
Ford, L. R. Practical marine Diesel engineering. (Je '42)
- Diet
Taylor, D. Nutrition handbook. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Diet in disease
Harris, F. L., and Ridler, D. A. Food 'n' fun for the invalid. (O '42)
- Differentials in internal migration. Hobbs, A. H. (S '42)
- Diffusion
Barrer, R. M. Diffusion in and through solids. (Je '42)
- Diffusion in and through solids. Barrer, R. M. (Je '42)
- Diffusion of science. Bennett, J. L. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Dig me a grave. Spain, J. (D '42)
- Digest of Christian thinking. Macfarland, C. S. (Ag '42)
- Dimensions of society. Dodd, S. C. (Je '42)
- Dina Cashman. Norris, K. T. (Je '42)
- Dinner at Belmont. Crabb, A. L. (Ap '42)
- Dinwiddie, Robert
Koontz, L. K. Robert Dinwiddie. (S '42)
- Dionysius
Linthorpe, I. M. Arts of Orpheus. (S '42)
- Diplomatic honeymoon. Greig, M. (S '42)
- Diplomatic memoirs
Davies, J. E. Mission to Moscow. (Mr '42)
- Gade, J. A. All my born days. (Ap '42)
- Diplomatic recognition of the border states. Graham, M. W. (My '42)
- Directions in contemporary literature. Buck, P. M. (Je '42)
- Disappearance of Kit Shane. Wadsworth, L. A. (D '42)
- Disarmament
Johnson, M. M., and Haven, C. T. For permanent victory. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Tate, M. Disarmament illusion. (O '42)
- Disarmament illusion. Tate, M. (O '42)
- Disasters
Sorokin, P. A. Man and society in calamity. (N '42)
- Disciple. Glover, T. R. (Je '42)
- Discipline for democracy. Smith, T. V. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Discourse upon the exposition and understanding of statutes with Sir Thomas Egerton's additions. (N '42)
- Discoveries (in geography)
Juvenile literature
Sondergaard, A. They went exploring. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Discovery. Bartlett, R. M. (Ap '42)
- Discussion
Bogardus, E. S. Democracy by discussion. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Discussion and debate. Ewbank, H. L., and Auer, J. J. (My '42)
- Disney, Walt
Feild, R. D. Art of Walt Disney. (Ag '42)
- Distributive justice. Ryan, J. A. (Ag '42)
- Divided they fall. Scandrett, R. B. (My '42)
- Diving, Submarine
Rieseberg, H. E. I dive for treasure. (Ag '42)
- Division of labor
Pancoast, O. Occupational mobility. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
- Dixie decides. Justus, M. (N '42)
- Dixie dishes. Flexner, M. K. W. (My '42)
- Do you want to be a nurse? Sutherland, D. G. (Ag '42)
- Doctor Bard of Hyde Park. Langstaff, J. B. (Ag '42)
- Dr Finlay sees it through. Hart, A. (Ag '42)
- Dr Kildare's trial. Brand, M. (N '42)
- Doctors at work. Keliher, A. V., ed. (Ap '42)
- Doctors Mayo. Clapesattle, H. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
- Doctors of the mind. Ray, M. B. L. (O '42)

Documentation

- Joughin, G. L. Basic reference forms. (Ap '42)
 Documents of the primitive church. Torrey, C. C. (My '42)

Dogs

- Suckley, M. L., and Dalglish, A. True story of Fala. (Je '42)

Legends and stories

- Hinkle, T. C. Old Nick and Bob. (Ap '42)
 Seybert, M., and Olson, L. M. Taffy and Tuffy. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Training

- Hartwell, D. Dogs against darkness. (N '42)
 Dogs against darkness. Hartwell, D. (N '42)
 Dogsdog apostles. Savage, A. H. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Doll who came alive. Tregarthen, E. (N '42)
 Dollar cotton. Faulkner, J. (O '42)
 Dollar gold piece. Swain, V. (N '42)

Dolls

- Jordan, N. R. American dolls in uniform. (O '42)

Domestic animals

- Knapp-Fisher, H. C. Man and his creatures. (S '42)
 Don Coyote. Peck, L. (My '42)
 Don Pedro and the devil. Maass, E. (My '42)
 Done in oil. Leven, D. D. (Ap '42)
 Donkey from Dorking. Neilson, F. F. (My '42)
 Don't mention my name. Goldthwaite, E. K. (S '42)
 Don't think it hasn't been fun. Eng title of: Convoy. Reynolds, Q. J. (Mr '42)
 Doors to jobs. Huntington, E. H. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Dorcas Porkus. Tudor, T. (N '42)
 Dorr rebellion, 1842

Poetry

- Scott, W. T. Sword on the table. (D '42)
 Dougal's wish. Alger, L. (O '42)
 Douglas, Stephen Arnold
 Nolan, J. C. Little giant. (O '42)
 Down to the sea. Sharp, L. H. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Down to the sea in Maine. Shelton, A. C. (S '42)
 Drafting the federal Constitution. Prescott, A. T., comp. (Ap '42)
 Dragon seed. Buck, P. S. (Mr '42)
 Dragon's teeth. Sinclair, U. B. (Mr '42)
 Dragonship. Resnick, W. S. (O '42)
 Drake, Sir Francis
 Mason, A. E. W. Life of Francis Drake. (My '42)

DramaTechnique

- Egri, L. How to write a play. (Je '42)

Dramas

- Chodorov, J., and Fields, J. Junior miss. (My '42)
 Ferber, E., and Kaufman, G. S. Land is bright. (Ap '42)
 Hellman, L. Four plays. (My '42)
 Kaufman, G. S., and Hart, M. Six plays. (O '42)
 MacLiesh, A. F. Destroyers. (N '42)
 Odets, C. Clash by night. (My '42)
 Raphaelson, S. Jason. (S '42)
 Rodman, S. Revolutionists. (N '42)
 Saroyan, W. Razzle-dazzle. (My '42)
 Shiels, G. Rugged path and The summit. (D '42)
 Sophocles. Oedipus at Colonus. (My '42)
 Steinbeck, J. Moon is down; play in two parts. (O '42)
 Ullman, S. S. Plays of America's explorers and founders. (My '42)
 Wilder, T. Skin of our teeth. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Collections

- America in action. (My '42)
 Cerf, B. A., and Cartmell, V. H., comps. Sixteen famous British plays. (My '42)
 Kreymborg, A., ed. Poetic drama. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
 Mantle, B., ed. Best plays of 1941-42. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Mayorga, M. G., ed. Best one-act plays of 1941. (My '42)

- Smith, B., comp. 25 non-royalty one-act plays for all-girl casts. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Three Southwest plays. (Je '42)

DrawingInstruction

- Nicolaides, K. Natural way to draw. (O '42)
 Drawing the R.A.F. Kennington, E. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Drawings

- Alajalov, C. Conversation pieces. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Drawn and quartered. Addams, C. (D '42)
 Drawn conclusion. Barber, W. A., and Schabelitz, R. F. (Mr '42)
 Dreadful hollow. Karlova, I. (O '42)
 Dreams of glory. Lambert, J. (O '42)

Dressmaking

- Pepin, H. Modern pattern design. (D '42)
 Drexel institute of technology, Philadelphia
 McDonald, E. D., and Hinton, E. M. Drexel institute of technology, 1891-1941. (N '42)
 Drinkers of the wind. Raswan, C. R. (D '42)
 Drivin' woman. Chevalier, E. P. (S '42)
 Drug store management. Nolen, H. C., and Maynard, H. H. (Ap '42)

Drug trade

- Nolen, H. C., and Maynard, H. H. Drug store management. (Ap '42)

Drugs

- Taylor, F. S. Conquest of bacteria. (My '42)

Laws and legislation

- Wilson, S. Food and drug regulation. (S '42)
 Drums of morning. Stern, P. V. (S '42)
 Drunks are square pegs. Clapp, C. (S '42)
 Dry season. Cowley, M. (S '42)
 Du Châtelet-Lomont, Gabrielle Emilie (Le Tonnelier de Berteuil) marquise
 Wade, I. O. Voltaire and Madame Du Châtelet. (Je '42)
 Duel for Europe. Scott, J. (N '42)

Duhem, Pierre Maurice Marie

- Lowinger, A. Methodology of Pierre Duhem. (Je '42)

Duke, James Buchanan

- Winkler, J. K. Tobacco tycoon. (N '42)
 Dunkirk. Nathan, R. (S '42)

Du Pont family

- Dutton, W. S. Du Pont. (S '42)
 Dust tracks on a road. Hurston, Z. N. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Dutch in the Far East. Hyma, A. (N '42)

Dwellings

- Whitman, R. B. First aid for the ailing house. (D '42)

Dwight, Timothy

- Cunipham, C. E. Timothy Dwight. (Ap '42)
 Dynamic administration. Follett, M. P. (My '42)
 Dynamics of industrial democracy. Golden, C. S., and Ruttenberg, H. J. (Je '42)
 Dynamo farm. Allen, A. (Je '42)

- Each alone. Ball, H. (Je '42)
 Eagle of the Gredos. Osgood, C. J. (N '42)
 Eagles roar! Kennerly, B. (O '42)
 Early American wooden ware and other kitchen utensils. Gould, M. E. (N '42)
 Early Chirico. Soby, J. T. (Ap '42)
 Early Christian art. Morey, C. R. (S '42)
 Early summer. Corbett, E. F. (N '42)

Earth

- Whipple, F. L. Earth, moon and planets. (Je '42)
 Earth and man. Davis, D. H. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
 Earth, moon and planets. Whipple, F. L. (Je '42)

Earthquakes

- Byerly, P. Seismology. (D '42)

East (Far East)

- Emerson, R. Government and nationalism in southeast Asia. (S '42)
 Hudson, G. F., and Rajchman, M. Atlas of Far Eastern politics. (Ag '42)

Description and travel

- Randau, C., and Zugsmith, L. Setting sun of Japan. (Ap '42)

History

Quigley, H. S. Far Eastern war, 1937-1941. (S '42)

Industries and resources

Mitchell, K. L. Industrialization of the western Pacific. (Ag '42)

East (Near East)

Bowman, H. E. Middle-East window. (S '42)

East Indies

Kennedy, R. Ageless Indies. (S '42)

Description and travel

Clune, F. Isles of Spice. (My '42)

East of Farewell. Hunt, H. (O '42)

Easter

Juvenile literature

Harper, W., ed. Easter chimes. (My '42)

Easter chimes. Harper W., ed. (My '42)

Eastern question (Balkan)

Patmore, D. Balkan correspondent. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)

Eastern question (Far East)

Abend, H. Ramparts of the Pacific. (Je '42)

Buck, P. S. American unity and Asia. (S '42)

Emerson, R. Government and nationalism in southeast Asia. (S '42)

Gunther, J. Inside Asia. (Je '42)

Harcourt-Smith, S. Fire in the Pacific. (S '42)

Hudson, G. F., and Rajchman, M. Atlas of Far Eastern politics. (Ag '42)

Newman, J. Goodbye Japan. (Je '42)

Peffer, N. Basis for peace in the Far East. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Quigley, H. S. Far Eastern war, 1937-1941. (S '42)

Randau, C., and Zugsmith, L. Setting sun of Japan. (Ap '42)

Shridharani, K. J. Warning to the West. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Tanaka, G. Japan's dream of world empire. (Ap '42)

Taylor, G. E. America in the new Pacific. (My '42)

Eastern workmen and national land policy. Zahler, H. S. (Ap '42)

Eat well for less money. Maddox, G. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Eckel, Mrs Elsa (St John)

Fiction

Bonn, J. L. And down the days. (My '42)

Eclipse of a mind. Graves, A. (N '42)

Economic conditions

Daniel, H. North America, wheel of the future. (My '42)

Dreher, C. Coming showdown. (My '42)

Pegg, C. H., and others. American society and the changing world. (Ag '42)

Ryan, J. A. Distributive justice. (Ag '42)

Stolper, G. This age of fable. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)

Economic consequences of the second World war. Lorwin, L. L. (Mr '42)

Economic development in Europe. Day, C. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Economic development of the American nation. McGrane, R. C. (O '42)

Economic development of the Netherlands Indies. Broek, J. O. M. (O '42)

Economic effects of advertising. Borden, N. H. (My '42)

Economic geography. Ostrolenk, B. (S '42)

Economic history of Athens under Roman domination. Day, J. (O '42)

Economic history of Europe, 1760-1939. Bogart, E. L. (O '42)

Economic history of Liberia. Brown, G. W. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)

Economic novel in America. Taylor, W. F. (Ag '42)

Economic policy

Condliffe, J. B. Agenda for a postwar world. (O '42)

Corey, L. Unfinished task. (Je '42)

Drucker, P. F. Future of industrial man. (O '42)

Kingsley, J. D., and Petegorsky, D. W. Strategy for democracy. (Ap '42)

Sargeant, H. A., and Wells, G. H. Grand strategy. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)

Soule, G. H. Strength of nations. (My '42)

Young, G. Federalism and freedom. (S '42)

Economic problems of war. Steiner, G. A., ed. (D '42)

Economic problems of war and its aftermath. Wright, C. W., ed. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Economic reconstruction of Lithuania after 1918. Simutis, A. (O '42)

Economics

Bohlman, H. W., and M. E. M. Our economic problems. (N '42)

Brown, H. G. Basic principles of economics and their significance for public policy. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Graham, F. D. Social goals and economic institutions. (S '42)

Mayer, J. Social science principles in the light of scientific method. (Ap '42)

Patterson, S. H., and others. American economic problems. (Ag '42)

Pennsylvania. University. Bicentennial conference. Studies in economics and industrial relations. (S '42)

Robinson, J. M. Essay on Marxian economics. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Sweezy, P. M. Theory of capitalist development. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

History

Stigler, G. J. Production and distribution theories. (Ap '42)

Study and teaching

Gavian, R. W. Education for economic competence in grades I to VI. (O '42)

Economics, Mathematical

Davis, H. T. Analysis of economic time series. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Economics of public utility regulation. Barnes, I. R. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Economics of social security. Harris, S. E. (Je '42)

Economics of total war. Spiegel, H. W. (My '42)

Edge of darkness. Woods, W. H. (My '42)

Edge of the abyss. Noyes, A. (D '42)

Edge of the sword. Pozner, V. (Je '42)

Education

Bolton, F. E., and Corbally, J. E. Educational sociology. (S '42)

Hagstotz, H. B. Educational theories of John Ruskin. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Hardie, C. D. Truth and fallacy in educational theory. (S '42)

Leonard, J. P., and Eurich, A. C., eds. Evaluation of modern education. (Je '42)

National education association of the United States. Department of supervisors and directors of instruction. Americans all. (Ag '42)

Sophia Christina Charlotte, princess of Nassau-Saarbrück. Concerning the education of a prince. (My '42)

Aims and objectives

Evans, D. L. Essentials of liberal education. (S '42)

Foster, R. G., and Wilson, P. P. Women after college. (S '42)

Knight, E. W. Progress and educational perspective. (D '42)

Bibliography

Alexander, C. How to locate educational information and data. (Ap '42)

Curricula

Doane, D. C. Needs of youth. (Je '42)

Giles, H. H., and others. Exploring the curriculum. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

National commission on cooperative curriculum planning. Subject fields in general education. (My '42)

Peters, C. C. Curriculum of democratic education. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Experimental methods

De Lima, A., and others. Little red school house. (Mr '42)

Philosophy

Meiklejohn, A. Education between two worlds. (N '42)

Redden, J. D., and Ryan, F. A. Catholic philosophy of education. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

East (Near East)

Bowman, H. E. Middle-East window. (S '42)

Education—Continued

New England

Jackson, S. L. America's struggle for free schools. (My '42)

New Jersey

Burr, N. R. Education in New Jersey, 1630-1871. (S '42)

New York (state)

Jackson, S. L. America's struggle for free schools. (My '42)

South

Swint, L. H. Northern teacher in the South. (Je '42)

United States

Benedict, A. E. Progress to freedom. (My '42)

Doane, D. C. Needs of youth. (Je '42)

Edwards, N., ed. Education in a democracy. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)

Evenden, E. S. Teacher education in a democracy at war. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Knight, E. W. Progress and educational perspective. (D '42)

Ross, E. D. Democracy's college. (S '42)

Wrinkle, W. L., and Gilchrist, R. S. Secondary education for American democracy. (N '42)

Education, Higher

Chamberlin, C. D., and others. Did they succeed in college? (N '42)

Foster, R. G., and Wilson, P. P. Women after college. (S '42)

Pace, C. R. They went to college. (D '42)

Education, Secondary

Aikin, W. M. Story of the eight-year study. (My '42)

Bond, G. L. and E. Developmental reading in the high school. (Ap '42)

Chamberlin, C. D., and others. Did they succeed in college? (N '42)

Doane, D. C. Needs of youth. (Je '42)

Giles, H. H., and others. Exploring the curriculum. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Kefauver, G. N., and Hand, H. C. Appraising guidance in secondary schools. (Ap '42)

Wrinkle, W. L., and Gilchrist, R. S. Secondary education for American democracy. (N '42)

Education and state

Bolton, F. E., and Corbally, J. E. Educational sociology. (S '42)

Education between two worlds. Meiklejohn, A.

(N '42)

Education for citizen responsibilities. Burdette, F. L., ed. (O '42)

Education for economic competence in grades I to VI. Gavian, R. W. (O '42)

Education in a democracy. Edwards, N., ed. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)

Education in New Jersey, 1630-1871. Burr, N. R. (S '42)

Education of adults

Kotinsky, R. Elementary education of adults. (My '42)

Education of children

Gavian, R. W. Education for economic competence in grades I to VI. (O '42)

Gordon, D. L. All children listen. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Greene, H. A., and others. Measurement and evaluation in the elementary school. (Je '42)

Landreth, C., and Read, K. H. Education of the young child. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Leonard, E. M., and others. Child at home and school. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Powers, M. Book of little crafts. (D '42)

Saucier, W. A. Theory and practice in the elementary school. (My '42)

Street, R. F. Children in a world of conflict. (My '42)

Education of the young child. Landreth, C., and Read, K. H. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Education of women

Foster, R. G., and Wilson, P. P. Women after college. (S '42)

Educational guidance

Howard, L. S. Road ahead. (My '42)

Educational motion pictures and libraries. Mc-

Donald, G. D. (My '42)

Educational psychology

Bruce, W. F., and Freeman, F. S. Development and learning. (Ag '42)

Munro, R. L. Teaching the individual. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Starch, D., and others. Psychology in education. (Ap '42)

Educational research

Alexander, C. How to locate educational information and data. (Ap '42)

Educational sociology

Burgess, E. W., and others. Environment and education. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Rouček, J. S., and others. Sociological foundations of education. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Educational sociology. Bolton, F. E., and Corbally, J. E. (S '42)

Educational theories of John Ruskin. Hagstotz, H. B. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Effective foremanship. Maynard, H. B., and others, eds. (Ap '42)

Effects of instruction in cooperation on the attitudes and conduct of children. Heise, B. (N '42)

Effell, Austin, M. (Mr '42)

Efficiency, Industrial

Roethlisberger, F. J. Management and morale. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)

Egypt

Civilization

Steindorff, G., and Seele, K. C. When Egypt ruled the East. (Ap '42)

Description and travel

Raswan, C. R. Drinkers of the wind. (D '42)

History

Steindorff, G., and Seele, K. C. When Egypt ruled the East. (Ap '42)

Eight million. Berger, M. (Ag '42)

Eight points of post-war world reorganization. Johnsen, J. E., comp. (S '42)

Einstein, Albert

Reichenbach, H. From Copernicus to Einstein. (S '42)

Eisenschiml, Otto

Eisenschiml, O. Without fame. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Elastic energy theory. Van Den Broek, J. A. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Elasticity

Van Den Broek, J. A. Elastic energy theory. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Elbow room. Gogarty, O. St J. (My '42)

Election law

Albright, S. D. American ballot. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Electric circuits

Jordan, E. C., and others. Fundamentals of radio. (D '42)

Reich, H. J. Principles of electron tubes. (S '42)

Electric controllers

Shoults, D. R., and Rife, C. J. Electric motors in industry. (D '42)

Electric current rectifiers

Cobine, J. D. Gaseous conductors. (Je '42)

Electric discharges through gases

Cobine, J. D. Gaseous conductors. (Je '42)

Electric engineering

Boast, W. B. Illumination engineering. (D '42)

Heine, G. M., and Dunlap, C. H. How to read electrical blueprints. (S '42)

Smith, P. de W. Modern marine electricity. (Je '42)

Handbooks, manuals, etc.

Standard handbook for electrical engineers. (Je '42)

Electric lighting

Amick, C. L. Fluorescent lighting manual. (S '42)

Kraehenbuehl, J. O. Electrical illumination. (D '42)

Electric motors

Shoults, D. R., and Rife, C. J. Electric motors in industry. (D '42)

Electric motors in industry. Shoults, D. R., and Rife, C. J. (D '42)

Electric spark

Loeb, L. B., and Meek, J. M. Mechanism of the electric spark. (Je '42)

- Electric waves
Skilling, H. H. Fundamentals of electric waves. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Electric welding
Rossi, B. E. Welding and its application. (Je '42)
- Electric wiring
Heine, G. M., and Dunlap, C. H. How to read electrical blueprints. (S '42)
- Electric wiring, interior
Whitehorne, E., ed. Electrical wiring specifications. (Je '42)
- Electrical engineering fundamentals. Corcoran, G. F., and Kurtz, E. B. (Ap '42)
- Electrical illumination. Kraehenbuehl, J. O. (D '42)
- Electrical wiring specifications. Whitehorne, E., ed. (Je '42)
- Electricity
Chalmers, B., and Quarrell, A. G. Physical examination of metals, v2. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Corcoran, G. F., and Kurtz, E. B. Electrical engineering fundamentals. (Ap '42)
- Kelly, H. C. Textbook in electricity and magnetism. (Je '42)
- Morgan, A. P. Getting acquainted with electricity. (S '42)
- Electricity on ships
Smith, P. de W. Modern marine electricity. (Je '42)
- Electrochemical analysis
Kolthoff, I. M., and Laitinen, H. A. pH and electro titrations. (O '42)
- Electrochemistry
Glasstone, S. Introduction to electrochemistry. (D '42)
- Electromagnetism
Corcoran, G. F., and Kurtz, E. B. Electrical engineering fundamentals. (Ap '42)
- Electron microscope
Burton, E. F., and Kohl, W. H. Electron microscope. (O '42)
- Electronics
Kloeffler, R. G. Principles of electronics. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Yates, R. F. Super-electricity. (D '42)
- Electronics. Millman, J., and Seely, S. (Je '42)
- Electrons
Millman, J., and Seely, S. Electronics. (Je '42)
- Electroplating
Rosslyn, J. Electro-plating and anodising. (S '42)
- Electro-plating and anodising. Rosslyn, J. (S '42)
- Elementary education of adults. Kotinsky, R. (My '42)
- Elementary plane surveying. Davis, R. E. (My '42)
- Elementary social statistics. McCormick, T. C. (Je '42)
- Elements of aeronautics. Pope, F., and Otis, A. S. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Elements of heat transfer and insulation. Jakob, M., and Hawkins, G. A. (D '42)
- Elephants
Legends and stories
Waldeck, T. J. Jamba the elephant. (N '42)
- Eleven poems on the same theme. Warren, R. P. (Je '42)
- Elizabeth, queen of England
Belloc, H. Elizabeth: creature of circumstance. (S '42)
- Elizabethan commentary. Eng title of: Elizabeth: creature of circumstance. Belloc, H. (S '42)
- Elizabeth. Rey, H. A. (Je '42)
- Elmer Squee. Brooks, R. L. (Je '42)
- Elocution
Roberts, H. De W., and others. Airlanes to English. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Emancipation of a freethinker. Cory, H. E. (My '42)
- Embargo
Atwater, E. American regulation of arms exports. (N '42)
- Embroidery
Lent, D. G. Needle point as a hobby. (Ag '42)
- Thesiger, E. Adventures in embroidery. (N '42)
- Emeralds
Rainier, P. W. Green fire. (D '42)
- Emergence of an American art. Mellquist, J. (Je '42)
- Eminent domain
Gordon, W. C. Expropriation of foreign owned property in Mexico. (O '42)
- Emperor's nephew. Magoon, M. A. W. (My '42)
- Emperor's snuff-box. Carr, J. D. (D '42)
- Employees' representation in management
Bureau of national affairs, Washington, D.C. Collective bargaining contracts. (Je '42)
- Employment agencies
Huntington, E. H. Doors to jobs. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Employment management
Niles, H. E. and M. C. H. Office supervisor. (D '42)
- Roethlisberger, F. J. Management and morale. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
- Employment problems of college students. Newman, S. C. (Je '42)
- Encyclopedias and dictionaries
Canadian pictorial library. (Ag '42)
- Consolidated encyclopaedia. (My '42)
- Modern concise encyclopedia. (My '42)
- Standard American encyclopedia. (My '42)
- End of an author. Eng title of: Death in the inkwell. Farjeon, J. J. (Ap '42)
- End of reckoning. Covert, A. L. (S '42)
- Enduring riches. Flint, M. (D '42)
- Enemy outpost. Childers, J. S. (O '42)
- Engineering
Rhodes, F. H. Technical report writing. (S '42)
- Dictionaries
Jones, F. D., ed. Engineering encyclopedia. (My '42)
- Tables, calculations, etc.
Page, E. L. Technidata hand book. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Engineering as a profession
Carlisle, N. V. Your career in engineering. (O '42)
- Engineering encyclopedia. Jones, F. D., ed. (My '42)
- Engineering surveys. Rubey, H., and others. (My '42)
- Engineering tools and processes. Hesse, H. C. (Je '42)
- England
Description and travel
Crankshaw, M. England I cannot forget. (O '42)
- Hawthorne, N. English notebooks. (Ag '42)
- Moral conditions
Jones, L. C. Clubs of the Georgian rakes. (N '42)
- Social life and customs
Allen, R. J. Life in eighteenth century England. (S '42)
- Jones, L. C. Clubs of the Georgian rakes. (N '42)
- Kronenberger, L. Kings and desperate men. (My '42)
- Quinlan, M. J. Victorian prelude. (My '42)
- Rose, W. Good neighbours. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- England I cannot forget. Crankshaw, M. (O '42)
- English drama
Clark, E. G. Raleigh and Marlowe. (My '42)
- Collections
Cerf, B. A., and Cartmell, V. H., comps. Sixteen famous British plays. (My '42)
- English fiction
Frierson, W. C. English novel in transition. (S '42)
- English language
Composition and exercises
Nurnberg, M. W. What's the good word? (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Dictionaries
Ogden, C. K., ed. General Basic English dictionary. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Webster's Universities dictionary of the English language. (My '42)

English language—Continued

Errors

Use of words

Nurnberg, M. W. What's the good word? (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Etymology

Hart, A., and Lejeune, F. A. Latin key to better English. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Idioms

Nurnberg, M. W. What's the good word? (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Rhetoric

Thomas, C. S. Your mastery of English. (Ag '42)

Semantics

Hayakawa, S. I. Language in action. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)

Slang

Berrey, L. V., and Van den Bark, M. American thesaurus of slang. (Ap '42)
Colby, E. Army talk. (Ap '42)

Synonyms

Berrey, L. V., and Van den Bark, M. American thesaurus of slang. (Ap '42)
Webster, N. Dictionary of synonyms. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

English literature

Jameson, S., ed. London calling. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

History and criticism

Reilly, J. J. Of books and men. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
Sypher, F. W. Guinea's captive kings. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
Tillotson, G. Essays in criticism and research. (S '42)

Study and teaching

Herzberg, M. J., ed. Radio and English teaching. (Ap '42)
English notebooks. Hawthorne, N. (Ag '42)
English novel in transition. Frierson, W. C. (S '42)

English poetry

Collections

Adams, F. P., ed. Innocent merriment. (N '42)
Clark, T. C., comp. Poems for life. (Ap '42)
Hayes, J. M., ed. In praise of nuns. (D '42)
Kieran, J., comp. Poems I remember. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
Ledward, P., and Strang, C., eds. Poems of this war. (D '42)
Moult, T., ed. Best poems of 1941. (S '42)
Russell, F. A., ed. Pack up your troubles. (N '42)
Untermeyer, L., ed. Treasury of great poems, English and American. (N '42)
Williams, O., ed. New poems: 1942. (Je '42)

History and criticism

Gaunt, W. Pre-Raphaelite tragedy. (S '42)
Hungerford, E. B. Shores of darkness. (N '42)
Knight, G. W. Starlit dome. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
Willey, B. Seventeenth century background. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

English-Spanish comprehensive technical dictionary of aircraft, automobile, radio, television. (My '42)

Engravings, American

Zigrosser, C. Artist in America. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Engraving

Johnson, W. H., and Newkirk, L. V. Graphic arts. (S '42)
Enjoyment of art in America. Shoolman, R. L., and Slatkin, C. E. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Enjoyment of science. Leonard, J. N. (Ap '42)

Enlightenment

Whitaker, A. P., ed. Latin America and the enlightenment. (Je '42)
Enter a murderer. Marsh, N. (S '42)

Entertaining

Fite, K., and Paine, G. C. The Cokesbury shower book. (Ap '42)

Geister, E. New ice-breakers. (S '42)

Wood, M. Parties on a shoestring. (Ap '42)
Environment and education. Burgess, E. W., and others. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Enzymes

Advances in enzymology and related subjects, v 1. (Ap '42)

Ephrata community

Klein, W. C. Johann Conrad Beissel. (Ap '42)

Epic of Latin American literature. Torres-Rioseco, A. (N '42)

Epidemics

Hill, J. H. Silent enemies. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Epitaph for Europe. Eng title of: Wreath for Europa. Tabor, P. (S '42)

Epitaph for Lydia. Rath, V. (Ap '42)

Epstein, Jacob

Black, R. Art of Jacob Epstein. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Equilibrium and kinetics of gas reactions. Pease, R. N. (D '42)

Erosion

Bennett, H. H., and Pryor, W. C. This land we defend. (N '42)

Escape from freedom. Fromm, E. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)

Eskimos

Brower, C. D., and others. Fifty years below zero. (N '42)

Especially Babe. Annett, R. R. (S '42)

Essay on Marxian economics. Robinson, J. M. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Essays

Belloc, H. Places. (Ap '42)
Hall, J. N. Under a thatched roof. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Hambidge, G. Prime of life. (Mr '42)

House, R. B. Miss Sue and the sheriff. (Mr '42)

Pegler, W. George Spelvin, American and fireside chats. (O '42)

Wallace, A. Leaves of healing. (D '42)

Warner, F. L. Inner springs. (O '42)

White, E. B. One man's meat. (Ag '42)

Woolf, V. S. Death of the moth. (S '42)

Essays in criticism and research. Tillotson, G. (S '42)

Essays on antisemitism. Conference on Jewish relations. (My '42)

Essays on Catholic education in the United States. Deferrari, R. J., ed. (N '42)

Essentials of astronomy. Duncan, J. C. (N '42)

Essentials of liberal education. Evans, D. L. (S '42)

Essentials of nursing. Young, H., and others. (N '42)

Establishment of constitutional government in Newfoundland. McIntock, A. H. (My '42)

Esthetics

Lundholm, H. Aesthetic sentiment. (My '42)

Rood, R. Color and light in painting. (My '42)

Taubes, F. You don't know what you like. (N '42)

Etchers, American

Zigrosser, C. Artist in America. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Etching

Pyle, C. Etching principles and methods. (My '42)

Ethics

Adler, M. J. Dialectic of morals. (Ap '42)

Lanz, H. In quest of morals. (Ag '42)

History

Tsanoff, R. A. Moral ideals of our civilization. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Ethiopia

Khun de Prorok, B. Dead men do tell tales. (My '42)

Ethnology

New Guinea

Crockett, C. D. House in the rain forest. (Ap '42)

Ethnopsychology

Efron, D. Gesture and environment. (Je '42)

Etiquet

Allen, B., and Briggs, M. P. If you please! (O '42)

Bailey, N. B. The table graces. (Ap '42)

- Collins, C. R. Army woman's handbook. (N '42)
 McCrady, M. E. F., and Wheeler, B. Manners for moderns. (Je '42)
 Pye, A. E., and Shea, N. B. Navy wife. (Je '42)
 Washington, G. Rules of civility and decent behaviour in company and conversation. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Wilson, M. Woman you want to be. (S '42)

Europe

Civilization

- Boak, A. E. R., and others. Growth of European civilization. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
 Contemporary Europe. (S '42)

Description and travel

- Belloc, H. Places. (Ap '42)
 Penrose, B. Urbane travelers, 1591-1635. (S '42)
 Skinner, C. O., and Kimbrough, E. Our hearts were young and gay. (D '42)
 Tabor, P. Wreath for Europa. (S '42)

Economic conditions

- Bogart, E. L. Economic history of Europe, 1760-1939. (O '42)
 Day, C. Economic development in Europe. (F '43) (1942 Annual) Einzig, P. Appeasement: before, during and after the war. (Ag '42)

History

- Boak, A. E. R., and others. Growth of European civilization. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
 Bryant, A. Years of endurance, 1793-1802. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Contemporary Europe. (S '42)
 Ferrero, G. Principles of power. (O '42)
 Hanc, J. Tornado across eastern Europe. (Ap '42)
 Hayes, C. J. H. Generation of materialism, 1871-1900. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
 Ludwig, E. Mediterranean, saga of a sea. (O '42)

Juvenile literature

- Riker, T. W. Story of modern Europe. (N '42)

Politics

- Butler, H. B. Lost peace. (My '42)
 Carr, E. H. Conditions of peace. (S '42)
 Conn, S. Gibraltar in British diplomacy in the eighteenth century. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Contemporary Europe. (S '42)
 Einzig, P. Appeasement: before, during and after the war. (Ag '42)
 Gooch, G. P. Studies in diplomacy and statescraft. (N '42)
 Guérard, A. L. France of tomorrow. (Ag '42)
 Hanc, J. Tornado across eastern Europe. (Ap '42)
 Hayes, C. J. H. Generation of materialism, 1871-1900. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
 Hoffman, R. J. S. Great republic. (Je '42)
 Lee, D. E. Ten years. (Je '42)
 Macartney, C. A. Problems of the Danube basin. (N '42)
 Schwarzschild, L. World in trance. (D '42)
 Scott, J. Duel for Europe. (N '42)
 Stolper, G. This age of fable. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
 Tabor, P. Wreath for Europa. (S '42)
 Tabouis, G. R. They called me Cassandra. (Ap '42)

Religion

- Keller, A. Christian Europe today. (O '42)
 Europe in revolt. Kraus, R. (S '42)
 Europe, Russia, and the future. Cole, G. D. H. (N '42)
 European colonial expansion since 1871. Townsend, M. E., and others. (Ag '42)
 European war, 1914-1918

Armistices

- Shartle, S. G. Spa, Versailles, Munich. (Ap '42)

Atrocities

- Read, J. M. Atrocities propaganda, 1914-1919. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)

Censorship

- Mock, J. R. Censorship 1917. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)

Economic aspects

- Adams, G. P. Wartime price control. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Baruch, B. M. American industry in the war. (Ap '42)
 Steiner, G. A., ed. Economic problems of war. (D '42)

Food question

- Mullendore, W. C. History of the United States Food administration 1917-1919. (Je '42)

Influence and results

- Schwarzschild, L. World in trance. (D '42)

Peace

- Forster, K. Failures of peace. (My '42)
 Hoover, H. C. America's first crusade. (Mr '42)
 Léon, M. How many world wars? (N '42)
 Mackinder, H. J. Democratic ideals and reality. (O '42)

Propaganda

- Read, J. M. Atrocities propaganda, 1914-1919. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)

Serbia

- Adams, J. C. Flight in winter. (Ap '42)
 European war, 1939-. See World war, 1939-
 Evaluation and investigation in home economies. Brown, C. M. (Ap '42)
 Evaluation of modern education. Leonard, J. P., and Eurich, A. C., eds. (Je '42)
 Evangelicals, revolutionists and idealists. McConnell, F. J. (F '43) (1942 Annual) Eve of St Mark. Anderson, M. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Even bishops die. Saxby, C. (S '42)
 Even my own brother. Burgan, J. (O '42)
 Everyday nursing for the everyday home. Norlin, E. E., and Donaldson, B. M. (My '42)
 Everyday things in American life. Langdon, W. C. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual) Eve's stepchildren. Jones, L. N., ed. (My '42)
 Evil. See Good and evil

Evolution

- Ley, W. Days of creation. (Ap '42)

Examinations

- Greene, H. A., and others. Measurement and evaluation in the elementary school. (Je '42)

Excess profits tax

- Hicks, J. R., and others. Taxation of war wealth. (My '42)

- Exchange ship. Hill, M. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Exercise

- Kiphuth, R. J. H. How to be fit. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Nye, D. Lady be fit! (D '42)
 Steincrohn, P. J. You don't have to exercise! (N '42)

- Exit screaming. Stevens, F. M. R. (Ag '42)
 Experience and the Christian faith. Jefferson, H. B. (Ap '42)

- Experiences in homemaking. Laitem, H. H., and Miller, F. S. (Je '42)

- Experimental physical chemistry. Palmer, W. G. (O '42)

- Exploring the curriculum. Giles, H. H., and others. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

- Expropriation of foreign owner property in Mexico. Gordon, W. C. (O '42)

- Extension of university teaching. Creese, J. (My '42)

Eye

Accommodation and refraction

- Huxley, A. L. Art of seeing. (D '42)

Care and hygiene

- Resnick, L. Eye hazards in industry. (Je '42)

Diseases and defects

- Huxley, A. L. Art of seeing. (D '42)
 Eye hazards in industry. Resnick, L. (Je '42)

- Fables. Saroyan, W. (Ap '42)

- Fabulous life of Sarah Bernhardt. Verneuil, L. (D '42)

- Fabulous people. Hubner, R. N. (S '42)

- Face of South America. Rich, J. L. (Ja '43)
(1942 Annual)
- Face of the war, 1931-1942. Cuff, S. H. (O '42)
- Facing the stars. Crowell, G. N. (Ag '42)
- Factor analysis
Holzinger, K. J., and Harman, H. H. Factor analysis. (O '42)
- Factors related to children's participation in certain types of home activity. Luecke, E. L. (My '42)
- Factory and trade waste
Eldridge, E. F. Industrial waste treatment practice. (Je '42)
- Factory inspection
Djang, T. K. Factory inspection in Great Britain. (O '42)
- Factory inspection in Great Britain. Djang, T. K. (O '42)
- Factory management
Koepke, C. A. Plant production control. (My '42)
- Maynard, H. B., and others, eds. Effective foremanship. (Ap '42)
- Fading trails. United States. National park service. (N '42)
- Failures of peace. Forster, K. (My '42)
- Fair is our land. Chamberlain, S., ed. (S '42)
- Fair woman. Vaughan, H. (Mr '42)
- Fairclough, Henry Rushton
Fairclough, H. R. Warming both hands. (N '42)
- Fairy tales
Gibson, K., ed. Tenggren tell-it-again book. (N '42)
- Faith and nurture. Smith, H. S. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
- Faith the root. Fleury, B. F. (Je '42)
- Faith under fire. Coleman, M. E. (S '42)
- Falcon of Eric the Red. Coblentz, C. C. (N '42)
- Fall of the Napoleonic kingdom of Italy (1814). Rath, R. J. (N '42)
- Fallen sparrow. Hughes, D. B. F. (O '42)
- Falling through space. Hillary, R. (Mr '42)
- Family
Arlitt, A. H. Family relationships. (Je '42)
- Bernard, J. S. American family behavior. (S '42)
- Ellenwood, J. L. It runs in the family. (Ag '42)
- Groves, E. R. Christianity and the family. (Ag '42)
- Groves, G. H. Marriage and family life. (Ag '42)
- Gruenberg, S. M., ed. Family in a world at war. (S '42)
- Myrdal, A. R. Nation and family. (Ap '42)
- Nash, E. M. With this ring. (D '42)
- Religious life
Groves, E. R. Christianity and the family. (Ag '42)
- Family album. Rothery, A. E. (My '42)
- Family honeymoon. Croy, H. (S '42)
- Family in a world at war. Gruenberg, S. M., ed. (S '42)
- Family man. Malleon, L. B. (O '42)
- Family relationships. Arlitt, A. H. (Je '42)
- Family way. Brinig, M. (My '42)
- Famous American athletes of today; eighth series. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Famous in their twenties. Himber, C. (S '42)
- Famous old New England murders. Dempe-wolff, R. (S '42)
- Fannie Farmer junior cook book. Perkins, W. L. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Far blue horizons. Howard, M. (My '42)
- Far Eastern war, 1937-1941. Quigley, H. S. (S '42)
- Farewell, pretty ladies. Massie, C. (Mr '42)
- Farm for fortune and vice versa. Haystead, L. (Ap '42)
- Farm life
Lyon, M. And green grass grows all around. (N '42)
- McDonald, A. Old McDonald had a farm. (Ap '42)
- Farm ownership, tenancy, and land use in a Nebraska community. Diller, R. (Ap '42)
- Farm primer. Teller, W. M. (S '42)
- Farm produce
Black, J. D. Parity, parity, parity. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Farmer's girl. Harland, E. M. (S '42)
- Faro's daughter. Heyer, G. (Je '42)
- Farr, Florence (Mrs Edward Emery)
Bax, C., ed. Florence Farr, Bernard Shaw, W. B. Yeats; letters. (Ap '42)
- Farragut, David Glasgow
Juvenile literature
Stevens, W. O. David Glasgow Farragut. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Fascism
South America
Fernández Artucio, H. Nazi underground in South America. (Ap '42)
- Fast by the road. Moody, J. (My '42)
- Fast Sooner hound. Bontemps, A. W., and Conroy, J. (D '42)
- Fatigue
National research council. Committee on work in industry. Fatigue of workers. (Je '42)
- Fatigue of workers. National research council. Committee on work in industry. (Je '42)
- Favored nation clause
Davis, H. O. America's trade equality policy. (N '42)
- Fear
Dollard, J. Victory over fear. (N '42)
- Fear and Miss Betony. Bowers, D. (Mr '42)
- Fear comes to Chalfont. Crofts, F. W. (S '42)
- Fear for Miss Betony. Eng title of: Fear and Miss Betony. Bowers, D. (Mr '42)
- Fear not, little flock. Zimpfer, G. (S '42)
- Fear stalks the village. White, E. L. (Ap '42)
- Federal aid and public assistance in Illinois. Miles, A. P. (My '42)
- Federal budget system in operation. Naylor, E. E. (S '42)
- Federal cooperation with the states under the commerce clause. Kallenbach, J. E. (O '42)
- Federal estate and gift taxation. Paul, R. E. (Je '42)
- Federal finances in the coming decade. Shoup, C. S. (Ap '42)
- Federal government
Pound, R., and others. Federalism as a democratic process. (D '42)
- Rougemon, D. de., and Muret, C. Heart of Europe. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
- Federal price control. Johnsen, J. E., comp. (My '42)
- Federal regulation of labor unions. Garland, J. V., comp. (My '42)
- Federalism and freedom. Young, G. (S '42)
- Federalism as a democratic process. Pound, R., and others. (D '42)
- Feeding the lions. Case, F. (Ag '42)
- Felicity way. Girvan, H. (Je '42)
- Feminine faces. Chappell, C. G. (D '42)
- Fencing
Breckinridge, S. D. and S. D., Jr. Sword play. (Ap '42)
- The fetch. Eng title of: The spectral bride. Shearing, J. (S '42)
- Fiction (books about)
History and criticism
Haines, H. E. What's in a novel. (S '42)
- Haycraft, H. Murder for pleasure. (1941, 1942 Annuals)
- Fiction (classified according to subject)
Abolition movement
Stern, P. V. Drums of morning. (S '42)
- Actors and actresses
Davis, F. Quicksilver. (O '42)
- Derleth, A. W. Sweet Genevieve. (Ag '42)
- Adolescence
Aldis, D. K. Poor Susan. (D '42)
- Amrine, M. All sons must say goodbye. (O '42)
- Daly, M. Seventeenth summer. (Je '42)
- Fetzer, H. Come back to Wayne county. (D '42)
- Field, H. Stormy present. (S '42)
- Hutchinson, A. S.-M. It happened like this. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Laverty, M. Never no more. (Ap '42)
- Osborn, M. E. Days beyond recall. (D '42)
- Simmons, H. Lark. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Adventure
Buchan, J. Adventurers all. (O '42)
- Charteris, L. Saint goes West. (Ag '42)
- Costain, T. B. For my great folly. (S '42)

Delehanty, E. Arise from sleep. (My '42)
 Garth, D. Manila masquerade. (Ag '42)
 Garth, D. Thunderbird. (Je '42)
 Gill, T. North to danger. (D '42)
 Gilman, LaS. Golden horde. (N '42)
 Hughes, D. B. F. Fallen sparrow. (O '42)
 Myers, J. M. Out on any limb. (S '42)
 Wright, M. E. Begun in laughter. (O '42)
 Yates, M. T. Murder by the yard. (Ja '43)
 (1942 Annual)

Allegories

Goodman, P. Grand piano. (O '42)

Americanization

D'Agostino, G. Hills beyond Manhattan. (Mr '42)

Animal stories

Coyle, K. Major, and the others. (D '42)
 Salten, F. Forest world. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Salten, F. Good comrades. (Ap '42)

Cats

Coyle, K. Josephine. (Je '42)

Dogs

Chamberlain, G. A. Bride of Bridal Hill. (D '42)

Horses

Chamberlain, G. A. Phantom filly. (Mr '42)
 Downey, F. D. War horse. (Je '42)
 Howard, F. R. View from a window. (Ag '42)

Architects

D'Agostino, G. Hills beyond Manhattan. (Mr '42)

Armenians in the United States

Saroyan, W. Fables. (Ap '42)

Army life

Aldrich, B. S. Lieutenant's lady. (O '42)
 Seifert, E. Army doctor. (Ap '42)

Artists

Havill, E. Tell it to the laughing stars. (My '42)

Authors

Groseclose, E. E. The fire-drake. (Mr '42)
 Parrott, K. U. T. One more such victory. (Ag '42)
 Powell, D. A time to be born. (O '42)
 White, N. G. Daughter of time. (My '42)

Automobile industry

MacGlashan, K. Horseless buggy. (D '42)

Aviation

Parrott, K. U. T. Heaven's not far away. (N '42)

Aviators

Aldridge, J. Signed with their honour. (S '42)
 Claymore, T. Flare path. (N '42)
 Falk, O. Thunder birds. (S '42)
 Shann, R. Air force girl. (Je '42)

Basques in the United States

Colton, N. Rivers are frozen. (Ap '42)

Biblical stories

Douglas, L. C. Robe. (N '42)
 Hardy, W. G. All the trumpets sounded. (S '42)
 Komroff, M. In the years of our Lord. (My '42)
 Sutphen, W. G. van T. I, Nathanael, knew Jesus. (Ap '42)

Biographical novels

Bernadette Soubirous, Saint

Werfel, F. V. Song of Bernadette. (Je '42)

Bothwell, James Hepburn, 4th earl of

Irwin, M. E. F. Gay Galliard. (Mr '42)

Boulanger, Georges Ernest

Jean Marie

Gorman, H. S. Brave general. (Mr '42)

Crockett, David

Brown, D. Wave high the banner. (Je '42)

Dickinson, Emily

Benét, L. Come slowly, Eden. (O '42)

Eckel, Mrs Elsa (St John)

Bonn, J. L. And down the days. (My '42)

Hamilton, Emma, lady

Field, B. Bride of glory. (Ap '42)

Josephus, Flavius

Feuchtwanger, L. Josephus and the emperor. (Ap '42)

Mansfield, Katherine

White, N. G. Daughter of time. (My '42)

Mary Stuart, queen of Scots

Irwin, M. E. F. Gay Galliard. (Mr '42)

Moses

Hardy, W. G. All the trumpets sounded. (S '42)

Robeson, Paul

Miers, E. S. Big Ben. (My '42)

Rubens, Sir Peter Paul

Harsanyi, Z. Lover of life. (Ap '42)

Villon, François

Deutsch, B. Rogue's legacy. (Ap '42)

Washington, George

Fast, H. M. Unvanquished. (Ag '42)

Boys

Freeman, M. J. Bitter honey. (Mr '42)
 Teilhet, D. L. Trouble is my master. (My '42)

Townsend, T. Gabriel and the angels. (Ag '42)

Brothers

Robinson, M. L. Island noon. (Ap '42)

Business

Evens, E. Rise of Daniel Cavour. (Ap '42)

Business depression

Kerr, S. Michael's girl. (Ap '42)

Cathedral towns

Wilson, M. B. Canon Brett. (Mr '42)

Character studies

Babson, N. L. Look down from heaven. (O '42)

Bellamann, H. Floods of spring. (Je '42)

Borst, B. Nearer the earth. (S '42)

Brooks, A. Hang my heart. (S '42)

Brush, K. I. Boy from Maine. (Ag '42)

Capek, K. Cheat. (Ag '42)

Chevalier, E. P. Drivin' woman. (S '42)

Collins, N. Quiet lady. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Comstock, H. T. Windy Corners. (Je '42)

Covert, A. L. End of reckoning. (S '42)

Creed, V. Voyage of the heart. (D '42)

Davenport, M. Valley of decision. (N '42)

Davis, C. B. Follow the leader. (S '42)

De Ford, M. A. Shaken with the wind. (S '42)

Evens, E. S. Rise of Daniel Cavour. (Ap '42)

Feiner, R. Young woman of Europe. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Field, R. L. And now tomorrow. (Je '42)

Flint, M. Enduring riches. (D '42)

Glaspell, S. Norma Ashe. (N '42)

Hahn, E. Mr Pan. (Je '42)

Helseth, H. E. Devil's behind you. (Ag '42)

Horan, K. O. I give thee back. (Mr '42)

Horgan, P. Common heart. (D '42)

Hough, H. B. All things are yours. (O '42)

Hueston, E. P. This one kindness. (Ag '42)

Huie, W. B. Mud on the stars. (Ag '42)

Hutchinson, A. S.-M. It happened like this. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Kahler, W. Giant dwarf. (N '42)

Kapstein, I. J. Something of a hero. (Ag '42)

Lane, M. Walk into my parlor. (Mr '42)

McKee, R. E. Storm Point. (D '42)

Malleson, L. B. Family man. (O '42)

Marks, P. Full flood. (O '42)

Mitchell, S. V. No second spring. (My '42)

Powell, D. A time to be born. (O '42)

Robertson, C. N. Salute to the hero. (Ap '42)

Rogers, S. Flora Shawn. (My '42)

Ronald, J. Old soldiers never die. (Ag '42)

Ross, L. B. Stranger. (N '42)

Schmitt, G. Gates of Aulis. (Je '42)

Swinnerton, F. A. Thankless child. (D '42)

Thompson J. M. Now and on earth. (Je '42)

Fiction—Character studies—Continued

- Van Doren, D. G. Dacey Hamilton. (O '42)
 Walpole, H. The killer and the slain. (Je '42)
 Wells, H. G. You can't be too careful. (Je '42)
 Weston, C. Devil's foot. (My '42)
 Wolff, M. M. Night shift. (D '42)

Children, Stories about

- Benson, S. Meet me in St. Louis. (Ag '42)
 Corbett, E. F. Kimball collection. (Ap '42)
 Croy, H. Family honeymoon. (S '42)
 Freeman, M. J. Bitter honey. (Mr '42)
 Godden, R. Breakfast with the Nikolides. (Mr '42)

- Maclean, C. M. Seven for Cordelia. (Mr '42)
 Morley, C. D. Thorofare. (D '42)
 Norway, N. S. Pied Piper. (Mr '42)
 Richter, C. Tacey Cromwell. (D '42)
 Ronald, J. Old soldiers never die. (Ag '42)
 Suckow, R. New Hope. (Ap '42)
 Sullivan, R. Summer after summer. (N '42)

Christmas stories

- Borden, L. P. Shining tree. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Clairvoyance

- Lane, M. Walk into my parlor. (Mr '42)

Clergy

- Haystead, L. Preacher's kid. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Suckow, R. New Hope. (Ap '42)
 Taylor, K. Until that day. (O '42)
 Wilson, M. B. Canon Brett. (Mr '42)

Concentration camps

- Seghers, A. Seventh cross. (O '42)

Conscientious objectors to war

- Carfrae, E. Lonely road. (S '42)

Corruption in politics

- Cain, J. M. Love's lovely counterfeit. (N '42)

Cotton industry

- Faulkner, J. Dollar cotton. (O '42)

Cowboys

- James, W. American cowboy. (Ap '42)

Crime and criminals

- Algren, N. Never come morning. (My '42)
 Burnett, W. R. Quick brown fox. (Mr '42)
 Cooper, C. R. Action in diamonds. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
 Long, G. M. V. C. Spectral bride. (S '42)
 Odium, J. Night and no moon. (Je '42)
 Savory, G. Hughie Roddis. (My '42)
 Totheroh, D. Deep valley. (S '42)
 Young, F. B. Man about the house. (S '42)

Dancers

- Howard, M. Tomorrow's hero. (S '42)

Department stores

- Halper, A. Little people. (N '42)

Detective stories

- See Fiction—Mystery and detective stories

Diaries (stories in diary form)

- Field, H. Stormy present. (S '42)

Doctors

- See Fiction—Physicians

Dutch in the United States

- White, G. A. Free as the wind. (My '42)

Espionage

- Roberts, K. Center of the web. (Je '42)

European war, 1914-1918

- Davis, C. B. Follow the leader. (S '42)
 Downey, F. D. War horse. (Je '42)

European war, 1939-

- See Fiction—World war, 1939-

Family chronicles

- Davenport, M. Valley of decision. (N '42)
 Hobart, A. T. N. Cup and the sword. (O '42)
 Holt, I. Aunt Jessie. (Ap '42)
 Kenyon, T. Pendulum. (Je '42)

- Keyes, F. P. Crescent carnival. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Matschat, C. H. Tavern in the town. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Mitchell, S. V. No second spring. (My '42)
 Parrott, K. U. T. Nothing ever ends. (S '42)
 Ritzer, A. K. G. Shelter without walls. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

- Standish, R. Three bamboos. (D '42)
 Stern, G. B. Young matriarch. (N '42)
 White, G. A. Free as the wind. (My '42)
 Yenni, J. T. House for the sparrow. (Mr '42)

Family life

- Aydelotte, D. Measure of a man. (S '42)
 Ball, H. Each alone. (Je '42)
 Benson, S. Meet me in St. Louis. (Ag '42)
 Bring, M. Family way. (My '42)
 Bruce, E. Call her Rosie. (N '42)
 Corbett, E. F. Early summer. (N '42)
 Corbett, E. F. Kimball collection. (Ap '42)
 De Sherbinin, B. Bindweed. (My '42)
 Dufus, R. L. Victory on West hill. (S '42)
 LeBlanc, D. K. Dear to this heart. (O '42)
 Lieferant, H. and S. S. They always come home. (Ap '42)
 Lutes, D. T. Cousin William. (D '42)
 Malleson, L. B. Family man. (O '42)
 Maurois, A. Time for silence. (Ap '42)
 Parmenter, C. W. Golden age. (O '42)
 Sullivan, R. Summer after summer. (N '42)
 Wolff, M. M. Night shift. (D '42)

Fantasies

- Boyden, P. C. Pink egg. (My '42)
 Fearing, K. Clark Gifford's body. (S '42)
 Jameson, S. Then we shall hear singing. (N '42)
 Pratt, F., and De Camp, L. S. Land of unreason. (S '42)
 Sackville-West, V. M. Grand canyon. (N '42)
 Vaughan, H. Fair woman. (Mr '42)
 Welty, E. Robber bridegroom. (N '42)

Farm life

- Bellamann, H. Floods of spring. (Je '42)
 Bolster, E. Come gentle spring. (Je '42)
 Dorrance, W. A. Sundowners. (S '42)
 Fetzer, H. Come back to Wayne county. (D '42)
 Hayes, C. E. Four winds. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Jackson, D. D. Archer Pilgrim. (Je '42)
 Stringer, A. J. A. Intruders in Eden. (Je '42)
 Wilgus, A. Tad Potter. (S '42)

Fathers and daughters

- Swinnerton, F. A. Thankless child. (D '42)

Fathers and sons

- Hutchens, J. Timothy Larkin. (Ap '42)
 Williams, B. A. Time of peace. (D '42)

Finns in the United States

- Babson, N. L. Look down from heaven. (O '42)

Forests and forestry

- Wright, H. B. Man who went away. (O '42)

French in the United States

- D'Agostino, G. Hills beyond Manhattan. (Mr '42)

Frontier and pioneer life

- Aldrich, B. S. Lieutenant's lady. (O '42)
 Alves, J. Huldah. (S '42)
 Briggs, W. H. Dakota in the morning. (O '42)
 Brown, D. Wave high the banner. (Je '42)
 Covert, A. L. End of reckoning. (S '42)
 Fletcher, I. C. Men of Albemarle. (N '42)
 Kelland, C. B. Sugarfoot. (N '42)
 Pettibone, A. Light down, stranger. (S '42)
 Ross, L. B. Stranger. (N '42)
 Turnbull, A. S. Day must dawn. (N '42)

Future, Novels of the

- Morton, H. C. V. I. James Blunt. (S '42)

Gambling

- Heyer, G. Faro's daughter. (Je '42)

Gangsters

- Cain, J. M. Love's lovely counterfeit. (N '42)

Germans in Pennsylvania

- Caldwell, J. T. Strong city. (My '42)

Ghost stories

Sechrist, E. H., ed. Thirteen ghostly yarns. (S '42)
Stern, P. V., ed. Midnight reader. (My '42)

Gold mines and mining

Botsford, H. V. Ashes of gold. (Je '42)
Corle, E. Coarse Gold. (N '42)

Golf

Gallico, P. W. Golf is a friendly game. (O '42)

Grandmothers

Laverty, M. Never no more. (Ap '42)

Guerrillas

Caldwell, E. All night long. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Historical novels

America—Discovery and exploration period

Maass, E. Don Pedro and the devil. (My '42)

Canada

Lancaster, B. Bright to the wanderer. (Je '42)

Chinese-Japanese war, 1931-

Buck, P. S. Dragon seed. (Mr '42)
Hsiao, C. Village in August. (Je '42)

England

Costain, T. B. For my great folly. (S '42)
Daly, R. W. Soldier of the sea. (O '42)
Morley, I. We stood for freedom. (Mr '42)
Pilgrim, D. No common glory. (My '42)

France

Collins, N. Quiet lady. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
Gorman, H. S. Brave general. (Mr '42)
Lewis, J. Wife of Martin Guerre. (My '42)
Neumann, A. Friends of the people. (Je '42)

Germany—Nazi movement

Sinclair, U. B. Dragon's teeth. (Mr '42)
Taylor, K. Until that day. (O '42)

Italy

Green, A. Lady in the mask. (Ap '42)

Jameson's raid, 1895-1896

Sinclair, K. H. N-W. Westward the sun. (Ap '42)

Mexico

Wellman, P. I. Angel with spurs. (Je '42)

Napoleonic wars

Daly, R. W. Soldier of the sea. (O '42)

Nova Scotia

Raddall, T. H. His Majesty's Yankees. (D '42)

Panama

Cochran, H. Windward passage. (Je '42)

Rome (empire)

Feuchtwanger, L. Josephus and the emperor. (Ap '42)

Scotland

Irwin, M. E. F. Gay Galliard. (Mr '42)

South America

Williams, J. Coasts of folly. (Mr '42)

South Carolina

Sims, M. M. Beyond surrender. (D '42)

Spain

Maass, E. Don Pedro and the devil. (My '42)
Osgood, C. J. Eagle of the Gredos. (N '42)
Sabatini, R. Columbus. (Mr '42)

Spanish civil war, 1936-1939

O'Malley, M. D. S. Frontier passage. (O '42)

Texas

Baker, K. W. Star of the wilderness. (Je '42)

United States

Peattie, D. C. Forward the nation. (Je '42)

United States—Colonial period

Cabell, J. B. First gentleman of America. (Mr '42)
Cannon, L. Look to the mountain. (Ag '42)

United States—Bacon's rebellion

Schachner, N. King's passenger. (Je '42)
Scruggs, P. L. Man cannot tell. (Ap '42)

United States—King Philip's war

Schofield, W. G. Ashes in the wilderness. (O '42)

United States—French and Indian war

Jennings, J. E. Gentleman ranker. (O '42)

United States—To 1776

Singmaster, E. High wind rising. (D '42)

United States—Revolution

Boyce, B. Perilous night. (Mr '42)
Bryson, J. G. Valiant libertine. (Je '42)
Dodge, C. W. Weathercock. (N '42)
Fast, H. M. Unvanquished. (Ag '42)
Mason, V. Rivers of glory. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
Raddall, T. H. His Majesty's Yankees. (D '42)
Safford, H. B. Tory tavern. (S '42)
Turnbull, A. S. Day must dawn. (N '42)
Wiener, W. Morning in America. (D '42)

United States (1783-1865)

Sperry, A. No brighter glory. (O '42)

United States—Constitutional period, 1789-1809

Carmer, C. L. Genesee fever. (Mr '42)

United States—Nineteenth century

Allis, M. Splendor stays. (D '42)

United States—Civil war

Crabb, A. L. Dinner at Belmont. (Ap '42)
Hutchens, J. Timothy Larkin. (Ap '42)
Robertson, C. N. Salute to the hero. (Ap '42)
Stern, P. V. Drums of morning. (S '42)
Street, J. H. Tap roots. (S '42)
Votaw, C. E. Patriotism. (My '42)

United States—Reconstruction period, 1865

Sims, M. M. Beyond surrender. (D '42)
Young, G. R. Iron rainbow. (D '42)

Horror tales

Rice, C. Telefair. (Ap '42)
Long, G. M. V. C. Spectral bride. (S '42)
Walpole, H. The killer and the slain. (Je '42)

Horse racing

Chamberlain, G. A. Phantom filly. (Mr '42)
Phillips, A. Victory in the dust. (My '42)

Hospitals and sanatoriums

Carter, H. D. Night of flame. (Ag '42)
Seifert, E. Surgeon in charge. (O '42)

Hotels, taverns, etc.

Walden, D. Season. (Ag '42)
Webster, B. Magic water. (Je '42)

Humor

Bezzarides, A. I. There is a happy land. (Je '42)
Croy, H. Family honeymoon. (S '42)
Eisenberg, F. My Uncle Newt. (D '42)
Knight, E. Sam Small flies again. (Ap '42)
Lasswell, M. Suds in your eye. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
Morris, W. My Uncle Dudley. (My '42)
Wodehouse, P. G. Money in the bank. (Mr '42)

Imaginary wars and battles

Frost, F. M. Village of glass. (S '42)
Sackville-West, V. M. Grand canyon. (N '42)

Indians of Mexico

Botsford, H. V. Ashes of gold. (Je '42)

Indians of North America

Cabell, J. B. First gentleman of America. (Mr '42)
Foreman, L. L. Renegade. (Ag '42)
Turnbull, A. S. Day must dawn. (N '42)
Waters, F. Man who killed the deer. (Ag '42)

Insanity

Du Maurier, A. Treveryan. (N '42)

Fiction—Continued

Intermingled lives

DeJong, D. C. Benefit Street. (N '42)
Halper, A. Little people. (N '42)

International intrigue

Bayne, S. Agent extraordinary. (S '42)
Ferguson, J. A. Terror on the island. (My '42)
Frankau, G. Air ministry, room 28. (Mr '42)
I am Saxon Ashe, Author of. Saxon Ashe, secret agent. (My '42)
MacInnes, H. Assignment in Brittany. (S '42)
Marquand, J. P. Last laugh, Mr. Moto. (Mr '42)
Mason, V. Oriental division, G-2. (S '42)
Tolman, H. Hero by proxy. (S '42)

Inter-racial marriages

Sapieha, V. P. R. Beyond this shore. (Ap '42)

Jews and Jewish life

Asch, S. Children of Abraham. (My '42)
Feuchtwanger, L. Josephus and the emperor. (Ap '42)
Lewisohn, L. Renegade. (Ap '42)
Lipton, L. Brother, the laugh is bitter. (Je '42)

Journalists

Bugbee, E. Peggy covers the clipper. (Ap '42)

Law and lawyers

Cozzens, J. G. Just and the unjust. (S '42)
Longstreet, S. Gay sisters. (Mr '42)

Legendary history

Petit Marfan, M. La Quintrala. (N '42)

Leprosy

Tempski, A. von. Thunder in heaven. (N '42)

Locality

Africa, North

Home, M. House of shade. (N '42)

Alaska

Darling, E. B. No boundary line. (Ag '42)

Arctic regions

Kaverin, V. A. Two captains. (Je '42)

Argentina

De Sherbinin, B. Bindweed. (My '42)

Arizona

Falk, O. Thunder birds. (S '42)
Kelland, C. B. Sugarfoot. (N '42)
Richter, C. Tacey Cromwell. (D '42)
Sackville-West, V. M. Grand canyon. (N '42)

Arkansas

Medearis, M. Big Doc's girl. (O '42)

Austria (Vienna)

Baum, V. Marion alive. (Mr '42)
Sapieha, V. P. R. Beyond this shore. (Ap '42)

Belgium

Wilkins, W. V. Seven Tempest. (Mr '42)

California

Fenton, F. Place in the sun. (S '42)
Hauck, L. P. Gardenias for Sue. (Je '42)
Hobart, A. T. N. Cup and the sword. (O '42)
Howard, F. R. View from a window. (Ag '42)
Jones, I. Vineyard. (D '42)
McKee, R. E. Storm Point. (D '42)
Marks, P. Full flood. (O '42)
Norris, K. T. Apple for Eve. (N '42)
Norris, K. T. Dina Cashman. (Je '42)
Ross, L. B. Stranger. (N '42)
Simmons, H. Lark. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
Totheroh, D. Deep valley. (S '42)
White, S. E. Stampede. (Mr '42)
Wright, H. B. Man who went away. (O '42)

California (Hollywood)

Willson, D. Hollywood starlet. (Ag '42)

California (Los Angeles)

Kirkbride, R. de L. Broken melody. (N '42)

California (San Diego)

Thompson, J. M. Now and on earth. (Je '42)

California (San Francisco)

Atherton, G. F. H. Horn of life. (N '42)
Lewis, O. I remember Christine. (My '42)

Canada

Childers, J. S. Enemy outpost. (O '42)
Gill, T. North to danger. (D '42)
Sallans, G. H. Little man. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
Stringer, A. J. A. Intruders in Eden. (Je '42)

Canada (northwestern)

White, A. L. W. Tomorrow is another day. (My '42)

Canada (Nova Scotia)

Harris, C. One braver thing. (O '42)

Central America

Shedd, M. Hurricane caye. (Je '42)

Ceylon

Spittel, R. L. Savage sanctuary. (Je '42)

Chile

Petit Marfan, M. La Quintrala. (N '42)

China

Hahn, E. Mr Pan. (Je '42)
Riasanovsky, A. F. P. Children. (My '42)
Schoyer, P. Foreigners. (Ap '42)

Connecticut

Brown, S. Burning wheel. (N '42)
Cooper, L. F. Lighted box. (Ap '42)

Czechoslovakia (Prague)

Heym, S. Hostages. (N '42)

Dakotas

Briggs, W. H. Dakota in the morning. (O '42)

Egypt

Howard, M. Far blue horizons. (My '42)

England

Baur, B. White Queen. (O '42)
Black, D. My love belongs to me. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
Collins, N. Quiet lady. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
Gibbs, P. H. Long alert. (My '42)
Mason, A. E. W. Musk and amber. (S '42)
Myers, J. M. Out on any limb. (S '42)
Pakington, H. Our Aunt Auda. (Ap '42)
Seymour, B. K. S. Happy ever after. (My '42)
Waugh, E. Put out more flags. (Je '42)
Wilkins, W. V. Seven Tempest. (Mr '42)

England (provincial and rural)

Baker, F. Full score. (My '42)
Carfrae, E. Autumn glory. (S '42)
Goudge, E. Castle on the hill. (Je '42)
Hutchinson, A. S.-M. It happened like this. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
Malleson, L. B. Home is the heart. (Ap '42)
Pedler, M. B. Then came the test. (Ag '42)
Priestley, J. B. Black-out in Gretley. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
Ronald, J. Old soldiers never die. (Ag '42)
Savory, G. Hughie Roddis. (My '42)
Thielens, G. O. Moon lies fair. (Je '42)
Thirkell, A. M. Marling Hall. (N '42)
Thirkell, A. M. Northbridge rectory. (Mr '42)
Young, F. B. Man about the house. (S '42)

England (Cornwall)

Du Maurier, A. Treveryan. (N '42)
Du Maurier, D. Frenchman's creek. (Mr '42)
Farnol, J. Valley of night. (N '42)
Lee, C. J. Cornish tales. (S '42)

England (Devonshire)

Macardle, D. Uninvited. (S '42)

England (London)

Campbell, A. O. Ringed with fire. (S '42)
Heyer, G. Faro's daughter. (Je '42)
Lane, M. Walk into my parlor. (Mr '42)
Leslie, D. O House in the dust. (Ap '42)
Sheldon, J. P. Miss Bronska. (Mr '42)

England (Shropshire)

Pargeter, E. People of my own. (Mr '42)

England (Sussex)

Kaye-Smith, S. Secret son. (Mr '42)

Florida

Baldwin, F. Blue Horizons. (Mr '42)
 Chambers, W. Amigo. (Mr '42)
 Cooper, C. R. Action in diamonds. (F '43)
 (1942 Annual)
 Page, C. Resort hotel. (N '42)
 Wilder, R. Flamingo road. (Je '42)

France

Collins, N. Quiet lady. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Foster, E. Days between. (Je '42)
 Hillyer, R. S. My heart for hostage. (N '42)
 Lewisohn, L. Renegade. (Ap '42)
 Longstreet, S. Sound of an American. (N '42)
 Macinnes, H. Assignment in Brittany. (S '42)
 Wheatley, D. V for vengeance. (O '42)

France (provincial and rural)

Kent, M. Mass of Brother Michel. (Je '42)
 Maurois, A. Time for silence. (Ap '42)

France (Paris)

Bromfield, L. Until the day break. (Je '42)
 Coyle, K. Josephine. (Je '42)
 Coyle, K. To hold against famine. (Mr '42)

Georgia

Cheney, B. River rogue. (S '42)
 Hanna, E. Sugar in the gourd. (Mr '42)
 Steedman, M. But you'll be back. (S '42)

Germany

Seghers, A. Seventh cross. (O '42)

Great Lakes

Doner, M. F. Glass mountain. (O '42)

Great Plains region

Annett, R. R. Especially Babe. (S '42)

Hawaiian Islands

Tempski, A. von. Thunder in heaven. (N '42)

Idaho

Bolster, E. Come gentle spring. (Je '42)

Illinois

Aydelotte, D. Measure of a man. (S '42)
 Sorensen, V. E. Little lower than the angels.
 (Je '42)

Illinois (Chicago)

Algren, N. Never come morning. (My '42)
 Halper, A. Little people. (N '42)
 Holt, I. Aunt Jessie. (Ap '42)
 Phillip, Q. M. We who died last night. (My '42)
 Roberts, E. K. Little hell—big heaven. (O '42)

India

Godden, R. Breakfast with the Nikolides.
 (Mr '42)

Indo-China, French

Makhali-Phäl. Young concubine. (My '42)

Iowa

Jackson, D. D. Archer Pilgrim. (Je '42)
 Stong, P. D. One destiny. (D '42)

Ireland

Laverty, M. Never no more. (Ap '42)
 Lavin, M. Tales from Bective bridge. (Ag '42)

Ireland (Dublin)

Strong, L. A. G. The bay. (Mr '42)

Italy

Delehanty, E. Arise from sleep. (My '42)
 Mason, A. E. W. Musk and amber. (S '42)
 Silone, I. Seed beneath the snow. (S '42)
 Young, F. B. Man about the house. (S '42)

Japan

Hubner, R. N. Fabulous people. (S '42)
 Standish, R. Three bamboos. (D '42)

Kansas

Amrine, M. All sons must say goodbye. (O '42)
 Bretherton, V. R. Rock and the wind. (My '42)
 Hayes, C. E. Four winds. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Swain, V. Dollar gold piece. (N '42)

Kentucky

Alves, J. Huldah. (S '42)
 Campbell, M. Cloud-walking. (N '42)
 Chevalier, E. P. Drivin' woman. (S '42)

Libya

Home, M. Attack in the desert. (Mr '42)

Long Island

Carouso, D. Open then the door. (Mr '42)

Louisiana

Basso, H. Sun in Capricorn. (O '42)
 Matthews, H. River-bottom boy. (N '42)

Louisiana (New Orleans)

Keyes, F. P. Crescent carnival. (Ja '43)
 (1942 Annual)
 La Farge, O. Copper pot. (Ag '42)
 Ripley, C. Mississippi belle. (Ap '42)

Maine

Carroll, G. H. Head of the line. (Ap '42)
 Flint, M. Enduring riches. (D '42)
 McIntire, M. P. Carey Brown. (Je '42)
 Robinson, M. L. Island noon. (Ap '42)
 Tibbott, F. M. Simon Hastings. (S '42)
 Weston, C. Devil's foot. (My '42)

Maryland

Alexander, H. M. Selina. (Je '42)
 Bailey, T. Pink camellia. (S '42)
 Bledsoe, W. Fiddle Longspay. (Ag '42)
 Sylvester, H. Dearly beloved. (Ap '42)

Maryland (Baltimore)

Tucker, A. Man Miss Susie loved. (D '42)

Massachusetts

Babson, N. L. Look down from heaven. (O '42)
 Parrott, K. U. T. Nothing ever ends. (S '42)

Massachusetts (Boston)

Groseclose, E. E. The firedrake. (Mr '42)
 Williams, B. A. Time of peace. (D '42)

Massachusetts (Cape Cod)

Bassett, S. W. Sea magic. (S '42)
 Holton, E. A. All sails set. (Je '42)
 Nathan, R. Sea-gull cry. (S '42)

Mexico

Baker, C. House of the Roses. (O '42)
 Botsford, H. V. Ashes of gold. (Je '42)
 Fernandez de Lizardi, J. J. Itching parrot.
 (Ap '42)
 Menéndez, M. A. Nayar. (Mr '42)

Michigan

Fleury, B. F. Faith the root. (Je '42)
 Horan, K. O. I give thee back. (Mr '42)
 White, G. A. Free as the wind. (My '42)
 Wolff, M. M. Night shift. (D '42)

Minnesota

Chute, M. G. Sheriff Olson. (Ap '42)
 Lundeberg, O. K. The song of Aino. (Ap '42)
 Stong, P. D. Iron Mountain. (Mr '42)

Mississippi

Faulkner, J. Dollar cotton. (O '42)
 Kroll, H. H. Rider on the bronze horse. (S '42)
 LeBlanc, D. K. Dear to this heart. (O '42)
 Overstreet, C. Coffee cream. (N '42)
 Richards, R. W. I can lick seven. (S '42)
 Russell, W. Robert Cain. (D '42)
 Street, J. H. Tap roots. (S '42)

Mississippi river

Branch, H., and Waters, F. River Lady. (Ap '42)

Missouri

Bellamann, H. Floods of spring. (Je '42)
 Dorrance, W. A. Sundowners. (S '42)
 Hutchens, J. Timothy Larkin. (Ap '42)

Missouri (St Louis)

Benson, S. Meet me in St. Louis. (Ag '42)

Nantucket

Frost, E. H. This side of land. (O '42)

Netherlands

Albrand, M. No surrender. (N '42)
 I am Saxon Ashe, Author of. Saxon Ashe, secret agent. (My '42)

Fiction—Locality—Continued

Netherlands Indies

Boecop-Mayle, M. T. C. barones van. Roots. (S '42)

Nevada

Corle, E. Coarse Gold. (N '42)

New England

Field, R. L. And now tomorrow. (Je '42)
Frost, F. M. Village of glass. (S '42)
Hicks, G. Only one storm. (My '42)
Wylie, I. A. R. Keeper of the flame. (Je '42)

New Hampshire

Cannon, L. Look to the mountain. (Ag '42)

New Mexico

Foster, J. O. In the night did I sing. (Mr '42)

New York (city)

Barnard, J. L. Land of promise. (O '42)
Colton, N. Rivers are frozen. (Ap '42)
Edmonds, W. D. Young Ames. (Mr '42)
Hurst, F. Lonely parade. (Mr '42)
Kahler, W. Giant dwarf. (N '42)
Liefertant, H. and S. S. Heavenly harmony. (O '42)
Ostenso, M. Love passed this way (Ap '42)
Powell, D. A time to be born. (O '42)
Ross, I. Isle of escape. (O '42)
Shaw, I. Welcome to the city. (Mr '42)
Van Doren, D. G. Dacey Hamilton. (O '42)

New York (city) (Bronx)

Manoff, A. Telegram from heaven. (O '42)

New York (city) (East Side)

Kandel, A. Stones begin to dance. (O '42)

New York (state)

Boyce, B. Perilous night. (Mr '42)
Carmer, C. L. Genesee fever. (Mr '42)
D'Agostino, G. Hills beyond Manhattan. (Mr '42)
Osborn, M. E. Days beyond recall. (D '42)
Walden, D. Season. (Ag '42)

North Carolina

Dodge, C. W. Weathercock. (N '42)
Fletcher, I. C. Men of Albemarle. (N '42)

Norway

Arnold, E. Commandos. (Je '42)
Woods, W. H. Edge of darkness. (My '42)

Oklahoma

Covert, A. L. End of reckoning. (S '42)
Kantor, M. Gentle Annie. (S '42)

Oregon

Bretherton, V. R. Rock and the wind. (My '42)

Pennsylvania

Jordan, M. A. Apple in the attic. (O '42)
Schmitt, G. Gates of Aulis. (Je '42)
Singmaster, E. High wind rising. (D '42)
Turnbull, A. S. Day must dawn. (N '42)
Webster, B. Magic water. (Je '42)

Pennsylvania (Philadelphia)

Burt, M. S. Along these streets. (Mr '42)
Teilhet, D. L. Trouble is my master. (My '42)

Pennsylvania (Pittsburgh)

Davenport, M. Valley of decision. (N '42)
Hubbard, L. Rivers to the sea. (Je '42)

Poland

Sapieha, V. P. R. Beyond this shore. (Ap '42)

Puerto Rico

Conrad, B. Caribbean conspiracy. (O '42)

Rhode Island (Providence)

DeJong, D. C. Benefit Street. (N '42)

Russia

Caldwell, E. All night long. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
Skarlatina, I. Tamara. (Mr '42)

Sahara desert

Hichens, R. S. New way of life. (Ap '42)

Scotland

Maclean, C. M. Seven for Cordelia. (Mr '42)
Stevenson, D. E. Spring magic. (Mr '42)

South Africa

Sinclair, K. H. N-W. Westward the sun. (Ap '42)

South Africa (Rhodesia)

Jervis, V. M. S. Flowering harvest. (My '42)

South America

Gill, T. Wildcat 13. (Ap '42)

South Carolina

Murray, C. S. Here come Joe Mungin. (Mr '42)
Weld, J. Sabbath has no end. (Ap '42)

Spain

Osgood, C. J. Eagle of the Gredos. (N '42)

Sweden

Geijerstam, R. A. Three wives. (Je '42)

Tennessee

Crabb, A. L. Dinner at Belmont. (Ap '42)

Tennessee (Memphis)

Ripley, C. Mississippi belle. (Ap '42)

Texas

Taylor, R. M. Saddle and the plow. (N '42)

United States (middlewestern)

Chidester, A. Young Pandora. (S '42)
Derleth, A. W. Sweet Genevieve. (Ag '42)
Kapstein, I. J. Something of a hero. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
Suckow, R. New Hope. (Ap '42)

United States (northwestern)

Aldrich, B. S. Lieutenant's lady. (O '42)
Haig-Brown, R. L. H. Timber. (Ap '42)

United States (southern)

Ramsey, R. Fire in summer. (Ap '42)

United States (southwestern)

Horgan, P. Common heart. (D '42)

United States (western)

Adams, S. H. Harvey girls. (N '42)
Brand, M. Silvertip. (Mr '42)
Brand, M. Silvertip's strike. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
Douglas, T. W. Border range. (Ap '42)
Drago, H. S. Buckskin empire. (My '42)
Drago, H. S. Partners of the Badlands. (N '42)
Field, P. Fight for Powder valley! (Ag '42)
Field, P. Law man of Powder valley. (D '42)
Field, P. Powder Valley pay-off. (My '42)
Field, P. Trail south from Powder Valley. (My '42)
Foreman, L. L. Renegade. (Ag '42)
Foster, B. Maverick. (Ag '42)
Foster, B. Winter quarters. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
Glidden, J. H. Long ride. (N '42)
Gooden, A. H. Roaring River range. (My '42)
Gregory, J. Border line. (My '42)
Gregory, J. Man from Texas. (D '42)
Gregory, J. Two in the wilderness. (O '42)
Grey, S. Majesty's rancho. (N '42)
Grinstead, J. E. The killers of Green's Cove. (Ap '42)
Gruber, F. Gunsight. (N '42)
Haycox, E. Alder Gulch. (My '42)
Hendryx, J. B. Gold and guns on Halfaday creek. (Ag '42)
Kent, W. H. B. Tenderfoot. (N '42)
MacDonald, W. C. Boomtown buccaneers. (D '42)
MacDonald, W. C. Crimson quilt. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
MacDonald, W. C. Riddle of Ramrod Ridge. (Ag '42)
MacDonald, W. C. Shadow rider. (Mr '42)
Mann, E. B. Gunsmoke trail. (Ag '42)
Nye, N. C. Gunfighter breed. (My '42)
Nye, N. C. Salt River ranny. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
Raine, W. M. Damyank. (O '42)
Raine, W. M. Justice deferred. (Je '42)
Seltzer, C. A. So long, sucker. (Ap '42)
Short, L. Sunset graze. (N '42)

Tuttle, W. C. Mystery of the red triangle. (Ap '42)
 Tuttle, W. C. Valley of vanishing herds. (N '42)
 Young, G. R. Iron rainbow. (D '42)

Vermont

Duffus, R. L. Victory on West hill. (S '42)
 Garth, D. Thunderbird. (Je '42)

Virginia

Beverley-Giddings, A. R. Larrish Hundred. (Ap '42)
 Matschat, C. H. Tavern in the town. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Weaver, J. D. Wind before rain. (My '42)

Washington (state)

Johnson, D. M. Beulah Bunny tells all. (O '42)
 Pettibone, A. Light down, stranger. (S '42)

West Indies

Garth, D. Thunderbird. (Je '42)

West Virginia

Field, H. Stormy present. (S '42)

Wisconsin

Daly, M. Seventeenth summer. (Je '42)

Yugoslavia

Tamás, I. Sergeant Nikola. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Love stories

Adams, S. H. Tambay gold. (D '42)
 Alexander, H. M. Selina. (Je '42)
 Allen, S. E. Not hers alone. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Bailey, T. Pink camellia. (S '42)
 Baldwin, F. Blue Horizons. (Mr '42)
 Bassett, S. W. Sea magic. (S '42)
 Beebe, E. T. R. From this day forward. (My '42)
 Black, D. My love belongs to me. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Book of Ariel. (Je '42)
 Colver, A. M. R. Forever is so long. (Je '42)
 Daly, M. Seventeenth summer. (Je '42)
 Darling, E. B. No boundary line. (Ag '42)
 Duley, M. Novelty on earth. (Je '42)
 Grapewin, C. E. Meg Randall. (D '42)
 Greig, M. Diplomatic honeymoon. (S '42)
 Greig, M. Girl from nowhere. (Je '42)
 Hauck, L. P. Gardenias for Sue. (Je '42)
 Hill, G. L. Girl of the woods. (My '42)
 Hill, G. L. Street of the city. (D '42)
 Hillyer, R. S. My heart for hostage. (N '42)
 Holton, E. A. All sails set. (Je '42)
 Howard, M. Tomorrow's hero. (S '42)
 Inglis-Jones, E. Loving heart. (Ap '42)
 Lambert, R. When next we meet. (Ag '42)
 McCord, J. Walls of Jericho. (Ap '42)
 McMeekin, C. Welcome soldier! (Ap '42)
 Matschat, C. H. Tavern in the town. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Miller, H. T. Sheridan road. (S '42)
 Norris, K. T. Apple for Eve. (N '42)
 Norris, K. T. Dina Cashman. (Je '42)
 Ostenso, M. Love passed this way. (Ap '42)
 Page, C. Resort hotel. (N '42)
 Parrott, K. U. T. Heaven's not far away. (N '42)
 Pedler, M. B. Then came the test. (Ag '42)
 Roberts, C. One small candle. (S '42)
 Scott, W. M. W. Happiness round the corner. (Ap '42)
 Seifert, E. Surgeon in charge. (O '42)
 Shann, R. Air force girl. (Je '42)
 Stevenson, D. E. Spring magic. (Mr '42)
 Widdemer, M. Angela comes home. (N '42)

Lumber industry

Cheney, B. River rogue. (S '42)
 Haig-Brown, R. L. H. Timber. (Ap '42)
 Tibbott, F. M. Simon Hastings. (S '42)

Marriage problems

Allen, S. E. Not hers alone. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Barnard, J. L. Land of promise. (O '42)
 Bolster, E. Come gentle spring. (Je '42)
 Carfrae, E. Autumn glory. (S '42)
 Carouso, D. Open then the door. (Mr '42)
 Connell, V. Chinese room. (D '42)
 Cooper, L. F. Lighted box. (Ap '42)
 Flint, M. Enduring riches. (D '42)

Geijerstam, R. A. Three wives. (Je '42)
 Hume, D. M. This right I claim. (Ag '42)
 Lawrence, J. There is today. (N '42)
 Moore, I. Other woman. (Je '42)

Marriage versus a career

Parrott, K. U. T. One more such victory. (Ag '42)

Mining

Corle, E. Coarse Gold. (N '42)
 Stong, P. D. Iron Mountain. (Mr '42)

Missionaries

Groseclose, E. E. The firedrake. (Mr '42)

Mormons and Mormonism

Fryor, E. And never yield. (Je '42)
 Sorensen, V. E. Little lower than the angels. (Je '42)

Mountain whites (South)

Campbell, M. Cloud-walking. (N '42)
 Field, H. Stormy present. (S '42)

Murder stories

Long, G. M. V. C. Spectral bride. (S '42)
 Massie, C. Farewell, pretty ladies. (Mr '42)
 Wallis, J. H. Once off guard. (Ap '42)
 Walpole, H. The killer and the slain. (Je '42)

Musicians

Baker, F. Full score. (My '42)
 Kirkbride, R. de L. Broken melody. (N '42)
 Lieferant, H. and S. S. Heavenly harmony. (O '42)

Mystery and detective stories

Abbey, K. And let the coffin pass. (My '42)
 Acre, S. Yellow overcoat. (D '42)
 Adams, C. F. Private eye. (O '42)
 Adams, C. F. What price murder. (Ag '42)
 Archer, R. Case of the vanishing women. (O '42)
 Armstrong, C. Lay on Mac Duff! (Ap '42)
 Avery, A. A. Anything for a quiet life. (Je '42)
 Bagby, G. A. Murder calling 50. (S '42)
 Bailey, H. C. The apprehensive dog. (Ap '42)
 Bailey, H. C. Meet Mr Fortune. (Ag '42)
 Bailey, H. C. Nobody's vineyard. (O '42)
 Baker, C. House of the Roses. (O '42)
 Ballard, W. T. Say yes to murder. (N '42)
 Barber, W. A., and Schabelitz, R. F. Drawn conclusion. (Mr '42)
 Barber, W. A., and Schabelitz, R. F. Murder enters the picture. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Barry, J. Leopard cat's cradle. (N '42)
 Bentley, J. Mr Marlow takes to rye. (Ap '42)
 Bishop, M. G. Widening stain. (Mr '42)
 Bloch, B. The Bach festival murders. (Ap '42)
 Boniface, M. Venom in Eden. (O '42)
 Bosworth, A. R. Full crash dive. (Mr '42)
 Boutell, A. Cradled in fear. (D '42)
 Bowers, D. Fear and Miss Betony. (Mr '42)
 Branson, H. C. Pricking thumb. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Bronson, F. W. Uncas island murders. (S '42)
 Brown, Z. Murder with southern hospitality. (Mr '42)
 Brown, Z. J. Murder in the O.P.M. (S '42)
 Burgess, G. Ladies in boxes. (Je '42)
 Burke, N. Shivering bough. (O '42)
 Burke, R. Chinese Red. (O '42)
 Burke, R. Here lies the body. (Mr '42)
 Burton, M. Death at Ash house. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Carr, J. D. Emperor's snuff-box. (D '42)
 Carr, J. D. Gilded man. (Ag '42)
 Chambers, W. Bring me another murder. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Chandler, R. High window. (S '42)
 Christie, A. M. The body in the library. (Ap '42)
 Christie, A. M. Moving finger. (N '42)
 Christie, A. M. Murder in retrospect. (Ag '42)
 Clark, M. B. Model corpse. (My '42)
 Clements, E. H. Perhaps a little danger. (S '42)
 Cole, G. D. H. and M. I. P. Knife in the dark. (My '42)
 Cole, G. D. H. and M. I. P. Toper's end. (N '42)
 Coles, M. They tell no tales. (Mr '42)
 Collins, M. G. Dead center. (Ap '42)
 Collins, M. G. Only the good. (O '42)
 Connell, V. Chinese room. (D '42)

Fiction—Mystery and detective stories—Cont.
 Cooper, C. R. Action in diamonds. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
 Coxo, G. H. Assignment in Guiana. (My '42)
 Coxo, G. H. Charred witness. (N '42)
 Coxo, G. H. Silent are the dead. (Mr '42)
 Crane, F. K. Golden box. (Je '42)
 Crane, F. K. Yellow violet. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
 Crofts, F. W. Fear comes to Chalfont. (S '42)
 Cunningham, A. B. Bancock murder case. (N '42)
 Cunningham, A. B. Death at the Bottoms. (Je '42)
 Curzon, C. Body in the barrage balloon. (S '42)
 Daly, E. House without the door. (S '42)
 Daniels, N. A. Mausoleum key. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Darby, R. Beauty sleep. (My '42)
 Davis, F. C. Deep lay the dead. (N '42)
 Dawson, C. B. Remind me to forget. (My '42)
 Dean, R. G. Layoff. (Mr '42)
 Dean, R. G. On ice. (S '42)
 Disney, D. C., and Perry, G. S. Thirty days hath September. (D '42)
 Dodge, D. Shear the black sheep. (S '42)
 Dresser, D. Corpse came calling. (S '42)
 Dresser, D. Michael Shayne takes over. (N '42)
 DuBois, T. M. Body goes round and round. (My '42)
 Eberhart, M. G. Wolf in man's clothing. (D '42)
 Fair, A. A. Bats fly at dusk. (N '42)
 Fair, A. A. Owls don't blink. (S '42)
 Farjeon, J. J. Death in the inkwell. (Ap '42)
 Farjeon, J. J. Judge sums up. (S '42)
 Farnol, J. Valley of night. (N '42)
 Fenisong, R. Murder needs a face. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Fenisong, R. Murder needs a name. (Je '42)
 Ferrars, E. Shape of a stain. (S '42)
 Field, M. Blood on her shoe. (Je '42)
 Fitt, M. Death finds a target. (My '42)
 Fitzsimmons, C. Death rings a bell. (S '42)
 Fleming, R. Night freight murders. (My '42)
 Footner, H. House with the blue door. (N '42)
 Forester, C. S. Payment deferred. (Mr '42)
 Fourth mystery book. (D '42)
 Francis, W. Kill or cure. (O '42)
 Francis, W. Rough on rats. (Ap '42)
 Frankau, G. Air ministry, room 28. (Mr '42)
 Freeman, R. A. Unconscious witness. (Ap '42)
 Gaines, A. The voodoo goat. (Ap '42)
 Gardner, E. S. Case of the careless kitten. (O '42)
 Gardner, E. S. Case of the drowning duck. (Je '42)
 Gardner, E. S. D.A. cooks a goose. (Mr '42)
 Glidden, J. H. Gunsmoke graze. (S '42)
 Goldman, R. L. Murder behind the mike. (Mr '42)
 Goldthwaite, E. K. Don't mention my name. (S '42)
 Gruber, F. Buffalo box. (O '42)
 Gruber, F. Gift horse. (N '42)
 Gruber, F. Mighty blockhead. (Ap '42)
 Gunn, J. E. Deadlier than the male. (Je '42)
 Hammett, D. Complete Dashiell Hammett. (S '42)
 Hanson, V. Mystery for Mary. (Ag '42)
 Haycraft, H., ed. Crime club encore. (D '42)
 Heard, G. Murder by reflection. (N '42)
 Heard, G. Reply paid. (Ap '42)
 Heberden, M. V. Deadline for destruction. (My '42)
 Heberden, M. V. Murder follows Desmond Shannon. (My '42)
 Heberden, M. V. Murder makes a racket. (D '42)
 Hilliard, A. R. Outlaw island. (N '42)
 Hocking, A. Poison is a bitter brew. (My '42)
 Holding, E. S. Kill joy. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Holding, E. S. Lady killer. (Je '42)
 Holman, H. Death like thunder. (Ag '42)
 Howie, E. Murder at Stone house. (My '42)
 Howie, E. Murder's so permanent. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Hughes, D. B. F. Fallen sparrow. (O '42)
 Jenkins, W. F. Man who feared. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Jones, I. Albatross murders. (Ap '42)
 Kantor, M. Gentle Annie. (S '42)
 Karlova, I. Dreadful hollow. (O '42)

Keeler, H. S. Bottle with the green wax seal. (Ap '42)
 King, F. Design in evil. (Ag '42)
 Knight, C. Affair of the splintered heart. (N '42)
 Knight, K. M. Bells for the dead. (D '42)
 Knight, K. M. Terror by twilight. (S '42)
 Lauferty, L. Crimson thread. (Ap '42)
 Lee, M. V. Model is murdered. (O '42)
 Lee, G. R. Mother finds a body. (N '42)
 Leffingwell, A. Frightened man. (Ag '42)
 Lewis, L. Murder among friends. (S '42)
 Lewis, M. C. M. Heads you lose. (Ap '42)
 Little, C. and G. Black thumb. (N '42)
 Lockridge, F. L. Hanged for a sheep. (N '42)
 Lockridge, F. L. D. and R. Death on the aisle. (Je '42)
 Long, M. Vicious circle. (Je '42)
 Lord, G. She never grew old. (S '42)
 McCloy, H. Cue for murder. (N '42)
 McCullo, H. Who's calling? (My '42)
 McCully, W. Death rides tandem. (D '42)
 MacQueen, J. W. Death among doctors. (Ag '42)
 Mainwaring, D. Street of the crying woman. (S '42)
 Malleson, L. B. Mystery in the woodshed. (Ag '42)
 Mannon, M. M. Here lies blood. (Je '42)
 Mario, Q. Murder meets Mephisto. (Mr '42)
 Marlett, M. Devil builds a chapel. (My '42)
 Marsh, N. Enter a murderer. (S '42)
 Marsh, N. Man lay dead. (Mr '42)
 Maurice, A. B. Riddle of the Rovers. (Mr '42)
 Mecham, P. And not for love. (D '42)
 Michel, M. S. X-ray murders. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Millar, M. Devil loves me. (S '42)
 Millar, M. Weak-eyed bat. (Ap '42)
 Mitchell, G. When last I died. (My '42)
 Moore, H. F. S. Murder goes rolling along. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Offord, L. G. Clues to burn. (Ag '42)
 Olsen, D. B. Alarm of the black cat. (Mr '42)
 Oppenheim, E. P. Man who changes his plea. (Je '42)
 Oursler, W. C. Folio on Florence White. (S '42)
 Parmer, C. B. Murder at the Kentucky Derby. (O '42)
 Pentecost, H. I'll sing at your funeral. (Ap '42)
 Perdue, V. Case of the foster father. (O '42)
 Petersen, H. Murder R. F. D. (Ap '42)
 Phillips, J. P. Fourteenth trump. (N '42)
 Phillips, J. A. Case of the shivering chorus girls. (Je '42)
 Phillpotts, E. Deed without a name. (S '42)
 Pierson, E. M. Defense rests. (My '42)
 Popkin, Z. No crime for a lady. (O '42)
 Purtell, J. To a blindfold lady. (S '42)
 Queen, E. Calamity town. (My '42)
 Queen, E., ed. Sporting blood. (D '42)
 Rath, V. Epitaph for Lydia. (Ap '42)
 Rath, V. Posted for murder. (O '42)
 Rawlings, F. L. Lipping man. (D '42)
 Rawson, C. No coffin for the corpse. (S '42)
 Rea, M. L. P. Death walks the Dry Tortugas. (S '42)
 Reed, W. Marked for murder. (Ap '42)
 Reilly, H. K. Name your poison. (S '42)
 Rice, C. Big midget murders. (Ag '42)
 Rice, C. Sunday Pigeon murders. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Rice, C. Telefair. (Ap '42)
 Rinehart, M. R. Haunted lady. (Je '42)
 Roos, K. Frightened stiff. (N '42)
 Rowe, A. Little dog barked. (Ap '42)
 Russell, C. M. Message of the mute dog. (Mr '42)
 Russell, C. M. Murder steps in. (D '42)
 Rutland, H. Blue murder. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Sale, R. Lazarus #7. (Ap '42)
 Sale, R. Passing strange. (S '42)
 Sampson, R. H. Unfortunate murderer. (Ap '42)
 Saxby, C. Death wore roses. (Mr '42)
 Saxby, C. Even bishops die. (S '42)
 Scherf, M. They came to kill. (S '42)
 Schmidt, J. N. Murder, chop chop. (Mr '42)
 Seifert, A. Three blind mice. (Ap '42)
 Shane, S. Lady in danger. (Ap '42)
 Shriber, I. S. Body for Bill. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Simenon, G. Maigret and M. Labbé. (S '42)
 Spain, J. Dig me a grave. (D '42)
 Stein, A. M. Only the guilty. (Ap '42)
 Sterling, S. Five alarm funeral. (Ap '42)
 Stevens, F. M. R. Exit screaming. (Ag '42)
 Stewart, A. W. No past is dead. (Ag '42)
 Stewart, J. I. M. Daffodil affair. (O '42)
 Stout, R. Black orchids. (Je '42)
 Street, C. J. C. Dead of the night. (O '42)
 Street, C. J. C. Fourth bomb. (Mr '42)
 Talbot, H. Hangman's Handyman. (O '42)
 Taylor, P. A. Six iron spiders. (Ag '42)
 Taylor, P. A. Three plots for Asey Mayo. (D '42)

Teague, R. T. M. and W. D. You can't ignore murder. (Ag '42)
 Thayer, L. Murder is out. (Ap '42)
 Thayer, L. Murder on location. (S '42)
 Three star mystery book. (D '42)
 Torrey, W. Midsummer night's murder. (My '42)
 Treat, L. H. as in hangman. (O '42)
 Tuttle, W. C. Mystery of the red triangle. (Ap '42)
 Venning, M. Man who slept all day. (S '42)
 Wahl, A. E. H. Handsome, but dead. (O '42)
 Walling, R. A. J. Corpse with the eerie eye. (Je '42)
 Warren, J. R. Magpie murder. (Mr '42)
 Webb, J. F. No match for murder. (Ap '42)
 Webb, R. W. and Wheeler, H. C. Yellow taxi. (Je '42)
 Wellard, J. H. Snake in the grass. (O '42)
 Wells, A. M. Talent for murder. (S '42)
 Wells, C. Murder will in. (Ag '42)
 Wells, C. Who killed Caldwell? (Ap '42)
 Wells, S. Death is my name. (Ap '42)
 White, E. L. Fear stalks the village. (Ap '42)
 White, E. L. Her heart in her throat. (S '42)
 White, W. A. P. Case of the seven sneezes. (Je '42)
 White, W. A. P. Rocket to the morgue. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Wilde, P. Tinsley's bones. (S '42)
 Wilson, M. Footsteps behind her. (Mr '42)
 Wolfe, K. Attic room. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Woolrich, C. Black alibi. (My '42)
 Woolrich, C. Phantom lady. (S '42)
 Yates, M. T. Murder by the yard. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Negro life

Matthews, H. River-bottom boy. (N '42)
 Miers, E. S. Big Ben. (My '42)
 Murray, C. S. Here come Joe Mungin. (Mr '42)

Negro problem

Russell, W. Robert Cain. (D '42)
 Weld, J. Sabbath has no end. (Ap '42)

Newspaper life

Harrington, J. Scandal rag. (O '42)

Nurses and nursing

Baldwin, F. Breath of life. (Ag '42)
 Carter, H. D. Night of flame. (Ag '42)
 Deming, D. Ginger Lee: war nurse. (Ap '42)
 Gardner, M. S. So build we. (D '42)
 Marshall, M. M. Arms and the girl. (Je '42)

Orphans

Kuszmaul, R. Nobody's children. (D '42)

Overland journeys to the Pacific

Terrell, J. U. Plume rouge. (S '42)

Painters

La Farge, O. Copper pot. (Ag '42)

Petroleum industry and trade

Gill, T. Wildcat 13. (Ap '42)

Physicians

Baldwin, F. Breath of life. (Ag '42)
 Brand, M. Dr Kildare's trial. (N '42)
 Carter, H. D. Night of flame. (Ag '42)
 Hart, A. Dr Finlay sees it through. (Ag '42)
 Horgan, P. Common heart. (D '42)
 Medearis, M. Big Doc's girl. (O '42)
 Seifert, E. Army doctor. (Ap '42)
 Seifert, E. Surgeon in charge. (O '42)
 Slaughter, F. G. Spencer Brade. M.D. (My '42)

Picaresque novels

Fernández de Lizardi, J. J. Itching parrot. (Ap '42)
 Moore, W. Breathe the air again. (Mr '42)

Pirates

Cochran, H. Windward passage. (Je '42)
 Costain, T. B. For my great folly. (S '42)
 Du Maurier, D. Frenchman's creek. (Mr '42)

Plantation life

Sims, M. M. Beyond surrender. (D '42)
 Weld, J. Sabbath has no end. (Ap '42)

Politics

Basso, H. Sun in Capricorn. (O '42)
 Jordan, E. G. Young John takes over. (Ag '42)
 Sims, M. M. Beyond surrender. (D '42)
 Wilder, R. Flamingo road. (Je '42)

Poor

Algren, N. Never come morning. (My '42)
 Bezzerides, A. I. There is a happy land. (Je '42)
 McIntire, M. P. Carey Brown. (Je '42)

Proletarian novels

Tully, J. Biddy Brogan's boy. (My '42)

Prostitution

Algren, N. Never come morning. (My '42)

Psychic phenomena

Macardle, D. Uninvited. (S '42)

Psychological novels

Boutell, A. Cradled in fear. (D '42)
 Davis, K. S. In the forests of the night. (Ap '42)
 Hamilton, P. Hangover square. (Mr '42)
 McCarthy, M. T. Company she keeps. (Je '42)
 Massie, C. Farewell, pretty ladies. (Mr '42)
 Nin, A. Winter of artifice. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 O'Farrell, W. Repeat performance. (D '42)
 Ramsey, R. Fire in summer. (Ap '42)
 Rogers, S. Flora Shawn. (My '42)
 Savory, G. Hughie Roddis. (My '42)
 Smith, R. A. Sun dial. (Ag '42)
 Steinbeck, J. Moon is down. (Ap '42)
 Stone, G. Z. Reprisal. (D '42)
 Swinnerton, F. A. Thankless child. (D '42)
 Wallis, J. H. Once off guard. (Ap '42)
 Walpole, H. The killer and the slain. (Je '42)

Railroads

Bedwell, H. Boomer. (S '42)
 Young, G. R. Iron rainbow. (D '42)

Refugees

Foster, E. Days between. (Je '42)
 Nathan, R. Sea-gull cry. (S '42)
 Riasanovsky, A. F. P. Children. (My '42)
 Sheldon, J. P. Miss Bronska. (Mr '42)

Refugees, Child

Davis, J. Sun climbs slow. (Ag '42)
 Maclean, C. M. Seven for Cordelia. (Mr '42)
 Norway, N. S. Pied Piper. (Mr '42)

Refugees, Political

Harris, C. One braver thing. (O '42)

Reincarnation

Deeping, W. I live again. (O '42)

Religion

Van Keuren, F. Open door. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Religious psychology

Reed, T. Catalyst. (D '42)

Restaurants, lunch-rooms, etc.

Adams, S. H. Harvey girls. (N '42)

Roman Catholic faith

Kent, M. Mass of Brother Michel. (Je '42)

Roman Catholic priests

Fleury, B. F. Faith the root. (Je '42)
 Sylvester, H. Dearly beloved. (Ap '42)

Romance

Du Maurier, D. Frenchman's creek. (Mr '42)
 Green, A. Lady in the mask. (Ap '42)
 Smith, E. F. Man in grey. (Mr '42)

Fiction—Continued

Sabotage

- Heberden, M. V. Stolen squadron. (Ja '43)
(1942 Annual)
Kagey, R. Impostor. (S '42)
Miller, H. T. Sheridan road. (S '42)

Satire

- Brinig, M. Family way. (My '42)
De Polnay, P. Magnificent idiot. (N '42)
Kahler, W. Giant dwarf. (N '42)
Patch, H. R. Cupid on the stairs. (F '43)
(1942 Annual)
Powell, D. A time to be born. (O '42)
Pratt, F., and De Camp, L. S. Land of unreason. (S '42)
Pratt, T. Mr Limpet. (Mr '42)

School and college life

- Crawford, P. Last semester. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
Miers, E. S. Big Ben. (My '42)
Reck, F. M. Varsity letter. (Ag '42)

Sea stories

- Bosworth, A. R. Full crash dive. (Mr '42)
Cochran, H. Windward passage. (Je '42)
Conrad, J. Conrad argosy. (D '42)
Fernald, J. Destroyer from America. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
Hunt, H. East of Farewell. (O '42)
Nordhoff, C. B., and Hall, J. N. Men without country. (Ag '42)
Smith, R. A. Sun dial. (Ag '42)

Sex problems

- Connell, V. Chinese room. (D '42)

Shipbuilding

- Groseclose, E. E. The firedrake. (Mr '42)

Short stories

- Asch, S. Children of Abraham. (My '42)
Bates, R. The undiscoverables. (Ap '42)
Benét, S. V. Selected works. (Ag '42)
Carroll, G. H. Head of the line. (Ap '42)
Chute, M. G. Sheriff Olson. (Ap '42)
Farrell, J. T. $1,000 a week. (My '42)
Faulkner, W. Go down, Moses. (Je '42)
Fleming, P. Story to tell. (My '42)
Flores, A., and Poore, D., eds. Fiesta in November. (S '42)
Gallico, P. W. Golf is a friendly game. (O '42)
Garth, D. Manila masquerade. (Ag '42)
Hahn, E. Mr Pan. (Je '42)
Holmes, W. J. Rendezvous. (Mr '42)
James, H. Representative selections. (N '42)
Knight, E. Sam Small flies again. (Ap '42)
Komroff, M. All in our day. (N '42)
Lavin, M. Tales from Bective bridge. (Ag '42)
Lee, C. J. Cornish tales. (S '42)
Mariella, Sister, comp. Great modern Catholic short stories. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
Nichols, B. Men do not weep. (Ag '42)
O. Henry memorial award. Prize stories of 1942. (D '42)
Queen, E., ed. Sporting blood. (D '42)
Reck, F. M. Varsity letter. (Ag '42)
Saroyan, W. Fables. (Ap '42)
Saturday Evening Post. Post stories of 1941. (Ag '42)
Shaw, I. Welcome to the city. (Mr '42)
Valtin, J. Bend in the river. (My '42)
Warfel, H. R., and Orians, G. H., eds. American local-color stories (S '42)
Wren, P. C. Odd—but even so. (S '42)

Showboats

- Derleth, A. W. Sweet Genevieve. (Ag '42)

Singers

- Hough, H. B. All things are yours. (O '42)
Mason, A. E. W. Musk and amber. (S '42)
Miers, E. S. Big Ben. (My '42)

Sisters

- Hanna, E. Sugar in the gourd. (Mr '42)
Longstreet, S. Gay sisters. (Mr '42)
Malschat, C. H. Tavern in the town. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
Proctor, E. E. Turning leaves. (D '42)
Young, F. B. Man about the house. (S '42)

Slavery

- Stern, P. V. Drums of morning. (S '42)
Weld, J. Sabbath has no end. (Ap '42)

Small town life

- Chidester, A. Young Pandora. (S '42)
Davis, C. B. Follow the leader. (S '42)
Freeman, M. J. Bitter honey. (Mr '42)
Russell, W. Robert Cain. (D '42)
Savory, G. Hughie Roddis. (My '42)
Suckow, R. New Hope. (Ap '42)

Social conditions and problems

- Baur, B. White Queen. (O '42)
Burgan, J. Even my own brother. (O '42)
Manoff, A. Telegram from heaven. (O '42)
Matthews, H. River-bottom boy. (N '42)
Richter, C. Tacey Cromwell. (D '42)
Roberts, E. K. Little hell—big heaven. (O '42)

Spies

- Baker, C. House of the Roses. (O '42)
Bayne, S. Agent extraordinary. (S '42)
Beeding, F. Twelve disguises. (Ag '42)
Brogan, D. W. Stop on the green light. (Je '42)
Campbell, A. O. Ringed with fire. (S '42)
Childers, J. S. Enemy outpost. (O '42)
Coles, M. They tell no tales. (Mr '42)
Conrad, B. Caribbean conspiracy. (O '42)
De Voto, B. A. Advance agent. (Mr '42)
Holton, E. A. All sails set. (Je '42)
Hughes, D. B. F. Fallen sparrow. (O '42)
I am Saxon Ashe, Author of. Saxon Ashe, secret agent. (My '42)
Kagey, R. Impostor. (S '42)
King, M. W. Flood tide and stars. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
MacInnes, H. Assignment in Brittany. (S '42)
Marquand, J. P. Last laugh, Mr. Moto. (Mr '42)
Miller, H. T. Sheridan road. (S '42)
O'Neil, K. Death at Dakar. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
Priestley, J. B. Black-out in Gretley. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
Riess, C. High stakes. (S '42)
Ross, I. Isle of escape. (O '42)
Stevenson, D. E. Crooked Adam. (D '42)
Three famous spy novels. (S '42)
Wentworth, P. Pursuit of a parcel. (Je '42)
Wheatley, D. Black baroness. (Je '42)
Wheatley, D. Scarlet impostor. (Mr '42)
Wheatley, D. V for vengeance. (O '42)
Yates, M. T. Murder by the yard. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Sports

- Reck, F. M. Varsity letter. (Ag '42)
Queen, E., ed. Sporting blood. (D '42)

Stage coach lines

- Harper, R. S. Road to Baltimore. (S '42)

Steamboats

- Hubbard, L. Rivers to the sea. (Je '42)

Steel industry

- Caldwell, J. T. Strong city. (My '42)
Davenport, M. Valley of decision. (N '42)

Submarines

- Bosworth, A. R. Full crash dive. (Mr '42)
Holmes, W. J. Rendezvous. (Mr '42)

Supernatural phenomena

- Long, G. M. V. C. Spectral bride. (S '42)

Teachers

- Johnson, D. M. Beulah Bunny tells all. (O '42)

Temperance and intemperance

- Davis, K. S. In the forests of the night. (Ap '42)

Textile industry

- Field, R. L. And now tomorrow. (Je '42)

Theater and stage life

- Davis, F. Quicksilver. (O '42)

Tobacco

- Chevalier, E. P. Drivin' woman. (S '42)

Translated stories

Czechoslovakian

- Čapek, K. Cheat. (Ag '42)

French

- Maurois, A. Time for silence. (Ap '42)
 Neumann, A. Friends of the people. (Je '42)
 Romains, J. New day. (Ap '42)

German

- Weiskopf, F. C. Dawn breaks. (My '42)

Hungarian

- Harsanyi, Z. Lover of life. (Ap '42)

Italian

- Silone, I. Seed beneath the snow. (S '42)

Russian

- Kaverin, V. A. Two captains. (Je '42)

Spanish

- Fernández de Lizardi, J. J. Itching parrot. (Ap '42)
 Flores, A., and Poore, D., eds. Fiesta in November. (S '42)

Swedish

- Geijerstam, R. A. Three wives. (Je '42)

Yiddish

- Asch, S. Children of Abraham. (My '42)

Trials

- Cozzens, J. G. Just and the unjust. (S '42)

Utopias

- Wright, A. T. Islandia. (My '42)

Voyages around the world

- Creed, V. Voyage of the heart. (D '42)

War

- Hemingway, E., ed. Men at war. (D '42)
 Steinbeck, J. Moon is down. (Ap '42)
 White, M. If we should fail. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Wealth

- Longstreet, S. Gay sisters. (Mr '42)

Widows

- Cushman, C. F. Young widow. (My '42)
 Jaynes, C. Instruct my sorrows. (Ap '42)

Wine and wine making

- Hobart, A. T. N. Cup and the sword. (O '42)
 Jones, I. Vineyard. (D '42)

Women

- Baldwin, F. Five women in three novels. (O '42)
 Hale, M. Prodigal women. (O '42)
 Hurst, F. Lonely parade. (Mr '42)
 Kenyon, T. Pendulum. (Je '42)
 Lyttle, J. Today the sun rises. (N '42)
 Richter, C. Tacey Cromwell. (D '42)

World war, 1939-

- Albrand, M. No surrender. (N '42)
 Aldridge, J. Signed with their honour. (S '42)
 Arnold, E. Commandos. (Je '42)
 Beeding, F. Twelve disguises. (Ag '42)
 Black, D. My love belongs to me. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Boyle, K. Primer for combat. (D '42)
 Brophy, J. Immortal sergeant. (Ag '42)
 Caldwell, E. All night long. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Campbell, A. O. Ringed with fire. (S '42)
 Carfrae, E. Lonely road. (S '42)
 Carse, R. Unconquered. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Childers, J. S. Enemy outpost. (O '42)
 Claymore, T. Flare path. (N '42)
 Coles, M. This fortress. (O '42)
 Coyle, K. To hold against famine. (Mr '42)
 Elford, O. Men in black. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
 Ferguson, J. A. Terror on the island. (My '42)
 Fernand, J. Destroyer from America. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Frankau, G. Air ministry, room 28. (Mr '42)
 Garth, D. Thunderbird. (Je '42)
 Gibbs, P. H. Long alert. (My '42)
 Goudge, E. Castle on the hill. (Je '42)
 Heym, S. Hostages. (N '42)
 Holmes, W. J. Open fire! (S '42)
 Home, M. Attack in the desert. (Mr '42)
 Home, M. House of shade. (N '42)
 Hunt, H. East of Farewell. (O '42)

- I am Saxon Ashe, Author of. Saxon Ashe, secret agent. (My '42)

- Innes, H. Attack alarm. (Ap '42)
 Jameson, S. Fort. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
 Kagey, R. Impostor. (S '42)
 Longstreet, S. Sound of an American. (N '42)
 MacInnes, H. Assignment in Brittany. (S '42)
 Maclean, G. M. Seven for Cordelia. (Mr '42)
 Malleson, L. B. Home is the heart. (Ap '42)
 Maugham, W. S. Hour before the dawn. (Ag '42)
 Nordhoff, C. B., and Hall, J. N. Men without country. (Ag '42)
 Norway, N. S. Pied Piper. (Mr '42)
 Pozner, V. Edge of the sword. (Je '42)
 Priestley, J. B. Black-out in Gretley. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
 Raymond, E. Last to rest. (Mr '42)
 Roberts, K. Center of the web. (Je '42)
 Ronald, J. Old soldiers never die. (Ag '42)
 Ross, I. Isle of escape. (O '42)
 Seghers, A. Seventh cross. (O '42)
 Shann, R. Air force girl. (Je '42)
 Sheldon, J. P. Miss Bronska. (Mr '42)
 Stevenson, D. E. Crooked Adam. (D '42)
 Stevenson, D. E. Spring magic. (Mr '42)
 Stone, G. Z. Reprisal. (D '42)
 Stong, P. D. One destiny. (D '42)
 Tamás, I. Sergeant Nikola. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Thielens, G. O. Moon lies fair. (Je '42)
 Thirkell, A. M. Northbridge rectory. (Mr '42)
 Waugh, E. Put out more flags. (Je '42)
 Weiskopf, F. C. Dawn breaks. (My '42)
 Wheatley, D. Black baroness. (Je '42)
 Wheatley, D. Scarlet impostor. (Mr '42)
 Wheatley, D. V for vengeance. (O '42)
 Woods, W. H. Edge of darkness. (My '42)
 Wylie, P. Other horseman. (S '42)

Young people

- Manoff, A. Telegram from heaven. (O '42)
 Roberts, E. K. Little hell—big heaven. (O '42)
 Rowell, A. C. Touchdown. (My '42)
 Fiddle Longspay. Bledsoe, W. (Ag '42)
 Field book of snakes of the United States and Canada. Schmidt, K. P., and Davis, D. D. (Mr '42)
 Field geology. Lahee, F. H. (Ap '42)
 Field of social work. Fink, A. E. (N '42)
 Fiesta in November. Flores, A., and Poore, D., eds. (S '42)
 55 poems. Zukofsky, L. (My '42)
 Fifty years below zero. Brower, C. D., and others. (N '42)
 Fifty years of public life. Roper, D. C., and Lovette, F. H. (Ap '42)
 Fight for air power. Huie, W. B. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
 Fight for Powder valley! Field, P. (Ag '42)
 Fighting fleets. Rimington, C. (Ag '42)
 Fighting planes of the world. Law, B. A. (D '42)

Fiji

- Coulter, J. W. Fiji, little India of the Pacific. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

- Film sense. Eizenshtein, S. M. (S '42)

FinanceMinnesota

- Short, L. M., and Tiller, C. W. Minnesota commission of administration and finance, 1925-1939. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

United States

- Crum, W. L., and others. Fiscal planning for total war. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
 Harris, S. E. Economics of social security. (Je '42)
 Hart, A. G., and Allen, E. D. Paying for defense. (My '42)
 Naylor, E. E. Federal budget system in operation. (S '42)
 Shoup, C. S. Federal finances in the coming decade. (Ap '42)
 Tax institute. Financing the war. (Ag '42)
 Finance, Personal
 Ashman, H. E. Your legal and business matters and how to take care of them. (N '42)
 Collins, C. R. Army woman's handbook. (N '42)
 Financing the war. Tax institute. (Ag '42)

Finger prints

- Bridges, B. C. Practical fingerprinting. (Je '42)

Finland

Foreign relations

Russia

- Finland. Ministeriet för utrikesärendena. Finland reveals her secret documents on Soviet policy. (D '42)
- Finland reveals her secret documents on Soviet policy. Finland. Ministeriet för utrikesärendena. (D '42)
- Fire and ice. Thompson, L. R. (N '42)
- Fire in summer. Ramsey, R. (Ap '42)
- Fire in the earth. McCarthy, J. R. (My '42)
- Fire in the Pacific. Harcourt-Smith, S. (S '42)
- Firearms, Automatic
- Johnson, M. M., and Haven, C. T. Automatic arms. (Ap '42)
- The fire Drake. Groseclose, E. E. (Mr '42)
- First aid for the ailing house. Whitman, R. B. (D '42)
- First aid in illness and injury
- Wenger, H. L., and Sense, E. First aid primer. (S '42)

Juvenile literature

- Gould, D. Very first aid. (Je '42)
- First aid primer. Wenger, H. L., and Sense, E. (S '42)
- First American gentleman. Eng title of: First gentleman of America. Cabell, J. B. (Mr '42)
- First authorized English Bible and the Cranmer preface. Willoughby, H. R. (N '42)
- First gentleman of America. Cabell, J. B. (Mr '42)
- First radio book for boys. Morgan, A. P. (D '42)
- First Thanksgiving. Barksdale, L. (D '42)
- Fiscal planning for total war. Crum, W. L., and others. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Fishermen four. Cave, H. B. (N '42)

Fishes

- Nichols, J. T. Representative North American fresh-water fishes. (S '42)
- Shoemaker, M. E. Fresh water fishing. (Ap '42)

Juvenile literature

- Mellen, I. M. Twenty little fishes. (Je '42)
- Fishing
- Shoemaker, M. E. Fresh water fishing. (Ap '42)
- Smith, O. W. Musings of an angler. (S '42)

Juvenile literature

- Darling, F. F. Seasons and the fisherman. (Je '42)

Alaska

- Wolfe, A. In Alaskan waters. (S '42)
- Five alarm funeral. Sterling, S. (Ap '42)
- 500 years of art and illustration. Simon, H. (N '42)
- Five women in three novels. Baldwin, F. (O '42)
- Five young American poets; second ser. (Ap '42)
- Flag of the United States. Quaife, M. M. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Flags

United States

- Quaife, M. M. Flag of the United States. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Flamingo road. Wilder, R. (Je '42)
- Flare path. Claymore, T. (N '42)
- Flight. Wright, B. A. and others. (Je '42)
- Flight; aircraft engines. Kuns, R. F. (Je '42)
- Flight in winter. Adams, J. C. (Ap '42)
- Flight to Arras. Saint Exupéry, A. de. (Mr '42)
- Flight to freedom. Padowicz, B. (Je '42)
- Flip and the cows. Dennis, W. (D '42)
- Flood tide and stars. King, M. W. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Floods of spring. Bellamann, H. (Je '42)
- Flora Shawn. Rogers, S. (My '42)

Floriculture

- Lawrence, E. Southern garden. (N '42)

Florida

- Kennedy, S. Palmetto country. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

History

- Bickel, K. A. Mangrove coast. (Je '42)
- Flowering harvest. Jervis, V. M. S. (My '42)
- Flowering veld. Eng title of: Flowering harvest. Jervis, V. M. S. (My '42)

Fluorescence

- De Ment, J. A. Fluorescent chemicals. (S '42)
- Fluorescent chemicals. De Ment, J. A. (S '42)
- Fluorescent lighting manual. Amick, C. L. (S '42)

Fly casting

- Knight, J. A. Modern fly casting. (S '42)
- Flying banners. Sherman, E. B. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Flying death. Gill, R. C. (S '42)
- Flying guns. Dickinson, C. E., and Sparkes, B. (D '42)
- Flying horses. Hamlin, J. H. (N '42)
- Flying squadrons. Johnston, S. P. (S '42)
- Flying Tigers. Whelan, R. (D '42)

Foch, Ferdinand

- Léon, M. How many world wars? (N '42)
- Focus on learning. Hoban, C. F. (N '42)
- Foe we face. Huss, P. J. (Je '42)
- Folding father. Hauser, H. (Je '42)
- Folio on Florence White. Oursler, W. C. (S '42)

Folk songs

- Deutsch, L., ed. Treasury of the world's finest folk song. (N '42)
- United States. Work projects administration, New Mexico. Spanish-American song and game book. (S '42)

Folk songs, American

- Carmer, C. L. America sings. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Coleman, S. N. B., and Bregman, A. Songs of American folks. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Loesser, A. Humor in American song. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Folklore

India

- Metzger, B. Picture tales from India. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

United States

- Carmer, C. L. America sings. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Follow the leader. Davis, C. B. (S '42)

Food

- Bradley, A. V. Tables of food values. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Maddox, G. Eat well for less money. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Murphy, M. Wartime meals. (O '42)
- Taylor, C. M. Food values in shares and weights. (O '42)
- Von Loesecke, H. W. Outlines of food technology. (O '42)

Analysis

- Waisman, H. A., and Elvehjem, C. A. Vitamin content of meat. (My '42)

Food, Frozen

- Carlton, H. Frozen food industry. (Ap '42)
- Food; a weapon for victory. Fowler, B. B. (O '42)

- Food and drug regulation. Wilson, S. (S '42)

- Food garden. Blair, E. (My '42)

Food law and legislation

- Wilson, S. Food and drug regulation. (S '42)
- Food 'n' fun for the invalid. Harris, F. L., and Ridler, D. A. (O '42)

Food supply

- Fowler, B. B. Food; a weapon for victory. (O '42)

- Food values in shares and weights. Taylor, C. M. (O '42)

- Footsteps behind her. Wilson, M. (Mr '42)

- For flag and freedom. Kummer, F. A. (O '42)

- For Hilaire Belloc. Woodruff, D., ed. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

- For love of country. Harper, W., comp. (O '42)

- For my great folly. Costain, T. B. (S '42)

- For my people. Walker, M. (D '42)

- For permanent victory. Johnson, M. M., and Haven, C. T. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Forbes, Robert Bennet

- Connolly, J. B. Canton captain. (Mr '42)

- Foreign devil. Enders, G. B. (S '42)

Foreign exchange

- Salera, V. Exchange control and the Argentine market. (My '42)

- Foreigners. Schoyer, P. (Ap '42)

Foremen

- Maynard, H. B., and others, eds. Effective foremanship. (Ap '42)

Forest products

- Glesinger, E. Nazis in the woodpile. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Forest world. Salten, F. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
Forests and forestry

Juvenile literature

Chapman, D. H. Seasons and the woodman. (Je '42)
Forever is so long. Colver, A. M. R. (Je '42)
Formosa
Grajdanzev, A. J. Formosa today. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
Fort. Jameson, S. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
Fortress of freedom. Salamanca, L. (Je '42)
Forums (discussion and debate)
Ewbank, H. L., and Auer, J. J. Discussion and debate. (My '42)
Forward the nation. Peattie, D. C. (Je '42)
Forward to the land. Peterson, E. T. (Ag '42)
Fosdick, Charles Austin. See Castlemon, H., pseud.
Foundations and the future of international law. Winfield, P. H. (S '42)
Foundations for a science of personality. Angyal, A. (Ap '42)
Foundations of modern world society. Mander, L. A. (Ap '42)
Four airplanes. Baruch, D. W. (My '42)
Four plays. Hellman, L. (My '42)
Four-Story Mistake. Enright, E. (D '42)
4000 years of television. Hubbell, R. W. (N '42)
Four winds. Hayes, C. E. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
Four years of Nazi torture. Winkler, E. (Je '42)
Fourteenth trump. Phillips, J. P. (N '42)
Fourth bomb. Street, C. J. C. (Mr '42)
Fourth mystery book. (D '42)
Fox island. Pinkerton, K. S. G. (N '42)
Fragrance, philosophies, and conversations of a year. Ragon, H. L. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual) France

Colonies

Gipson, L. H. British empire before the American revolution. (D '42)
Levy, R. French interests and policies in the Far East. (My '42)
Roberts, W. A. French in the West Indies. (My '42)

Constitutional history

Church, W. F. Constitutional thought in sixteenth-century France. (Je '42)

Foreign relations

Cameron, E. R. Prologue to appeasement. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
Simon, Y. Road to Vichy, 1918-1938. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
Werth, A. Twilight of France, 1933-1940. (N '42)

Free France movement

Burman, B. L. Miracle on the Congo. (S '42)

History

Revolution

Bryant, A. Years of endurance, 1793-1802. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
Palmer, R. R. Twelve who ruled. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)

German occupation, 1940

Porter, R. P. Uncensored France. (Ag '42)

Politics and government

Acomb, E. M. French laic laws. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
Jacques, French soldier speaks. (Ag '42)
Lazareff, P. Deadline. (Ap '42)
Paul, E. H. Last time I saw Paris. (My '42)
Simon, Y. Road to Vichy, 1918-1938. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
Tabouis, G. R. They called me Cassandra. (Ap '42)
Torres, H. Campaign of treachery. (O '42)
Werth, A. Twilight of France, 1933-1940. (N '42)

Relations (general) with East (Far East)
Levy, R. French interests and policies in the Far East. (My '42)

Religion

Iswolsky, H. Light before dusk. (Je '42)
France. Comité de salut public
Palmer, R. R. Twelve who ruled. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)

France of tomorrow. Guérard, A. L. (Ag '42)
Francis of Assisi, Saint
Petry, R. C. Francis of Assisi, apostle of poverty. (Ag '42)

Juvenile literature

Maynard, S. K. C. Princess Poverty. (Ap '42)
Franklin street. Goodman, P. (Ap '42)
Freddy and the perilous adventure. Brooks, W. R. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
Frederick II, the Great, king of Prussia
Gaxotte, P. Frederick the Great. (My '42)
Frederick William I, king of Prussia
Ergang, R. R. Potsdam führer. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
Free as the wind. White, G. A. (My '42)
Free men are fighting. Gramling, O. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
Free river. Lockwood, M. (O '42)
Free speech in the United States. Chafee, Z. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual) Freedom for Italy! Nicotri, G. and F. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
Freely to pass. Beattie, E. W. (D '42)
Freighter holiday. Orr, F. (S '42)
Frémont, John Charles
Scherer, J. A. B. Thirty-first star. (O '42)
French Guiana
Smith, N. Black Martinique, red Guiana. (My '42)
French in the West Indies
Roberts, W. A. French in the West Indies. (My '42)
French interests and policies in the Far East. Lévy, R. (My '42)
French laic laws. Acomb, E. M. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)

French literature

History and criticism

Lemaître, G. E. From cubism to surrealism in French literature. (My '42)
Rosenfeld, L. D. C. From beast-machine to man-machine. (Ap '42)
French soldier speaks. Jacques. (Ag '42)
Frenchman's creek. Du Maurier, D. (Mr '42)
Fresh-water bass. Bergman, R. (S '42)
Fresh water fishing. Shoemaker, M. E. (Ap '42)
Freud, Sigmund
Dalbiez, R. Psychoanalytical method and the doctrine of Freud. (Je '42)
Friend in court. Kelley, C. M. (Je '42)
Friend of animals. Pace, M. M. (Je '42)
Friendly library. Briggs, E. M. (S '42)
Friendly mountains. Peattie, R., ed. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
Friends, Society of
Kirby, E. W. George Keith. (Je '42)
Russell, E. History of Quakerism. (Ag '42)
Whitney, J. P. John Woolman. (Je '42)
Friends of the people. Neumann, A. (Je '42)
Frightened man. Leffingwell, A. (Ag '42)
Frightened stiff. Roos, K. (N '42)
From ambush to zig-zag. Sturm, A. (D '42)
From beast-machine to man-machine. Rosenfeld, L. D. C. (Ap '42)
From Copernicus to Einstein. Reichenbach, H. (S '42)
From cretin to genius. Voronoff, S. (Ap '42)
From cubism to surrealism in French literature. Lemaître, G. E. (My '42)
From infancy through childhood. Sauer, L. W. (S '42)
From madrigal to modern music. Moore, D. S. (My '42)
From relief to social security. Abbott, G. (Ap '42)
From the land of silent people. St John, R. (Mr '42)
From this day forward. Beebe, E. T. R. (My '42)

Frontier and pioneer life

Alaska

Brower, C. D., and others. Fifty years below zero. (N '42)

Arizona

Sonnichsen, C. L. Billy King's Tombstone. (Ag '42)

Idaho

Anderson, N. M. Swede homestead. (D '42)
Davis, N. P. Stump ranch pioneer. (N '42)

Frontier and pioneer life—Continued

Kansas

Clarke, C. F. To form a more perfect union. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Montana

Alderson, N. T. Bride goes west. (Ag '42)

Northwest

Henry, R. C. High border country. (Ag '42)

Washington (state)

Binns, A. Roaring land. (Je '42)

Frontier by air. Hager, A. R. (D '42)

Frontier passage. O'Malley, M. D. S. (O '42)

Frost, Robert

Thompson, L. R. Fire and ice. (N '42)

Frozen food industry. Carlton, H. (Ap '42)

Fruit

Lucas, J. M. Fruits of the earth. (N '42)

Fruits of the earth. Lucas, J. M. (N '42)

Full crash dive. Bosworth, A. R. (Mr '42)

Full flood. Marks, P. (O '42)

Full score. Baker, F. (My '42)

Fuller, Margaret. See Ossoli, S. M. F. d'

Fun for boys and girls. Cleveland, R. (F '43)

(1942 Annual)

Fun with folk tales. Sloane, G. L. (N '42)

Fun with wood. Leeming, J. (O '42)

Fundamental principles of mathematical statistics. Wolfenden, H. H. (D '42)

Fundamentals of electric waves. Skilling, H. H. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Fundamentals of radio. Jordan, E. C., and others. (D '42)

Fundamentals of social psychology. Bogardus, E. S. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Fundamentals of vacuum tubes. Eastman, A. V. (S '42)

Furniture

Champion, P. V. Creative crate craft. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Downer, M. My room is my hobby. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Lush, C. K. It's fun to build modern furniture. (S '42)

Future life

Ellis, E. We knew these men. (Mr '42)

Future of government in the United States. White, L. D., ed. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Future of industrial man. Drucker, P. F. (O '42)

Future of television. Dunlap, O. E. (D '42)

G.B.S. Pearson, H. (N '42)

Gabriel and the angels. Townsend, T. (Ag '42)

Gabriel Churchkitten. Austin, M. (O '42)

Gade, John Allyne

Gade, J. A. All my born days. (Ap '42)

Gages

Colvin, F. H. Gages and their use in inspection. (S '42)

Hawthorne, K. C. How to get ahead in a defense plant. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Gages and their use in inspection. Colvin, F. H. (S '42)

Gaisberg, Frederick William

Gaisberg, F. W. Music goes round. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Gallagher, Patrick

Gallagher, P. Paddy the Cope. (My '42)

Game and game birds

Heilner, V. Our American game birds. (Ap '42)

Game protection

United States. National park service. Fading trails. (N '42)

Games

Breen, M. J. The children's party book. (Ap '42)

Fisher, H. S. Good time at your picnic. (D '42)

Geister, E. New ice-breakers. (S '42)

Kraitchik, M. Mathematical recreations. (F '42) (1942 Annual)

United States. Work projects administration, New Mexico. Spanish-American song and game book. (S '42)

Gandhi, Mohandas Karamchand

Fischer, L. Week with Gandhi. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Raman, T. A. What does Gandhi want? (D '42)

Garden easily! Morse, H. K. (Je '42)

Garden is political. Brinnin, J. M. (Je '42)

Gardenias for Sue. Hauck, L. P. (Je '42)

Gardening

Cross, R. Wake up and garden! (S '42)

Gomez, N. Your garden in the city. (Ap '42)

Lawrence, E. Southern garden. (N '42)

Morse, H. K. Garden easily! (Je '42)

Dictionaries

Bailey, L. H. and E. Z., comps. Hortus

second. (Ag '42)

Seymour, E. L. D., ed. New garden encyclopedia. (Ag '42)

Gardening—without bunk. Boal, S. J. (S '42)

Gardens

Gomez, N. Your garden in the city. (Ap '42)

Symington, E. H. J. By light of sun. (Ap '42)

Gardens for victory. Putnam, J.-M. C., and

Cosper, L. C. (Ap '42)

Gas warfare. Waitt, A. H. (O '42)

Gascoigne, George

Prouty, C. T. George Gascoigne, Elizabethan

courtier, soldier, and poet. (N '42)

Gaseous conductors. Cobine, J. D. (Je '42)

Gases

Pease, R. N. Equilibrium and kinetics of gas

reactions. (D '42)

Gases, Asphyxiating and poisonous

Jacobs, M. B. War gases. (N '42)

Gasoline jockey. Heyliger, W. (S '42)

Gaston county, North Carolina

Pope, L. Millhands and preachers. (S '42)

Gates of Aulis. Schmitt, G. (Je '42)

Gaulle, Charles André Joseph Marie de

Barrès, P. Charles de Gaulle. (Ag '42) (1941

Annual)

Gautama the enlightened. Masefield, J. (Ap

'42)

Gay design. De Leeuw, A. L. (D '42)

Gay Galliard. Irwin, M. E. F. (Mr '42)

Gay sisters. Longstreet, S. (Mr '42)

Gehrig, Lou

Graham, F. Lou Gehrig, a quiet hero. (My

'42)

General Basic English dictionary. Ogden, C.

K., ed. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

General trade mathematics. Van Leuven, E. P.

(D '42)

Generals and geographers. Weigert, H. W. (Ja

'43) (1942 Annual)

Generation of materialism, 1871-1900. Hayes,

C. J. H. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)

Generation of vipers. Wylie, P. (F '43) (1942

Annual)

Genesee fever. Carmer, C. L. (Mr '42)

Genetics

Haldane, J. B. S. New paths in genetics.

(My '42)

Genius

Einstein, A. Greatness in music. (Mr '42)

Voronoff, S. From cretin to genius. (Ap '42)

Gentle Annie. Kantor, M. (S '42)

Gentleman ranker. Jennings, J. E. (O '42)

Geography

Davis, D. H. Earth and man. (F '43) (1942

Annual)

Horrabin, J. F. Outline of political geography. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Lawrence, C. H., ed. New world horizons.

(N '42)

MacKinder, H. J. Democratic ideals and reality. (O '42)

Geography, Commercial

Ostrolenk, B. Economic geography. (S '42)

Geology

Lahee, F. H. Field geology. (Ap '42)

Geopolitics

Dorpden, A. World of General Haushofer.

(F '43) (1942 Annual)

Mattern, J. Geopolitik. (D '42)

Strausz-Hupé, R. Geopolitics. (S '42)

Weigert, H. W. Generals and geographers.

(Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Whittlesey, D. S., and others. German strategy of world conquest. (F '43) (1942 Anual)

Geopolitics. Strausz-Hupé, R. (S '42)
Geopolitik. Mattern, J. (D '42)
George Spelvin, American and fireside chats.
Pegler, W. (O '42)

Georgia

Kennedy, S. Palmetto country. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
Steed, H. A. Georgia. (Je '42)
German delegation at the Paris peace conference. Luckau, A. M. (Ap '42)

German fiction

History and criticism

Wagman, F. H. Magic and natural science in German baroque literature. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
German new order in Poland. Eng title of: Black book of Poland. Poland. Ministerstwo Informacji. (O '42)
German psychological warfare. Farago, L., and Gittler, L. F., eds. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual) German strategy of world conquest. Whittlesey, D. S., and others. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Germans in Italy

K., S. Agent in Italy. (My '42)

Germans in Pennsylvania

Wood, R., ed. Pennsylvania Germans. (Ag '42)

Germans in South America

Fernández Artucio, H., Nazi underground in South America. (Ap '42)

Germany

Army

Fried, H. E. Guilt of the German army. (O '42)

Officers

Riess, C. Self-betrayed. (D '42)

Biography

Rauschnig, H. Men of chaos. (O '42)

Economic conditions

Deuel, W. R. People under Hitler. (Mr '42)
Frank, K. B. Will Germany crack? (Ag '42)

Economic policy

Glesinger, E. Nazis in the woodpile. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Foreign relations

Einzig, P. Appeasement: before, during and after the war. (Ag '42)
Hanc, J. Tornado across eastern Europe. (Ap '42)
Whittlesey, D. S., and others. German strategy of world conquest. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Russia

Scott, J. Duel for Europe. (N '42)

History, Military

Riess, C. Self-betrayed. (D '42)

Nazi movement

Butler, R. D'O. Roots of national socialism. (My '42)
Deuel, W. R. People under Hitler. (Mr '42)
Hauser, H. Time was. (Mr '42)
Huss, P. J. Foe we face. (Je '42)
Lochner, L. P. What about Germany? (D '42)
Mann, T. Order of the day. (D '42)
Neumann, F. L. Behemoth. (Je '42)
Oechsner, F. C., and others. This is the enemy. (D '42)
Rauschnig, A. S. No retreat. (Je '42)
Rauschnig, H. Men of chaos. (O '42)
Tell, R., ed. Nazi guide to Nazism. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
Thompson, D. Listen, Hans. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Politics and government

Butler, R. D'O. Roots of national socialism. (My '42)
Fromm, B. Blood and banquets. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
Loewenstein, H. On borrowed peace. (D '42)
Neumann, F. L. Behemoth. (Je '42)
Smith, H. K. Last train from Berlin. (S '42)
Whittlesey, D. S., and others. Germany strategy of world conquest. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Relations (general) with United States

Reimann, G. Patents for Hitler. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Social conditions

Deuel, W. R. People under Hitler. (Mr '42)
Grein, L. Peace and bread. (N '42)
Russell, W. Berlin embassy. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
Thompson, D. Listen, Hans. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Social life and customs

Fromm, B. Blood and banquets. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
Hauser, H. Time was. (Mr '42)

Gesture

Efron, D. Gesture and environment. (Je '42)
Hughes, R. M. Gesture language of the Hindu dance. (Ap '42)
Gesture and environment. Efron, D. (Je '42)
Gesture language of the Hindu dance. Hughes, R. M. (Ap '42)
Get thee behind me. Spence, H. (O '42)
Getting acquainted with chemistry. Morgan, A. P. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
Getting acquainted with electricity. Morgan, A. P. (S '42)
Getting down to cases. Holman, C. T. (Je '42)
Getting them into the blue. Gann, E. K. (S '42)
Getting U S into war. Sargent, P. E. (My '42)
Ghost town adventure. Montgomery, R. G. (S '42)
Giant dwarf. Kahler, W. (N '42)
Giants in dressing gowns. Arnold, J. B. (O '42)
Gibbs, Josiah Willard
Rukeyser, M. Willard Gibbs. (D '42)

Gibraltar

Conn, S. Gibraltar in British diplomacy in the eighteenth century. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Gift horse. Gruber, F. (N '42)

Gift of the forest. Singh, R. L., and Lowmsbery, E. (N '42)

Gift of tongues. Schlauch, M. (Je '42)

Gift tax

Paul, R. E. Federal estate and gift taxation. (Je '42)

Gilded man. Carr, J. D. (Ag '42)

Ginger Lee: war nurse. Deming, D. (Ap '42)

Girl from nowhere. Greig, M. (Je '42)

Girl of the woods. Hill, G. L. (My '42)

Girl with a pay check. Maule, F. (Ap '42)

Girl's place in life and how to find it. Faust, J. F., ed. (Je '42)

Glass mountain. Doner, M. F. (O '42)

Gliding and soaring

McDonald, E. F. Youth must fly. (Je '42)

Glimpses of world history. Nehru, J. (Ag '42)

Global war. Mowrer, E. A., and Rajchman, M. (S '42)

Globe playhouse. Adams, J. C. (S '42)

Go down, Moses. Faulkner, W. (Je '42)

Goals and desires of man. Schilder, P. (O '42)

Goals for America. Chase, S. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Goat afloat. Friskey, M. (D '42)

God

Eddy, G. S. Man discovers God. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Ely, S. L. Religious availability of Whitehead's God. (D '42)

Laird, J. Theism and cosmology. (Ap '42)

Sayers, D. L. Mind of the Maker. (Mr '42)

Goethals, George Washington

Juvenile literature

Fast, H. M. Goethals and the Panama canal. (Ag '42)

Goethals and the Panama canal. Fast, H. M. (Ag '42)

Goethe, Johann Wolfgang von

Hungerford, E. B. Shores of darkness. (N '42)

Trevelyan, H. Goethe and the Greeks. (Je '42)

Goethe and the Greeks. Trevelyan, H. (Je '42)

Gold and guns on Halfaday creek. Hendryx, J. B. (Ag '42)

Golden age. Parmenter, C. W. (O '42)

Golden age of colonial culture. Wertenbaker, T. J. (D '42)

Golden book of prayers. Aldrich, D. B., and Stevens, W. O., eds. (Ap '42)

Golden box. Crane, F. K. (Je '42)
 Golden eagle mystery. Queen, E. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Golden fleece. Call, H. F. (O '42)
 Golden flood. Asbury, H. (My '42)
 Golden horde. Gilman, La S. (N '42)
 Golden summer. Alger, L. (Je '42)
 Golden wedge. Lovelace, M. H. and D. W. (Ag '42)
 Golf is a friendly game. Gallico, P. W. (O '42)
 Good and evil
 Maritain, J. St Thomas and the problem of evil. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
 Good and evil spirits. Langton, E. (D '42)
 Good comrades. Salten, F. (Ap '42)
 Good housekeeping cookbook. Good housekeeping institute, New York. (Je '42)
 Good inheritance. Cousins, N. (Ap '42)
 Good intentions. Nash, O. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Good neighbors. Herring, H. C. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
 Good neighbours. Rose, W. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
 Good time at your picnic. Fisher, H. S. (D '42)
 Goodbye Japan. Newman, J. (Je '42)
 Gorgas, William Crawford

Juvenile literature

Judson, C. I. Soldier doctor. (N '42)
 Gorillas
 Hoyt, A. M. D. Toto and I. (My '42)

Legends and stories

Johnson, O. H. L. Snowball. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
 Government and nationalism in southeast Asia. Emerson, R. (S '42)
 Government and politics in the United States. Zink, H. (D '42)
 Government by assassination. Byas, H. (D '42)
 Government of labor relations in Sweden. Robins, J. J. (O '42)
 Government of the Argentine republic. MacDonald, A. F. (S '42)
 Goya y Lucientes, Francisco José de Gudiol, J. Goya. (S '42)
 Gracious Majesty. Housman, L. (Je '42)
 Gramophone shop encyclopedia of recorded music. Gramophone shop, inc. (D '42)
 Grand canyon. Sackville-West, V. M. (N '42)
 Grand piano. Goodman, P. (O '42)
 Grand strategy. Sargeant, H. A., and Wells, G. H. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual) Grant, Ulysses Simpson
 Brooks, W. E. Grant of Appomattox. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Drama

Green, H. Triumph; Grant's final victory. (S '42)
 Grant of Appomattox. Brooks, W. E. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Graphic arts. Johnson, W. H., and Newkirk, L. V. (S '42)
 Graphic world history. Evans, J. C., and San-kowsky, S. H. (D '42)
 Great adventure of living. Rhoades, W. (My '42)
 Great Britain

Civilization

Bevington, M. M. Saturday review, 1855-1868. (My '42)
 British life and thought. (Ap '42)
 Reckitt, M. B., and Casserley, J. V. L. Vocation of England. (Ag '42)

Colonies

Gipson, L. H. British empire before the American revolution. (D '42)
 Knaplund, P. British empire, 1815-1939. (Ap '42)
 Mills, L. A. British rule in eastern Asia. (S '42)
 Simnett, W. E. British colonial empire. (O '42)

Australia

Fitzpatrick, B. British empire in Australia. (S '42)

India

Mitchell, K. L. India without fable. (O '42)

Commercial policy

Lowe, M. E. British tariff movement. (N '42)

Constitutional history

Knappen, M. M. Constitutional and legal history of England. (N '42)

Description and travel

Webster, C. L. Mr W. & I. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Economic conditions

Bevin, E. Balance sheet of the future. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)

Foreign relations

Carr, E. H. Conditions of peace. (S '42)
 Conn, S. Gibraltar in British diplomacy in the eighteenth century. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

United States

Davis, F. Atlantic system. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
 Lothian, P. H. K. American speeches. (Ap '42)
 MacCormac, J. America and world mastery. (Ap '42)

History

Williamson, J. A. Ocean in English history. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Elizabeth, 1558-1603

Belloc, H. Elizabeth: creature of circumstance. (S '42)

Puritan revolution, 1642-1660

Hexter, J. H. Reign of King Pym. (My '42)
 Jordan, W. K. Men of substance. (D '42)

1689-1714

Aiken, W. A., ed. Conduct of the Earl of Nottingham. (Je '42)

18th century

Gipson, L. H. British empire before the American revolution. (D '42)

1789-1820

Bryant, A. Years of endurance, 1793-1802. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Lenanton, C. M. A. O. Napoleon at the Channel. (S '42)

Politics and government

Lennard, R. V. Democracy: the threatened foundations. (My '42)

Religion

Reckitt, M. B., and Casserley, J. V. L. Vocation of England. (Ag '42)
 Great Britain. Commandos
 Holman, G. Commando attack. (O '42)
 Great Britain. Royal air force
 Hillary, R. Falling through space. (Mr '42)
 Kennington, E. Drawing the R.A.F. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Rothenstein, W., and Cecil, D. Men of the R.A.F. (S '42)
 Great Britain. Royal air force. Eagle squadron
 Kennerly, B. Eagles roar! (O '42)
 Great companions, v2. Leavens, R. F. and M. A., comps. (Je '42)
 Great cultural traditions. Turner, R. E. (Ap '42)
 Great demobilization. Paxson, F. L. (S '42)
 Great Lakes
 Havighurst, W. Long ships passing. (S '42)

Juvenile literature

Gilchrist, M. E. Story of the Great Lakes. (O '42)
 Great men and women of Poland. Mizwa, S. P., ed. (Ap '42)
 Great modern Catholic short stories. Mariella, Sister, comp. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Great offensive. Werner, M. (N '42)
 Great O'Neill. O'Faolain, S. (N '42)
 Great Pacific war. Bywater, H. C. (Mr '42)
 Great republic. Hoffman, R. J. S. (Je '42)
 Great women of the Bible. Macartney, C. E. N. (N '42)
 Greatness in music. Einstein, A. (Mr '42)
 Greece
 Civilization
 Cousins, N. Good inheritance. (Ap '42)

History

Godolphin, F. R. B., ed. Greek historians. (Ag '42)

Politics and government

Agard, W. R. What democracy meant to the Greeks. (S '42)

Greek political experience. (Ag '42)

Social life and customs

Gray, P. S. People of Poros. (N '42)

Greek drama

Translations into English

Grene, D., tr. Three Greek tragedies in translation. (D '42)

Greek historians. Godolphin, F. R. B., ed. (Ag '42)

Greek poetry

Translations into English

Anthologia graeca. More poems from the Palatine anthology. (O '42)

Greek political experience. (Ag '42)

Green, Julian

Green, J. Memories of happy days. (D '42)

Green cockade. Allen, M. P. (D '42)

Green field for courage. Cooney, C. T. (O '42)

Green fire. Rainier, P. W. (D '42)

Greenland

Stefansson, V. Greenland. (D '42)

Grellet, Stephen

Comfort, W. W. Stephen Grellet. (S '42)

Grenfell, Sir Wilfred Thomason

Juvenile literature

Fox, G. M. Sir Wilfred Grenfell. (D '42)

Group activities in college and secondary school. Strang, R. M. (Ap '42)

Group work

Price, L. Creative group work on the campus. (Ap '42)

Grow your own vegetables. Dempsey, P. W. (My '42)

Growth

Dearborn, W. F., and Rothney, J. W. M. Predicting the child's development. (O '42)

Growth of American constitutional law. Wright, B. F. (S '42)

Growth of European civilization. Boak, A. E. R., and others. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Guam

Thompson, L. M. Guam and its people. (Ag '42)

Guam and its people. Thompson, L. M. (Ag '42)

Guerre, Mme Bertrande (de Rols)

Fiction

Lewis, J. Wife of Martin Guerre. (My '42)

Guide posts in chaos. Pollock, C. (Ag '42)

Guide to recorded music. Kolodin, I. (Mr '42)

Guilt of the German army. Fried, H. E. (O '42)

Guinea's captive kings. Sypher, F. W. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Gulliver joins the army. Daigliesh, A. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Gums and resins

Mantell, C. L., and others. Technology of natural resins. (S '42)

Gunfighter breed. Nye, N. C. (My '42)

Gunsight. Gruber, F. (N '42)

Gunsmit's boy. Best, H. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Gunsmoke graze. Glidden, J. H. (S '42)

Gunsmoke trail. Mann, E. B. (Ag '42)

H as in hangman. Treat, L. (O '42)

Haiti

History

Leyburn, J. G. Haitian people. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)

Social conditions

Leyburn, J. G. Haitian people. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)

Haitian people. Leyburn, J. G. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)

Hale, Nathan

Juvenile literature

Hogeboom, A., and Ware, J. F. One life to lose. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Hamilton, Emma, lady

Fiction

Field, B. Bride of glory. (Ap '42)

Han Suyin

Han Suyin. Destination Chungking. (My '42)

Handbook for civilian defense. Mayer-Dax-landen, H. (Je '42)

Handbook for clubwomen. Munro, I. B. and

W. M. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Handbook of applied hydraulics. Davis, C. V.,

ed. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Handbook of civilian protection. New York

(city). City college. Civilian defense council. (Ag '42)

Handbook of mechanical design. Nordenholt,

G. F., and others. (D '42)

Handbook of scientific and technical societies and institutions of the United States and Canada. National research council. (F

'43) (1942 Annual)

Handbook of war production. Boyan, E. A.

(Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Handicraft

Burbank, N. L., and Mitchell, E. M., comps.

Shoemaker's handbook. (D '42)

Cleveland, R. Fun for boys and girls. (F '43)

(1942 Annual)

Hunt, W. B. Indiancraft. (N '42)

Powers, M. Book of little crafts. (D '42)

Sprague, C. How to make it book of crafts.

(Je '42)

Wakefield, L. S. 101 home furnishings. (Ag

'42)

Handkerchief holdiay. Hess, F. (N '42)

Handsome, but dead. Wahl, A. E. H. (O '42)

Hang my heart. Brooks, A. (S '42)

Hanged for a sheep. Lockridge, F. L. (N '42)

Hanging

Mencken, A., ed. By the neck. (Ag '42)

Hangman's Handyman. Talbot, H. (O '42)

Hangover square. Hamilton, P. (Mr '42)

Happiness road. Rice, A. C. H. (S '42)

Happiness round the corner. Scott, W. M. W.

(Ap '42)

Happy birthday, Judy! Becker, C. (My '42)

Happy book. Pease, J. V. (S '42)

Happy ever after. Seymour, B. K. S. (My '42)

Happy times in Norway. Undset, S. (D '42)

Happy tramp. Denison, M. G. (S '42)

Happy world. Carbery, M. T. E.-F. (My '42)

Hardey, Mary Aloysia

Williams, M. A. Second sowing. (Ja '43)

(1942 Annual)

Harvey girls. Adams, S. H. (N '42)

Hathaway, Anne. See Shakespeare, A. H.

Haunted lady. Rinehart, M. R. (Je '42)

Haushofer, Karl

Dorpalen, A. World of General Haushofer.

(F '43) (1942 Annual)

Have come, am here. Villa, J. G. (N '42)

Have you seen Tom Thumb? Hunt, M. L. (D

'42)

Hawaiian Islands

Fergusson, E. Our Hawaii. (Ap '42)

History

Bradley, H. W. American frontier in Hawaii. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Hawaiian yesterdays. Myhre, E. (Je '42)

Hawk's way. Olson, T. (My '42)

Hayes, Roland

Helm, M. Angel Mo' and her son, Roland

Hayes. (D '42)

Hays, Arthur Garfield

Hays, A. G. City lawyer. (S '42)

He wanted to sleep in the Kremlin. Schacher,

G. (O '42)

He wouldn't be king. Baker, N. B. (Mr '42)

Head hunting in the Solomon islands around the Coral sea. Mytinger, C. (Ja '43) (1942

Annual)

Head of the line. Carroll, G. H. (Ap '42)

Heads you lose. Lewis, M. C. M. (Ap '42)

Heart of Europe. Rougemont, D. de., and Muret, C. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)

Heat

Transmission

Jakob, M., and Hawkins, G. A. Elements of heat transfer and insulation. (D '42)

Heat engines

Allen, J. R., and Bursley, J. A. Heat engines. (Ap '42)

Heavenly harmony. Lieferant, H. and S. S. (O '42)

Heaven's not far away. Parrott, K. U. T. (N '42)

Hegel, Georg Wilhelm Friedrich

Marcuse, H. Reason and revolution. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)

Hellenism

Trevelyan, H. Goethe and the Greeks. (Je '42)

Hell's ramparts fell. Skinner, C. R., and Cole, A. S. (My '42)

Hemisphere camp. Thomas, E. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Henry, PatrickJuvenile literature

Stephenson, D. D. M. Patrick, son of thunder. (Ap '42)

Her heart in her throat. White, E. L. (S '42)

Herbs

Clarkson, R. E. Herbs, their culture and uses. (Ag '42)

Herbs, their culture and uses. Clarkson, R. E. (Ag '42)

Here come Joe Mungin. Murray, C. S. (Mr '42)

Here comes Kristie. Brock, E. L. (O '42)

Here I stand. Beecher, J. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Here lies blood. Mannon, M. M. (Je '42)

Here lies the body. Burke, R. (Mr '42)

Heredity

Dahlberg, G. Race, reason and rubbish. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Woodworth, R. S. Heredity and environment. (My '42)

Heredity and environment. Woodworth, R. S. (My '42)

Heredity, food, and environment in the nutrition of infants and children. Scott, G. D. (N '42)

Hero by proxy. Tolman, H. (S '42)

Herodia, the lovely puppet. Milhous, K. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Heroes I have known. Eastman, M. (Je '42)

Heroes of the Atlantic. Halstead, I. (Ap '42)

Heroines of the sky. Adams, J., and others. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Herrmann, Lazar

Herrmann, L. Today we are brothers. (Je '42)

He's in submarines now. Felsen, G. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Hezekiah Horton. Tarry, E. (N '42)

Hickory Limb. Hubbard, M. A. (N '42)

Hidden Civil war. Gray, W. (O '42)

Hidden son. Eng title of: Secret son. Kaye-Smith, S. (Mr '42)

High border country. Henry, R. C. (Ag '42)

High polymeric reactions. Mark, H. F., and Raff, R. A. V. (Je '42)

High schools

Germane, C. E. and E. G. Personnel work in high schools. (Je '42)

Curricula

Belting, P. E. and N. M. Modern high school curriculum. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Long, C. D. School-leaving youth and employment. (Je '42)

High stakes. Riess, C. (S '42)

High wind rising. Singmaster, E. (D '42)

High window. Chandler, R. (S '42)

Higher civil service of Great Britain. Dale, H. E. (S '42)

Highway economics. Tucker, H., and Leager, M. C. (D '42)

Highway engineering

Hewes, L. I. American highway practice. (My '42)

Tucker, H., and Leager, M. C. Highway economics. (D '42)

Highway of God. Sockman, R. W. (My '42)

Highway to heaven. Matschat, C. H. (Ag '42)

Highway transportation

Hill, S. E. Teamsters and transportation. (Ag '42)

Hill lawyer. Skidmore, H. (N '42)

Hill of little miracles. Angelo, V. (O '42)

Hills beyond Manhattan. D'Agostino, G. (Mr '42)

Hingham, Massachusetts

Roosevelt, E. R. This is America. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Hi-Po the hippo. Thomas, D. (O '42)

Hippo. Stolper, J. (N '42)

Hippocratic medicine. Heidel, W. A. (Ap '42)

His Majesty's Yankees. Raddall, T. H. (D '42)

Hispanic American essays. Wilgus, A. C., ed. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Historians

Schmitt, B. E., ed. Some historians of modern Europe. (Ap '42)

History

Woodruff, D., ed. For Hilaire Belloc. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Historiography

Hulme, E. M. History and its neighbors. (O '42)

Kent, S. Writing history. (Je '42)

Thompson, J. W., and Holm, B. J. History of historical writing. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Philosophy

Sorokin, P. A. Social and cultural dynamics, v 4. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)

History, Ancient

Godolphin, F. R. B., ed. Greek historians. (Ag '42)

Turner, R. E. Great cultural traditions. (Ap '42)

History, Modern

Browne, L. Something went wrong. (Mr '42)

History, Universal

Evans, J. C., and Sankowsky, S. H. Graphic world history. (D '42)

Nehru, J. Glimpses of world history. (Ag '42)

Juvenile literature

Nehru, J. Glimpses of world history. (Ag '42)

History and its neighbors. Hulme, E. M. (O '42)

History of historical writing. Thompson, J. W., and Holm, B. J. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

History of medical psychology. Zilboorg, G., and Henry, G. W. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)

History of public assistance in Chicago, 1833 to 1893. Brown, J. (My '42)

Hitler, Adolf

Wagner, L. Hitler, man of strife. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Hitler, man of strife. Wagner, L. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Hitler's Reich and Churchill's Britain. Eng title of: Conversation in London. Laird, S., and Graebner, W. (Mr '42)

Hobbies

Gray, M., and Urban, R. C. Bright idea book. (S '42)

Mathews, F. K., ed. Boy scouts book of hobbies for fathers and sons. (Ag '42)

Thomas, W. S. Amateur scientist. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Hoisting machinery

Hetzel, F. V., and Albright, R. K. Belt conveyors and belt elevators. (S '42)

Holding companies

Barnes, I. R. Economics of public utility regulation. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Holidays

Paulmier, H. C., and Schaffler, R. H. Democracy days. (My '42)

Holidays and every days. Brown, E. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Hollywood, California

Rosten, L. C. Hollywood. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)

Hollywood starlet. Willson, D. (Ag '42)

Holm, John Cecil

Holm, J. C. Sunday best. (Je '42)

Holmes, Oliver Wendell, 1841-1935

Biddle, F. B. Mr Justice Holmes. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Holy Spirit

Bishop, W. S. Christ and the Spirit. (Ap '42)

Home canning for victory. Pierce, A. L., ed. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Home economics

Adams, C. Run of the house. (Ag '42)

Laitem, H. H., and Miller, F. S. Experiences in homemaking. (Je '42)

- Price, L., and Bonnet, H. How to manage without a maid. (My '42)
- Study and teaching
- Brown, C. M. Evaluation and investigation in home economics. (Ap '42)
- Home front digest. Logan, M. (S '42)
- Home is the heart. Malleson, L. B. (Ap '42)
- Home vegetable gardening. Nissley, C. H. (My '42)
- Hong Kong
- Mills, L. A. British rule in eastern Asia. (S '42)
- Honolulu
- History
- Gessler, C. F. Tropic landfall. (Mr '42)
- Hoosier boy, James Whitcomb Riley. Mitchell, M. B. A. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Hope Hacienda. Baker, C. (Ag '42)
- Hopi Indians
- Talayeva, D. C. Sun chief. (Je '42)
- Horn of life. Atherton, G. F. H. (N '42)
- Hornbooks
- Folmsbee, B. Little history of the horn-book. (D '42)
- Horns and antlers. Bronson, W. S. (My '42)
- Horse sense in American humor. Blair, W. (S '42)
- Horseless buggy. MacGlashan, K. (D '42)
- Horses
- Anderson, C. W. Thoroughbreds. (N '42)
- Legends and stories
- Watson, H. O. Top Kick, U.S. army horse. (D '42)
- Hortus second. Bailey, L. H. and E. Z., comps. (Ag '42)
- Hostages. Heym, S. (N '42)
- Hour before the dawn. Maugham, W. S. (Ag '42)
- House Committee on foreign affairs. Westphal, A. C. F. (N '42)
- House construction details. Burbank, N. L., comp. (Je '42)
- House decoration
- Downer, M. My room is my hobby. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Ford, J. and K. M. Design of modern interiors. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Hardy, K. Beauty treatments for the home. (S '42)
- Wakefield, L. S. 101 home furnishings. (Ag '42)
- House for the sparrow. Yenni, J. T. (Mr '42)
- House in the dust. Leslie, D. O. (Ap '42)
- House in the rain forest. Crockett, C. D. (Ap '42)
- House of shade. Home, M. (N '42)
- House of the Roses. Baker, C. (O '42)
- House with the blue door. Footner, H. (N '42)
- House without the door. Daly, E. (S '42)
- Houseboat summer. Coatsworth, E. J. (Je '42)
- Houses of old Richmond. Scott, M. W. (D '42)
- Housing
- United States
- American public health association. Housing for health. (N '42)
- Schaffter, D. State housing agencies. (D '42)
- Housing for health. American public health association. (N '42)
- Housman, Alfred Edward
- Richards, G. Housman, 1897-1936. (My '42)
- How collective bargaining works. Twentieth century fund, inc. Labor committee. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- How do you get there? Rey, H. A. (Ag '42)
- How Japan plans to win. Matsuo, K. (Je '42)
- How Jesus dealt with men. Calkins, R. (Ap '42)
- How man became a giant. Marshak, I. I., and Segal, E. (Mr '42)
- How many world wars? Léon, M. (N '42)
- How Old Stormalong captured Mocha Dick. Shapiro, I. (D '42)
- How to abandon ship. Richards, P. M., and Banigan, J. J. (D '42)
- How to be fit. Kiphuth, R. J. H. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- How to be your best. Gilkey, J. C. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- How to cook a wolf. Parrish, M. F. K. (Ag '42)
- How to do aircraft sheetmetal work. Norcross, C., and Quinn, J. D. (S '42)
- How to do practically anything. Goodman, J., and Green, A. B. (Mr '42)
- How to dress in wartime. Raushenbush, W. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- How to get ahead in a defense plant. Hawthorne, K. C. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- How to get along in the army. Old Sarge. (Je '42)
- How to grow food for your family. Ogden, S. R. (My '42)
- How to live in the tropics. Hunt, V. L. F. (S '42)
- How to locate educational information and data. Alexander, C. (Ap '42)
- How to make historic American costumes. Evans, M. (Ag '42)
- How to make it book of crafts. Sprague, C. (Je '42)
- How to manage without a maid. Price, L., and Bonnet, H. (My '42)
- How to read a page. Richards, I. A. (Je '42)
- How to read electrical blueprints. Heine, G. M., and Dunlap, C. H. (S '42)
- How to read military maps. Peattie, R. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- How to retire and like it. Kaign, R. P. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- How to teach children music. Stinson, E. L. (Ap '42)
- How to teach children to know music. Barbour, H. B., and Freeman, W. S. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- How to understand current events. Whipple, L. R. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
- How to win the peace. Hambro, C. J. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- How to write a play. Egri, L. (Je '42)
- How war came. Davis, F., and Lindley, E. K. (O '42)
- How you can make democracy work. Lies, E. T. (N '42)
- How your business can help win the war. Barclay, H. W., ed. (My '42)
- Hudson Bay express. Davis, R. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Hudson frontier. Best, A. C. (N '42)
- Hughie Roddis. Savory, G. (My '42)
- Hugo, Victor Marie, comte
- Josephson, M. Victor Hugo. (N '42)
- Huguenots
- Zoff, O. Huguenots. (Je '42)
- Huldah, Alves, J. (S '42)
- Hull, Cordell
- Hinton, H. B. Cordell Hull. (Mr '42)
- Humanism
- Walsh, G. G. Medieval humanism. (My '42)
- 20th century
- Reiser, O. L. New earth and a new humanity. (Ap '42)
- Humor
- Adams, F. P., ed. Innocent merriment. (N '42)
- Bemelmans, L. I love you, I love you, I love you. (O '42)
- Benchley, R. C. Inside Benchley. (My '42)
- Bishop, M. Spilt milk. (S '42)
- Bishop, M. G., ed. Treasury of British humor. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Blair, W. Horse sense in American humor. (S '42)
- Brown, J. M. Accustomed as I am. (Mr '42)
- Brown, J. M. Insides out. (D '42)
- Goodman, J., and Green, A. B. How to do practically anything. (Mr '42)
- Leacock, S. B. My remarkable uncle. (Ap '42)
- Marx, G. Many happy returns. (Mr '42)
- Smith, E. B. Best I know. (Ap '42)
- Sturm, A. From ambush to zig-zag. (D '42)
- Taylor, H. C. Private Doakes and me! (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Thurber, J. My world—and welcome to it. (D '42)
- Juvenile literature
- American Girl magazine. Lots of laughs. (O '42)
- Humor, Pictorial
- New Yorker (periodical). War album. (D '42)
- Humor in American song. Loesser, A. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Hundreds and hundreds of pancakes. Chalmers, A. (D '42)

Hungary

History

- Kosáry, D. G. A history of Hungary. (Ap '42)
 Hunt, Dame Agnes Gwendoline
 Hunt, A. G. This is my life. (D '42)

Hunting

- Knapp-Fisher, H. C. Man and his creatures. (S '42)

United States

- Kennedy, B. Lady and the lions. (D '42)
 Hurdy-gurdy holiday. Gale, L. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
 Hurricane caye. Shedd, M. (Je '42)
 Hurston, Zora Neale
 Hurston, Z. N. Dust tracks on a road. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Hus, Jan

- Spinka, M. John Hus and the Czech reform. (Ap '42)

Husserl, Edmund

- Welch, E. P. Philosophy of Edmund Husserl. (Ag '42)

Hydraulic engineering

- Davis, C. V., ed. Handbook of applied hydraulics. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Hydraulics

- Thompson, J. E., and Campbell, R. B. Manual for aircraft hydraulics. (D '42)
 Woodward, S. M., and Posey, C. J. Hydraulics of steady flow in open channels. (S '42)
 Hydraulics of steady flow in open channels. Woodward, S. M., and Posey, C. J. (S '42)

Hydrocarbons

- Egloff, G., and others. Isomerization of pure hydrocarbons. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Hydrogen ion concentration

- Kolthoff, I. M., and Laitinen, H. A. pH and electro titrations. (O '42)

Hygiene

- Dieuaide, F. R. Civilian health in wartime. (D '42)
 Hickman, C. P. Physiological hygiene. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Red cross. United States. American national Red cross. American Red cross textbook on Red cross home nursing. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

History

- Stern, B. J. Society and medical progress. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)

Study and teaching

- Langton, C. V. Orientation in school health. (Ap '42)
 Strang, R. M., and Smiley, D. F. The role of the teacher in health education. (Ap '42)

Hymns

- Poling, D. A., comp. Treasury of best-loved hymns. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

- I came out of the eighteenth century. Rice, J. A. (D '42)

- I can lick seven. Richards, R. W. (S '42)

- I dive for treasure. Rieseberg, H. E. (Ag '42)

- I escaped from Hong Kong. Marsman, J. H. (S '42)

- I flew for China. Leonard, R. (D '42)

- I give thee back. Horan, K. O. (Mr '42)

- I have just begun to fight. Ellsberg, E. (Je '42)

- I heard the Anzacs singing. Macpherson, M. L. (Ag '42)

- I, James Blunt. Morton, H. C. V. (S '42)

- I live again. Deeping, W. (O '42)

- I love you, I love you, I love you. Bemelmans, L. (O '42)

- I, Nathanael, knew Jesus. Sutphen, W. G. van T. (Ap '42)

- I remember Christine. Lewis, O. (My '42)

- I remember, I remember. Maurois, A. (N '42)

- I saw the fall of the Philippines. Romulo, C. P. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

- I sing America. Lambert, C. B. (Ap '42)

- I, too, have lived in Arcadia. Lowndes, M. A. B. (Mr '42)

- I was in hell with Niemoeller. Stein, L. (O '42)

- I went into the country. Roskolenko, H. (Ap '42)

- I who should command all. Tyler, A. J. (O '42)

- I write from Washington. Childs, M. W. (N '42)

- Identification of molecular spectra. Pearse, R. W. B., and Gaydon, A. G. (Je '42)

- Idiom of poetry. Pottle, F. A. (Je '42)

- If men were angels. Frank, J. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

- If there is time. Flanner, H. (O '42)

- If we should fail. White, M. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

- If you please! Allen, B., and Briggs, M. P. (O '42)

- Ill fares the land. McWilliams, C. (Ap '42)

- I'll sing at your funeral. Pentecost, H. (Ap '42)

- Illinois
 Masters, E. L. Sangamon. (Ag '42)

- Illumination engineering. Boast, W. B. (D '42)

- Illustration of books
 Simon, H. 500 years of art and illustration. (N '42)

- Illustrators
 Simon, H. 500 years of art and illustration. (N '42)

- Illustrious dunderheads. Stout, R., ed. (N '42)

- Imaginary wars and battles
 Bywater, H. C. Great Pacific war. (Mr '42)

- Immortal sergeant. Brophy, J. (Ag '42)

- Immortality
 D'Arcy, M. C. Death and life. (D '42)

- Imperial federation
 Knaplund, P. British empire, 1815-1939. (Ap '42)

- Simnett, W. E. British colonial empire. (O '42)

- Imperialism
 Kohn, H. World order in historical perspective. (S '42)

- Townsend, M. E., and others. European colonial expansion since 1871. (Ag '42)

- Impostor. Kagey, R. (S '42)

- Impressionism (art)
 Lemaitre, G. E. From cubism to surrealism in French literature. (My '42)

- Impulse to dominate. Harding, D. C. W. (O '42)

- In Alaskan waters. Wolfe, A. (S '42)

- In Mexico they say. Ross, P. F. (Je '42)

- In no strange land. Burton, K. K. (Je '42)

- In praise of nuns. Hayes, J. M., ed. (D '42)

- In quest of morals. Lanz, H. (Ag '42)

- In the beginning was the light. Brázdová, A. P. (N '42)

- In the forests of the night. Davis, K. S. (Ap '42)

- In the nature of materials. Hitchcock, H. R. (S '42)

- In the night did I sing. Foster, J. O. (Mr '42)

- In the service with Uncle Sam. Kalp, E. S. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

- In the shadow of the cross. Stamm, F. K. (Mr '42)

- In the years of our Lord. Komroff, M. (My '42)

- In this generation. Braisted, R. E. W. (N '42)

- Income
 Kuznets, S. S., and others. National income and its composition. (Ag '42)

- Income tax
 United States

- Fisher, I. and H. W. Constructive income taxation. (D '42)

- Independent regulatory commissions. Cushman, R. E. (Ap '42)

- Independent Vermont. Thompson, C. M. (Mr '42)

- Indexing (machine shop practice)
 Felker, C. A., and Paine, H. W. Milling-machine indexing. (Ag '42)

- India
 Constitutional history

- De Montmorency, G. F. Indian states and Indian federation. (Ag '42)

- Economic conditions
 Masani, M. R. Our India. (S '42)

- History
 Diver, M. M. Royal India. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

- Yeats-Brown, F. C. C. Pageant of India. (N '42)

- Industries and resources
 Masani, M. R. Our India. (S '42)

Kings and rulers

Diver, M. M. Royal India. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Politics and government

Coupland, R. Cripps mission. (O '42)
De Montmorency, G. F. Indian states and Indian federation. (Ag '42)
Diver, M. M. Royal India. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
Duffett, W. E., and others, comps. India today. (S '42)
Gandhi, M. K. My appeal to the British. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
Mitchell, K. L. India without fable. (O '42)
Raman, T. A. What does Gandhi want? (D '42)
Schuster, G. E., and Wint, G. India and democracy. (My '42)

Social life and customs

Enders, G. B. Foreign devil. (S '42)
India and democracy. Schuster, G. E., and Wint, G. (My '42)
India today. Duffett, W. E., and others, comps. (S '42)
India without fable. Mitchell, K. L. (O '42)
Indian-fighting army. Downey, F. D. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
Indian paint. Balch, G. (N '42)
Indian states and Indian federation. De Montmorency, G. F. (Ag '42)
Indiana company, 1763-1798. Lewis, G. E. (My '42)
Indiana grant
Lewis, G. E. Indiana company, 1763-1798. (My '42)
Indiancraft. Hunt, W. B. (N '42)
Indians of Mexico
Diamant, G. Days of Ofelia. (Ag '42)
Indians of North America
La Farge, O., ed. Changing Indian. (O '42)

Antiquities

McGregor, J. C. Southwestern archaeology. (Je '42)

Art

Hunt, W. B. Indiancraft. (N '42)

Civilization

McGregor, J. C. Southwestern archaeology. (Je '42)

Culture

Opler, M. E. Apache life-way. (Je '42)

Government relations

La Farge, O., ed. Changing Indian. (O '42)
Priest, L. B. Uncle Sam's stepchildren. (Je '42)

Legends

Peck, L. Don Coyote. (My '42)

Wars

Cruse, T. Apache days and after. (Mr '42)
Downey, F. D. Indian-fighting army. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
Sandoz, M. Crazy Horse. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

British Columbia

Carr, M. E. Klee Wyck. (Ag '42)

Indians of South America

Moennich, M. L. Pioneering for Christ in Xingu jungles. (S '42)
Radin, P. Indians of South America. (Je '42)

Legends

Lovelace, M. H. and D. W. Golden wedge. (Ag '42)

Peru

Harkness, R. Pangoan diary. (Ag '42)

Indic literature

Collections

Lin, Y., ed. Wisdom of China and India. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Indigo treasure. Rogers, F. (Ap '42)

Individualism

Stace, W. T. Destiny of western man. (Ap '42)

Individuality

Kilpatrick, W. H. Selfhood and civilization. (Ag '42)

Indo-China, French

Lévy, R. French interests and policies in the Far East. (My '42)

Indoor noisy book. Brown, M. W. (D '42)

Industrial accident prevention. Heinrich, H. W. (Je '42)

Industrial accounting. Specthrie, S. W. (Ag '42)

Industrial camouflage manual. Wittmann, K. F., and others. (O '42)

Industrial chemistry of colloidal and amorphous materials. Lewis, W. K., and others. (S '42)

Industrial inspection methods. Michelon, L. C. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Industrial instruments for measurement and control. Rhodes, T. J. (My '42)

Industrial mobilization

Boyan, E. A. Handbook of war production. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Corey, H. Army means business. (N '42)

Davis, S. C. Your career in defense. (My '42)

Stryker, P. Arms and the aftermath. (Mr '42)

Industrial waste treatment practice. Eldridge, E. F. (Je '42)

Industrialization of the western Pacific. Mitchell, K. L. (Ag '42)

Industry

Anshen, M. L. Introduction to business. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Organization, control, etc.

Follett, M. P. Dynamic administration. (My '42)

Holden, P. E., and others. Top-management organization and control. (My '42)

Industry and state

Drucker, P. F. Future of industrial man. (O '42)

United States

Boyan, E. A. Handbook of war production. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Twiss, B. R. Lawyers and the Constitution. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Infantry

McKinley, S. B. Democracy and military power. (Je '42)

Infants

Care and hygiene

Godwin, E. Life with baby. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Sauer, L. W. From infancy through childhood. (S '42)

Juvenile literature

Montgomery, E. R. Bonnie's baby brother and how he grew. (N '42)

Nutrition

Scott, G. D. Heredity, food, and environment in the nutrition of infants and children. (N '42)

Infection and infectious diseases

Birkeland, J. M. Microbiology and man. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Hill, J. H. Silent enemies. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Infinite man. Gard, H. V. (Ap '42)

Inflation (finance)

Katona, G. War without inflation. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Kemmerer, E. W. A B C of inflation. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Inga of Porcupine mine. Stone, C. R. (D '42)

Inheritance tax

Paul, R. E. Federal estate and gift taxation. (Je '42)

Inland navigation

United States

Havighurst, W. Long ships passing. (S '42)

Inner springs. Warner, F. L. (O '42)

Inner world. Buckham, J. W. (Ap '42)

Innocent merriment. Adams, F. P., ed. (N '42)

Inorganic chemical technology. Badger, W. L., and Baker, E. M. (Ap '42)

Insanity

Graves, A. Eclipse of a mind. (N '42)

Insects

Teale, E. W. Near horizons. (D '42)

Juvenile literature

Parker, B. M. Insects and their ways. (My '42)

- Insects and their ways. Parker, B. M. (My '42)
- Inside Asia. Gunther, J. (Je '42)
- Inside Benchley. Benchley, R. C. (My '42)
- Inside out. Mallette, G. E. (D '42)
- Insides out. Brown, J. M. (D '42)
- Instalment plan
Haberler, G. Consumer instalment credit and economic fluctuations. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Instinct
Menninger, K. A. and J. L. Love against hate. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Instruct my sorrows. Jaynes, C. (Ap '42)
- Insulation (heat)
Close, P. D. Building insulation. (Je '42)
- Insurance, Life
Stalson, J. O. Marketing life insurance. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Insurance, Social
Parker, J. S. Social security reserves. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Insurance, State and compulsory
Harris, S. E. Economics of social security. (Je '42)
- Insurance, Unemployment
Burns, E. M. R. British unemployment programs, 1920-1938. (Ap '42)
- Insurance company of North America
James, M. Biography of a business. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Intellectual America. Cargill, O. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
- Inter-American solidarity. Laves, W. H. C., ed. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
- Inter-American system, a Canadian view.
Humphrey, J. T. P. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Interests of the United States as a world power.
Shepardson, W. H. (Je '42)
- Interludes
Loomis, R. S., and Wells, H. W., eds. Representative medieval and Tudor plays. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- International air transport and national policy.
Lissitzyn, O. J. (N '42)
- International cooperation
Angell, N. Let the people know. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Butler, N. M. Liberty—equality—fraternity. (Je '42)
- Corbett, P. E. Post-war worlds. (Ap '42)
- Doman, N. Coming age of world control. (Ag '42)
- Hambro, C. J. How to win the peace. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Hoffman, R. J. S. Great republic. (Je '42)
- Hoover, H. C., and Gibson, H. Problems of lasting peace. (Ag '42)
- Kelsen, H. Law and peace in international relations. (N '42)
- Kingsley, J. D., and Petegorsky, D. W. Strategy for democracy. (Ap '42)
- Mander, L. A. Foundations of modern world society. (Ap '42)
- Muzumdar, H. T. United nations of the world. (N '42)
- Ranshofen-Wertheimer, E. F. Victory is not enough. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Robinson, H., and others. Toward international organization. (S '42)
- Savord, R., comp. American agencies interested in international affairs. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- World citizens association. World's destiny and the United States. (My '42)
- International federation
Young, G. Federalism and freedom. (S '42)
- International labor conventions. Dillon, C. H. (N '42)
- International law and relations
Corbett, P. E. Post-war worlds. (Ap '42)
- Flory, W. E. S. Prisoners of war. (Je '42)
- Johnson, M. M., and Haven, C. T. For permanent victory. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Kalijarvi, T., and others. Modern world politics. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Kelsen, H. Law and peace in international relations. (N '42)
- Mander, L. A. Foundations of modern world society. (Ap '42)
- Mattern, J. Geopolitik. (D '42)
- Reves, E. Democratic manifesto. (N '42)
- Strausz-Hupé, R. Geopolitics. (S '42)
- Winfield, P. H. Foundations and the future of international law. (S '42)
- International rivalry in the Pacific islands, 1800-1875. Brookes, J. I. (Ag '42)
- Interstate commerce
Kallenbach, J. E. Federal coöperation with the states under the commerce clause. (O '42)
- Tax institute. Tax barriers to trade. (My '42)
- Intimate Virginiana. Maury, A. F. M., ed. (N '42)
- Into the way of peace. Hartill, P., ed. (O '42)
- Introducing Australia. Grattan, C. H. (Mr '42)
- Introduction to algebraic theories. Albert, A. A. (Ap '42)
- Intruders in Eden. Stringer, A. J. A. (Je '42)
- Inventories
Devine, C. T. Inventory valuation and periodic income. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Inventory valuation and periodic income. Devine, C. T. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Investigating municipal administration. Seidman, H. (Je '42)
- Investment and business cycles. Angell, J. W. (Ap '42)
- Investments
Angell, J. W. Investment and business cycles. (Ap '42)
- Dowrie, G. W., and Fuller, D. R. Investments. (My '42)
- Investor and the Securities act. Cherrington, H. V. (Ag '42)
- Invitation to dance. Terry, W. (Ap '42)
- Invitation to pilgrimage. Baillie, J. (N '42)
- Invitation to worship. Reid, A. C. (S '42)
- Ionization of gases
Cobine, J. D. Gaseous conductors. (Je '42)
- Ireland
History
Ireland, T. Ireland, past and present. (Ap '42)
- Mansergh, N. Ireland in the age of reform and revolution. (My '42)
- Ireland in the age of reform and revolution. Mansergh, N. (My '42)
- Ireland, past and present. Ireland, T. (Ap '42)
- Irish in Boston
Handlin, O. Boston's immigrants, 1790-1865. (Ap '42)
- Iron Mountain. Stong, P. D. (Mr '42)
- Iron pioneer. Evans, H. O. (D '42)
- Iron rainbow. Young, G. R. (D '42)
- Irving, Frederick Carpenter
Irving, F. C. Safe deliverance. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Irwin, William Henry
Irwin, W. H. Making of a reporter. (D '42)
- Is modern culture doomed? Krzesiński, A. J. (Je '42)
- Island boy. Holdridge, E. H. (Ag '42)
- Island noon. Robinson, M. L. (Ap '42)
- Islandia. Wright, A. T. (My '42)
- Islands of the Pacific
Brookes, J. I. International rivalry in the Pacific islands, 1800-1875. (Ag '42)
- Follett, H. T. Ocean outposts. (Je '42)
- Isle of escape. Ross, I. (O '42)
- Isles of Spice. Clune, F. (My '42)
- Isomerism
Egloff, G., and others. Isomerization of pure hydrocarbons. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Isomerization of pure hydrocarbons. Egloff, G., and others. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Iswolsky, Helene
Iswolsky, H. Light before dusk. (Je '42)
- It can happen between Sundays. Dolloff, E. D. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- It happened like this. Hutchinson, A. S.-M. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- It runs in the family. Ellenwood, J. L. (Ag '42)
- It works like this. Leyson, B. W. (Ap '42)
- Italy
Civilization
Sforza, C. Real Italians. (Ag '42)
- Fascist movement
K., S. Agent in Italy. (My '42)

History

Rath, R. J. Fall of the Napoleonic kingdom of Italy (1814). (N '42)

Politics and government

Nicotri, G. and F. Freedom for Italy! (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Packard, R. and E. Balcony empire. (D '42)

Social conditions

Sheedy, A. T. Bartolus on social conditions in the fourteenth century. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Itching parrot. Fernández de Lizardi, J. J. (Ap '42)

It's about time. Chamberlain, P. M. (My '42)

It's fun to build modern furniture. Lush, C. K. (S '42)

I've come a long way. Kuo, C. (Je '42)

Jackhammer. Hewes, A. D. (O '42)

Jacks, Lawrence Pearsall

Jacks, L. P. Confession of an octogenarian. (S '42)

Jackson, Andrew

Juvenile literature

Stevenson, A. Andy Jackson, boy soldier. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Jackson, Thomas Jonathan

Juvenile literature

Monzell, H. A. Young Stonewall, Tom Jackson. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Jamba the elephant. Waldeck, T. J. (N '42)

James, Henry

Bibliography

James, H. Representative selections. (N '42)

Jane's All the world's aircraft, 1941. (O '42)

Japan

Byas, H. Government by assassination. (D '42)

Byas, H. Japanese enemy, his power and his vulnerability. (Ap '42)

Grew, J. C. Report from Tokyo. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Price, W. De M. Japan rides the tiger. (S '42)

Randau, C., and Zugsmith, L. Setting sun of Japan. (Ap '42)

Defenses

Kiralfy, A. Victory in the Pacific. (Je '42)

Description and travel

Mears, H. Year of the wild boar. (S '42)

Economic conditions

Mitchell, K. L. Japan's industrial strength. (Ap '42)

Foreign policy

Timperley, H. J. Japan: a world problem. (Je '42)

Foreign relations

Fleisher, W. Volcanic isle. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)

Hall, J. W. Behind the face of Japan. (D '42)

Newman, J. Goodbye Japan. (Je '42)

Price, W. De M. Japan rides the tiger. (S '42)

Quigley, H. S. Far Eastern war, 1937-1941. (S '42)

Tanaka, G. Japan's dream of world empire. (Ap '42)

Russia

Hindus, M. G. Russia and Japan. (Je '42)

United States

Fleisher, W. Our enemy Japan. (My '42)

Matsuo, K. How Japan plans to win. (Je '42)

Moore, F. With Japan's leaders. (S '42)

History

Hall, J. W. Behind the face of Japan. (D '42)

Harcourt-Smith, S. Fire in the Pacific. (S '42)

Newman, J. Goodbye Japan. (Je '42)

Industries and resources

Mitchell, K. L. Japan's industrial strength. (Ap '42)

Navy

Bywater, H. C. Great Pacific war. (Mr '42)

Politics and government

Fleisher, W. Volcanic isle. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)

Newman, J. Goodbye Japan. (Je '42)

Japan: a world problem. Timperley, H. J. (Je '42)

Japan and the opium menace. Merrill, F. T. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Japan rides the tiger. Price, W. De M. (S '42)

Japanese enemy, his power and his vulnerability. Byas, H. (Ap '42)

Japanese frenzy. Eng title of: Fire in the Pacific. Harcourt-Smith, S. (S '42)

Japan's dream of world empire. Tanaka, G. (Ap '42)

Japan's industrial strength. Mitchell, K. L. (Ap '42)

Jared's Blessing. Woodward, H. (D '42)

Jason, Raphaelson, S. (S '42)

Jazz music

Smith, C. E., and others. Jazz record book. (Je '42)

Jazz record book. Smith, C. E., and others. (Je '42)

Jefferson, Thomas

Jefferson, T. Jefferson himself. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Padover, S. K. Jefferson. (My '42)

Thomas, E. D. Thomas Jefferson, world citizen. (Ag '42)

Juvenile literature

Daugherty, S. V. Way of an eagle. (Mr '42)

Jefferson himself. Jefferson, T. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Jemima, daughter of Daniel Boone. Sutton, M. (O '42)

Jerry Foster, salesman. Ferris, E. E. (Ag '42)

Jesuit adventure in China. Hibbert, E. T. (Ap '42)

Jesuits

Harney, M. P. Jesuits in history. (My '42)

Jesuits in China

Hibbert, E. T. Jesuit adventure in China. (Ap '42)

Jesuits in history. Harney, M. P. (My '42)

Jesus Christ

Calkins, R. How Jesus dealt with men. (Ap '42)

Horton, W. M. Our eternal contemporary. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Laubach, F. C. You are my friends. (N '42)

Smart, W. A. Contemporary Christ. (N '42)

Biography

Kirkland, W. M. Man of the hour. (N '42)

Olmstead, A. T. E. Jesus in the light of history. (S '42)

Character

Eddy, G. S. Maker of men. (Ap '42)

Robinson, B. W. Jesus in action. (Je '42)

Fiction

Douglas, L. C. Robe. (N '42)

Kornroff, M. In the years of our Lord. (My '42)

Sutphen, W. G. van T. I, Nathanael, knew Jesus. (Ap '42)

Friends and associates

Poteat, E. M. These shared His power. (My '42)

Juvenile literature

Bible. New Testament. Jesus' story. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Legends

Fox, F. M. Legends of the Christ child. (Ag '42)

Messiahship

Hebert, A. G. Throne of David. (My '42)

Parables

Bible. New Testament. Gospels. Parables told to the people by Jesus of Nazareth. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Person and offices

Bishop, W. S. Christ and the Spirit. (Ap '42)

Jesus Christ—Continued

Teaching

- Andrews, C. F. Sermon on the Mount. (N '42)
 Robinson, B. W. Jesus in action. (Je '42)
 Stamm, F. K. In the shadow of the cross (Mr '42)

Temptation

- Heard, G. Dialogue in the desert. (Ag '42)
 Jesus in action. Robinson, B. W. (Je '42)
 Jesus in the light of history. Olmstead, A. T. E. (S '42)
 Jesus' story. Bible. New Testament. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Jewish life in South America. Cohen, J. X. (My '42)

Jews

Civilization

- Heller, B. Odyssey of a faith. (N '42)

History

- Wallis, L. Bible is human. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Juvenile literature

- Fast, H. M. Romance of a people. (Mr '42)
 Fast, H. M. and B. Picture-book history of the Jews. (S '42)

Political and social conditions

- Conference on Jewish relations. Essays on antisemitism. (My '42)
 Feibelman, J. B. Social and economic study of the New Orleans Jewish community. (S '42)
 Graeber, I., and Britt, S. H., eds. Jews in a gentile world. (Ap '42)

Religion

- Agus, J. B. Modern philosophies of Judaism. (N '42)
 Heller, B. Odyssey of a faith. (N '42)
 Langton, E. Good and evil spirits. (D '42)
 Jews in a gentile world. Graeber, I., and Britt, S. H., eds. (Ap '42)

Jews in Great Britain

- Roth, C. History of the Jews in England. (S '42)

Jews in New Orleans

- Feibelman, J. B. Social and economic study of the New Orleans Jewish community. (S '42)

Jews in South America

- Cohen, J. X. Jewish life in South America. (My '42)

Jews in Spain

- Neuman, A. A. Jews in Spain. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Jews in the United States

- Janowsky, O. I., ed. American Jew. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Jiménez de Quesada, Gonzalo

- Arciniegas, G. Knight of El Dorado. (Je '42)
 Jim's the boy! Mammen, E. W. (D '42)

Job analysis

- Stigers, M. F., and Reed, E. G. Theory and practice of job rating. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Joble, Garrett, H. (O '42)

- Jobs for today's youth. Nall, T. O., and Davis, B. H. (My '42)

John the Great. Chidsey, D. B. (O '42)

- Johnny Jump Up. Hooper, J. (Je '42)
 Johnny Mouse of Corregidor. Johnson, M. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Johnson, Esther

- Davis, H. J. Stella. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Johnson, John Graver

- Winkelman, B. F. John G. Johnson. (S '42)

Jones, John Paul

Juvenile literature

- Ellsberg, E. I have just begun to fight. (Je '42)
 Jones, Paul
 Melish, J. H. Paul Jones, minister of reconciliation. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Jones Very. Emerson's brave saint. Bartlett, W. I. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
 Jorge's journey. Desmond, A. C. (Je '42)
 Jory's Cove. Bice, C. (Ap '42)

Joseph, Nez Percé Chief

- Howard, H. A., and McGrath, D. L. War chief Joseph. (Je '42)
 Josephine. Coyle, K. (Je '42)
 Josephus, Flavius

Fiction

- Feuchtwanger, L. Josephus and the emperor. (Ap '42)
 Josephus and the emperor. Feuchtwanger, L. (Ap '42)

Journalism

- Newsman's holiday. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Waples, D., ed. Print, radio, and film in a democracy. (My '42)

Journalists

- Saturday Evening Post (periodical). Post biographies of famous journalists. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Correspondence, reminiscences, etc.

- Beattie, E. W. Freely to pass. (D '42)
 Gervasi, F. War has seven faces. (Je '42)
 Irwin, W. H. Making of a reporter. (D '42)
 Koenigsberg, M. King news. (My '42)
 Packard, R. and E. Balcony empire. (D '42)
 Reynolds, Q. J. Convoy. (Mr '42)
 Reynolds, Q. J. Only the stars are neutral. (Ag '42)
 Tabouis, G. R. They called me Cassandra. (Ap '42)
 Ybarra, T. R. Young man of the world. (D '42)

Journey cake. McMeekin, I. M. (D '42)

- Journey into China. Cressy-Marcks, V. O. R. (N '42)

Joyce, James

- Levin, H. James Joyce. (Ap '42)

Juarez, Benito Pablo

Juvenile literature

- Baker, N. B. Juarez, hero of Mexico. (D '42)
 Juarez, hero of Mexico. Baker, N. B. (D '42)
 Judge sums up. Farjeon, J. J. (S '42)
 Judgment of the nations. Dawson, C. H. (D '42)
 Judicial function in federal administrative agencies. Chamberlain, J. P., and others. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual) Jumbo Sambo. Bannerman, H. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Jump lively, Jeff! Darby, A. C. (D '42)
 Juneau, the sleigh dog. Lathrop, W. (Je '42)
 Jungle highway. Felsen, G. (Je '42)
 Jungle people. Henry, J. (O '42)
 Junior air raid wardens. Bechdolt, J. E. (D '42)
 Junior miss. Chodorov, J., and Fields, J. (My '42)

Jurisprudence

- Gurvich, G. D. Sociology of law. (Je '42)

- Just and the unjust. Cozzens, J. G. (S '42)

Justice, Administration of

- Frank, J. If men were angels. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Confederate States of America

- Robinson, W. M. Justice in grey. (Ap '42)
 Justice deferred. Raine, W. M. (Je '42)
 Justice in grey. Robinson, W. M. (Ap '42)

Juvenile courts

- Kelley, C. M. Friend in court. (Je '42)

Juvenile delinquency

- Kelley, C. M. Friend in court. (Je '42)
 Thurston, H. W. Concerning juvenile delinquency. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Kaingangue Indians

- Henry, J. Jungle people. (O '42)
 K'ang Hsi, emperor of China
 Hibbert, E. T. Jesuit adventure in China. (Ap '42)
 Kate Russell, wartime nurse. Lansing, E. H. (Ap '42)
 Keep them human. Dixon, C. M. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Keeper of the flame. Wylie, I. A. R. (Je '42)
 Keith, George
 Kirby, E. W. George Keith. (Je '42)
 Kellyhorns. Cooney, B. (S '42)

- Kemble, John Phillip
Baker, H. C. John Phillip Kemble. (Je '42)
- Kentucky
Harlow, A. F. Weep no more, my lady. (Ag '42)
- History
Clark, T. D. The Kentucky. (Mr '42)
- Social life and customs
Day, J. F. Bloody ground. (Ap '42)
The Kentucky. Clark, T. D. (Mr '42)
- Kentucky river
Clark, T. D. The Kentucky. (Mr '42)
- Kierkegaard, Soren Aabye
Swenson, D. F. Something about Kierkegaard. (My '42)
- Kill joy. Holding, E. S. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Kill or cure. Francis, W. (O '42)
- Killer and the slain. Walpole, H. (Je '42)
- Killers of Green's Cove. Grinstead, J. E. (Ap '42)
- Kimball collection. Corbett, E. F. (Ap '42)
- Kimbi, jungle Indian. Williams, H. L. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- King, William Aurelius
Sonnichsen, C. L. Billy King's Tombstone. (Ag '42)
- King news. Koenigsberg, M. (My '42)
- King of the cats. O'Faolain, E. (O '42)
- Kings and desperate men. Kronenberger, L. (My '42)
- King's passenger. Schachner, N. (Je '42)
- Kipling, Rudyard
- Juvenile literature
Braddy, N. Rudyard Kipling, son of empire. (Ag '42)
- Kitchen utensils
Gould, M. E. Early American wooden ware and other kitchen utensils. (N '42)
- Klee Wyck. Carr, M. E. (Ag '42)
- Knife in the dark. Cole, G. D. H. and M. I. P. (My '42)
- Knight of El Dorado. Arciniegas, G. (Je '42)
- Knight of the revolution. Dean, S. W. (Ap '42)
- Knotted string. Brearley, H. (Ag '42)
- Knowledge, Theory of
Negley, G. Organization of knowledge. (Je '42)
- Ramsperger, A. G. Philosophies of science. (O '42)
- Knuckles down! Martin, F. G. M. (N '42)
- Koenigsberg, Moses
Koenigsberg, M. King news. (My '42)
- Kuo, Helena
Kuo, C. I've come a long way. (Je '42)
- Kwakiutl Indians
Nowell, C. J. Smoke from their fires. (My '42)
- Kwoma tribe
Whiting, J. W. M. Becoming a Kwoma. (O '42)
- La Quintrala. Petit Marfan, M. (N '42)
- Labor and laboring classes
Duggins, G. H., and Eastwood, F. R. Planning industrial recreation. (Je '42)
- McConagha, W. A. Development of the labor movement in Great Britain, France and Germany. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- California
Huntington, E. H. Doors to jobs. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Great Britain
Bevin, E. Balance sheet of the future. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
- South Africa
Tinley, J. M. Native labor problem of South Africa. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- United States
Anderson, H. D., and Davidson, P. E. American job trends. (My '42)
- Bureau of national affairs, Washington, D.C. Collective bargaining contracts. (Je '42)
- Golden, C. S., and Ruttenberg, H. J. Dynamics of industrial democracy. (Je '42)
- Twentieth century fund, inc. Labor committee. How collective bargaining works. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Woytinsky, W. S. Three aspects of labor dynamics. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Zahler, H. S. Eastern workmen and national land policy. (Ap '42)
- Labor contract
Bureau of national affairs, Washington, D.C. Collective bargaining contracts. (Je '42)
- McNaughton, W. L. Development of labor relations law. (My '42)
- Norgren, P. H. Swedish collective bargaining system. (Ap '42)
- Robbins, J. J. Government of labor relations in Sweden. (O '42)
- Twentieth century fund, inc. Labor committee. How collective bargaining works. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Labor laws and legislation
Pennsylvania
Trachtenberg, A. History of legislation for the protection of coal miners in Pennsylvania. (O '42)
- Sweden
Norgren, P. H. Swedish collective bargaining system. (Ap '42)
- Robbins, J. J. Government of labor relations in Sweden. (O '42)
- United States
Garland, J. V., comp. Federal regulation of labor unions. (My '42)
- McNaughton, W. L. Development of labor relations law. (My '42)
- Labor laws and legislation, International
Dillon, C. H. International labor conventions. (N '42)
- Labor turnover
Woytinsky, W. S. Three aspects of labor dynamics. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Labrador
Merrick, E. Northern nurse. (Ap '42)
- La Cloche, James de
- Fiction
Pilgrim, D. No common glory. (My '42)
- Ladder mystery. Lee, A. (S '42)
- Ladies in boxes. Burgess, G. (Je '42)
- Lady and the lions. Kennedy, B. (D '42)
- Lady be fit! Nye, D. (D '42)
- Lady in danger. Shane, S. (Ap '42)
- Lady in the mask. Green, A. (Ap '42)
- Lady killer. Holding, E. S. (Je '42)
- Lafayette, Marie Joseph Paul Yves Roch Gilbert du Motier, marquis de
Gottschalk, L. R. LaFayette and the close of the American revolution. (Je '42)
- La Follette, Robert Marion
Lovejoy, A. F. La Follette and the establishment of the direct primary in Wisconsin. (Je '42)
- Laissez-faire
Twiss, B. R. Lawyers and the Constitution. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Lake guns of Seneca and Cayuga. Drummond, A. M., and Gard, R. E., eds. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Lambeth conferences
Curtis, W. R. Lambeth conferences. (Je '42)
- Lament for the chieftains. Bacon, M. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Land-grant colleges
Ross, E. D. Democracy's college. (S '42)
- Land is bright. Ferber, E., and Kaufman, G. S. (Ap '42)
- Land of promise. Barnard, J. L. (O '42)
- Land of unreason. Pratt, F., and De Camp, L. S. (S '42)
- Land tenure
Nebraska
Diller, R. Farm ownership, tenancy, and land use in a Nebraska community. (Ap '42)
- Tennessee
Clark, B. H. Tennessee yeomen. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- United States
Zahler, H. S. Eastern workmen and national land policy. (Ap '42)

Landscape gardening

- Root, R. R. Camouflage with planting. (O '42)
 Steck, H. W. Right in your own backyard. (N '42)

Language and languages

- Schlauch, M. Gift of tongues. (Je '42)
 Language in action. Hayakawa, S. I. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
 Language of poetry. Tate, A., ed. (My '42)
 Lark. Simmons, H. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Larrish Hundred. Beverley-Giddings, A. R. (Ap '42)
 Larry and the undersea raider. Farley, W. (Ag '42)
 Last enemy. Eng title of: Falling through space. Hillary, R. H. (Mr '42)
 Last laugh. Mr. Moto. Marquand, J. P. (Mr '42)
 Last man comes home. Longstreet, S. (D '42)
 Last of the Logan. Coffin, R. (My '42)
 Last of the sea otters. McCracken, H. (O '42)
 Last semester. Crawford, P. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Last time I saw Paris. Paul, E. H. (My '42)
 Last to rest. Raymond, E. (Mr '42)
 Last train from Berlin. Smith, H. K. (S '42)
 Last years of Henry Timrod. Hubbell, J. B., ed. (Je '42)

Lathes

- Burghardt, H. D. Machine tool operation. (Ap '42)

Latin America

- Herring, H. C. Good neighbors. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
 James, P. E. Latin America. (My '42)
 Schurz, W. L. Latin America. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
 Trend, J. B. South America, with Mexico and Central America. (Ap '42)
 Wilgus, A. C., ed. Hispanic American essays. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Biography

- Stewart, W., and Peterson, H. F. Builders of Latin America. (Ap '42)

Foreign relationsEast (Far East)

- Bradley, A. Trans-Pacific relations of Latin America. (O '42)

United States

- Whitaker, A. P. United States and the independence of Latin America, 1800-1830. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)

History

- Munro, D. G. Latin American republics. (O '42)
 Stewart, W., and Peterson, H. F. Builders of Latin America. (Ap '42)
 Whitaker, A. P. United States and the independence of Latin America, 1800-1830. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)

Intellectual life

- Whitaker, A. P., ed. Latin America and the enlightenment. (Je '42)

Juvenile literature

- Busoni, R. Mexico and the Inca lands. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 West, W. Our good neighbors in Latin America. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Relations (general) with Canada

- Humphrey, J. T. P. Inter-American system, a Canadian view. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Relations (general) with United States

- Green, P. L. Pan American progress. (O '42)
 Latin America and the enlightenment. Whitaker, A. P., ed. (Je '42)
 Latin American republics. Munro, D. G. (O '42)
 Latin drama

Translations into English

- Complete Roman drama. (D '42)
 Latin key to better English. Hart, A., and Lejeune, F. A. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

LatviaForeign relations

- Graham, M. W. Diplomatic recognition of the border states. (My '42)

Law

- Discourse upon the exposition and understanding of statutes with Sir Thomas Egerton's additions. (N '42)

History and criticism

- Seagle, W. Quest for law. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)

Philosophy

- Boorstin, D. J. Mysterious science of the law. (Ap '42)
 Gurvich, G. D. Sociology of law. (Je '42)
 Northwestern university. Julius Rosenthal foundation for general law. My philosophy of law. (Ag '42)
 Pound, R. Social control through law. (O '42)

Germany

- Kisch, G. Sachsenspiegel and Bible. (S '42)

Great Britain

- Boorstin, D. J. Mysterious science of the law. (Ap '42)
 Knappen, M. M. Constitutional and legal history of England. (N '42)

United States

- Ashmun, H. E. Your legal and business matters and how to take care of them. (N '42)
 Brand, N. F., and Ingram, V. M. Pastor's legal adviser. (N '42)

Law, Primitive

- Llewellyn, K. N., and Hoebel, E. A. Cheyenne way. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
 Law and peace in international relations. Kelsen, H. (N '42)
 Law man of Powder valley. Field, P. (D '42)

LawyersCorrespondence, reminiscences, etc.

- Hays, A. G. City lawyer. (S '42)
 Welling, R. W. G. As the twig is bent. (D '42)
 Wellman, F. L. Success in court. (Ap '42)
 Lawyers and the Constitution. Twiss, B. R. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Lay on Mac Duff! Armstrong, C. (Ap '42)
 Layman's guide to naval strategy. Brodie, B. (O '42)
 Layoff. Dean, R. G. (Mr '42)
 Lazarus #7. Sale, R. (Ap '42)

Leadership

- Follett, M. P. Dynamic administration. (My '42)

League of nations

- Butler, H. B. Lost peace. (My '42)
 Mackinder, H. J. Democratic ideals and reality. (O '42)
 World citizens association. World's destiny and the United States. (My '42)

Learned institutions and societies

- National research council. Handbook of scientific and technical societies and institutions of the United States and Canada. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Learning, Psychology of

- Bruce, W. F., and Freeman, F. S. Development and learning. (Ag '42)
 Learning and teaching in the practice of social work. Reynolds, B. C. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Leather

- Wilson, J. A. Modern practice in leather manufacture. (Ap '42)
 Leather Pants. Hess, F. (Ap '42)
 Leaves of healing. Wallace, A. (D '42)

Lectures and lecturing

- Brown, J. M. Accustomed as I am. (Mr '42)

Lee, CharlesFiction

- Wiener, W. Morning in America. (D '42)
 Lee, Jennie (Mrs Aneurin Bevan)
 Lee, J. This great journey. (O '42)
 Lee's lieutenants, v 1. Freeman, D. S. (N '42)
 Legends of the Christ child. Fox, F. M. (Ag '42)

Leif Ericsson

- Goodwin, W. B. The truth about Leif Ericsson. (Ap '42)

Leonardo da Vinci

Juvenile literature

- Cottler, J. Man with wings. (My '42)
 Lansing, E. C. H. Leonardo, master of the renaissance. (D '42)
 Leopard cat's cradle. Barry, J. (N '42)
 Lessons of the Prince of peace. Raven, C. E. (Je '42)
 Let the people know. Angell, N. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
 Let us be merry. Dean, A. L. (Je '42)
 Let's cook. Hawkins, N. (N '42)
 Let's fly to Bermuda. Barrows, M. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
 Let's make plans. Downs, E. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
 Let's talk it over! Aries, L. P. (My '42)
 Let's write good letters. Perry, S. (D '42)
 Letter from America. Bulosan, C. (N '42)
 Letter to Great Britain from Switzerland. Eng title of: This Christian cause. Barth, K. (My '42)
 Letter to my son by a soldier's mother. (Je '42)

Lettering

- Goudy, F. W. Alphabet, and elements of lettering. (Ag '42)

Letters

- Elbogen, P., ed. Dearest mother. (Je '42)
 Letters of Harry Arthur Dade of Kew, Surrey, England, to his refugee son. Dade, H. A. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
 Letters to a soldier. Seaton, G. W. (My '42)
 Lexington (airplane carrier)
 Johnston, S. Queen of the flat-tops. (N '42)

Liberalism (religion)

- Smith, H. S. Faith and nurture. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
 Williams, D. D. Andover liberals. (Ap '42)
 Liberators and heroes of Mexico and Central America. Lansing, M. F. (Ap '42)

Liberia

Economic conditions

- Brown, G. W. Economic history of Liberia. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)

Liberty

- Aries, L. P. Let's talk it over! (My '42)
 Butler, N. M. Liberty—equality—fraternity. (Je '42)
 Carlyle, A. J. Political liberty. (Ap '42)
 Coker, F. W., ed. Democracy, liberty, and property. (N '42)
 Fromm, E. Escape from freedom. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
 La Bostie, E. de. Anti-dictator. (D '42)
 Wallace, H. A. Price of free world victory. (O '42)
 Liberty and learning. Bunting, D. E. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Liberty bell

- Rogers, F., and Beard, A. Old Liberty bell. (O '42)
 Liberty—equality—fraternity. Butler, N. M. (Je '42)

Liberty of speech

- Bunting, D. E. Liberty and learning. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
 Chafee, Z. Free speech in the United States. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)

Liberty of the press

- Craig, A. Above all liberties. (O '42)

Libraries

New York (city)

- Downs, R. B. Resources of New York city libraries. (D '42)

South

- Gleason, E. V. A. Southern Negro and the public library. (Ap '42)

Libraries, Children's

- Fenner, P. R. Our library. (My '42)
 Lucas, M. R. Organization and administration of library service to children. (Ap '42)

Libraries, County

- Sandoe, M. W. County library primer. (O '42)

Libraries and Negroes

- Gleason, E. V. A. Southern Negro and the public library. (Ap '42)
 Library classification for public administration materials. Glidden, S. H., and Marchus, D. G. (N '42)

Library science

- Moshier, L. M., and LeFevre, H. S. Small public library. (O '42)

Dictionaries, vocabularies, etc.

- Tomlinson, L. E. Library science glossary. (N '42)

Juvenile literature

- Briggs, E. M. Friendly library. (S '42)
 Library science glossary. Tomlinson, L. E. (N '42)

Lidice, Czechoslovakia

- Millay, E. St V. Murder of Lidice. (D '42)
 Lieutenant's lady. Aldrich, B. S. (O '42)

Life

- Heermance, E. L. Time stream. (S '42)
 Hough, L. H. Patterns of the mind. (O '42)
 Morris, C. W. Paths of life. (S '42)
 Rhoades, W. Great adventure of living. (My '42)
 Schilder, P. Goals and desires of man. (O '42)
 Wilson, G. A. Reckoning with life. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
 Life and thought in the Greek and Roman world. Cary, M., and Haarhoff, T. J. (Ag '42)

- Life in eighteenth century England. Allen, R. J. (S '42)

- Life of forms in art. Focillon, H. (O '42)

- Life of the mind. Cailliet, E. (D '42)

Life saving

- Richards, P. M., and Banigan, J. J. How to abandon ship. (D '42)

- Life with baby. Godwin, E. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

- Lifelines of victory. Harris, M. G. (O '42)

Light

- Rood, R. Color and light in painting. (My '42)
 Light before dusk. Iswolsky, H. (Je '42)
 Light down, stranger. Pettibone, A. S. (S '42)
 Lighted box. Cooper, L. F. (Ap '42)

Lighthouses

- Floherly, J. J. Sentries of the sea. (S '42)

Lighting

- Boast, W. B. Illumination engineering. (D '42)

- Lights in the valley. Bodenheimer, M. (Ag '42)

Lightships

- Floherly, J. J. Sentries of the sea. (S '42)

Lincoln, Abraham

- Lorant, S. Lincoln. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
 Milton, G. F. Abraham Lincoln and the fifth column. (N '42)
 Nolan, J. C. Little giant. (O '42)
 Potter, D. M. Lincoln and his party in the secession crisis. (O '42)
 Tilley, J. S. Lincoln takes command. (Je '42)
 Washington, J. E. They knew Lincoln. (Mr '42)
 Williams, T. H. Lincoln and the radicals. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
 Wilson, R. R., ed. Lincoln among his friends. (O '42)

Anecdotes

- Lincoln, S. Mr Lincoln's funnybone. (Ap '42)

Juvenile literature

- Bailey, B. F. Abe Lincoln's other mother. (Ap '42)
 Cormack, M. Recruit for Abe Lincoln. (F '43) (1942 Annual) Meadowcroft, E. L. Abraham Lincoln. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Portraits

- Lorant, S. Lincoln. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
 Lincoln, Mrs Sarah (Bush) Johnston

Juvenile literature

- Bailey, B. F. Abe Lincoln's other mother. (Ap '42)
 Lincoln among his friends. Wilson, R. R., ed. (O '42)
 Lincoln and his party in the secession crisis. Potter, D. M. (O '42)
 Lincoln and the radicals. Williams, T. H. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
 Lincoln takes command. Tilley, J. S. (Je '42)
 Lioness of the seas. Eng title of: Action at sea. Johnston, G. H. (Mr '42)

Lions

Legends and stories

- Waldeck, T. J. Lions on the hunt. (My '42)
 Lions on the hunt. Waldeck, T. J. (My '42)
 Lipping man. Rawlings, F. (D '42)
 Listen for the laughter. Thompson, E. (Ap '42)
 Listen, Hans. Thompson, D. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Literature

- Buck, P. M. Directions in contemporary literature. (Je '42)
 Van Doren, M., ed. New Invitation to learning. (O '42)

Collections

- Leavens, R. F. and M. A., comps. Great companions, v2. (Je '42)

History and criticism

- Van Doren, M. Private reader. (Ap '42)

Philosophy

- Pollock, T. C. Nature of literature. (N '42)

Study and teaching

- Raushenbush, E. Literature for individual education. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Literature, Comparative

- Lund, N. W. Chiasmus in the New Testament. (S '42)
 Literature for individual education. Raushenbush, E. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Lithographers

- Zigrosser, C. Artist in America. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Lithographs

- Peters, H. T. Currier & Ives. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Lithuania

Economic conditions

- Simutis, A. Economic reconstruction of Lithuania after 1918. (O '42)
 Little boy lost in Brazil. Wiese, K. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Little dog barked. Rowe, A. (Ap '42)
 Little farm. Lenski, L. (O '42)
 Little geography of the United States. Pyne, M. M. (Ap '42)
 Little giant. Nolan, J. C. (O '42)
 Little hell—big heaven. Roberts, E. K. (O '42)
 Little history of the horn-book. Folmsbee, B. (D '42)
 Little house. Burton, V. L. (D '42)
 Little hunchback horse. Wicker, I. S. (F '43) (1942 Annual) Little lost monkey. Waldeck, J. B. M. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
 Little lost pigs in town. Orton, H. F. (D '42)
 Little lower than the angels. Sorensen, V. E. (Je '42)
 Little man. Sallans, G. H. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
 Little people. Halper, A. (N '42)
 Little pitchers with big ears. (D '42)
 Little red lighthouse and the great gray bridge. Swift, H. H. (O '42)
 Little red school house. De Lima, A., and others. (Mr '42)
 Little songs of the big city. Walmsley, R. G. (My '42)

Liturgies

- Applegarth, M. T. Bound in the bundle of life. (Ap '42)
 Lives around us. Devoe, A. (O '42)
 Living biographies of American statesmen. Schmittkind, H. T. and D. A. (D '42)
 Living letters from American history. Boykin, E. C., ed. (Je '42)
 Living together. Tubbs, E. V. (N '42)
 Living upstairs. Meehan, F. (S '42)

Lobbying

- Key, V. O. Politics, parties and pressure groups. (O '42)

Local government

- Jones, V. Metropolitan government. (S '42)

Locke, John

- Kendall, W. John Locke and the doctrine of majority-rule. (My '42)

Locks and keys

- Courtney, C. Unlocking adventure. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Locomotives

- Johnson, R. P. Steam locomotive. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

- Log cabin children. Johnson, E. L. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Logic

- Robinson, R. Plato's earlier dialectic. (S '42)
 Logic, Symbolic and mathematical
 Carnap, R. Introduction to semantics. (S '42)
 Logic of belief. Trueblood, D. E. (Ag '42)

London

Social life and customs

- Southworth, J. G. Vauxhall gardens. (My '42)

London. Vauxhall gardens

- Southworth, J. G. Vauxhall gardens. (My '42)

- London calling. Jameson, S., ed. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

- Lonely parade. Hurst, F. (Mr '42)

- Lonely road. Carfrae, E. (S '42)

- Long adventure. Hawthorne, H. (O '42)

- Long alert. Gibbs, P. H. (My '42)

- Long hunter. Parks, E. W. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

- Long ride. Glidden, J. H. (N '42)

- Long ships passing. Havighurst, W. (S '42)

- Long view. Taggard, G. (Ag '42)

- Long white month. Marshall, D. (S '42)

- Longhorn cowboy. Cook, J. H., and Driggs, H. R. (Je '42)

- Lonnie's Landing. Simon, C. M. H. (Ap '42)
 Look at America. Tarshis, E. K. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

- Look down from heaven. Babson, N. L. (O '42)

- Look to the mountain. Cannon, L. (Ag '42)

- Loomis, Frederick Morris

- Loomis, F. M. Bond between us. (Je '42)

- Lord of Alaska. Chevigny, H. (N '42)

Lord's prayer

- Sikorsky, I. I. Message of the Lord's prayer. (My '42)

- Tittle, E. F. Lord's prayer. (Ap '42)

Lord's supper

- Simpson, W. J. S. Ministry and the eucharist. (D '42)

- Lost chords. Gilbert, D. (N '42)

- Lost hole of Bingoola. Harris, L. G. and W. K. (D '42)

- Lost peace. Butler, H. B. (My '42)

- Lots of laughs. American Girl magazine. (O '42)

- Lot's wife. Eastman, M. (D '42)

Louisiana

Economic conditions

- Kammer, E. J. Socio-economic survey of the marshdwellers of four southeastern Louisiana parishes. (My '42)

Love

- Menninger, K. A. and J. L. Love against hate. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

- Love against hate. Menninger, K. A. and J. L. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

- Love passed this way. Ostenso, M. (Ap '42)

- Lover of life. Harsanyi, Z. (Ap '42)

- Love's lovely counterfeit. Cain, J. M. (N '42)

- Loving heart. Inglis-Jones, E. (Ap '42)

Lowell, James Russell

- Beatty, R. C. James Russell Lowell. (O '42)

Lowell, Massachusetts

- Coolidge, J. P. Mill and mansion. (N '42)
 Lower Mississippi. Carter, H. (D '42)

- Ludwig Beethoven and the chiming tower bells. Wheeler, O. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Lutheran church in South America

- Trexler, S. G. A pastor wings over South America. (Ap '42)

Mac goes to school. Wynkoop, M. L. (Ag '42)

MacArthur, Douglas

- Hersey, J. R. Men on Bataan. (Je '42)

- Miller, F. T. General Douglas MacArthur, fighter for freedom. (My '42)

Juvenile literature

- Nicolay, H. MacArthur of Bataan. (D '42)

- MacArthur on war. MacArthur, D. (S '42)

McClellan, George Brinton

- Eckenrode, H. J., and Conrad B. George B. McClellan, the man who saved the union. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)

Machine shop mathematics. Axelrod, A. (D '42)

Machine shop practice

Axelrod, A. Machine shop mathematics. (D '42)

Barnwell, G. W., ed. New encyclopedia of machine shop practice. (Ap '42)

Begeman, M. L. Manufacturing processes. (S '42)

Boston, O. W. Metal processing. (Ap '42)

Burghardt, H. D. Machine tool operation. (Ap '42)

McMackin, F. J., and Shaver, J. H. Mathematics of the shops. (O '42)

Shuman, J. T., and others. Machine shop work. (S '42)

Wagener, A. M., and Arthur, H. R. Machine shop theory and practice. (Je '42)

Juvenile literature

Kelher, A. V., ed. Machinists at work. (Ap '42)

Machine shop theory and practice. Wagener, A. M., and Arthur, H. R. (Je '42)

Machine shop work. Shuman, J. T., and others. (S '42)

Machine tool operation. Burghardt, H. D. (Ap '42)

Machine tools

Boston, O. W. Metal processing. (Ap '42)

Cole, C. B. Tool design. (Ag '42)

Hesse, H. C. Engineering tools and processes. (Je '42)

Nolan, R. R. Machine tools in aircraft production. (Ap '42)

Wagener, A. M., and Arthur, H. R. Machine shop theory and practice. (Je '42)

Machine tools in aircraft production. Nolan, R. R. (Ap '42)

Machinery

Boston, O. W. Metal processing. (Ap '42)

Marx, W. J. Mechanization and culture. (Ag '42)

Design

Nordenholt, G. F., and others. Handbook of mechanical design. (D '42)

Inspection

Michelson, L. C. Industrial inspection methods. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Machinists at work. Kelher, A. V., ed. (Ap '42)

Mad fortunes. Adams, G. K., and Hutter, E. (D '42)

Madam chairman, members and guests. Pfeffer, H. H. (My '42)

Magee, John Gillespie

Hagedorn, H. Sunward I've climbed. (N '42)

Magic and natural science in German baroque literature. Wagman, F. H. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Magic in literature

Wagman, F. H. Magic and natural science in German baroque literature. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Magic water. Webster, B. (Je '42)

Magnetism

Kelly, H. C. Textbook in electricity and magnetism. (Je '42)

Magnificent idiot. De Polnay, P. (N '42)

Magnitogorsk, Russia

Scott, J. Behind the Urals. (S '42)

Maggie murder. Warren, J. R. (Mr '42)

Maguire, William Augustus

Maguire, W. A. Rig for church. (S '42)

Maigret and M. Labbé. Simenon, G. (S '42)

Maine

Description and travel

Rich, L. D. We took to the woods. (D '42)

Social life and customs

Coffin, R. P. T. Book of uncles. (D '42)

Views

Shelton, A. C. Down to the sea in Maine. (S '42)

Majesty's rancho. Gray, Z. (N '42)

Major, and the others. Coyle, K. (D '42)

Majors, Alexander

Hawthorne, H. Ox-team miracle. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Maker of men. Eddy, G. S. (Ap '42)

Makers of destruction. Eng title of: Men of chaos. Rauschnig, H. (O '42)

Making of a reporter. Irwin, W. H. (D '42)

Making of tomorrow. De Roussy de Sales, R. J. J. F. (My '42)

Making the most of your personality. Richmond, W. V. (Ap '42)

Making the most of yourself. West, J. E. (Ap '42)

Malaya, British

Mills, L. A. British rule in eastern Asia. (S '42)

Malvern, 1941. Church of England. Archbishop of York's conference, Malvern, 1941. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Mammals

Zim, H. S. Mice, men, and elephants. (My '42)

Juvenile literature

Hogner, D. C. Animal book. (Je '42)

Man

Gard, H. V. Infinite man. (Ap '42)

Heermance, E. L. Time stream. (S '42)

Hocking, W. E. What man can make of man. (S '42)

Influence of environment

Burgess, E. W., and others. Environment and education. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Mills, C. A. Climate makes the man. (N '42)

Woodworth, R. S. Heredity and environment. (My '42)

Origin

White, A. T. Men before Adam. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Man, Prehistoric

White, A. T. Men before Adam. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Juvenile literature

Marshak, I. I., and Segal, E. How man became a giant. (Mr '42)

Man about the house. Young, F. B. (S '42)

Man and his creatures. Knapp-Fisher, H. C. (S '42)

Man and society in calamity. Sorokin, P. A. (N '42)

Man cannot tell. Scruggs, P. L. (Ap '42)

Man discovers God. Eddy, G. S. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Man from Texas. Gregory, J. (D '42)

Man from the Balkans. Glocar, E. (N '42)

Man in grey. Smith, E. F. (Mr '42)

Man is a weaver. Baity, E. C. (Ap '42)

Man lay dead. Marsh, N. (Mr '42)

Man Miss Susie loved. Tucker, A. (D '42)

Man of the hour. Kirkland, W. M. (N '42)

Man shall know. Jones, P. K. (D '42)

Man the master. Heard, G. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Man who changed his plea. Oppenheim, E. P. (Je '42)

Man who dared to care. Carroll, M. T. (D '42)

Man who feared. Jenkins, W. F. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Man who killed the deer. Waters, F. (Ag '42)

Man who lost his head. Bishop, C. H. (D '42)

Man who made news. Carlson, O. (D '42)

Man who slept all day. Venning, M. (S '42)

Man who went away. Wright, H. B. (O '42)

Man with wings. Cottler, J. (My '42)

Management and morale. Roethlisberger, F. J. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)

Manchuria

Tanaka, G. Japan's dream of world empire. (Ap '42)

Manchus

Michael, F. Origin of Manchu rule in China. (S '42)

Mandatory governments

Holcombe, A. N. Dependent areas in the post-war world. (My '42)

Mangrove coast. Bickel, K. A. (Je '42)

Manila masquerade. Garth, D. (Ag '42)

Mann, Klaus

Mann, K. Turning point. (N '42)

Mann, Thomas

Brennan, J. G. Thomas Mann's world. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Manners for moderns. McCrady, M. E. F., and Wheeler, B. (Je '42)

Man's most dangerous myth. Ashley-Montagu, M. F. (D '42)

Man's poor relations. Hooton, E. A. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Man's quest for salvation. Braden, C. S. (Ap '42)

Man's way. Cobb, H. V. (O '42)

Mansfield, Katherine

Fiction

White, N. G. Daughter of time. (My '42)

Manual for aircraft hydraulics. Thompson, J. E., and Campbell, R. B. (D '42)

Manual for analyzing and selecting textbooks. Clement, J. A. (N '42)

Manual of airbrush technique. Tobias, J. C. (S '42)

Manual of celestial navigation. Ageton, A. A. (D '42)

Manual of home vegetable gardening. Coulter, F. C. (S '42)

Manufactures

Hawthorne, K. C. How to get ahead in a defense plant. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Manufacturing processes. Begeman, M. L. (S '42)

Many happy returns. Marx, G. (Mr '42)

Maps, Military

Peattie, R. How to read military maps. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

March into tomorrow. Considine, J. J. (S '42)

Maria Rosa. Kelsey, V. (Je '42)

Marine engineering

Ford, L. R. Practical marine Diesel engineering. (Je '42)

Marine fauna

Beebe, W. Book of bays. (Ap '42)

Juvenile literature

Freund, G. P. Wonders of the sea. (Ap '42)

Miller, M. R. Along our coast. (O '42)

Marine flora

Juvenile literature

Freund, G. P. Wonders of the sea. (Ap '42)

Marion, Francis

Juvenile literature

Dean, S. W. Knight of the revolution. (Ap '42)

Marion alive. Baum, V. (Mr '42)

Maritain, Jacques

Maritain, R. We have been friends together. (Mr '42)

Mark of Seneca Basin. Langdale, H. L. R. (My '42)

Mark Twain at work. DeVoto, B. A. (S '42)

Mark Twain, boy of old Missouri. Mason, M. E. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Marked for murder. Reed, W. (Ap '42)

Marketing

Vaughan, F. L. Marketing. (Ag '42)

Marketing life insurance. Stalson, J. O. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Marling Hall. Thirkell, A. M. (N '42)

Marlowe, Christopher

Bakeless, J. E. Tragical history of Christopher Marlowe. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Battenhouse, R. W. Marlowe's Tamburlaine. (S '42)

Clark, E. G. Raleigh and Marlowe. (My '42)

Marriage

Alsop, G. F., and McBride, M. F. She's off to marriage. (O '42)

Arlitt, A. H. Family relationships. (Je '42)

Bowman, H. A. Marriage for moderns. (My '42)

Groves, E. R., and others. Sex fulfillment in marriage. (D '42)

Groves, G. H. Marriage and family life. (Ag '42)

Hildebrand, D. von. Marriage. (Ag '42)

Nash, E. M. With this ring. (D '42)

Marriage and family life. Groves, G. H. (Ag '42)

Marriage for moderns. Bowman, H. A. (My '42)

Mars' butterfly. Pleasants, H. (Ap '42)

Marshes

Johnson, D. W. Origin of the Carolina bays. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Marshmallow. Newberry, C. T. (D '42)

Martinique

Smith, N. Black Martinique, red Gulana. (My '42)

Marty Markham. Watkin, L. E. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Marx, Karl

Robinson, J. M. Essay on Marxian economics. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Sweezy, P. M. Theory of capitalist development. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Mary Celeste (brig)

Bryan, G. S. Mystery ship. (My '42)

Fay, C. E. Mary Celeste. (O '42)

Mary Stuart, queen of Scots

Fiction

Irwin, M. E. F. Gay Galliard. (Mr '42)

Maryland

Description and travel

Footner, H. Maryland main and the Eastern shore. (My '42)

Maryland main and the Eastern shore. Footner, H. (My '42)

Mass. See Roman Catholic church—Eucharist

Mass of Brother Michel. Kent, M. (Je '42)

Massachusetts general hospital, Boston

Emerson, H. Baker memorial. (Je '42)

Master mariner of Maine. Ranlett, C. E. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Materialism

Krzesnisk, A. J. Is modern culture doomed? (Je '42)

Rosenfield, L. D. C. From beast-machine to man-machine. (Ap '42)

Materials and methods for vocational training. Hill, W. E., and Ewing, C. H. (Ag '42)

Materials testing. Gilkey, H. J., and others. (Je '42)

Mathematical physics

Lindsay, R. B. Introduction to physical statistics. (Je '42)

Mathematical recreations

Kraitchik, M. Mathematical recreations. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Mathematics

Axelrod, A. Machine shop mathematics. (D '42)

Courant, R., and Robbins, H. E. What is mathematics? (My '42)

Hooper, A. Mathematics refresher. (D '42)

Kokomoor, F. W. Mathematics in human affairs. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

McMackin, F. J., and Shaver, J. H. Mathematics of the shops. (O '42)

Merriman, G. M. To discover mathematics. (D '42)

Miller, D. D. Popular mathematics. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Moss, L. Q. Practical mathematics for shipfitters. (Je '42)

Naidich, J. Mathematics for the aviation trades. (S '42)

Van Leuven, E. P. General trade mathematics. (D '42)

Dictionaries

James, G. and R. C., eds. Mathematics dictionary. (S '42)

Study and teaching

Howard, H. Mathematics teachers' views on certain issues in the teaching of mathematics. (Ap '42)

Mathematics dictionary. James, G. and R. C., eds. (S '42)

Mathematics for the aviation trades. Naidich, J. (S '42)

Mathematics in human affairs. Kokomoor, F. W. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Mathematics of the shops. McMackin, F. J., and Shaver, J. H. (O '42)

Mathematics refresher. Hooper, A. (D '42)

Mathematics teachers' views on certain issues in the teaching of mathematics. Howard, H. (Ap '42)

Matilda and her family. Mason, M. E. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Matrices

Albert, A. A. Introduction to algebraic theories. (Ap '42)

Matter, energy and radiation. Dunning, J. R., and Paxton, H. C. (Je '42)

Matto Grosso, Brazil (state)

Moennich, M. L. Pioneering for Christ in Xingu jungles. (S '42)

Maurois, Andre

Maurois, A. I remember, I remember. (N '42)

Maury family

Maury, A. F. M., ed. Intimate Virginiana. (N '42)

Mausoleum key. Daniels, N. A. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Maverick. Foster, B. (Ag '42)

Maxims

Franklin, B. Poor Richard comes to life. (Ag '42)

May I keep dogs? Barne, K. (S '42)

Mayo, Charles Horace

Clapesattle, H. Doctors Mayo. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)

Regli, A. C. Mayos. (S '42)

Mayo, William James

Clapesattle, H. Doctors Mayo. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)

Regli, A. C. Mayos. (S '42)

Mayo, William Worrall

Clapesattle, H. Doctors Mayo. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)

Regli, A. C. Mayos. (S '42)

Mazzei, Filippo

Mazzei, P. Memoirs of the life and peregrinations of the Florentine. Philip Mazzei. (O '42)

Me and the general. Wonsetler, A. H. and J. C. (O '42)

Meaning (psychology)

Richards, I. A. How to read a page. (Je '42)

Measure of a man. Aydelotte, D. (S '42)

Measurement and evaluation in the elementary school. Greene, H. A. and others. (Je '42)

Measurements of human behavior. Greene, E. B. (Ag '42)

Measuring instruments

Rhodes, T. J. Industrial instruments for measurement and control. (My '42)

Meat

Waisman, H. A. and Elvehjem, C. A. Vitamin content of meat. (My '42)

Bacteriology

Jensen, L. B. Microbiology of meats. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Mechanical drawing

Bush, G. F. Reading engineering drawings. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Giachino, J. W., and Sonsmith, H. A. Airplane drawing. (Ap '42)

Nelson, W. Airplane lofting. (Ag '42)

Thayer, H. R. Blue print reading and sketching. (Je '42)

Mechanical engineering

Hesse, H. C. Engineering tools and processes. (Je '42)

Handbooks, manuals, etc.

Marks, L. S., ed. Mechanical engineers' handbook. (My '42)

Nordenholt, G. F., and others. Handbook of mechanical design. (D '42)

Mechanical engineers' handbook. Marks, L. S., ed. (My '42)

Mechanics

Synge, J. L. and Griffith, B. A. Principles of mechanics. (D '42)

Mechanism of the electric spark. Loeb, L. B., and Meek, J. M. (Je '42)

Mechanization, Military

Lindsay, G. M. War on the civil and military fronts. (O '42)

Raborg, P. C. Mechanized might. (Je '42)

Mechanization and culture. Marx, W. J. (Ag '42)

Mechanized might. Raborg, P. C. (Je '42)

Medical service

Atkinson, E. M. Behind the mask of medicine. (Mr '42)

Medicine

Taylor, F. S. Conquest of bacteria. (My '42)

Anecdotes, facetiae, satire, etc.

O'Brien, H. V. Memories of a guinea pig. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

History

Atkinson, E. M. Behind the mask of medicine. (Mr '42)

Clendening, L., ed. Source book of medical history. (N '42)

Heidel, W. A. Hippocratic medicine. (Ap '42)

Stern, B. J. Society and medical progress. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)

Wilson, C. M. Ambassadors in white. (Ag '42)

Wilson, N. W., and Weisman, S. A. Modern medicine. (S '42)

Juvenile literature

Keliher, A. V., ed. Doctors at work. (Ap '42)

Medicine, Military

Darnall, J. R., and Cooper, V. I. What the citizen should know about wartime medicine. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Medicine and religion

Wise, C. A. Religion in illness and health. (S '42)

Medieval humanism. Walsh, G. G. (My '42)

Mediterranean front. Moorehead, A. (Ap '42)

Mediterranean, saga of a sea. Ludwig, E. (O '42)

Mediterranean sea

Ludwig, E. Mediterranean, saga of a sea. (O '42)

Moran, C. Sea of memories. (Ap '42)

Meet me in St Louis. Benson, S. (Ag '42)

Meet Mr Fortune. Bailey, H. C. (Ag '42)

Meg Randall. Grapewin, C. E. (D '42)

Meister Eckhart. Eckhart, M. (Ap '42)

Members of the family. Van de Water, F. F. (N '42)

Memoirs of an epicurean. Sedgwick, H. D. (Je '42)

Memoirs of the life and peregrinations of the Florentine. Philip Mazzei. Mazzei, P. (O '42)

Memories and opinion. Taft, H. D. (Je '42)

Memories of a guinea pig. O'Brien, H. V. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Memories of happy days. Green, J. (D '42)

Men at war. Hemingway, E., ed. (D '42)

Men before Adam. White, A. T. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Men behind the war. Steel, J. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Men do not weep. Nichols, B. (Ag '42)

Men in black. Elford, O. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Men of Albemarle. Fletcher, I. C. (N '42)

Men of chaos. Rauschnig, H. (O '42)

Men of Mexico. Magner, J. A. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Men of substance. Jordan, W. K. (D '42)

Men of the R.A.F. Rothenstein, W., and Cecil, D. (S '42)

Men of tomorrow. Johnson, T. H., ed. (N '42)

Men on Bataan. Hersey, J. R. (Je '42)

Men who make the future. Bliven, B. (Ap '42)

Men without country. Nordhoff, C. B., and Hall, J. N. (Ag '42)

Menéndez de Avilés, Pedro

Fiction

Cabell, J. B. First gentleman of America. (Mr '42)

Mennonites

Smith, C. H. Story of the Mennonites. (S '42)

Mental growth of children from two to fourteen years. Goodenough, F. L., and Maurer, K. M. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Mental health in college. Fry, C. C., and Rostow, E. G. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Mental hygiene

Clarke, E. K. Mental hygiene for community nursing. (N '42)

Fry, C. C., and Rostow, E. G. Mental health in college. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Jackson, A. S. Answer is . . . your nerves. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Mental hygiene for community nursing. Clarke, E. K. (N '42)

Mental tests

Goodenough, F. L., and Maurer, K. M. Mental growth of children from two to fourteen years. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Greene, E. B. Measurements of human behavior. (Ag '42)

Greene, H. A., and others. Measurement and evaluation in the elementary school. (Je '42)

Menus

Maddox, G. Eat well for less money. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Wood, M. Parties on a shoestring. (Ap '42)

Mercantile system

Buck, P. W. Politics of mercantilism. (Ag '42)

Merchant marine

Great Britain

- Halstead, I. Heroes of the Atlantic. (Ap '42)
 Howe, L. Merchant service to-day. (Ja '43)
 (1942 Annual)
 Laskier, F. My name is Frank. (Mr '42)

United States

- Carse, R. There go the ships. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Floherty, J. J. Youth and the sea. (My '42)
 Hutchins, J. G. B. American maritime industries and public policy. (My '42)
 Merchant seaman talks. Eng title of: My name is Frank. Laskier, F. (Mr '42)
 Merchant service to-day. Howe, L. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual) Mermaid and the Messerschmitt. Langer, R. G. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual) Merriam, Charles Edward
 White, L. D., ed. Future of government in the United States. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
Merrick, Kate (Austen) (Mrs Elliott Merrick)
 Merrick, E. Northern nurse. (Ap '42)
 Merry Christmas, Judy! Becker, C. (Ja '42)
 Merry meet again. Sechrist, E. H., ed. (My '42)
 Merry shipwreck. Duplaix, G. (Je '42)
 Message of the Lord's prayer. Sikorsky, I. I. (My '42)
 Message of the mute dog. Russell, C. M. (Mr '42)
 Metal crafts. Johnson, W. H., and Newkirk, L. V. (O '42)
Metal cutting
 Rossi, B. E. Welding and its application. (Je '42)
Metal finishing
 Coler, M. A. Aircraft engine and metal finishes. (D '42)
Metal processing. Boston, O. W. (Ap '42)
Metal work
 Becker, W. J. Metalworking made easy. (S '42)
 Begeman, M. L. Manufacturing processes. (S '42)
 Johnson, W. H., and Newkirk, L. V. Metal crafts. (O '42)
Metallography
 Chalmers, B., and Quarrell, A. G. Physical examination of metals, v.2. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
Metallurgy
 Johnson, C. G. Metallurgy. (D '42)
 Metallurgy of copper. Newton, J., and Wilson, C. L. L. (D '42)
Metals
 Elberfeld, J. Strength and properties of materials. (D '42)
 Twyman, F. Spectrochemical analysis of metals and alloys. (My '42)
 Metalworking made easy. Becker, W. J. (S '42)
Metaphysics
 Pepper, S. C. World hypotheses. (N '42)
Meteorites
 Watson, F. G. Between the planets. (Ap '42)
Meteorological optics
 Middleton, W. E. K. Visibility in meteorology. (O '42)
Meteorology
 Kraght, P. E. Meteorology for ship and aircraft operation. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Sloane, E. Clouds, air and wind. (Ap '42)
 Westrom, W. H. Weather and the ocean of air. (Ap '42)
 Meteorology for ship and aircraft operation. Kraght, P. E. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual) Meteorology in aeronautics
 Halpine, C. G. Pilot's meteorology. (Je '42)
 Kraght, P. E. Meteorology for ship and aircraft operation. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Sloane, E. Clouds, air and wind. (Ap '42)
 Vetter, E. G. Visibility unlimited. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
 Wright, B. A. and others. Flight. (Je '42)
Meteors
 Watson, F. G. Between the planets. (Ap '42)
Methodology
 Ducasse, C. J. Philosophy as a science. (Je '42)
 Lowinger, A. Methodology of Pierre Duhem. (Je '42)

Negley, G. Organization of knowledge. (Je '42)

- Methodology of Pierre Duhem. Lowinger, A. (Je '42)
 Methods of correlation analysis. Ezekiel, M. J. B. (F '43) (1942 Annual) Metropolitan government. Jones, V. (S '42)
 Mexico

Biography

- Lansing, M. F. Liberators and heroes of Mexico and Central America. (Ap '42)
 Magner, J. A. Men of Mexico. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Foreign relations

- Kirk, B. Covering the Mexican front. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

History

- Díaz del Castillo, B. Cortez and the conquest of Mexico by the Spaniards in 1521. (Je '42)
 Madariaga, S. de. Hernán Cortés, conqueror of Mexico. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
 Magner, J. A. Men of Mexico. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Politics and government

- Kirk, B. Covering the Mexican front. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Social life and customs

- Diamant, G. Days of Ofelia. (Ag '42)
 Mexico and the Inca lands. Busoni, R. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Mice, men, and elephants. Zim, H. S. (My '42)
 Michael Shayne takes over. Dresser, D. (N '42)
 Michael's girl. Kerr, S. (Ap '42)
Michelangelo Buonarroti
 Lerman, L. Michelangelo. (D '42)
 Microbiology and man. Birkeland, J. M. (F '43) (1942 Annual) Microbiology of meats. Jensen, L. B. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Microchemistry

- Benedetti-Pichler, A. A. Introduction to the microtechnique of inorganic analysis. (D '42)

Microfilms

- Fussler, H. H. Photographic reproduction for libraries. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Micro-organisms

- Birkeland, J. M. Microbiology and man. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Micro-organisms, Pathogenic

- Birkeland, J. M. Microbiology and man. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Microphotography

- Allen, R. M. Photo-micrography. (Je '42)
 Fussler, H. H. Photographic reproduction for libraries. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Microscope and microscopy

- Corrington, J. D. Working with the microscope. (Ag '42)

Middle-East window. Bowman, H. E. (S '42)

Middle Moffat. Estes, E. (O '42)

Midnight house. Eng title of: Her heart in her throat. White, E. L. (S '42)

Midnight reader. Stern, P. V., ed. (My '42)

Midsummer night's murder. Torrey, W. (My '42)

Mighty blockhead. Gruber, F. (Ap '42)

Migration, Internal

- Collins, H. H. America's own refugees. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)

Hobbs, A. H. Differentials in internal migration. (S '42)

Migration of workers

- Collins, H. H. America's own refugees. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)

McWilliams, C. Ill fares the land. (Ap '42)

Miledi. Eng title of: Bride of glory. Field, B. (Ap '42)

Militarism

- Fried, H. E. Guilt of the German army. (O '42)

Military art and science

- Clarkson, J. D., and Cochran, T. C., eds. War as a social institution. (Ap '42)

Clausewitz, K. von. Principles of war. (D '42)

Kirk, G. L., and Stebbins, R. P., eds. War and national policy. (S '42)

Lindsay, G. M. War on the civil and military fronts. (O '42)

- MacArthur, D. MacArthur on war. (S '42)
 McKinley, S. B. Democracy and military power. (Je '42)
 Newman, J. R. Tools of war. (My '42)
 Portway, D. Military science to-day. (Ap '42)
 Wright, Q. Study of war. (N '42)
- Dictionaries
 Colby, E. Army talk. (Ap '42)
 Pratt, F. What the citizen should know about modern war. (Je '42)
- Military law
 Schiller, A. A. Military law and defense legislation. (Je '42)
 Military law and defense legislation. Schiller, A. A. (Je '42)
- Military posts
 Sullivan, C. J., comp. Army posts and towns. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Military science to-day. Portway, D. (Ap '42)
- Milky way
 Bok, B. J. and P. F. Milky way. (My '42)
 Mill and mansion. Coolidge, J. P. (N '42)
 Mill talk and other poems. Jennings, L. N. (N '42)
- Millhands and preachers. Pope, L. (S '42)
 Milling-machine indexing. Felker, C. A., and Paine, H. W. (Ag '42)
- Milling machinery
 Colvin, F. H. Running a milling machine. (Ag '42)
 Felker, C. A., and Paine, H. W. Milling-machine indexing. (Ag '42)
 Million-miler. Tunis, J. R. (Ag '42)
 Milly and her dogs. Barksdale, L. (Je '42)
- Milton, John
 Kelley, M. W. This great argument. (O '42)
 Mind of a poet. Havens, R. D. (My '42)
 Mind of the Maker. Sayers, D. L. (Mr '42)
 Mind's geography. Zabriskie, G. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
- Minerals in nutrition. Wirtschafter, Z. T. (O '42)
- Minerals in the body
 Pattee, A. F. Vitamins and minerals for everyone. (Ap '42)
 Wirtschafter, Z. T. Minerals in nutrition. (O '42)
- Mining engineering
 Peele, R., and Church, J. A., eds. Mining engineers' handbook. (Ap '42)
 Mining engineers' handbook. Peele, R., and Church, J. A., eds. (Ap '42)
- Ministry and the eucharist. Simpson, W. J. S. (D '42)
- Minnesota
Description and travel
 Writer's program. Minnesota Arrowhead country. (Ap '42)
 Minnesota Arrowhead country. Writer's program. (Ap '42)
Minnesota. Commission of administration and finance
 Short, L. M., and Tiller, C. W. Minnesota commission of administration and finance, 1925-1939. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Minorities
 Locke, A. Le R., ed. When peoples meet. (My '42)
- Miracle, morality and mystery plays
 Loomis, R. S., and Wells, H. W., eds. Representative medieval and Tudor plays. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Miracle on the Congo. Burman, B. L. (S '42)
 Miracle-stories of the Gospels. Richardson, A. (Je '42)
- Miracles
 Richardson, A. Miracle-stories of the Gospels. (Je '42)
- Miró, Joan
 Sweeney, J. J., ed. Joan Miro. (My '42)
 Miss Bronska. Sheldon, J. P. (Mr '42)
 Miss Milverton. Eng title of: Poison is a bitter brew. Hocking, A. (My '42)
 Miss Sue and the sheriff. House, R. B. (Mr '42)
 Missee Lee. Ransome, A. (My '42)
 Mission to Moscow. Davies, J. E. (Mr '42)
 Missionary message of the Bible. Love, J. P. (My '42)
- Missions
 Carver, W. O. Christian missions in today's world. (N '42)
- Love, J. P. Missionary message of the Bible. (My '42)
 Smith, R. L. Revolution in Christian missions. (My '42)
- Alaska
 Savage, A. H. Dogsled apostles. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Brazil
 Moennich, M. L. Pioneering for Christ in Kingu jungles. (S '42)
- Central America
 Morgan, C. M. Rim of the Caribbean. (O '42)
- China
 Burke, J. C. My father in China. (N '42)
- Cuba
 Davis, J. M. Cuban church in a sugar economy. (S '42)
- East (Far East)
 Considine, J. J. March into tomorrow. (S '42)
- Latin America
 Rycroft, W. S. On this foundation. (O '42)
- West Indies
 Morgan, C. M. Rim of the Caribbean. (O '42)
 Mississippi belle. Ripley, C. (Ap '42)
- Mississippi river
 Carter, H. Lower Mississippi. (D '42)
 Hereford, R. A. Old Man River. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Mississippi valley
 Carter, H. Lower Mississippi. (D '42)
- Missouri
Social life and customs
 Lyon, M. And green grass grows all around. (N '42)
- Mr Bumps and his monkey. De La Mare, W. J. (D '42)
 Mr Justice Holmes. Biddle, F. B. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Mr Limpel. Pratt, T. (Mr '42)
 Mr Lincoln's funnybone. Lincoln, A. (Ap '42)
 Mr Marlow takes to rye. Bentley, J. (Ap '42)
 Mr Pan. Hahn, E. (Je '42)
 Mr Rutledge of South Carolina. Barry, R. H. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
 Mr Tootwhistle's invention. Wells, P. (Je '42)
 Mr W. & I. Webster, C. L. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual) Mrs Appleyard's kitchen. Kent, L. A. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Mitchell, William
 Gauvreau, E. H., and Cohen, L. Billy Mitchell. (O '42)
- Model aircraft handbook. Winter, W. J. (Ap '42)
 Model corpse. Clark, M. B. (My '42)
 Model is murdered. Lee, M. V. (O '42)
 Model planes for beginners. Gilmore, H. H. (F '43) (1942 Annual) Model railroad engineering. Marshall, D. (S '42)
- Modeling
 Silvercruys, S. Primer of sculpture. (Ag '42)
 Modern attack on tuberculosis. Chadwick, H. D., and Pope, A. S. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
 Modern battle. Thompson, P. W. (Ap '42)
 Modern bread from the viewpoint of nutrition. Sherman, H. C., and Pearson, C. S. (Ag '42)
 Modern Burma. Christian, J. L. (S '42)
 Modern camouflage. Breckenridge, R. P. (D '42)
 Modern composers for boys and girls. Burch, G. (Ap '42)
 Modern concise encyclopedia. (My '42)
 Modern fly casting. Knight, J. A. (S '42)
 Modern government in action. Griffith, E. S. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual) Modern high school curriculum. Belting, P. E. and N. M. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Modern Jewish preaching. Freehof, S. B. (S '42)
 Modern marine electricity. Smith, P. de W. (Je '42)
 Modern medicine. Wilson, N. W., and Weisman, S. A. (S '42)
 Modern pattern design. Pepin, H. (D '42)
 Modern philosophies of Judaism. Agus, J. B. (N '42)
 Modern plywood. Perry, T. D. (My '42)

- Modern practice in leather manufacture. Wilson, J. A. (Ap '42)
- Modern pulp and paper making. Witham, G. S. (Ag '42)
- Modern sanitary engineering. Mitchell, G. E. (D '42)
- Modern world politics. Kalijarvi, T., and others. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Mohammad, the prophet
Bengalee, M. R. Life of Muhammad. (N '42)
- Molecules
Pearse, R. W. B., and Gaydon, A. G. Identification of molecular spectra. (Je '42)
- Money in the bank. Wodehouse, P. G. (Mr '42)
- Monkeys
Legends and stories
Waldeck, J. B. M. Little lost monkey. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Monroe doctrine
Whitaker, A. P. United States and the independence of Latin America, 1800-1830. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
- Montgolfier, Jacques Étienne
Anderson, L. Bag of smoke. (N '42)
- Montgolfier, Joseph Michel
Anderson, L. Bag of smoke. (N '42)
- Montreal
Leacock, S. B. Montreal: seaport and city. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Moody, John
Moody, J. Fast by the road. (My '42)
- Moon
Whipple, F. L. Earth, moon and planets. (Je '42)
- Moon is down. Steinbeck, J. (Ap '42)
- Moon is down; play in two parts. Steinbeck, J. (O '42)
- Moon lies fair. Thielens, G. O. (Je '42)
- Moral ideals of our civilization. Tsanoff, R. A. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Morale
Farago, L., and Gittler, L. F., eds. German psychological warfare. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Logan, M. Home front digest. (S '42)
- Nash, J. B. Building morale. (Je '42)
- Pardue, A. Your morale and how to build it. (S '42)
- Society for the psychological study of social issues. Civilian morale. (N '42)
- More day to dawn. Lee, H. (Ag '42)
- More poems from the Palatine anthology. Anthologia graeca. (O '42)
- More than you promise. Smallzried, K. A., and Roberts, D. J. (D '42)
- Morgan, Sir Henry
Fiction
Cochran, H. Windward passage. (Je '42)
- Morgan, John Hunt
Holland, C. F. Morgan and his raiders. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Morgan and his raiders. Holland, C. F. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Mormon country. Stegner, W. (N '42)
- Mormon recreation in theory and practice. Skidmore, R. A. (S '42)
- Mormons and Mormonism
Anderson, N. Desert saints. (Je '42)
- Curtis, B. S. Sacred Scriptures and religious philosophy. (N '42)
- Skidmore, R. A. Mormon recreation in theory and practice. (S '42)
- Stegner, W. Mormon country. (N '42)
- Morning in America. Wiener, W. (D '42)
- Morris, Walter Ripton
Morris, W. R. American in search of a way. (D '42)
- Morse, Edward Sylvester
Wayman, D. G. Edward Sylvester Morse. (D '42)
- Moscow under fire. Eng title of: All-out on the road to Smolensk. Caldwell, E. (Ap '42)
- Moscow war diary. Werth, A. (My '42)
- Moses
Fiction
Hardy, W. G. All the trumpets sounded. (S '42)
- Mother finds a body. Lee, G. R. (N '42)
- Moths
Kane, H. B. Tale of the promethea moth. (Je '42)
- Juvenile literature
Matschat, C. H. American butterflies and moths. (Ag '42)
- Motion pictures. Writer's program, Pennsylvania. (S '42)
- Motives for Christian living. King, W. P. (N '42)
- Motor trucks
Hill, S. E. Teamsters and transportation. (Ag '42)
- Mottoes
Shankle, G. E. American mottoes and slogans. (Ap '42)
- Mountain whites (South)
Day, J. F. Bloody ground. (Ap '42)
- Thomas, J. B. Blue Ridge country. (Ap '42)
- Mountaineering
Henderson, K. A., ed. American Alpine club's handbook of American mountaineering. (Ag '42)
- Hunt, R. A. White Mountain holidays. (Ap '42)
- Mountains
Fenton, C. L. and M. A. Mountains. (N '42)
- Peattie, R., ed. Friendly mountains. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Juvenile literature
Elms, F. R. Mountains of the world. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Mountains of the world. Elms, F. R. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Mountains wait. Broch, T. (Ja '42)
- Moving finger. Christie, A. M. (N '42)
- Moving pictures
Paul, E. H. With a Hays nonny nonny. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Rosten, L. C. Hollywood. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
- Van Doren, M. Private reader. (Ap '42)
- Waples, D., ed. Print, radio, and film in a democracy. (My '42)
- Cartoons
Feild, R. D. Art of Walt Disney. (Ag '42)
- Juvenile literature
Writers' program, Pennsylvania. Motion pictures. (S '42)
- Moving pictures, Talking
Eizenshtein, S. M. Film sense. (S '42)
- Moving pictures in education
American council on education. Committee on motion pictures in education. Selected educational motion pictures. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Hoban, C. F. Focus on learning. (N '42)
- McDonald, G. D. Educational motion pictures and libraries. (My '42)
- Mud on the stars. Huie, W. B. (Ag '42)
- Municipal government
Jones, V. Metropolitan government. (S '42)
- Rush, J. A. City-county consolidated. (My '42)
- Munitions
Newman, J. R. Tools of war. (My '42)
- Munitions industry
Atwater, E. American regulation of arms exports. (N '42)
- Stryker, P. Arms and the aftermath. (Mr '42)
- Murder
Dempewolff, R. Famous old New England murders. (S '42)
- Murder among friends. Lewis, L. (S '42)
- Murder at Stone house. Howie, E. (My '42)
- Murder at the Kentucky Derby. Farmer, C. B. (O '42)
- Murder behind the mike. Goldman, R. L. (Mr '42)
- Murder by nail. Eng title of: Valley of night. Farnol, J. (N '42)
- Murder by reflection. Heard, G. (N '42)
- Murder by the yard. Yates, M. T. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Murder calling 50. Bagby, G. A. (S '42)
- Murder, chop chop. Schmidt, J. N. (Mr '42)
- Murder enters the picture. Barber, W. A., and Schabelitz, R. F. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Murder follows Desmond Shannon. Heberden, M. V. (My '42)

Murder for pleasure. Haycraft, H. (1941, 1942 Annuals)
 Murder goes rolling along. Moore, H. F. S. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Murder in retrospect. Christie, A. M. (Ag '42)
 Murder is out. Thayer, L. (Ap '42)
 Murder makes a racket. Heberden, M. V. (D '42)

Murder meets Mephisto. Mario, Q. (Mr '42)
 Murder needs a face. Fenisong, R. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Murder needs a name. Fenisong, R. (Je '42)
 Murder of Lidice. Millay, E. St V. (D '42)
 Murder on location. Thayer, L. (S '42)
 Murder R. F. D. Petersen, H. (Ap '42)
 Murder steps in. Russell, C. M. (D '42)
 Murder will in. Wells, C. (Ag '42)
 Murder with southern hospitality. Brown, Z. (Mr '42)

Murder's so permanent. Howie, E. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Murray, John

Skinner, C. R., and Cole, A. S. Hell's ram-parts fell. (My '42)

Music

Schnabel, A. Music and the line of most resistance. (Ag '42)
 Simon, R. E., ed. Be your own music critic. (Ag '42)

Analysis, interpretation, appreciation

Barbour, H. B., and Freeman, W. S. How to teach children to know music. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Howard, J. T. This modern music. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
 Kolodin, I. Guide to recorded music. (Mr '42)

Bibliography

Gramophone shop, inc. Gramophone shop encyclopedia of recorded music. (D '42)

History and criticism

Láng, P. H. Music in western civilization. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
 Moore, D. S. From madrigal to modern music. (My '42)

Instruction and study

Barbour, H. B., and Freeman, W. S. How to teach children to know music. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Stinson, E. L. How to teach children music. (Ap '42)

Philosophy and esthetics

Einstein, A. Greatness in music. (Mr '42)

New York (city)

Aldrich, R. Concert life in New York. (Je '42)

Spain

Chase, G. Music of Spain. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)

United States

Ewen, D. Music comes to America. (Ap '42)

Music, Popular

Gilbert, D. Lost chords. (N '42)
 Music and the line of most resistance. Schnabel, A. (Ag '42)

Music comes to America. Ewen, D. (Ap '42)
 Music goes round. Gaisberg, F. W. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Music in western civilization. Láng, P. H. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual) Music of Spain. Chase, G. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)

Musical form

Moore, D. S. From madrigal to modern music. (My '42)

Musical instruments

Simon, R. E., ed. Be your own music critic. (Ag '42)

Juvenile literature

Huntington, H. E. Tune up. (Ag '42)
 Lacey, M. Picture book of musical instruments. (Ag '42)

Musicians

Einstein, A. Greatness in music. (Mr '42)
 Ewen, D., ed. Book of modern composers. (D '42)

Schnabel, A. Music and the line of most resistance. (Ag '42)

Correspondence, reminiscences, etc.

Gaisberg, F. W. Music goes round. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Rimskii-Korsakov, N. A. My musical life. (Ap '42)
 Verdi, G. Verdi, the man in his letters. (Je '42)

Juvenile literature

Burch, G. Modern composers for boys and girls. (Ap '42)

Musings of an angler. Smith, O. W. (S '42)
 Musk and amber. Mason, A. E. W. (S '42)

Mustang. Hinkle, T. C. (S '42)

My adventures in Zufii. Cushing, F. H. (O '42)
 My appeal to the British. Gandhi, M. K. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

My father in China. Burke, J. C. (N '42)

My first geography of the Americas. Sondergaard, A. (O '42)

My friends, the apes. Benchley, B. J. (S '42)

My heart for hostage. Hillyer, R. S. (N '42)

My India. My West. Eng title of: Warning to the West. Shridharani, K. J. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

My love belongs to me. Black, D. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

My musical life. Rimskii-Korsakov, N. A. (Ap '42)

My name is Frank. Laskier, F. (Mr '42)

My philosophy of law. Northwestern university. Julius Rosenthal foundation for general law. (Ag '42)

My remarkable uncle. Leacock, S. B. (Ap '42)

My room is my hobby. Downer, M. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

My Uncle Dudley. Morris, W. (My '42)

My Uncle Newt. Eisenberg, F. (D '42)

My world—and welcome to it. Thurber, J. (D '42)

My Yankee mother. French, H. E. (My '42)

Mysteries, Religious

Linforth, I. M. Arts of Orpheus. (S '42)

Mysterious science of the law. Boorstin, D. J. (Ap '42)

Mystery for Mary. Hanson, V. (Ag '42)

Mystery in the woodshed. Malleon, L. B. (Ag '42)

Mystery of the Mahteb. Lide, A. A., and Johansen, M. A. (D '42)

Mystery of the red triangle. Tuttle, W. C. (Ap '42)

Mystery on the Mississippi. Chapman, M. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Mystery ship. Bryan, G. S. (My '42)

Mysticism

Eckhart. Meister. Meister Eckhart. (Ap '42)
 Myth of the Negro past. Herskovits, M. J. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)

Mythology

Bulfinch, T. Book of myths. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Hamilton, E. Mythology. (Je '42)

Hungerford, E. B. Shores of darkness. (N '42)

Scott, O. E. Stars in myth and fact. (D '42)

Name that animal. Driver, E. C. (S '42)

Name your poison. Reilly, H. K. (S '42)

Names, Personal

Adamic, L. What's your name? (O '42)

Nancy Naylor, air pilot. Lansing, E. H. (Ag '42)

Nancy of Apple Tree Hill. Justus, M. (D '42)

Napoleon at the Channel. Lenanton, C. M. A. O. (S '42)

Napoleonic wars

Lenanton, C. M. A. O. Napoleon at the Channel. (S '42)

Tarle, E. V. Napoleon's invasion of Russia. (Ap '42)

Napoleon's invasion of Russia. Tarle, E. V. (Ap '42)

Nappy wanted a dog. Hogan, I. (O '42)

Narrow street. Eng title of: Last time I saw Paris. Paul, E. H. (My '42)

Natalie Maisie and Pavilastukay. Masefield, J. (S '42)

Nathanael, Saint, apostle

Fiction

Sutphen, W. G. van T. I. Nathanael, knew Jesus. (Ap '42)

Nation and family. Myrdal, A. R. (Ap '42)

National banks

United States

Peach, W. N. Security affiliates of national banks. (Je '42)

National bituminous coal commission. Baker, R. H. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

National characteristics, American

Aries, L. P. Let's talk it over! (My '42)

Mead, M. And keep your powder dry. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

National characteristics, Canadian

Hutchison, B. Unknown country. (Mr '42)

Sandwell, B. K. Canadian peoples. (N '42)

National characteristics, French

Jacques, French soldier speaks. (Ag '42)

National characteristics, German

Coole, W. W., and Potter, M. F., eds. Thus speaks Germany. (Mr '42)

Thompson, D. Listen, Hans. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

National characteristics, Italian

Sforza, C. Real Italians. (Ag '42)

National characteristics, Japanese

Hall, J. W. Behind the face of Japan. (D '42)

National income and its composition. Kuznets, S. S., and others. (Ag '42)

National labor union

Todes, C. William H. Sylvis and the National labor union. (O '42)

National songs, American

Hart, W. J. Stories of our national songs. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Lyons, J. H. Stories of our American patriotic songs. (D '42)

Nationalism and nationality

Emerson, R. Government and nationalism in southeast Asia. (S '42)

Kohn, H. World order in historical perspective. (S '42)

Native labor problem of South Africa. Tinley, J. M. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Natural and synthetic high polymers. Meyer, K. H. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Natural history

Ley, W. Days of creation. (Ap '42)

Ragon, H. L. Fragrance, philosophies, and conversations of a year. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Teale, E. W. Byways to adventure. (Ag '42)

Juvenile literature

Hylander, C. J. Out of doors in autumn. (D '42)

Hylander, C. J. Out of doors in spring. (Ag '42)

Hylander, C. J. Out of doors in summer. (S '42)

Rocky mountains

Fenton, C. L. and M. A. Mountains. (N '42)

Natural resources

Galloway, G. B., ed. Planning for America. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)

Natural way to draw. Nicolaides, K. (O '42)

Nature in poetry

Coatsworth, E. J. Country poems. (N '42)

Nature of literature. Pollock, T. C. (N '42)

Nature of thermodynamics. Bridgman, P. W. (Ag '42)

Nautical astronomy

Ageton, A. A. Manual of celestial navigation. (D '42)

Naval architecture

Comstock, J. P. Introduction to naval architecture. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Naval art and science

Brodie, B. Layman's guide to naval strategy. (O '42)

Dictionaries

Pratt, F. What the citizen should know about modern war. (Je '42)

Navigation

Ageton, A. A. Manual of celestial navigation. (D '42)

Richards, P. M., and Banigan, J. J. How to abandon ship. (D '42)

Navigation (aeronautics)

Debenham, F. Astrographics. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Vetter, E. G. Visibility unlimited. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Wylie, C. C. Astronomy, maps and weather. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Navy diver. Felsen, G. (D '42)

Navy wife. Pye, A. E., and Shea, N. B. (Je '42)

Navy wings. Miller, H. B. (D '42)

Nayar. Menendez, M. A. (Mr '42)

Nazi conquest of Danzig. Leonhardt, H. L. (O '42)

Nazi guide to Nazism. Tell, R., ed. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Nazi underground in South America. Fernández Artucio, H. (Ap '42)

Nazis in the woodpile. Glesinger, E. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Near horizons. Teale, E. W. (D '42)

Nearer the earth. Borst, B. (S '42)

Needed—women in aviation. Chapelle, G. L. M. (Ag '42)

Needed—women in government service. Chapelle, G. L. M. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Needle point as a hobby. Lent, D. G. (Ag '42)

Needle to the North. Twomey, A. C., and Herrick, N. (Je '42)

Needle trades. Seldman, J. I. (S '42)

Needs of youth. Doane, D. C. (Je '42)

Negro caravan. Brown, S. A., and others, eds. (My '42)

Negro federal government worker. Hayes, L. J. W. (Je '42)

Negro literature

Collections

Brown, S. A., and others, eds. Negro caravan. (My '42)

Negro problem

Sylvester, H. Dearly beloved. (Ap '42)

Negro race

Herskovits, M. J. Myth of the Negro past. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)

Negro songs

Loesser, A. Humor in American song. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Parrish, L. A. Slave songs of the Georgia Sea islands. (S '42)

Negroes

Embree, E. R. American Negroes. (O '42)

Hurston, Z. N. Dust tracks on a road. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Redding, J. S. No day of triumph. (N '42)

Education

Swint, L. H. Northern teacher in the South. (Je '42)

Employment

Hayes, L. J. W. Negro federal government worker. (Je '42)

Moral and social conditions

Davis, A. and others. Deep South. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)

Sutherland, R. L. Color, class, and personality. (My '42)

District of Columbia

Washington, J. E. They knew Lincoln. (Mr '42)

South Carolina

Klingberg, F. J. Appraisal of the Negro in colonial South Carolina. (Je '42)

Negroes in Brazil

Pleron, D. Negroes in Brazil. (N '42)

Nervous system

Diseases

Jackson, A. S. Answer is... your nerves. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Net impressions. Keller, A. G. (D '42)

Netherlands

Colonies

Hyma, A. Dutch in the Far East. (N '42)

Netherlands Indies

Hyma, A. Dutch in the Far East. (N '42)

Economic conditions

Boeke, J. H. Structure of Netherlands Indian economy. (D '42)

Broek, J. O. M. Economic development of the Netherlands Indies. (O '42)

Emerson, R. Netherlands Indies and the United States. (D '42)

Netherlands Indies and the United States. Emerson, R. (D '42)

Netherlands New Guinea

Crockett, C. D. House in the rain forest. (Ap '42)

Neuroses

Gillespie, R. D. Psychological effects of war on citizen and soldier. (My '42)
Kraines, S. H. Therapy of the neuroses and psychoses. (Ag '42)

Neuroses, Traumatic

Kardiner, A. Traumatic neuroses of war. (Ag '42)

Neutrality

Clarkson, J. D., and Cochran, T. C., eds. War as a social institution. (Ap '42)

Nevada

Lillard, R. G. Desert challenge. (N '42)
Never come morning. Algren, N. (My '42)
Never no more. Lavery, M. (Ap '42)
New alphabet of aviation. Shenton, E. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
New and selected poems. Schauflier, R. H. (My '42)
New belief in the common man. Friedrich, C. J. (S '42)
New constitution now. Hazlitt, H. (D '42)
New day. Romain, J. (Ap '42)
New deal: will it survive the war? Atkinson, C. (N '42)
New dictionary of quotations on historical principles from ancient and modern sources. Mencken, H. L., ed. (Je '42)
New earth and a new earth. Reiser, O. L. (Ap '42)
New economic warfare. Basch, A. (Ap '42)
New encyclopedia of machine shop practice. Barnwell, G. W., ed. (Ap '42)
New England earth. Stanford, D. (Je '42)
New garden encyclopedia. Seymour, E. L. D., ed. (Ag '42)

New GuineaDescription and travel

Mytinger, C. Head hunting in the Solomon islands around the Coral sea. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
Ripley, S. D. Trail of the money bird. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

New HampshireHistory

Saltonstall, W. G. Ports of Piscataqua. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
New Hampshire borns a town. Rawson, M. N. (My '42)
New Hope. Suckow, R. (Ap '42)
New horizons. Gill, F. C. (S '42)
New ice-breakers. Geister, E. (S '42)
New Invitation to learning. Van Doren, M., ed. (O '42)
New liberties for old. Becker, C. L. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
New order in Poland. Segal, S. (Je '42)

New Orleans

Sinclair, H. Port of New Orleans. (S '42)

Description

Cohn, D. L. New Orleans and its living past. (My '42)

Historic houses, etc.

Cohn, D. L. New Orleans and its living past. (My '42)
New Orleans and its living past. Cohn, D. L. (My '42)
New paths in genetics. Haldane, J. B. S. (My '42)
New poems. Coleridge, H. (D '42)
New poems: 1942. Williams, O., ed. (Je '42)
New Testament studies. Booth, E. P., ed. (N '42)
New town in Texas. Johnson, S. J. (N '42)
New way of life. Hichens, R. S. (Ap '42)
New York (city). Investigation, Department of Seidman, H. Investigating municipal administration. (Je '42)
New world horizons. Lawrence, C. H., ed. (N '42)

New York (city)

Berger, M. Eight million. (Ag '42)

Biography

Liebling, A. J. The telephone booth Indian. (Mr '42)

Politics and government

Seidman, H. Investigating municipal administration. (Je '42)

Social life and customs

Odell, G. C. D. Annals of the New York stage, v 13. (N '42)
New York (city). Little red school house, inc. De Lima, A., and others. Little red school house. (Mr '42)
New York (state)

Social conditions

Schneider, D. M., and Deutsch, S. History of public welfare in New York state, v 2. (Ap '42)
New York stock exchange
Shultz, B. E. Securities market and how it works. (Ag '42)
New York zoological society. Department of tropical research. 38th expedition
Beebe, W. Book of bays. (Ap '42)
New Zealand

Description and travel

Macpherson, M. L. I heard the Anzacs singing. (Ag '42)

NewfoundlandConstitutional history

McLintock, A. H. Establishment of constitutional government in Newfoundland. (My '42)
Newport, Rhode Island. Old stone mill
Means, P. A. Newport tower. (Ag '42)
Newport tower. Means, P. A. (Ag '42)
News agencies
Cooper, K. Barriers down. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
News is a weapon. Gordon, M. (D '42)
Newsmen's holiday. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
Newspaper and society. Bird, G. L., and Merwin, F. E., eds. (Ag '42)

Newspapers

Whipple, L. R. How to understand current events. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)

Nez Percés IndiansWar, 1877

Howard, H. A., and McGrath, D. L. War chief Joseph. (Je '42)
Nicomemus runs away. Hogan, I. (Ap '42)
Niemöller, Martin
Stein, L. I was in hell with Niemoeller. (O '42)
Night and day. Brown, M. W. (N '42)
Night and no moon. Odium, J. (Je '42)
Night before Christmas. Moore, C. C. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual) Night boat. Pease, H. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
Night freight murders. Fleming, R. (My '42)
Night of flame. Carter, H. D. (Ag '42)
Night shift. Wolff, M. M. (D '42)
Nikkernik, Nakkernak and Nokkernok. De Jong, D. (D '42)

Nitrogen compounds

Degering, E. F., and others. Outline of organic nitrogen compounds. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
No boundary line. Darling, E. B. (Ag '42)
No brighter glory. Sperry, A. (O '42)
No coffin for the corpse. Rawson, C. (S '42)
No common glory. Pilgrim, D. (My '42)
No crime for a lady. Popkin, Z. (O '42)
No day of triumph. Redding, J. S. (N '42)
No hiding place. Seabrook, W. B. (D '42)
No limits but the sky. Kidder, M. B. B. (S '42)
No match for murder. Webb, J. F. (Ap '42)
No murder. Eng title of: The apprehensive dog. Bailey, H. C. (Ap '42)
No past is dead. Stewart, A. W. (Ag '42)
No retreat. Rauschnig, A. S. (Je '42)
No second spring. Mitchell, S. V. (My '42)
No sign shall be given. Tigner, H. S. (S '42)
No surrender. Albrand, M. (N '42)

Nobel, Alfred Bernhard

Pauli, H. E. Alfred Nobel: dynamite king—architect of peace. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
Nobody's children. Kusmaul, R. (D '42)
Nobody's vineyard. Bailey, H. C. (O '42)
None but the brave. Marshall, R. V. (Je '42)
None more courageous. Holbrook, S. H. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

- Nor any victory. Brock, R. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Norma Ashe, Glaspell, S. (N '42)
- Norman, Montagu
Hargrave, J. Montagu Norman, (Ap '42)
- Norris, Frank
Marchand, E. L. Frank Norris. (D '42)
- North America
- Economic conditions
Daniel, H. North America, wheel of the future. (My '42)
- North America, wheel of the future. Daniel, H. (My '42)
- North Atlantic patrol. Coale, G. B. (S '42)
- North Carolina
- Biography
Henderson, A. North Carolina, the Old North state and the new. (Je '42)
- History
Henderson, A. North Carolina, the Old North state and the new. (Je '42)
- North Carolina, the Old North state and the new. Henderson, A. (Je '42)
- North to danger. Gill, T. (D '42)
- Northbridge rectory. Thirkell, A. M. (Mr '42)
- Northern editorials on secession. Perkins, H. C., ed. (N '42)
- Northern nurse. Merrick, E. (Ap '42)
- Northern teacher in the South. Swint, L. H. (Je '42)
- Northwest
Henry, R. C. High border country. (Ag '42)
- Northwest, Pacific
Blankenship, R. And there were men. (S '42)
- Freeman, O. W., and Martin, H. H., eds. Pacific Northwest. (S '42)
- Northwest territories, Canada
Finnie, R. Canada moves north. (Je '42)
- Norway
- Politics and government
Koht, H. Norway, neutral and invaded. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
- Social life and customs
Undset, S. Happy times in Norway. (D '42)
- Norway and the war. Curtis, M., ed. (S '42)
- Norway, neutral and invaded. Koht, H. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
- Norwegian poetry
- Translations into English
Stork, C. W., tr. Anthology of Norwegian lyrics. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Nose, Accessory sinuses of Grove, R. C. Sinus. (Ap '42)
- Not by bread alone. Dun, A. (Ap '42)
- Not even death. Maynard, T. (S '42)
- Not hers alone. Allen, S. E. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Not-Mrs-Murphy. Gordon, P. (D '42)
- Notable women of Pennsylvania. Philadelphia sesquicentennial celebration. Committee of 1926. (Ag '42)
- Note-books of night. Wilson, E. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Nothing ever ends. Parrott, K. U. T. (S '42)
- Nova Scotia
- Description and travel
Duncan, D. Bluenose. (S '42)
- Ward, L. R. Nova Scotia. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Novelists
Gelsmar, M. D. Writers in crisis. (S '42)
- Novelty on earth. Duley, M. (Je '42)
- Now and on earth. Thompson, J. M. (Je '42)
- Nuclear physics
Stranathan, J. D. Particles of modern physics. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Nuns
- Poetry
Hayes, J. M., ed. In praise of nuns. (D '42)
- Nurses and nursing
Clarke, E. K. Mental hygiene for community nursing. (N '42)
- Dickens, M. One pair of feet. (S '42)
- Dicks, R. L. Who is my patient? (Mr '42)
- Grant, A. H. Nursing. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Merrick, E. Northern nurse. (Ap '42)
- Norlin, E. E., and Donaldson, B. M. Everyday nursing for the everyday home. (My '42)
- Red cross. United States. American national Red cross. American Red cross textbook on Red cross home nursing. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Sutherland, D. G. Do you want to be a nurse? (Ag '42)
- Young, H., and others. Essentials of nursing. (N '42)
- Nurses and nursing, Public health
Wales, M. Public health nurse in action. (My '42)
- Nursing. Grant, A. H. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Nutrition
Bradley, A. V. Tables of food values. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Maddox, G. Eat well for less money. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Sherman, H. C., and Pearson, C. S. Modern bread from the viewpoint of nutrition. (Ag '42)
- Taylor, C. M. Food values in shares and weights. (O '42)
- Taylor, D. Nutrition handbook. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Wirtschafter, Z. T. Minerals in nutrition. (O '42)
- Nutrition handbook. Taylor, D. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Obstetrics
Irving, F. C. Safe deliverance. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Loomis, F. M. Bond between us. (Je '42)
- O'Casey, Sean
O'Casey, S. Pictures in the hallway. (Ap '42)
- Occupational mobility. Pancoast, O. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
- Occupations
Anderson, H. D., and Davidson, P. E. American job trends. (My '42)
- Barrett, T. Your job and American victory. (O '42)
- Davis, S. C. Your career in defense. (My '42)
- Faust, J. F., ed. Girl's place in life and how to find it. (Je '42)
- Kitson, H. D., and Lingenfelter, M. R. Vocations for boys. (Je '42)
- Nall, T. O., and Davis, B. H. Jobs for today's youth. (My '42)
- Newman, S. C. Employment problems of college students. (Je '42)
- Pancoast, O. Occupational mobility. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
- Wren, H. A. Vocational aspiration levels of adults. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Ocean in English history. Williamson, J. A. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Ocean outposts. Follett, H. T. (Je '42)
- Oceania
Abend, H. Ramparts of the Pacific. (Je '42)
- Follett, H. T. Ocean outposts. (Je '42)
- McGuire, P. Westward the course! (Mr '42)
- Odd—but even so. Wren, P. C. (S '42)
- Odd byways in American history. Warren, C. (My '42)
- Odyssey of a faith. Heller, B. (N '42)
- Oedipus at Colonus. Sophocles. (My '42)
- Of books and men. Reilly, J. J. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Of the people. Warfel, H. R., and Manwaring, E. W., eds. (S '42)
- Office management
Glaser, C. Administrative procedure. (My '42)
- Niles, H. E. and M. C. H. Office supervisor. (D '42)
- Office supervisor. Niles, H. E. and M. C. H. (D '42)
- Offshore gold. Larssen, P. (Je '42)
- Oglala Indians
Sandoz, M. Crazy Horse. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Oglethorpe, James Edward
- Juvenile literature
Carroll, M. T. Man who dared to care. (D '42)

- Ohnstad, Karsten
Ohnstad, K. World at my finger tips. (Ag '42)
- Oil, blood and sand. Baker, R. L. (O '42)
- Oil burner service manual. Steiner, K., and Ravensbeck, F. (S '42)
- Oil burners
Steiner, K., and Ravensbeck, F. Oil burner service manual. (S '42)
- Oil in the earth. Pratt, W. E. (D '42)
- Oklahoma
Description and travel
Writers program. Oklahoma; a guide to the Sooner state. (Ap '42)
- History
Foreman, G. History of Oklahoma. (S '42)
- Social life and customs
McDonald, A. Old McDonald had a farm. (Ap '42)
- Old age pensions
Parker, J. S. Social security reserves. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Old Liberty bell. Rogers, F., and Beard, A. (O '42)
- Old McDonald had a farm. McDonald, A. (Ap '42)
- Old Man River. Hereford, R. A. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Old Nick and Bob. Hinkle, T. C. (Ap '42)
- Old soldiers never die. Ronald, J. (Ag '42)
- Old South. Wertebaker, T. J. (Je '42)
- Old Wolf. Dean, L. W. (D '42)
- Oliver, Henry William
Evans, H. O. Iron pioneer. (D '42)
- On being an architect. Lescage, W. H. (Ag '42)
- On borrowed peace. Loewenstein, H. (D '42)
- On ice. Dean, R. G. (S '42)
- On native grounds. Kazin, A. (D '42)
- On the agenda of democracy. Merriam, C. E. (Ap '42)
- On this foundation. Rycroft, W. S. (O '42)
- On wings of healing. Doberstein, J. W., comp. (S '42)
- On Zionism. Brandeis, L. D. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Once off guard. Wallis, J. H. (Ap '42)
- Once upon a time. Watson, K. W., ed. (Ag '42)
- One braver thing. Harris, C. (O '42)
- One destiny. Stong, P. D. (D '42)
- 101 home furnishings. Wakefield, L. S. (Ag '42)
- 100 puzzles. Filipiak, A. S. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- One life to lose. Hogeboom, A., and Ware, J. F. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- One man's meat. White, E. B. (Ag '42)
- One more such victory. Parrott, K. U. T. (Ag '42)
- One nation indivisible. Norris, K. T. (N '42)
- One pair of feet. Dickens, M. S. (S '42)
- One small candle. Roberts, C. (S '42)
- $1,000 a week. Farrell, J. T. (My '42)
- One Wordsworth. Burton, M. E. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- O'Neill, Hugh, 2d earl of Tyrone. See Tyrone, Hugh O'Neill, 2d earl of
- Only one storm. Hicks, G. (My '42)
- Only the good. Collins, M. G. (O '42)
- Only the guilty. Stein, A. M. (Ap '42)
- Only the stars are neutral. Reynolds, Q. J. (Ag '42)
- Ontario
History
Landon, F. Western Ontario and the American frontier. (O '42)
- Ontology
Santayana, G. Realms of being. (S '42)
- Schelling, F. W. J. von. Ages of the world. (N '42)
- Open door. Van Keuren, F. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Open fire. Holmes, W. J. (S '42)
- Open then the door. Carousso, D. (Mr '42)
- Open water. Wriston, H. T. (My '42)
- Opera
History
Brockway, W., and Weinstock, H. Opera. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
- Opinion conflict and school support. Rope, F. T. (Ap '42)
- Opium trade
Merrill, F. T. Japan and the opium menace. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Oppenheim, Edward Phillips
Oppenheim, E. P. The pool of memory. (Ap '42)
- Orchestras
Eberle, I. Bands play on. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Order of the day. Mann, T. (D '42)
- Ordinary people. Eng title of: People of my own. Pargeter, E. (Mr '42)
- Ordinance
Ley, W. Shells and shooting. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Organic analytical reagents. Yoe, J. H., and Sarver, L. A. (Ag '42)
- Organic reagents in inorganic analysis. Von Stein, P. (D '42)
- Organization and administration of library service to children. Lucas, M. R. (Ap '42)
- Organization of knowledge. Negley, G. (Je '42)
- Oriental division. G-2. Mason, V. (S '42)
- Orientalism in school health. Langton, C. V. (Ap '42)
- Origin of Manchu rule in China. Michael, F. (S '42)
- Origin of the Carolina bays. Johnson, D. W. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Ornamental American shrubs. Van Dersal, W. R. (D '42)
- Orpheus
Linfirth, I. M. Arts of Orpheus. (S '42)
- Orthopedia
Raney, R. B., and Shands, A. R. Primer on the prevention of deformity in childhood. (O '42)
- Ossoli, Sarah Margaret (Fuller) marchesa d'
Stern, M. B. Life of Margaret Fuller. (Mr '42)
- Other horseman. Wylie, P. (S '42)
- Other woman. Moore, I. (Je '42)
- Our age of unreason. Alexander, F. (N '42)
- Our American game birds. Heilner, V. (Ap '42)
- Our Aunt Auda. Pakington, H. (Ap '42)
- Our changing society. Landis, P. H. (Je '42)
- Our children face war. Wolf, A. W. M. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Our economic problems. Bohlman, H. W. and M. E. M. (N '42)
- Our enemy Japan. Fleisher, W. (My '42)
- Our eternal contemporary. Horton, W. M. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Our fighting faith. Conant, J. B. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Our fighting ships. Katz, M. D., and others. (Ag '42)
- Our good neighbors in Latin America. West, W. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Our Hawaii. Fergusson, E. (Ap '42)
- Our hearts were young and gay. Skinner, C. O., and Kimbrough, E. (D '42)
- Our India. Masani, M. R. (S '42)
- Our lady peace and other war poems. Van Doren, M. (N '42)
- Our landed heritage. Robbins, R. M. (My '42)
- Our library. Fenner, P. R. (My '42)
- Our Miss Boo. Runbeck, M. L. (Ap '42)
- Our new army. Andrews, M. (N '42)
- Our side is right. Perry, R. B. (N '42)
- Our United States secret service. Crump, I. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Out of a handkerchief. Jacobs, F. E. (S '42)
- Out of darkness. Holmes, J. H. (Je '42)
- Out of doors in autumn. Hylander, C. J. (D '42)
- Out of doors in spring. Hylander, C. J. (Ag '42)
- Out of doors in summer. Hylander, C. J. (S '42)
- Out of the blitz. Hopwood, P. G. S. (Ag '42)
- Out of the jewel. Humphries, R. (Ap '42)
- Out on any limb. Myers, J. M. (S '42)
- Outlaw island. Hilliard, A. R. (N '42)
- Outline history of Spanish American literature. Instituto internacional de literatura ibero-americana. (My '42)
- Outline of organic nitrogen compounds. Degering, E. F., and others. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Outline of political geography. Horrabin, J. F. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Outlines of food technology. Von Loesecke, H. W. (O '42)
- Outlines of Russian culture. Milfukov, P. N. (Je '42)

- Outwitting the hazards. Bacon, F. L. (Ag '42)
 Outworn business idols. Conant, W. H. (Ap '42)
 Over the Big Hill. Lovelace, M. H. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Overland journeys to the Pacific
 Driggs, H. R. Westward America. (Ap '42)
 Overturned lake. Ford, C. H. (Je '42)
 Owen of the Bluebird. Taylor, F. W. (D '42)
 Owls don't blink. Fair, A. A. (S '42)
 Oxford companion to American literature. Hart, J. D. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
 Oxford dictionary of quotations. (Ag '42)
 Ox-team miracle. Hawthorne, H. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Ozark mountains
 Lyon, M. And green grass grows all around. (N '42)
- Pablo of Flower mountain. Von Hagen, C. B. (Je '42)
 Pacific Northwest. Freeman, O. W., and Martin, H. H. eds. (S '42)
- Pacific ocean
 Trumbull, R. The raft. (S '42)
 Pack up your troubles. Russell, F. A., ed. (N '42)
 Paddies. Tracy, E. B. (Je '42)
 Paddy the Cope. Gallagher, P. (My '42)
 Paddy's Christmas. Monsell, H. A. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Pageant of India. Yeats-Brown, F. C. C. (N '42)
 Pageant of life. Thomas, L. J. (Ap '42)
 Pageant of South American history. Peck, A. M. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual) Pageant of the popes. Farrow, J. D. (D '42)
- Paint
 Mattiello, J. J., ed. Protective and decorative coatings, vi-2. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Painters
 Cheney, S. W. Story of modern art. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
 Frost, R. Contemporary art. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Painters, American
 Janis, S. They taught themselves. (Ap '42)
 Sears, C. E. Some American primitives. (Ap '42)
- Painters, Italian
 Gregory, P. When painting was in glory, 1280-1580. (Ag '42)
- Painting
 Cheney, S. W. Story of modern art. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
 Frost, R. Contemporary art. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Rood, R. Color and light in painting. (My '42)
 Taubes, F. You don't know what you like. (N '42)
- History
 Robb, D. M., and Garrison, J. J. Art in the western world. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Italy
 Gregory, P. When painting was in glory, 1280-1580. (Ag '42)
- Painting, American
 Janis, S. They taught themselves. (Ap '42)
 Lipman, J. H. American primitive painting. (Ag '42)
- Painting, Renaissance
 Gregory, P. When painting was in glory, 1280-1580. (Ag '42)
- Paintings
 Frost, R. Contemporary art. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Klee, P. Paul Klee; paintings, watercolors, 1913-1939. (Je '42)
- Juvenile literature
 Gibson, K. Pictures to grow up with. (Je '42)
- Paintings, American
 New York. Museum of modern art. Americans, 1942. (Ag '42)
- Paintings, Dutch
 Hals, F. Paintings. (My '42)
- Paintings, Italian
 Raphael. [Paintings and drawings]. (Ag '42)
- Paleontology
 Ley, W. Days of creation. (Ap '42)
 Palmetto country. Kennedy, S. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Panama canal
 Padelford, N. J. Panama canal in peace and war. (Ap '42)
- Juvenile literature
 Fast, H. M. Goethals and the Panama canal. (Ag '42)
- Panama canal in peace and war. Padelford, N. J. (Ap '42)
- Pan American progress. Green, P. L. (O '42)
- Pan Americanism
 Green, P. L. Pan American progress. (O '42)
- Pangermanism
 Coole, W. W., and Potter, M. F., eds. Thus speaks Germany. (Mr '42)
 Pangoan diary. Harkness, R. (Ag '42)
- Pan-Pacific relations
 Bradley, A. Trans-Pacific relations of Latin America. (O '42)
- Bibliography
 Bradley, A. Trans-Pacific relations of Latin America. (O '42)
- Pantry family. Proudfit, I. B. (Ag '42)
- Paper making and trade
 Johnson, W. H., and Newkirk, L. V. Graphic arts. (S '42)
 Witham, G. S. Modern pulp and paper making. (Ag '42)
- Parables told to the people by Jesus of Nazareth. Bible. New Testament. Gospels (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Parachutes
 Zim, H. S. Parachutes. (O '42)
- Pardners of the Badlands. Drago, H. S. (N '42)
- Parent and child
 Wolf, A. W. M. Our children face war. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Paris
Social life and customs
 Paul, E. H. Last time I saw Paris. (My '42)
 Thomas, E. F., ed. Paris we remember. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual) Paris we remember. Thomas, E. F., ed. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual) Parity, parity, parity. Black, J. D. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Parker, Henry
 Jordan, W. K. Men of substance. (D '42)
- Parker, Horatio William
 Semler, I. P., and Underwood, P. Horatio Parker. (Ag '42)
- Parkman, Francis
 Wade, M. Francis Parkman, heroic historian. (D '42)
- Particles of modern physics. Stranathan, J. D. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Parties on a shoestring. Wood, M. (Ap '42)
- Parts of a world. Stevens, W. (O '42)
- Party government. Schattschneider, E. E. (Ag '42)
- Passing strange. Sale, R. (S '42)
- Passport to adventure. Cotlow, L. N. (Ap '42)
- Past imperfect. Chase, I. (Ap '42)
- A pastor wings over South America. Trexler, S. G. (Ap '42)
- Pastoral work
 Holman, C. T. Getting down to cases. (Je '42)
- Pastor's legal adviser. Brand, N. F., and Ingram, V. M. (N '42)
- Patents
 Folk, G. E. Patents and industrial progress. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
 Reimann, G. Patents for Hitler. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Patents and industrial progress. Folk, G. E. (F '43) (1942 Annual) Patents for Hitler. Reimann, G. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Path to reconstruction. Russell, L. M. R. (D '42)
- Paths of life. Morris, C. W. (S '42)
- Patrick, son of thunder. Stephenson, D. D. M. (Ap '42)
- Patriotism. Votaw, C. E. (My '42)

Pattern making

McCaslin, H. J. Wood patternmaking. (Ap '42)

Patterns of the mind. Hough, L. H. (O '42)

Paul, Saint

Rolston, H. Social message of the Apostle Paul. (S '42)

Pavlova, Anna

Malvern, G. Dancing star. (Ag '42)

Paying for defense. Hart, A. G., and Allen, E. D. (My '42)

Payment deferred. Forester, C. S. (Mr '42)

Peace

Einzig, P. Appeasement: before, during and after the war. (Ag '42)

Harding, D. C. W. Impulse to dominate. (O '42)

Hartill, P., ed. Into the way of peace. (O '42)

Hoffman, R. J. S. Great republic. (Je '42)

Hoover, H. C., and Gibson, H. Problems of lasting peace. (Ag '42)

Kelsen, H. Law and peace in international relations. (N '42)

Molyneux, M. Peace now and forever. (O '42)

Peace and bread. Grein, L. (N '42)

Peace by power. Gelber, L. M. (Je '42)

Peace conference, 1919

Luckau, A. M. The German delegation at the Paris peace conference. (Ap '42)

Peace now and forever. Molyneux, M. (O '42)

Pearl harbor, Battle of, 1941

Clark, T. B. Remember Pearl harbor! (My '42)

Pearl harbour. Eng title of: Remember Pearl harbor. Clark, T. B. (My '42)

Peggy covers the clipper. Bugbee, E. (Ap '42)

Peirce, Waldo

Varga, M. Waldo Peirce. (Ag '42)

Pemberton, John Clifford

Pemberton, J. C. Pemberton, defender of Vicksburg. (My '42)

Pendulum. Kenyon, T. (Je '42)

Pennsylvania

Biography

Philadelphia sesquicentennial celebration. Committee of 1926. Notable women of Pennsylvania. (Ag '42)

Description and travel

Weygandt, C. Plenty of Pennsylvania. (N '42)

History

Writers' program. Pennsylvania cavalcade. (N '42)

Social life and customs

Weygandt, C. Plenty of Pennsylvania. (N '42)

Pennsylvania cavalcade. Writers' program. (N '42)

Pennsylvania Germans. Wood, R., ed. (Ag '42)

Penny and the white horse. Bianco, M. W., and Collison, M. (D '42)

Pensions, Military

Collins, C. R. Army woman's handbook. (N '42)

People of my own. Pargeter, E. (Mr '42)

People of Poros. Gray, P. S. (N '42)

People under Hitler. Deuel, W. R. (Mr '42)

People who work near our house. Judson, C. I. (S '42)

People's business. Bolles, J. K. (Ag '42)

Pepita Bonita. Crane, A. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Perhaps a little danger. Clements, E. H. (S '42)

Perilous night. Boyce, B. (Mr '42)

Permanent international armistice commission

Shurtle, S. G. Spa, Versailles, Munich. (Ap '42)

Permanent revolution. Neumann, S. (D '42)

Person, place and thing. Shapiro, K. J. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Personal recollections. Pratt, J. B. (Je '42)

Personalities behind the Psalms. Whyte, R. B. (S '42)

Personalities

Angyal, A. Foundations for a science of personality. (Ap '42)

Dickerson, R. E. Understanding myself. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Sutherland, R. L. Color, class, and personality. (My '42)

Wise, C. A. Religion in illness and health. (S '42)

Personality, Disorders of

Bowlby, J. Personality and mental illness. (O '42)

Fry, C. C., and Rostow, E. G. Mental health in college. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Personality and mental illness. Bowlby, J. (O '42)

Personnel service in education

Germane, C. E. and E. G. Personnel work in high schools. (Je '42)

Kefauver, G. N., and Hand, H. C. Appraising guidance in secondary schools. (Ap '42)

Newman, S. C. Employment problems of college students. (Je '42)

Wrenn, C. G., and Bell, R. Student personnel problems. (My '42)

Personnel work in high schools. Germane, C. E. and E. G. (Je '42)

PeruDescription and travel

Harkness, R. Pangoan diary. (Ag '42)

Kidder, M. B. B. No limits but the sky. (S '42)

History

Birney, H. Brothers of doom. (Je '42)

Peter in Sweden. Armfield, C. S. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Peter on the Min. Clark, D. (Je '42)

Peter Piper's pickled peppers. Hunt, M. L. (Ap '42)

Petey. Jackson, L. (N '42)

PetroleumGeology

Pratt, W. E. Oil in the earth. (D '42)

Petroleum industry and trade

Asbury, H. Golden flood. (My '42)

Leven, D. D. Done in oil. (Ap '42)

Nelson, W. L. Petroleum refinery engineering. (S '42)

Pratt, W. E. Oil in the earth. (D '42)

Petroleum refinery engineering. Nelson, W. L. (S '42)

Petrova, Olga

Petrova, O. Butter with my bread. (N '42)

Petticoat vagabond in Ainu land and up and down eastern Asia. James, N. (My '42)

pH and electro titrations. Kolthoff, I. M., and Laitinen, H. A. (O '42)

Phantom filly. Chamberlain, G. A. (Mr '42)

Phantom lady. Woolrich, C. (S '42)

Pharmacological basis of therapeutics. Goodman, L. S., and Gilman, A. (Ap '42)

Pharmacology

Goodman, L. S., and Gilman, A. Pharmacological basis of therapeutics. (Ap '42)

Phenomenology

Welch, E. P. Philosophy of Edmund Husserl. (Ag '42)

Philadelphia

History

Bridenbaugh, C. and J. H. Rebels and gentlemen. (N '42)

Social life and customs

Bridenbaugh, C. and J. H. Rebels and gentlemen. (N '42)

Philippine islands

Porter, C. L. Crisis in the Philippines. (Ap '42)

Church history

Cornish, L. C. Philippines calling. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Description and travel

Cornish, L. C. Philippines calling. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Foreign relations

Hayden, J. R. The Philippines. (Mr '42)

Politics and government

Hayden, J. R. The Philippines. (Mr '42)

Social conditions

Hayden, J. R. The Philippines. (Mr '42)

Philippine poetry (English)

Bulosan, C., ed. Chorus for America. (N '42)

The Philippines. Hayden, J. R. (Mr '42)

Philippines calling. Cornish, L. C. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Philosophies of science. Ramsperger, A. G. (O '42)

Philosophy

- Cobb, H. V. Man's way. (O '42)
 Ducasse, C. J. Philosophy as a science. (Je '42)
 Garnett, C. B. Quest for wisdom. (N '42)
 Langer, S. K. K. Philosophy in a new key. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual) McWilliams, J. A. Philosophy for the millions. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Maritain, J. Ransoming the time. (Ap '42)
 Martin, S. B., and others. History of philosophy. (My '42)
 Parkes, H. B. Pragmatic test. (S '42)
 Santayana, G. Realms of being. (S '42)

Dictionaries

- Runes, D. D., ed. Dictionary of philosophy. (Ag '42)
Philosophy, American
 James, W. As William James said. (S '42)

Philosophy, French

- Rosenfield, L. D. C. From beast-machine to man-machine. (Ap '42)

Philosophy, German

- Butler, R. D'O. Roots of national socialism. (My '42)

Philosophy, Jewish

- Agus, J. B. Modern philosophies of Judaism. (N '42)

Philosophy, Modern

- Willey, B. Seventeenth century background. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Philosophy, Oriental

- Lin, Y., ed. Wisdom of China and India. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Philosophy as a science. Ducasse, C. J. (Je '42)Philosophy for the millions. McWilliams, J. A. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)Philosophy in a new key. Langer, S. K. K. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)Philosophy of Alfred North Whitehead. Schilpp, P. A., ed. (My '42)Philosophy of Edmund Husserl. Welch, E. P. (Ag '42)Photograph

- Gaisberg, F. W. Music goes round. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Photograph records

- Gramophone shop, inc. Gramophone shop encyclopedia of recorded music. (D '42)

- Kolond, I. Guide to recorded music. (Mr '42)

- Smith, C. E., and others. Jazz record book. (Je '42)

Photoelasticity

- Frucht, M. M. Photoelasticity, v 1. (Ap '42)

- Photographer's rule book. June, L. (Ap '42)

Photographic books

- Gilpin, L. Pueblos; a camera chronicle. (Ap '42)

- Kane, H. B. Tale of the promethea moth. (Je '42)

- Photographic reproduction of libraries. Fussler, H. H. (Ja '43)

Photography

- Johnson, W. H., and Newkirk, L. V. Graphic arts. (S '42)

- June, L. Photographer's rule book. (Ap '42)

- Roebuck, J. R., and Staehle, H. C. Photography. (My '42)

Apparatus and supplies

- Bagley, J. W. Aerophotography and aerophotography. (Je '42)

Photography, Aerial

- Bagley, J. W. Aerophotography and aerophotography. (Je '42)

Photography of animals

- Doyle, R. J. Tuffy. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Photography of children

- Montgomery, E. R. Bonnie's baby brother and how he grew. (N '42)

Photomicrography

- Allen, R. M. Photo-micrography. (Je '42)

- Physical and chemical methods of sugar analysis. Browne, C. A., and Zerban, F. W. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

- Physical chemistry. Gucker, F. T., and Mel-drum, W. B. (D '42)

- Physical climatology. Landsberg, H. (N '42)

- Physical examination of metals, v2. Chalmers, B., and Quarrell, A. G. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Physical geographySouth Carolina

- Johnson, D. W. Origin of the Carolina bays. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

- Physical science. Ehret, W. F., ed. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

PhysiciansCorrespondence, reminiscences, etc.

- Barker, L. F. Time and the physician. (My '42)

- DeVighne, H. C. Time of my life. (N '42)

- Irving, F. C. Safe deliverance. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

- Loomis, F. M. Bond between us. (Je '42)

Physics

- Dunning, J. R., and Paxton, H. C. Matter, energy and radiation. (Je '42)

- Swann, W. F. G., and Freeman, I. M. Physics. (Ap '42)

History

- Reichenbach, H. From Copernicus to Einstein. (S '42)

Methodology

- Lindsay, R. B. Introduction to physical statistics. (Je '42)

Philosophy

- Lowinger, A. Methodology of Pierre Duhem. (Je '42)

- Physiological hygiene. Hickman, C. P. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Physiology

- Hickman, C. P. Physiological hygiene. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

PianoforteInstruction and study

- Cooke, C. Playing the piano for pleasure. (Mr '42)

Pickens, Fort

- Tilley, J. S. Lincoln takes command. (Je '42)

- Picnic book. Fredrikson, C. L. (S '42)

Picnics

- Fisher, H. S. Good time at your picnic. (D '42)

- Fredrikson, C. L. Picnic book. (S '42)

- Picture-book history of the Jews. Fast, H. M. and B. (S '42)

- Picture book of musical instruments. Lacey, M. (Ag '42)

- Picture tales from India. Metzger, B. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

- Pictures in the hallway. O'Casey, S. (Ap '42)

- Pictures to grow up with. Gibson, K. (Je '42)

- Pied Piper. Norway, N. S. (Mr '42)

Pigments

- Zechmeister, L., and Cholnoky, L. Principles and practice of chromatography. (S '42)

- Pilot's meteorology. Halpine, C. G. (Je '42)

- Pink camellia. Bailey, T. (S '42)

- Pink egg. Boyden, P. C. (My '42)

- Pioneering for Christ in Xingu jungles. Moen-nich, M. L. (S '42)

- Piozzi, Mrs Hester Lynch (Salisbury) Thrale

- Piozzi, H. L. S. T. Thraliana. (D '42)

- Piper's son. Barto, E. N. (O '42)

Piscataqua river

- Saltonstall, W. G. Ports of Piscataqua. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Pizarro, Francisco, marquis

- Birney, H. Brothers of doom. (Je '42)

- Place in the sun. Fenton, F. (S '42)

- Place of little birds. Eng title of: Attack in the desert. Home, M. (Mr '42)

- Place where thou standest. Scherer, P. E. (S '42)

- Places. Belloc, H. (Ap '42)

- Plain-chant for America. Chapin, K. G. (Mr '42)

Plain dealer, Cleveland

- Shaw, A. H. Plain dealer. (Mr '42)

- Plain words about venereal disease. Parran, T., and Vonderlehr, R. A. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)

Planets

- Whipple, F. L. Earth, moon and planets. (Je '42)

- Planning for America. Galloway, G. B., ed. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)

- Planning industrial recreation. Duggins, G. H., and Eastwood, F. R. (Je '42)
Plans for a post-war world. Johnsen, J. E., comp. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Plant lore
Quinn, V. Vegetables in the garden and their legends. (Ag '42)
Plant production control. Koepke, C. A. (My '42)
- Plastic materials
Dearle, D. A. Plastic molding. (Je '42)
DuBois, J. H. Plastics. (D '42)
Sasso, J. Plastics for industrial use. (D '42)
Thayer, G. B. Plastics mold designing. (Ag '42)
Plastic molding. Dearle, D. A. (Je '42)
Plastics. DuBois, J. H. (D '42)
Plastics for industrial use. Sasso, J. (D '42)
Plastics mold designing. Thayer, G. B. (Ag '42)
- Plato
Robinson, R. Plato's earlier dialectic. (S '42)
Plato's earlier dialectic. Robinson, R. (S '42)
Playing the piano for pleasure. Cooke, C. (Mr '42)
Plays for Americans. Oboler, A. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual) Plays of America's explorers and founders. Ullman, S. S. (My '42)
- Pledges (law)
Warren, E. H. Rights of margin customers. (My '42)
Plenty of Pennsylvania. Weygandt, C. (N '42)
Plow Penny mystery. Davis, L. R. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
Plume rouge. Terrell, J. U. (S '42)
- Plywood
Perry, T. D. Modern plywood. (My '42)
- Poe, Edgar Allan
Concordances
Booth, B. A., and Jones, C. E. Concordance of the poetical works of Edgar Allan Poe. (My '42)
Poems and new poems. Bogan, L. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
Poems for life. Clark, T. C., comp. (Ap '42)
Poems I remember. Kieran, J. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
Poems of this war. Ledward, P., and Strang, C., eds. (D '42)
Poet in blue minor. Schwartz, S. S. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual) Poetic drama. Kreymborg, A., ed. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
- Poetry
Coffin, R. P. T. Substance that is poetry. (D '42)
Daniels, E. R. K. Art of reading poetry. (Ag '42)
Osgood, C. G. Poetry as a means of grace. (Ap '42)
Pottle, F. A. Idiom of poetry. (Je '42)
Tate, A., ed. Language of poetry. (My '42)
Collections
Jolas, E., ed. and tr. Vertical. (My '42)
Thoburn, J., ed. Away in a manger. (N '42)
- Poetry (individual authors)
Aiken, C. P. Brownstone eclogues. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
Armour, R. W. Yours for the asking. (D '42)
Ascoli, A. M. M. P. G. C. Poems. (Mr '42)
Bacon, M. Lament for the chieftains. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual) Beecher, J. Here I stand. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
Benét, S. V. Selected works. (Ag '42)
Berryman, J. Poems. (N '42)
Blackmur, R. P. Second world. (S '42)
Bodenheim, M. Lights in the valley. (Ag '42)
Bogan, L. Poems and new poems. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual) Borland, H. G. America is Americans. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
Brinnin, J. M. Garden is political. (Je '42)
Brontë, E. J. Complete poems. (Ap '42)
Bulosan, C. Letter from America. (N '42)
Burt, M. S. War songs. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
Chapin, K. G. Plain-chant for America. (Mr '42)
Clark, L. S. Star for beacon. (Ap '42)
Coatsworth, E. J. Country poems. (N '42)
Coffin, R. P. T. There will be bread and love. (My '42)
Coleridge, H. New poems. (D '42)
Cowley, M. Dry season. (S '42)
Crowell, G. N. Facing the stars. (Ag '42)
Davis, H. L. Proud riders. (Je '42)
Dow, D. Time and love. (O '42)
Eastman, M. Lot's wife. (D '42)
Eberhart, R. Song and idea. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual) Engle, P. West of midnight. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
Ficke, A. D. Tumultuous shore. (Je '42)
Finley, J. H. Poems. (Ap '42)
Flanner, H. If there is time. (O '42)
Ford, C. H. Overturned lake. (Je '42)
Frost, F. M. Christmas in the woods. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
Frost, R. Witness tree. (Je '42)
Gibson, W. W. Alert. (My '42)
Gogarty, O. St. J. Elbow room. (My '42)
Goodman, P. Stop-light. (Je '42)
Guerard, A. J. Robert Bridges. (My '42)
Hughes, L. Shakespeare in Harlem. (My '42)
Humphries, R. Out of the jewel. (Ap '42)
Jarrell, R. Blood for a stranger. (N '42)
Jeffers, R. Be angry at the sun. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
Jennings, L. N. Mill talk and other poems. (N '42)
Lee, H. More day to dawn. (Ag '42)
MacIntyre, C. F. Black bull. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
MacLeod, N. We thank you all the time. (Ap '42)
Masefield, J. Gautama the enlightened. (Ap '42)
Masefield, J. Natalie Maisie and Pavilastukay. (S '42)
Maynard, T. Not even death. (S '42)
Millay, E. St. V. Murder of Lidice. (D '42)
Nash, O. Good intentions. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
Nathan, R. Dunkirk. (S '42)
Norman, C. Savage century. (Je '42)
Norris, K. T. One nation indivisible. (N '42)
Olson, T. Hawk's way. (My '42)
Patchen, K. Dark kingdom. (Je '42)
Prince, F. T. Poems. (S '42)
Quinn, J. R. Beyond this wall. (O '42)
Rawley, C. Selected poems. (Je '42)
Rilke, R. M. Poems from the Book of hours. Das Stundenbuch. (My '42)
Rilke, R. M. Sonnets to Orpheus. (S '42)
Rodgers, W. R. Awake! (My '42)
Roditi, E. Prison within prison. (O '42)
Rogers, V. H. Bathsheba. (Je '42)
Roskolenko, H. I went into the country. (Ap '42)
Schauffler, R. H. New and selected poems. (My '42)
Schwartz, S. S. Poet in blue minor. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
Scott, W. T. Sword on the table. (D '42)
Scott, W. T. Wind the clock. (My '42)
Scruggs, A. M. Ritual for myself. (Ap '42)
Shapiro, K. J. Person, place and thing. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
Sitwell, E. Street songs. (D '42)
Sloane, M. H. Strong cables rising. (N '42)
Spender, S. Ruins and visions. (O '42)
Stanford, D. New England earth. (Je '42)
Stevens, W. Parts of a world. (O '42)
Sullivan, A. M. Day in Manhattan. (Ap '42)
Taggard, G. Long view. (Ag '42)
Van Doren, M. Our lady peace and other war poems. (N '42)
Villa, J. G. Have come, am here. (N '42)
Walker, M. For my people. (D '42)
Warren, R. P. Eleven poems on the same theme. (Je '42)
Wilson, E. Note-books of night. (F '43) (1942 Annual) Zabriskie, G. Mind's geography. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual) Zinsser, H. Spring, summer, and autumn. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
Zukofsky, L. 55 poems. (My '42)
Poetry as a means of grace. Osgood, C. G. (Ap '42)
Poison is a bitter brew. Hocking, A. (My '42)
- Poisons
Goodman, L. S., and Gilman, A. Pharmacological basis of therapeutics. (Ap '42)
Pokey bear. Evers, H. and A. (Je '42)

Poland

Biography

Mizwa, S. P., ed. Great men and women of Poland. (Ap '42)

History

German occupation, 1939-

Poland. Ministerstwo Informacji. Black book of Poland. (O '42)

Segal, S. New order in Poland. (Je '42)

Polarograph and polarography

Kolthoff, I. M., and Lingane, J. J. Polarography. (O '42)

Polarography. Kolthoff, I. M., and Lingane, J. J. (O '42)

Political clubs

Link, E. P. Democratic-Republican societies, 1790-1800. (Ag '42)

Political history of Connecticut during the Civil war. Lane, J. R. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Political liberty. Carlyle, A. J. (Ap '42)

Political parties

United States

Key, V. O. Politics, parties and pressure groups. (O '42)

Schattschneider, E. E. Party government. (Ag '42)

Political science

Bingham, A. M. Techniques of democracy. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Friedrich, C. J. New belief in the common man. (S '42)

Glaser, C. Administrative procedure. (My '42)

Griffith, E. S. Modern government in action. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Horrabin, J. F. Outline of political geography. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Hudson, W. S. John Ponet. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

La Boétie, E. de. Anti-dictator. (D '42)

Pennsylvania. University. Bicentennial conference. Studies in political science and sociology. (S '42)

Plato. Republic. (Je '42)

Reves, E. Democratic manifesto. (N '42)

History

Agard, W. R. What democracy meant to the Greeks. (S '42)

Carlyle, A. J. Political liberty. (Ap '42)

Greek political experience. (Ag '42)

McKinley, S. B. Democracy and military power. (Je '42)

Politics, Practical

Key, V. O. Politics, parties and pressure groups. (O '42)

Politics of mercantilism. Buck, P. W. (Ag '42)

Politics, parties and pressure groups. Key, V. O. (O '42)

Polly Peters. Quigg, J. (D '42)

Polo, Marco

Hart, H. H. Venetian adventurer. (My '42)

Polymerization

Mark, H. F., and Raff, R. A. V. High polymeric reactions. (Je '42)

Meyer, K. H. Natural and synthetic high polymers. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Polynesia

Bryan, E. H. American Polynesia. (My '42)

Ponet, John, bp.

Hudson, W. S. John Ponet. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Poo-Poo and the dragons. Forester, C. S. (O '42)

Pool of memory. Oppenheim, E. P. (Ap '42)

Poor Richard comes to life. Franklin, B. (Ag '42)

Poor Susan. Aldis, D. K. (D '42)

Popes

Farrow, J. Pageant of the popes. (D '42)

Popular mathematics. Miller, D. D. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Poros (island)

Gray, P. S. People of Poros. (N '42)

Port of New Orleans. Sinclair, H. (S '42)

Portraits

Sears, C. E. Some American primitives. (Ap '42)

Ports of Piscataqua. Saltonstall, W. G. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Positivism

Marcuse, H. Reason and revolution. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)

Possum Trot. Nixon, H. C. (Ap '42)

Post biographies of famous journalists. Saturday Evening Post (periodical). (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Post stories of 1941. Saturday Evening Post. (Ag '42)

Post-war industrialization of China. Fong, H. D. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Postwar planning in the United States. Gallo-way, G. B. (Je '42)

Post-war worlds. Corbett, P. E. (Ap '42)

Posted for murder. Rath, V. (O '42)

Potsdam führer. Ergang, R. R. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)

Powder Valley pay-off. Field, P. (My '42)

Practical aircraft sheet-metal work. Frazer, R. H., and Berthlaume, O. (S '42)

Practical application of aluminium bronze. Meigh, C. H. (Ag '42)

Practical construction of warships. Newton, R. N. (Ag '42)

Practical fingerprinting. Bridges, B. C. (Je '42)

Practical marine Diesel engineering. Ford, L. R. (Je '42)

Practical mathematics for shipfitters. Moss, L. Q. (Je '42)

Pragmatic test. Parkes, H. B. (S '42)

Prairie dog town. Raymond, M. T., and Mohr, C. O. (Ag '42)

Prairie dogs

Raymond, M. T., and Mohr, C. O. Prairie dog town. (Ag '42)

Praise of glory. Watkin, E. I. (S '42)

Pratt, John Barnes

Pratt, J. B. Personal recollections. (Je '42)

Prayer

Buttrick, G. A. Prayer. (Ap '42)

Charles, P. Prayer for all men. (S '42)

Prayer book interleaves. Ladd, W. P. (Ap '42)

Prayer for all men. Charles, P. (S '42)

Prayers

Aldrich, D. B., and Stevens, W. O., eds. Golden book of prayers. (Ap '42)

Fleming, D. J., ed. World at one in prayer. (S '42)

Larsson, R. E., ed. Saints at prayer. (O '42)

Preacher's kid. Haystead, L. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Preaching

Farmer, H. H. Servant of the Word. (D '42)

Freehof, S. B. Modern Jewish preaching. (S '42)

Sockman, R. W. Highway of God. (My '42)

Predicting the child's development. Dearborn, W. F., and Rothney, J. W. M. (O '42)

Prelude to victory. Reston, J. B. (S '42)

Prentice, William Kelly

Greek political experience. (Ag '42)

Pre-Raphaelite tragedy. Gaunt, W. (S '42)

Preraphaelitism

Gaunt, W. Pre-Raphaelite tragedy. (S '42)

Presidents (United States)

Powers and duties

Rich, B. M. Presidents and civil disorder. (My '42)

Presidents and civil disorder. Rich, B. M. (My '42)

Press

United States

Bird, G. L., and Merwin, F. E., eds. Newspaper and society. (Ag '42)

Price of free world victory. Wallace, H. A. (O '42)

Prices

Adams, G. P. Wartime price control. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Black, J. D. Parity, parity, parity. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Johnsen, J. E., comp. Federal price control. (My '42)

Kemmerer, E. W. A B C of inflation. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Leontief, W. W. Structure of American economy, 1919-1929. (Ap '42)

Summers, R. E., comp. Wages and prices. (S '42)

Pricking thumb. Branson, H. C. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Primarys

Lovejoy, A. F. La Follette and the establishment of the direct primary in Wisconsin. (Je '42)

Primates

Hooton, E. A. Man's poor relations. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Prime of life. Hambidge, G. (Mr '42)

Primer for combat. Boyle, K. (D '42)

Primer for teachers. Slattery, M. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Primer of sculpture. Silvercruys, S. (Ag '42)

Primer on the prevention of deformity in childhood. Raney, R. B., and Shands, A. R. (O '42)

Primrose day. Haywood, C. (Ap '42)

Primrose league

Robb, J. H. Primrose league, 1883-1906. (D '42)

Prince Prigio. Lang, A. (D '42)

Princess Poverty. Maynard, S. K. C. (Ap '42)

Princeton university. Listening center

Childs, H. L., and Whitton, J. B., eds. Propaganda by short wave. (N '42)

Princeton verse between two wars. Tate, A., ed. (S '42)

Principles and practice of chromatography. Zechmeister, L., and Chohnoky, L. (S '42)

Principles of anthropology. Chapple, E. D. and Coon, C. S. (Je '42)

Principles of Christian living. Smith, G. B. (O '42)

Principles of dairying. Judkins, H. F. (Je '42)

Principles of democratic supervision. Rorer, J. A. (D '42)

Principles of electron tubes. Reich, H. J. (S '42)

Principles of electronics. Kloeffer, R. G. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Principles of mechanics. Synge, J. L., and Griffith, B. A. (D '42)

Principles of power. Ferrero, G. (O '42)

Principles of radio. Henney, K. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Principles of war. Clausewitz, K. von. (D '42)

Print, radio, and film in a democracy. Waples, D., ed. (My '42)

Printing, Practical

Johnson, W. H., and Newkirk, L. V. Graphic arts. (S '42)

Prison within prison. Roditi, E. (O '42)

Prisoners of hope. Brooks, H. L. (My '42)

Prisoners of war

Flory, W. E. S. Prisoners of war. (Je '42)

Private Doakes and me! Taylor, H. C. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Private eye. Adams, C. F. (O '42)

Private Purkey in love and war. Phillips, H. I. (S '42)

Private reader. Van Doren, M. (Ap '42)

Problems of lasting peace. Hoover, H., and Gibson, H. (Ag '42)

Problems of post-war reconstruction. Jordan, H. P., ed. (D '42)

Problems of the Danube basin. Macartney, C. A. (N '42)

Proclaim liberty! Seldes, G. V. (S '42)

Prodigious women. Hale, N. (O '42)

Production and distribution theories. Stigler, G. J. (Ap '42)

Profession, Choice of

Barrett, T. Your job and American victory. (O '42)

Faust, J. F., ed. Girl's place in life and how to find it. (Je '42)

Kitson, H. D., and Lingenfelter, M. R. Vocations for boys. (Je '42)

Nall, T. O., and Davis, B. H. Jobs for today's youth. (My '42)

Professional dentistry in American society. Aegis, A. J. (Ag '42)

Professor Skinner alias Montagu Norman. Eng title of: Montagu Norman. Hargrave, J. (Ap '42)

Progress

Knight, E. W. Progress and educational perspective. (D '42)

Progress and educational perspective. Knight, E. W. (D '42)

Progress of science, 1942. Grolier society. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Progress to freedom. Benedict, A. E. (My '42)

Progressive movement in Vermont. Flint, W. A. (Ap '42)

Prohibited books

Craig, A. Above all liberties. (O '42)

Projectiles

Ley, W. Shells and shooting. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Prologue to appeasement. Cameron, E. R. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Propaganda

Munson, G. B., ed. 12 decisive battles of the mind. (Ap '42)

Stout, R., ed. Illustrious dunderheads. (N '42)

Waples, D., ed. Print, radio, and film in a democracy. (My '42)

Propaganda, British

Sargent, P. E. Getting U S into war. (My '42)

Propaganda, German

Bornstein, J., and Milton, P. R. Action against the enemy's mind. (D '42)

Farago, L., and Gittler, L. F., eds. German psychological warfare. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Fernández Artucio, H. Nazi underground in South America. (Ap '42)

Torrès, H. Campaign of treachery. (O '42)

Propaganda, Italian

Torrès, H. Campaign of treachery. (O '42)

Propaganda by short wave. Childs, H. L., and Whitton, J. B., eds. (N '42)

Property

Coker, F. W., ed. Democracy, liberty, and property. (N '42)

Prophecies

Cournos, J., ed. Book of prophecy. (Ap '42)

Protective and decorative coatings, v 1-2. Mattiello, J. J., ed. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Protestant Episcopal church in the U.S.A.Catholic movement

DeMille, G. E. Catholic movement in the American Episcopal church. (Ap '42)

Protestants in Latin America

Rycroft, W. S. On this foundation. (O '42)

Protocols of the wise men of Zion

Curtiss, J. S. Appraisal of the Protocols of Zion. (S '42)

Proud lady. Crownfield, G. (N '42)

Proud riders. Davis, H. L. (Je '42)

Provincetown, Massachusetts

Vorse, M. M. H. Time and the town. (S '42)

Psychoanalysis

Dalbiez, R. Psychoanalytical method and the doctrine of Freud. (Je '42)

Horney, K. Self-analysis. (Ag '42)

Menninger, K. A., and J. L. Love against hate. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Schilder, P. Goals and desires of man. (O '42)

Psychoanalytical method and the doctrine of Freud. Dalbiez, R. (Je '42)

Psychological effects of war on citizen and soldier. Gillespie, R. D. (My '42)

Psychology

Alexander, F. Our age of unreason. (N '42)

Bibliography

Hawes, M. E. What to read on psychology. (N '42)

Methodology

Allport, G. W. Use of personal documents in psychological science. (N '42)

Psychology, Applied

Dickerson, R. E. Understanding myself. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Farago, L., and Gittler, L. F., eds. German psychological warfare. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Gilkey, J. G. How to be your best. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Hepner, H. W. Psychology applied to life and work. (Ag '42)

Psychology, Comparative

Armstrong, E. A. Bird display. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Psychology, Pathological

Bowlby, J. Personality and mental illness. (O '42)

Kraines, S. H. Therapy of the neuroses and psychoses. (Ag '42)

Ray, M. B. L. Doctors of the mind. (O '42)

Wise, C. A. Religion in illness and health. (S '42)

Zilboorg, G., and Henry, G. W. History of medical psychology. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)

Psychology, Religious

- Holman, C. T. Getting down to cases. (Je '42)
 Hughes, T. H. Psychology and religious truth. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual) Psychology and religious truth. Hughes, T. H. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual) Psychology applied to life and work. Hepner, H. W. (Ag '42)
 Psychology in education. Starch, D., and others. (Ap '42)
 Psychology of adolescence. Cole, L. W. (S '42)
 Public control of labor relations. Bowman, D. O. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Public health

- Dieuaide, F. R. Civilian health in wartime. (D '42)
 Grant, A. H. Nursing. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Smiley, D. F., and Gould, A. G. Community hygiene. (Je '42)

United States

- American public health association. Housing for health. (N '42)
 Public health nurse in action. Wales, M. (My '42)

Public opinion

- Friedrich, C. J. New belief in the common man. (S '42)
 Lasswell, H. D. Democracy through public opinion. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
 Rope, F. T. Opinion conflict and school support. (Ap '42)

Great Britain

- Bevington, M. M. Saturday review, 1855-1868. (My '42)

United States

- Gibbs, P. H. America speaks. (Ag '42)
 Lovenstein, M. American opinion of Soviet Russia. (Je '42)
 Perkins, H. C., ed. Northern editorials on secession. (N '42)
 Waples, D., ed. Print, radio, and film in a democracy. (My '42)
 Public papers and addresses [second administration]. United States. President, 1933- (F. D. Roosevelt). (Ag '42) (1941 Annual) Public relations for higher education. Harral, S. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual) Public school broadcasting to the classroom. Atkinson, C. (O '42)
 Public schools

Pennsylvania

- Mort, P. R., and Cornell, F. G. American schools in transition. (D '42)

United States

- Jackson, S. L. America's struggle for free schools. (My '42)
Public schools (endowed)
 Hughes, D. W. Public schools and the future. (S '42)
 Public schools and the future. Hughes, D. W. (S '42)
 Public speaker's treasure chest. Prochnow, H. V. (S '42)
Public speaking
 Prochnow, H. V. Public speaker's treasure chest. (S '42)
Public utilities

United States

- Barnes, I. R. Economics of public utility regulation. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
Publicity
 Baus, H. M. Publicity. (S '42)
 Harral, S. Public relations for higher education. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
Publishers and publishing
 Pratt, J. B. Personal recollections. (Je '42)
 Putnam, G. P. Wide margins. (Je '42)
Pueblo Indians
 Gilpin, L. Pueblos; a camera chronicle. (Ap '42)
Pueblos
 Gilpin, L. Pueblos; a camera chronicle. (Ap '42)
Pumas
 Kennedy, B. Lady and the lions. (D '42)
 Pure theory of capital. Hayek, F. A. von. (My '42)

- Pursuit of a parcel. Wentworth, P. (Je '42)
 Put out more flags. Waugh, E. (Je '42)

Putnam, George Palmer

- Putnam, G. P. Wide margins. (Je '42)
 Putnam, Israel

Juvenile literature

- Dean, L. W. Old Wolf. (D '42)
Puzzles
 Filipiak, A. S. 100 puzzles. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Pym, John
 Hexter, J. H. Reign of King Pym. (My '42)
Pyrometers and pyrometry
 Wood, W. P., and Cork, J. M. Pyrometry. (Ap '42)
 Pyrometry. Wood, W. P., and Cork, J. M. (Ap '42)

- Queen of the flat-tops. Johnston, S. (N '42)
 Quest for law. Seagle, W. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
 Quest for wisdom. Garnett, C. B. (N '42)
 Questions of Lifu. Lattimore, E. F. (O '42)
 Quick brown fox. Burnett, W. R. (Mr '42)
 Quicksilver. Davis, F. (O '42)
 Quiet lady. Collins, N. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 La Quintrala. Petit Marfan, M. (N '42)

Quotations

- Mencken, H. L., ed. New dictionary of quotations on historical principles from ancient and modern sources. (Je '42)
 Oxford dictionary of quotations. (Ag '42)
 Prochnow, H. V. Public speaker's treasure chest. (S '42)

- Rabbit who had four lucky feet. Jackson, K. and B. (D '42)
 Raccoon twins. Tompkins, J. F. (D '42)

Race

- Ashley-Montagu, M. F. Man's most dangerous myth. (D '42)

Race problems

- Ashley-Montagu, M. F. Man's most dangerous myth. (D '42)
 Locke, A. Le R., ed. When peoples meet. (My '42)
 Race, reason and rubbish. Dahlberg, G. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Radiation

- Stranathan, J. D. Particles of modern physics. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Radio

- Henney, K. Principles of radio. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Jordan, E. C., and others. Fundamentals of radio. (D '42)
 Landry, R. J. Who, what, why is radio? (S '42)
 Lazarsfeld, P. F., and Stanton, F. N., eds. Radio research, 1941. (Ap '42)

Juvenile literature

- Morgan, A. P. First radio book for boys. (D '42)
 Writers' program, Pennsylvania. Radio. (S '42)
 Yates, R. F. Boys' book of communications. (D '42)

Social aspects

- Lazarsfeld, P. F., and Stanton, F. N., eds. Radio research, 1941. (Ap '42)
 Radio. Writers' program, Pennsylvania. (S '42)
 Radio and English teaching. Herzberg, M. J., ed. (Ap '42)
Radio authorship
 Roberts, H. De W., and others. Airlines to English. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
Radio broadcasting
 Chase, F. S. Sound and fury. (Je '42)
 Childs, H. L., and Whitton, J. B., eds. Propaganda by short wave. (N '42)
 Landry, R. J. Who, what, why is radio? (S '42)
 Lazarsfeld, P. F., and Stanton, F. N., eds. Radio research, 1941. (Ap '42)

- Peet, C. All about broadcasting. (O '42)
 Rolo, C. J. Radio goes to war. (Ap '42)
 Waples, D., ed. Print, radio, and film in a democracy. (My '42)
- War use
 Dryer, S. H. Radio in wartime. (Ja. '43) (1942 Annual)
- Radio entertainments
 Van Doren, M., ed. New Invitation to learning. (O '42)
 Radio goes to war. Rolo, C. J. (Ap '42)
- Radio in education
 Atkinson, C. Public school broadcasting to the classroom. (O '42)
 Gordon, D. L. All children listen. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Herzberg, M. J., ed. Radio and English teaching. (Ap '42)
 Lazarsfeld, P. F., and Stanton, F. N., eds. Radio research, 1941. (Ap '42)
 Wisconsin research project in school broadcasting. Radio in the classroom. (F '43) (1942 Annual) Radio in the classroom. Wisconsin research project in school broadcasting. (F '43) (1942 Annual) Radio in wartime. Dryer, S. H. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Radio plays
 Bacher, W. A., ed. Treasury star parade. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Corwin, N. L. Thirteen by Corwin. (Mr '42)
 Dane, C. The saviours. (S '42)
 Oboler, A. Plays for Americans. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual) Oboler, A. This freedom. (My '42)
- Radio receivers
 Ghirardi, A. A. Radio troubleshooter's handbook. (Ag '42)
 Radio research, 1941. Lazarsfeld, P. F., and Stanton, F. N., eds. (Ap '42)
 Radio troubleshooter's handbook. Ghirardi, A. A. (Ag '42)
- Radioactivity
 De Ment, J. A., and Dake, H. C. Uranium and atomic power. (Ag '42)
- Radium
 Juvenile literature
 Eberle, I. Radium treasure and the Curies. (Ap '42)
 Radium treasure and the Curies. Eberle, I. (Ap '42)
 The raft. Trumbull, R. (S '42)
 Railroad land grants
 Overton, R. C. Burlington west. (Ag '42)
- Railroads
 Henry, R. S. This fascinating railroad business. (Je '42)
- Models
 Marshall, D. Model railroad engineering. (S '42)
- Trains
 Beebe, L. M. Trains in transition. (Mr '42)
 Rateigh, Sir Walter
 Clark, E. G. Raleigh and Marlowe. (My '42)
 Raleigh and Marlowe. Clark, E. G. (My '42)
 Ramparts of the Pacific. Abend, H. (Je '42)
- Ranch life
 Call, H. F. Golden fleece. (O '42)
 Randolph field, Texas. See United States. Air corps basic flying school, Randolph field, Texas. (S '42)
 Ransoming the time. Maritain, J. (Ap '42)
- Raphael (Raffaello Sanzio D'Urbino)
 Raphael. [Paintings and drawings; introd. by W. E. Suida]. (Ag '42)
 Rare hooked rugs. Kent, W. W. (Ap '42)
 Rathina. Cregan, M. (D '42)
 Rationed rubber and what to do about it. Haynes, W., and Hauser, E. A. (S '42)
- Rauschenbusch, Walter
 Sharpe, D. R. Walter Rauschenbusch. (Je '42)
- Rawlings, Mrs Marjorie (Kinnan)
 Rawlings, M. K. Cross Creek. (Ap '42)
 Razzle-dazzle. Saroyan, W. (My '42)
- Reading
 Bond, G. L. and E. Developmental reading in the high school. (Ap '42)
 Daniels, E. R. K. Art of reading poetry. (Ag '42)
 Dolch, E. W. Teaching primary reading. (My '42)
 Richards, I. A. How to read a page. (Je '42)
 Reading engineering drawings. Bush, G. F. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Real Italians. Sforza, C. (Ag '42)
 Realistic philosophy of religion. Garnett, A. C. (F '43) (1942 Annual) Realms of being. Santayana, G. (S '42)
 Reason and revolution. Marcuse, H. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
 Rebels and gentlemen. Bridenbaugh, C. and J. H. (N '42)
 Rebirth in liberty. Lips, E. (Ag '42)
 Reckoning with life. Wilson, G. A. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Recognition (international law)
 Graham, M. W. Diplomatic recognition of the border states. (My '42)
- Reconstruction
 Swint, L. H. Northern teacher in the South. (Je '42)
- Reconstruction (1914-)
 Hoover, H. C. America's first crusade. (Mr '42)
- Reconstruction (1939-)
 Baker, A. E., ed. Christian basis for the post-war world. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Chase, S. Goals for America. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Chase, S. Road we are travelling. (My '42)
 Clinchy, E. R., ed. World we want to live in. (My '42)
 Condliffe, J. B. Agenda for a postwar world. (O '42)
 Corbett, P. E. Post-war worlds. (Ap '42)
 Cousins, N. Good inheritance. (Ap '42)
 Dawson, C. H. Judgment of the nations. (D '42)
 Doman, N. Coming age of world control. (Ag '42)
 Dreher, C. Coming showdown. (My '42)
 Drucker, P. F. Future of industrial man. (O '42)
 Fowler, B. B. Food; a weapon for victory. (O '42)
 Gelber, L. M. Peace by power. (Je '42)
 Holmes, J. H. Out of darkness. (Je '42)
 Johnsen, J. E., comp. Eight points of post-war world reorganization. (S '42)
 Johnsen, J. E., comp. Plans for a post-war world. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
 Jordan, H. P., ed. Problems of post-war reconstruction. (D '42)
 Kingsley, J. D., and Petegorsky, D. W. Strategy for democracy. (Ap '42)
 Lorwin, L. L. Economic consequences of the second World War. (Mr '42)
 McConnell, F. J., and others. Basis for the peace to come. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Muzumdar, H. T. United nations of the world. (N '42)
 Ranshofen-Wertheimer, E. F. Victory is not enough. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Young, G. Federalism and freedom. (S '42)
- China
 Fong, H. D. Post-war industrialization of China. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- East (Far East)
 Pepper, N. Basis for peace in the Far East. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Netherlands Indies
 Emerson, R. Netherlands Indies and the United States. (D '42)
- United States
 Galloway, G. B. Postwar planning in the United States. (Je '42)
 Recovery of vapors. Robinson, C. S. (D '42)
- Recreation
 Skidmore, R. A. Mormon recreation in theory and practice. (S '42)
 Recruit for Abe Lincoln. Cormack, M. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
 Red army. Berchin, M., and Ben-Horin, E. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Red hills and cotton. Robertson, B. (S '42)
 Reed and the rock. Maynard, T. (S '42)

Reference books

Bibliography

- Graham, B. Bookman's manual. (Ag '42)
 Hirschberg, H. S. Subject guide to reference books. (D '42)

Reformation

- Belloc, H. Elizabeth: creature of circumstance. (S '42)

Refugees

- Rauschning, A. S. No retreat. (Je '42)

Refuse and refuse disposal

- American public works association. Committee on refuse collection and disposal. Refuse collection practice. (Je '42)

Refuse collection practice. American public works association. Committee on refuse collection and disposal. (Je '42)

Regional United States. Logasa, H., comp. (S '42)

Regulation of stock exchange members. Vernon, R. (My '42)

Reign of King Pym. Hexter, J. H. (My '42)

Relativity

- Lanz, H. In quest of morals. (Ag '42)

Relativity (physics)

- Bergmann, P. G. Introduction to the theory of relativity. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

- Reichenbach, H. From Copernicus to Einstein. (S '42)

Release. Daily, S. (My '42)

Religion

- Garnett, A. C. Realistic philosophy of religion. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

- Hughes, T. H. Psychology and religious truth. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

- Murray, G. Stoic, Christian and humanist. (S '42)

Philosophy

- Nevius, W. N. Religion as experience and truth. (Ap '42)

- Trueblood, D. E. Logic of belief. (Ag '42)

- Tsanoff, R. A. Religious crossroads. (N '42)

Religion and the present crisis. Knox, J., ed. (Ag '42)

Religion and the state. Greene, E. B. (Ap '42)

Religion and the world of tomorrow. Van Kirk, W. W. (Ap '42)

Religion as experience and truth. Nevius, W. N. (Ap '42)

Religion for today. Myers, A. J. W. (S '42)

Religion in colonial America. Sweet, W. W. (N '42)

Religion in illness and health. Wise, C. A. (S '42)

Religion in literature

- Battenhouse, R. W. Marlowe's Tamburlaine. (S '42)

Religion in Soviet Russia, 1917-1942. Timasheff, N. S. (D '42)

Religious availability of Whitehead's God. Ely, S. L. (D '42)

Religious crossroads. Tsanoff, R. A. (N '42)

Religious education

- Hauser, C. A. Teaching religion in the public school. (Je '42)

- Moody, M. O., and Eakin, F. Your child's religion. (D '42)

- Myers, A. J. W. Religion for today. (S '42)

- Slattery, M. Primer for teachers. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

- Smith, H. S. Faith and nurture. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)

Religious leaders of America. (Ag '42)

Religious liberty

- Greene, E. B. Religion and the state. (Ap '42)

Religious literature

Collections

- Kepler, T. S., comp. Contemporary religious thought. (Ap '42)

Religious thought

- McConnell, F. J. Evangelicals, revolutionists and idealists. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

- Macfarland, C. S. Digest of Christian thinking. (Ag '42)

- Wiley, B. Seventeenth century background. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

- Woodruff, D., ed. For Hilaire Belloc. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Remaking America. Carter, J. F. (Mr '42)

Remember Pearl harbor! Clark, T. B. (My '42)

Remind me to forget. Dawson, C. B. (My '42)

Renaissance

- Battenhouse, R. W. Marlowe's Tamburlaine. (S '42)

Rendezvous. Holmes, W. J. (Mr '42)

Renegade. Foreman, L. L. (Ag '42)

Renegade. Lewisoohn, L. (Ap '42)

Repairing

- Riis, R. W., and Patric, J. Repairmen will get you if you don't watch out. (Ag '42)

- Whitman, R. B. First aid for the ailing house. (D '42)

Repairmen will get you if you don't watch out. Riis, R. W., and Patric, J. (Ag '42)

Repeat performance. O'Farrell, W. (D '42)

Reply paid. Heard, G. (Ap '42)

Report from Tokyo. Grew, J. C. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual) Reports

Preparation

- Joughin, G. L. Basic reference forms. (Ap '42)

- Kent, S. Writing history. (Je '42)

- Rhodes, F. H. Technical report writing. (S '42)

Representative medieval and Tudor plays. Loomis, R. S., and Wells, H. W., eds. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Representative North American fresh-water fishes. Nichols, J. T. (S '42)

Representative selections. James, H. (N '42)

Reprisal. Stone, G. Z. (D '42)

Republic. Plato. (Je '42)

Republic of the United States. Nichols, J. P. and R. F. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Republican party

- Potter, D. M. Lincoln and his party in the secession crisis. (O '42)

Research

Bibliography

- Buros, O. K., ed. Second yearbook of research and statistical methodology. (Ag '42)

Resort hotel. Page, C. (N '42)

Resources of New York city libraries. Downs, R. B. (D '42)

Respectfully yours, Annie. (Mr '42)

Rest

- Steincrohn, P. J. You don't have to exercise! (N '42)

Restraint of trade

- Arnold, T. W. Democracy and free enterprise. (Je '42)

Retail sales workers. Keliher, A. V., ed. (Ap '42)

Retail trade

- Nolen, H. C., and Maynard, H. H. Drug store management. (Ap '42)

- Wingate, I. B. Textile fabrics and their selection. (Je '42)

Juvenile literature

- Keliher, A. V., ed. Retail sales workers. (Ap '42)

Retina

- Polyak, S. Retina. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Retirement (from work)

- Kaign, R. P. How to retire and like it. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Retreat in the East. Eng title of: Action in the East. Gallagher, O'D. (S '42)

Retreat to victory. Michie, A. A. (S '42)

Retrospect of western travel. Martineau, H. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Return of Sandpaws. Forster-Knight, M. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Return to the future. Undset, S. (Mr '42)

Revelation and reunion. Broomfield, G. W. (N '42)

Revere, Paul

- Forbes, E. Paul Revere and the world he lived in. (Ag '42)

Revolution in Christian missions. Smith, R. L. (My '42)

Revolutionists. Rodman, S. (N '42)

Revolutions

- Ferrero, G. Principles of power. (O '42)

- Rich, B. M. Presidents and civil disorder. (My '42)

Reynolds, Quentin James

- Reynolds, Q. J. Convoy. (Mr '42)

Rice, John Andrew

- Rice, J. A. I came out of the eighteenth century. (D '42)

Rice and rice culture

- Wickizer, V. D., and Bennett, M. K. Rice economy of monsoon Asia. (Ag '42)
 Rice economy of monsoon Asia. Wickizer, V. D., and Bennett, M. K. (Ag '42)
 Richmond, Virginia

Historic houses, etc.

- Scott, M. W. Houses of old Richmond. (D '42)
 Riddle of Ramrod Ridge. MacDonald, W. C. (Ag '42)
 Riddle of the Rovers. Maurice, A. B. (Mr '42)
 Riddle of the State department. Bendiner, R. (O '42)
 Rider on the bronze horse. Kroll, H. H. (S '42)
 Rig for church. Maguire, W. A. (S '42)
 Right book for the right child. American library association. Committee on library work with children. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Right in your own backyard. Steck, H. W. (N '42)
 Rights of margin customers. Warren, E. H. (My '42)
 Riley, James Whitcomb

Juvenile literature

- Mitchell, M. B. A. Hoosier boy, James Whitcomb Riley. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Rim of the Caribbean. Morgan, C. M. (O '42)
 Rimskii-Korsakov, Nikolai Andreevich. Rimskii-Korsakov, N. A. My musical life. (Ap '42)
 Ringed with fire. Campbell, A. O. (S '42)
 Riots
 Rich, B. M. Presidents and civil disorder. (My '42)
 Rip tide of aggression. Mowrer, L. T. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Rise of Daniel Cavour. Evens, E. S. (Ap '42)
 Ritual for myself. Scruggs, A. M. (Ap '42)
 River book. Beaty, J. Y. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 River-bottom boy. Matthews, H. (N '42)
 River Lady. Branch, H., and Waters, F. (Ap '42)
 River rogue. Cheney, B. (S '42)
 Rivers

Juvenile literature

- Beaty, J. Y. River book. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Rivers are frozen. Colton, N. (Ap '42)
 Rivers of glory. Mason, V. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual) Rivers to the sea. Hubbard, L. (Je '42)
 Rivets
 Lear, E. B., and Dillon, J. E. Aircraft riveting. (O '42)
 Road ahead. Howard, L. S. (My '42)
 Road I know. White, S. E. (My '42)
 Road to Baltimore. Harper, R. S. (S '42)
 Road to disappearance. Debo, A. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual) Road to fulfillment. Rush, B. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual) Road to Vichy, 1918-1938. Simon, Y. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
 Road to victory. Spellman, F. J. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual) Road we are travelling. Chase, S. (My '42)
 Roads
 Dearing, C. L. American highway policy. (Je '42)
 Hewes, L. I. American highway practice. (My '42)

Roads

- Tucker, H., and Leager, M. C. Highway economics. (D '42)
 Roaring land. Binns, A. (Je '42)
 Roaring River range. Gooden, A. H. (My '42)
 Robber bridegroom. Welty, E. (N '42)
 Robe. Douglas, L. C. (N '42)
 Robert Cain. Russell, W. (D '42)
 Robertson, James Alexander
 Wilgus, A. C., ed. Hispanic American essays. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Robeson, PaulFiction

- Miers, E. S. Big Ben. (My '42)
 Robinson, Henry
 Jordan, W. K. Men of substance. (D '42)
 Rock and the wind. Bretherton, V. R. (My '42)

- Rocket to the morgue. White, W. A. P. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Rocky mountains

- Fenton, C. L. and M. A. Mountains. (N '42)
 Rogue's legacy. Deutsch, B. (Ap '42)
 Role of the teacher in health education. Strang. R. M., and Smiley, D. F. (Ap '42)

Roman Catholic authors

- Romig, W., ed. Book of Catholic authors. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Roman Catholic church

- De La Bedoyère, M. Christian crisis. (My '42)
 Maritain, J. Ransoming the time. (Ap '42)

Converts

- Burton, K. K. In no strange land. (Je '42)
 Cory, H. E. Emancipation of a freethinker. (My '42)
 Moody, J. Fast by the road. (My '42)

Doctrinal and controversial works

- Woodlock, T. F. Catholic pattern. (Ag '42)

Education

- Redden, J. D., and Ryan, F. A. Catholic philosophy of education. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Eucharist

- Ellard, G. Dialog mass. (O '42)

Liturgy and ritual

- Watkin, E. I. Praise of glory. (S '42)

Missions

- Considine, J. J., and Kernan, T. D. Across the world. (N '42)
 Roemer, T. Ten decades of alms. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Savage, A. H. Dogsled apostles. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Roman Catholic church in England

- O'Connor, J. J. Catholic revival in England. (S '42)

Roman Catholic church in France

- Acomb, E. M. French laic laws. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)

Roman Catholic church in Italy

- Binchy, D. A. Church and state in fascist Italy. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Roman Catholic church in the United States

- Roemer, T. Ten decades of alms. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Biography

- Burton, K. K. In no strange land. (Je '42)

Education

- Deferrari, R. J., ed. Essays on Catholic education in the United States. (N '42)

Roman Catholic literature

- Woodruff, D., ed. For Hilaire Belloc. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Bibliography

- Romig, W., ed. Book of Catholic authors. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Collections

- Mariella, Sister, comp. Great modern Catholic short stories. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Shuster, G. N., ed. World's great Catholic literature. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Roman Catholics in France

- Iswolsky, H. Light before dusk. (Je '42)

- Roman imperial navy, 31 B.C.-A.D. 324. Starr, C. G. (S '42)

- Romance of a people. Fast, H. M. (Mr '42)

RomeHistory, Naval

- Starr, C. G. Roman imperial navy, 31 B.C.-A.D. 324. (S '42)

Navy

- Starr, C. G. Roman imperial navy, 31 B.C.-A.D. 324. (S '42)

Roosevelt, Franklin Delano

- Suckley, M. L., and Dalgliesh, A. True story of Fala. (Je '42)

Roosevelt family

- Schriftgiesser, K. Amazing Roosevelt family. (Je '42)

- Roots. Boecop-Malye, M. T. C. barones van. (S '42)

Roots of American culture. Rourke, C. M. (S '42)
 Roots of national socialism. Butler, R. D'O. (My '42)

Roper, Daniel Calhoun
 Roper, D. C., and Lovette, F. H. Fifty years of public life. (Ap '42)

Rosché, Louis
 Hereford, R. A. Old Man River. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Rosebud. Bemelmans, L. (D '42)

Rothery family
 Rothery, A. E. Family album. (My '42)
 Rough on rats. Francis, W. (Ap '42)

Roumania. See Rumania

Rousseau, Henry
 Rich, D. C. Henri Rousseau. (Je '42)

Rousseau, Jean Baptiste
 Grubbs, H. A. Jean-Baptiste Rousseau, his life and works. (S '42)

Royal India. Diver, M. M. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Rubber
 Haynes, W., and Hauser, E. A. Rationed rubber and what to do about it. (S '42)

Rubens, Sir Peter Paul

Fiction

Harsanyi, Z. Lover of life. (Ap '42)
 Rugged path and The summit. Shiels, G. (D '42)

Rugs
 Kent, W. W. Rare hooked rugs. (Ap '42)
 Ruins and visions. Spender, S. (O '42)
 Rules of civility and decent behaviour in company and conversation. Washington, G. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Rumania

Politics and government

Graefenberg, R. G. Athene palace. (Mr '42)
 Run of the house. Adams, C. (Ag '42)
 Runaway bunny. Brown, M. W. (My '42)
 Runaway puppy. Johnson, M. S. and H. L. (Ap '42)
 Running a milling machine. Colvin, F. H. (Ag '42)
 Rural America today. Works, G. A., and Lesser, S. O. (O '42)
 Rural public welfare. Browning, G. A. (My '42)
 Rural schools
 Schatzmann, I. E. Country school at home and abroad. (Ap '42)
 Works, G. A., and Lesser, S. O. Rural America today. (O '42)
 Rural sociology and rural social organization. Sanderson, E. D. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Ruskin, John

Hagstotz, H. B. Educational theories of John Ruskin. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Russell, Bertrand Arthur William Russell, 3d earl
 Dewey, J., and Kallen, H. M., eds. The Bertrand Russell case. (Ap '42)

Russia

Army

Berchin, M., and Ben-Horin, E. Red army. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Kournakoff, S. N. Russia's fighting forces. (S '42)

Church history

Bolshakoff, S. Christian church and the Soviet state. (O '42)

Civilization

Milfukov, P. N. Outlines of Russian culture. (Je '42)

Defenses

Zacharoff, L. We made a mistake—Hitler. (My '42)

Economic conditions

Ugov, A. Russia's economic front for war and peace. (My '42)
 Scott, J. Behind the Urals. (S '42)

Economic policy

Ugov, A. Russia's economic front for war and peace. (My '42)
 Lovenstein, M. American opinion of Soviet Russia. (Je '42)

Foreign policy

Dallin, D. J. Soviet Russia's foreign policy, 1939-1942. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Foreign relations

Finland

Finland. Ministeriet för utrikesärendena. Finland reveals her secret documents on Soviet policy. (D '42)

Germany

Scott, J. Duel for Europe. (N '42)

Japan

Hindus, M. G. Russia and Japan. (Je '42)

United States

Davies, J. E. Mission to Moscow. (Mr '42)

History

Kerner, R. J. Urge to the sea. (S '42)

History, Military

Kournakoff, S. N. Russia's fighting forces. (S '42)

Politics and government

Webb, S. and B. P. Truth about Soviet Russia. (D '42)

Relations (general) with United States

Lovenstein, M. American opinion of Soviet Russia. (Je '42)

Religion

Timasheff, N. S. Religion in Soviet Russia, 1917-1942. (D '42)

Russia, Asiatic

Davies, R. A., and Steiger, A. J. Soviet Asia. (S '42)

Russia and Japan. Hindus, M. G. (Je '42)

Russians don't surrender. Poliakov, A. (S '42)

Russia's economic front for war and peace.

Ugov, A. (My '42)

Russia's fighting forces. Kournakoff, S. N. (S '42)

Russo-Finnish war, 1939-1940

Finland. Ministeriet för utrikesärendena. Finland reveals her secret documents on Soviet policy. (D '42)

Winston, R. A. Aces wild. (Ap '42)

Rutledge, John

Barry, R. H. Mr Rutledge of South Carolina. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Sabbath has no end. Weld, J. (Ap '42)

Sabotage

Matthews, B. F. Specter of sabotage. (My '42)

Sayers, M., and Kahn, A. E. Sabotage! (N '42)

Sabotage! Sayers, M., and Kahn, A. E. (N '42)

Sacagawea

Fiction

Peattie, D. C. Forward the nation. (Je '42)

Sachsenspiegel

Kisch, G. Sachsenspiegel and Bible. (S '42)

Sachsenspiegel and Bible. Kisch, G. (S '42)

Sacred Scriptures and religious philosophy.

Curtis, B. S. (N '42)

Saddle and the plow. Taylor, R. M. (N '42)

Saddlebags for suitcases. Bosanquet, M. (O '42)

Safe deliverance. Irving, F. C. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Sailing to the sun. Bloomfield, H. (N '42)

Sailor Jack. MacNeil, M. G. (D '42)

Saint goes West. Charteris, L. (Ag '42)

St Lawrence. Beston, H. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

St Lawrence river

Beston, H. St Lawrence. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Saint Thomas and analogy. Phelan, G. B. (Je '42)

St Thomas and the problem of evil. Maritain, J. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Saints

Monro, M. T. Seeking for trouble. (Ag '42)

Saints at prayer. Larsson, R. E., ed. (O '42)

Sales tax

Tax institute. Tax barriers to trade. (My '42)

Salesmen and salesmanshipJuvenile literature

- Keliher, A. V., ed. Retail sales workers. (Ap '42)
 Salsette discovers America. Romains, J. (My '42)
 Salt River ranny. Nye, N. C. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Salute to the hero. Robertson, C. N. (Ap '42)
 Salvage. Riesenbergs, F. (N '42)
Salvation
 Braden, C. S. Man's quest for salvation. (Ap '42)
 Sam Small flies again. Knight, E. (Ap '42)
 San Francisco

Biography

- DeFord, M. A. They were San Franciscans. (Ap '42)
 Sandalo goes to town. Pollock, K. G. (My '42)
 Sangamon river
 Masters, E. L. Sangamon. (Ag '42)
Sanitary engineering
 Mitchell, G. E. Modern sanitary engineering. (D '42)
 Payrow, H. G. Sanitary engineering. (Ap '42)
 Sanitary engineering. Payrow, H. G. (Ap '42)
 Santa Claus comes to America. Singer, C., and Baldridge, C. Le R. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
Sassoon, Siegfried
 Sassoon, S. Weald of youth. (D '42)
 Saturday review, 1855-1868. Bevington, M. M. (My '42)
 Saturday review of politics, literature, science and art (periodical)
 Bevington, M. M. Saturday review, 1855-1868. (My '42)
 Saturday ride. Wright, E. B. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Sauces

- Owen, J. Le P. Book of sauces. (Ap '42)
 Savage century. Norman, C. (Je '42)
 Savage sanctuary. Spittel, R. L. (Je '42)
Saving and thrift
 Brindze, R. Stretching your dollar in wartime. (Je '42)
 Saviours, Dane, C. (S '42)
 Saxon Ashe, secret agent. I am Saxon Ashe, Author of. (My '42)
 Say yes to murder. Ballard, W. T. (N '42)
 Scandal rag. Harrington, J. (O '42)
 Scarlet impostor. Wheatley, D. (Mr '42)
Schmidt, Wilhelm
 Sieber, S. A. M., and Mueller, F. H. Social life of primitive man. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)

School administration and organization

- Miller, W. I. Democracy in educational administration. (D '42)
 Mort, P. R. and Cornell, F. G. American schools in transition. (D '42)
 Reavis, W. C., and Judd, C. H. Teacher and educational administration. (O '42)
 School bell rings. Sickels, E. R. (N '42)
School finance
 Rope, E. T. Opinion conflict and school support. (Ap '42)

School hygiene

- Langton, C. V. Orientation in school health. (Ap '42)
 Nyswander, D. B. Solving school health problems. (O '42)
 School-leaving youth and employment. Long, C. D. (Je '42)

School libraries

- Fenner, P. R. Our library. (My '42)
School libraries (high school)
 Joint committee of the American library association, National education association and National council of teachers of English. Basic book collection for high schools. (Ag '42)
 School of the citizen soldier. Griffin, R. A., ed. (O '42)

School supervision and supervisors

- Rorer, J. A. Principles of democratic supervision. (D '42)
Schweitzer, Albert
 Russell, L. M. R. Path to reconstruction. (D '42)

Science

- Anshen, R. N., ed. Science and man. (Je '42)
 Baitsell, G. A., ed. Science in progress, third series. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual) Bennett, J. L. Diffusion of science. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Bliven, B. Men who make the future. (Ap '42)
 Cullimore, A. R., ed. Through engineering eyes. (S '42)
 Ehret, W. F., ed. Physical science. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual) Grolier society. Progress of science, 1942. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Leonard, J. N. Enjoyment of science. (Ap '42)

History

- Pennsylvania, University. Bicentennial conference. Studies in the history of science. (S '42)
 Singer, C. J. Short history of science. (Ap '42)

Methodology

- Porterfield, A. L. Creative factors in scientific research. (Ag '42)

Philosophy

- Feibleman, J. Christianity, communism and the ideal society. (S '42)
 Ramsperger, A. G. Philosophies of science. (O '42)
 Reiser, O. L. New earth and a new humanity. (Ap '42)

Societies

- National research council. Handbook of scientific and technical societies and institutions of the United States and Canada. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Study and teaching

- Humby, S. R., and James, E. J. F. Science and education. (O '42)

Tables, etc.

- Page, E. L. Technidata hand book. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Yearbooks

- Ratcliff, J. D. Science year book of 1942. (My '42)
 Science and education. Humby, S. R., and James, E. J. F. (O '42)
 Science and man. Anshen, R. N., ed. (Je '42)
 Science education in consumer buying. Bush, G. L. (N '42)

Science in literature

- Wagman, F. H. Magic and natural science in German baroque literature. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Science in progress, third series. Baitsell, G. A., ed. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual) Science, philosophy and religion. Conference on science, philosophy and religion. (S '42)
 Science remakes our world. Stokley, J. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual) Science year book of 1942. Ratcliff, J. D. (My '42)

Scientific expeditions

- Twomey, A. C., and Herrick, N. Needle to the North. (Je '42)

Scientific recreations

- Thomas, W. S. Amateur scientist. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Scientists

- Porterfield, A. L. Creative factors in scientific research. (Ag '42)

Sculpture

- New York. Museum of modern art. Americans, 1942. (Ag '42)
 Robb, D. M., and Garrison, J. J. Art in the western world. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual) Rothschild, L. Sculpture through the ages. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual) Silvercrays, S. Primer of sculpture. (Ag '42)

Technique

- Harris, R. G., and Piccoli, G. Technique of sculpture. (Je '42)
 Sculpture through the ages. Rothschild, L. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Sea-gull cry. Nathan, R. (S '42)
 Sea magic. Bassett, S. W. (S '42)
 Sea of memories. Moran, C. (Ap '42)

Sea otters

Juvenile literature

McCracken, H. Last of the sea otters. (O '42)

Sea power

- Brodie, B. Layman's guide to naval strategy. (O '42)
 Davis, F. Atlantic system. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
 Schubert, P. Sea power in conflict. (Je '42)

Bibliography

- Ellinger, W. B., and Rosinski, H. Sea power in the Pacific. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Sea power in conflict. Schubert, P. (Je '42)
 Sea power in the Pacific. Ellinger, W. B., and Rosinski, H. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual) Seabrook, William Buehler
 Seabrook, W. B. No hiding place. (D '42)
 Seafaring life
 Coffin, R. Last of the Logan. (My '42)
 Ranlett, C. E. Master mariner of Maine. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
 Williamson, W. M., ed. Cornell's sea packet, 1942. (Ap '42)

Seals (animals)

Legends and stories

Tracy, E. B. Paddles. (Je '42)

Sears, Richard Warren

Asher, L. E., and Heal, E. Send no money. (O '42)

Sears, Roebuck and co.

Asher, L. E., and Heal, E. Send no money. (O '42)

Season, Walden, D. (Ag '42)

Seasons and the fisherman. Darling, F. F. (Je '42)
 Seasons and the woodman. Chapman, D. H. (Je '42)

Secession

- Perkins, H. C., ed. Northern editorials on secession. (N '42)
 Potter, D. M. Lincoln and his party in the secession crisis. (O '42)
 Second great awakening in Connecticut. Keller, C. R. (S '42)
 Second sowing. Williams, M. A. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Second world. Blackmur, R. P. (S '42)
 Second yearbook of research and statistical methodology. Buros, O. K., ed. (Ag '42)
 Secondary education for American democracy. Wrinkle, W. L., and Gilchrist, R. S. (N '42)
 Secret life of Salvador Dali. Dali, S. (F '43) (1942 Annual) Secret of the ancient oak. Wolo. (D '42)

Secret service

United States

Crump, I. Our United States secret service. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Secret son. Kaye-Smith, S. (Mr '42)

Securities

- Cherrington, H. V. Investor and the Securities act. (Ag '42)
 Peach, W. N. Security affiliates of national banks. (Je '42)
 Warren, E. H. Rights of margin customers. (My '42)
 Securities market and how it works. Shultz, B. E. (Ag '42)
 Security affiliates of national banks. Peach, W. N. (Je '42)

Sedgwick, Henry Dwight

Sedgwick, H. D. Memoirs of an epicurean. (Je '42)

Sedition

- Chafee, Z. Free speech in the United States. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
 See here, Private Hargrove. Hargrove, M. (S '42)
 Seed beneath the snow. Silone, I. (S '42)
 Seeing eye, Incorporated, Morristown, New Jersey
 Hartwell, D. Dogs against darkness. (N '42)
 Seeking for trouble. Monro, M. T. (Ag '42)
 Seismology. Byerly, P. (D '42)
 Selected educational motion pictures. American council on education. Committee on motion pictures in education. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Self-analysis. Horney, K. (Ag '42)
 Self-betrayed. Riess, C. (D '42)

Selfhood and civilization. Kilpatrick, W. H. (Ag '42)

Selina. Alexander, H. M. (Je '42)

Semantics

- Carnap, R. Introduction to semantics. (S '42)
 Richards, I. A. How to read a page. (Je '42)
 Send no money. Asher, L. E., and Heal, E. (O '42)
 Sentries of the sea. Floherty, J. J. (S '42)
 Sergeant Nikola. Tamás, I. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Sermon on the Mount

Andrews, C. F. Sermon on the Mount. (N '42)

Sermons

- Hickerson, C. V. Twofold power of the gospel. (O '42)
 Macartney, C. E. N. Great women of the Bible. (N '42)
 Reid, A. C. Invitation to worship. (S '42)
 Scherer, P. E. Place where thou standest. (S '42)
 Strodach, P. Z., ed. Calling all Christians. (Ap '42)
 Whyte, R. B. Personalities behind the Psalms. (S '42)
 Serpent of the seas, the submarine. Cope, H. F. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Serpents

Schmidt, K. P., and Davis, D. D. Field book of snakes of the United States and Canada. (Mr '42)

Servant of the Word. Farmer, H. H. (D '42)

Setting sun of Japan. Randau, C., and Zugsmith, L. (Ap '42)

Seven for Cordella. Maclean, C. M. (Mr '42)

Seven Tempest. Wilkins, W. V. (Mr '42)

Seventeenth century

- Wiley, B. Seventeenth century background. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
 Seventeenth century background. Willey, B. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Seventeenth summer. Daly, M. (Je '42)

Seventh cross. Seghers, A. (O '42)

Sewing box family. Proudft, I. B. (Ag '42)

Sex

- Groves, E. R., and others. Sex fulfillment in marriage. (D '42)
 Menninger, K. A., and J. L. Love against hate. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Sex education in high schools. Baker, J. N. (D '42)
 Sex fulfillment in marriage. Groves, E. R., and others. (D '42)
 Sex guidance in family life education. Strain, F. B. (N '42)

Sex instruction

- Baker, J. N. Sex education in high schools. (D '42)
 Strain, F. B. Sex guidance in family life education. (N '42)

Sexual hygiene

- Groves, E. R., and others. Sex fulfillment in marriage. (D '42)
 Shadow bird mystery. Wadsworth, L. A. (Ap '42)

Shadow Catcher. Carson, J. M. H. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Shadow in the pines. Meader, S. W. (O '42)

Shadow on the campus. Haines, D. H. (D '42)

Shadow over Wide Ruin. Means, F. C. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Shadow rider. MacDonald, W. C. (Mr '42)

Shaken with the wind. De Ford, M. A. (S '42)

Shakespeare, Mrs Anne (Hathaway)

Lennon, T. Truth about Ann. (N '42)

Shakespeare, William

Spencer, T. Shakespeare and the nature of man. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Criticism and interpretation

Webster, M. Shakespeare without tears. (Mr '42)

Stage history

Harbage, A. B. Shakespeare's audience. (Ap '42)

Stage presentation

Webster, M. Shakespeare without tears. (Mr '42)

Shakespeare and the nature of man. Spencer, T. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Shakespeare in fiction, drama, poetry, etc. Lennon, T. Truth about Ann. (N '42)

- Shakespeare in Harlem. Hughes, L. (My '42)
 Shakespeare without tears. Webster, M. (Mr '42)
 Shakespeare's audience. Harbage, A. B. (Ap '42)
 Shape of a stain. Ferrars, E. (S '42)
 Sharon's career. Hall, E. G. (S '42)
 Shaw, George Bernard
 Bax, C., ed. Florence Farr, Bernard Shaw, W. B. Yeats; letters. (Ap '42)
 Pearson, H. G.B.S. (N '42)
 She never grew old. Lord, G. (S '42)
 Shear the black sheep. Dodge, D. (S '42)
 Sheet-metal pattern drafting. O'Rourke, F. J. (D '42)
Sheet metal work
 Frazer, R. H., and Berthiaume, O. Practical aircraft sheet-metal work. (S '42)
 Kaberlein, J. J. Air conditioning metal layout. (S '42)
 Norcross, C., and Quinn, J. D. How to do aircraft sheetmetal work. (S '42)
Pattern making
 O'Rourke, F. J. Sheet-metal pattern drafting. (D '42)
 Shelby, Joseph Orville
 Fiction
 Wellman, P. I. Angel with spurs. (Je '42)
 Shells and shooting. Ley, W. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual) Shelter without walls. Ritner, A. K. G. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Sheridan road. Miller, H. T. (S '42)
 Sheriff Olson. Chute, M. G. (Ap '42)
 She's off to marriage. Alsop, G. F., and McBride, M. F. (O '42)
 Shining tree. Borden, L. P. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Ship boy with Columbus. Meadowcroft, E. L. (Je '42)
 Ship repair and alteration. Haliday, G. V., and Swanson, W. E. (D '42)
Shipbuilding
 Hutchins, J. G. B. American maritime industries and public policy. (My '42)
 Moss, L. Q. Practical mathematics for shipfitters. (Je '42)
Shipping
 Great Britain
 Howe, L. Merchant service to-day. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 United States
 Hutchins, J. G. B. American maritime industries and public policy. (My '42)
Ships
 Williamson, W. M., ed. Cornell's sea packet, 1942. (Ap '42)
 Repair
 Haliday, G. V., and Swanson, W. E. Ship repair and alteration. (D '42)
 Ships with wings. Eng title of: Flare path. Claymore, T. (N '42)
Shipwrecks
 Richards, P. M., and Banigan, J. J. How to abandon ship. (D '42)
 Rieseberg, H. E. I dive for treasure. (Ag '42)
 Shivering bough. Burke, N. (O '42)
 Shooting Star. Wilson, W. E. (Je '42)
 Shooting the Russian war. White, M. B. (S '42)
 Shopcrafter's handbook. Burbank, N. L., and Mitchell, E. M., comps. (D '42)
 Shores of darkness. Hungerford, E. B. (N '42)
 Short history of ancient civilization. Jones, T. B. (S '42)
 Short history of Canada for Americans. Burt, A. Le R. (Je '42)
Short stories
 Bibliography
 Queen, E. Detective short story. (Ja '42)
 Collections
 Foley, M., ed. Best American short stories, 1942. (O '42)
 Mariella, Sister, comp. Great modern Catholic short stories. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 O. Henry memorial award. Prize stories of 1942. (D '42)
 Saturday Evening Post. Post stories of 1941. (Ag '42)
 Warfel, H. R., and Orians, G. H., eds. American local-color stories. (S '42)
 Shorter Moffatt Bible. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
Shrubs
 Van Dersal, W. R. Ornamental American shrubs. (D '42)
Sick, The
 Dicks, R. L. Who is my patient? (Mr '42)
 Dobershtein, J. W., comp. On wings of healing. (S '42)
Sight
 Huxley, A. L. Art of seeing. (D '42)
 Signed with their honour. Aldridge, J. (S '42)
 Silent are the dead. Cox, G. H. (Mr '42)
 Silent enemies. Hill, J. H. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Silver Widgeon. Wood, E. (D '42)
 Silvertip. Brand, M. (Mr '42)
 Silvertip's strike. Brand, M. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Simon Hastings. Tibbott, F. M. (S '42)
Sims, William Sowden
 Morison, E. E. Admiral Sims and the modern American navy. (O '42)
Singapore
 Miller, E. H. Strategy at Singapore. (N '42)
 Single women. Reed, R. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
 Sinus. Grove, R. C. (Ap '42)
Sisterhoods
 Zimpher, G. Fear not, little flock. (S '42)
 Six iron spiders. Taylor, P. A. (Ag '42)
 Six plays. Kaufman, G. S., and Hart, M. (O '42)
 Sixteen famous British plays. Cerf, B. A., and Cartmell, V. H., comps. (My '42)
 Sixth column. (My '42)
 Skin of our teeth. Wilder, T. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Sky freighter. Brier, H. M. (N '42)
 Skylark. Raymond, M. T., and Zylstra, F. (Ag '42)
 Slave songs of the Georgia Sea islands. Parrish, L. A. (S '42)
Slavery in literature
 Sypher, F. W. Guinea's captive kings. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
Slavery in the United States
 Craven, A. O. Coming of the Civil war. (Je '42)
 Curtis, A. L. Stories of the underground railroad. (My '42)
 Klingberg, F. J. Appraisal of the Negro in colonial South Carolina. (Je '42)
Slogans
 Shankle, G. E. American mottoes and slogans. (Ap '42)
 Small public library. Moshier, L. M., and LeFevre, H. S. (O '42)
 Small town. South. Byrd, S. (S '42)
 Smoke from their fires. Nowell, C. J. (My '42)
 Smoky bay. Arason, S. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Snake in the grass. Wellard, J. H. (O '42)
 Snakes. See Serpents
 Snow Hill. Belm, L. L., and J. (My '42)
 Snow queen. Andersen, H. C. (N '42)
 Snow treasure. McSwigan, M. (Ap '42)
 Snowball. Johnson, O. H. L. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
 So build we. Gardner, M. S. (D '42)
 So long, sucker. Seltzer, C. A. (Ap '42)
 So your husband's gone to war! Gorham, E. R. B. (N '42)
 Social and cultural dynamics, v4. Sorokin, P. A. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
 Social and economic study of the New Orleans Jewish community. Feibelman, J. B. (S '42)
 Social causation. MacIver, R. M. (O '42)
Social conditions
 Pegg, C. H., and others. American society and the changing world. (Ag '42)
 Sorokin, P. A. Man and society in calamity. (N '42)
 Social control through law. Pound, R. (O '42)
 Social disorganization. Elliott, M. A., and Merrill, F. E. (Ag '42)
Social ethics
 Oxnam, G. B. By this sign conquer. (Je '42)
 Social goals and economic institutions. Graham, F. D. (S '42)
 Social life of a modern community. Warner, W. L., and Lunt, P. S. (Mr '42)

- Social life of primitive man. Sieber, S. A. M., and Mueller, F. H. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
- Social message of the Apostle Paul. Rolston, H. (S '42)
- Social norms and the behavior of college students. Todd, J. E. (Ap '42)
- Social organization of the Western Apache. Goodwin, G. (N '42)
- Social problems
- Atteberry, G. C., and others. Introduction to social science. (N '42)
- Brown, W. A. Creed for free men. (Mr '42)
- Butler, N. M. Liberty—equality—fraternity. (Je '42)
- Elliott, M. A., and Merrill, F. E. Social disorganization. (Ag '42)
- Keller, A. G. Net impressions. (D '42)
- Landis, P. H. Our changing society. (Je '42)
- Lies, E. T. How you can make democracy work. (N '42)
- Lundberg, G. A. Social research. (Ap '42)
- Marx, W. J. Mechanization and culture. (Ag '42)
- Oxnam, G. B. By this sign conquer. (Je '42)
- Soule, G. H. Strength of nations. (My '42)
- Social problems in literature
- House, A. H. Dickens world. (Mr '42)
- Taylor, W. F. Economic novel in America. (Ag '42)
- Social psychology
- Alexander, F. Our age of unreason. (N '42)
- Bogardus, E. S. Fundamentals of social psychology. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Britt, S. H. Social psychology of modern life. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Elliott, M. A., and Merrill, F. E. Social disorganization. (Ag '42)
- Fromm, E. Escape from freedom. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
- Harding, D. C. W. Impulse to dominate. (O '42)
- Kilpatrick, W. H. Selfhood and civilization. (Ag '42)
- Krout, M. H. Introduction to social psychology. (Ag '42)
- Porterfield, A. L. Creative factors in scientific research. (Ag '42)
- Society for the psychological study of social issues. Civilian morale. (N '42)
- Sorokin, P. A. Man and society in calamity. (N '42)
- Social psychology of modern life. Britt, S. H. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Social research. Lundberg, G. A. (Ap '42)
- Social science principles in the light of scientific method. Mayer, J. (Ap '42)
- Social sciences
- Atteberry, G. C., and others. Introduction to social science. (N '42)
- Burdette, F. L., ed. Education for citizen responsibilities. (O '42)
- Edmonson, J. B., and Dondineau, A. Civics in American life. (Ap '42)
- Graham, F. D. Social goals and economic institutions. (S '42)
- Methodology
- MacIver, R. M. Social causation. (O '42)
- Mayer, J. Social science principles in the light of scientific method. (Ap '42)
- Study and teaching
- Wrightstone, J. W., and Campbell, D. S. Social studies and the American way of life. (Je '42)
- Social security reserves. Parker, J. S. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Social studies and the American way of life. Wrightstone, J. W., and Campbell, D. S. (Je '42)
- Social surveys
- Kammer, E. J. Socio-economic survey of the marshdwellers of four southeastern Louisiana parishes. (My '42)
- Lundberg, G. A. Social research. (Ap '42)
- Warner, W. L., and Lunt, P. S. Social life of a modern community. (Mr '42)
- Social thought among the early Greeks. Gittler, J. B. (Je '42)
- Social work
- Abbott, G. From relief to social security. (Ap '42)
- Aptekar, H. H. Basic concepts in social case work. (Ap '42)
- Bingham, F. C., ed. Community life in a democracy. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Browning, G. A. Rural public welfare. (My '42)
- Fink, A. E. Field of social work. (N '42)
- Study and teaching
- Reynolds, B. C. Learning and teaching in the practice of social work. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Robinson, V. P., ed. Training for skill in social case work. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Socialism
- Cole, G. D. H. Europe, Russia, and the future. (N '42)
- Sweezy, P. M. Theory of capitalist development. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Society, Primitive
- Sieber, S. A. M., and Mueller, F. H. Social life of primitive man. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
- Society and medical progress. Stern, B. J. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
- Socio-economic survey of the marshdwellers of four southeastern Louisiana parishes. Kammer, E. J. (My '42)
- Sociological foundations of education. Rouček, J. S., and others. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Sociology
- Bernard, L. L. Introduction to sociology. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Bolton, F. E., and Corbally, J. E. Educational sociology. (S '42)
- Dodd, S. C. Dimensions of society. (Je '42)
- Elliott, M. A., and Merrill, F. E. Social disorganization. (Ag '42)
- Feibleman, J. Christianity, communism and the ideal society. (S '42)
- Gillin, J. L., and J. P. Introduction to sociology. (S '42)
- Gurvich, G. D. Sociology of law. (Je '42)
- Heermance, E. L. Time stream. (S '42)
- Mackinder, H. J. Democratic ideals and reality. (O '42)
- Pennsylvania, University. Bicentennial conference. Studies in political science and sociology. (S '42)
- Sorokin, P. A. Social and cultural dynamics, v4. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
- History
- Gittler, J. B. Social thought among the early Greeks. (Je '42)
- Marcuse, H. Reason and revolution. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
- Sociology, Biblical
- Rolston, H. Social message of the Apostle Paul. (S '42)
- Sociology, Christian
- Armitage, J. To Christian England. (O '42)
- Brown, W. A. Creed for free men. (Mr '42)
- Church of England. Archbishop of York's conference. Malvern, 1941. Malvern, 1941. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Dawson, C. H. Judgment of the nations. (D '42)
- De La Bedoyère, M. Christian crisis. (My '42)
- Groves, E. R. Christianity and the family. (Ag '42)
- Spellman, F. J. Road to victory. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Sociology, Rural
- Nixon, H. C. Possum Trot. (Ap '42)
- Sanderson, E. D. Rural sociology and rural social organization. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Works, G. A., and Lesser, S. O. Rural America today. (O '42)
- Sociology of law. Gurvich, G. D. (Je '42)
- Soils
- Bennett, H. H., and Pryor, W. C. This land we defend. (N '42)
- Soldier doctor. Judson, C. I. (N '42)
- Soldier of the sea. Daly, R. W. (O '42)
- Soldier Sammy. MacNeil, M. G. (My '42)
- Soldiers at bat. Scholz, J. V. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Solids
- Barrer, R. M. Diffusion in and through solids. (Je '42)
- Solomon islands
- Description and travel
- Mytinger, C. Head hunting in the Solomon islands around the Coral sea. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Solution (chemistry)

Welcher, F. J. Chemical solutions. (S '42)

SolventsRobinson, C. S. Recovery of vapors. (D '42)
Solving school health problems. Nyswander, D. B. (O '42)

Some American primitives. Sears, C. E. (Ap '42)

Some favorite southern recipes. Windsor, W. W. (S '42)

Some historians of modern Europe. Schmitt, B. E., ed. (Ap '42)

Some restrictions and limitations to the free interstate movement of teachers. Stratford, W. D. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Something about Kierkegaard. Swenson, D. F. (My '42)

Something nasty in the woodshed. Eng title of: Mystery in the woodshed. Malleson, L. B. (Ag '42)

Something of a hero. Kapstein, I. J. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)

Something went wrong. Browne, L. (Mr '42)

Song and idea. Eberhart, R. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Song of Aino. Lundeborg, O. K. (Ap '42)

Song of Bernadette. Werfel, F. V. (Je '42)

Song out of sorrow. Doherty, F. (O '42)

Songs

Carmer, C. L., ed. Songs of the rivers of America. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Davison, A. T., and others, eds. Songs of freedom. (D '42)

Gilbert, D. Lost chords. (N '42)

Songs, American

Jordan, P. D., and Kessler, L., comps. Songs of yesterday. (Ap '42)

Luther, F. Americans and their songs. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Songs of American folks. Coleman, S. N. B., and Bregman, A. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Songs of freedom. Davison, A. T., and others, eds. (D '42)

Songs of the rivers of America. Carmer, C. L., ed (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Songs of yesterday. Jordan, P. D., and Kessler, L., comps. (Ap '42)

Sonnets to Orpheus. Rilke, R. M. (S '42)

Sons of the dragon. Sowers, P. A. (Je '42)

Sons of the West. Chaffin, L. B. (S '42)

Sophie of the Lazy B. Richardson, M. R. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

SOS radio patrol. Heyliger, W. (My '42)

Soul

Santayana, G. Realms of being. (S '42)

Sound and fury. Chase, F. S. (Je '42)

Sound of an American. Longstreet, S. (N '42)

Sound off! Dolph, E. A., ed. (S '42)

Soundproofing

Close, F. D. Building insulation. (Je '42)

Source book of medical history. Clendening, L., ed. (N '42)

South

Dabney, V. Below the Potomac. (Ap '42)

Civilization

Wertenbaker, T. J. Old South. (Je '42)

Description and travel

Leighton, C. V. H. Southern harvest. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Economic conditions

Byrd, S. Small town, South. (S '42)

Davis, A. and others. Deep South. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)

Nixon, H. C. Possum Trot. (Ap '42)

Social conditions

Byrd, S. Small town, South. (S '42)

Davis, A. and others. Deep South. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)

Nixon, H. C. Possum Trot. (Ap '42)

Social life and customs

Leighton, C. V. H. Southern harvest. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

South AfricaEconomic conditions

De Kiewiet, C. W. History of South Africa. (Ap '42)

History

De Kiewiet, C. W. History of South Africa. (Ap '42)

Native races

Tinley, J. M. Native labor problem of South Africa. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

South AmericaBiography

Lansing, M. F. Against all odds. (D '42)

Description and travel

Lanks, H. C. By Pan American highway through South America. (S '42)

Rich, J. L. Face of South America. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Trexler, S. G. A pastor wings over South America. (Ap '42)

History

Lansing, M. F. Against all odds. (D '42)

Peck, A. M. Pageant of South American history. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)

Juvenile literature

Dalglish, A. They live in South America. (D '42)

South America, with Mexico and Central America. Trend, J. B. (Ap '42)

South CarolinaDescription and travel

Robertson, B. Red hills and cotton. (S '42)

History

Klingberg, F. J. Appraisal of the Negro in colonial South Carolina. (Je '42)

Politics and government

Barry, R. H. Mr Rutledge of South Carolina. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Social life and customs

Robertson, B. Red hills and cotton. (S '42)

Southern garden. Lawrence, E. (N '42)

Southern harvest. Leighton, C. V. H. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Southern Negro and the public library. Gleason, E. V. A. (Ap '42)

Southward, England. Globe theatre

Adams, J. C. Globe playhouse. (S '42)

SouthwestAntiquities

McGregor, J. C. Southwestern archaeology. (Je '42)

Southwestern archaeology. McGregor, J. C. (Je '42)

Soviet Asia. Davies, R. A., and Steiger, A. J. (S '42)

Soviet Russia's foreign policy, 1939-1942. Dailin, D. J. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Soy bean

Dies, E. J. Soybeans, gold from the soil. (Ag '42)

Soybeans, gold from the soil. Dies, E. J. (Ag '42)

Spa, Versailles, Munich. Shartle, S. G. (Ap '42)

Spain

Frank, W. D. Virgin Spain. (Ag '42)

HistoryCivil war, 1936-1939

Koestler, A. Dialogue with death. (S '42)

Spanish American fictionTranslations into English

Flores, A., and Poore, D., eds. Fiesta in November. (S '42)

Spanish American literature

Instituto internacional de literatura ibero-americana. Outline history of Spanish American literature. (My '42)

Torres-Rioseco, A. Epic of Latin American literature. (N '42)

Spanish-American song and game book. United States. Work projects administration, New Mexico. (S '42)

Sparks of truth. Fox, E. (Ap '42)

Species, Origin of

Mayr, E. Systematics and the origin of species. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Specter of sabotage. Matthews, B. F. (My '42)

Spectral bride. Long, G. M. V. C. (S '42)

Spectrochemical analysis of metals and alloys. Twyman, F. (My '42)

Spectrum analysis

- Pearse, R. W. B., and Gaydon, A. G. Identification of molecular spectra. (Je '42)
 Twyman, F. Spectrochemical analysis of metals and alloys. (My '42)

Speculation

- Dice, C. A., and Eiteman, W. J. Stock market. (Ag '42)
 Warren, E. H. Rights of margin customers. (My '42)

SpeechTerminology

- Ogilvie, M. Terminology and definitions of speech defects. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Speedy, the hook and ladder truck. Hurd, E. T. (N '42)
 Spence, Hartzell
 Spence, H. Get thee behind me. (O '42)
 Spencer Brade, M.D. Slaughter, F. G. (My '42)
 Spherical trigonometry with naval and military applications. Kells, L. M., and others. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Spies

- K., S. Agent in Italy. (My '42)

Spilt milk. Bishop, M. (S '42)Spinsters

- Reed, R. Single women. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Spiritual life

- Brightman, E. S. Spiritual life. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
 Rush, B. Road to fulfillment. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Spiritualism

- Ellis, E. We knew these men. (Mr '42)
 White, S. E. Road I know. (My '42)
 Splendor stays. Allis, M. (D '42)
 Sporting blood. Queen, E., ed. (D '42)

Sports

- Famous American athletes of today; eighth series. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Mathiews, F. K., ed. Boy scouts book of hobbies for fathers and sons. (Ag '42)
 Spring magic. Stevenson, D. E. (Mr '42)
 Spring, summer, and autumn. Zinsser, H. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Stablemates. Johnson, M. S. and H. L. (O '42)
 Stage technique made easy. Morosco, S. P. and Lounsbury, A. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Stalin, Iosif

- Ludwig, E. Stalin. (O '42)
 Stampede. White, S. E. (Mr '42)
 Standard American encyclopedia. (My '42)
 Standard handbook for electrical engineers. (Je '42)

Stanford university

- Price, L. Creative group work on the campus. (Ap '42)
 Staple cotton fabrics. Hoye, J. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Star for beacon. Clark, L. S. (Ap '42)

- Star for Ginny. Whitney, P. A. (N '42)
 Star of the wilderness. Baker, K. W. (Je '42)
 Star spangled banner. Key, F. S. (D '42)
 Starlit dome. Knight, G. W. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Stars, Variable

- Campbell, L., and Jacchia, L. G. Story of variable stars. (Je '42)

Stars in myth and fact. Scott, O. E. (D '42)State, The

- State, W. T. Destiny of western man. (Ap '42)
 State becomes a social worker. James, A. W. (N '42)

State governmentsFederal relations

- Kallenbach, J. E. Federal coöperation with the states under the commerce clause. (O '42)

State housing agencies. Schaffter, D. (D '42)Statesmen, American

- Schnittkind, H. T. and D. A. Living biographies of American statesmen. (D '42)

Statistics

- Hagood, M. J. Statistics for sociologists. (Ag '42)
 McCormick, T. C. Elementary social statistics. (Je '42)
 Wolfenden, H. H. Fundamental principles of mathematical statistics. (D '42)

Bibliography

- Buros, O. K., ed. Second yearbook of research and statistical methodology. (Ag '42)
 Statistics for sociologists. Hagood, M. J. (Ag '42)
 Status system of a modern community. Warner, W. L., and Lunt, P. S. (O '42)
 Steady; a baseball story. Renick, J. L. and M. (My '42)
 Steam locomotive. Johnson, R. P. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
 Steel construction
 Grinter, L. E. Design of modern steel structures. (Ap '42)
 Steel industry and trade
 Brearley, H. Knotted string. (Ag '42)
 Evans, H. O. Iron pioneer. (D '42)
 Scott, J. Behind the Urals. (S '42)

Stefansson, VilhjalmurJuvenile literature

- Hanson, E. P. Stefansson. (Mr '42)
 Stella, Davis, H. J. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
 Step Along and Jerry Jake. Justus, M. (O '42)

Stephens college, Columbia, Missouri

- Price, L. Creative group work on the campus. (Ap '42)
 Steppin and family. Newell, H. H. (My '42)

Stock exchange

- Dice, C. A., and Eiteman, W. J. Stock market. (Ag '42)
 Shultz, B. E. Securities market and how it works. (Ag '42)
 Vernon, R. Regulation of stock exchange members. (My '42)
 Warren, E. H. Rights of margin customers. (My '42)
 Stock market. Dice, C. A., and Eiteman, W. J. (Ag '42)

Stocks

- Dice, C. A., and Eiteman, W. J. Stock market. (Ag '42)
 Stoic, Christian and humanist. Murray, G. (S '42)
 Stolen squadron. Heberden, M. V. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Stones begin to dance. Kandel, A. (O '42)
 Stooping Hawk and Stranded Whale. Bronson, W. S. (O '42)
 Stop-light. Goodman, P. (Je '42)
 Stop on the green light! Brogan, D. W. (Je '42)
 Stories of our American patriotic songs. Lyons, J. H. (D '42)
 Stories of our national songs. Hart, W. J. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Stories of the underground railroad. Curtis, A. L. (My '42)
 Storm on the island. Lattimore, E. F. (Ap '42)
 Storm over the land. Sandburg, C. (N '42)
 Storm Point. McKee, R. E. (D '42)
 Stormy present. Field, H. (S '42)
 Story of modern Europe. Riker, T. W. (N '42)
 Story of Pancho and the bull with the crooked tail. Hader, B. H. and E. (D '42)
 Story of the airship. Allen, H. (S '42)
 Story of the eight-year study. Aikin, W. M. (My '42)

Story of the Great Lakes. Gilchrist, M. E. (O '42)

- Story of variable stars. Campbell, L., and Jacchia, L. G. (Je '42)

Story parade. (My '42)Story telling

- Sawyer, R. Way of the storyteller. (My '42)
 Story to tell. Fleming, P. (My '42)
 Stowe, Mrs Harriet Elizabeth (Beecher)
 Wilson, F. Crusader in crinoline. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)

Strachey, Giles Lytton

- Clemens, C. Lytton Strachey. (N '42)

Strains and stresses

- Elberfeld, J. Strength and properties of materials. (D '42)

Stranger. Ross, L. B. (N '42)

- Strategic materials and national strength. Holmes, H. N. (S '42)

Strategy

- Baldwin, H. W. Strategy for victory. (Ag '42)
 Farago, L., ed. Axis grand strategy. (My '42)
 Kernan, W. F. Defense will not win the war. (Ap '42)
 Kiralfy, A. Victory in the Pacific. (Je '42)

- Sargeant, H. A., and Wells, G. H. Grand strategy. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
- Werner, M. Great offensive. (N '42)
- Ziff, W. B. Coming battle of Germany. (S '42)
- Strategy at Singapore. Miller, E. H. (N '42)
- Strategy for democracy. Kingsley, J. D., and Petegorsky, D. W. (Ap '42)
- Strategy for victory. Baldwin, H. W. (Ag '42)
- Stratton, Charles Sherwood (General Tom Thumb)
- Hunt, M. L. Have you seen Tom Thumb? (D '42)
- Strawberry Hill press
- Bibliography
- Hazen, A. T. Bibliography of the Strawberry Hill press. (O '42)
- Street of ships. Daugherty, C. M. (S '42)
- Street of the city. Hill, G. L. (D '42)
- Street of the crying woman. Mainwaring, D. (S '42)
- Street songs. Sitwell, E. (D '42)
- Strength and properties of materials. Elberfeld, J. (D '42)
- Strength for service to God and country. Nygaard, N. E., ed. (D '42)
- Strength of materials
- Breneman, J. W. Strength of materials. (Je '42)
- Elberfeld, J. Strength and properties of materials. (D '42)
- Gilkey, H. J., and others. Materials testing. (Je '42)
- Strength of nations. Soule, G. H. (My '42)
- Stretching your dollar in wartime. Brindze, R. (Je '42)
- Strong cables rising. Sloane, M. H. (N '42)
- Strong city. Caldwell, J. T. (My '42)
- Structure of American economy, 1919-1929. Leontief, W. W. (Ap '42)
- Structure of Netherlands Indian economy. Boeke, J. H. (D '42)
- Structures, Theory of
- Van Den Broek, J. A. Elastic energy theory. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Studebaker corporation
- Smallried, K. A., and Roberts, D. J. More than you promise. (D '42)
- Student activities
- Strang, R. M. Group activities in college and secondary school. (Ap '42)
- Student personnel problems. Wrenn, C. G., and Bell, R. (My '42)
- Students
- Fry, C. C., and Rostow, E. G. Mental health in college. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Howard, L. S. Road ahead. (My '42)
- Munroe, R. L. Teaching the individual. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Todd, J. E. Social norms and the behavior of college students. (Ap '42)
- Studies in civilization. Pennsylvania. University. Bicentennial conference. (S '42)
- Studies in diplomacy and statecraft. Gooch, G. P. (N '42)
- Studies in economics and industrial relations. Pennsylvania. University. Bicentennial conference. (S '42)
- Studies in political science and sociology. Pennsylvania. University. Bicentennial conference. (S '42)
- Studies in the history of science. Pennsylvania. University. Bicentennial conference. (S '42)
- Study of the Bible in the middle ages. Smalley, B. (D '42)
- Study of war. Wright, Q. (N '42)
- Stump ranch pioneer. Davis, N. P. (N '42)
- Style, Musical
- Moore, D. S. From madrigal to modern music. (My '42)
- Subject fields in general education. National commission on cooperative curriculum planning. (My '42)
- Subject guide to reference books. Hirshberg, H. S. (D '42)
- Submarine! Banning, K. (D '42)
- Submarine at war. Low, A. M. (Ag '42)
- Submarine boats
- Banning, K. Submarine! (D '42)
- Cope, H. F. Serpent of the seas, the submarine. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Felsen, G. He's in submarines now. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Zim, H. S. Submarines. (O '42)
- Submarine warfare
- Banning, K. Submarine! (D '42)
- Cope, H. F. Serpent of the seas, the submarine. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Felsen, G. He's in submarines now. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Low, A. M. Submarine at war. (Ag '42)
- Woodbury, D. O. What the citizen should know about submarine warfare. (O '42)
- Submarines. Zim, H. S. (O '42)
- Substance that is poetry. Coffin, R. P. T. (D '42)
- Success in court. Wellman, F. L. (Ap '42)
- Sudan
- Bittinger, D. W. Black and white in the Sudan. (O '42)
- Suds in your eye. Lasswell, M. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Sue in Tibet. Still, D. S. (S '42)
- Suez to Singapore. Brown, C. (N '42)
- Suffering
- Eddy, G. S. Maker of men. (Ap '42)
- Sugar
- Analysis and testing
- Browne, C. A., and Zerban, F. W. Physical and chemical methods of sugar analysis. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Sugar in the gourd. Hanna, E. (Mr '42)
- Sugarfoot. Kelland, C. B. (N '42)
- Sullivan, John
- McGrath, F. Father John Sullivan, S.J. (Ap '42)
- Sullivan, John Lawrence
- Chidsey, D. B. John the Great. (O '42)
- Summer after summer. Sullivan, R. (N '42)
- Sumter, Fort
- Tilley, J. S. Lincoln takes command. (Je '42)
- Sun chief. Talayesva, D. C. (Je '42)
- Sun climbs slow. Davis, J. (Ap '42)
- Sun climbs slowly. Eng title of: Westward the sun. Sinclair, K. H. N-W. (Ap '42)
- Sun dial. Smith, R. A. (Ag '42)
- Sun in Capricorn. Basso, H. (O '42)
- Sunday best. Holm, J. C. (Je '42)
- Sunday Pigeon murders. Rice, C. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Sundowners. Dorrance, W. A. (S '42)
- Sunset graze. Short, L. (N '42)
- Sunward I've climbed. Hagedorn, H. (N '42)
- Super-electricity. Yates, R. F. (D '42)
- Superior children through modern nutrition. Kugelmass, I. N. (Je '42)
- Supreme court and judicial review. Carr, R. K. (Ag '42)
- Surgeon in charge. Seifert, E. (O '42)
- Surrealism
- Calas, N. Confound the wise. (O '42)
- Lemaître, G. E. From cubism to surrealism in French literature. (My '42)
- Surveying
- Breed, C. B. Surveying. (My '42)
- Davis, R. E. Elementary plane surveying. (My '42)
- Rubey, H. and others. Engineering surveys. (My '42)
- Surveying, Aerial
- Bagley, J. W. Aerophotography and aerophotography. (Je '42)
- Susan's safe harbor. Eyre, K. W. (O '42)
- Suzy goes to Mexico. Thielmann, M. C. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Swede homestead. Anderson, N. M. (D '42)
- Sweden
- Population
- Myrdal, A. R. Nation and family. (Ap '42)
- Public works
- Clark, E. H. Swedish unemployment policy—1914 to 1940. (Ag '42)
- Swedish collective bargaining system. Norgren, P. H. (Ap '42)
- Swedish unemployment policy—1914 to 1940. Clark, E. H. (Ag '42)
- Sweeny's adventure. Krumgold, J. (D '42)
- Sweet Genevieve. Derleth, A. W. (Ag '42)
- Sweets without sugar. White, M. (S '42)
- Swift, Jonathan
- Davis, H. J. Stella. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Swift Thunder of the prairie. Maloy, L. (O '42)

Switzerland

Politics and government

- Rougemont, D. de., and Muret, C. Heart of Europe. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
 Sword on the table. Scott, W. T. (D '42)
 Sword play. Breckinridge, S. D. and S. D., Jr. (Ap '42)

Sydney (cruiser)

- Johnston, G. H. Action at sea. (Mr '42)

Sylvia, William H.

- Todes, C. William H. Sylvia and the National labor union. (O '42)

Symbolism

- Langer, S. K. K. Philosophy in a new key. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Symphony

- Burrows, R. M., and Redmond, B. C., comps. Symphony themes. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Symphony themes. Burrows, R. M., and Redmond, B. C., comps. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual) Syrup can. Veltman, J. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual) Systematics and the origin of species. Mayr, E. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Szold, Henrietta

- Lowenthal, M. Henrietta Szold. (My '42)

Table

- Bailey, N. B. The table graces. (Ap '42)
 Table graces. Bailey, N. B. (Ap '42)
 Tables of food values. Bradley, A. V. (F '43) (1942 Annual) Tacey Cromwell. Richter, C. (D '42)

Tactics

- Clausewitz, K. von. Principles of war. (D '42)
 Miksche, F. O. Attack. (S '42)
 Tad Potter, Wilgus, A. (S '42)
 Taffy and Tuffy. Seybert, M., and Olson, L. M. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Taft, Horace Dutton

- Taft, H. D. Memories and opinions. (Je '42)
 Tale of the promethea moth. Kane, H. B. (Je '42)

Talent for murder. Wells, A. M. (S '42)

Tales, Haitian

- Courlander, H. Uncle Bouqui of Haiti. (O '42)

Tales, Mexican

- Brenner, A. The boy who could do anything. (Ap '42)
 Ross, P. F. In Mexico they say. (Je '42)
 Tales from Bective bridge. Lavin, M. (Ag '42)
 Talking round the earth. Benz, F. E. (My '42)
 Tall book of Mother Goose. Mother Goose. (D '42)
 Tall hunter. Fast, H. M. (D '42)
 Tamara. Skariatina, I. (Mr '42)
 Tambay gold. Adams, S. H. (D '42)

Tanks (military science)

- Lindsay, G. M. War on the civil and military fronts. (O '42)

Tanning

- Wilson, J. A. Modern practice in leather manufacture. (Ap '42)
 Tap-a-tan! Lowrey, J. S. (Je '42)
 Tap dance for fun. Sauthoff, H. E. (O '42)
 Tap dancing
 Sauthoff, H. E. Tap dance for fun. (O '42)
 Tap roots. Street, J. H. (S '42)

Tariff

Great Britain

- Lowe, M. E. British tariff movement. (N '42)

United States

- Davis, H. O. America's trade equality policy. (N '42)
 Tavern in the town. Matschat, C. H. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual) Tax barriers to trade. Tax institute. (My '42)

Taxation

United States

- Harris, S. E. Economics of social security. (Je '42)
 Paul, R. E. Federal estate and gift taxation. (Je '42)
 Ratner, S. American taxation. (Ag '42)

- Shoup, C. S. Federal finances in the coming decade. (Ap '42)

- Tax institute. Tax barriers to trade. (My '42)

- Taxation of war wealth. Hicks, J. R., and others. (My '42)

- Teacher. Nuttall, L. J. (Je '42)

- Teacher and educational administration. Reavis, W. C., and Judd, C. H. (O '42)

- Teacher education in a democracy at war. Evenden, E. S. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Teachers

- Reavis, W. C., and Judd, C. H. Teacher and educational administration. (O '42)
 Stratford, W. D. Some restrictions and limitations to the free interstate movement of teachers. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Wilson, L. Academic man. (Ag '42)

Teachers, Training of

- Evenden, E. S. Teacher education in a democracy at war. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Williams, E. I. F. Actual and potential use of laboratory schools in state normal schools and teachers colleges. (Je '42)

Teaching

- Munroe, R. L. Teaching the individual. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
 Nuttall, L. J. Teacher. (Je '42)
 Rorer, J. A. Principles of democratic supervision. (D '42)

Teaching, Freedom of

- Bunting, D. E. Liberty and learning. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
 Teaching primary reading. Dolch, E. W. (My '42)
 Teaching religion in the public school. Hauser, C. A. (Je '42)
 Teaching the individual. Munroe, R. L. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
 Teamsters and transportation. Hill, S. E. (Ag '42)
 Technical report writing. Rhodes, F. H. (S '42)
 Technidata hand book. Page, E. L. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Technique of sculpture. Harris, R. G., and Piccoli, G. (Je '42) Techniques of democracy. Bingham, A. M. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Technology

- Cullimore, A. R., ed. Through engineering eyes. (S '42)
 Leyson, B. W. It works like this. (Ap '42)
 Marx, W. J. Mechanization and culture. (Ag '42)
 Stokley, J. Science remakes our world. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Dictionaries

- English-Spanish comprehensive technical dictionary of aircraft, automobile, radio, television. (My '42)
 Technology of natural resins. Mantell, C. L., and others. (S '42)

Tecumseh, Shawnee chief

Juvenile literature

- Wilson, W. E. Shooting Star. (Je '42)
 Telefair. Rice, C. (Ap '42)
 Telegram from heaven. Manoff, A. (O '42)

Telegraph

Juvenile literature

- Yates, R. F. Boys' book of communications. (D '42)

Telephone

Juvenile literature

- Benz, F. E. Talking round the earth. (My '42)
 Yates, R. F. Boys' book of communications. (D '42)
 The telephone booth. Indian. Liebling, A. J. (Mr '42)

Television

- De Forest, L. Television, today and tomorrow. (Mr '42)
 Dunlap, O. E. Future of television. (D '42)
 Hubbell, R. W. 4000 years of television. (N '42)
 Hylander, C. J., and Harding, R. Introduction to television. (My '42)

Juvenile literature

- Writers' program, Pennsylvania. Television. (S '42)

- Television. Writers' program, Pennsylvania. (S '42)
- Television, today and tomorrow. De Forest, L. (Mr '42)
- Tell it to the laughing stars. Havill, E. (My '42)
- Teller, Henry Moore
Ellis, E. Henry Moore Teller, defender of the West. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Temperament
Sheldon, W. H., and Stevens, S. S. Varieties of temperament. (D '42)
- Ten decades of alms. Roemer, T. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Ten years. Lee, D. E. (Je '42)
- Tenderfoot. Kent, W. H. B. (N '42)
- Tenggren tell-it-again book. Gibson, K., ed. (N '42)
- Tennessee yeomen. Clark, B. H. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Tents in the wilderness. Lips, J. E. (D '42)
- Terminology and definitions of speech defects. Ogilvie, M. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Terror by twilight. Knight, K. M. (S '42)
- Terror on the island. Ferguson, J. A. (My '42)
- Terry, Eli
Juvenile literature
Jones, L. A. Eli Terry, clockmaker of Connecticut. (N '42)
- Testing
Gilkey, H. J., and others. Materials testing. (Je '42)
- Michelson, L. C. Industrial inspection methods. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Texas
Perry, G. S. Texas, a world in itself. (N '42)
- Texas, a world in itself. Perry, G. S. (N '42)
- Textbook in electricity and magnetism. Kelly, H. C. (Je '42)
- Textbooks
Clement, J. A. Manual for analyzing and selecting textbooks. (N '42)
- Textile fabrics
Baity, E. C. Man is a weaver. (Ap '42)
- Wingate, I. B. Textile fabrics and their selection. (Je '42)
- Textile fabrics and their selection. Wingate, I. B. (Je '42)
- Textile fiber atlas. Von Bergen, W., and Krauss, W. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Textile fibers
Von Bergen, W., and Krauss, W. Textile fiber atlas. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Thailand
Thompson, V. M. Thailand, the new Siam. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
- Thailand, the new Siam. Thompson, V. M. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
- Thankless child. Swinnerton, F. A. (D '42)
- Thanksgiving day
Juvenile literature
Barksdale, L. First Thanksgiving day. (D '42)
- That they may have life. Penrose, S. B. L. (Ap '42)
- Theater
Yearbooks
Mantle, B., ed. Best plays of 1941-42. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- New York (city)
History
Odell, G. C. D. Annals of the New York stage, v 13. (N '42)
- Thelms
Eddy, G. S. Man discovers God. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Laird, J. Thelms and cosmology. (Ap '42)
- Thelms and cosmology. Laird, J. (Ap '42)
- Then and now. Foster, J. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Then came the test. Pedler, M. B. (Ag '42)
- Then we shall hear singing. Jameson, S. (N '42)
- Theology
Macfarland, C. S. Digest of Christian thinking. (Ag '42)
- Theology of politics. Micklem, N. (My '42)
- Theory and practice in the elementary school. Saucier, W. A. (My '42)
- Theory and practice of job rating. Stigers, M. F., and Reed, E. G. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Theory of capitalist development. Sweezy, P. M. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Theory of consumer's demand. Norris, R. T. (Ag '42)
- Therapeutics
Goodman, L. S., and Gilman, A. Pharmacological basis of therapeutics. (Ap '42)
- Therapy of the neuroses and psychoses. Kraines, S. H. (Ag '42)
- There go the ships. Carse, R. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- There is a happy land. Bezzerides, A. I. (Je '42)
- There is today. Lawrence, J. (N '42)
- There were giants in the land. (N '42)
- There will be bread and love. Coffin, R. P. T. (My '42)
- There's always tomorrow. Eng. title of: Home is the heart. Malleson, L. B. (Ap '42)
- Thermochemical calculations. Wenner, R. R. (Ag '42)
- Thermochemistry
Wenner, R. R. Thermochemical calculations. (Ag '42)
- Thermodynamics
Bridgman, P. W. Nature of thermodynamics. (Ag '42)
- Steiner, L. E. Introduction to chemical thermodynamics. (Ag '42)
- Wenner, R. R. Thermochemical calculations. (Ag '42)
- These shared His power. Poteat, E. M. (My '42)
- They always come home. Lieferant, H. and S. S. (Ap '42)
- They called me Cassandra. Tabouis, G. R. (Ap '42)
- They came from Sweden. Judson, C. I. (N '42)
- They came to kill. Scherf, M. (S '42)
- They knew Lincoln. Washington, J. E. (Mr '42)
- They live in South America. Daigliesh, A. (D '42)
- They loved to laugh. Worth, K. (Je '42)
- They made him Christ. Bradley, W. P. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- They taught themselves. Janis, S. (Ap '42)
- They tell no tales. Coles, M. (Mr '42)
- They went exploring. Sondergaard, A. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- They went to college. Pace, C. R. (D '42)
- They were expendable. White, W. L. (O '42)
- They were San Franciscans. DeFord, M. A. (Ap '42)
- Thirteen by Corwin. Corwin, N. L. (Mr '42)
- Thirteen ghostly yarns. Sechrist, E. H., ed. (S '42)
- Thirty days hath September. Disney, D. C., and Perry, G. S. (D '42)
- Thirty-first star. Scherer, J. A. B. (O '42)
- This age of fable. Stolper, G. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
- This chemical age. Haynes, W. (Ap '42)
- This Christian cause. Barth, K. (My '42)
- This fascinating railroad business. Henry, R. S. (Je '42)
- This fortress. Coles, M. (O '42)
- This freedom. Oboler, A. (My '42)
- This great argument. Kelley, M. W. (O '42)
- This great journey. Lee, J. (O '42)
- This green world. Platt, R. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- This is America. Roosevelt, E. R. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- This is my best. Burnett, W., ed. (D '42)
- This is my life. Hunt, A. G. (D '42)
- This is the enemy. Oechsner, F. C., and others. (D '42)
- This is your war. Childs, M. W. (Ap '42)
- This land we defend. Bennett, H. H., and Pryor, W. C. (N '42)
- This modern music. Howard, J. T. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- This one kindness. Hueston, E. P. (Ag '42)
- This right I claim. Hume, D. M. (Ag '42)
- This seed of faith. Battenhouse, H. M. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- This side of land. Frost, E. H. (O '42)
- This undesirable residence. Eng title of: Death at Ash house. Burton, M. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- This war. Dorf, P. (My '42)
- This was Cicero. Haskell, H. J. (D '42)
- Thomas Aquinas, Saint
Maritain, J. St Thomas and the problem of evil. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Phelan, G. B. Saint Thomas and analogy. (Je '42)

Thomas Mann's world. Brennan, J. G. (Ja '43)
(1942 Annual)

Thompson, Francis

Drama

Doherty, F. Song out of sorrow. (O '42)
Thoreau, Henry David

Poetry

Lee, H. More day to dawn. (Ag '42)
Thorofare, Morley, C. D. (D '42)
Thoroughbreds. Anderson, C. W. (N '42)
Those enduring young charms. Larison, R. H.
(Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Thought transference

Wilkins, G. H., and Sherman, H. M. Thoughts through space. (S '42)
Thoughts through space. Wilkins, G. H., and Sherman, H. M. (S '42)
Thraliana. Plozzi, H. L. S. T. (D '42)
Three aspects of labor dynamics. Woytinsky,
W. S. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
Three bamboos. Standish, R. (D '42)
Three blind mice. Seifert, A. (Ap '42)
Three famous spy novels. (S '42)
Three Greek tragedies in translation. Grene, D.,
tr. (D '42)
Three Hanses. David, J. (D '42)
300 sugar saving recipes. Hester, H. H. (S '42)
Three plots for Asey Mayo. Taylor, P. A. (D
'42)
Three smart squirrels and Squee. Friskey, M.
(D '42)
Three star mystery book. (D '42)
Three wives. Geijerstam, R. A. (Je '42)
Thrifty cooking for wartime. Smith, A. E. B.
(Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
Throne of David. Hebert, A. G. (My '42)
Through engineering eyes. Cullimore, A. R., ed. (S '42)

Thumb, General Tom. See Stratton, C. S.
Thunder aloft. Sagendorph, K. (Ag '42)
Thunder birds. Falk, O. (S '42)
Thunder in heaven. Tempski, A. von. (N '42)
Thunder island. Stone, W. S. (Je '42)
Thunderbird. Garth, D. (Je '42)
Thus speaks Germany. Coole, W. W., and Potter, M. F., eds. (Mr '42)

Tibet

Enders, G. B. Foreign devil. (S '42)
Tidewater tales. Locklin, A. L. (F '43) (1942
Annual)
Timber. Haig-Brown, R. L. H. (Ap '42)
Time and love. Dow, D. (O '42)
Time and the physician. Barker, L. F. (My '42)
Time and the town. Vorse, M. M. H. (S '42)
Time for greatness. Agar, H. (N '42)
Time for silence. Maurois, A. (Ap '42)
Time of my life. DeVighe, H. C. (N '42)
Time of peace. Williams, B. A. (D '42)
Time runs out. Taylor, H. J. (Je '42)

Time series analysis

Davis, H. T. Analysis of economic time series. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
Time stream. Heermance, E. L. (S '42)
A time to be born. Powell, D. (O '42)
Time to laugh. Fenner, P. R., ed. (Ja '43)
(1942 Annual)
Time was. Hauser, H. (Mr '42)
Timothy Larkin. Hutchens, J. (Ap '42)

Timrod, Henry

Hubbell, J. B., ed. Last years of Henry
Timrod. (Je '42)
Tinker tailor. Baker, M. (S '42)
Tinker, the little fox terrier. L'Hommiedieu,
D. K. (D '42)
Tinsley's bones. Wilde, P. (S '42)
Tireless traveler. Trollope, A. (Ap '42)
To a blindfold lady. Purcell, J. (S '42)
To Christian England. Armitage, J. (O '42)
To discover mathematics. Merriman, G. M. (D
'42)
To form a more perfect union. Clarke, C. F. (F
'43) (1942 Annual)
To hold against famine. Coyle, K. (Mr '42)
To the Isles of Spice. Eng title of: Isles of Spice. Clune, F. (My '42)
Tobacco tycoon. Winkler, J. K. (N '42)
Today we are brothers. Herrmann, L. (Je '42)
Today the sun rises. Lyttle, J. (N '42)
Today we fly. Friskey, M. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
Tom Whipple. Edmonds, W. D. (D '42)

Tombstone, Arizona

Sonnichsen, C. L. Billy King's Tombstone.
(Ag '42)

Tommy Tippet's toys. Woodcock, L. P. (Ja
'43) (1942 Annual)
Tommy True. Sutton, M. (D '42)
Tomorrow is another day. White, A. L. W. (My '42)
Tomorrow's hero. Howard, M. (S '42)
Tool design. Cole, C. B. (Ag '42)

Tools

Cole, C. B. Tool design. (Ag '42)
Tools of war. Newman, J. R. (My '42)
Top Kick, U.S. army horse. Watson, H. O.
(D '42)
Top-management organization and control.
Holden, P. E., and others. (My '42) Toper's end. Cole, G. D. H. and M. I. P. (N
'42)
Torch of liberty. Kummer, F. A. (Ap '42)
Tornado across eastern Europe. Hanc, J. (Ap '42)
Torpedo junction. Casey, R. J. (Ja '43) (1942
Annual)
Torrey, John
Rodgers, A. D. John Torrey. (S '42)

Torts

Warren, E. H. Rights of margin customers.
(My '42)
Tory tavern. Safford, H. B. (S '42)
Total victory. King-Hall, S. (Ap '42)

Totalitarianism

Corey, L. Unfinished task. (Je '42)
Fromm, E. Escape from freedom. (Ag '42)
(1941 Annual)
Micklem, N. Theology of politics. (My '42)
Nash, J. B. Building morale. (Je '42)
Neumann, S. Permanent revolution. (D '42)
Stace, W. T. Destiny of western man. (Ap '42)
Toto and I. Hoyt, A. M. D. (My '42)
Touchdown. Rowell, A. C. (My '42)
Toward international organization. Robinson,
H., and others. (S '42)

Town, Ithiel

Newton, R. H. Town & Davis, architects. (S
'42)
Town & Davis, architects. Newton, R. H. (S '42)

Toys

Freeman, R. S. and G. L. Cavalcade of toys.
(Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Trade unions

Beyin, E. Balance sheet of the future. (Ag
'42) (1941 Annual)
Boone, G. Women's trade union leagues in Great Britain and the United States of America. (O '42)
McConagha, W. A. Development of the labor movement in Great Britain, France and Germany. (F '43) (1942 Annual) Toner, J. L. Closed shop. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
Twentieth century fund, inc. Labor committee. How collective bargaining works.
(Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Sweden

Norgren, P. H. Swedish collective bargaining system. (Ap '42)

United States

Bureau of national affairs, Washington, D.C.
Collective bargaining contracts. (Je '42)
Garland, J. V., comp. Federal regulation of labor unions. (My '42)
Golden, C. S., and Ruttenberg, H. J. Dynamics of industrial democracy. (Je '42)
Seldman, J. I. Needle trades. (S '42)
Todes, C. William H. Sylvius and the National labor union. (O '42)
Traded twins. McLean, R. N. (S '42)
Traffic engineering handbook. Hammond, H. F., and Sorenson, L. J., eds. (Ag '42)
Traffic regulations
Hammond, H. F., and Sorenson, L. J., eds.
Traffic engineering handbook. (Ag '42)
Tragicall history of Christopher Marlowe.
Bakeless, J. E. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
Trail of the money bird. Ripley, S. D. (Ja '43)
(1942 Annual)
Trail south from Powder Valley. Field, P.,
(My '42)
Training for skill in social case work. Robinson, V. P., ed. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
Training Sylvia. White, E. O. (O '42)
Trains in transition. Beebe, L. M. (Mr '42)

- Trans-Pacific relations of Latin America. Bradley, A. (O '42)
- Transportation
- United States
- White, J. L. Transportation and national defense. (Ag '42)
- Transportation and national defense. White, J. L. (Ag '42)
- Trapping
- Kennedy, B. Lady and the lions. (D '42)
- Traumatic neuroses of war. Kardiner, A. (Ag '42)
- Travelers
- Penrose, B. Urbane travelers, 1591-1635. (S '42)
- Traveler's candle. Updegraff, F. M. (N '42)
- Treasure trove
- Rieseberg, H. E. I dive for treasure. (Ag '42)
- Treasury of best-loved hymns. Poling, D. A., comp. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Treasury of British humor. Bishop, M. G., ed. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Treasury of democracy. Cousins, N., ed. (Mr '42)
- Treasury of great poems, English and American. Untermyer, L., ed. (N '42)
- Treasury of the world's finest folk song. Deutsch, L., ed. (N '42)
- Treasury star parade. Bacher, W. A., ed. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Treaties and constitutional law. Cowles, W. B. (N '42)
- Tree in the trail. Holling, H. C. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Tree-ring analysis and dating in the Mississippi drainage. Hawley, F. M. (O '42)
- Trees
- Hawley, F. M. Tree-ring analysis and dating in the Mississippi drainage. (O '42)
- McKenny, M. Trees of the countryside. (O '42)
- Juvenile literature
- Limbach, R. T. American trees. (N '42)
- North America
- Harlow, W. M. Trees of the eastern United States and Canada. (Ap '42)
- United States
- Limbach, R. T. American trees. (N '42)
- Trees of the countryside. McKenny, M. (O '42)
- Trees of the eastern United States and Canada. Harlow, W. M. (Ap '42)
- Treveryan, Du Maurier, A. (N '42)
- Trial practices
- Wellman, F. L. Success in court. (Ap '42)
- Trigonometry, Spherical
- Kells, L. M., and others. Spherical trigonometry with naval and military applications. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Triumph; Grant's final victory. Green, H. (S '42)
- Tropic landfall. Gessler, C. F. (Mr '42)
- Tropics
- Diseases and hygiene
- Hunt, V. L. F. How to live in the tropics. (S '42)
- Wilson, C. M. Ambassadors in white. (Ag '42)
- Trouble is my master. Teilhet, D. L. (My '42)
- Truck that flew. Morris, D. H. (My '42)
- True steel. Borth, C. (Je '42)
- True story of Fala. Suckley, M. L., and Dalgliesh, A. (Je '42)
- Trusts and trustees
- Leavitt, J. A. Voting trust. (Ap '42)
- Paul, R. E. Federal estate and gift taxation. (Je '42)
- Truth
- Santayana, G. Realms of being. (S '42)
- Truth about Ann. Lennon, T. (N '42)
- Truth about Leif Ericson. Goodwin, W. B. (Ap '42)
- Truth about Soviet Russia. Webb, S. and B. P. (D '42)
- Truth and fallacy in educational theory. Hardle, C. D. (S '42)
- Tuberculosis
- Chadwick, H. D., and Pope, A. S. Modern attack on tuberculosis. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Tuffy, Doyle, R. J. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Tumultuous shore. Ficke, A. D. (Je '42)
- Tune up. Huntington, H. E. (Ag '42)
- Tupak of the Incas. Means, P. A. (My '42)
- Turkey
- Ward, B. Turkey. (S '42)
- Turning leaves. Proctor, E. E. (D '42)
- Turning point. Mann, K. (N '42)
- Twain, Mark, pseud. See Clemens, S. L.
- Twelve bright trumpets. Leighton, M. C. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- 12 decisive battles of the mind. Munson, G. B., ed. (Ap '42)
- Twelve disguises. Beeding, F. (Ag '42)
- Twelve who ruled. Palmer, R. R. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
- Twentieth century
- Alexander, F. Our age of unreason. (N '42)
- 25 non-royalty one-act plays for all-girl casts. Smith, B., comp. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Twenty-five non-royalty plays for children. Jagendorf, M. A., comp. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- 25 vegetables anyone can grow. Robbins, A. B. R. (My '42)
- Twenty little fishes. Mellen, I. M. (Je '42)
- Twilight of France, 1933-1940. Werth, A. (N '42)
- Twins
- Woodworth, R. S. Heredity and environment. (My '42)
- Two captains. Kaverin, V. A. (Je '42)
- 200 miniature games of chess. Du Mont, J. (Ag '42)
- Two in the wilderness. Gregory, J. (O '42)
- Two on a tow. Macdonald, Z. K. (My '42)
- Twofold power of the gospel. Hickerson, C. V. (O '42)
- Tyrone, Hugh O'Neill, 2d earl of O'Faolain, S. Great O'Neill. (N '42)
- Uncas island murders. Bronson, F. W. (S '42)
- Uncensored France. Porter, R. P. (Ag '42)
- Uncle Bouqui of Haiti. Courlander, H. (O '42)
- Uncle Sam's stepchildren. Priest, L. B. (Je '42)
- Unconquered. Carse, R. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Unconscious witness. Freeman, R. A. (Ap '42)
- Under a thatched roof. Hall, J. N. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Under my elm. Baker, R. S. (D '42)
- Under the little fir, and other stories. Yates, E. (O '42)
- Underground Europe. Riess, C. (Je '42)
- Underground railroad
- Curtis, A. L. Stories of the underground railroad. (My '42)
- Understanding myself. Dickerson, R. E. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Undiscoverables. Bates, R. (Ap '42)
- Undset, Sigrid
- Undset, S. Return to the future. (Mr '42)
- Uneasy freehold. Eng title of: Uninvited. Macardle, D. (S '42)
- Unemployment
- David, P. T. Barriers to youth employment. (S '42)
- Hobbs, A. H. Differentials in internal migration. (S '42)
- Great Britain
- Burns, E. M. R. British unemployment programs, 1920-1938. (Ap '42)
- Sweden
- Clark, E. H. Swedish unemployment policy—1914 to 1940. (Ag '42)
- United States
- Woytinsky, W. S. Three aspects of labor dynamics. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Unfinished task. Corey, L. (Je '42)
- Unfortunate murderer. Sampson, R. H. (Ap '42)
- Ungava
- Twomey, A. C., and Herrick, N. Needle to the North. (Je '42)
- Unguarded frontier. McInnis, E. W. (D '42)
- Uninvited. Macardle, D. (S '42)
- Union catalogs in the United States. Downs, R. B., ed. (O '42)
- United nations of the world. Muzumdar, H. T. (N '42)
- United States. Congress
- Stout, R., ed. Illustrious dunderheads. (N '42)

- United States. Congress. House of representatives. Committee on foreign affairs
Westphal, A. C. F. House Committee on foreign affairs. (N '42)
- United States. Constitution
Hazlitt, H. New constitution now. (D '42)
Prescott, A. T., comp. Drafting the federal Constitution. (Ap '42)
- Amendments
5th amendment
Cowles, W. B. Treaties and constitutional law. (N '42)
- United States. Continental congress
Burnett, E. C. Continental congress. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
- United States. Food administration
Mullendore, W. C. History of the United States Food administration 1917-1919. (Je '42)
- United States. Library of Congress
Salamanca, L. Fortress of freedom. (Je '42)
- United States. National labor relations board
Bowman, D. O. Public control of labor relations. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- McNaughton, W. L. Development of labor relations law. (My '42)
- United States. Securities and exchange commission
Cherrington, H. V. Investor and the Securities act. (Ag '42)
- United States. State department
Bendiner, R. Riddle of the State department. (O '42)
- United States. Supreme court
Carr, R. K. Supreme court and judicial review. (Ag '42)
Twiss, B. R. Lawyers and the Constitution. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
Wright, B. F. Growth of American constitutional law. (S '42)
- United States. Temporary national economic committee
Folk, G. E. Patents and industrial progress. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- United States
Administrative commissions
Cushman, R. E. Independent regulatory commissions. (Ap '42)
- Armed forces
Insignia
Smith, C. H., and Taylor, G. R. United States service symbols. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Army
Andrews, M. Our new army. (N '42)
Corey, H. Army means business. (N '42)
Dilts, M. M. Army guide for women. (N '42)
Kalp, E. S. In the service with Uncle Sam. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
Raborg, P. C. Mechanized might. (Je '42)
- Air corps
Arnold, H. H., and Eaker, I. C. Army flyer. (Je '42)
Huie, W. B. Fight for air power. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
Steinbeck, J. Bombs away. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Corps of engineers
Thompson, P. W. What the citizen should know about the army engineers. (Je '42)
- History
Downey, F. D. Indian-fighting army. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
- Military life
Hargrove, M. See here, Private Hargrove. (S '42)
Kahn, E. J. Army life. (D '42)
Old Sarge. How to get along in the army. (Je '42)
Seaton, G. W. Letters to a soldier. (My '42)
- Ordnance and ordnance stores
Johnson, M. M., and Haven, C. T. For permanent victory. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Recruiting, enlistment etc.
Schiller, A. A. Military law and defense legislation. (Je '42)

Bibliography

- Logasa, H., comp. Regional United States. (S '42)

Biography

- Career women of America. (My '42)
Himber, C. Famous in their twenties. (S '42)
Schnittkind, H. T. and D. A. Living biographies of American statesmen. (D '42)
There were giants in the land. (N '42)
Women of achievement. (My '42)

Church history

- Knox, J., ed. Religion and the present crisis. (Ag '42)
Sweet, W. W. Religion in colonial America. (N '42)

Civilization

- Adams, E. T., and others. American idea. (Je '42)
Agar, H. Time for greatness. (N '42)
Beard, C. A. and M. R. American spirit. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
Carter, J. F. Remaking America. (Mr '42)
Clinchy, E. R., ed. World we want to live in. (My '42)
Davies, A. P. American destiny. (Ag '42)
Langdon, W. C. Everyday things in American life. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
Lips, E. Rebirth in liberty. (Ag '42)
Mead, M. And keep your powder dry. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
Nef, J. U. United States and civilization. (Ap '42)
Nuhn, F. Wind blew from the East. (Ag '42)
Rourke, C. M. Roots of American culture. (S '42)
Todd, J. E. Social norms and the behavior of college students. (Ap '42)
Warfel, H. R., and Manwaring, E. W., eds. Of the people. (S '42)
Wertebaker, T. J. Golden age of colonial culture. (D '42)
Wylie, P. Generation of vipers. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Juvenile literature

- Tarshis, E. K. Look at America. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Commercial policy

- Davis, H. O. America's trade equality policy. (N '42)
Tax institute. Tax barriers to trade. (My '42)

Constitutional history

- Pound, R., and others. Federalism as a democratic process. (D '42)
Prescott, A. T., comp. Drafting the federal Constitution. (Ap '42)

Constitutional law

- Carr, R. K. Supreme court and judicial review. (Ag '42)
Cowles, W. B. Treaties and constitutional law. (N '42)
Twiss, B. R. Lawyers and the Constitution. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
Wright, B. F. Growth of American constitutional law. (S '42)

Defenses

- America organizes to win the war. (My '42)
Brown, W. B., and others. America in a world at war. (O '42)
Griffin, R. A., ed. School of the citizen soldier. (O '42)
Hart, A. G., and Allen, E. D. Paying for defense. (My '42)
Kalp, E. S. In the service with Uncle Sam. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
Kalp, E. S., and Morgan, R. M. Defense of the western hemisphere. (Ap '42)
Potter, J. C. Alaska under arms. (O '42)
Sagendorph, K. Thunder aloft. (Ag '42)
White, J. L. Transportation and national defense. (Ag '42)

Description and travel

- Bloomfield, H. Sailing to the sun. (N '42)
Chamberlain, S., ed. Fair is our land. (S '42)
Gibbs, P. H. America speaks. (Ag '42)
Lips, E. Rebirth in liberty. (Ag '42)
Longstreet, S. Last man comes home. (D '42)

Martineau, H. Retrospect of western travel. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual) Morehouse, W. American reveille. (S '42)
 Roosevelt, E. R. This is America. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Juvenile literature

Pyne, M. M. Little geography of the United States. (Ap '42)

Economic conditions

Angell, J. W. Investment and business cycles. (Ap '42)
 Barnes, H. E., and Ruedi, O. M. American way of life. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Bohlman, H. W. and M. E. M. Our economic problems. (N '42)
 Carter, J. F. Remaking America. (Mr '42)
 Chase, S. Goals for America. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Cochran, T. C., and Miller, W. Age of enterprise. (N '42)
 Holmes, H. N. Strategic materials and national strength. (S '42)
 Kuznets, S. S., and others. National income and its composition. (Ag '42)
 Leontief, W. W. Structure of American economy, 1919-1929. (Ap '42)
 McGrane, R. C. Economic development of the American nation. (O '42)
 McWilliams, C. Ill fares the land. (Ap '42)
 Nichols, J. P. and R. F. Republic of the United States. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
 Patterson, S. H., and others. American economic problems. (Ag '42)
 Pegg, C. H., and others. American society and the changing world. (Ag '42)
 Renner, G. T. Conservation of national resources. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Economic policy

Agar, H. Time for greatness. (N '42)
 Atkinson, C. New deal: will it survive the war? (N '42)
 Baruch, B. M. American industry in the war. (Ap '42)
 Chase, S. Goals for America. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Chase, S. Road we are travelling. (My '42)
 Dreher, C. Coming showdown. (My '42)
 Galloway, G. B., ed. Planning for America. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
 Harris, S. E. Economics of social security. (Je '42)
 Hart, A. G., and Allen, E. D. Paying for defense. (My '42)
 Johnsen, J. E., comp. Federal price control. (My '42)
 Kemmerer, E. W. A B C of inflation. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Ratner, S. American taxation. (Ag '42)
 United States. President, 1933- (F. D. Roosevelt). Public papers and addresses [second administration]. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)

Emigration and Immigration

Adamic, L. What's your name? (O '42)

Executive departments

Chamberlain, J. P., and others. Judicial function in federal administrative agencies. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Leiserson, A. Administrative regulation. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Foreign relations

Atwater, E. American regulation of arms exports. (N '42)
 Cowles, W. B. Treaties and constitutional law. (N '42)
 Davis, F., and Lindley, E. K. How war came. (O '42)
 Lawrence, D. Diary of a Washington correspondent. (N '42)
 MacCormac, J. America and world mastery. (Ap '42)
 Nevins, A. America in world affairs. (Mr '42)
 Shepardson, W. H. Interests of the United States as a world power. (Je '42)
 Smith, D. H. H. America and the axis war. (D '42)
 Smith, T. C. United States as a factor in world history. (N '42)
 Spykman, N. J. America's strategy in world politics. (My '42)
 Stout, R., ed. Illustrious dunderheads. (N '42)
 Taylor, G. E. America in the new Pacific. (My '42)

United States. President, 1933- (F. D. Roosevelt). Public papers and addresses [second administration]. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
 World citizens association. World's destiny and the United States. (My '42)

Argentina

Haring, C. H. Argentina and the United States. (Je '42)

Canada

McInnis, E. W. Unguarded frontier. (D '42)

East (Far East)

Peffer, N. Basis for peace in the Far East. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Great Britain

Davis, F. Atlantic system. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
 Lothian, P. H. K. American speeches. (Ap '42)
 MacCormac, J. America and world mastery. (Ap '42)

Japan

Fleisher, W. Our enemy Japan. (My '42)
 Matsuo, K. How Japan plans to win. (Je '42)
 Moore, F. With Japan's leaders. (S '42)

Latin America

Whitaker, A. P. United States and the independence of Latin America, 1800-1830. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)

Russia

Davies, J. E. Mission to Moscow. (Mr '42)

History

Boykin, E. C., ed. Living letters from American history. (Je '42)
 Griffin, R. A., ed. School of the citizen soldier. (O '42)
 Nevins, A., and Commager, H. S. America, the story of a free people. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Nichols, J. P. and R. F. Republic of the United States. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
 Paxson, F. L. Great demobilization. (S '42)
 Rich, B. M. Presidents and civil disorder. (My '42)
 Smith, T. C. United States as a factor in world history. (N '42)
 Warren, C. Odd byways in American history. (My '42)

Dictionaries

Shankle, G. E. American mottoes and slogans. (Ap '42)

Fiction—Bibliography

Coan, O. W., and Lillard, R. G. America in fiction. (Ap '42)

Juvenile literature

Lamprey, L. Building a republic. (N '42)

Colonial period

Gipson, L. H. British empire before the American revolution. (D '42)

Revolution—French participation

Gottschalk, L. R. LaFayette and the close of the American revolution. (Je '42)

Constitutional period, 1789-1809

Link, E. P. Democratic-Republican societies, 1790-1800. (Ag '42)

1815-1861

Craven, A. O. Coming of the Civil war. (Je '42)

Civil war

Eckenrode, H. J., and Conrad, B. George B. McClellan, the man who saved the union. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
 Freeman, D. S. Lee's lieutenants, v 1. (N '42)
 Holland, C. F. Morgan and his raiders. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Milton, G. F. Abraham Lincoln and the fifth column. (N '42)
 Sandburg, C. Storm over the land. (N '42)
 Williams, T. H. Lincoln and the radicals. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)

United States—History—Continued

Civil war—Causes

- Craven, A. O. Coming of the Civil war. (Je '42)
 Perkins, H. C., ed. Northern editorials on secession. (N '42)

History, Military

- Fuller, J. F. C. Decisive battles of the U.S.A. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

History, Naval

- Roberts, W. A. U.S. navy fights. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Industries and resources

- Anderson, H. D., and Davidson, P. E. American job trends. (My '42)
 Arnold, T. W. Democracy and free enterprise. (Je '42)
 Boyan, E. A. Handbook of war production. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Cherne, L. M. Your business goes to war. (Ag '42)
 Leontief, W. W. Structure of American economy, 1919-1929. (Ap '42)

Intellectual life

- Cargill, O. Intellectual America. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
 Nuhn, F. Wind blew from the East. (Ag '42)

Nationality

- Hutchinson, W. T., ed. Democracy and national unity. (Je '42)

Navy

- Bywater, H. C. Great Pacific war. (Mr '42)
 Casey, R. J. Torpedo junction. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Kalp, E. S. In the service with Uncle Sam. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Katz, M. D., and others. Our fighting ships. (Ag '42)
 Morison, E. E. Admiral Sims and the modern American navy. (O '42)
 Pye, A. E., and Shea, N. B. Navy wife. (Je '42)
 Rimington, C. Fighting fleets. (Ag '42)

Air service

- Miller, H. B. Navy wings. (D '42)

History

- Roberts, W. A. U.S. navy fights. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Neutrality

- Atwater, E. American regulation of arms exports. (N '42)

Officials and employees

- Hayes, L. J. W. Negro federal government worker. (Je '42)

Pictorial works

- Roosevelt, E. R. This is America. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Poetry

- Lambert, C. B. I sing America. (Ap '42)

Politics and government

- Agar, H. Time for greatness. (N '42)
 Coker, F. W., ed. Democracy, liberty, and property. (N '42)
 Edmonson, J. B., and Dondineau, A. Civics in American life. (Ap '42)
 Frank, J. If men were angels. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
 Hazlitt, H. New constitution now. (D '42)
 Kiplinger, W. M. Washington is like that. (Ag '42)
 Merriam, C. E. On the agenda of democracy. (Ap '42)
 Millsbaugh, A. C. Democracy, efficiency, stability. (N '42)
 Nichols, J. P. and R. F. Republic of the United States. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
 Pegg, C. H., and others. American society and the changing world. (Ag '42)
 Sargent, P. E. Getting U.S. into war. (My '42)
 Schattschneider, E. E. Party government. (Ag '42)
 Smith, T. V. Democratic tradition in America. (Ag '42)

- White, L. D., ed. Future of government in the United States. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
 Zink, H. Government and politics in the United States. (D '42)

Revolution

- Burnett, E. C. Continental congress. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)

Civil war

- Gray, W. Hidden Civil war. (O '42)
 Milton, G. F. Abraham Lincoln and the fifth column. (N '42)
 Potter, D. M. Lincoln and his party in the secession crisis. (O '42)
 Tilley, J. S. Lincoln takes command. (Je '42)
 Williams, T. H. Lincoln and the radicals. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)

20th century

- Atkinson, C. New deal: will it survive the war? (N '42)
 Barger, C. Confusion on the Potomac. (Ap '42)
 Childs, M. W. I write from Washington. (N '42)
 Lawrence, D. Diary of a Washington correspondent. (N '42)
 Reston, J. B. Prelude to victory. (S '42)
 Roper, D. C., and Lovette, F. H. Fifty years of public life. (Ap '42)
 United States. President. 1933- (F. D. Roosevelt). Public papers and addresses [second administration] (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)

Population

- Hobbs, A. H. Differentials in internal migration. (S '42)

Public lands

- Robbins, R. M. Our landed heritage. (My '42)
 Zahler, H. S. Eastern workmen and national land policy. (Ap '42)

Relations (general) with Canada

- Landon, F. Western Ontario and the American frontier. (O '42)

Relations (general) with Germany

- Reimann, G. Patents for Hitler. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Relations (general) with Latin America

- Green, P. L. Pan American progress. (O '42)

Relations (general) with Russia

- Lovenstein, M. American opinion of Soviet Russia. (Je '42)

Religion

- Sweet, W. W. Religion in colonial America. (N '42)

Social conditions

- Atkinson, C. New deal: will it survive the war? (N '42)
 Barnes, H. E., and Ruedi, O. M. American way of life. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Bernard, J. S. American family behavior. (S '42)
 Bingham, F. C., ed. Community life in a democracy. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
 Carter, J. F. Remaking America. (Mr '42)
 Cochran, T. C., and Miller, W. Age of enterprise. (N '42)
 Collins, H. H. America's own refugees. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
 Galloway, G. B., ed. Planning for America. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
 Hobbs, A. H. Differentials in internal migration. (S '42)
 Jackson, S. L. America's struggle for free schools. (My '42)
 Jones, L. N., ed. Eve's stepchildren. (My '42)
 Landis, P. H. Our changing society. (Je '42)
 Nichols, J. P. and R. F. Republic of the United States. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
 Pegg, C. H., and others. American society and the changing world. (Ag '42)
 Peterson, E. T. Forward to the land. (Ag '42)
 Stevens, A. Arms and the people. (Je '42)
 Taylor, W. F. Economic novel in America. (Ag '42)
 Tubbs, E. V. Living together. (N '42)
 Warner, W. L. and Lunt, P. S. Social life of the modern community. (Mr '42)

Social life and customs

- Adams, G. K., and Hutter, E. Mad forties. (D '42)
 Gould, M. E. Early American wooden ware and other kitchen utensils. (N '42)
 Jones, L. N., ed. Eve's stepchildren. (My '42)
 Langdon, W. C. Everyday things in American life. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
 Romain, J. Salsette discovers America. (My '42)
 Wertebaker, T. J. Golden age of colonial culture. (D '42)

Statistics

- Leontief, W. W. Structure of American economy, 1919-1929. (Ap '42)
 United States. Air corps basic flying school, Randolph field, Texas
 Writers' program, Texas. Randolph field. (S '42)
 United States and civilization. Nef, J. U. (Ap '42)
 United States and the independence of Latin America, 1800-1830. Whitaker, A. P. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
 United States as a factor in world history. Smith, T. C. (N '42)
 United States. Civilian conservation corps
 Holland, K., and Hill, F. E. Youth in the CCC. (N '42)
 United States. Military academy, West Point
 Baumer, W. H. West Point. (S '42)
 United States. Naval academy, Annapolis
 Puleston, W. D. Annapolis: gangway to the quarterdeck. (Je '42)
 U.S. navy fights. Roberts, W. A. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 United States service symbols. Smith, C. H., and Taylor, G. R. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 United States. War Industries board
 Baruch, B. M. American industry in the war. (Ap '42)

Universalism

- Skinner, C. R., and Cole, A. S. Hell's ramparts fell. (My '42)

Universe

- Ley, W. Days of creation. (Ap '42)
 University debaters' annual. Phelps, E. M. (My '42)

University extension

- Creese, J. Extension of university teaching. (My '42)

Unknown country. Hutchison, B. (Mr '42)

- Unlocking adventure. Courtney, C. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Unquenchable light. Latourette, K. S. (My '42)

Unrelenting struggle. Churchill, W. L. S. (N '42)

Until that day. Taylor, K. (O '42)

Until the day break. Bromfield, L. (Je '42)

Unvanquished. Fast, H. M. (Ag '42)

Up and down South America. Halladay, A. M. (S '42)

Up the hill. De Angeli, M. L. (D '42)

Upward way. Drury, S. S. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Uranium

De Ment, J. A., and Dake, H. C. Uranium and atomic power. (Ag '42)

Uranium and atomic power. De Ment, J. A., and Dake, H. C. (Ag '42)

Urbane travelers, 1591-1635. Penrose, B. (S '42)

Urge to the sea. Kerner, R. J. (S '42)

Use of personal documents in psychological science. Allport, G. W. (N '42)

Using dollars and sense. Floyd, O. R., and Kinney, L. B. (Je '42)

Utah

Stegner, W. Mormon country. (N '42)

V for vengeance. Wheatley, D. (O '42)

Vacuum tubes

Eastman, A. V. Fundamentals of vacuum tubes. (S '42)

Millman, J., and Seely, S. Electronics. (Je '42)

Reich, H. J. Principles of electron tubes. (S '42)

Shoults, D. R., and Rife, C. J. Electric motors in industry. (D '42)

Vagabond in velvet. Newcomb, C. (N '42)

Valiant libertine. Bryson, J. G. (Je '42)

Valley of decision. Davenport, M. (N '42)

Valley of night. Farnol, J. (N '42)

Valley of vanishing herds. Tuttle, W. C. (N '42)

Vandegrift, George Munson

Vandegrift, G. W. Castor oil and quinine. (N '42)

Vanderbilt, Cornelius

Lane, W. J. Commodore Vanderbilt. (Ap '42)

Van Loon's lives. Van Loon, H. W. (O '42)

Vapors

Robinson, C. S. Recovery of vapors. (D '42)

Vargas, Getulio

Loewenstein, K. Brazil under Vargas. (O '42)

Varieties of temperament. Sheldon, W. H., and Stevens, S. S. (D '42)

Variety shows and how to produce them. Trimble, N. (My '42)

Varnish and varnishing

Mattiello, J. J., ed. Protective and decorative coatings, vl-2. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Varsity letter. Reck, F. M. (Ag '42)

Vaudeville

Trimble, N. Variety shows and how to produce them. (My '42)

Vauxhall gardens. Southworth, J. G. (My '42)

Vegetable gardening

Blair, E. Food garden. (My '42)

Boal, S. J. Gardening—without bunk. (S '42)

Coulter, F. C. Manual of home vegetable gardening. (S '42)

Dempsey, P. W. Grow your own vegetables. (My '42)

Nissley, C. H. Home vegetable gardening. (My '42)

Ogden, S. R. How to grow food for your family. (My '42)

Putnam, J.-M. C., and Cosper, L. C. Gardens for victory. (Ap '42)

Robbins, A. B. R. 25 vegetables anyone can grow. (My '42)

Vegetables

Quinn, V. Vegetables in the garden and their legends. (Ag '42)

Vegetables in the garden and their legends. Quinn, V. (Ag '42)

Venereal diseases

Parran, T., and Vonderlehr, R. A. Plain words about venereal disease. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)

Venetian adventurer. Hart, H. H. (My '42)

Venezuela

Description and travel

Dennison, L. R. Devil mountain. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Venom in Eden. Boniface, M. (O '42)

Verdi, Giuseppe

Verdi, G. Verdi, the man in his letters. (Je '42)

Verity, George Matthew

Borth, C. True steel. (Je '42)

Vermont

History

Thompson, C. M. Independent Vermont. (Mr '42)

Politics and government

Flint, W. A. Progressive movement in Vermont. (Ap '42)

Vertical. Jolas, E., ed. and tr. (My '42)

Very, Jones

Bartlett, W. I. Jones Very, Emerson's brave saint. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Very first aid. Gould, D. (Je '42)

Vespucci, Amerigo

Zweig, S. Amerigo. (Ap '42)

Vicious circle. Long, M. (Je '42)

Vicksburg

Siege, 1863

Pemberton, J. C. Pemberton, defender of Vicksburg. (My '42)

Victoria, queen of Great Britain

Drama

Housman, I. Gracious Majesty. (Je '42)

Victoria clicks! Olds, H. D. (Je '42)

Victorian prelude. Quinlan, M. J. (My '42)

Victory in the dust. Phillips, A. (My '42)

Victory in the Pacific. Kiralfy, A. (Je '42)

Victory is not enough. Ranshofen-Wertheimer, E. F. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

- Victory march. Disney, W., and Williams, C. S. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Victory on West hill. Duffus, R. L. (S '42)
- Victory over fear. Dollard, J. (N '42)
- Victory through air power. De Seversky, A. P. (My '42)
- View from a window. Howard, F. R. (Ag '42)
- Village in August. Hsiao, C. (Je '42)
- Village of glass. Frost, F. M. (S '42)
- Villon, François
- Fiction
- Deutsch, B. Rogue's legacy. (Ap '42)
- Vineyard. Jones, I. (D '42)
- Virgin Spain. Frank, W. D. (Ag '42)
- Virginia. Department of public welfare
- James, A. W. State becomes a social worker. (N '42)
- Virginia
- Moore, V. Virginia is a state of mind. (N '42)
- History
- Koontz, L. K. Robert Dinwiddie. (S '42)
- Virginia is a state of mind. Moore, V. (N '42)
- Visibility in meteorology. Middleton, W. E. K. (O '42)
- Visibility unlimited. Vetter, E. G. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Vision, work, service. Eng title of: Beginning the day. Wilde, R. W. (My '42)
- Vitamin content of meat. Waisman, H. A., and Elvehjem, C. A. (My '42)
- Vitamins
- Eddy, W. H., and Hawley, G. G. We need vitamins. (My '42)
- Pattee, A. F. Vitamins and minerals for everyone. (Ap '42)
- Rosenberg, H. R. Chemistry and physiology of the vitamins. (D '42)
- Symposium on the respiratory enzymes and the biological action of vitamins. Biological action of the vitamins. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Waisman, H. A., and Elvehjem, C. A. Vitamin content of meat. (My '42)
- Vitamins and minerals for everyone. Pattee, A. F. (Ap '42)
- Vlaminck, Maurice de
- Perls, K. G. Vlaminck. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Vocation of England. Reckitt, M. B., and Casserley, J. V. L. (Ag '42)
- Vocational aspiration levels of adults. Wren, H. A. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Vocational education
- Hill, W. E., and Ewing, C. H. Materials and methods for vocational training. (Ag '42)
- Vocational guidance
- Brewer, J. M., and others. History of vocational guidance. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Long, C. D. School-leaving youth and employment. (Je '42)
- Pancoast, O. Occupational mobility. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
- Vocations for boys. Kitson, H. D., and Lingenfelter, M. R. (Je '41)
- Voice of fighting Russia. Zacharoff, L., ed. (Ap '42)
- Volcanic isle. Fleisher, W. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
- Voltaire, François Marie Arouet de
- Maestro, M. T. Voltaire and Beccaria as reformers of criminal law. (N '42)
- Wade, I. O. Voltaire and Madame du Châtelet. (Je '42)
- Voltaire and Beccaria as reformers of criminal law. Maestro, M. T. (N '42)
- Volumetric analysis
- Kalthoff, I. M., and Laitinen, H. A. pH and electro. titrations. (O '42)
- Voodoo goat. Gaines, A. (Ap '42)
- Voting trust. Leavitt, J. A. (Ap '42)
- Voyage of the heart. Creed, V. (D '42)
- Voyages and travels
- Considine, J. J., and Kernan, T. D. Across a world. (N '42)
- Cotlow, L. N. Passport to adventure. (Ap '42)
- Trollope, A. Tireless traveler. (Ap '42)
- Voyages around the world
- Gervasi, F. War has seven faces. (Je '42)
- Voyages to Vinland. Haugen, E. I., ed. and tr. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Wages
- Pancoast, O. Occupational mobility. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
- Stigers, M. F., and Reed, E. G. Theory and practice of job rating. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Summers, R. E., comp. Wages and prices. (S '42)
- United States
- Washington, G. T. Corporate executives' compensation. (Ag '42)
- Wages and prices. Summers, R. E., comp. (S '42)
- Wagner, Richard
- Juvenile literature
- Burch, G. Richard Wagner. (Ap '42)
- Wake island
- Poetry
- Rukeyser, M. Wake island. (O '42)
- Wake island. Rukeyser, M. (O '42)
- Wake up and garden! Cross, R. (S '42)
- Walk into my parlor. Lane M. (Mr '42)
- Walk your way to better dancing. Hostetler, L. A. (S '42)
- Wallace, William Alexander Anderson
- Campbell, W. S. Bigfoot Wallace. (S '42)
- Walls of Jericho. McCord, J. (Ap '42)
- Walpole grant
- Lewis, G. E. Indiana company, 1763-1798. (My '42)
- Walsh, James Anthony
- Sargent, D. All the day long. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
- Wandering beggar. Simon, S. (S '42)
- Wang, Chao-ming
- Bate, D. Wang Ching Wei. (My '42)
- War
- Becker, C. L. New liberties for old. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
- Clarkson, J. D., and Cochran, T. C., eds. War as a social institution. (Ap '42)
- Farago, L., ed. Axis grand strategy. (My '42)
- Gillespie, R. D. Psychological effects of war on citizen and soldier. (My '42)
- Harding, D. C. W. Impulse to dominate. (O '42)
- Kirk, G. L., and Stebbins, R. P., eds. War and national policy. (S '42)
- Linklater, E. Cornerstones. (Ag '42)
- Preston, R. C. Children's reactions to a contemporary war situation. (Je '42)
- Robinson, H., and others. Toward international organization. (S '42)
- Sargeant, H. A., and Wells, G. H. Grand strategy. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
- Wright, Q. Study of war. (N '42)
- Economic aspects
- Baruch, B. M. American industry in the war. (Ap '42)
- Basch, A. The new economic warfare. (Ap '42)
- Crum, W. L., and others. Fiscal planning for total war. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Kirk, G. L., and Stebbins, R. P., eds. War and national policy. (S '42)
- Spiegel, H. W. Economics of total war. (My '42)
- Stein, E., and Backman, J., eds. War economics. (S '42)
- Steiner, G. A., ed. Economic problems of war. (D '42)
- Summers, R. E., comp. Wages and prices. (S '42)
- Tax institute. Financing the war. (Ag '42)
- Wright, C. W., ed. Economic problems of war and its aftermath. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- War album. New Yorker (periodical). (D '42)
- War and national policy. Kirk, G. L., and Stebbins, R. P., eds. (S '42)
- War and religion
- Barth, K. This Christian cause. (My '42)
- Morrison, C. C. Christian and the war. (N '42)
- Raven, C. E. Lessons of the Prince of peace. (Je '42)
- War as a social institution. Clarkson, J. D., and Cochran, T. C., eds. (Ap '42)
- War at sea. Cant, G. (My '42)
- War chief Joseph. Howard, H. A., and McGrath, D. L. (Je '42)
- War economics. Stein, E., and Backman, J., eds. (S '42)

War gases. Jacobs, M. B. (N '42)
 War has seven faces. Gervasi, F. (Je '42)
 War horse. Downey, F. D. (Je '42)
 War in maps. Brown, E. F. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 War in our time. Henderson, H. B., and Morris, H. C. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 War on the civil and military fronts. Lindsay, G. M. (O '42)
 War planes of the Axis. Cooke, D. C. (Ag '42)

War songs

Dolph, E. A., ed. Sound off! (S '42)
 War songs. Burt, M. S. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual) War without inflation. Katona, G. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Ward, John

Fiction

Costain, T. B. For my great folly. (S '42)
 Warming both hands. Fairclough, H. R. (N '42)
 Warning to the West. Shridharani, K. J. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Warships

Brodie, B. Layman's guide to naval strategy. (O '42)
 Jane's Fighting ships, 1941; ed. by McMurtrie, F. E. (S '42)
 Katz, M. D., and others. Our fighting ships. (Ag '42)
 Newton, R. N. Practical construction of warships. (Ag '42)
 Rimington, C. Fighting fleets. (Ag '42)
 War-time handbook for young Americans. Leaf, M. (S '42)
 Wartime meals. Murphy, M. (O '42)
 Wartime pilgrimage. Morehouse, C. P. (F '43) (1942 Annual) Wartime price control. Adams, G. P. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Washington, George

Fiction

Fast, H. M. Unvanquished. (Ag '42)

Juvenile literature

Stevenson, A. George Washington, boy leader. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Washington, Martha (Dandridge) Custis

Juvenile literature

Desmond, A. C. Martha Washington, our first lady. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Washington, D.C.

Description

Writers' program, District of Columbia. Washington, D.C. (O '42)

Juvenile literature

Rothery, A. E. Washington roundabout. (Je '42)

Social life and customs

Kiplinger, W. M. Washington is like that. (Ag '42)

Washington (state)

History

Binns, A. Roaring land. (Je '42)

Washington is like that. Kiplinger, W. M. (Ag '42)

Washington roundabout. Rothery, A. E. (Je '42)

Watching for Winkie. Kalab, T. (N '42)

Water

Purification

Norcom, G. D., and Brown, K. W. Water purification for plant operators. (My '42)
 Water-carrier's secrets. Chambers, M. C. M. (D '42)

Water supply engineering

Payrow, H. G. Sanitary engineering. (Ap '42)

Wave high the banner. Brown, D. (Je '42)

Wave motion, Theory of

Coulson, C. A. Waves. (Je '42)
 Waves. Coulson, C. A. (Je '42)
 Way down cellar. Stong, P. D. (Je '42)
 Way of an eagle. Daugherty, S. V. M. (Mr '42)
 Way of the storyteller. Sawyer, R. (My '42)
 We believe. Moment, J. J. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 We have been friends together. Maritain, R. (Mr '42)

We knew these men. Ellis, E. (Mr '42)

We live to be free. Sterne, E. G. (D '42)

We made a mistake—Hitler. Zacharoff, L. (My '42)

We need vitamins. Eddy, W. H., and Hawley, G. G. (My '42)

We prisoners of war. Strong, T., ed. (S '42)

We stood for freedom. Morley, I. (Mr '42)

We thank you all the time. Macleod, N. (Ap '42)

We took to the woods. Rich, L. D. (D '42)

We who died last night. Phillip, Q. M. (My '42)

Weak-eyed bat. Millar, M. (Ap '42)

Weald of youth. Sassoon, S. (D '42)

Wealth

Ryan, J. A. Distributive justice. (Ag '42)

Weather

Mental and physiological effects

Mills, C. A. Climate makes the man. (N '42)
 Weather and the ocean of air. Wenstrom, W. H. (Ap '42)

Weather forecasting

Wenstrom, W. H. Weather and the ocean of air. (Ap '42)

Wylie, C. C. Astronomy, maps and weather. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

Weathercock. Dodge, C. W. (N '42)

Weaving

History

Baity, E. C. Man is a weaver. (Ap '42)

Webster, Caroline (Le Roy) (Mrs Daniel Webster)

Webster, C. L. Mr W. & I. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Webster, Daniel

Webster, C. L. Mr W. & I. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Webster's Universities dictionary of the English language. (My '42)

Week with Gandhi. Fischer, L. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Weep no more, my lady. Harlow, A. F. (Ag '42)

Welcome soldier! McMeekin, C. (Ap '42)

Welcome to the city. Shaw, I. (Mr '42)

Welding

Elzea, L. S. Aircraft welding. (S '42)

Kuntz, G. Aircraft spot and seam welding. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Rossi, B. E. Welding and its application. (Je '42)

Von Borchers, C., and Ciffrin, A. Aircraft torch welding. (Je '42)

Welding and its application. Rossi, B. E. (Je '42)

Welling, Richard Ward Greene

Welling, R. W. G. As the twig is bent. (D '42)

We're in this with Russia. Carroll, W. (N '42)

West

History

Dale, E. E. Cow country. (Ag '42)

Downey, F. D. Indian-fighting army. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)

Driggs, H. R. Westward America. (Ap '42)

Hawthorne, H. Ox-team miracle. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

West Indies

Description and travel

Oakley, A. E. Behold the West Indies. (Mr '42)

Orr, F. Freighter holiday. (S '42)

West Indies, French

Roberts, W. A. French in the West Indies. (My '42)

West of midnight. Engle, P. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)

West Point. Baumer, W. H. (S '42)

West with the night. Markham, B. (Ag '42)

Western Ontario and the American frontier. Landon, F. (O '42)

Westward America. Driggs, H. R. (Ap '42)

Westward the course! McGuire, P. (Mr '42)

Westward the sun. Sinclair, K. H. N-W. (Ap '42)

What about Germany? Lochner, L. P. (D '42)

What democracy meant to the Greeks. Agard, W. R. (S '42)

What do we eat now? Robertson, H., and others. (F '43) (1942 Annual)

What does Gandhi want? Raman, T. A. (D '42)

- What is mathematics? Courant, R., and Robbins, H. E. (My '42)
- What man can make of man. Hocking, W. E. (S '42)
- What of the blind? v2. Lende, H., ed. (Ap '42)
- What price murder. Adams, C. F. (Ag '42)
- What the citizen should know about the air forces. Hartney, H. E. (Je '42)
- What the citizen should know about the army engineers. Thompson, P. W. (Je '42)
- What the citizen should know about civilian defense. Binger, W. D., and Railey, H. H. (Je '42)
- What the citizen should know about modern war. Pratt, F. (Je '42)
- What the citizen should know about submarine warfare. Woodbury, D. O. (O '42)
- What the citizen should know about wartime medicine. Darnall, J. R., and Cooper, V. I. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- What to read on psychology. Hawes, M. E. (N '42)
- What we can believe. Miller, R. C. (Ap '42)
- What's in a novel. Haines, H. E. (S '42)
- What's the good word? Nurnberg, M. W. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- What's your name? Adamic, L. (O '42)
- When Egypt ruled the East. Steindorff, G., and Seele, K. C. (Ap '42)
- When last I died. Mitchell, G. (My '42)
- When next we meet. Lambert, R. (Ag '42)
- When painting was in glory, 1280-1580. Gregory, P. (Ag '42)
- When peoples meet. Locke, A. Le R., ed. (My '42)
- When the typhoon blows. Lewis, E. F. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- White, Owen Payne
White, O. P. Autobiography of a durable sinner. (Je '42)
- White horse. Coatsworth, E. J. (N '42)
- White Mountain holidays. Hunt, R. A. (Ap '42)
- White mountains
Hunt, R. A. White Mountain holidays. (Ap '42)
- White Queen. Baur, B. (O '42)
- White stars of freedom. Isasi, M., and Denny, M. B. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Whitehead, Alfred North
Ely, S. L. Religious availability of Whitehead's God. (D '42)
- Schilpp, P. A., ed. Philosophy of Alfred North Whitehead. (My '42)
- Whitman, Walt
Fausset, H. I. A. Walt Whitman: poet of democracy. (Ag '42)
- Who is my patient? Dicks, R. L. (Mr '42)
- Who killed Caldwell? Wells, C. (Ap '42)
- Who wants an Apple. Hawkins, Q. (D '42)
- Who, what, why is radio? Landry, R. J. (S '42)
- Who's calling? McCloy, H. (My '42)
- Who's who in California. (Ag '42)
- Why is a dress? Hawes, E. (Ap '42)
- Why we have automobile accidents. De Silva, H. R. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Wide margins. Putnam, G. P. (Je '42)
- Widening stain. Bishop, M. G. (Mr '42)
- Wider wings. O'Malley, P. (Ag '42)
- Wife of Martin Guerre. Lewis, J. (My '42)
- Wild animals of the Rockies. Rush, W. M. (N '42)
- Wildcat 13. Gill, T. (Ap '42)
- Wilder, Robert Parmelee
Braisted, R. E. W. In this generation. (N '42)
- Will Germany crack? Frank, K. B. (Ag '42)
- Williams, Mrs Rebecca (Yancey)
Williams, R. Y. Carry me back. (N '42)
- Wilson, Woodrow
Léon. M. How many world wars? (N '42)
- Wind before rain. Weaver, J. D. (My '42)
- Wind blew from the East. Nuhn, F. (Ag '42)
- Wind is rising. Tomlinson, H. M. (Ap '42)
- Wind the clock. Scott, W. T. (My '42)
- Windward passage. Cochran, H. (Je '42)
- Windy Corners. Comstock, H. T. (Je '42)
- Wine and wine making
Mabon, M. F. A B C of America's wines. (S '42)
- Winged boat. Gale, E. (O '42)
- Wings for Nikias. Blackstone, J. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Wings of defense. Leyson, B. W. (S '42)
- Winter of artifice. Nin, A. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Winter of discontent. Eng title of: Air ministry, room 28. Frankau, G. (Mr '42)
- Winter quarters. Foster, B. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Winter's mischief. Allee, M. H. (O '42)
- Wisconsin
Politics and government
Lovejoy, A. F. La Follette and the establishment of the direct primary in Wisconsin. (Je '42)
- Wisconsin. Derleth, A. W. (D '42)
- Wisconsin river
Derleth, A. W. Wisconsin. (D '42)
- Wisdom of China and India. Lin, Y., ed. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Wishing window. Flexner, H. (N '42)
- With a Hays nonny nonny. Paul, E. H. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- With Japan's leaders. Moore, F. (S '42)
- With love for France. Mackay, H. G. E. (S '42)
- With this ring. Nash, E. M. (D '42)
- Without fame. Elenschiml, O. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Witness tree. Frost, R. (Je '42)
- Wolf in man's clothing. Eberhart, M. G. (D '42)
- Woman
Poole, G. M. Be proud of women. (My '42)
- Reed, R. Single women. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Biography
Career women of America. (My '42)
- Philadelphia sesquicentennial celebration. Committee of 1926. Notable women of Pennsylvania. (Ag '42)
- Women of achievement. (My '42)
- Employment
Maule, F. Girl with a pay check. (Ap '42)
- Health and hygiene
Nye, D. Lady be fit! (D '42)
- Law
Collins, C. R. Army woman's handbook. (N '42)
- Occupations
Chapelle, G. L. M. Needed—women in government service. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Social and moral questions
Gorham, E. R. B. So your husband's gone to war! (N '42)
- Woman you want to be. Wilson, M. (S '42)
- Women after college. Foster, R. G., and Wilson, P. P. (S '42)
- Women as aviators
Planck, C. E. Women with wings. (My '42)
- Women as farmers
Harland, E. M. Farmer's girl. (S '42)
- Women for defense. Banning, M. C. (Ap '42)
- Women in aeronautics
Adams, J., and others. Heroines of the sky. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Chapelle, G. L. M. Needed—women in aviation. (Ag '42)
- Women in battle dress. Birdwell, R. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Women in Great Britain
Birdwell, R. Women in battle dress. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Women in the Bible
Chappell, C. G. Feminine faces. (D '42)
- Macartney, C. E. N. Great women of the Bible. (N '42)
- Women in the United States
Banning, M. C. Women for defense. (Ap '42)
- Women of achievement. (My '42)
- Women with wings. Planck, C. E. (My '42)
- Women's clubs
Downs, E. Let's make plans. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Munro, I. B. and W. M. Handbook for club-women. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Peffer, H. H. Madam chairman, members and guests. (My '42)
- Women's trade union leagues in Great Britain and the United States of America. Boone, G. (O '42)
- Wonder cat. Martin, D. B. (S '42)
- Wonders of the sea. Freund, G. P. (Ap '42)

- Wood
 Glesinger, E. Nazis in the woodpile. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Tiemann, H. D. Wood technology. (My '42)
- Wood carving
 Leeming, J. Fun with wood. (O '42)
 Sayers, C. M. Book of wood carving. (Je '42)
- Wood patternmaking. McCaslin, H. J. (Ap '42)
- Wood pulp
 Witham, G. S. Modern pulp and paper making. (Ag '42)
- Wood technology. Tiemann, H. D. (My '42)
- Woodwork
 La Berge, A. J. Woodworking for fun. (Ap '42)
 Leeming, J. Fun with wood. (O '42)
 Lush, C. K. It's fun to build modern furniture. (S '42)
 Woodworking for fun. La Berge, A. J. (Ap '42)
- Woolf, Virginia (Stephen)
 Daiches, D. Virginia Woolf. (S '42)
 Forster, E. M. Virginia Woolf. (S '42)
- Woolly lamb. Hoke, H. L., and Fox, N. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Woolman, John
 Whitney, J. P. John Woolman. (Je '42)
- Wordsworth, Dorothy
 Wordsworth, D. Journals. (Ag '42)
- Wordsworth, William
 Burton, M. E. One Wordsworth. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Havens, R. D. Mind of a poet. (My '42)
 Working with rural youth. Brunner, E. de S. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
 Working with the microscope. Corrington, J. D. (Ag '42)
- World armaments race. Slutzki, N. M. (Je '42)
- World at my finger tips. Ohnstad, K. (Ag '42)
- World at one in prayer. Fleming, D. J., ed. (S '42)
- World hypotheses. Pepper, S. C. (N '42)
- World in trance. Schwarzschild, L. (D '42)
- World of General Haushofer. Dorpalen, A. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- World order in historical perspective. Kohn, H. (S '42)
- World politics
 Beattie, E. W. Freely to pass. (D '42)
 Butler, H. B. Lost peace. (My '42)
 Chamberlin, W. H. World's iron age. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
 Daniel, H. North America, wheel of the future. (My '42)
 De Roussy de Sales, R. J. J. F. Making of tomorrow. (My '42)
 Drucker, P. F. Future of industrial man. (O '42)
 Fischer, L. Dawn of victory. (Ap '42)
 Kalijarvi, T., and others. Modern world politics. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
 Kohn, H. World order in historical perspective. (S '42)
 MacCormac, J. America and world mastery. (Ap '42)
 Mackinder, H. J. Democratic ideals and reality. (O '42)
 Mowrer, L. T. Rip tide of aggression. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Pegg, C. H., and others. American society and the changing world. (Ag '42)
 Ranshofen-Wertheimer, E. F. Victory is not enough. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Schuman, F. L. Design for power. (Mr '42)
 Smith, T. C. United States as a factor in world history. (N '42)
 Spykman, N. J. America's strategy in world politics. (My '42)
- World war, 1939-
 Angell, N. Let the people know. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
 Baldwin, H. W. Strategy for victory. (Ag '42)
 Chamberlin, W. H. World's iron age. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
 Cole, G. D. H. Europe, Russia, and the future. (N '42)
 Cuff, S. H. Face of the war, 1931-1942. (O '42)
 De Roussy de Sales, R. J. J. F. Making of tomorrow. (My '42)
 Dorf, P. This war. (My '42)
 Fischer, L. Dawn of victory. (Ap '42)
 Gelber, L. M. Peace by power. (Je '42)
- Gramling, O. Free men are fighting. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Hanč, J. Tornado across eastern Europe. (Ap '42)
- Huss, P. J. Foe we face. (Je '42)
- Kernan, W. F. Defense will not win the war. (Ap '42)
- Perry, R. B. Our side is right. (N '42)
- Schuman, F. L. Design for power. (Mr '42)
- Schwarzschild, L. World in trance. (D '42)
- Scott, J. Duel for Europe. (N '42)
- Taylor, H. J. Time runs out. (Je '42)
- Undset, S. Return to the future. (Mr '42)
- United States. War department. Background of our war. (S '42)
- Wallace, H. A. Price of free world victory. (O '42)
- Ziff, W. B. Coming battle of Germany. (S '42)
- Aerial operations
 De Seversky, A. P. Victory through air power. (My '42)
 Dickinson, C. E., and Sparkes, B. Flying guns. (D '42)
 Glead, I. R. Arise to conquer. (S '42)
 Hillary, R. Falling through space. (Mr '42)
 Kennerly, B. Eagles roar! (O '42)
 Saint Exupéry, A. de. Flight to Arras. (Mr '42)
 Winston, R. A. Aircraft carrier. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
- Atrocities
 Sixth column. (My '42)
- Biography
 Steel, J. Men behind the war. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Campaigns and battles
 Michie, A. A. Retreat to victory. (S '42)
 Thompson, P. W. Modern battle. (Ap '42)
 Werner, M. Great offensive. (N '42)
- Africa
 Hill, R. Desert war. (S '42)
- Causes
 Fried, H. E. Guilt of the German army. (O '42)
 Holmes, J. H. Out of darkness. (Je '42)
 Lee, D. E. Ten years. (Je '42)
 Tabouis, G. R. They called me Cassandra. (Ap '42)
- Children
 Baruch, D. W. You, your children, and war. (D '42)
 Wolf, A. W. M. Our children face war. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Diplomatic history
 Curtis, M., ed. Norway and the war. (S '42)
 Finland. Ministeriet för utrikesärendena. Finland reveals her secret documents on Soviet policy. (D '42)
 Koht, H. Norway, neutral and invaded. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
- Drama
 Anderson, M. Eve of St Mark. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Bacher, W. A., ed. Treasury star parade. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
- Economic aspects
 Arnold, T. W. Democracy and free enterprise. (Je '42)
 Barclay, H. W., ed. How your business can help win the war. (My '42)
 Barrett, T. Your job and American victory. (O '42)
 Basch, A. The new economic warfare. (Ap '42)
 Bevin, E. Balance sheet of the future. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
 Boyan, E. A. Handbook of war production. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Chase, S. Road we are travelling. (My '42)
 Cherne, L. M. Your business goes to war. (Ag '42)
 Einzig, P. Appeasement: before, during and after the war. (Ag '42)
 Johnsen, J. E., comp. Federal price control. (My '42)
 Katona, G. War without inflation. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Logan, M. Home front digest. (S '42)

World war, 1939—Economic aspects—Continued
 Reimann, G. Patents for Hitler. (Ja '43)
 (1942 Annual)
 Spiegel, H. W. Economics of total war. (My '42)
 Stein, E., and Backman, J., eds. War economics. (S '42)
 Steiner, G. A., ed. Economic problems of war. (D '42)
 Stryker, P. Arms and the aftermath. (Mr '42)
 Wright, C. W., ed. Economic problems of war and its aftermath. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Finance

Crum, W. L., and others. Fiscal planning for total war. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
 Tax institute. Financing the war. (Ag '42)

Food question

Fowler, B. B. Food; a weapon for victory (O '42)

Humor, caricatures, etc.

Brooks, R. L. Elmer Squee. (Je '42)
 Phillips, H. I. Private Purkey in love and war. (S '42)

Influence and results

Daniel, H. North America, wheel of the future. (My '42)
 Lorwin, L. L. Economic consequences of the second World war. (Mr '42)

Maps

Brown, E. F. War in maps. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Mower, E. A., and Rajchman, M. Global war. (S '42)

Medical and sanitary affairs

Dieuaide, F. R. Civilian health in wartime. (D '42)
 Hill, J. H. Silent enemies. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Naval operations

Cant, G. War at sea. (My '42)
 Carse, R. There go the ships. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Casey, R. J. Torpedo junction. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Coale, G. B. North Atlantic patrol. (S '42)
 Halstead, I. Heroes of the Atlantic. (Ap '42)
 Johnston, G. H. Action at sea. (Mr '42)
 Laskier, F. My name is Frank. (Mr '42)
 Schubert, P. Sea power in conflict. (Je '42)

Occupied territory

Kraus, R. Europe in revolt. (S '42)
 Riess, C. Underground Europe. (Je '42)
 Sixth column. (My '42)

Peace

Baker, A. E., ed. Christian basis for the post-war world. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Carr, E. H. Conditions of peace. (S '42)
 Condliffe, J. B. Agenda for a postwar world. (O '42)
 Guérard, A. L. France of tomorrow. (Ag '42)
 Hambro, C. J. How to win the peace. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Hoover, H. C., and Gibson, H. Problems of lasting peace. (Ag '42)
 Johnsen, J. E., comp. Eight points of post-war world reorganization. (S '42)
 King-Hall, S. Total victory. (Ap '42)
 McConnell, F. J., and others. Basis for the peace to come. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Paton, W. Church and the new order. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
 Ranshofen-Wertheimer, E. F. Victory is not enough. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Van Kirk, W. W. Religion and the world of tomorrow. (Ap '42)

Personal narratives, American

Beattie, E. W. Freely to pass. (D '42)
 Brock, R. Nor any victory. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Brown, C. Suez to Singapore. (N '42)
 Caldwell, E. All-out on the road to Smolensk. (Ap '42)
 Carroll, W. We're in this with Russia. (N '42)
 Carse, R. There go the ships. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Clark, T. B. Remember Pearl harbor! (My '42)
 Denny, H. H. Behind both lines. (D '42)

Dickinson, C. E., and Sparkes, B. Flying guns. (D '42)
 Gervasi, F. War has seven faces. (Je '42)
 Hasey, J. F. Yankee fighter. (S '42)
 Hill, M. Exchange ship. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
 Hill, R. Desert war. (S '42)
 Ingersoll, R. M. Action on all fronts. (Ap '42)
 Mackay, H. G. E. With love for France. (S '42)
 Marsman, J. H. I escaped from Hong Kong. (S '42)
 Michie, A. A. Retreat to victory. (S '42)
 Reynolds, Q. J. Convoy. (Mr '42)
 Reynolds, Q. J. Only the stars are neutral. (Ag '42)
 Russell, W. Berlin embassy. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
 St John, R. From the land of silent people. (Mr '42)
 Trumbull, R. The raft. (S '42)
 White, M. B. Shooting the Russian war. (S '42)
 White, W. L. They were expendable. (O '42)
 Winston, R. A. Aces wild. (Ap '42)

Personal narratives, Australian

Hillary, R. Falling through space. (Mr '42)

Personal narratives, English

Dade, H. A. Letters of Harry Arthur Dade of Kew, Surrey, England, to his refugee son. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
 Glead, I. R. Arise to conquer. (S '42)
 Holman, G. Commando attack. (O '42)
 Laskier, F. My name is Frank. (Mr '42)
 Moorehead, A. Mediterranean front. (Ap '42)
 Myers, B. Captured. (Mr '42)
 Patmore, D. Balkan correspondent. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
 Respectfully yours, Annie. (Mr '42)

Personal narratives, Norwegian

Broch, T. The mountains wait. (Ja '42)

Personal narratives, Polish

Langer, R. G. Mermaid and the Messerschmitt. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Padowicz, B. Flight to freedom. (Je '42)

Personal narratives, Russian

Poliakov, A. Russians don't surrender (S '42)

Personal narratives, South African

Gallagher, O. 'D. Action in the East. (S '42)

Pictorial works

Coale, G. B. North Atlantic patrol. (S '42)
 Henderson, H. B., and Morris, H. C. War in our time. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Rothenstein, W., and Cecil, D. Men of the R.A.F. (S '42)
 White, M. B. Shooting the Russian war. (S '42)

Poetry

Burt, M. S. War songs. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Ledward, P., and Strang, C., eds. Poems of this war. (D '42)
 Millay, E. St V. Murder of Lidice. (D '42)
 Rukeyser, M. Wake island. (O '42)

Prisoners and prisons

Denny, H. N. Behind both lines. (D '42)
 Hill, M. Exchange ship. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
 Marsman, J. H. I escaped from Hong Kong. (S '42)
 Myers, B. Captured. (Mr '42)
 Strong, T., ed. We prisoners of war. (S '42)

Propaganda

Bornstein, J., and Milton, P. R. Action against the enemy's mind. (D '42)
 Childs, H. L., and Whitton, J. B., eds. Propaganda by short wave. (N '42)
 Gordon, M. News is a weapon. (D '42)
 Rolo, C. J. Radio goes to war. (Ap '42)
 Sayers, M., and Kahn, A. E. Sabotage! (N '42)

Refugees

Padowicz, B. Flight to freedom. (Je '42)

Religious aspects

Barth, K. This Christian cause. (My '42)
 Hopwood, P. G. S. Out of the blitz. (Ag '42)
 Keller, A. Christian Europe today. (O '42)

- Knox, J., ed. Religion and the present crisis. (Ag '42)
 Morrison, C. C. Christian and the war. (N '42)
 Paton, W. Church and the new order. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
 Sangster, W. E. Christian has wings. (Ap '42)
 Spellman, F. J. Road to victory. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Van Kirk, W. W. Religion and the world of tomorrow. (Ap '42)

Transportation

- Harris, M. G. Lifelines of victory. (O '42)

War work

Juvenile literature

- Leaf, M. War-time handbook for young Americans. (S '42)

Women's work

- Ayling, K. Calling all women. (O '42)
 Banning, M. C. Women for defense. (Ap '42)
 Birdwell, R. Women in battle dress. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Africa

- Burman, B. L. Miracle on the Congo. (S '42)

Alaska

- Potter, J. C. Alaska under arms. (O '42)

Balkan states

- Brock, R. Nor any victory. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Patmore, D. Balkan correspondent. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
 St John, R. From the land of silent people. (Mr '42)

Canada

- King, W. L. M. Canada at Britain's side. (Ap '42)

Danzig

- Leonhardt, H. L. Nazi conquest of Danzig. (O '42)

East (Far East)

- Brown, C. Suez to Singapore (N '42)
 Gallagher, O' D. Action in the East. (S '42)
 Shridharani, K. J. Warning to the West. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Randau, C., and Zugsmith, L. Setting sun of Japan. (Ap '42)

East (Near East))

- Baker, R. L. Oil, blood and sand. (O '42)

Finland

- Finland. Ministeriet for utrikesärendena. Finland reveals her secret documents on Soviet policy. (D '42)

France

- Brooks, H. L. Prisoners of hope. (My '42)
 Guérard, A. L. France of tomorrow. (Ag '42)
 Jacques. French soldier speaks. (Ag '42)
 Mackay, H. G. E. With love for France. (S '42)
 Saint Exupéry, A. de. Flight to Arras. (Mr '42)
 Torrès, H. Campaign of treachery. (O '42)
 Werth, A. Twilight of France, 1933-1940. (N '42)

Germany

- Flannery, H. W. Assignment to Berlin. (S '42)
 Frank, K. B. Will Germany crack? (Ag '42)
 Laird, S., and Graebner, W. Conversation in London. (F '42)
 Lochner, L. P. What about Germany? (D '42)
 Oechsner, F. C., and others. This is the enemy. (D '42)
 Riess, C. Self-betrayed. (D '42)
 Russell, W. Berlin embassy. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
 Smith, H. K. Last train from Berlin. (S '42)
 Thompson, D. Listen, Hans. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)

Great Britain

- Churchill, W. L. S. Unrelenting struggle. (N '42)
 Harland, E. M. Farmer's girl. (S '42)
 Hopwood, P. G. S. Out of the blitz. (Ag '42)
 Laird, S., and Graebner, W. Conversation in London. (Mr '42)

- Morehouse, C. P. Wartime pilgrimage. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
 Respectfully yours, Annie. (Mr '42)
 Tomlinson, H. M. Wind is rising. (Ap '42)

Hong Kong

- Marsman, J. H. I escaped from Hong Kong. (S '42)

India

- Duffet, W. E., and others, comps. India today. (S '42)
 Gandhi, M. K. My appeal to the British. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Mitchell, K. L. India without fable. (O '42)
 Raman, T. A. What does Gandhi want? (D '42)

Italy

- K., S. Agent in Italy. (My '42)
 Packard, R. and E. Balcony empire. (D '42)

Japan

- Byas, H. Government by assassination. (D '42)
 Byas, H. The Japanese enemy, his power and his vulnerability. (Ap '42)
 Fleisher, W. Our enemy Japan. (My '42)
 Grew, J. C. Report from Tokyo. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Harcourt-Smith, S. Fire in the Pacific. (S '42)
 Hill, M. Exchange ship. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
 Timperley, H. J. Japan: a world problem. (Je '42)

Mediterranean sea

- Moorehead, A. Mediterranean front. (Ap '42)

Norway

- Curtis, M., ed. Norway and the war. (S '42)
 Koht, H. Norway, neutral and invaded. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)

Oceania

- Abend, H. Ramparts of the Pacific. (Je '42)

Pacific ocean

- Kiralfy, A. Victory in the Pacific. (Je '42)

Philippine islands

- Hersey, J. R. Men on Bataan. (Je '42)
 Porter, C. L. Crisis in the Philippines. (Ap '42)
 Romulo, C. P. I saw the fall of the Philippines. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
 White, W. L. They were expendable. (O '42)

Poland

- Langer, R. G. Mermaid and the Messerschmitt. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Padowicz, B. Flight to freedom. (Je '42)
 Poland. Ministerstwo informacji. Black book of Poland. (O '42)
 Segal, S. New order in Poland. (Je '42)

Rumania

- Graefenberg, R. G. Athene palace. (Mr '42)

Russia

- Berchin, M., and Ben-Horin, E. Red army. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Caldwell, E. All-out on the road to Smolensk. (Ap '42)
 Carroll, W. We're in this with Russia. (N '42)
 Dallin, D. J. Soviet Russia's foreign policy, 1939-1942. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
 Davies, R. A., and Steiger, A. J. Soviet Asia. (S '42)
 Kournakoff, S. N. Russia's fighting forces. (S '42)
 Schacher, G. He wanted to sleep in the Kremlin. (O '42)
 Werth, A. Moscow war diary. (My '42)
 White, M. B. Shooting the Russian war. (S '42)
 Zacharoff, L., ed. Voice of fighting Russia. (Ap '42)
 Zacharoff, L. We made a mistake—Hitler. (My '42)

United States

- America organizes to win the war. (My '42)
 Bornstein, J., and Milton, P. R. Action against the enemy's mind. (D '42)
 Brown, W. B., and others. America in a world at war. (O '42)
 Buck, P. S. American unity and Asia. (S '42)

- World war, 1939—United States—Continued
 Cherne, L. M. Your business goes to war. (Ag '42)
 Childs, M. W. I write from Washington. (N '42)
 Childs, M. W. This is your war. (Ap '42)
 Clarkson, J. D., and Cochran, T. C., eds. War as a social institution. (Ap '42)
 Conant, J. B. Our fighting faith. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Corey, H. Army means business. (N '42)
 Davis, F., and Lindley, E. K. How war came. (O '42)
 December 7, the first thirty hours. (S '42)
 Evenden, E. S. Teacher education in a democracy at war. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Floherty, J. J. Courage and the glory. (D '42)
 Griffin, R. A., ed. School of the citizen soldier. (O '42)
 Gruenberg, S. M., ed. Family in a world at war. (S '42)
 Holbrook, S. H. None more courageous. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Lawrence, D. Diary of a Washington correspondent. (N '42)
 Reston, J. B. Prelude to victory. (S '42)
 Sargent, P. E. Getting U S into war. (My '42)
 Sayers, M., and Kahn, A. E. Sabotage! (N '42)
 Scandrett, R. B. Divided they fall. (My '42)
 Seldes, G. V. Proclaim liberty! (S '42)
 Smith, D. H. H. America and the axis war. (D '42)
 Spellman, F. J. Road to victory. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Stevens, A. Arms and the people. (Je '42)
 Stryker, P. Arms and the aftermath. (Mr '42)
 World we want to live in. Clinchy, E. R., ed. (My '42)
 World's destiny and the United States. World citizens association. (My '42)
 World's great Catholic literature. Shuster, G. N., ed. (F '43) (1942 Annual) World's iron age. Chamberlin, W. H. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
 Worship
 Dun, A. Not by bread alone. (Ap '42)
 Wreath for Europa. Tabor, P. (S '42)
 Wreck of the Wild Wave. Hurd, E. T. (N '42)
 Wright, Frank Lloyd
 Hitchcock, H. R. In the nature of materials. (S '42)
 Wright, John Stephen
 Lewis, L. John S. Wright. (My '42)
 Writers in crisis. Geismar, M. D. (S '42)
 Writing history. Kent, S. (Je '42)
 Wyoming
 Chaffin, L. B. Sons of the West. (S '42)
 X-ray crystallography. Buerger, M. J. (F '43) (1942 Annual) X-ray murders. Michel, M. S. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 X-rays
 Buerger, M. J. X-ray crystallography. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
 Yachts and yachting
 Bloomfield, H. Sailing to the sun. (N '42)
 Yale review anthology. Yale Review (periodical). (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Yankee fighter. Hasey, J. F. (S '42)
 Ybarra, Thomas Russell
 Ybarra, T. R. Young man of the world. (D '42)
 Year of the wild boar. Mears, H. (S '42)
 Years of endurance, 1793-1802. Bryant, A. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Yeats, William Butler
 Bax, C., ed. Florence Farr, Bernard Shaw, W. B. Yeats; letters. (Ap '42)
 Yellow overcoat. Acre, S. (D '42)
 Yellow taxi. Webb, R. W., and Wheeler, H. C. (Je '42)
 Yellow violet. Crane, F. K. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
 You are my friends. Laubach, F. C. (N '42)
 You can't be too careful. Wells, H. G. (Je '42)
 You can't ignore murder. Teague, R. T. M. and W. D. (Ag '42)
 You don't have to exercise! Steincrohn, P. J. (N '42)
 You don't know what you like. Taubes, F. (N '42)
 You, your children, and war. Baruch, D. W. (D '42)
 Young Ames. Edmonds, W. D. (Mr '42)
 Young Billings of Buckhorn. Merrill, M. (O '42)
 Young Churchill. Nott, S. C. (Mr '42)
 Young concubine. Makhali-Phäl. (My '42)
 Young John takes over. Jordan, E. G. (Ag '42)
 Young man of the world. Ybarra, T. R. (D '42)
 Young matriarch. Stern, G. B. (N '42)
 Young Pandora. Chidester, A. (S '42)
 Young Stonewall. Tom Jackson. Monsell, H. A. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Young widow. Cushman, C. F. (My '42)
 Young woman of Europe. Feiner, R. (Ja '43) (1942 Annual)
 Young women
 Faust, J. F., ed. Girl's place in life and how to find it. (Je '42)
 Younger Brother. Simon, C. M. H. (O '42)
 Your business goes to war. Cherne, L. M. (Ag '42)
 Your car is made to last. Bishop, H., and Evans, B. (S '42)
 Your career in defense. Davis, S. C. (My '42)
 Your career in engineering. Carlisle, N. V. (O '42)
 Your child's religion. Moody, M. O., and Eakin, F. (D '42)
 Your garden in the city. Gomez, N. (Ap '42)
 Your job and American victory. Barrett, T. (O '42)
 Your legal and business matters and how to take care of them. Ashmun, H. E. (N '42)
 Your mastery of English. Thomas, C. S. (Ag '42)
 Your morale and how to build it. Pardue, A. (S '42)
 Yours for the asking. Armour, R. W. (D '42)
 Youth
 Allen, B., and Briggs, M. P. If you please! (O '42)
 American council on education. American youth commission. Youth and the future. (Ap '42)
 Brunner, E. de S. Working with rural youth. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
 David, P. T. Barriers to youth employment. (S '42)
 Sutherland, R. L. Color, class, and personality. (My '42)
 Youth and the future. American council on education. American youth commission. (Ap '42)
 Youth and the sea. Floherty, J. J. (My '42)
 Youth in the CCC. Holland, K., and Hill, F. E. (N '42)
 Youth must fly. McDonald, E. F. (Je '42)
 Yugoslavia
 West, R. Black lamb and grey falcon. (Ag '42) (1941 Annual)
 Zaca (yacht)
 Beebe, W. Book of bays. (Ap '42)
 Zickle's puppy dog. Turpin, E. H. L. (Ag '42)
 Zimmerman, Harry Johnson
 Tunis, J. R. Million-miler. (Ag '42)
 Zionism
 Brandeis, L. D. On Zionism. (F '43) (1942 Annual) Zoology
 Classification
 Mayr, E. Systematics and the origin of species. (F '43) (1942 Annual)
 Nomenclature
 Driver, E. C. Name that animal. (S '42)
 North America
 United States. National park service. Fading trails. (N '42)
 Pacific coast
 Beebe, W. Book of bays. (Ap '42)
 Zúfi Indians
 Cushing, F. H. My adventures in Zúfi. (O '42)

Directory of Publishers

A.L.A. American Library Association, 520 N Michigan Av, Chicago

Abingdon. Abingdon Press, N.Y. See Abingdon-Cokesbury

Abingdon - Cokesbury. Abingdon - Cokesbury Press, Hdqrs, 810 Broadway, Nashville, Tenn; 150 5th Av, N.Y.

Division of Meth. Pub. House; imprint of Clermont Press used when publishing for author or doing outside printing

Consolidation of Abingdon; Cokesbury Press; and Stockton Press

Alliance Bk. Alliance Book Corporation, Michigan Sq Bldg, 540 N Michigan Av, Chicago; 270 Madison Av, N.Y. [Cable Address: Allbooks New York]; Canadian Agent, Longmans (Toronto)

No longer connected with Philosophical Lib.

Owned and operated by Ziff-Davis

Am. Assn. for Adult Educ, Inc, 525 W 120th St, N.Y.

Am. Bapt. American Baptist Publication Society (The Judson Press) 1701-1703 Chestnut St, Philadelphia; 72 E Randolph St, Chicago; 1107 McGee St, Kansas City, Mo; 510 Ranke Bldg, 5th & Pike Sts, Seattle, Wash.

Am. Bk. American Book Company, 88 Lexington Av, N.Y. [Cable Address: Ambook New York]; 360 N Michigan Av, Chicago; 300 Pike St, Cincinnati; 126 Newbury St, Boston; 91 Cone St, NW, Atlanta; 1319 Young St, Dallas; 121 2d St, San Francisco; Canadian Agent, Gage

Am. Council on Educ, 744 Jackson Pl, NW, Washington, D.C.

Am. Council on Public Affairs, 2153 Florida Av, Washington, D.C.

Also use imprint Public Affairs Press

Am. Foundation for the Blind, Inc, 15 W 16th St, N.Y.

Am. Geographical Soc. American Geographical Society of New York, Broadway & 156th St, N.Y.

Am. Photographic Pub. American Photographic Publishing Company, 353 Newbury St, Boston [Cable Address: Amphocol]

Am. Public Works. Am. Public Works Assn, 1313 E 60th St, Chicago

Am.-Scandinavian Foundation, 116 E 64th St, N.Y. [Cable Address: Scandoun]

Am. Tech. Soc, 850 E 58th St, Chicago; Canadian Agent, General Pub. Co, Ltd, 17 Queen St, E, Toronto, 2

Am. Tract. American Tract Society, 21 W 46th St, N.Y.

America Press, Grand Central Terminal, 70 E 45th St, N.Y. [Cable Address: Cathreview]

Anderson House, 726 Jackson Pl, Washington, D.C.

Associated with Dodd

Appleton-Century. D. Appleton-Century Company, Inc, 35 W 32d St, N.Y. [Cable Address: Hilanderol]; educ. bks. only: 2126 Prairie Av, Chicago; 34 Bedford St, Strand, London, WC 2; Canadian Agents, Ryerson Press; (music) G. V. Thompson, 193 Yonge St, Toronto

Consolidated D. Appleton Company and Century Company

Arcadia. Arcadia House, Inc, 70 5th Av, N.Y.; Canadian Agent, McLeod

Formerly connected with Godwin, but now publish independently

Also use imprints of Jordan House and Mystery House

Architectural Bk. Architectural Book Publishing Company, Inc, 112 W 46th St, N.Y. [Cable Address: Mumpi]

Argus. Argus Books, Inc, 16 N Michigan Av, Chicago

Arrow Editions. Arrow Editions Co-operative Association, Inc, 444 Madison Av, N.Y.

Assn. Press. Association Press (Nat. Council of the Y.M.C.A) 347 Madison Av, N.Y.

Associated Pubs, Inc, 1538 9th St, NW, Washington, D.C.

Augsburg. Augsburg Publishing House, 425-429 S 4th St, Minneapolis

Publishers for the Norwegian Lutheran Church of America

Augustin. J. J. Augustin, Inc, 125 E 23d St, N.Y.; Agent for Am. Ethnological Soc.

Memoirs of the Am. Folk-Lore Soc. now now handled by the Society

Aviation. Aviation Press, 580 Market St, San Francisco; Canadian Agent, General Pub. Co, Ltd, 17 Queen St, E, Toronto, 2

Banta. George Banta Publishing Company (The Collegiate Press) 450 Ahnapp St, Menasha, Wis.

Barnes, A.S. A. S. Barnes & Co, 67 W 44th St, N.Y.; Lone Star School Bk. Depository, 707 Browder St, Dallas; Agents, Copp; Stacey

Acquired the publications of Am. Sports Pub.

Barron's, 30 Kilby St, Boston

Barrows. M. Barrows & Company (H. Tanner Olsen) 443 4th Av, N.Y.; Canadian Agent, McClelland

Beacon Press. The Beacon Press, Inc, 25 Beacon St, Boston; 330 S Dearborn St, Chicago; 2400 Allston Way, Berkeley, Calif. [Cable Address: Beapress]; English Agent, Lindsey

Formerly pub. as Am. Unitar.

Beckley-Cardy. Beckley-Cardy Company, 1632 S Indiana Av, Chicago [Cable Address: Becarcol]; Canadian Agents, Ryerson Press;

Moyer School Supplies, 106 York St, Toronto

Behrman's. Behrman's Jewish Bk. House, 1261 Broadway, N.Y.

Blakiston. The Blakiston Company, 1012 Walnut St, Philadelphia [Cable Address: Blakiston]; Pacific Coast Depository, Wagner, Harr; Canadian Agent, General Pub. Co,

17 Queen St, E, Toronto, 2

Bles. Geoffrey Bles, Ltd, 37 Essex St, Strand, London, WC 2; Canadian Agent, Saunders, S.J.R.

Also publish as Centenary Press

Amalgamated with Chapman; also acquired the publications of Unicorn Press

Bloch. Bloch Publishing Company, Inc, 31 W 31st St, N.Y. [Cable Address: Blochbooks]

Blue Ribbon Bks, Inc, Garden City, N.Y.; Blue Ribbon Bks. (Canada) Ltd, 215-217 Victoria St, Toronto, 2; English Agent, Doubleday (London)

Also publish as Halcyon House Publications

Acquired the publications of Burt. For Burt Home Library see Random House

Ownership acquired by Doubleday (Garden City Pub. Co.)

Bobbs. Bobbs-Merrill Company, 724 N Meridian St, Indianapolis; 468 4th Av, N.Y.

[Cable Address: Bobbs Indianapolis]; Canadian Agent, McClelland

Boston Museum of Fine Arts, 465 Huntington Av, Boston

Bowker. R. R. Bowker Company, 62 W 45th St, N.Y.; English Agent, Whitaker

Office of The Publishers' Weekly

Brethren Pub. Brethren Publishing House, 22 S State St, Elgin, Ill. [Cable Address: Brethren]

Publishers for General Mission Bd. of the Church of the Brethren

See also Elgin

Bridgman. Bridgman Publishers, Inc, 8 Park Pl, Pelham, N.Y.; Canadian Agent, McLeod

- Broadman. The Broadman Press, Sunday School Bd, Southern Baptist Convention, 127 9th Av. N, Nashville, Tenn.
- Brookings. Brookings Institution, 722 Jackson Pl, NW, Washington, D.C.; English Agent, Faber
- Bruce Pub. Bruce Publishing Company, 524-544 N Milwaukee St, Milwaukee; 330 W 42d St, N.Y.; 66 E South Water St, Chicago [Cable Address: BruceMilwa]; Canadian Agent (educ bks) Ryerson Press; English Agents, Batsford; Coldwell
- Burgess. Burgess Publishing Company, 426-428 S 6th St, Minneapolis
- Catholic Univ. of Am, Michigan Av, NE, Washington, D.C.
Address The Catholic Univ. of Am. Press
Caxton Printers, Ltd, Caldwell, Idaho; refer trade orders to Reilly & Lee; Wilde (New England States); Canadian Agent, Copp; Central European Agent, Orbis; Agent for other European countries, Four Continent
- Chapman & Grimes, Inc. (Mt Vernon Press), 30 Winchester St, Boston [Cable Address: Seegee]; Canadian Agent, Saunders, S.J.R.
- Chemical Pub. Chemical Publishing Company, Easton, Pa. See Chemical Pub. Co.
- Chemical Pub. Co, Inc, 234 King St, Brooklyn, N.Y. [Cable Address: Benbal]; Canadian Agent, General Pub. Co, Ltd, 17 Queen St, E, Toronto, 2
Acquired the publications of Chemical Pub.
- Christopher. Christopher Publishing House, 1140 Columbus Av, Boston
- Church Hist. Soc, 4205 Spruce St, Philadelphia
- Clark, A.H. Arthur H. Clark Company, 1214 S Brand Blvd, Glendale, Calif.
- Collier. P. F. Collier & Son, 250 Park Av, N.Y.
- Colt. The Colt Press (Jane Grabhorn and William Roth) 617 Montgomery St, San Francisco; Eastern Agent, John S. Clapp, Stuyvesant Av, Rye, N.Y.
- Columbia Univ. Press, 2960 Broadway, N.Y.; Agents, Oxford (London and Bombay); King (for studies in Hist, Economics & Public Law); Maruzen; Am. Agent for the publications of the League of Nations Acquired the publications of Facsimile Text Soc.
- Have division, King's Crown Press
Commonwealth Fund. Commonwealth Fund, Division of Publications, 41 E 57th St, N.Y.
- Consolidated Bk. Pubs, Inc, 537 S Dearborn St, Chicago [Cable Address: Consupb]
Merged with Standard Am. Corp. and also publish as Univ. of Knowledge, Inc.
- Consolidated World Research Society, Ltd, Toronto
- Cornell Maritime. Cornell Maritime Press, 350 W 23d St, N.Y.
- Cornell Univ. Press, 124 Roberts Pl, Cornell Heights, Ithaca, N.Y.
- Council on Foreign Relations, Inc, 45 E 65th St, N.Y.
- Coward-McCann, Inc, 2 W 45th St, N.Y.; Canadian Agent, Longmans (Toronto)
- Creative Age. Creative Age Press, Inc, 11 E 44th St, N.Y.; Canadian Agent, McClelland
- Crofts. F. S. Crofts & Co, 101 5th Av, N.Y.; refer trade orders to Dodd; Agents (trade) Oxford (Toronto); (educ) Clarke, Irwin
- Crowell. The Thomas Y. Crowell Company, 432 4th Av, N.Y. [Cable Address: Tycrowell New York]; Canadian Agent, Oxford (Toronto)
- Crown. Crown Pubs, 419 4th Av, N.Y. [Cable Address: Letout New York]; Canadian Agent, Ryerson press
- Dial Press, Inc, 432-438 4th Av, N.Y. [Cable Address: Dialpubco]; Canadian Agent, Longmans (Toronto)
See also Knight Pubs.
- Dietz. Dietz Press, 109 E Cary St, Richmond, Va.
- Dodd. Dodd, Mead & Company, Inc, 432 4th Av, N.Y. [Cable Address: Dodd New York]; Dodd, Mead & Company (Canada) Ltd, 215-219 Victoria St, Toronto
Acquired the Book dept, of Yachting
- Dodge. Dodge Publishing Company, 116 E 16th St, N.Y.; Canadian Agent, McLeod
See also McBride
- Dorrance. Dorrance & Company, Inc, 364 Drexel Bldg, 5th & Chestnut Sts, Philadelphia
- Doubleday. Doubleday, Doran & Company, Inc, Garden City, N.Y. [Cable Address: Doubledor New York]; 91 Great Russell St, London, WC 1; Canadian Agent, McClelland
A consolidation of Doubleday, Page & Co, George H. Doran Co, Nelson Doubleday, Inc, and Garden City Pub. Co.
Acquired ownership of Blue Ribbon Bks; publish as Heyday House; and sold textbook publications to Odyssey
Sun Dial publications now obtainable directly, though still connected with Doubleday
- Dryden. The Dryden Press, Inc, 103 Park Av, N.Y.
Acquired the publications of Cordon
- Duell. Duell, Sloan & Pearce, Inc, 270 Madison Av, N.Y. [Cable Address: Swordswords]; Canadian Agent, Collins (Toronto)
- Duke Univ, Durham, N.C.; Agents, Cambridge; Maruzen
Address Duke Univ. Press
- Dutton. E. P. Dutton & Co, Inc, 286-302 4th Av, N.Y. [Cable Address: Yardfar New York]. Canadian Agent, Smithers
- Elgin. Elgin Press, 16 S State St, Elgin, Ill.
Connected with Brethren Pub.
- Emerson. Emerson Books, Inc, 251 W 19th St, N.Y. [Cable Address: Emerpress New York] Canadian Agent, General Pub. Co, Ltd, 17 Queen St, E, Toronto, 2
- Falmouth. Falmouth Publishing House, 4 Milk St, Portland, Me.
Also publish as Dirigo Editions
- Farrar. Farrar & Rinehart, Inc, 232 Madison Av, N.Y. [Cable Address: Farrine]; Canadian Agent, Oxford (Toronto)
- Faxon. F. W. Faxon Company, 83-91 Francis St, Back Bay, Boston; English Agent, Grafton & Co.
- Fine Editions. Fine Editions Press, 227 E 45th St, N.Y.
- Fischer, L. B. L. B. Fischer Publishing Corporation, 381 4th Av, N.Y.; Canadian Agent, McClelland
- Follett. Follett Publishing Company, 1255 S Wabash Av, Chicago; 381 4th Av, N.Y.; Canadian Agent, Moyer School Supplies, 106 York St, Toronto
Also publish as Wilcox & Follett Co.
- Food Research Inst, Stanford University, Calif; Agents, King; Nijhoff
- Fordham Univ. Press, E Fordham Rd, N.Y.
- Foreign Policy. Foreign Policy Assn, Inc, Nat. Hdqrs, 22 E 38th St, N.Y. [Cable Address: Lofna]
- Friendship Press, 156 5th Av, N.Y.
See also Missionary Educ. Movement
- Funk. Funk & Wagnalls Company, 354-360 4th Av, N.Y.; 17A Farrington St, London, EC 4
- Funk, W. Wilfred Funk, Inc, 354 4th Av, N.Y.; refer trade orders to Follett; Canadian Agent, Longmans (Toronto)
- Garden City Pub. Co, Inc, Garden City, N.Y.; Canadian Agent, Blue Ribbon Bks. (Toronto)
Acquired ownership of Blue Ribbon Bks. and the publications of Windward
See also Doubleday
Also publish as New Home Lib.
- Davis. F. A. Davis Company, 1914-1916 Cherry St, Philadelphia [Cable Address: Argonaut]
- Day. John Day Co, Inc, 2 W 45th St, N.Y.; Canadian Agent, Longmans (Toronto)
- Daye. Stephen Daye Press, Inc, Room 12, 67 Main St, Brattleboro, Vt; 15 E 47th St, N.Y.
- Devin-Adair. Devin-Adair Company, 23-25 E 26th St, N.Y.

Garrard. Garrard Press, 119-123 W Park Av, Champaign, Ill; English Agent, Lewis, H.K.
 Garrett. Garrett & Massie, Inc, 1406 E Franklin St, Richmond, Va.
 Gateway. Gateway Books, 70 5th Av, N.Y.; Canadian Agent, McLeod
 Geographical Pub. Geographical Publishing Company, 621 S Plymouth Ct, Chicago
 Ginn. Ginn and Company (Athenaeum Press) Statler Bldg, Park Sq, Boston [Cable Address: Eginn Boston]; 2301-2311 Prairie Av, Chicago; 70 5th Av, N.Y. [Cable Address: Eginn New York]; 165 Luckie St, NW, Atlanta; 1510 Young St, Dallas; 199 E Gay St, Columbus, Ohio; 45 2d St, San Francisco [Cable Address: Eginn San Francisco]; 863 Bay St, Toronto; 7 Queen Sq, Southampton Row, London, WC 1
 Godwin. William Godwin, Inc, 1476 Broadway, N.Y.; Canadian Agent, McLeod
 Formerly pub. as Arcadia
 Gollancz. Victor Gollancz, Ltd, 14 Henrietta St, Covent Garden, London, WC 2; Canadian Agent, Ryerson Press
 Goodheart-Willcox. The Goodheart-Willcox Company, Inc, 2009 S Michigan Av, Chicago [Cable Address: Goodwill Chicago]; Canadian Agent, General Pub. Co, Ltd, 17 Queen St, E, Toronto, 2
 Greenberg. Publisher, Inc, 400 Madison Av, N.Y. [Cable Address: Greenink]; Canadian Agent, McLeod
 Also publish as Regent House; Pickwick Press
 Greystone. The Greystone Press, Inc, 40 E 49th St, N.Y. [Cable Address: Greypub]; Canadian Agent, Copp
 In liquidation
 Grolier Soc, 2 W 45th St, N.Y.; Federal Bldg, Toronto
 Grosset. Grosset & Dunlap, Inc, 1107 Broadway, N.Y. [Cable Address: Groslap, New York]; Canadian Agent, McLeod
 Purchased the business of Barse & Co.

Hale. Hale, Cushman & Flint, Inc, Boston. See Hale, Ralph T.
 Hale, Ralph T. Ralph T. Hale & Company, 116 Newbury St, Boston
 Publishers of bks. including those formerly pub. by Hale, Cushman & Flint, Inc.
 Harbinger. Harbinger House, 381 4th Av, N.Y.; Canadian Agent, Smithers
 Harcourt. Harcourt, Brace & Company, Inc, 383 Madison Av, N.Y.; for high school texts only: 1525 E 53d St, Chicago [Cable Address: Harbrace, New York]; Canadian Agent, McLeod
 Harper. Harper & Brothers (Pleiad Press Imprint) 49 E 33d St, N.Y. [Cable Address: Harpsam]; 90 Great Russell St, London, WC 1; Canadian Agent, Mussen
 Acquired the publications of Hoeber which will remain under the imprint: Paul E. Hoeber, Inc, Medical Bk. Dept. of Harper & Brothers
 Harvard Univ. Press, Pub. Dept, 38 Quincy St, Cambridge, Mass; English Agent, Oxford
 Acquired the Loeb Classical Library from Putnam
 Hastings House, 67 W 44th St, N.Y.; Canadian Agent, Saunders, S.J.R.
 Heath. D. C. Heath & Company, 285 Columbus Av, Boston; 180 Varick St, N.Y.; 1815 Prairie Av, Chicago; 29 Pryor St, NE, Atlanta; 182 2d St, San Francisco; 713 Browder St, Dallas; Agents, Copp; Harrap
 Hebrew Pub. Hebrew Pub. Co, 77-79 Delancey St, N.Y.
 Also publish as Jordan Pub. Co.

Henley. The Norman W. Henley Publishing Company, 17-19 W 45th St, N.Y. [Cable Address: Norhenle]; Canadian Agent, General Pub. Co, Ltd, 17 Queen St, E, Toronto, 2
 Herder. B. Herder Book Company, 15-17 S Broadway, St Louis; 33 Queen Sq, London, WC 1
 Holiday. Holiday House, Inc, 72 5th Av, N.Y.; Canadian Agent, Saunders, S.J.R.

Holt. Henry Holt & Company, Inc, 257 4th Av, N.Y.; for educ. bks. only: 2626 Prairie Av, Chicago; 149 New Montgomery St, San Francisco [Cable Address: Aytcholt New York]; Agents, (trade) Oxford (Toronto); (educ) Clarke, Irwin
 Houghton. Houghton Mifflin Company (Riverside Press, Cambridge) 2 Park St, Boston; 432 4th Av, N.Y.; 2500 Prairie Av, Chicago; 500 Howard St, San Francisco; 715 Browder St, Dallas; 39 Harris St, Atlanta [Cable Address: Muller, Boston]; Canadian Agents, Allen, T; Renouf; English Agent, Constable
 Handling Textbook Dept. of Reynal for duration of war
 House of Field, Inc, 19 W 44th St, N.Y.; Canadian Agent, Smithers
 Howard Univ. Graduate School, 2401 6th St, NW, Washington, D.C.
 Howell. Soskin. Howell, Soskin, Publishers, Inc, 11-17 E 45th St, N.Y.; Canadian Agent, Allen, T.
 Humphries. Bruce Humphries, Inc, 30 Winchester St, Boston; 16 E 43d St, N.Y.; Agents: Daniel; Fritze; Ryerson Press; Taraporevala; Hicks, Smith & Wright, Ltd, 3 Harris St, Wellington, N.Z.
 Successors to Four Seas Co.
 Also publish as Int. Pocket Lib. Corp.
 Huntington Lib. Henry E. Huntington Lib. & Art Gallery, San Marino, Calif.
 Hyperion. Hyperion Press of N.Y., Inc, c.o. Duenevald Ptg. Corp, 216 W 18th St, N.Y.; Agents, Imperia; Longmans (Toronto)
 French & imported eds. distributed by Art Bk; titles formerly pub. in France by French & European Publications
 All titles now issued in N.Y. under general imprint of Hyperion Press of N.Y., Inc, employ individual imprints of Hyperion Press of N.Y.; and Hyperion Press of Paris

Industrial Press, 140-148 Lafayette St, N.Y.; Agents, Machinery; General Pub. Co, Ltd, 17 Queen St, E, Toronto, 2
 Inst. of Pacific Relations, Am. Council, 129 E 52d St, N.Y. [Cable Address: Inparel]; 1795 California St, San Francisco; 316 Dillingham Bldg, Honolulu, Hawaii
 Inst. of Public Administration. Institute of Public Administration (of the Bur. of Municipal Research), 261 Broadway, N.Y.
 Int. Mark Twain Soc, Webster Groves, Mo.
 Int. Missionary Council, Room 1219, 156 5th Av, N.Y.; 2 Eaton Gate, London, SW 1
 Int. Pubs. International Publishers Co, Inc, 381 4th Av, N.Y. [Cable Address: Interbook]
 Int. Textbook. International Textbook Company, 1001 Wyoming Av, Scranton, Pa.
 International Dictionary Co, 15 Park Row, N.Y.
 Interscience. Interscience Publishers, Inc, 215 4th Av, N.Y.; English Agent, Imperia
 Publish in cooperation with Nordeman
 Iowa State College Press, Ames, Iowa
 Irwin. Richard D. Irwin, Inc. (Business Publications, Inc) 332 S Michigan Av, Chicago
 Formerly publish as Business Publications

Jewish Pub. The Jewish Publication Society of America, 225 S 15th St, Philadelphia
 Johns Hopkins Press, Homewood, Baltimore; English Agent, Oxford

Kaleidograph. Kaleidograph Press, 624 N Vernon Av, Dallas
 Formerly Kaleidoscope
 Kenedy. P. J. Kenedy & Sons, 12 Barclay St, N.Y. [Cable Address: Nedyken New York]
 Kinsey. H. C. Kinsey & Company, Inc, 105 W 40th St, N.Y.; Canadian Agent, Copp
 Knopf. Alfred A. Knopf, Inc, 501 Madison Av, N.Y. [Cable Address: Knopf]; Canadian Agent, Ryerson Press

- La. State Univ. Press, University, La.
 Lea, Lea & Febiger, 600 S Washington Sq.
 Philadelphia; Canadian Agent, Macmillan
 (Toronto)
 Lewis Pub. The Lewis Publishing Company,
 211 W Wacker Drive, Chicago
 Lippincott, J. B. Lippincott Company, 227-231
 S 6th St, Philadelphia [Cable Address: Lipp-cot Philadelphia]; 521 5th Av, N.Y.; 333 W
 Lake St, Chicago; Aldine House, 10-13 Bedford St, London, WC 2; Canadian Agent,
 Longmans (Toronto); (medical dept only)
 2083 Guy St, Montreal
 Acquired the publications of Carrick
 Little, Little, Brown & Company, 34 Beacon
 St, Boston [Cable Address: Brownlitt]; Canadian Agent, McClelland; (educ bks) Macmillan (Toronto); elementary educ bks) Ryerson
 Press
 Publishers for Atlantic Monthly Press Publications
 Little Man, Little Man Press, 3747 Hutton St, Cincinnati
 Liveright, Liveright Publishing Corporation,
 386 4th Av, N.Y. [Cable Address: Liveright,
 New York]; Canadian Agent, Smithers
 Formerly Boni & Liveright
 Longmans, Longmans, Green & Company, 55
 5th Av, N.Y. [Cable Address: Freegrove New York]; 215-219 Victoria St, Toronto, 2; Ambie-side, 43 Albert Drive, London, SW 19; 53
 Nicol Rd, Bombay; Chittaranjan Av, Calcutta; for school books only; 221 E 20th St, Chicago
 Lothrop, Lothrop, Lee & Shepard Co, 386 4th Av, N.Y.; Canadian Agent, Longmans (Toronto)
 No longer connected with Nelson
 Lucas Bros, Lucas Brothers, Publishers, 909
 Lowry St, Columbia, Mo.
 Lymanhouse, 624 S Arden Blvd, Los Angeles;
 159 New Montgomery St, San Francisco; 338
 NW 9th Av, Portland, Ore.
 Formerly known and pub. as Scholastic
 Press
 Sell publications of Harper & Davies of Los Angeles
- McBride, Robert M. McBride & Company, 116
 E 16th St, N.Y. [Cable Address: Bridecol];
 Canadian Agent, McLeod
 Own and control Dodge
 McGraw, McGraw-Hill Book Company, Inc,
 330 W 42d St, N.Y.; 68 Post St, San Francisco;
 Aldwych House, Aldwych, London, WC 2
 [Cable Address: McGraw Hill New York];
 Canadian Agent, McLeod
 Trade Bks. pub. under name Whittlesey
 House
 McKay, David McKay Company, 604-608 S
 Washington Sq, Philadelphia; 9 Rockefeller
 Plaza, N.Y.; Canadian Agent, Musson
 Macmillan, The Macmillan Company, 60 5th
 Av, N.Y. [Cable Address: Pachamac New York]; 2459 Prairie Av, Chicago; 1701 Ross
 Av, Dallas; 240 Newbury St, Boston; 500
 Spring St, NW, Atlanta; 350 Mission St, San Francisco; The Macmillan Co. of Canada,
 Ltd, St Martin's House, 70 Bond St, Toronto,
 2; Macmillan & Co, Ltd, 10 St Martin's St,
 Leicester Sq, London, WC 2 [Cable Address:
 Publish London]; 276 Hornby Rd, Bombay;
 Patullo Rd, Mount Rd, P.O. Madras, India;
 294 Bow Bazar St, Calcutta; 32-34 Flinders
 St, Melbourne, C 1, Victoria, Australia
 Macrae Smith Co, 1712-1714 Ludlow St, Philadelphia [Cable Address: Macsco]; Agent, Mill; Canadian Agent, Am. News Co. (Toronto)
 Manual Arts, Manual Arts Press, 237 N Monroe
 St, Peoria, Ill; Canadian Agent, Copp; English Agent, Batsford
 Marquette Univ. Press, 1131 W Wisconsin Av, Milwaukee
 Meador, Meador Publishing Company, 324 Newbury St, Boston
 Merriam, G. & C. Merriam Company, 47 Federal St, Springfield, Mass; Canadian Agent,
 Allen, T.
 Messner, Julian Messner, Inc, Publishers, 8 W
 40th St, N.Y.; Canadian Agent, Smithers
 Acquired the publications of King, A.H.
- Military Service, Military Service Publishing Company, 100 Telegraph Bldg, Harrisburg, Pa.
 Print for Coast Artillery Journal and Infantry Journal; sell the publications of Cavalry Journal
 Formerly Nat. Service Pub. Co.
 Mill, M. S. Mill Co, Inc, 286 5th Av, N.Y.;
 Canadian Agent, McLeod
 Missionary Educ. Movement, 156 5th Av, N.Y.
 [Cable Address: Movement]; Canadian Agent,
 Ryerson Press
 Also publish as Friendship Press
 Some bks. pub. jointly with Council of Women
 Acquired the publications of Central Com.
 Modern Age, Modern Age Bks, Inc, N.Y.
 Out of business
 Modern Lang. Assn, Modern Language Association of America, 100 Washington Sq, E, N.Y.
 Modern Lib, Modern Library, Inc, 20 E 57th St, N.Y.; Canadian Agent, Macmillan (Toronto); English Agent, Hamilton, H; (Modern Lib. Giants) Lane
 Owned and controlled by Random House
 Morehouse, Morehouse-Gorham Company, Inc,
 14 E 41st St, N.Y. [Cable Address: House-more, New York]
 Consolidated Morehouse Publishing Company and Edwin S. Gorham, Inc.
 Morrow, William Morrow & Co, Inc, 386 4th
 Av, N.Y. [Cable Address: Wilmmorrow] Canadian Agent, McClelland
 Also publish as Jefferson House
 Museum of Modern Art, 11 W 53d St, N.Y.
 [Cable Address: Modernart]
- N. Y. Univ. Press, 18 Washington Sq, N.Y.
 Nat. Bur. of Economic Research, Inc, 1819
 Broadway, N.Y.
 Nat. Congress of Parents & Teachers, Hdqrs,
 600 S Michigan Blvd, Chicago
 Nat. Educ. (N.E.A.) National Education Association of the United States, 1201 16th St,
 NW, Washington, D.C.
 Nat. Research Council, 2101 Constitution Av,
 NW, Washington, D.C.
 Nelson, Thomas Nelson & Sons, 385 Madison
 Av, N.Y.; 91 Wellington St, W, Toronto, 2;
 Parkside Works, Dalkeith Rd, Edinburgh, 4;
 (incorporating T. C. & E. C. Jack, Ltd) 3
 Henrietta St, London, WC 2
 Transferred Elementary & High School
 Textbooks to Newson; also college Text
 Dept. to Ronald
 New Directions, Norfolk, Conn.
 Newson, Newson & Company, 72 5th Av, N.Y.;
 4620 Ravenswood Av, Chicago
 Noble, Noble & Noble, Publishers, Inc, 100
 5th Av, N.Y.; Canadian Agent, Clarke, Irwin
 Northwestern Univ, Evanston, Ill.
 Norton, W. W. Norton & Company, Inc, 70
 5th Av, N.Y. [Cable Address: Seagull]; Canadian Agent, McLeod
- Odyssey, Odyssey Press, Inc, 386 4th Av, N.Y.
 Acquired the textbook publications of
 Doubleday
 Oxford, Oxford University Press, 114 5th Av,
 N.Y. [Cable Address: Frowde]; 480-486 University Av, Toronto, 2; (including Imprints of Clarendon Press, and Humphrey Milford),
 Amen House, Warwick Sq, London, EC 4
 [Cable Address: Oxonian London]; St Luke's
 House, Young St, Edinburgh; 205 Flinders
 Lane, Melbourne, C 1, Victoria, Australia;
 B.I. Bldg, Nicol Rd, Bombay; Markham's
 Bldgs, Adderley St, Cape Town; Canadian Agent (educ) Clarke, Irwin
 For music publications address Fischer,
 Carl; Oxford Univ. Press, 36 Soho Sq, London, W 1
- Paebar, The Paebar Company, 220 W 42d St,
 N.Y.
 Page, L.C. Page & Company (St Botolph Soc)
 53 Beacon St, Boston [Cable Address: Pagecones]; Canadian Agent, Ryerson Press

- Peabody Museum. Peabody Museum of Archeology and Ethnology, Harvard University, Divinity Av, Cambridge, Mass.
- Penn. The Wm. Penn Publishing Corp, 220 5th Av, N.Y.; Canadian Agent, McClelland
- Successors to The Penn Pub. Co. of Philadelphia. Plays formerly pub. by them are now pub. by Penn Play
- Penn Play. The Penn Play Company, 925-927 Filbert St, Philadelphia
- Formerly organized as Play Dept. of Penn Peter Pauper. Peter Pauper Press, 629 Mac-Queenst Parkway, N, Mt Vernon, N.Y.; refer trade orders to Harry W. Sully & Son, 170 5th Av, N.Y.
- Phoenix. Phoenix Press, 419 4th Av, N.Y.
- Also use imprint of Gramercy Pub. Co.
- Pitman. Pitman Pub. Corp, 2-6 W 45th St, N.Y.; Sir Isaac Pitman & Sons (Canada) Ltd, Pitman House, 381-383 Church St, Toronto; Sir Isaac Pitman & Sons, Ltd, Pitman House, 39-41 Parker St, Kingsway, London, WC 2; refer trade orders to The Book Centre, Ltd, N Circular Rd, Neasden, London, NW, 10; Box 4504, G.P.O. Melbourne, Victoria, Australia; 27 Beckett's Bldg, Johannesburg, S Africa; A. H. Wheeler & Co, Calcutta; Pitman Press, Bath, England
- Acquired the publications of Wilson, E; the aeronautical publications of Gale
- Plimpton. Plimpton Press, Norwood, Mass. [Cable Address: Plimpress Boston]
- Prentice-Hall, Inc, 70 5th Av, N.Y.; Hobart Bldg, 582 Market St, San Francisco; Canadian Agent, McClelland
- Presbyterian Bd. Presbyterian Board of Christian Education, Publication Department (The Westminster Press) Witherspoon Bldg, Philadelphia; depositories at 156 5th Av, N.Y.; 85 S Dearborn St, Chicago; 234 McAllister St, San Francisco; Granite Bldg, Pittsburgh
- Presbyterian Com. Presbyterian Committee of Publication of the Presbyterian Church, U.S., Presbyterian Bldg, 8 N 6th St, Richmond, Va.; Presbyterian Bldg, Texarkana, Tex.
- Also publish as Onward Press and John Knox Press
- Press of James A. Decker, Prairie City, Ill.
- Also use imprint of Village Press
- See also Black Faun
- Princeton Univ. Press, Princeton, N.J.; English Agent, Oxford
- Principia. The Principia Press, Inc, Bloomington, Ind; 23 W Colorado Av, Colorado Springs, Colo; Agents: Commercial Press; Maruzen; Nijhoff; Williams & Norgate
- Progressive Educ. Assn, 221 W 57th St, N.Y.
- Public Administration. Public Administration Service, 1313 E 60th St, Chicago
- Formerly pub. as Municipal Administration Service
- Cooperates with the Governmental Research Conf) 722 Jackson Pl, Washington, D.C.
- Purdue Univ, Lafayette, Ind.
- Putnam. G. P. Putnam's Sons (Knickerbocker Press) Putnam Bldg, 2-6 W 45th St, N.Y.; Putnam & Co, Ltd, 42 Great Russell St, London, WC 1 [Cable Address: Putnam, New York]; Canadian Agent, Allen, T; for Putnam (London) McClelland
- Handle and sell all Minton publications
- Loeb Classical Library acquired by Harvard Univ. Press
- Own and control Modern Lib; merged with Smith, H. April 1, 1936
- Handle the Nonesuch Library Series of Nonesuch
- Again handle Carlton House publications
- Reilly & Lee. Reilly & Lee Company, 325 W Huron St, Chicago; Canadian Agent, Copp
- Reinhold. Reinhold Publishing Corporation, 330 W 42d St, N.Y.; British Agent, Chapman; Canadian Agent, General Pub. Co, Ltd, 17 Queen St, E, Toronto, 2
- Successors to Chemical Catalog Co. and Pencil Points Press
- Revell. Fleming H. Revell Company, 158 5th Av, N.Y.; English Agent, Oliphants
- Reynal. Reynal & Hitchcock, Inc, 386 4th Av, N.Y.; Canadian Agent, Blue Ribbon Bks. (Toronto)
- For the duration Reynal will handle bks. of Stewart; Bks. of Textbook Dept. of Reynal will be handled by Houghton
- Ronald. The Ronald Press Company, 15 E 26th St, N.Y.
- Acquired the College Text Dept. of Nelson Round Table. Round Table Press, Inc, 10 Rockefeller Plaza, N.Y.
- Row. Row, Peterson & Company, 1911 Ridge Av, Evanston, Ill; 131 E 23d St, N.Y.; 149 New Montgomery St, San Francisco [Cable Address: Ropecol]; Canadian Agents, Copp; (dramatic) Robinson, A.M.
- Rutgers Univ. Press, New Brunswick, N.J.
- Sargent. Porter Edward Sargent, 11 Beacon St, Boston
- Saunders. W. B. Saunders Company, 218 West Washington Sq, Philadelphia; 7 Grape St, Shaftesbury Av, London, WC 2
- Sci-Art Pubs, Harvard Sq, Cambridge, Mass.
- Science Research. Science Research Associates, Occupational Information Division, 1700 Prairie Av, Chicago
- Scott, W.R. William R. Scott, Inc, Box 331, N Bennington, Vt; 72 5th Av, N.Y.; Canadian Agent, Saunders, S.J.R.
- Scribner. Charles Scribner's Sons, 597-599 5th Av, N.Y.; 23 Bedford Sq, London, WC 1 [Cable Address: Halcanner]; for school bks. only: 320 E 21st St, Chicago; Canadian Agent, Saunders, S.J.R.
- Seymour. Ralph Fletcher Seymour, 410 S Michigan Av, Chicago
- Also publish as Alderbrink Press
- Sheed. Sheed & Ward, Inc, Ludgate House, 110-111 Fleet St, London, EC 4; 63 5th Av, N.Y. [Cable Address: Stanza, New York]; Agents (trade) Oxford (Toronto); (educ) Clarke, Irwin
- Sheridan. Sheridan House, Inc, 386 4th Av, N.Y.; Canadian Agent, McLeod
- Bks. issued before Dec. 31, 1939 now obtainable from Furman
- Silver. Silver, Burdett & Company, Everett Bldg, 45 E 17th St, N.Y.; Wesleyan Bldg, 581 Boylston St, Boston; 221 E 20th St, Chicago; 149 New Montgomery St, San Francisco; Canadian Agent, Gage
- Simmons-Boardman. Simmons-Boardman Publishing Corporation, 30 Church St, N.Y.; 105 W Adams St, Chicago; Terminal Tower, 50 Public Sq, Cleveland; Nat. Press Bldg, Washington, D.C.; Canadian Agent, General Pub. Co, Ltd, 17 Queen St, E, Toronto, 2
- Simon & Schuster, Inc, 1230 6th Av, Rockefeller Center, N.Y. [Cable Address: Essandess]; Canadian Agent, Mussion
- Smith, Richard R. Richard R. Smith, 120 E 39th St, N.Y.
- Also use imprint of Margent Press
- Smith & Durrell, Inc, 25 W 45th St, N.Y.; Canadian Agent, McLeod
- Formerly pub. as Harrison-Hilton
- Social Science Research Council, 230 Park Av, N.Y. [Cable Address: Socscience New York]
- Social Science Research Council. Com. on Social Security, 726 Jackson Pl, NW, Washington, D.C.
- Southworth-Anthoensen. Southworth-Anthoensen Press, 105 Middle St, Portland, Me.
- St Anthony Guild. St Anthony Guild Press, 508 Marshall St, Paterson, N.J.
- Stanford Univ. Press. Stanford University, Calif. [Cable Address: Sunipress]; English Agent, Oxford; depositories: Maruzen; Nijhoff

- Stechert, G. E. Stechert & Company [Alfred Hafner] 31-37 E 10th St, N.Y.; 2 Star Yard, Carey St, London, WC 2; Hospitalstr 10, Leipzig, Germany; 16 rue de Condé, Paris, 6^e [Cable Address: Stechertco]
- Stewart, George W. Stewart, Publisher, Inc, 67 W 44th St, N.Y.; Canadian Agent, McLeod For the duration refer trade orders to Reynal
- Stokes, Frederick A. Stokes Company, 227-231 S 6th St, Philadelphia; 521 5th Av, N.Y.; Canadian Agent, Longmans, Toronto
- Studio, Studio Publications, 66 Chandos Pl, London, WC 2; 381 4th Av, N.Y. [Cable Address: Studiopubs]; Canadian Agent, Musson
- Teachers College, Columbia University, 525 W 120th St, N.Y.
- Tongg, Tongg Pub. Co, 1113-17 Smith St, Honolulu, Hawaii
- Twentieth Century Fund, Inc, 330 W 42d St, N.Y.
- Unicorn Press, The Unicorn Press, Ltd, London. See Bles
- United Lutheran Pub. United Lutheran Publication House, 1228-1234 Spruce St, Philadelphia; 860 N Wabash Av, Chicago; 610 Smithfield St, Pittsburgh; Drawer 190, 1617 Sumter St, Chicago, S.C.
Publishers for the United Lutheran Church in America
Trade name Muhlenberg Press
- Univ. of Calif, Berkeley, Calif; English Agent, Cambridge; Japanese Agent, Maruzen
Address The University of Calif. Press, California Hall, Berkeley, Calif.
- Univ. of Chicago, Dept. of Educ, Chicago
- Univ. of Chicago Press, 5750 Ellis Av, Hyde Park Station, Chicago; California School Bk. Depository, 159 New Montgomery St, San Francisco; Lone Star School Bk. Depository, 707 Browder St, Dallas; Agents, Cambridge; Gage
- Univ. of Ga, Athens, Ga.
Address The University of Ga. Press
- Univ. of Ill, Urbana, Ill.
Address Univ. of Ill. Press
- Univ. of Kan, Lawrence, Kan.
- Univ. of Mich, Ann Arbor, Mich; European Agent, Oxford
Address The University of Mich. Press, 311 Maynard St, Ann Arbor, Mich.
- Univ. of Minn, Minneapolis; British Agent, Oxford
Address The University of Minn. Press
- Univ. of N.C. Press, Box 510, Chapel Hill, N.C.; English Agent, Oxford
- Univ. of N.Mex, Albuquerque, N.Mex.
- Univ. of Neb, Lincoln, Neb.
Address The University of Neb. Press
- Univ. of Notre Dame, Notre Dame, Ind.
- Univ. of Okla. Press, Faculty Exchange, Norman, Okla.
- Univ. of Pa, Philadelphia
Address The Library
- Univ. of Pa. Press, 3622 Locust St, Philadelphia; English Agent, Oxford
Acquired the series Studies and Documents from Lake, K.
Am. Philosophical Soc. again distributes own publications
- Univ. of Toronto Press, Toronto 5
Books formerly imprinted Univ. of Toronto Lib. are now pub. by the Press
- Univ. of Wis. Press, 811 State St, Madison, Wis.
Requests for Pharmaceutical publications should be addressed to the Director of the Pharmaceutical Experiment Station, Madison, Wis.
- Universal Pub. Co, 20 Vesey St, N.Y.
- Universalist Pub. House, 16 Beacon St, Boston
- Vanderbilt Univ. Press, Kirkland Hall, Nashville, Tenn.
- Vanguard, Vanguard Press, Inc, 424 Madison Av, N.Y.; Canadian Agent, Copp
Macy-Masius merged with this company in 1928
- Van Nostrand, D. Van Nostrand Company, Inc, 250 4th Av, N.Y. [Cable Address: Bowline]; Canadian Agent, General Pub. Co, Ltd, 17 Queen St, E, Toronto, 2 (high school bks) Gage
- Viking, The Viking Press, Inc, 18 E 48th St, N.Y.; Canadian Agent, Macmillan (Toronto)
- Wagon & Star, Publishers, 2111 Montana St, Los Angeles
- Wahr, George Wahr, 103-105 N Main St, Ann Arbor, Mich.
- Warne, Frederick Warne & Co, Inc, 79 Madison Av, N.Y.; Chandos House, 1-4 Bedford Ct, Bedford St, Strand, London, WC 2; Agent for Fitzgerald; Canadian Agent, Saunders, S.J.R.
- Washburn, Ives Washburn, Inc, 27-29 W 57th St, N.Y.; Canadian Agent, Smithers
- Waverly House, 156 Boylston St, Boston; Canadian Agent, Saunders, S.J.R.
- Webb, Webb Book Publishing Company, 55-79 E 10th St, St Paul, Minn.
- West, West Publishing Company, 50 W Kellogg Blvd, St Paul, Minn; 286 Flatbush Extension Av, Brooklyn, N.Y.
- Whitman, A. Albert Whitman & Company, 560 W Lake St, Chicago; Eastern Agent, Barrows; Canadian Agent, McLeod
Acquired all the publications except educational of Laidlaw Bros.
- Wilde, W. A. Wilde Company, 131 Clarendon St, Boston; Canadian Agent, Upper Canada Tract Soc, 406 Yonge St, Toronto
- Wiley, John Wiley & Sons, Inc, 440 4th Av, N.Y. [Cable Address: Jonville, New York]; depository at Tech. Bk. Co, 432 Market St, San Francisco; Agents, Renouf, Chapman
- Willett, Willett, Clark & Company, 37 W Van Buren St, Chicago [Cable Address: Wilbook]; 35 E 20th St, N.Y.; Canadian Agent, Ryerson Press
- Wilson, H.W. The H. W. Wilson Company, 950-972 University Av, N.Y. [Cable Address: Wilsondex]; Agents, W. & R. Holmes, 3-11 Dunlop St, Glasgow, C 1; G. Hedeler, Kurzestr 4, Leipzig, C 1, Germany
- Winston, John C. Winston Company, 1006-1016 Arch St, Philadelphia [Cable Address: Winston Philadelphia]; 623-629 S Wabash Av, Chicago; 60 Front St, W, Toronto
Also publish as Universal Bk. & Bible House
- Wise, Wm. H. Wise & Company, 50 W 47th St, N.Y.; Agent, Mill; Canadian Agent, Musson
- Wood, William Wood & Company (Division of the Williams & Wilkins Co) Mt Royal & Guilford Aves, Baltimore
- World Bk. World Book Company, 313 Park Hill Av, Yonkers-on-Hudson, N.Y. [Cable Address: Foresta Yonkers]; 2126 Prairie Av, Chicago; 441 W Peachtree St, NE, Atlanta; 14 Beacon St, Boston; 707 Browder St, Dallas; 149 New Montgomery St, San Francisco; 408 SW 5th Av, Portland, Ore; Canadian Agents, Gage; Renouf
- World Peace, World Peace Foundation, 40 Mt Vernon St, Boston
- World Pub. The World Publishing Co, 2231 W 110th St, Cleveland; Time-Life Bldg, Rockefeller Center, N.Y. [Cable Address: Worlds]; Canadian Agent, Dutton Copp, 69 Front St, W, Toronto
- Yale Univ. Press, 143 Elm St, New Haven, Conn; 386 4th Av, N.Y.; English Agent, Oxford; Canadian Agent, Ryerson Press
Am. Oriental Ser. and Offprint Ser. of Am. Oriental Soc. now obtainable from Am. Oriental Soc.
- Ziff-Davis, Ziff-Davis Publishing Company, Michigan Sq, Bldg, 540 N Michigan Av, Chicago; 270 Madison Av, N.Y.
Purchased Alliance Bk. whose name will be retained as a trade name
- Zondervan, Zondervan Publishing House, 845-849 Ottawa Av, NW, Grand Rapids, Mich; Canadian Agent, Evangelical Pubs.

